BUNGALOWS BURNED

Located at Adams Shore and Owned by R. T. Johnson

The alarm from Box 13 at 1.15 this morning called the Central station apparatus to a blaze at Adams Shore in two small bungalows owned by Robert T. Johnson. The bungalows were unoccupied, and the cause of the fire is unknown. When discovered they were burning briskly and by the time the department arrived they were a mass of flames that furnished a bright illumination that lit up the sky and could be seen for miles. It was a long run for the Central station apparatus and they could do but little, other than to prevent adjoining buildings from taking fire. The combination from Houghs Neck does not respond to the first alarm from this box. The loss is estimated at about $1,200.

The road leading to Adams Shore is in a very bad condition at the present time, which occasioned the department some difficulty in getting to the fire. It was not until they tried to get out, however, that the most difficulty was had. Then the wheels of the apparatus sunk almost to the hubs in the mud, and it was necessary to draw the pieces of apparatus out one at a time with six horses.

NORFOLK DOWNS FIRE

Double Alarm But the Loss Was Small

The alarm from Box 161 at 9.32 Friday night, followed ten minutes later by Box 153, gave many an idea that a big fire was in progress in the Wollaston foundry district. Both boxes are located near this district, 161 being on Newport avenue and 153 on Farrington srteet. The souding of the Farrington street. The sounding of the and sent several additional pieces of apparatus toward the scene.

The fire fortunately was a slight one and was extinguished by Atlantics flying squad by the time Box 153 had done sounding. It was in a pile of rubbish in the building occupied by the Bevmack Manufacturing Company and was discovered before it had made much headway by Officer Donovan, who promptly sounded Box 161. The Atlantic combination made a remarkably quick run, and had a chemical stream on the fire when some one on Farrington street saw the reflection of the fire and ran to Box 153 and sent in a call from that box.

The fire by that time was practically extinguished. The loss was very slight, owing to early discovery and prompt response. The cause was probably spontaneous combustion in the pile of rubbish.

CINDERELLA POPULAR

Crowded House at Chapel of First Church

The chapel of the First church was filled to overflowing last evening at the presentation of "Cinderella in Flowerland" under the Sunday School and it became necessary long before the curtain went up to provide extra seats. By 8 o'clock there was hardly standing room left.

The play was a very pretty affair, and was carried out in a manner that called for the most hearty appreciation and applause by the large audience. Miss Dorothy Hall, representing a daisy, impersonated Cinderella, and was perfect. In fact all of the characters were exceptionally good.

The play was given in four scenes. The first was, Prince Sunshine's invitation to the May-day ball. Scene second was where Godmother Nature sends Daisy off to the ball. Then came the May-day ball, and the shower and last of all the Princess of Sunbeam castle.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Cinderella, Daisy Dorothy Hall
Proud Sister, Hollyhock C. Sears
Proud Sister, Tiger Lily Marie Schenkelberger
Godmother ature, Josephine Smith
Bonnie Bee, Littl Page Harlow Schenkleberger
Butterflies, Charioteers Eleanor Ricker and Marjorie Hall
Robin Red, Prince's Herald Frank Johnson
Prince Sunshine, of Sunbeam Castle Willard Crocker

Guests at the Ball:
Poppy, Norma Johnson
Buttercup, Constance Fryer.
Pansy, Lillian Schenkleberger.
Daffodil, Natalie Saville.
Violet, Eleanor Gow.
Sweet Brier, Grace Miller.
Mignonette, Patrice Finley.

CAPT. HUNT DEAD.

Capt. Charles W. Hunt, formerly captain of police at Dorchester, division 11, died on Friday at the home of his son Arthur W. Hunt of Minot street. He was for 35 years a Boston police captain. Capt. Hunt was one of the best-known men of Dorchester. He came of a family that settled Dorchester and Atlantic being a descendant of the Minot family of Neponset on one side and the White family of Atlantic on the other. He was twice married and leaves a widow, one son, and two daughters, Mrs. Cutter and Mrs. Henry Mildram.

TRIAL OF WALKE.

The torpedo boat destroyer Walke was given a severe test yesterday on her builder's trial run to Provincetown. As noted in Friday's Daily Ledger, she maintained a speed of 16 knots on the run down as it was a consumption test. On the return she hit a 28.7 knots clip, and when she reached the Fore River yards she resembled a huge cake of ice. An unusual high wind prevailed and Capt. Kemp, who was in the pilot house, said the propellers were out of water much of the time, causing them to turn at terrific speed. The Walke will go out again next week for her standardization trial.

APPEAL TO PUBLIC SPIRITED

Requested to Forward Remonstrance to Council

Editors of Daily Ledger:

It is not a local matter; or a matter that concerns property owners alone; or residents of the immediate vicinity merely; it is a matter in which every public-spirited citizen of Quincy should take an interest: the question whether a trolley express yard should be located near our public buildings, or at some convenient location, central, but not so conspicuous; whether it shall be located on one of our principal thoroughfares; or on some side street; whether it shall be so situated that it will inconvenience and endanger the public as little as possible. The track location asked for on Washington street, Quincy, not far from Foster street, may be acted upon within a few days, let every citizen who feels that to be an improper location sign the following remonstrance, and send it to the "City Council, Quincy, Mass.," today or Monday morning.

PUBLIC SPIRIT.

REMONSTRANCE.

Because I believe that the establishment of a trolley express yard should not be on a principal thoroughfare like Washington street; should not be in the near vicinity of our beautiful public buildings such as the Post Office and Thomas Crane Public Library; should not be located where it will seriously inconvenience public travel or endanger the public travel or endanger the public either by its own cars or the many trucks and vehicles resorting to it, but should be where it will inconvenience the public the least; as a citizen of Quincy, I respectfully remonstrate to your honorable body against granting the track location on Washington street, Quincy, asked for by the Street Railway Co.

INTERESTED IN SHIPYARDS.

The department of naval architecture is particularly active now at the Institute of Technology. A note was given a while ago of the success with which professor H. A. Everett's recording box had taken the run of the Sankaty a couple of week ago, and there is now demand for its services in standardizing other vessels of the Fore River works, says the Transcript. Last week the department went to the trial of the torpedo boat Walke. Friday the same boat was on another run, this time to Provincetown, with the professors and the recording box aboard.

The second and third year students in this department have settled the itinerary of their tour of the shipyards. The trip is arranged for the Easter recess. Leaving Boston on Saturday, April 15, Sunday will be passed at sea along the Jersey coast, reaching Norfolk Monday morning. Here there will be the inspection of the Newport News yard, one of the largest in the country. The run up the Potomac River will be taken Monday night and on Tuesday the students will visit the Washington Navy Yard. Wednesday forenoon will be spent at the Sparrow Point Ship Yard of the Maryland Steel Company, the president of which is an alumnus of Tech, and if time allows a visit will be made to the steel works themselves. The afternoon will be devoted to the yards of the New York Shipbuilding Company and the Cramps. Return will then be made to Boston.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

There are many hollows in the roads in City square that if filled with broken stone and gravel would not injure the road. Take a look Mr. Commissioner any rainy day and you will see just where to put the gravel to do the most good.

We have been asked by several of our readers to say something about the bad conditions existing at the drinking fountain in City square. It seems sadly neglected and to be of no benefit to the dumb animals for whom it was erected. The large basin is full of stagnant and dirty water and needs a good spring cleaning. Teamsters drive up, take a look, back away, and the horse resumes its weary way tired and thirsty.

A hearing is to be held at Monday night's meeting of the City Council that should interest those caring for civic beauty and improvements. The hearing is on the widening of Hancock street from Saville to Dimmock street. As the plan proposed will save the fine row of grand old elm trees and materially widen the street, at the same time remove an unsightly and dangerous curve it should receive public approval. We understand the trees are to be preserved in a grass plot. Besides straightening the west side of Hancock street and making a better approach from Adams street to City square it will be a civic improvement and a benefit all round. Attend the hearing and say a word in favor. Now is the time to act not after harm is done. Quincy residents should be alert to all civic matters that will make our city more attractive.

In the death of Mrs. Ellen H. Richards this community loses an intellectual leader of rare force and originality, whose life has been largely devoted to the study of questions of the most immediate practical concern. She gave philosophic treatment to the problems of domestic life. The ideals of a perfected race, maintained under conditions which would admit of a now unrealized measure of sweetness and light, were constantly before her. While she submitted calculations to severe tabular analysis she always in her reasoning broke through the statistical exterior of things into the realities. Her work at the Institute of Technology has endeared her to a long line of serious students, while her writings have given her work an influence over a wide range of territory and of human interests.—Boston Herald.

PLAY SQUARE CLUB DANCE.

A very pretty dancing party was held at Colonial hall Friday evening by the Play Square club of the Universalist church, and was participated in by upwards of fifty couples. The party was matronized by Mrs. Frank Hobart, Mrs. Robert G. Reed and Mrs. G. W. Wheeler. Frank Smith had charge of the floor, and the ushers were Chester French, Lester Sprague, Elmer Sprague, Willard Hyland, Freeman Hyland, Everett Andrews, Merton Grant, Bartlett Spooner, Herbert Morton and Irving Flecher. Frappe was served during the evening and dancing was enjoyed until midnight. The committee in charge of the dance was: Lester Sprague, Everett Andrews Freeman Hyland and Bartlett Spooner.

SHIPMATES AS BEARERS.

Rev. A. M. Thompson of the United Presbyterian church went to Saugus on Thursday and officiated at the funeral of Dexter E. Milligan, late of the U. S. S. battleship Missouri. The funeral was from the home of his parents 63 Summer street and Mr. Thompson was assisted by Rev. H. L. Thornton of Saugus, Rev. Charles H. Martin of Cliftondale and Rev. George T. Lenon of Schenectady, N. Y. The pallbearers were: John Doherty, master-at-arms, first class; Arthur Frederick, ship's carpenter; Lewis Connell, fireman, first grade; Roy Clark and Samuel Morgan, seamen. The interment was at Riverside Cemetery.

Gunner Milligan once held the world's record for accuracy with a twelve-inch gun. In practise at Magdalena Bay, 1909, he fired five shots in 3 minutes and 19 seconds, making a perfect score for each shot at a mile distance, the Missouri going ten knots. Before joining the Missouri he served on the Olympia and the New Jersey. He was a splendid athlete and was captain of the football team of the Missouri in 1907, the team winning the championship of the navy.

☞The "Grizzly Bear" dances, especially arranged and staged by Henry W. French, will be a feature of the Men's club "Revue" at Music hall Wednesday evening, April 26.

COSTUME PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Dexheimer entertained the Jolly Sixteen on Tuesday evening at their home 47 Franklin street, as it was the sast meeting of the series the club planned a surprise for the president and wife in the form of a costume party. There were many original dresses worn both by ladies and gentlemen, so it was very hard to decide which was the best. The host gave each member a prize package, which were opened and the prizes matched for partners for whist. He also presented each member with a handsome souvenir, to represent the work which each one is employed at during the week. After two hours of card playing the prizes were awarded to Mr. T. Smith, Mr. Dexheimer, Mrs. Gragge, Mrs. Claflin, the two series prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Dexheimer with a score of 488; second, Mr. and Mrs. Gragge, score 472. Ice cream, cake, tea and coffee, were served.

While Dr. George M. Sheahan was driving his automobile near the corner of School and Hancock streets shortly after midnight Friday morning one of the forward wheels of his car came aff, and the axle ploughed along the street for a short distance before the doctor was able to stop the car came off, and the axle ploughed and shut off the power as soon as the accident happened, and thus prevented what might have been a more serious accident.

Shoes At Cost, Plus 5%

The Regal Shoe Co. Announces a New Policy That Will Shake Up the Shoe Trade

Regal Prices Are Now $3.35 to $5.85

Here is a letter from the Regal Shoe Company that will begin a new era in the shoe business. It will be an earthquake for the shoe trade, but, like other Regal innovations, a benefit to the public, in which purchasers of Regal Shoes will first share. No concern having a plant and organization less powerful than the Regal Company's could dare to so defy trade custom. But—

It Means Greater Variety and Greater Value in Regal Shoes Than Ever.

To Regal Agents and Regal Customers Everywhere:

Boston, February 1st, 1911.

The retail price of every shoe hereafter produced in our factories will be the manufacturing cost of that shoe, plus five per cent. commission and the cost of selling.

Except that we shall not "split" nickels, every price will be fixed exactly as it thus figures, regardless of whether it comes out in odd or even money. Thus, if the cost of any model, plus 5%, is $3.85, the price of that model will be $3.85—not $4.00, or any other figure. And this price will be verified and certified by chartered public accountants and stamped on the shoe at the factory.

This smashes the immemorial shoe-trade policy of building all high-grade shoes to fit certain arbitrary prices. The trade will, undoubtedly, rise in protest against our action, and call us "price-cutters." But like Regal innovations in the past, it will benefit Regal customers. In face of that fact we can disregard this protest as we have others.

This is NOT a price cut, although the result will be to give Regal Shoe buyers better value for price than ever before. Regal Shoes have always been priced at 5% above cost of manufacture and selling. But, according to universal custom, the prices were fixed BEFOREHAND at $3.50, $4.00, $4.50, etc.—and the shoes were built AFTERWARD to fit those prices.

Hereafter we shall regard the shoe as FIRST in importance and let the price fall where it will. Regal customers will therefore profit by numberless small savings represented in the new Regal plan. And in designing Regal Shoes we shall no longer be obliged to keep one eye on the shoe and the other on a fixed, arbitrary price at which it must be sold. We shall now keep both eyes ON THE SHOE, to the improvement both of style and of value.

Very truly yours,

E. J. Bliss
Managing Director
Regal Shoe Company.

Do You Realize What This Bombshell Letter Means?

This means an end of the arbitrary prices on shoes.

These arbitrary prices have for years been fixed on good shoes immovably at $3.50, $4.00, $4.50, $5.00, $5.50, and so on; each price always a half-dollar jump away from the next.

If a designer produced a new shoe which could properly be sold at, say, $4.30, the manufacturer had either to take something out of it to bring the price to $4.00 or to add extra and unnecessary expense merely to shove the price up to $4.50.

Thus you can see that under the fixed-price system the customer often had to buy and pay for more than was actually necessary. True, the difference was seldom large—20 to 30 cents at most—and true, too, that in Regal Shoes the full money's worth was always given. But, what the customer wanted was TO GET A SATISFACTORY SHOE—not to pay a certain price. Why should he be forced to pay in half-dollars if satisfaction could be given in dimes? Why must he pay $5.00 if all that he wanted could be had at $4.85?

Hereafter, as Mr. Bliss' letter states, every Regal price will be made to fit the shoe, not the shoe to fit the price. If the Regal Shoe-builders produce a style that can be sold for $3.85, then $3.85 will be the price. Nothing will be added merely to bring its price to $4.00, nor will anything be taken out to make its price $3.50. The customer gains both ways and the Regal style-makers now have a free hand, unfettered by tradition.

With this new freedom, and with the whole attention of the Regal organization fixed on standards of quality, regardless of the ups and downs of the leather market, Regal Shoes will more than ever be the best that money can buy.

SUNNY MONDAY

The lasting qualities of Sunny Monday laundry soap mean economy to the woman who uses it. Its wonderful dirt-starting qualities are retained until the cake is worn to a wafer, and as it is a hard soap which does not wash away quickly, one bar of it will go as far as two bars of any yellow laundry soap. You spare your pocketbook as well as your clothes when you use Sunny Monday.

JUST FOR FUN AT WOLLASTON

A Farce Comedy Which Delighted a Large Audience

In the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church last evening "Just for fun" was successfully presented by the Lawrance Union of Dorchester, under the auspices of the Wollaston Young Peoples Religious Union. The production was under the personal direction of Mrs. Adelaide Ford Hibbard of Dorchester, and the capable portrayal of the various characters by the cast redounded greatly to her credit.

As a designing society matron in the person of Mrs. DeSmythe, Miss Lillian S. Bourne took the part with ease and ability. Her slights of the real Lord Chelsea and her niece in their assumed positions were carried off with telling effect.

Miss Eleanor Hibbard, as Edith Morton was an unobstrusive heiress and received the attentions of Lord Chelsea in a coy and taking manner.

Harold Bowker, who is no stranger to Wollaston audiences as an impersonator of Harry Lauder, made a fine Lord Chelsea and took the part to perfection.

The most humorous character of the play was held by Miss Ethel M. Peirce in the role of an Irish maid servant. Her assertive ways and ready answers caused uncontrolable laughter.

The parts of Miss Katharine Alden as Mabel West, a friend of the neice and Homer Emerson as Jack Earl, Lord Chelsea's friend were well taken and encored.

The play was filled with amusing situations and funny incidents and the applause of an appreciative audience was long and spirited.

Between the scenes those present enjoyed piano solos by Miss Ruth Cahill. In charge of the arrangements was the entertainment committee of the Wollaston Y. P. R. U., headed by Fred M. Robbins and Mrs. William E. Rowe.

MILKMAN FINED $50

Made a Specialty of Milk for Babies

Gaspre Pitrongeli, an Italian employed by James M. Nowland, was fined $50 in court yesterday for watering milk. In all fairness to Mr. Nowland, it might be said that the watering was done without his knowledge, as the first he knew of the affair was when notified his hired man had been summoned into court.

When questioned in regard to the watering of milk, Pitrongeli said that he had a certain number of customers to supply and in order to make the milk go round he had added water. This he had done without the knowledge of Mr. Nowland.

It is a particularly aggrevating case, because Mr. Nowland made a specialty of supplying milk for babies and demanded an extra price for it. Physicians of Quincy have recommended the milk as the only suitable milk in the city for babies. Among the customers were John F. Wentworth of Miller Stile road who has triplets at his house under five months of age. Up to a week or two ago the babies were flourishing, but of late they have had a set-back. Mr. Wentworth did not know anything about the court case until last evening but now realizes the cause, as do other parents of young babies.

It will not be very long before we shall have some fine warm days and conditions will be ideal for automobiling. Although, in accordance with a vote of the town, there are to be no new stone roads built this year, we presume that the old roads will in consequence get more attention from the highway department. It has been truly said that good roads are a town's best advertisement and if this is so the highways of Braintree must call forth much favorable comment for they are much superior to those of many towns in the state.

COUNTY AND SOUTH SHORE

Little Items of Interest In Towns About Quincy

The Norfolk County Bar Association will hold its annual dinner on Thursday, April 20, in Boston.

S. government, embracing fort Revere, Hull village, fort Andrews, Peddocks island, $959,116; commonwealth of Massachusetts, comprising the metropolitan park, at Nantasket, $764,900; Bunkin island, owned by Harvard college and Burrage hospital thereon, $181,750; U. S. life-saving property $6,212, Massachusetts humane society $1812, churches $32,303, town of Hull, $152,-031, veterans' civil war $6730, number of acres of land exempted 220.

School boys and girls to the number of 50 from Stoughton, Plainville, Medway and Upton, Mass., were introduced to President Taft at the White House Monday by Mr. Warner, secretary to Congressman Weeks. On the White House plaza they met Senator Lodge, who was forced to stop and hold a levee.

Mrs. Myra B. Hatch of Whitman has just presented a portrait of her husband, the late Rev. Leonard B. Hatch, to the orth Easton Baptist church, of which he was pastor for nine years. Mrs. Hatch is a prominent member of the D. A. R. of Massachusetts and acted as State chaplain for several years. She is a former president of the Whitman Woman's club and one of its founders.

HOME DEPARTMENT.

The home department of the Sunday school of the Atlantic M. E. church met Thursday evening for a social and reorganization meeting. Superintenednt of the Sunday school Arthur R. Poquett spoke words of welcome to members and friends. After a few rousing songs and prayer by the pastor, Rev. John Louis Garland, the superintendent announced the entertainment which consisted of a piano solo by Miss Marguerite Louise Holbrook, which was the first movement of Haydn's "Surprise Symphony"; several vocal solos by Miss Holbrook, and readings by Miss Grace Smart of the Deaconess Home.

Following the entertainment chocolate and cake were served by the young ladies of the church. The business meeting of the Home department class was then held, and Mrs. Cheney of Atlantic was elected superintendent of the class; Mrs. Patience MacDonald of Billings road, secretary and Mrs. Celia Goodwin, caller.

THOMAS A DISSENTER.

Representative Thomas was one of the six members of the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs to dissent yesterday on the report of leave to withdraw on the petition of Mayor Fitzgerald, Walter Webster and others, to amend the Boston city charter by increasing the number of members of the city council, and changing the method of electing them.

NEW THOUGHT NEWS.

"Jesus was true to that which is in you and me."—Emerson.

The New Thought meeting was well attended last Tuesday evening at Mrs. Burgess and Mrs. Jennings home, 748 Washington street, South Braintree. Everyone expressed pleasure at the helpful thoughts received. There will be another meeting week after next date to be given in paper.

After the destructive fire on Town street last Sunday evening, it is quite probable that the citizens of that section of Braintree will renew their efforts of other years to have the town water carried to the locality. At the above mentioned fire it was necessary to lay over two thousand feet of hose before the firemen could fight the flames and minutes are like hours when valuable property is being destroyed.

The Sirolin Sentinel

QUINCY, SATURDAY, APRIL 1, 1911

Tell Your Druggist

that you want Sirolin; that nothing "just as good" will do.

Sirolin is entirely different from any other preparation for colds and other pulmonary affections.

It acts in a different way. By its action the cold is eliminated by increasing the resisting power of the lungs and air-passages. It is essentially a builder-up, a tonic, a restorative.

It effectually prevents colds by the same process. Keep a bottle of Sirolin in the house and take it as a preventive during the winter, and especially during cold and rainy spells.

You will find that you have missed your regular winter cold; that you feel well all the time.

Sirolin contains no narcotics, heart depressants, or dangerous ingredients of any kind

Relieves Asthma

This famous preparation is recommended by leading physicians for the relief of asthma. It soothes and allays the irritation that causes the suffocating spells.

Insist on Having Sirolin For Coughs and Colds

All Leading Druggists Sell It

It is dangerous to trifle with a bad cold, or bronchitis, or the grippe.

These ailments, disagreeable in themselves, lead to graver diseases, if allowed to run unchecked.

Nine-tenths of the fatal cases of consumption are traced to an origin in some minor ailment of the respiratory organs.

The best and surest way to relieve a cold, a cough, a case of grippe, or any other pulmonary affection, is to use Sirolin freely—at the same time taking things easy.

Sirolin is the world's standard remedy for ailments of this character.

It has an unequalled reputation in Europe, where every family that gives any attention to its health has a bottle of Sirolin in the house.

Your druggist has Sirolin, or he knows all about it. Ask him for it—and refuse any substitute.

BRAINTREE

Tuesday evening a number of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Dyer of Pond street, South Braintree, to help them celebrate the fiftieth birthday of the former's brother, Elmer E. Dyer, who makes his home with Mr. and Mrs. Dyer. There were organ selections by Harry H. Marston, cornet solos by Master Wesley Butler and the graphophone music added much to the evening's pleasure. Refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

Thursday afternoon there was a club meeting at the home of Mrs. James D. Fox of Hall avenue. Whist was enjoyed and a pleasant afternoon quickly passed. Music and refreshments were on the program.

Friday evening a number of members of Amana Rebekah lodge attended a thimble party held at the home of Mrs. Charles E. Hill, Tremont street. the ladies worked industriously on various articles which upon completion they will donate to the lodge for the fair which they plan to hold in the Town hall. Refreshment were served and a social hour added to the success of the evening and the enthusiasm of those present.

The minister of All Souls' church does not believe that questions of important religious conviction should be avoided. The rather does he hold that they should, in a frank and friendly spirit, be considered and discussed. He did not leave the evangelical ranks for any light causes. He did so because he was convinced that there are vital differences between orthodoxy and liberalism. What some of these differences are he will present next Sunday morning, April 2, under the title "Errors of Orthodoxy."

The annual turkey supper of Hose 2 and Hook and Ladder 2 was held in the engine house hall South Braintree last Thursday evening with a good attendance of fire laddies. The menu of roast turkey and all the "fixins" was delicious, furnished by Mr. A. D. Atkinson the popular restaurant keeper. The guests of honor were chief J. S. Hill and engineers C. V. Cottrell and F. O. Whitmarsh. Captain F. R. Carmichael of Hook and Ladder was the genial toastmaster of the evening and speeches were listened to from the chief and engineers and other members of the department.

BRIEFS

April.

The Amalgamated society of Engineers held a successful dance in Electa hall last evening.

Col. W. B. White, who has been making his home in Boston during the winter, has moved to the house at 50 Union street for the summer.

At the dance in Alpha hall last evening a novelty was introduced. Electric bells were placed in different parts of the hall and during several of the dances, these were played like chimes by the drummer. A very pleasing effect was produced.

We understood from reliable authority that the First church of Christ Scientist, is to move its reading rooms from Braintree in the near future to Quincy, and that Alpha hall has been secured in which to hold its Sunday services and that reading rooms will be located on the first floor.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dexheimer won first prize in the series of eight evenings at whist of the Jolly Sixteen. Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gragg were second.

The Women's Guild of Christ church is to hold its monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George H. Brown, 154 Elm street. The speaker will be Miss M. St. John Baldwin and her subject the McAll Mission in France.

Daniel McQueen of Beach street has moved into a house at Newcomb square near where he lived before.

The three-apartment house which is being erected on Sixth avenue for Mr. Zirlstein is practically finished outside with the exception of painting.

Ave Marie council, Knights of Columbus, exemplified the first degree on several candidates at its meeting Monday evening.

The annual meeting of the congregation and corporation of the First Presbyterian church will be held Thursday evening at seven o'clock.

George Deans and family who have occupied the Russell house on Billings street have moved to Appleton street.

J. Frank Chase of Boston, secretary of the Watch and Ward society will be the speaker at the Men's club meeting in St. Chrysostoms parish rooms Monday evening and his subject the work of that society.

Walther Men's class of the First Baptist church, Wollaston had a warm discussion on the liquor problem last Sunday. Tomorrow the class will discuss "How a man was healed without medicine, can the same thing be done today?" Come and hear it talked over. Class meets in the auditorium at 12.15.

Services of special interest will be held in the Hall Place M. E. church, Sunday. In the morning the list of the officers and committees will be read by the pastor. In the evening a farewell service will be held at which time the pastor will bring some interesting facts concerning the work of the church for the past year. A cordial welcome is extended to all to attend this last service of the present conference year.

At the entertainment in the Memorial Congregational church Wednesday evening Miss Mildred P. Forbes of Squantum street, who is a graduate of the Emerson school of Oratory gave readings from Kipling, Shakespeare, and Riley. Her scenes from Hamlet were rendered with unusual dramatical talent, and her child dialect from Riley was greeted with hearty and enthusiastic applause. Several expressed the wish that Miss Forbes be the entertainer at the next entertainment of the chorus.

WEEKS IS NOT A CANDIDATE

HONOR WILL GO TO MANN

Latter Not as Popular as Bay State Congressman, but Possesses Necessary Qualifications For Floor Leadership—Cannon, Grateful For Honors Previously Bestowed, Will Not Again Seek the Speakership

Washington, April 1.—Representative John W. Weeks of Massachusetts probably will issue a statement today with respect to his alleged candidacy for election by the Republican caucus as minority leader of the house. If he decides to say anything at all, he will decline to stand.

The indications are that James R. Mann of Chicago will be elected and probably be nominated by Joseph G. Cannon. Several weeks ago the word was passed that if his enemies would keep still and let him alone the former speaker would make no effort to be renominated by his party. He does not want the minority leadership, and whether he had it or not would make comparatively little difference as far as his influence with his own friends is concerned.

Mr. Weeks never has been a candidate for floor leader. All the talk favoring him has been made outside his office and it is a high compliment to his ability and standing in the house that without a word from him almost half the Republican members no doubt would vote for him if he were actively in the field. He would be stronger in point of promised votes if he were actively a candidate, for he is much more popular than Mann, although lacking Mann's experience in parliamentary tactics.

But Weeks has taken the position that while he would decline no responsibility which the house might place upon him there are many other men in congress of longer service than he and equally able and he has not felt himself called upon to make an announcement at all before the caucus. The Weeks boom has grown so rapidly, however, that he may decide it is only fair to his friends to announce his position. Mann has about all the necessary qualities for floor leadership and that cheerful disregard for the feelings of others that seems to be a requisite for the position.

Mr. Cannon has made no formal statement respecting his own intentions, but speaking to a newspaper man late yesterday afternoon, he said:

"The house has been pleased to honor me with the speakership for four successive terms, and I have served the house as its presiding officer for eight successive years. I believe that no other speaker has served so long continuously. Of this singular favor of my associates in the Republican party I am deeply appreciative, and now that the party is in the minority in the house it is farthest from my thoughts to seek to avoid any duties or any responsibilities that may fairly be considered mine.

"But, as I said at the adjournment of the recent congress, I do not intend to seek the speakership again; and, not so intending, it seems most proper that I should avoid even a remote appearance of such intention. I shall, therefore, ask my colleagues to respect this wish in the coming caucus and to give to some other member, of proper worth and ability, the compliment of the nomination for speaker.

"To that man, whoever he may be, I shall give with pleasure the assistance and co-operation that I have learned are so indispensable for the leader on whom rests rsponsibility."

DEMOCRATS MEET TODAY

Hold Caucus to Name Committees and Decide Upon Program

Washington, April 1.—To organize for domination of the first Democratic house of representatives since 1895, Democratic members of the Sixty-second congress, which will convene in extraordinary session next Tuesday, will hold their party caucus today in the house chamber.

The report of the new ways and means committee on the house committees and legislative program and the report of the new rules committee will be considered and officers of the house will be determined upon. In relation to the legislative program, discussion will be confined chiefly to the Canadian reciprocity agreement, the tariff board bill and tariff revision. As to the speakership, Champ Clark of Missouri was chosen as the majority nominee at a previous session of the caucus.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Fire Protection is a Burning Issue in the Hub Since New York's Awful Experience—A Literary Charwoman is Characteristic of American Athens—Flags Should Fly on Little Red Schoolhouse, Says a Massachusetts Gubernatorial Candidate—City of Fifteen Thousand Music Students Sees the Art Advanced Once More.

Further fire protection for the Hub was urged by the energetic Mayor Fitzgerald about a week before the metropolitan horror. It was the mayoral suggestion that the health, street, fire and building departments of the city had better organize into a new inspection force to investigate the fire dangers. Building Commissioner Everett this week reported that more than one hundred orders for the installation of fire escapes had been sent out since the Mayor's suggestion went into effect. As a result of the New York catastrophe the Mayor ordered three additional building inspectors appointed. There is, nevertheless, plenty of room for further reform. The trades unions are organizing to demand better protection, and Miss Mabel Gillespie, secretary of the Women's Trade Union League, says that she knows many actual fire traps, notably one building where more than 1,000 women and girls are employed, where the windows are iron-barred, and the fire escapes can only be reached through the boiler room. It doesn't sound very cheerful, and it is hoped that the estimable "Honey Fitz" may find time sufficient aside from his dramatic censorship to enforce his own suggestions in the way of fire protection.

"A literary charwoman" caused some surprise to a newcomer in Boston recently. The gentleman found himself obliged to call at his business office on Sunday and while there was asked the time by a cleaning woman who was busily employed in several nearby offices. He told her, whereupon she explained that "Her thought was that if she should miss the hour she might be late at the lecture at Huntington Chambers Hall." The stranger was somewhat astounded at this evidence of Bostonian "culture" and is on the lookout for similar examples. He will find them manywhere, as a literary Bostonese would express it.

Expansion is the order of the day in Boston's Fenway district. Again the public spirited benefactor of New England music, Eben D. Jordan, has contributed munificently toward keeping the leadership in the musical arts in the home of the earliest American orchestra, earliest American conservatory and most truly American grand opera. Mr. Jordan has just given to the New England Conservatory of Music a lot of land adjoining the present building on Huntington avenue. This donation will make it possible to build an extension of an institution which has been fairly overwhelmed with its success in the past few years. There was perhaps a little shaking of heads ten years ago among conservative alumni and alumnae of the ancient music school when the announcement was made of a removal from the historic home in Franklin Square to a conservatory building planned to be the most complete of its kind. Mr. Jordan then came to the front with his contribution which provided for Jordan Hall, the finest concert hall in the United States. Three halls of residence for young women were built on Hemenway street near by. The conservatory moved into its new quarters in 1902 and appeared to be adequately housed for many years to come. The number of its students was then somewhat under 1800. In the ninth year since the removal the institution, under the able management of Ralph L. Flanders since 1904 and drawing prospective musicians to Boston from every American state, has upwards of 2800 pupils, and more than 100 teachers to be assigned to the 60 class rooms which were supposed to be enough for a long time to come. Mr. Jordan's gift, it is understood, will provide sufficient space for the much needed additional class rooms. The New England Conservatory was the first of Boston's great educational institutions to settle in a section which has been called "the University of the Fenway." It has since been followed by the Harvard Medical and Dental Schools and their allied hospitals, Simmons College for Women, the Boston Normal school, the Museum of Fne Arts and its allied art school, the Boston Opera House and its grand opera school and several other schools of the most important American educational centre.

Run up the flag on the little red schoolhouse, says the statesman from Brookline who hopes to be the Bay State's next governor. Members of the Massachusetts G. A. R. are complaining that many schools throughout the state do not follow the principle of auspiciously displaying Old Glory. Even in "cultured" Boston neglect on the part of janitors is admitted by masters and members of the school committee. Chairman Ellis of the Boston committee believes that janitors, a hard working and patriotic lot of people, have a great deal to do and would not willingly neglect to hoist the flags; the janitors observe that this is all an educational matter and "up to" the masters. So the question remains foggy. But the energetic Rep. Norman H. White, house chairman of the ways and means committee, who was keenly interested in the bill to see that the American flag should be flown on every public school of the Commonwealth, says that it is evident enough that if flags are to be flown over schoolhouses at all the custom ought to be general. There is no excuse for infractions of such a good regulation, and if committeemen and masters would get together and enforce their orders upon janitors, there would be none. The custom is really one which should need no regulation in a state with the patriotic traditions of Massachusetts.

Good for green old Vermont, though perhaps a Boston girl shouldn't jubilate over her fellow citizens' loss. The proposed tax of five cents per Christmas tree has been increased to twenty-five cents and passed by the Vermont Legislature. Therefore, all the people who have been looking to the Green Mountain State to furnish the thousands of evergreen trees thought necessary to the celebration of Christmas will have to depend on other states or else pay prices which to most citizens will be prohibitory. The restriction may be hard on city kids, but it is tolerably evident that if the other states which are still blessed with a supply of the valuable spruce, fir and hemlock timber would do likewise, a long step would be taken in the direction of the desired conservation of the forests. Ethel Angier.

HIDDEN DANGERS

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Quincy Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the coming of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Quincy proof:

H. A. Vinton, 1366 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me of kidney trouble which had been in my system for at least ten years. I had pains in my back and loins and I believed my trouble to be rheumatism. I consulted a doctor and tried many remedies but found only temporary relief. Being advised to take Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box and began their use. They quickly drove away the pains in my back and my health is better today than it has been for a long time."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

BRIEFS

The fourth month of 1911.

Look out for April fool jokes today.

Unsettled weather is predicted for Sunday.

Mr. Tuck, station agent at the Norfolk Downs station is confined to his home by illness.

Chief Williams, who has been confined to his home by illness for several weeks, responded to the alarm from Box 123 Friday noon.

The street sprinkler would have been very welcome Friday afternoon, when great clouds of dust were being blown about the streets.

A smoke talk and entertainment will be given next Tuesday evening by Quincy lodge, International Association of Machinists, at Protection hall.

The Central station combination responded on a still alarm at 9.30 this morning for a grass fire in the rear of the Edwards estate on School street.

The Men's club of Christ church is arranging an entertainment to be given at the Sailors Haven, the home for seamen in Charlestown, on Thursday evening. A large party of the church people is being made up to go over with the entertainers, leaving Quincy on the 7.05 train and Quincy Adams on the 7.09.

The John Stuart Company has built a power tender for Walter J. Coombs. It will shortly put several yachts over, including Leader, which is now on the railway; Tulule, Comas, Katy and Stuart Co. One yacht already is at her old mooring in Quincy Bay, looking rather lonesome for the time being, but not to remain so for long.

A union meeting of the Norwegian and the Bethany church congregations was held last evening in Bethany chapel. Rev. Olof Jonsvold, the Norwegian pastor, spoke, and the Norwegians sang some congregational hymns in their native language. The meeting was well attended and was a source of pleasure and profit to both congregations.

The continued case of Mark J. Myatt for the illegal transportation of liquor which has been pending in the District court since last May was taken up this morning, and again continued until April 22 for a disposition.

At the time the original case was heard, Myatts partner, Fostello, was in court for illegal transportation, the specific charge being that he did not have a delivery book with him when delivering liquors. At that time it was claimed that the proper entries were made on the book which was kept on the main delivery wagon, and that it was not necessary that a book should be on the smaller team.

It was an interesting point of law that was raised at that time, and the Fostello case went up to the Supreme court. The Supreme court found against Fostello.

LIMITED FRANCHISE.

By a vote of 107 to 60, the Massachusetts House substituted on Friday for an adverse report of the committee on street railways the bill of Representative Henebery giving towns and cities the right to grant to street railway companies a 20-year franchise to carry freight and baggage, and taking away the right of appeal to the railroad commissioners, except where, after two towns or cities have acted favorably on the franchise, a third holds the matter up. Representative Thomas voted with the majority, and Representative Langelier was paired in favor.

FATALITY AT WOLLASTON FIRE

Ex-Councilman John H. Roberts Drops Dead from Excitement at His Residence

Fire Was a Slight One In His Workshop

Ex-Councilman John H. Roberts a well-known resident of Wollaston, died suddenly at his home 80 Brook street this morning, from heart failure due to excitement at a slight fire a short time before on the roof of his shop adjoining his home.

Mr. Roberts built a fire in a small stove in his shop, which caused a number of sparks, which set fire to the shingles of the building. The Wollaston fire apparatus was summoned by telephone at 8.40, and made a quick response. A chemical stream soon put out the fire. While the fire was in progress Mr. Roberts was about the shop assisting the firemen.

After the fire was out he was seen to stagger and then fall to the floor unconscious. Among the spectators at the fire was Dr. C. H. Adams. He was summoned and willing hands took Mr. Roberts into his home. He was beyond human aid, however, having breathed his last. It is thought that the excitement attendant on the fire brought on an attack of heart failure.

Mr. Roberts was born in Brooksville, Me., May 12, 1837. His education was acquired in the grammar schools of that section; finishing his course at "Kent's Hill" Seminary, Kennebec Co. Coming to Boston in 1862 he married the following year, and entering the furniture business was for twenty successive years in the employ of several of the leading houses in that line, principally in charge of the decorative department.

Coming to Quincy in 1873 he located at Wollaston, and has ever been actively interested in all that pertained to the welfare of that section. He has also given much attention to matters of public improvement and has on many occasions expressed his conviction through the public press.

Some years ago he was prominent member of the K. of H. and K. and L. of H. and for many terms financial reporter.

WAY BROCKTON DOES IT.

All the unpaid poll tax bills of 1910 are in the hands of the deputy tax collectors, and it is no longer possible to pay them at the collector's office at Brockton City hall. They were assessed a year ago. The 1911 poll taxes were assessed Saturday and, every male person whose home is in Brockton, may, if he is 20 years or more old expect a poll tax when the tax bills are sent out in September.

SUICIDE OF VETERAN

At One Time Postmaster and Many Years Letter Carrier

William H. H. Willett, one of Quincy's veterans of the Civil war, committed suicide Sunday by hanging at his home 292 Franklin street. He had evidently been hanging two hours or more when found by his son-in-law. Mr. Willett has not been in good health for some time, and had not been actively engaged as a letter carrier for nearly a year.

The family had been at church Sunday and returning about 1 o'clock missed Mr. Willett, and his son-in-law, George Dexheimer, started to look for him. Entering the small barn in the rear of the house he found him hanging and dead. Medical Examiner Jones, who was called, said that he had been dead about two hours.

When the free postal delivery was established in Quincy twenty years ago, Mr. Willett was one of the grand army veterans appointed as carriers. Since the death of his wife he has been more or less dispondent, and resigned his position as letter carrier May 21, 1910. Before the post offices in Quincy were consolidated into one office Mr. Willett was postmaster at the South Quincy office.

He was a veteran of the Civil war having served in Co. D, 39th regt., and Co. B, 60th regt. He was a member of Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R. He was about 70 years of age and leaves one daughter, Mildred, wife of George Dexheimer.

CONTEST FOR BANNER.

The young people's rally at the First Presbyterian church this evening promises to be well attended. Young people of all denominations are planning to hear Dr. Gifford of Brookline in his address on "Good citizenship." Special music will be furnished by soloists and the choir of the Presbyterian church. The contest for the East Norfolk C. E. Union banner is expected to be close. The entertaining society which now has it cannot compete and several nearby societies expect to have almost a perfect attendance.

FIRE AT BRAINTREE.

Sunday evening at 6.55 o'clock an alarm from box 43 called a large crowd to South Braintree square, but it was soon apparent that there was no fire in the immediate vicinity. A telephone message to Lothrop of the street railway waiting room had been received from the Braintree Highlands district, saying that a lively brush fire was in progress in some woodland off Peach street, and T. E. Huston pulled the alarm. The fire was in the brushwood on land to the right of Peach street on the lot said to be owned by Dr. W. M. Babbitt.

A large area was burned over between the estates of Anthony O'Rourke and George C. Glover, the flames being fanned by a stiff northwest gale. The fire came very close to the huts which are occupied in the summer by Italian laborers, but none of them were burned. The blaze was visible for quite a distance and with the rolling smoke clouds looked serious, but was soon extinguished and little damage was done. The all out signal was sounded at 8.05 o'clock.

QUINCY'S HISTORIC FLAG

John Albee Tells of Miss Von Lew the Former Owner

John Albree, secretary of the New England Historic Genealogical society, read a paper at the banquet of the Beacon society on Saturday evening on "A Woman Who Would Not Tell."

It was a hitherto untold story the result of years of research on the part of Mr. Albree of incidents in the life of Miss Elizabeth Van Lew of Richmond, Va., who was a spy for Gen. Grant during the civil war. By his appointment in 1869 she became postmaster of Richmond and held the office till the inauguration of President Hayes in 1877.

By reason of her union sympathies Miss Van Lew had Boston affiliations from period of the war till her death and it was due to the benevolence of well-to-do Bostonians that she was furnished with the means for comfortable maintenance during the last 10 years of her life. She died in 1900 at the age of about 80.

Miss Van Lew was of an old New York Dutch family. Her father was a well-to-do hardware merchant in Richmond before the war.

The data Mr. Albree collected showed that Miss Van Lew was throughtout the war giving aid and comfort to union prisoners in Libby prison that she sheltered in her house many union soldiers who escaped from Libby prison, that she kept Gen. Grant posted on much that was going on in Richmond and furnished him with plans of military defences and facts in regard to the strength of the confederate army.

Though her house was searched again and again druing the war by order of the confederate government, nothing to incriminate her was discovered. Of recent years, since her mansion has been devoted to the uses of a sanitarium, two secret recesses have been discovered in the house, one of which was used to conceal messages that were to be sent north when occasion offered, while the other, a spacious garret over the portico, was the place of hiding of her union refugees.

She raised the stars and stripes over her house an hour and a half before the union army entered Richmond, at the close of the war. That flag is said to be now owned in Boston. The raising of the flag caused a crowd to collect and threats of burning her house were made. Addressing certain well-known men in the crowd, she told them if her property was damaged Gen. Grant would burn their houses as soon as he entered the city. Her threat saved her property.

MASTER'S CLUB.

The Quincy Schoolmaster's club met in the library at High school Friday evening, for its regular monthly session. A paper on "Sex and education" by superintendent Parkinson of Waltham was read and discussed, after which the subject was discussed in general. The meeting was one of the best held by the club this year, and the discussion of this important subject proved to be very profitable. Practically all the masters were present.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Canada should try to look its best this summer. Mr. Beveridge is going to look it over and write a book about it.

In Duluth, Minn., the mercury took a drop of seventy degrees in five hours. It ought to have been provided with a parachute.

While Col. Roosevelt is not able to talk in official capacity, there are many Americans ready to back up anything he says.

Americans have about $285,000,000 invested in Canada. As soon as the amount reaches half a billion, we suppose some roustabout will start something to give Uncle Sam an excuse to march an army across that border too.

If someone will just sit on Champ. Clark's hot air valve, maybe there will be no serious trouble with Mexico after all.

New England advocates of inland waterways should take courage. Recently the people of Houston voted 6243 for and 488 against a proposition to issue $1,250,000 in 5 percent bonds to meet a similar appropriation by the federal government to dig a channel of 18 feet from the head of navigation to the center of the city of Houston to the gulf of Mexico, which, according to the estimates of the engineer corps, will cost $2,500,000. The city of Houston is 47 miles from the gulf and its ambitious citizens are determined to make it a seaport by deepening a natural canal called Buffalo bayou, which runs through historic ground.

The State House man of the Globe says: "Senator George L. Barnes of Weymouth is said to be "mousing round" trying to find out what his chances are for president of the senate of 1912. Barnes stands well with the regulars of the party, was prominent in the U. S. senatorship fight in behalf of Senator Lodge and is pretty close to the powers that be in the Kimball building. If he should decide to enter the contest and the republicans should still control the upper branch, he would have to fight Senator White of the cape and probably Senator Bennett of Saugus. Senator Evans, who was a prospective candidate, decided not to be a candidate for reelection.

Senator Barnes has an advantage over some of the other gentlemen who have represented the Quincy district, in being one year ahead. His predecessors wanted a third term that they might become president, but George will undoubtedly be sent back in 1912 or his second term, and we wish him success in his canvass for president.

One of the important matters to come before tonight's meeting of the City Council is the public hearing on the widening of Hancock street on the westerly side between Saville and Adams streets. This section of Hancock street resembles a neck of a bottle, as it is the entrance into the wide thoroughfare in City Square and Washington street. It is very narrow and often congested, and can be widened now at less cost than ever again.

All the travel by street cars, autos and teams from Wollaston, Atlantic, Neponset, Boston, Milton and towns to the North are focussed at this point in order to reach Quincy Square, Houghs Neck, the Weymouths, Nantasket, the South Shore, the Braintrees and other towns to the South.

At present the residences on the street set well back, but it may not be long before this part of Hancock street will be devoted to business blocks which would set upon the street line. If the street is widened now practically all the noble elm trees can be saved and a wide sidewalk constructed inside with a grass plot where the trees now stand, which will greatly improve the appearance as one approaches City Square from the North. It is one of the most pressing improvements before the City Council this year.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

The opponents of the Boston Chamber of Commerce's "Real Boston" bill are making this pertinent inquiry: "When do you intend to divert some of your 'Real Boston' speakers into the field of actual opposition to the annexation plans for Hyde Park, Everett and Chelsea, which are now being promoted?" Both March G. Bennett the original sponsor of "Real Boston," and the Chamber of Commerce have declaimed times without number that they are opposed to any annexation scheme whatsoever, but why don't they live up to their spoken words, and come out and denounce and oppose the attempt to annex the above places to Boston?—Dedham Transcript.

It is pretty certain that when President Taft's message to the extra session of congress is printed in the newspapers next week it will not be prefaced with "the president said in part." The assurance is given that the document will be brief and in that case it will be printed in full. Mr. Taft will confine himself to the subject of Canadian reciprocity. He could say a lot on that single topic, but it is not necessary. The congressmen know whether they want reciprocity or not and should be prepared to vote on the question with little talk about it it from the president or themselves. —Framingham News.

TROLLEY FREIGHT STATION.

To Editor Quincy Ledger:

Quincy has been flooded of late by an illustrated broadside issued by the Old Colony Street Railway Co., to show that the proposed location for its trolley freight station on Washington street opposite Foster, is not only non-objectionable but absolutely advancity at heart join hands to this effort point of view.

The pictures however are more attractive than accurate and are likely to mislead those unfamiliar with the locality. Washintgon street appears as a broad thoroughfare and Foster street is absolutely a boulevard where congestion would be well-nigh impossible. The space on either side the proposed station has been broadened to correspond.

If the city could widen Washington street as easily as this magical camera the proposed appropriation for the purpose would be quite unnecessary.

We ask the councilmen and others interested to visit the locality in question and view it for themselves when they will see the force of the objections so airily disposed of by the railway's special artist.

Another circular has been scattered broadcast by the railway company containing testimonials to the effect that trolley freight does not interfere with the passenger service. Who said it did? The point raised was quite a different one. It was that the freight service with its spur track would interfere with the use of Washington street by pedestrians, horses and carriages and automobiles. So frequented a highway is not suitable for a freight station. A side street centrally located should be chosen.

Furthermore, most of the buildings on that portion of Washington street are old and will soon give way in the march of improvement to business blocks which we hope will be an ornament to the city and in keeping with the public buildings in the immediate vicinity . In such development a freight station would have no place.

And then suppose that trolley freight should not prove a paying proposition what is to prevent the street railway company from using the location for a car barn or storage warehouse? The city might be quite at its mercy.

The present is the time to put a stop to the evils we see and to others which may arise. It is easier to forestall than to abolish.

Let all who have the good of the city at heart join hands in this effort to prevent its exploitation by private interests. Pro Bono Publico.

SUNDAY FIRE.

The alarm from Box 35 at 1.40 Sunday afternoon was for a slight fire on the roof of the L of the house of Warren S. Parker on Hancock court, and was probably caused by sparks from the chimney. A chemical stream from the Central station combination ladder truck soon put the fire out of business. The apparatus from West Quincy made a remarkably quick run to the box. The recall sounded five minutes later.

WORLD IS GOING MAD

Its Denizens May All Be Lunatics Unless We Make a Change

Indianapolis, April 3.—"The world is slowly going mad. If the denizens of the earth do not reverse utterly their mode of living within 250 years we will all be lunatics. It is just half as safe to live in the United States as in half-civilized India, because of murderers. Our filthiest habit is wearing clothes," declared Dr. J. H. Kellogg before the session of the Southern Indiana Teachers' association, speaking on 'The New Hygiene."

Before he had finished many of the women teachers left the hall, too nervous to undergo the final shafts of arraignment of life as it is lived in the twentieth century.

"Man is like other primates," declared Kellogg, "which have been exterminated by their environment. The artificial environment of the city is killing us off."

BITTEN BY PET CAT

Woman and Her Mother Victims of an Enraged Feline

Leominster, Mass., April 3.—A pet cat belonging to Mrs. Eben D. Cousins, enraged through mother love, turned itself into a small tiger when it bit and scratched Mrs. Cousins, who attempted to take the feline's kittens from her, and then attacked Mrs. Cousins' mother, who tried to pull it from her daughter's head.

After a savage attack on the two women it was chased through the streets by Patrolman Conlin, who cornered the cat in a barn and dispatched it with a bullet.

Mrs. Cousins and her aged mother are nursing a collection of deep scratches, and Mrs. Cousins' scalp bears numerous cuts from the teeth and claws of the maddened animal.

TREATED FRIENDS TO FAREWELL JOY RIDE

Chauffeur Is Killed and Two Women Are Fatally Hurt

Daytona, Fla., April 3.—Felix Faust, a New York chauffeur, was killed outright, Doris McDonald and Gertrude Pfeiffer of Boston were fatally hurt and Emma Lairch, William Thompson and Clyde Spring were injured while on a joy ride in the auto of P. A. Warner of New York, who has returned north.

Warner had left the Hotel Clarendon, where he had been staying for the winter, last Friday. He instructed Faust, his chauffeur, to ship the car home Sunday.

Late Saturday night Faust invited five friends to take a farewell joy ride and was returning home early Sunday at sixty miles an hour when one of the girls protested at the speed. Faust laughed at her fears and increased the speed to seventy miles, when he lost control of the car and it jumped the road, ploughed through the mud and scraped a palmetto tree.

The impact stripped the steering post, broke Faust's neck and skull and yanked his body from the seat. The car continued in its mad run for 100 feet until it struck a second tree and scattered the other occupants in every direction.

There they lay unconscious until discovered by a party of negroes returning from a camp meeting. The car caught fire from the lamps and was entirely burned.

PASTORS GIVE AWAY CHILDREN

Placed In Homes of Childless Couples In Providence

TWENTY-SEVEN PROVIDED FOR

Those Who Accept Them Required to Promise Solemnly That They Will Rear Orphans as If They Were Their Own Flesh and Blood—Two-Fold Purpose In Movement of Roman Catholic Parishes

Providence, April 3.—Six orphans from the Home of Destitute Catholic Children of Boston were offered to fond but childless couples at St. Edward's Catholic church here yesterday, but only three of them were adopted.

Giving away children in this city started two weeks ago. A round dozen found homes among the parishioners of St. Mary's church. All the children came from Boston.

The children were taken yesterday to the church and after the services those who wanted to adopt any one of the waifs applied to the pastor, Rev. Peter E. Blessing. If proper credentials were produced, the preliminary steps toward adoption were made at once.

St. Edward's parish comprises a mill section, and the fact that only three of the Boston children found happy homes does not reflect any discredit upon the locality of the mill workers. The oldest child adopted yesterday was 12 years old, and they ranged down to almost infants.

The pastors of the several churches make it thoroughly understood that under no circumstances are the children to become drudges or servants of other members of the household. They must be educated, and those who select them for adoption are required to promise solemnly that they will rear the children as if they were their own flesh and blood.

A week ago yesterday twelve of the youngsters were taken by members of St. Mary's church on Broadway. That was the total number of children brought from Boston and several of the parishioners were sent away disappointed because there were not enough to satisfy all.

On the preceding Sunday a like number was placed among the families of St. Joseph's church and other parishes in the Providence diocese have been visited and the little strangers warmly received.

The movement is for a twofold purpose. The primary object is to find desirable homes for those who were it not for the church would become public charges; the secondary reason is to keep the orphanages from becoming overcrowded in order that they may be enabled to do a greater work.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Fried Cauliflower. Clean and separate the cauliflower and trim the stalks to a point. Cook five minutes in boiling water, drain and cook again in fresh boiling water to which a tablespoonful of salt has been added. When tender, drain and roll each piece in sifted bread crumbs, cover with beaten egg diluted ith two tablespoonfuls of water; drain and roll again ;in crumbs and fry in deep fat to a golden brown. Drain on soft paper and serve at once on a folded napkin with sprigs of parsley between them and tomato sauce in a separate dish.

Chicken Pie. Disjoint the chickens as for fricasee and parboil them until tender, take out of the liquor and remove skin and large bones. Line a deep dish with plain paste. Put the chicken back into the liquor and season and thicken with flour. Add a rounding tablespoon of butter. Sprinkle the bottom of the lined dish with flour, turn in the hot chicken and gravy and cover with a richer paste. Cut a good size round place from the top crust to prevent the gases being enclosed in the pie and bake in a hot oven.—Gene Weld.

Codfish Balls With Tomato Sauce. Wash raw salt codfish and shred in fine pieces until you have a cup and a half. Pare and cut in small pieces mealy potatoes until you have three cups. Put the potatoes and fish together in a stewpan, cover with boiling water and cook until the potatoes are done, but no longer, lest they become soggy. Drain off all the water, then mash and beat until very light. Season with pepper, more salt if needed and two tablespoonfuls of butter. Add one unbeaten egg and whip again until as light as "feathers."Shape as near ball shape as possible, then roll them deftly in the finest of sifted bread crumbs, slip them into a frying basket, not more than five at a time, and fry in smoking hot fat for just a moment. Take out and drain on soft paper.

Delicious Date Confection. Wash and dry as many dates as desired, then remove the stones. Chop some preserved ginger and add an equal amount of chopped blanched almonds or pecans. Make a post of some of the ginger syrup and confectioner's sugar and add just enough of it to hold the ginger and nuts together. Fill the dates with this mixture; press the edges together and roll in granulated sugar.

Pop Corn Bars. Pop and pick over carefuly enough corn to measure three quarts. Crush with rolling pin a little at a time. Boil one cupful of granulated sugar, three tablespoonfuls of water and one tablespoonful of butter until it threads from a cold spoon, not from the hot spoon used in stirring. Flavor and color pink; then pour over the corn, stirring all the time. Press the sugared corn in tin cracker boxes that have been oiled. When cool cut in bars with a very sharp knife and wrap in waxed paper. Chocolate, wintergreen and vanila bars are the favorite.

SOME OTHER LOCATION

Washington Street Dangerous for a Freight Depot

Editors Daily Ledger:

The location desired by the Old Colony Street Railway Co. is one that should receive the careful consideration of all interested in the welfare of our city. We have a civic centre, and anything that will tend to depreciate it, should not be allowed if possible to avoid it.

In considering this matter with a view to fairness with Railway Company we are confronted with the same old conditions, viz, that locations suggested that would be less objectionable, the holders have demanded prices out of all proportion to reasonable values, especially when gauged by assessment. What is needed in Quincy is reciprocity and a broad spirit of cooperation. At present, corporate interests desire and get franchises unlimited, and when the business demands improvements, as no doubt will occur on this Washington street in the near future, the people will no doubt have the privilege of paying for the work required unless their rights are conserved better than has been the custom in the past.

There is no question but that the present location desired by the Railway Co. will be dangerous to the public, and notwithstanding the artistic design of the building proposed, it is a freight station and it is not considered generally a place of local adornment.

The question of benefit to the public of the trolley express does not enter here, simply is this a proper location for a freight house, and I trust that it may not be granted. I further hope that a desirable location may be decided on and that the holders will be fair, or it may call for that equalization of taxation which is so urgently required.

AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP.

Rev. J. E. Lillback, pastor of the Finnish Congregational church gave the last of his series of lectures on "American Citizenship" Friday evening. These lectures were intended primarily as a course to prepare a number of the men for naturalization.

Seven of them will go to Boston this evening to take their final examinations. Mr. Lillback has explained the articles of the Constitution, and the forms of government, telling the relation between city and state, state and country. He has endeavored to make clear to them the advantages of American citizenship over that of Finland, and has given the men some insight into the duties they owe to the nation in which they live. The meeting had a large attendance, all men who are to be naturalized in the near future.

WATER AT CHRISTENING.

When ever water is used instead of wine in the cermonies of naming a vessel ,at its launcing the newspapers generally refer to the substitution as "a new departure." As a matter of fact vessels were launched half a century ago without the bestowal of wine on the fishes. When the famous Hartford was launched from the Charlestown Navy Yard, before the Civil War, a bottle of water was broken over the bows. Water from the Wabash was employed when the frigate Wabash was named, and in the navy and merchant service "there are others."—Transcript.

SUNDAY IN THE CHURCHES

Sunday Closing of the Post Office Endorsed

At Bethany church Sunday morning, the pastor Rev. Dr. Hardy called attention to the fact that he had received a letter from Postmaster Mansfield of the Boston postal district relative to the Sunday hours at the Quincy post office. He desired an expression of opinion from the church as to necessity and advisability of opening the office for the delivery of mail, which now caused postal clerks to work on Sundays. Dr. Hardy said he had personnally replied to the letter in favor of closing. He then put the question to vote of the congregation. Nearly every one present raised their hand in favor of closing, and no one voted in opposition.

The pastor's theme was "True Religion." He said a week ago he had conducted a large men's class at Brockton and the subject was: "What is true religion?" Many of the business men expressed their opinions and their answers had been prominent in his thoughts during the week. He proceeded to show by elimination that true religion was not an appeal to the passions, not irrational, not static, not ethical. Then he turned to the lesson of the morning, the 21st chapter of St. John, and one of the answers at Brockton, which was simply "Follow Christ." It was not theorizing and creeds. It is a religion that should be taken into business and into the home. We should socialize religion; think of the other man. One of the dangers of the church was lack of tolerance. Let us be more reverential, more thoughtful of others, more tender hearted, more passionate, more lovable. Follow Jesus Christ.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The Scripture reading selected by Rev. Carl G. Horst for the lesson at the Sunday morning service of the Wollaston Unitarian church was the story of Paul's voyage and shipwreck, found in Acts 27, and his text was taken from the same chapter, the 29th verse—"Fearing lest they should have fallen upon rocks, they cast four anchors out of the stern, and wished for the day."

As a background to the discourse the preacher gave a brief and vivid sketch of Paul's character and the circumstances which led up to the voyage. The ship's anchors were used as symbolic of religion in human experience. The anchors could not prevent the tumult, the wild lashing of the waves nor the danger; but they held the ship safely though the storm and the night until the day, when they could again steer by light.

So religion holds fast to eternal realities, and in the stress and storm of suffering, loss and disappointment, which come to every life at one time or another, it is an anchor which keeps life from drifting upon rocks of doubt and despair The four anchors of the ship were likened to four principles in the religious life of man, viz: Duty, which enables him to stand fast in the midst of temptation and hardship; Hope, which not only beautifies and enriches, but positively prolongs life; Faith, which is the God-given inspiration to press on; and Immortality the blessed belief of him who sees this life to be but a fragment, and who looks to life and love in larger measure beyond the door which we name death.

The service was closed by congregational singing of Phoebe Cary's fine hymn "A prayer for faith."

"I ask not wealth, but power to take
And use the things I have, aright;
Not years, but wisdom that shall make
My lie a profit and delight."

The Rev. Joel H. Metcalf, Ph. D., of Winchester, who is not only a good preacher but also has a world-wide fame as an astronomer will be the preacher at the Lenten service Wednesday, April 5, at 7.45 P. M. Mrs. Frank A. Page will sing two solos. These services are very helpful to the spiritual life. "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength."

The last of the vespers of this season will be held next Sunday at 4.30. The high quality of church music rendered by specially trained voices and the distinctively religious character of the entire service render these services exceedingly helpful. William Weston the well known organist, will preside at the organ and the musical program will be rendered by the quartet of the First church, Quincy.

A communion service was held at 5 o'clock in the afternoon at which three new members were received into the church.

The Y. P. S. C. E. service at 5.30 was led by Mr. Uksila. A. H. Blanchard spoke on the subject "Jesus, our Friend." The choir sang a selection and a solo "Softly and Tenderly Jesus is calling" was rendered by one of the young ladies.

The first of the series of laymen's meetings under the auspices of the men of the church was held in the evening. Two of the church members gave addresses. Meetings will be held in the church every evening during the week and two men will take charge each evening. Special music will be furnished by the choir and soloists every evening. It is expected that all the Finnish people in Quincy will be reached by these meetings. Rev. J. E. Lillback, pastor of the church has general supervision over them.

CALVARY BAPTIST.

The pastor took the text of his Sunday morning sermon from Col. 1:18. "Who is preeminent" was the subject.

The Sunday school service was well attended over 100 children being present.

The Y. P. S. C. E. service was led by the pastor Rev. R. J. Davis. Over 40 young people were present and the response to the roll call was very gratifying. Miss Robina Skinner sang a solo "Moment by Moment."

In the evening the pastor preached on the theme "In Remembrance." "Do this in remembrance of me" was the text.

After the communion service four new members were received into the church.

The Bible Study class will meet with Mrs. Thayer, 70 Columbia road.

The regular prayer meeting will be held Thursday evening.

THE MERE MAN'S VIEWPOINT

OF STYLES FOR WOMEN

By BYRON WILLIAMS

"THEY AIN'T NO SICH ANIMAL!"

NOW that the hobble skirt has arrived and I have seen beautiful woman incased in it I am reminded of that old story of the countryman who, after gazing a long time at a rhinoceros, turned to Martha and, shaking his head, said, "They ain't no sich animal!"

And yet Cibber tells us we might as well be out of the world as out of style.

Little Elsie came to her mother and asked, "Mother, when I get growed up, if I don't marry, will I be an old maid like Aunt Sue?"

"Why, yes, dear," replied the wondering mother.

"And if I do will I get a man like pa?"

"Why, yes, I suppose so, Elsie."

"This is a tough world for us wimmen, ain't it, mother?"

I know many good, sensible ladies feel this way about the styles.

Recently I was in the millinery department of a great city store. A woman came in accompanied by a gentleman, evidently her husband. I knew she had brought him along to help her select a hat, because he looked worried, kept consulting his watch and acted nervous and skittish, as if he might break for hurdle any minute.

The saleslady brought out one of those milk pail hats, second cousin to the beehive, that make a woman look like Willie when father has a butter crock over his head as a diagram for bobbing the boy's hair.

When the wife asked him how he liked it her voice sounded muffled and far away, like the hired man trying to call the pigs with a bushel basket over his head. The husband looked helplessly at the clerk. He didn't want to offend her, but he knew his wife would be ridiculous wearing that hat.

HER VOICE SOUNDED MUFFLED.

So did the saleslady. She brought another. It was a toque, one of those hats made from a bale of velvet, three hat pins and a motion like a hired girl gathering the family washing off the lawn. Some of them are wadded into a peak and the peak stretched. Others are stuck together as a butcher fastens a rolled roast and sat upon. These last named come high, even though they are low hats.

This time the man gasped and said it was terrible. Then followed other hats—wide hats, fat hats, tall hats, thin hats, blond hats, wise hats with owls on them, cocky hats with roosters' tails, hats for afternoon and hats for breakfast—until the man, squirming in his chair, gasped again and moaned, "What awful hats!"

After the saleslady had put away the brick colored one, with a tug buckle and a brass band on it, she brought the most b-e-a-u-tiful creation, all covered with old gold spangles and draped with feathers that must have come from angel birds, they were so beautiful. The husband whispered to her to take it at $25 before somebody came along and raised the price. Then he looked at his watch again and mopped his brow.

"I can't wear this hat," said the woman. "I'm a member of the Audubon society, and it has feathers on it."

"The bird's dead now anyhow, ain't it?" asked the man on the edge of his chair. "What's the difference?"

"Just this," patting her hair under the hat brim—"every time a woman wears a bird on her hat somebody goes out and shoots more for other hats. It is the example we must set. We must make milliners understand that hats trimmed with birds will find slow sale. But it certainly is a dear, isn't it?" turning to her husband.

"SAY, EM, I'M GOIN' TO TH' OFFICE."

"Aw, take it and come on. I've gotta git down to the office."

"Let me try that autumn leaf one," addressing the saleslady.

"Say, Em. I'm goin' to th' office."

"All right, Charles; run along."

As he left he told her over his shoulder to "quit fussing and take that hat."

But when he got home that night she had "the doggondest lookin' thing" a man ever saw!

How do I know? Why, they always do it that way, don't they? Mine does.

ROCKEFELLER IN BRONZE.

Andrew Carnegie Has Also Been Posing For Sculptor.

Bronze busts have been made of John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie, the two men who have been the most lavish in giving away gold and other forms of riches, and thus their lineaments will be preserved in enduring metal. Their deeds will doubtless keep their names known so long as the world endures, and these bronze busts will enable future generations to know what the two financial geniuses and philanthropists looked like.

The bust of Mr. Rockefeller was made by William Couper, a New York sculptor. It was done especially for the Chicago university. It has been placed on the mantel over the big fireplace in Hutchinson commons, the huge dining hall where hundreds of the students eat. From that position the image of the oil magnate will look down on the future generations. An oil painting of Mr. Rockefeller as he looked at the time the university was founded hangs on the wall of the same room.

Recent large gifts by these two multimillionaires attracted considerable attention. Mr. Carnegie established a peace fund of $10,000,000 and Mr. Rockefeller added $10,000,000 to his previous gifts to the Chicago university, making his total $55,000,000. Other donations to the school give it something more than $41,000,000 and make it the richest university in America.

For some years the race between Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Carnegie for the championship in the making of gifts has been close. Early in the contest the oil man was in the lead, but the ironmaster has recently made a spurt, and he is now a few millions ahead.

Accurate estimates of the various donations of the two men credit Mr. Rockefeller with $211,000,000, while Mr. Carnegie has given away about $214,000,000. As each of them is still enjoying an income that amounts to many millions yearly the contest is not over.

THE KAISER'S GRANDSONS.

Many Boys Have Been Born In the Royal Family of Germany.

Kaiser Wilhelm has probably been envied many times by his fellow rulers, the czar of Russia and the king of Italy, because he was the father of six sons, thus insuring an heir to the throne. Four daughters were born to the czar of Russia before the stork brought a boy, and the king of Italy had three princesses in his family before there was a prince.

The crown prince of Germany has three children, all boys. Two of them are shown in the accompanying picture. The larger one is Prince William Frederick, and in due course of time he will become the crown prince and will later be the ruler of the German empire. The other one is Prince

GERMAN CROWN PRINCE'S CHILDREN.

Louis Ferdinand. Their baby brother is too small to play with dogs and toy warships, so he did not get into the picture.

Prince William Frederick, named for his grandfather and great-grandfather, was born July 4, 1906, so that he celebrates his birthday on the same date that Uncle Sam celebrates. Prince Louis Ferdinand was born Nov. 9, 1907.

The future ruler of Germany is a sturdy lad with Democratic proclivities. He is extremely mischievous and is a great favorite in the family, the kaiser in particular being fond of him. He cares much more for his toys than about the cares of state and is simply a healthy, normal boy like thousands of others in Germany.

Several committees have met since the last Council meeting and a number of reports will probably be received at the meeting this evening.

Miss Elizabeth Rogers of Hancock street, who has been ill with scarlet fever at the Brighton hospital for nearly two months, has fully recovered and is now at home.

Scarlet fever seems to have been more fatal 50 years ago than this year, for the Town Report of 1861 reports 22 deaths in Quincy from that disease between Jan. 1 and May 11.

Ella F. Packard of Chestnut street was one of the bones in the Boston University girls minstrel show given in Jacob Sleeper hall last week. Miss Packard was also a member of the committee on arrangements.

Mr. Richard Luomala and Miss Ellen Uksila were united in marriage by Rev. J. E. Lillback at the home of the bride's brother, 15 Suomi road, Saturday evening, at 8.30. The brother and sister of the bride stood up with the couple. After the wedding, the little daughter of the brother, John Uksila was christened by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Lillback.

A Cartographic Curiosity.

Catherine de' Medici once entertained the ambition of acquiring both North and South America as appendages to her crown, and with that object in view she dispatched a couple of her representatives to the scene of operations. The northern section of the enterprise was committed to the charge of the queen's favorite, Troilus de Mesgonez, who was adorned with the title of viceroy of France and sailed from Havre with a large fleet, only to be wrecked in the Atlantic. Another favorite, Strozzi, was commissioned to capture South America, but he was no more fortunate than Mesgonez, for he was killed at the Azores. These happenings, however, took a long time to reach the ears of Queen Catherine, and in the meantime she nursed her dreams and prepared a map on which "the new world of the north" and "the new world of the south" figured as colonies of France. This cartographic curiosity is among the map treasures of the National library in Paris.

Sweetness That Never Palls.

During a sleepless night the Vizier Mujjeduddin Kumija dispatched his slave, Bedruddin Ejas, to bring him sweets. The slave procured a copper kettle heaped with many kinds of fruits and sweets, and Mujjeduddin began to eat.

"You relish them, my master?" asked the slave.

The vizier shrugged his shoulders. "These fruits are sweet—for the moment," he said, "but show me a fruit the sweetness of which will endure even unto the judgment day."

"Such fruits there are, my master," cried the slave and hastened toward the Mesched Husa, where he awoke the starving orphans in the house of Allwin and led them forth into the room of his master. Overjoyed, the famished children devoured the fruits.

"Look, oh, my master," said the slave. "Here you see fruits the sweetness of which endures unto the judgment day."

REPLY TO DR. RYDER

Optometry Bill in Legislature of Vital Interest

Editor Daily Ledger:

In your issue of March 20, I find an article written by Dr. George H. Ryder, challenging certain statements contained in a former issue of the "Ledger" in reference to the proposed Optometry Bill.

I cannot refrain from asking for sufficient space in your valuable paper to reply to the doctor's article, for this question of safeguarding the eyesight of the people is one that deserves the widest discussion and a settlement at an early date.

It is well known by all that there are two classes of men who examine eyes to determine if glasses are needed; viz: The medical specialist (the oculist) and the non-medical specialist (the optometrist). The non-medical man was engaged in the fitting of glasses for years before the medical man took up the work. In following his chosen calling the optometrist deals only with healthy eyes. While very few need medical treatment compared to the many needing glasses, it is to the credit of the optometrist that he has studied to acquaint himself with the appearance of the healthy eye and his ability to differentiate between a healthy and a diseased eye is what the doctor says, shows that the optometrist practices medicine. In other words; if one person meets another and notices by his cough that he has a severe cold on his lungs, and advises him to consult his physician, he is "taking to himself a medical function," and is practicing medicine. Could any line of argument be more absurd?

In the next paragraph, the doctor practically claims that the fitting of glasses is the practice of medicine, for he states that: "The Massachusetts Supreme Court holds the practice of medicine to embrace the use of any means whatsoever for the relief of human ailments."

Three years ago when this claim was made before the Public Health Committee, the optometrists said they would welcome the oculists to their offices in order that evidence could be obtained against them, but the oculists have not appeared, for they know too well that the fitting of eyes for glasses is not the practice of medicine.

But to take for a minute the doctor's statements as true; it would be reasonable to ask: When did optometry, refraction or the fitting of glasses (whatever you wish to call it) become the practice of medicine? At last year's hearing before the Committee on Public Health, one of the principal speakers for the oculists said that they do not consider it is the practice of medicine now, but it will be when the Optometry Bill becomes a law.

If optometry is the practice of medicine now it must have been when the medical law was enacted in Massachusetts in 1894. At that time no one thought of considering it as such. But now, because the oculists wish to corner the eyeglass business, it is so considered by them. If today, the work done by the chiropodist was something the medical man found profitable to do, you would see him trying to legislate the chiropodist out of business the same as they are now trying to do to us.

Does the doctor claim that a man who knows diseases of the eye from A to Z, is thereby an expert refractionist? Does he further maintain that men without a broad education obtained in schools and colleges are thereby unable to attain to any degree of proficiency even if they study as hard and harder than a high school course would require? And does the doctor believe a high school or college course will fit a man to examine eyes better than a thorough understanding of optics and refraction? No, the question, is, can a man do this work properly, not of what school is he a graduate.

I cannot allow his statement regarding optometry schools to pass unnoticed. He writes that even plumbers have schools but optometrists have not. For his enlightenment, allow me to state that Columbia University, the largest college in America, and the first college in the United States to found a medical school, has a chair of Optometry in its department of physics; thereby conclusively showing it is not medicine. This course is of two years' duration and is one of the best in the country. Another University will soon follow the example of Columbia. Can the doctor name a single medical school in America that teaches refraction, or a single examination that the Massachusetts medical board has ever given in refraction?

Dr. Ryder in his article claims that to have the Board consist of Optometrists, "savors of a close corporation." The Medical Board consists of physicians, the Dental Board of dentists. What does Dr. Ryder wish the Optometry Board composed of if not Optometrists themselves. Dr. Ryder further argues that the restrictions for registration are "flimsy." Here is section 5 of the bill:

"Every person desiring to commence the practice of optometry after February first, nineteen hundred and twelve, upon presentation of satisfactory evidence, verified by oath, that he is more than twenty-one years of age, of good moral character, has a preliminary education equivalent to at least two years in a public high school, and has also studied at least three years in a registered optometrist's office or has graduated from a school of optometry maintaining a course of study of not less than two years and satisfactory to the said board of examiners in optometry, shall take an examination in theoretic, practical and physiological optics, theoretic and practical optometry and anatomy and physiology of the eye before said board to determine his qualifications therefor.

"Every candidate successfully passing said examination shall be registered by said board of examiners in optometry as possessing the qualifications required by this act, and shall receive a certificate therefor, which shall have printed conspicuously upon its face the definition of optometry as contained in section one; but every person engaged in the practice of optometry in this commonwealth, at the time of the passage of this act and who desires to continue the practice of optometry after February first, nineteen hundred and twelve, shall file with said board of examiners in optometry an affidavit containing his name, usual place of business and the date of beginning his practice, said affidavit to be signed by a physician and two reputable merchants, testifying as to his character and business standing ,which affidavit shall be satisfactory to the board of examiners in optometry, and when accepted shall be so recorded by said board but no certificate shall be issued therefor.

"Any person whose affidavit has been accepted and who shall furnish further satisfactory proof to said board, as to his qualifications and who has been continuously engaged in the practice of optometry in this commonwealth for more than three years next prior to the passage of this act, shall be entitled to take the examination prescribed by this act, and if successfully passing the examination he shall receive a certificate of registration as herein provided.

"The original appointees to the board of registration, under section two of this act, shall be entitled to certificates of registration without examination, by virtue of their appointment. The fee for an examination shall be twenty-five dollars and those passing the examination shall receive a certificate of registration without additional charge.

"An applicant who fails to pass a satisfactory examination shall be entitled to one re-examination after the expiration of three months, free of charge, at any future meeting of the board, but for each subsequent examination a fee of five dollars shall be paid."

Can the doctor suggest any better plan whereby the door can be shut against future incompetents without working injustice to men who are doin gan honorable business in their own communities? This bill will bring about the desired results and give certicates of registration only to those who have passed an examination.

Can the doctor deny that when the Medical Law went into effect, every one then engaged in the practice of medicine for five years, no matter how vile a fakir ,received a certificate from the state allowing him to continue his practice? Is the doctor aware that the proposed Optometry Bill is one of the strongest bills in that particular that has ever been presented by any profession?

Dr. Ryder forgets to mention that twenty-five states have passed an Optometry Law, and that Massachusetts is fast becoming a dumping ground for incompetents and quacks who cannot qualify in the other states. Governor Hughes, now Justice of the United States Supreme Court, in signing the New York bill, said: "The practice of Optometry exists and will continue to exist and it unquestionably forms a proper subject for regulation." The doctor also neglects to say that the only opposition to the bill comes from a few oculists who, prompted by selfish reasons have enlisted the support of the "Political Machine" of the American Medical Association, and are doing all in their power to defeat the bill.

It is indeed a disgrace to Massachrusetts that a matter so important to the welfare of her citizens has been so long neglected and that proper safeguards have not been placed around the practice of Optometry. But it is sadder to note that there are persons who would rather see men, women and children with ruined eyes than to safeguard them as has been done in other states.

The Optometry Bill has been introduced by Representative Henry G. Wells of Haverhill. Mr. Wells deserves much praise for taking hoid of a matter so vital to the welfare of every citizen. I sincerely hope that the passage of this bill will not be prevented by a minority of oculists who seemingly are prompted by personal reasons and who would deny to the citizens of Massachusetts the protection given the citizens of states having an Optometry Law.

In concluding, let me use the argument contained in the doctor's closing paragraph. If teh fitting of lenses to the eyes is medical practice, why is it that regularly graduated physicians by the thousands know absolutely nothing about refraction?

CONCESSIONS MADE BY DIAZ

He Yields to Many Demands of the Revolutionists

READS MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

No Re-election of President or Other High Executive Officials, Electoral and Judiciary Reform, Correction of Abuses by Local Authorities and Division of Great Estates Promised —Mobilization of American Army

Mexico City, April 3.—Committting himself to the advocacy of many of the reforms demanded by the revolutionists, although professedly bowing only to the influence of public opinion, President Diaz answered his critics through his semi-annual message at the opening of the national congress.

President Diaz read his own message of 16,000 words in a clear and steady voice that reached all parts of the great hall. He was cheered many times.

The principle of no re-election of the chief executive and incumbents of other elective offices and the reform of the electoral laws so that the privilege of the ballot may be enjoyed by those citizens "who are considered capable of voting," are advocated.

The message refers specifically to the application of the no re-election principle, to the naming of governors, one of the chief contentions of the discontented element throughout the republic, and the president states if a bill providing for the "periodical renovation" of the officials in question should come before congress it would have his earnest support.

Abuse of power by jefes politico, another of the evils complained of by residents in the rural districts, is to be abated, according to the plan outlined by the president.

The president proposes to improve the efficiency of the judiciary, through a more careful selection of its personnel and lengthening of the tenure of office. Efficacious punishment of judicial functionaries for malfeasance is to be brought about through the enactment of more stringent measures.

On the subject of the division of the great private estates, first broached by Minister Limantour in his Paris interview, the executive declares his determination to find efficient means for bringing about the innovation.

President Diaz pays a high tribute to the loyalty and valor of the Mexican soldiers, and takes up the subject of the mobilization of the American army.

Relative to these serious occurrences, the executive says he had observed the rebels were recruiting filibusters and effecting the organization on American territory, and therefore drew the attention of the government of the United States to their acts. That government, acting by virtue of its laws of neutrality, at once adopted such measures as it deemed adequate, which the government of Mexico recognized and appreciates. A little later there was an unusual concentration of American forces near the border.

"The executive, as in duty bound," says Diaz, "gave instructions to Ambassador De La Barra at Washington to ask for an explanation of the step.

"That explanation caused a message from President Taft in which he spontaneously gave assurances that this concentration of forces had no significance which should cause concern to the friendly neighbors of the United States on the south. The withdrawal of the American warships which had been ordered to the waters of both our coasts and the fact that the land forces are shortly to engage in maneuvers afford the best proof of the sincerity of these assurances, which have been reiterated on subsequent occasions."

The Honorable Senator Sagebrush

By FRANCIS LYNDE

Copyright, 1910, by Street & Smith

SYNOPSIS.

Evan Blount, son of "Boss" David Blount ("Senator Sagebrush"), has been rejected by Patricia Anners. Dick Gantry offers him a position with the Transcontinental railway, which is fighting his father. McVickar, head of the railroad, and "Boss" Blount quarrel.

The boss demands that the railroad stop the use of crooked methods. Going west to meet his father, Evan meets a man who takes him for a forestry employee.

Evan is kidnaped by a band of men, evidently land corporation agents, and is taken at night to a mansion seemingly presided over by a woman.

The house is Wartrace Hall, Senator Blount's home, and the woman is Evan's stepmother, whom he had never met.

The senator purposes running Evan for attorney general despite the young man's recent arrival in the state. Evan objects. He hears his father called a political trickster.

McVickar defies Senator Blount to nominate Evan. Patricia and her geologist father arrive at the Sagebrush capital.

At McVickar's request Evan joins the railroad's forces as division counsel and political worker. He favors clean politics, but finds that his office is made a rallying point by small political hangers-on of the road.

Evan has a disagreement with Gantry about the road's mixing in politics. His father pulls wires unknown to him to have him invited to speak in a distant mining town. Hathaway, who has been trying to do business with the road and with Senator Blount, is to have a talk with Mrs. Blount.

Hathaway wants a rebate from the road in consideration of political favors. He is referred to Evan and is advised by Mrs. Blount to put Professor Anners' name on his list of stockholders.

Evan's interview with Hathaway reveals the road's misdoings. In a rage he resigns. Gantry holds up the resignation. Evan insists that it go through to McVickar.

Patricia refuses Evan again. She advises him to stick to the road and work for clean politics. He withdraws his resignation and is sent into the field on a special mission.

Exposure of the railroad is threatened by Evan to Gantry unless rebating and other unlawful practices are stopped. Evan suspects his secretary, Collins, of tampering with his desk.

The desk is blown up by a burglar, evidently after Evan's papers. Gantry tells McVickar that Evan is getting to be too much for him to handle.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE BOOMERANG.

It was on this same Monday morning, day of preparations for political battles, that Mr. Richard Gantry, answering a telephone call on the long distance line, hastily closed his desk and left his office to make his way by quiet side streets to the Railway club garage. Kittredge's car was in its place over one of the pits, and the chauffeur was polishing the brass.

"Get her in commission in about three shakes of a dead lamb's tail, Haberstro," said the traffic manager briefly. "I've got to go somewhere in a hurry. Do you want an order from your boss?"

The chauffeur shook his head. "No; I guess it's all right, if you say so, Mr. Gantry," he replied. And a little later he had taken on his supply of gasoline and the motor was whirring merrily under the hood.

"Where to?" he asked when Gantry climbed to the mechanician's seat beside him.

"Out of town to the north by the quietest streets you can find. Then take the Queretaro county road. We are due at Cliffcrest inn just about fifteen minutes sooner than we can get there."

No more than a quarter of an hour was consumed before the car had wound its way to the summit of the mesa and was wheeling to a halt before the entrance of a small summer resort hotel perched among the pines at the edge of the canyon cliff. There were no guests on the hotel verandas, and Gantry knew that the inn's season had closed two weeks earlier. Yet he sprang from the car and went in as if he expected to find the place open and occupied.

It was open, and in the cozy guests' writing room at one of the tables drawn up before a cheerful wood fire sat the vice president of the Transcontinental seemingly in solitary state. But in the room beyond a battery of telegraph instruments clicked busily, and a close observer would have remarked that the small table before the fire was fitted with a row of electric call buttons.

Cliffcrest inn, deserted of guests, had been transformed into the hidden headquarters in the field of the commander in chief.

"Well?" said the great man, looking up quickly when Gantry entered. "You took your time about getting here. Whose car is that?"

"It is Kittredge's," said the traffic man.

"Better tell him to get one that will make time," was the impatient comment. Then: "Sit down and bring the situation up to date, and talk fast. Time is precious today."

Gantry drew up a chair and gave a hasty resume of the political situation. Everything had been done that could be done, and so far as the traffic manager knew the railroad forces were ready to meet the issue at the polls. At one point, and only one, the defenses were weak. "It's that Gryson deal," he explained. "It has been rather awkwardly handled, and if Evan Blount should happen to stumble upon it any time during the day I shouldn't like to answer for the consequences."

"You ought to have made sure by getting him safely out of the way," was the rasping comment of the great man. "You are just common bunglers—you and Kittredge—both of you."

Gantry's gesture was of humorous despair.

"There's a limit, Mr. McVickar. We couldn't very well garrote him and carry him off to a dungeon. We have tried every way we could to muzzle him. So far as I know, he hasn't been doing anything incendiary since you were here last week, but I had to put one across on him about the equalizing of the freight rates."

"What did you do?" snapped the vice president.

"I mailed him what purported to be a carbon copy of the legal notice of a reduction. He doesn't know yet that he has the only copy—that the notice hasn't been posted in our stations, as the law directs. I'm hoping that he won't find it out until after tomorrow, when it won't make any especial difference."

Mr. McVickar frowned again.

"Your expedients have all been pretty crude, Gantry. You seem to persistently forget that you are dealing with a mighty sharp, shrewd young lawyer; that the chances are ten to one that young Blount discovered your pious fraud at once. Go back to the city and think up some scheme that will keep him busy today, too busy to smell out the facts in the Gryson matter."

Gantry got up and stood with his back to the fire.

"I'm all in, Mr. McVickar, and that's the humiliating fact. There isn't another idea left in me," he confessed despairingly. "Can't you help us out a little, Mr. McVickar?"

Being thus put face to face with the inventive test, the vice president did not hesitate a moment.

"Of course," he grated, "if I have to do your thinking for you. Go back and get into communication with Gryson. Tell him the time has come to play the same game on young Blount that he played four years ago on Hetheredge, the speaker of the house. He'll understand."

But now Gantry was shaking his head dubiously. "I'll do what you say and do it quickly. But candidly, Mr. McVickar, I'm afraid of Gryson. If Blount should happen to go at him just right there might be consequences of another sort. Gryson is pretty sore as it is."

"Never mind about the consequences. Go and do as I tell you to. Then go around to the telephone exchange and tell the manager that I want a special operator—a man if he's got one—put on this long distance wire; that you want the connection broken between the capital and David Blount's country house and that my wire is to be kept open to you and to Kittredge all day. Has Kittredge got his linemen out guarding the telegraph wires up here?"

"Yes; all the way out from the cut-in at Grand canyon."

"All right. That's all. Now make that boy of yours burn the road getting back."

It was only a little after 9 o'clock when this conference was held in the guest deserted mountain resort house at the head of Shonoho canyon. A 11 o'clock Blount, who was dictating to three stenographers in succession in his offices in the Temple court, had a caller.

"It's that fellow Gryson," said Collins, who had gone to answer the anteroom bell. "He says he's got to see you whether you want to see him or not."

"Send him in," said Blount briefly And a moment later the ex-bad man of the mining camps entered and carefully closed the door behind him.

"Well, what is it?" queried Blount snappingly when Gryson drew up a chair and sat down.

"I'll tell you first what it ain't," said the ward boss sullenly. "I ain't here to beg for no rakeoff. I've been given the double cross, and I'm sore."

Blount's smile was contemptuous. "You doubtless got what was coming to you," he said coolly. "But go on and tell it out and don't waste time. This is another of my busy days."

"I want to get hold of a newspaper man," said Gryson; "that's what I want. If they're going to throw me down I'll squeal. It ain't too late yet. Money talks with me every time. Your boss, McVickar, thought he had me coopered up in a barrel, but the other side saw his bid and raised it."

"What other side?" queried Blount.

"There ain't but one other side in this state when your daddy gets into the ring and pulls off his coat," said the bribe taker, with an evil leer. "You ain't been fighting round here a couple of months without finding that out?"

"Go on," was the terse command.

"As I was a-saying, money talks, and right now, when everything is ready to pull off, Sheehan turns up and says the barrel's run dry. There ain't nothing left in it for me. By cripes, I'll show him!"

Blount went into a reflective trance with half closed eyes. Sheehan was the machine organizer for the capital—the "pay boss," some called him. David Blount's son saw the door to a chamber of hidden facts slowly opening before him. For some reason Gryson, the twice bought and sold, had been dropped, and his actuating motive now was plain revenge.

PROPHECY OF INJURY

It Has Resulted In Keeping Caruso Off the Operatic Stage

New York, April 3.—It is superstition, not tonsilitis, which is keeping the greatest of tenors away from the Metropolitan opera stage. There is nothing the matter with the golden voice, but the owner is suffering from a severe attack of fear.

Caruso has refused to sing solely because he has been told by a fortune teller he is to meet with some injury, possibly fatal, on the stage in an opera in which shooting or stabbing occurs.

Curiously enough, the most popular operas in which the tenor appears in the present repertoire depict either shooting or stabbing of the leading character, and it is generally the tenor who is killed. Since early in February the great tenor has been missing from the casts at the Metropolitan. He remains adamant.

PEEP INSIDE THE BODY

Doctor's Advice Where Patient Suffers From Doubtful Disease

Boston, April 3.—So convinced is Dr. James Mumford of Harvard university of the safety of surgical operations that in a lecture on that subject at the Harvard medical school he even advised what is called an "exploratory operation" in cases where a patient is suffering from a doubtful disease.

He recommended opening up the body through a small incision and looking in to see what caused the trouble, which he said would prove "an immense solace to physician and patient."

He declared that under careful modern surgical methods there is no reason in all the range of human probability, save in a very few special cases, why one should face an operation with any degree of doubt as to its successful outcome.

M'LEANS DON'T WANT ILL-FATED JEWEL

Will Not Compromise Suit Over "Hope" Diamond

Washington, April 3.—Edward B. McLean does not want the ill-fated "Hope" diamond; he will not keep it under any circumstances. He was hoodwinked into agreeing to pay Cartier of New York and Paris $100,000 more than the famous jewel with its "hoodoo" is worth.

His wife, a daughter of the late multimillionaire, Thomas F. Walsh, does not want it either; she had nothing to do with the agreement to purchase the stone, and she would not have it as a gift.

These statements constituted the basis of answers to the suit of Cartier for $180,000, which they allege the McLeans promised to pay them for the diamond, and an unattached necklace.

The answer was filed in the supreme court of the District of Columbia and the attorneys stated that their clients would not compromise the suit under any circumstances.

AN APRIL FOOL HOAX

Conclusion of Man Badly Scared by a Black Hand Letter

Beverly, Mass., April 3.—The Beverly police, after lying in wait until midnight last night for the Black Handers who threatened the life of Giuseppe Palanzi, concluded that both Palanzi and themselves had been the victims of an April fool hoax.

On Saturday Palanzi received a letter demanding that he place $500 beneath a stone at the corner of Park and Creek streets.

Palanzi was in a hysterical condition yesterday and required the attendance of two physicians. He became convinced last night, after the failure of the men to appear, that he was the victim of an April fool joke.

COLONEL TILLMAN DEAD

Nephew of Senator Was a Leader In South Carolina Politics

Asheville, N. C., April 3.—With only his physician and a young nephew with him at the end, Colonel James H. Tillman, once lieutenant governor of South Carolina, died here. He had been here for his health for the past six months.

For years he was one of the political leaders in South Carolina, rising to the position of lieutenant governor of the state as a follower of his uncle, United States Senator Benjamin R. Tillman.

MANY RADICAL CHANGES MADE

Democratic Caucus Adopts Radical Reform Program

TO SAVE $182,000 YEARLY

Many Employes to Lose Positions and Extra Pay Is Abolished—Extra Session's Activity Limited to Little Other Than Reciprocity, Popular Choice of Senators, Tariff and Statehood—Party Program Is Carried Out

Washington, April 3.—In a party caucus noteworthy for its harmony and the smoothness of its progress, the Democratic members of the new house of representatives adopted, without change, the committee assignments, the economy program and the new rules prepared for the coming session by the committees that have been working during the last month.

Important changes in procedure and a general reorganization of the house will result from the action of the Democrats. The power of naming committees was definitely taken from the speaker by the new rules and lodged in the house itself. Committee members are to be elected by the house, not only in the first instance, but also in the filling of vacancies. A saving of $182,000 in the annual cost of running congress is promised by cutting out superfluous employes and inactive committees, and by the abolition of the time-honored "extra month's pay."

Appointive places are all put into the hands of one committee, a special body to be known as the committee on organization, and the scramble for congressional positions will center about its door.

At the night session, which continued to nearly midnight, officers were elected and a legislative program was submitted by Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee and adopted by the caucus. It is designed to limit the activities of the extra session to such questions as popular election of senators, Canadian reciprocity, tariff revision, investigation of governmental departments, congressional reapportionment, statehood for Arizona and New Mexico, general deficiency appropriations, District of Columbia legislation and publicity of campaign contributions.

The most important changes in the rules under which the new congress will operate are:

The selection of committees by the house.

A provision to prevent filibustering under the rule giving authority to discharge committees from consideration of bills.

A provision permitting amendments to appropriation bills whenever those amendments will result in retrenchment of national expenditures.

Authority for bills to come up twice for passage under the unanimous consent privilege.

In its effort to reduce the house payroll and dispense with extra employes, the Democratic caucus authorized sweeping changes. The abolishment of ninety-eight appointive positions; the dropping of six standing committees from the house list; and the cessation of the extra pay allowed each session to the employes are important features of the plan.

The first of these items is expected to save $120,000, the second $12,000, and the withholding of the "extra month's pay, $50,000.

The positions heretofore apportioned among the members generally are to be given by the Democrats only to those members who were not given committee chairmanships. It its effort at economy the Democratic organization decided that the forty-two special policemen employed about the Capitol could be dispensed with and that eighty-two clerkships and minor positions under the clerk of the house could be abolished. One chief bill clerk, with four assistants and a stenographer, will take the place of the large number of clerks removed.

The six committees abolished are those on militia, Pacific railroads, manufactures, private land claims, levees and improvements of the Mississippi river, and ventilation and acoustics. The work of these committees had either disapepared completely or had been taken over by other committees.

Rev. Henry N. Coudon of Port Huron, Mich., who for many years has been chaplain of the house, was unanimously re-elected. The caucus adjourned at midnight.

LEADER OF THE MINORITY

Mann of Illinois Will Probably Be Elected Without a Contest

Washington, April 3.—Representative Weeks announced that he was not a candidate for the minority leadership of the house, and thus probably cleared the way for the unanimous election of Representative Mann at the Republican caucus.

Some of the older members of the house are not altogether willing the honor should go to Mann uncontested. The opinion prevails, however, that all will step aside for Mann's election without a contest.

JAMES A. O'GORMAN

Elected United States Senator From New York

O'GORMAN CONGRATULATED

Newly Elected Senator Fully Prepared to Assume Duties

New York, April 3.—More than 1000 messages and more than 100 callers were received at the home of James A. O'Gorman, the newly elected senator from New York.

Mr. O'Gorman expects to leave this afternoon for Washington. He is fully abreast of his cases in the state supreme court and there is nothing to detain him.

ANCIENT CHURCH IS LEVELED BY FIRE

Lower Part of Building Was Used as Town Hall

New Braintree, Mass., April 3.—The Congregational meeting house, which for 111 years has been a landmark in this section of Worcester county, was destroyed by a fire which started from an over-heated stove.

North Brookfield's fire apparatus was hurred to the aid of the New Braintree townsfolks, who were without fire fighting appliances, but its only help was to prevent a spread of the flames. The loss is $25,000.

The old meeting house was remodelled in 1846, and the vestry in the lower part of the building, as a result of changes made at that time, has since been used as the town hall. It was the only public building in the town, except a small schoolhouse.

When it burned the town clock and an ancient bell dropped into the flames from the steeple.

YELLOW JACK RAMPANT

People Reported Dropping Dead In the Streets of Para

Boston, April 3.—Yellow fever rages and people are dropping dead in the streets at Para, Brazil, from where much of the coffee used in this country is sent, according to Captain Lawlan of the steamer Appenine from Buenos Ayres with a million dollar cargo.

The Appenine stoped at Para, but lingered only enough to take a small part of her cargo, all of which was subjected to a most careful process of fumigation. Lawlan reported that the conditions there are frightful as a result of the plague. Hundreds are already dead and the "yellow jack" has apparently overstepped all bounds.

KIDNAPPING FEARED

Young Heir to Large Fortune Is Mysteriously Missing From Home

Philadelphia, April 3.—Heir to a large fortune and with no apparent inducement to make him run away from home, Roger G. Sherron, 16 years old, of Salem, N. J., has disappeared, leaving no clew which might indicate what had become of him.

He has been attending a business school in this city and left there as usual Friday afternoon to go to his home. He never reached there. His father, William T. Sherron, fears that he may have been kidnapped and is being held for ransom.

Newburyport, Mass., April 3.—The mystery surrounding the frequent thefts during the past few months in the eBlanger grocery store at Amesbury was cleared, in the minds of the police, when an officer on guard at the store arrested 15-year-old Louis Bishop, charged with breaking and entering.

Bishop is alleged to have made a full confession to the police of being responsible for the theft of nearly $200 from the store.

Rev. Carl H. Raupach preached his farewell sermon at the Hall Place church on Sunday. A more extended report will appear in the Daily Ledger of Tuesday.

King Upton's steam houseboat Natomah left Baker basin last week for New York. Her owner will join the yacht at New York for a cruise in Chesapeake bay and Virginia waters.

The house situated on the new Wollaston school lot was sold at public auction Saturday afternoon by Auctioneer James F. Burke. The bidding was quite lively, the building being knocked down to Dennis F. Crowley for $450.

The funeral of Mrs. Elvira R. Glover was held Sunday afternoon from her home on High street, and was largely attended by neighbors and friends. The services were conducted by Rev. E. C. Butler of the First church. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

In the debate before the City Council last week, on the motion to increase the appropriation for books and supplies in the School department appropriation it was inadvertantly stated that Councilman Leslie was opposed to increasing the appropriation. As a fact, however, Councilman Leslie spoke and voted in favor of increasing the appropriation.

Andrew J. Dinegan, whose services are in much demand at minstrel shows, and whose fame as an end man is widely known, has just published one of his famous songs in sheet music form. The title of the song is "In a dear old swing." It is written in three-fourths time, and has a swing to it that should at once make it take its place among the popular airs of the day.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

The pastor conducted a communion service Sunday morning and seven new members were received into the church. The attendance at the meeting was very large. The pastor gave a brief communion address on "The Woman at the Well."

The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting was well attended. A goodly number of members responded to the roll call.

In the evening the pastor spoke from I Sam. 16:17. "Find me a man that can play skilfully on the harp." Mr. Matheson drew from the means Saul used to deafen his ears to the voice of conscience, the abundance of excuses we find for not living up to the best that is in us. Instead of saying "we are not as bad as we might be" we ought to say "we are not as good as we should be. "The moral law is that which keeps the world true but the individual conscience is not the dynamo of the moral law."

The golden rule is often spoken of as a treasure but we must think of it also as a measure. "Do unto others as ye would that men should do unto you."

The bi-monthly meeting of the East Norfolk Christian Endeavor Union will be held in the church this evening at 7.45. Dr. O. P. Gifford of Brookline will speak on "Good Citizenship."

The installation banquet of the Y.P.S.C.E. will be held in the vestry Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

The Stewards of the World in Boston will meet Wednesday evening.

The annual meeting of the congregation and Corporation will be held Thursday evening in place of the regular prayer meeting. Reports from the various church organizations will be read and the vacancies in the board of trustees will be filled. There will be other important business.

SWEDISH METHODIST.

The pastor delivered the sermon at the Sunday morning service from the text Luke 23:24 "Father forgive them for they know not what they do." "Forgiveness" was the theme of the sermon.

The Sunday school exercises were conducted by William Gelotte.

The Epworth league meeting was led by Bernard Rosing.

In the evening the pastor preached from Mark 14:12-21. "The Last Supper" was the subject of the sermon.

The Stewards meeting will be held this evening in the church.

The mixed choir will rehearse the Easter music on Wednesday evening.

On Friday evening the male chorus will have a rehearsal of the Easter music.

The prayer meeting on Thursday evening will be led by A. G. Nelson.

The pastor goes to Worcester on Tuesday to attend the annual eastern conference of Swedish Methodist churches. He will be gone until Monday April 10.

The services next Sunday will be in charge of T. Kjellander and A. F. Gustafson.

OWEN TREANOR DEAD.

Owen Treanor, one of Quincy's well known residents, passed away at his home on Coddington street this morning after an illness of some duration, aged 76 years. Mr. Treanor was a tailor by trade and years ago conducted a tailor shop under the firm name of Treanor & McRae. After the dissolution of that firm he had charge for some time of the repair department of a large Boston clothing firm. Of late years, however, he has conducted a tailoring repairing business at his home on Coddington street. He has been in poor health for some time. He leaves a widow and several step children.

The double house on the new Wollaston school lot was sold at auction on Saturday afternoon to Dennis F. Crowley at his bid of $450. The sale was conducted by James F. Burke. Bidding was slow it being confined to four or five contestants. Felix Favorite opened the bidding at $100 and from this it went in jumps of $25 until it reached $450 when it could not be raised another dollar. The terms of sale state that the building was to be sold exclusive of the foundation and shall be moved off the property within ten days. Of the two families that occupy the house one is moving out today and the other will also vacate as soon as a suitable house can be found. The new owner Mr. Crowley, was not sure as to his disposition of the building but will probably move it it a new lot in the vicinity.

NEW RECORDS AT Y. M. C. A.

Trask, McArdle and Claflin Were the Stars

The annual indoor championship events of the Y. M. C. A. were held in the local gymnasium Saturday evening. The meet was one of the most successful ever held in the local association for three new records were established and all the performances were of a high order. In the 15 yards dash, Trask equalled the record made by Phelan last year, and Phelan did the 220 in fine time. Inasmuch as this race has not been run before in the championship events the time cannot appear in comparison with former figures, but is probably two-fifths of a second better than has been done before. McArdle broke the association record in the running high jump by clearing 5ft. 5 in. Wood who took second place equalled the former record 5ft. 4 in.

Wilson was unable to equal his record of last year in the potato race but was only one-fifth of a second slower. McArdle was responsible for the breaking of a second record in the three broad jumps. The former mark of 29ft. 11in. was bettered by 1 1-2in.

In the shot put, Jim Claflin smashed the record badly by a put of 43ft. 4 1-4 in. which is 3ft. 1-4in. better than the performance by Tupper three years ago. The 1000 yard run was another new race which was initiated in good shape. Sutermeister set the figure at 2.46 1-5 which is a very good performance on a small track.

The relay race between the Seniors and the Intermediates was interesting throughout. Cranshaw, the first runner for the Intermediates handed over a small lead to Estey who was beaten by 2 yards by Dineen. Wilson maintained the lead over Trask and Phelan gained 5 yards on Holmes.

Trask led the field on individual points taking 1st in the 15yd. dash, 2nd in the 220, potato race and 3 broad jumps and 3rd in the high jump, making a total of 15 points. McArdle with first place in the jumps scored 10 points, Phelan scored 7 points with first in the 220 and a tie for second in the shot put. Wilson captured 6 points by winning the potato race and taking third place in the 3 broad jumps. Claflin and Sutermeister with one first place each scored 5 points apiece. Dineen, Cranshaw, Wood and Pletsch got 3 points each and Floyd and Avery each secured 1 point.

The prizes and honor ribbons will be given out ath gymnasium banquet on Thursday. Following the usual custom, the championship contests in the 440 yards dash and the running broad jump will be held out of doors a little later in spring.

MC GREGOR VICTORY

Score Only Goal However Against Lynn Fosse

In the Boston Association football league the McGregors defeated the Lynn Fosse team at the Water street grounds on Saturday by the score of 1 to 0. The lone goal was kicked in the latter part of the first period Simpson, outside right on the McGregors, booted the ball through the goal in a very pretty shot, just grazing the goal post and with scarcely sufficient room to get between the post and the goal tender.

A bleak wind was blowing down the field making the afternoon more comfortable for the players, scantily clad as they were than for poor benighted spectators. The visitors borrowed two men from the local team and both played an excellent game, Bob Robertson doing some good work at goal and Drysdale proving himself strong on the defensive at left back. Hendrie played a strong game at right back for the McGregors and Morgan did well for the Lynn team.

MAY LOSE HIS FOOT.

The many friends of Fred F. French, president of the Washington M. French Hose Association, will be sorry to learn that he has gone to the Boothby hospital to undergo an operation which may cost him the loss of a foot. Mr. French's trouble is reported to be blood poisoning, caused from cutting a corn on his toe. It may be necessary to amputate the foot to save his life.

THE DEATH OF W. B. HOLLIS

Judge Avery holds Motorman NotCriminally Responsible

Judge Avery made his return this noon on the inquest held before him to determine the cause of death of W. B. Hollis at Newcomb square January 5.

The report says that it finds Hollis came to his death by a fracture of the skull caused by being thrown from his two-horse barge and striking on the frozen ground.

Hollis was driving across the railroad track at right angles with the track when the car with B. W. Litchfield as motorman, coming down an incline at a speed of eight miles an hour, struck the barge and threw it over. This incline is a dangerous spot and the utmost caution should be used by drivers of teams using this crossing. If the car had come to a full stop before coming down the incline the accident could have been avoided, but as it was the speed was such as could not be overcome by the motorman.

It appeared from the evidence, said the report, that six men were riding in the vestibule of the car. The presence of passengers in a vestibule tends to hamper the motorman and should not be allowed.

The circumstances of the accident do not implicate the motorman of negligence, and he should not be held criminally responsible for the death of Hollis.

COUNTY AND SOUTH SHORE

Little Items of Interest In Towns About Quincy

At the April meeting of the Dedham Historical society on Wednesday, Warren H. Manning of Brookline will speak on "Types of early homes in New England."

The only towns in this vicinity to get new State highways this year are Abington, Plymouth and Plainville.

Albert Wood of Dedham passed away on Friday, March 31, in his 70th year.

Bishop Lawrence will make his annual visit to Christ Episcopal church at Hyde Park on Tuesday evening.

Uncataquissett tribe of Red Men of Milton held a memorial service in Odd Fellows' hall, River street at 3 o'clock Sunday.

Norwood holds a special town meeting tonight to consider the appointing of a committee of five to consider a new charter. It is known that some of the heaviest taxpayers favor a new charter plan that will give a government more like that of a city.

Ira G. Hersey, George Whiting, Charles Jenney, Rev. Cecil Harper and Edmund Daly have been appointed by the moderator of the town meeting as a special committee to consider the practicability and advisability of establishing playgrounds in various parts of Hingham and to report at the next annual meeting.

SPORTING NOTES.

Carnegie Tech is expecting to be represented at the Harvard Aero meet to be held on the field at Squantum, May 3, 4 and 5.

Thayer academy opens its baseball season next Friday evening in a game with Roxbury Latin school at South Braintree. Only three of last years team remain in school but there is an abundance of likely new material to draw from.

Dean Academy defeated Wellesley high school 33 to 0 in the opening game at Franklin on Saturday. The academy used practically three teams during the course of the game.

Oliver Ames defeated Westfield 46 to 25 in the second game of the series and the former claims the state championship on the strength of her better showing thus far in the series. The championship will not be conceded by Westfield until a third game is played on a neutral floor.

TWO REPORTS ON TROLLEY FREIGHT DEPOT

Strong Minority in Opposition But Favorable Order Takes One Reading

Prominent Citizens Advocate Hancock Street Widening

There was a large attendance of citizens at Monday night's meeting of the City Council. There were two matters that served to call out the attendance. One was the public hearing on the widening of Hancock street between Saville and Adams streets and the other was the trolley frieght depot. During the debate on the latter question Councilman Smith was called to the chair, and as a presiding officer he held the Councilmen to as strict parliamentary procedure as President Bryant is wont to do. Almost at the beginning of his presiding, bang went the gavel as he called President Bryant to order with a round turn as he deviated from the question. President Bryant said he appreciated the fact that the President pro tem had improved the opportunity to get back at him.

Councilmen Gardner, Craig and Cherrington were absent.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication received from Mayor Shea appointing Daniel R. McKay and Alfred W. Goodhue as constables. Confirmed.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing Ward W. Whitcher to serve astrustee of the Thomas Crane Library, to fill the unexpired term of George W. Morton, deceased. Placed on file.

The appointment of Henry W. French as a registrar of voters was taken from the file and confirmed.

PETITIONS.

Petitions were received from the Electric Light Co. for a location for poles on Clive street, and from the Telephone Co. for attachments on Federal avenue, Adams street, Intervale street and Franklin street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A petition that the Italian Cooperative society be granted a license to transport liquor was referred to the Committee on Licenses.

Several petitions remonstrating against the granting of a branch-off to the Street Railway Co., on Washington street were received and were referred.

HEARINGS.

A public hearing was held at 7.45 on petition of R. J. Teasdale to store fuses off Willard street. Mr. Teasdale appeared in favor and no one against and the hearing closed.

A hearing was also held on petitions of the New England Telephone Co. for attachments etc. There was no opposition and the order was recommitted.

HANCOCK STREET.

At 8 o'clock a hearing was held on the widening of Hancock street.

R. F. Claflin favored. It was a splendid thing to increase the width of this street. Quincy is bound to grow, and the widening would be done more economically now than ever again. It was wisdom while we may to make these changes. It was a decided advantage and would add to the general welfare of the city.

Theophilus King said as long as traffic could not be diverted on both sides it was wise to widen. Now is the time to widen the street.

Dr. John A. Gordon said it would be a general improvement. The street was narrow, especially so when the double track was considered. It would be a mistake to let this opportunity go.

Charles H. Hardwick heartily favored the proposition. The west side of the street was not safe at all times and was hard to keep in repair.

Charles H. Johnson favored. He also represented John W. Hall who was not opposed. All citizens will agree that any movement to improve the approaches to City Square are worth considering. The expenditure of money was warranted as it would improve the city.

John Q. A. Field said the time had come to look ahead. Here we have the small end of a great tunnel. With the cars this summer it will be impossible to cross. It seemed the time had now come to widen. It was an improvement and a necessity.

F. F. Crane appeared for the Board of Trade who agree that now is the proper time to widen.

At a request of the president, 47 stood up in favor. There was no opposition and the hearing closed.

GYPSY MOTH SPRAYER.

The Finance Committee reported an order for $1,375 for a gypsy moth sprayer. Ordered to a second reading.

ADVERSE REPORTS.

The Committee on Streets reported leave to withdraw on the petition for a culvert on Gilbert street, as the street is a private way. Accepted.

STREET WATERING.

The Committee on Streets reported on the street watering order recommending that the following streets be added. Walker street, Safford street from Elmwood avenue to North Central avenue and Maple street. Amendment accepted and order passed.

SEA STREET.

The Committee on Streets reported ought not to pass on the order appropriating $10,000 for rebuilding Sea street. Report accepted.

The same committee reported leave to withdraw on the petition that Quincy street be watered or oiled. Report accepted.

TO EXECUTIVE.

The same committee reported an order for a public hearing April 17, on petitions of the Electric Light Co., for a location for poles. Adopted.

CRESCENT STREET.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing May 1 on the order restricting Crescent street to pleasure vehicles. Adopted.

STREET WIDENING.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing May 1, on the widening of Hancock street between Granite and School streets; the widening of School street at the corner of Franklin street; and widening Garfield street. Adopted.

Ought not to pass on the order appropriating $500 to repair Nelson street. Accepted.

PLEASURE DRIVE.

The Committee on Public Grounds reported an order for $6,000 for the building of a pleasure drive through Merrymount park. Referred to Finance Committee.

NO LEGISLATION.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported no legislation necessary on the communications from the School Committee relative to drinking fountains and from the Commissioner relative to repairs of the public scales. Accepted.

TROLLEY FREIGHT TRACK.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the Street railway a location for a branch-off track on Washington street to the proposed freight terminal. The order provides that the street shall be paved between the rails and eighteen inches outside with vitrified brick, that the concrete sidewalk where torn up shall be replaced and that a man with a red flag shall precede a car entering or leaving the yard in the day time and a man with a red light at night.

A letter from the Railway Co., accompanying the order, said that the company will pave Washington street

CITY RECEIPTS TO APRIL 1

Big Gain in Taxes But Small Gain from Water

City—1

The collection of taxes for 1911 continues to show a large increase over 1910 and 1909, as will be seen by the March 31 report of City Auditor Fairbanks:

1911 to April 1,	$128,244.16
1910 to April 1,	93,562.81
1909 to April 1,	70,888.30

WATER RECEIPTS.

Although there have been a large number of new services installed the water receipts advance very slowly. The receipts below are practically for six months as bills are sent only twice a year, in January and July:

1911 to April 1,	$48,819.28
1910 to April 1,	46,172.39
1909 to April 1,	44,408.56

The increase in receipts does not justify the large appropriations for installation of meters. Without meters the receipts would have been larger.

The receipts from sewer assessments are small, $5,769.67 to April 1 against $5,078.58 in 1910 and $3,466.11 in 1909.

From sewer house connections the receipts of 1911 were $1,184.83, against $1,639.19 in 1910, and $1,489.75 in 1909.

WATER LOANS.

Mayor Shea is attending the hearing at the State House today on the bill to authorize the city to borrow $200,000 outside the debt limit to extend the water system. As far as known there is no objection to the bill. There is also no objection to the proposition of Councilman Branch that the bill provide that loans made under it shall not extend over a longer period than 20 years. Heretofore 30 years was the limit at which loans could be extended.

"BETWEEN THE GREAT THINGS,
WE CANNOT DO
AND THE SMALL THINGS
WE WILL NOT DO
THE DANGER IS THAT WE SHALL DO NOTHING."

MEN'S CLUB.

At a meeting of the Christ church Men's club held in the parish house Monday evening, Henry P. Dowst of the Pilgrim Publicity association talked on "Advertising." Mr. Dowst spoke in formally and delighted his hearers by bringing out the points of his address in a very humorous fashion. His ideas on the subject of advertising have been heard in Quincy before since he spoke at a Merchants association meeting last winter. Following the address, the member asked questions to their heart's content. The usual refreshments were served by the social committee the latter part of the evening.

THE MORNING FIRE.

The alarm from Box 36 at 11.16 this noon was for a fire in a double house at 24 Quincy street. The house was occupied by Mrs. O'Brien and J. F. Brown. The Brown family moved out this morning and a lot of old rubbish was thrown into the back yard. Some boys set it on fire to burn it up, with the result that the L took fire. This communicated with a hen house which was badly scorched and some hens were roasted. The fire was burning in good shape when the apparatus arrived. It was soon under control. The loss will not exceed $100. The house was owned by Mrs. Messier.

BANQUET AT ATLANTIC.

The banquet of the Atlantic Extension club of the Y. M. C. A. was held in the Memorial church Monday evening with a large attendance. At the after dinner exercises Harry Wilson as toastmaster introduced as speakers, W. F. Blake, William Arthur, L. H. Clee and D. P. Ranney of Harvard. Mr. Ranney is a member of the Harvard track team specializing in the 440 and 220 yard dashes. He is also leader of the Mandolin club and a member of the Hasty Pudding club taking one of the leading feminine roles in this year's play. He told them something about the different organizations, spoke of the training the track men had to go through and its value in other things and gave an idea of what college spirit means to a man who is called upon to represent his college in any way.

The members in charge of the banquet were: Clifton Young and Harry Burr.

DR. GIFFORD AT YOUNG PEOPLE'S RALLY

Bethany Society Wins Banner by Larges Attendance

The bi-monthly meeting of the East Norfolk Christian Endeavor Union was held in the First Presbyterian church, Water street, Monday evening. About 500 young people from Quincy and neighboring towns were present. Special music was rendered by the Presbyterian church choir, by Miss Minnie Miller, soprano soloist, and Wendell Clark, cornet soloist.

The East Norfolk Union voted to invite the County Union to meet under its auspices in 1912, the place of meeting to be decided later. The three largest churches in the union are Bethany Congregational, Holbrook Congregational and Wollaston Baptist, and in all probability one of these will be the entertaining church.

The union banner was won by Bethany Congregational with a percentage of 75. Wollaston Congregational was second with 72 percent, and United Presbyterian third with 71. The entertaining society, the First Presbyterian, which was not in the competition for the banner had 88 percent of its members present.

Rev. James A. Matheson, pastor of the entertaining society, gave the address of welcome. Dr. Edwin N. Hardy, the Union councilor, had charge of the devotional exercises.

The speaker of the evening was Dr. O. P. Gifford of Brookline, who spoke on the theme "Good citizenship." His address was based on two of Theodore Roosevelt's maxims, "Be sure you're right," and "Seek points of contact." Dr. Gifford's speech was replete with humor, and those clean-cut epigrams which have made him famous, and the audience was held at perfect attention for nearly an hour. The meeting was one of the most enthusiastic of the year and will serve as a forerunner of the county convention in Foxboro on Patriot's day.

The next bi-monthly meeting will be held on June 5, either in Atlantic Memorial church or Bethany church. It will be the annual business meeting and the 20th anniversary of the union will be celebrated in connection with it.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

For a time it may be wise to speak when mentioning the early accession of spring.

One day's work raking up the garden does much to destroy the spring illusions of the lazy man.

Chicago women may be taking up hat trimming as a fad, but we fear the day of the old fashioned woman who made her husbands clothes is over.

The beef packers who confessed their sins six years ago, thought they could keep on robbing the cattle grower and consumer, without punishment but Judge Anderson told them that they must now take their punishment like other criminals. An upright Judge.

Edward Green, son of Hetty, and heir to enough money to sink a battleship, having incidentally remarked that he was lonely, is receiving several hundred letters a week from girls who think they could stand being Hetty's daughter-in-law. Not only are free and independent American girls offering themselves but a real live countess, has got into the game. She thinks that if her brothers can come to America and pick up rich wives there is no reason why she shouldn't utilize the same method for the securing of a husband, with lots of ducats.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Another week of discussion consideration and preparation and then the whole matter of depression will be laid before the Legislature. If the members of the committee were residents of Lynn they would readily understand the feeling of the people in favor of depression. Not only are individuals taking an interest in the subject, but organizations have taken the matter up and resolved in favor of the proposed change. When the hearing takes place there should be a demonstration that will convince the committee of the importance of the change, and the unanimity of the people of Lynn in a desire to accomplish it. This is no time for regrets for what is past, but a forward glance and forward action is the requirement of the hour. The construction already completed was needed as an object lesson to convince some people that a change was an imperative necessity. They realized that it would be expensive but they know it will be worth more than it will cost. The four-track proposition was Lynn's salvation, and that our city has risen so handsomely to the possibilities which the plan presented is a pleasant demonstration of civic pride that is most encouraging. Let the Legislature see what the rising of a people means, and the prayer of the petitioners is sure to be answered.—Lynn Item.

Boston will segregate the sexes in its high schools. There will be separate schools for boys and girls throughout the city, making general a practice which is now only partial. This change seems to be in accordance with the best opinion among educators and is in keeping with the trend in institutions for the higher learning. Co-education has been tried in the colleges, and fairly tried, and the conviction is that the best results have not been obtained. Boys and girls and young women seem to make better progress when there is a separation of the sexes. To provide for their instruction in that way seems on the whole the best educational policy.—Framingham News.

GOES TO BOSTON CHURCH

Rev. Carl H. Raupach Accepts Call of St. Andrews Church

Rev. Carl H. Raupach preached an earnest, helpful, as well as thoughtful sermon, on "When a great ambition fails," at the Hall Place M. E. church Sunday morning. He took for his text Luke 13:34—"Oh, Jerusalem, Jesusalem, which killest the prohets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee; how often would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen doth gather her brood under her wings and ye would not!"

He pictured vividly the great disappointment which must have come to Jesus as looked out over the Holy City and realized that he had failed to reach the hearts of this chosen people, and urged all present to hear and accept the call of Jesus Christ to open their hearts to Him and to take him into the life.

Sunday school was held at the close of the morning service, also Junior League at 3 P. M. and Epworth League at 6.15.

This being the last Sunday of the present Conference year, the pastor at the evening service gave some very interesting facts concerning the work of his pastorate. Rev. Richard H. Moyle lead in prayer.

Mr. Raupach has been pastor of the Hall Place M. E. church for three and one-half years. With but one exception, and that being Father Kelly who served six years, as the first pastor of the church, Mr. Raupach has been pastor of the church longer than any other minister, Rev. C. W. Wilder being next, who served three years. Mr. Raupach spoke of the fact that during his ministry in West Quincy there had been changes in the pastors of sixteen English speaking churches in the city.

He said that he was not closing his pastorate here because he had been requested to do so, or because any one had expressed a desire to have him go, and not because he had not been invited again and again to remain here, but because he felt it would be best for the kingdom of God in this community that he should go.

He spoke of the fact that there had been changes in the membership of the church, but that while several had taken letters to churches in other places and some had passed into the Heavenly Fold, yet there had been a net gain of 28, and here he spoke of Rev. R. H. Moyle and Mrs. Moyle who are to go to Maine and take up the work of the ministry there.

He also spoke on the financial condition of the church and the improvements to the church property. He said that while the work has been hard, yet he has always enjoyed it, and although it has been necessary for him to take some decided stands, and make some severe moves, yet he had done it all in true love for the cause of the Blessed Master, and he believed the time would come when all the people would realize and understand that it was necessary, and he expressed his appreciation and thanks to all who had helped in any way during his pastorate here, and urged all to be faithful in the service of the Master.

Mr. Raupach has been in the ministry thirteen years, and had been a member of the East Maine conference previous to the conference held in April 1910, at which time he was admitted to the New England conference. He came to West Quincy in October, 1907, from Fort Fairfield, Me., where he had served as pastor for four years.

At the time Mr. Raupach came to West Quincy, the Hall Place M. E. church was laboring under difficulties, having been without a pastor for three months. Mr. Raupach has been a faithful untiring worker, and as a result has built this work up so that the church is now in a good condition. A number of improvements have been made in the church property. During the first year of his work here a new lighting system was installed throughout the church, and art glass windows were placed in the church auditorium, while during the second year the belfry and clock were repaired and the church thoroughly painted on the outside. During the past year good work has been done along evangelistic lines.

Mr. Raupach has been an earnest, faithful pastor and efficient leader of his people, ever thoughtful of the spiritual needs of his people, conscientious and zealous in the work of the Kingdom, laboring diligently and prayerfully for the best interests of the community, showing both by his words and his life the close communion he had with his Heavenly Father, and ever trying to shed abroad the love of Christ in the hearts of his people.

It is with regret that the people here let him go, yet he goes carrying with him the love of the people of this church and with best wishes and earnest prayers for his success eleswhere, and knowing that he will ever be welcomed by this people.

Both morning and evening services closed with the singing of "God be with you till we meet again."

The New England conference will open on Wednesday in the Harvard Street M. E. church, Cambridge.

Mr. Raupach has received a call to St. Andrews church, Roxbury Crossing and has accepted subject to the powers of the conference which will convene on Wednesday.

A LETTER FROM LINCOLN

It Keeps an Aged Woman In the Employ of the Government

Washington, April 4.—Forty-seven years ago—April 3, 1864—Abraham Lincoln paused in the midst of the cares of Civil war for one of those kind and homely acts which have lived after him. It was to pen a personal letter to the postmaster general asking that official to employ Miss Susan Dugger of Carlinsville, Ills., who was the sole support of her brother, a Union soldier, crippled at Shiloh. Miss Dugger got a position and preserved the letter religiously.

Secretary MacVeagh, after reading the same letter yesterday, although the paper has yellowed with age and the ink is dim, ordered that Miss Dugger's name be not dropped from the treasury list of employes, though she has been ill more than a year. When an employe has been absent without pay that length of time, it is customary to strike the name from the rolls.

Senator Cullom brought the letter to Secretary MacVeagh, who promised that Miss Dugger may have her old position if she is ever able to work again. She is now 70 years of age.

ELEVEN MEN MISSING

"Phantom Ship" May Be the Goodwin of Gloucester

Curling, N. F., April 4.—If the missing Gloucester fishing schooner Ella M. Goodwin and the several derelict vessels reported drifting about this section of the North Atlantic during the past few weeks are one and the same, and it is believed by many, the Gloucester fisherman deserves the name now generally applied to her by Newfoundlanders, "The Phantom Ship of the Ice Floes."

Since Jan. 21, when the Goodwin was returning from the herring fisheries, her crew of eleven men has not been heard from. But since that time vessel after vessel resembling the Goodwin has been reported at various points as drifting derelict.

If Captain Goodwin, her master, and his ten men are living, it is surmised that they are on the coast of Labrador, which has been under an ice embargo for months.

ITALIANS HELD FOR AN INVESTIGATION

Eight Arrive at Boston by Unusual Steamship Route

Boston, April 4.—It is unusual for Italians to reach Boston on any but steamers coming direct from Italy. Eight arrived Monday on the Marquette from Antwerp. On any occasion their coming in such manner would be looked upon with suspicion by the immigration authorities; but at present, considering the trial of the Camorrists in Italy, suspicion was increased and the Italians were retained for further examination.

None had the penal certificate which is issued to all Italians leaving Italy, along with a passport. The penal certificate is to show whether the bearer has been guilty of crime or misdemeanor. Some of the group did not even have passports. They all claimed that they had been in the United States previously, but none could speak English well. The eight apparently were laborers.

CANNOT TRUST HIMSELF

Paroled Murderer Voluntarily Returns to State Prison

Stillwater, Minn., April 4.—"Sinbad the Sailor," whose real name is Charles Price, and who has been out of Stillwater state prison since Aug. 1, 1910, on parole, has voluntarily returned to the prison.

He was sent to prison in 1898, having been convicted of murder in the second degree.

When he arrived here on one of his regular visits he told the officers that he was afraid temptation would be too great for him, and that he did not want to violate the conditions of his parole.

SECOND LOT SEIZED

More "Jelly Beans" Fall Into the Hands of Pure Food Inspectors

Providence, April 4.—The second recent seizure of confectionery in this city under the pure food laws was made when United States Inspectors Raynor and Adams of Boston confiscated 1000 pounds of "jelly beans" and 800 pounds of cocoa almonds, alleged to contain talc, an injurious mineral.

The candy was shiped here by a large confectionery manufacturing company of Boston. A thousand pounds of the "jelly beans" were seized here on March 23.

Aeroplane For South Pole

London, April 4.—Dr. Douglas Mawson, the Australian who is planning a trip to the Antarctic, has decided to take an aeroplane with him as part of his outfit.

Dublin Will Not Welcome King

Dublin, April 4.—By a vote of 42 to 98, the city corporation rejected a motion to present an address of welcome to King George on his forthcoming visit.

TWO REPORTS ON TROLLEY FREIGHT

with vitrified brick from a point five feet south of the southerly entrance to the lot for a distance of 135 feet north, also that the building erected on the lot shall be in accordance with the sketch accompanying the order.

Councilman Ericson presented a minority report that the petitioners be given leave to withdraw. He moved the substitution of the minority for the majority report.

Councilman Ericson, in support of his report, said he had no objection to the trolley freight, but the street was too narrow. The street should be widened to 50 feet and the tracks put in the centre. It would be dangerous as now.

PRESIDENT SMITH.

Councilman Bailey was astounded at the report of the committee. The location was extremely dangerous. A more dangerous location could not have been picked out. There were other locations that were better. He could not understand who was present at the meeting of the committee and overawed the committee. Red afigs and lanterns would not be used unless the railroad considered it dangerous. There would be a line up of trucks and teams and the street would have to be widened. The City of Quincy never looks ahead but goes on the basis of immediate needs. He had no feeling against the railway but the location should not be granted at this point.

Councilman Leslie said it seemed that someone was at that meeting with a big hammer. He was glad to know one member brought in a minority report. The street was 49 feet wide, from sidewalk to sidewalk, and but 25 feet outside the tracks for traffic. All know the traffic on Washington street, especially in the summer time. The street is not wide enough and nothing should be put there to add to the congestion. He had spent the greater part of the day on this question.

The privilege would be unlimited. In Brockton he had found at the trolley freight house they were in the habit of storing goods. He also found business not confined to small packages, but to horses and cows. A cow in a crate may stay there all night. We should do what we can for the future of the city. It will be nothing but a freight station in what in ten years should be the most beautiful part of the city. We are gradually getting rid of some of the old eyesores. The Post Office the Y. M. C. A., and the Public Library, are the kind of buildings we want to see. He did not think this in the line of progress. He also spoke of the two petitions one of which he said contained the names of many employes. He appealed to the civic pride of the city.

Councilman Histen felt there would be no congestion. When the depot was to be erected there had been a stable. It was the intention to operate two cars in and two cars out a day. The office will be closed at 6 P. M. until morning, and on Saturdays at 6 o'clock until Monday morning. The most of the travel on the street is on Sundays when the building is closed. It was advantageous that the depot should be as central as possible.

Councilman Nowland favored the minority report. He could not help but believe that there would be congestion there when the car swings across the street. He did not see how traffic could be handled with two cars a day. He favored a trolley freight, but a different location for the depot.

Councilman Bolster said he had looked into this question. He found in Brockton there were but six cars a day. He could not see where there would be any congestion. We get nothing out of these automobiles and it would be a good thing to make them slow up. He did not see why the city should cater to the autos. He found the owners of adjoining property were not against it. People against it are working from purely personal motives. If the property is not used for a trolley freight depot it will be used for a stable and this was much preferable to a stable.

Councilman Sodergren favored the minority report. A stable could be regulated by the Board of Health.

Councilman Smith was called to the chair.

Councilman Sandberg said that the railway will put up a nice building and had agreed to all the committee required.

Councilman Studley could not see that there would be any congestion. There was plenty of opportunity for teams in the yard. At Quincy Point where the track branched off into Wharf street there are two lines of coal teams and cars yet there was no congestion.

President Bryant—We have heard criticism that a committee of six are bullied by a big stick and five succumbed to the stick. He did not know if he was the big stick referred to or not. He was present and the railway had agreed to what he considered a hard bargain? He was not a railway man and never had been.

Bang went the gavel as the acting president said the gentleman will please confine himself to the question.

Replying, President Bryant said he appreciated the fact of his being called to order, and the opportunity the acting president had to get back at him.

Continuing to the question, he said, as far as congestion is concerned he did not believe the trolley freight would congest the traffic one bit. The railway was willing to agree to most anything. The gentleman who presented the minority report was the one who stood out for the paving of the whole street. We are getting 135 feet of the street paved for nothing. That eliminates the jounces for there can be no jounces with vitrified brick. As far as autos are concerned it might be a good thing to make them stop. The question of a red flag was the suggestion of the member from Ward Two, meaning Councilman Studley. The railroad said it was not necessary, but they would agree to it. One of the crying needs are better freight facilities. It now takes three or four days to get freight from New York to Quincy, and then it is delivered late at night.

He knew the company had looked at several places. When people knew the railway wanted a location the price would go up, as the company was obliged to show its hand. This was the first time he had ever agreed with the railroad. If the time comes when Washington street must be widened, and he believed it would come, we can dicker with the railroad when it asks for double tracks, and we will find them in the same receptive mood as when it was proposed to widen Hancock street between Granite and Cottage streets.

At this point he showed a plan of the lots in the immediate neighborhood on which was indicated the owners of adjacent property who did not oppose. Any one looking at the old delapidated buildings will find them for sale. This means he believed business blocks and more revenue for the city. He could not see why anyone could object.

Councilman Bailey asked of President Bryant if word was sent to the objectors to keep away?

President Bryant, replying, said the committee was not the proper place when all objections has been heard at the public hearing. When the question of certain things the committee desired came up, some one in authority to answer for the railroad was sent for. He did not make any argument for the location.

Councilman Leslie said in Brockton the freight house was from one half to three quarters of a mile from the City Hall, and business was equally as far away. He was not against the trolley freight. He believed it a good thing but the building should not be on our best streets.

Councilman Jenkins favored minority report. They say there is no other land that can be had reasonable yet are willing to spend large amounts to get this. Members of the City Council are too easily influenced. The question should be looked into further. It was impossible for teams to turn around in the yard. He did not see how anyone who represented the people could vote for it.

Councilman Bryant replied that he did not know he was easily influenced. He did not take any stock in the petitions. There is a driveway 31 feet 6 inches wide which gives plenty of room to turn around.

Councilman Histen said that he was not easily influenced, but was speaking from his own idea.

Councilman Nowland did not think that the committee was unduly influenced. It seemed to him, however, that a petition of 200 names was worth something.

Councilman Bryant said that he had seen some of the signers to that petition and after the matter had been explained they said they did not have any objection.

Councilman Leslie asked if there was any of those gentlemen present.

President Bryant replied that his word had never been doubted, and if the gentlemen would give some of his time tomorrow he would introduce him to some of the men he had referred to.

Councilman Richards opposed the report and favored the minority. There were certain features that were objectionable. All agree that we have what should be considered as a "civic centre" of the city. Mr. Conway had come to him and he had told him he would not oppose if the location was not objectionable. But after looking at it he felt that it was not the ideal location. The people who signed the petition in opposition were those that were interested in the civic pride and beauty of the city.

It was not considered for the best interest of the city to locate the depot here. One clergyman said that it would be dangerous to children. The very fact that the railroad agreed to the danger signal shows they realize the dangerous place it is. The street here is but 49 feet and tonight we heard that Hancock street where it was 80 feet was too narrow. The people of North Weymouth and places south want a double track. All know that cars cannot be noiseless on a curve. We have just as much reason to look out for strangers as we have for ourselves. He did not believe it was fair to have one side before the committee and not the other. The railroad can get other locations.

Councilman Histen undertook to read a letter written by Councilman Richards last October praising the trolley freight but was not allowed to by the President.

The question was then on accepting the minority report. On a rising vote of 8 in favor and 11 against the minority report was not accepted.

The vote was as follows:

YES—Leslie, Nowland, Richards, Bailey, Campbell, Ericson, Jenkins, Sodergren—8.

NO—Duffy, Sandberg, Studley, Bolster, Branch, Bryant, Ross, Histen, Forde, Parlee, Boyd—11.

NOT VOTING—Acting President Smith.

ABSENT—Craig, Cherrington, Gardner.

The report of the committee was then accepted by a rising vote, 12 yes and 7 no.

Councilman Nowland moved to lay on the table. Motion lost.

The order was then ordered to a second reading.

ILLUMINATED CLOCK.

Councilman Jenkins offered an order for the clock on the Quincy school building to be illuminated. Referred to Executive.

CROSSWALK.

Councilman Bolster offered an order for a crosswalk on Franklin street from the residence of G. H. Field to the Adams birthplaces. Referred to Committee on Streets.

KENT STREET.

Councilman Boyd offered an order for $2,000 for rebuilding Kent street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

WATER LOANS.

Councilman Branch offered an order that the Committee on Legislative matters attend the hearing at the State House Tuesday on the bill to allow the City of Quincy to borrow money outside the debt limit to extend the water system and urge that the loans made under the bill shall not exceed twenty years. On motion of Councilman Smith the order was amended so as to read the Chairman of the Finance Committee. Adopted.

INFORMATION WANTED.

Councilman Sandberg offered a resolve that the Mayor inform the Council what had been done toward protecting the land at the foot of Bell street given the city from being washed away by the sea. Adopted.

CITY HALL.

Councilman Sandberg offered a resolve asking the Mayor to forward a plan and estimate for providing for more office room at City Hall. Adopted.

"BOY BROKER" ON WAY HOME

Davie Leaves Rio Janeiro In Company of Inspectors

MANY TECHNICAL OBSTACLES

They Are Overcome and All the Red Tape of Extradition Has Been Complied With—Police In Every Capital In World Had Been on Lookout For Man Charged With $500,000 Thefts

Boston, April 4.—Robert E. Davie, the Boston "boy broker," charged with thefts from scores of prominent persons amounting to at least $500,000, sailed from Rio Janeiro today in the custody of Inspectors Burr and Pelton of this city. The two officers will bring Davie back to Boston for trial.

The news that Davie had been extradited was received with gratification by the Boston police. From the time they first received word of his apprehension in Rio Janeiro until the officers sailed for Brazil, all sorts of technical obstacles were met and cleared in the efforts to bring Davie back to this city for trial.

The first setback that the police received in their efforts to get Davie came when the request to the state department for extradition papers was refused. Secretary Knox replied that Davie could not be extradited under the existing treaty with Brazil, as Davie was charged with larceny and larceny was not an extraditable charge.

Word was then sent to Knox that larceny in Massachusetts was the same as embezzlement. For the purpose of being absolutely sure Davie was again indicted and this time for embezzlement. With these facts a new request was made of the state department. The papers were issued and on March 4 Pelton and Burr sailed from New York.

By the time Davie reaches this city eight months will have elapsed since his flight and the subsequent discovery of his gigantic stock operations.

The capture came after six months of search. Every capital in the world was notified of Davie's disappearance, and the police in each instance were furnished with his description.

Toward the time of his capture the search had narrowed to the South American ports. Certain stock which Davie had taken with him and disposed of led Chief of Detectives Watts to the belief that he had gone to Brazil. Finally word came from the United States consul there that Davie had been provisionally arrested at his order.

THREAT OF FORMER PAL

New York, April 4.—"And tell 'The Twinkler' from me that when I serve me bit he'll get his," was the message which was brought to Morris Glatz, five years ago, when his testimony sent to Dannemora prison for a five-year term a pickpocket who had been his companion. Glatz laughed. As 'The Tinkler" he had been notorious as a pickpocket.

Glatz, one of the foremost detectives attached to the Long Island railroad, put a bullet through his head yesterday afternoon. Even the closest of Glatz's friends did not know of the threat that hung over him. They did not know, either, that the prison term of that one-time friend will expire this week.

New York, April 4.—At a meeting of the New York Association of the Blind, when final plans for the opening of the Blind Workers' exhibition in the Metropolitan Opera house were made, Henry Bauman asked the privilege of supplying the chair President Taft is to occupy during the initial ceremonies.

Bauman has been blind for more than thirty years. The chair he is to make for the president is to be in massive mission style, with upholstered arms and seat.

Railroads Win In Liquor Trial

Washington, April 4.—The supreme court decided against the state of Oklahoma in the case involving the statute prohibiting the carrying of intoxicating liquors into the state. Twenty railroads and express companies were defendants in the case brought by the commonwealth.

Woman Burned to Death

Swampscott, Mass., April 4.—Mrs. Mary J. Allard, aged 77 years, was burned to death in the kitchen of her home. She was cooking at the kitchen range when her clothing caught fire. The flames communicated to the house, which was damaged to the extent of $300.

Despondent Man a Suicide

Lowell, Mass., April 4.—Despondent over loss of work and the serious illness of his wife, James Keegan, aged 40, shot himself twice in the heart at his home in this city. He died almost immediately.

CAUGHT NAPPING.

There was a hearing Monday at the state house upon the bill of Louis M. Clark to extend the time for filing petitions for the assessment of damages caused by the abolition of certain grade crossings in the Dorchester district of Boston.

The purpose, says the Globe, is to provide that petitions to the superior court for assessment of damages under the decree entered on Oct. 12, 1907, may be brought at any time before July 1, 1911, and any petition already brought or which shall be brought before said time, shall have the same effect as if said petition had been brought within the time prescribed by law.

Beside Mr. Clark, the petitioner, Atty. Charles T. Gallagher for certain petitioners in Harrison square and John A. Brett urged the passage of the bill on the ground that under the present act the time is too indefinite, that it dates from the issuing of the decree and that in Neponset and Dorchester it was from 18 months to three years before any work was done on which a petition for damages might be based.

Atty. Arthur P. Russell for the New Haven railroad said that the work at Neponset was begun when the railroad began to purchase land for the abolition of grade crossings, which was immediately after the decree. He thought that on the consolidation of petitions made by the superior court some little time ago the rights of all parties were conserved and not infringed upon.

WHITE—BIRD.

Monday evening, the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Bird of 14 Central street, So. Braintree was the scene of a pretty home wedding when their daughter, Elveretta Persis Bird was united in marriage to Henry Arthur White, only son of Henry M. White of 831 Washington street, South Braintree. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George H. Parkinson, pastor of the South M. E. church who journeyed from South Manchester, Conn., where he was attending the annual conference of Methodist churches, to be present for the nuptuals. The groom was attended by Frank Bromade of Randolph and Miss Beatrice Bird gowned in a becoming pongee silk dress served as bridesmaid. The bride was given away by her father. She was charmingly gowned in light blue satin and carried brides roses. The wedding march was played by Miss Annie Kane of Quincy. The ceremony was performed under a large white bell and the interior of the house was attractively decorated with ferns, potted plants and cut flowers. The groom presented his best man with an amethyst stick pin and the bridesmaid received a gold signet ring.

The bride was born in Braintree, Jan. 25, 1894 and attended the public and high schools here. She was associated with the George W. Prescott Publishing Co., for a time working in the Observer office in South Braintree. She is a member of the Krow Eldeen society which is connected with the South M. E. church. The groom Henry Arthur White is also a native of Braintree. He attended the public schools and graduated from the High school with the class of 1907. Afterwards he took a number of special courses with the Y. M. C. A. of Boston in electricity and mechanical engineering. He is a member of an orchestra which has given much pleasure to the music loving public playing the violin part.

After the ceremony and wedding reception, refreshments of ices cakes confections and punch were served. Miss Cora Sherwood of Boston rendered soprano solos in her usual pleasing manner. The young couple left later in the evening for an extended wedding trip which will include Niagara Falls and other points of interest when they return they will be at home for a time at 14 Central street. Guests were present from Boston, Randolph, Rockland and Braintree, who unite with the many friends, neighbors and relatives of the young couple in wishing them many years of health, happiness and prosperity.

—Associations for the prevention of tuberculosis have been formed in Cuba, Porto Rico and Trinidad. In Cuba there are over 40,000 deaths from tuberculosis every year, and the death rate from this disease is nearly three times as high as in the United States. In Porto Rico there are over 6,000 deaths every year out of 1,000,000 inhabitants. In Trinidad, the death rate from tuberculosis in Port-of-Spain, the only place where figures are available was 4.75 per 1000 in 1909, nearly three times the rate in New York city. Conditions in the other islands of the West Indies, where no active campaign against tuberculosis has been undertaken, are even worse. The chief reason for this high mortality is found in the unsanitary dark, and poorly ventilated houses of the natives of the islands.

With a constantly aching back;
With annoying urinary disorders.
Doan's Kidney Pills make work easier.
They cure backache.
They cure kidney ills.

James P. Daugherty, Hammond Place Quincy, Mass. says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to let other sufferers know what they have done for me. I was bothered a great deal by backache and had but little strength or energy to get through with my day's work. I took many so-called kidney cures, but did not succeed in finding relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at the Cox Drug Store. I was surprised and gratified by the prompt way in which they relieved me. My back was soon strong and free from pain and I felt better in every respect. I would go to considerable trouble to get anyone to use Doan's Kidney Pills, as I have so much confidence in their merit."

NEW DECORATIONS AND FURNISHINGS.

Great Improvement in Home Fittings —The Living Room Superseding The Drawing Room or Parlor—Comfort and Utility Combined With Beauty—Glass Newel Posts and Colonial Reading Lamps.

Great strides are being made in the furnishing and decorating of average homes. Fitness is the keynote to good furnishing, so the kitchen, where the fittings are chosen solely for utility, often measures up more satisfactorily from the standpoint of taste, than the parlor or drawing room where display has been the prime motive of selection. The living room is superseding the more formal, and comparatively useless, company apartments, and even the casual guest has a share of the hospitality that lurks only where the household assembles. Substatiality replaces the fussy flimsiness of the old time reception room, and hominess rather than would be elegance characterizes the new type of household furnishing. Fittings are carefully chosen to not only please the eye and accord with one another in color and style, but to stand wear, and minister to the comfort and ease of home living.

A CERTAIN SPACIOUSNESS.

A certain spaciousness is possible even in a small apartment, where the furnishing is adapted to the rooms. The light colored wall hangings so much used now, increase the apparent size of a small house, especially if the same tone is continuously employed, as is customary in halls, or if varying tones of one color are used. Any amount of variety can be secured by the furniture, draperies, upholsteries and pictures. Grays and oyster white and oatmeal, or brownish gray are all favorites though browns from tan to deeper tones are also much used for wall hangings.

THE ENTRANCE HALL.

The entrance hall should give the motif for the decoration of the rooms on the first floor and indeed should accord with all the rooms, since the hall decorations are supposed to continue uniformly throughout the house. Floor coverings should also be uniform on halls and stairs where a hard wood finish does not supply this evenness of color. A few substantial rather rather strongly colored rugs in runner or other shapes to suit the space will offer enough diversity of coloring, and can be added to from time to time. It is always a mistake to finish up the furnishing of a house all at once. Buy only the necessities and take time for selecting, the other things if you want your house to possess character and attractiveness.

NEW WALL HANGINGS.

There is little that is new in wall decorations except the wood veneers, but all the well known hangings come in new colorings and patterns in the soft neutral grays and browns and tans that are so much liked just now. The washable wall hanging—Sanitas comes in "Jasper stripes" and in all the chintz and other fashionable patterns with a soft mat finish, as well as in imitations of tile, burlaps and leather. This costs a little more than wall paper but as it never fades and a damp sponge freshens it indefinitely it is an economical choice for the owner of the house. Borders are either in wide pictures friezes, or are very narrow and in the latter case are placed below the picture mouldings.

NOVELTIES.

Glass newel post tops are novel and where the house is supplied with electricity one of the new Colonial style reading lamps that can be carried around at will, is a much appreciated luxury.

CHICAGO VOTING FOR NEW MAYOR

Great Precautions Being Taken to Prevent a Fraud

HARRISON IS THE FAVORITE

Two Hundred Special Officers and Every Policeman In City on Duty, as Well as Watchers For Leading Candidates—Primary Candidate of Democrats Bolted by Large Number, but Has Support of Lorimer Republicans

Chicago, April 4.—Extraordinary precautions are being taken to prevent fraud today at the municipal election, at which a mayor will be chosen.

Charges of fraudulent registration, especially in the downtown wards, resulted in issuance of special orders by the election board and the police department to safeguard the polling places and to make arrests where suspicions of repeating are aroused.

Chief of Police Steward ordered every policeman to report for duty today. He assigned one policeman to each of the 1324 precincts. The election commission appointed 200 special officers to be detailed in the leading down town wards. Each of the leading candidates, Carter H. Harrison, Democratic, and Charles E. Merriam, Republican, has arranged for watchers in each precinct. The betting is 7 to 5 on Harrison.

In support of Merriam most of the students of the University of Chicago will spend the day either at polling places or aiding to get out a large vote.

The opponents of Harrison alleged that behind him are lined up the 7000 saloons in the city and the vice element in the First ward, controlled by Alderman "Hinky Dink" Kenna and "Bathhouse" Coughlin and the remnants of the old Harrison machine presided over by "Bob" Burke.

Harrison is the primary candidate of the Democrats, but has been bolted by the large following of former Mayor Dunne and William J. Bryan. Roger Sullivan, Democratic national committeeman and Democratic boss of the state, is against Harrison. Assisting the four-time mayor is the Lorimer faction of the Republicans.

Merriam has many of the leading Dunne and Bryan Democrats with him. His campaign was based on war against graft and the vice trust and its protectors.

MANN FOR SPEAKER

Illinois Congressman the Unanimous Choice of the Minority

Washington, April 4.—Joseph G. Cannon having eliminated himself last night the Republican caucus placed his successor in nomination and had the pleasure of seeing Representative James R. Mann chosen the Republican candidate for speaker by the unanimous vote of those present.

Also most of the insurgents were swallowed up in the Republican party. An insurgent, Kendall of Iowa, was elected secretary of the caucus. Another insurgent, Madison of Kansas, served on a committee to notify Mann of his selection.

Most of the insurgents of Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois and Nebraska deserted those who fought for fight's sake and entered the caucus. Those who remained outside were chiefly from Wisconsin, followers of Senator LaFollette.

INVESTIGATION PROPOSED

Report on Boston and Maine Railroad Rates In New Hampshire

Concord, N. H., April 4.—The long-expected report of the special house committee on railroad rates, which has been investigating the alleged raising of rates of fare and freight by the Boston and Maine railroad in excess of the limit prescribed by statute, was made to the lower branch of the legislature last night.

The bill as recommended by the committee calls upon the proposed public service commission to investigate the matters set forth in the title and to report its findings to the governor not later than Dec. 1, 1912. For the purposes of the investigation an appropriation of $10,000 is provided.

Sentences Imposed Upon Postmasters Who Sold Too Many Stamps

New York, April 4.—Two United States postmasters of sub-stations pleaded guilty in the United States circuit court here to selling postage stamps by large lots, in violation of the postal laws, with intent to credit the sales to their own districts and so gain advanced pay from the appearance of increased business.

Adolph Leinhardt of Staten Island was sentenced to thirty days and Ambrose C. Montrose of Larchmont was fined $300.

BOSS COX RETURNS

Accepts Service of New Indictment Charging Him With Perjury

Cincinnati, April 4.—After a vain search for George B. Cox for three days, and a decision to apprehend the Republican leader and financier on a warrant charging him with being a fugitive from justice, Cox appeared at the courthouse and accepted service of the new indictment issued against him on Friday, charging him with perjury.

"WIDOW OF ECKERT" MAKES APPEARANCE

Claims She Has Papers to Substantiate Her Claim

New York, April 4.—A gray-haired woman of 69 years appeared under subpoena before Surrogate Cohalan and asserted she was the widow of Thomas T. Eckert, who was one time president of the Western Union Telegraph company.

For possession of Eckert's $3,000,000 estate two sons have been contesting since his death last November.

The witness was married to Eckert, she declared, in the fall of 1908 and had the marriage certificate with a deed given her by Eckert to his house in East Eighty-sixth street "in a safe place in Washington." She said she was prepared to produce the documents on short notice. She was given until Thursday to do so.

WITHOUT WHITE ESCORT

White Woman Journeys Through Wilds of Central Africa

London, April 4.—Mrs. Roby, wife of an American brain specialist now residing in Japan, is the first white woman who ever has traveled the wilds of Central Africa without a white escort.

Mrs. Roby, who has just returned to London, went to Australia in October, 1909, then to New Zealand, the South Sea islands and thence to South Africa, arriving at Durban last May.

She followed the route taken by the Duke of Connaught in her tour of South Africa, but continued right up to Equatorial Africa, making an especial study of native conditions in the Congo.

Carnegie Said to Be Contemplating Making It to the World

Washington, April 4.—Andrew Carnegie held a long conference with President Taft at the White House Monday. While no announcement was given out at the White House, and Carnegie refused to discuss his talk with the president, it was learned that the philanthropist is contemplating a gift to the world of $10,000,000.

Whether this sum will be an additional contribution to the peace endowment or for some other humanitarian purpose, it could not be ascertained.

The Honorable Senator Sagebrush

By FRANCIS LYNDE

Copyright, 1910, by Street & Smith

SYNOPSIS.

Evan Blount, son of "Boss" David Blount ("Senator Sagebrush"), has been rejected by Patricia Anners. Dick Gantry offers him a position with the Transcontinental railway, which is fighting his father. McVickar, head of the railroad, and "Boss" Blount quarrel.

The boss demands that the railroad stop the use of crooked methods. Going west to meet his father, Evan meets a man who takes him for a forestry employee.

Evan is kidnaped by a band of men, evidently land corporation agents, and is taken at night to a mansion seemingly presided over by a woman.

The house is Wartrace Hall, Senator Blount's home, and the woman is Evan's stepmother, whom he had never met.

The senator purposes running Evan for attorney general despite the young man's recent arrival in the state. Evan objects. He hears his father called a political trickster.

McVickar defies Senator Blount to nominate Evan. Patricia and her geologist father arrive at the Sagebrush capital.

At McVickar's request Evan joins the railroad's forces as division counsel and political worker. He favors clean politics, but finds that his office is made a rallying point by small political hangers-on of the road.

Evan has a disagreement with Gantry about the road's mixing in politics. His father pulls wires unknown to him to have him invited to speak in a distant mining town. Hathaway, who has been trying to do business with the road and with Senator Blount, is to have a talk with Mrs. Blount.

Hathaway wants a rebate from the road in consideration of political favors. He is referred to Evan and is advised by Mrs. Blount to put Professor Anners' name on his list of stockholders.

Evan's interview with Hathaway reveals the road's misdoings. In a rage he resigns. Gantry holds up the resignation. Evan insists that it go through to McVickar.

Patricia refuses Evan again. She advises him to stick to the road and work for clean politics. He withdraws his resignation and is sent into the field on a political tour.

Exposure of the railroad is threatened by Evan to Gantry unless rebating and other unlawful practices are stopped. Evan suspects his secretary, Collins, of tampering with his desk.

The desk is blown up by a burglar, evidently after Evan's papers. Gantry tells McVickar that Evan is getting to be too much for him to handle.

...t it out and tell it straight, Gryson," he resumed at the end of the hesitant pause.

"It's in the registration lists in four wards of this town. They've been cooked up two to one. I've got the lists of the crooked names right here in my pocket. Sheehan knows, 'the committee of six' knows, and the senator knows. But I'm the man that can swing in them extra votes, and, more than that, by grabs, I'm the only man! When I told Sheehan that a little while ago he invited me to go to h—l. I'll show him."

Blount's brain was in a whirl, and his heart was pounding like that of a man who finds himself looking over the verge of a bottomless chasm.

"What is it that you want to do, Gryson?" he asked when he could control his voice sufficiently.

"I want to give Sheehan and his machine crowd what's coming to 'em."

"Will you make affidavits to the fact of the false registration?"

"I'll do anything to get square with that crowd of throw-backs!"

"Your affidavit isn't much better than your unsupported word," said Blount coldly. "Can you get any one else to swear to the facts with you?"

"Sure I can. I can get a half dozen of the boys in my own gang that'll do it."

It was up to Blount fairly and squarely to say the word which would precipitate the greatest election scandal that had ever disturbed the peace of the Sagebrush State, and the central figure around which the story of corruption and bribery would center would be his father! For five long minutes he sat in grim silence, frowning at the miserable traitor, who was shifting uneasily in his chair under the cold glare of the hereditary Blount eyes. But when all was over the traitor had gained his point.

"BY CRIPES, I'LL SHOW HIM!"

"Go to it," said Blount sharply. "Swear out your own affidavit and get as many more as you can to back it up. Bring the papers here to me between 1 and 2 o'clock this afternoon. That's all! Now go before I am tempted to throw you out neck and heels. If somebody doesn't kill you for this piece of treachery you will be playing in big luck."

When Gryson was gone Blount put on his hat and went straight to the editorial rooms of the Daily Capital. Blenkinsop, the thin faced, long haired editor, was humped in his chair over his desk blue pencilling copy like a man running a race against time.

"In just a minute," he said when Blount stood beside him. And then, sticking the copy on the hook, "Now I'm with you."

Blount had marked the unusual daytime activities in the newspaper office and had instantly put two and two together.

"You're at work pretty early for a morning paper force, aren't you, Blenkinsop?" he asked.

"You bet we are!" was the quick reply.

"What is the matter?" queried Blount.

"Haven't you heard?" said the editor. "Somebody—heaven only knows who—has been gathering up a lot of false registration evidence involving half a dozen of the principal towns in the state. The stuff came to us by a sort of underground route, but it's reliable all right. It's a corker. There'll be 10,000 repeaters challenged in this state at the polls tomorrow, and no man living can tell what the outcome will be."

Blount saw a great light, which suddenly grew to clarifying brightness.

"Whom does the scandal involve, Blenkinsop?" he asked quietly.

At this the long haired editor grew curiously embarrassed. "You're with us, Blount, that I know. But you are also your father's son. There are only one machine and one boss in the Sagebrush State."

Blount nodded dumbly. Then, "When will you go to press with the first edition of the paper?"

"At 3 a. m. sharp," was the reply.

Blount turned to go. "I may have another half column or so for you before that time," he said, "but you needn't hold the forms open for me. I'll call you over the phone if I have anything to say."

Once in the street, Blount went straight to the bank where he had rented the safety box. Five minutes in the privacy of the vault anteroom, with the unlocked box before him, confirmed his suspicions. The packet which he had so carefully secured was made up of blank papers folded to appear like the originals, and it became convincingly evident that his office safe had not been dynamited for nothing.

The matter which would appear under flaring scare heads the next morning would be the evidence which he himself had collected, carefully edited no doubt, so that it would leave out all that might incriminate anybody but the machine and the machine's boss—his father.

With a muttered threat of vengeance directed at his traitorous office force, Blount went slowly back to the Temple court and sat down to wait for Gryson's return, giving Collins orders to deny him to everybody else.

Once again in the history of the race it had become the duty of a son to betray a father. Blount saw his way lying clearly defined before him. He must take the affidavits which Gryson would bring and lay them before Judge Hemingway, the one man in the capital, if not in the entire state, who would have the courage of his convictions and the high sense of duty to act, and act promptly.

Blount saw the dreadful consequences marshaling themselves in readiness. His father would be implicated beyond any possibility or hope of exculpation, and the people of the state—stirred as they would be by the widespread story of fraud which he himself had gathered—would show little mercy to the chief instigator of the frauds.

During the last half hour of waiting Blount could no longer sit still, and he was pacing the floor of the private office, ten steps and a turn, monotonously, when Gryson was ushered in.

"I've got 'em, a full dozen of 'em!" growled the bribe taker, throwing a thick packet of papers on Blount's desk. "Now, then, what do I get out of it?"

Blount stopped short and whirled as if the demand had been a blow.

"You'll get just what any other criminal gets when he turns state's evidence," he rasped. "You won't be prosecuted and sent to the penitentiary, as you deserve to be. Now get out of here, and don't let me have to tell you twice!"

Gryson made a move as if he would repossess himself of the packet of affidavits, but Blount came between with the danger signals flaming in his eyes.

"No, you don't!" he said sharply. "I told you to go—do it!" And, as once before, the bribe taker went out muttering curses.

When the corridor door had closed behind the traitor Blount put the affidavits in his pocket and passed out quickly through the anteroom.

"I don't know when I shall be back," he said to Collins, with a hand on the door of egress. "Has any one called since noon?"

"No. Some lady sent a boy up to ask for you, but I sent word that you were not in, as you told me to."

Evan realized that he had unthinkingly barred Patricia out with all the others. And now she would drive to Wartrace Hall without him, and the terrible thing that must be done must be done before he should see her face again.

Nervous? Let your doctor prescribe the medicine. He knows best. The fact, however, that Ayer's Sarsaparilla has such strong tonic properties, and is entirely free from alcohol, may make it precisely to his liking. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

The Vagabond Actor.

Moliere raised the status of the actor to a hireling clown who must amuse his king. Sir Henry Irving was even knighted by Queen Victoria, who recognized his magnificent services to dramatic art. But in all the years when Sir Henry was breaking his neck to run back and forth between Victoria's royal residences and the cities where he was playing, to set up his scenes and act for the old queen's amusement and the entertainment of her guests, he was never once officially received by her at court. He had many private audiences, which were much the same for him as to have a chat with any other old lady; but, although he was the possessor of a royal title, a favorite with the royal family and the greatest actor of his age, he never was invited or "commanded," as it is called, to Buckingham palace. The status of vagabondia clung to his garments, and he was classed with crooked nobles and other undesirables.—Archie Bell in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Courage and the Flea.

Courage is resistance to fear, mastery of fear, not absence of fear. Except a creature be part coward, it is not a compliment to say it is brave; it is merely a loose misapplication of the word. Consider the flea—incomparably the bravest of all the creatures of God if ignorance of fear were courage. Whether you are asleep or awake, he will attack you, caring nothing for the fact that in bulk and strength you are to him as are the massed armies of the earth to a sucking child. He lives both day and night and all days and nights in the very lap of peril and the immediate presence of death and yet is no more afraid than is the man who walks the streets of a city that was threatened by an earthquake ten centuries before. When we speak of Clive, Nelson and Putnam as men who "didn't know what fear was" we ought always to add the flea—and put him at the head of the procession.—Mark Twain.

The Original Paul Pry.

Thomas Hill, familiarly called Tommy Hill, was, says Dr. Brewer, the original Paul Pry. It was from him also that Theodore Hook drew his character of Gilbert Gurney. Planche in his "Recollections" says of Hill: "His specialty was the accurate information he could impart on all the petty details of the domestic economy of his friends, the contents of their wardrobes, their pantries, the number of pots of preserves in their store closets and of the table napkins in their linen presses, the dates of their births and marriages, the amounts of their tradesmen's bills and whether paid weekly or quarterly. He had been on the press and was connected with the Morning Chronicle. He used to drive Matthews crazy by ferreting out his whereabouts when he left London and popping the information in some paper."

Names In Electricity.

Electricity is the one branch of science that honors the great names in its fundamental terminology. Andre Marie Ampere was the French physicist who first measured the current and for whom the unit is named. The ohm bears the name of George S. Ohm, a German man of science who discovered the law on which the unit of electrical resistance is based. The volt is named for the Italian Volta, the greatest electrical authority of the eighteenth century, who was the first man to construct a rude electric battery. The farad, the unit of electrical capacity, is named in honor of the English physicist Faraday; the colomb, the unit of quantity, for the French physicist Coulomb, and the watt, the unit of power, for James Watt, the Scotch inventor who improved the steam engine.

Herbert Spencer Was Human.

Herbert Spencer in the attitude of superintending his household affairs was practical and amusing. At one time the poulterer had not been giving satisfaction, so Mr. Spencer called his housekeeper and gave her directions to transfer his custom to another tradesman whose shop faced the delinquent's. "And, Miss Smith," said the author of "Synthetic Philosophy," "be particular that the first poulterer sees you giving your orders to the second poulterer!"

Always Lucky.

McConnell—Sure, isn't Larry always th' lucky b'y? Murphy—Lucky, do ye call him, whin it was only yesterday that he fell, breakin' his leg an' his aarm? McConnell—Faith, an' wasn't he lucky on that occasion, wid th' accident takin' place within twinty fate of th' hospital?—Chicago News.

On the Other Hand.

"On the one hand," said the teacher, pointing a long finger to the map on the classroom wall, "we have the far stretching country of Russia. On the other hand—what do I see on the other hand, Tommy?"

"Warts!" hazarded Tommy, hopeless with fright.

AWAITING LEADER'S WORD

Insurrecto Envoys Thought to Be on Mission of Peace

El Paso, Tex., April 4.—Interest here in the Mexican war situation centers in Francisco I. Madero, Sr., and Alfred Madero, who have arrived in El Paso, presumably on a mission of peace. While silent regarding the reason for their presence here, the father and brother of the insurrecto leader intimate that developments may be expected within the next few days, and it is believed they are here to await the arrival of messengers from the insurrecto chief, bringing the terms upon which he will consent to a cessation of hostilities.

That the elder Madero's influence will be strongly for peace is the statement of those who claim to know his attitude. The father of the insurrecto leader, it is said, has never given the movement his whole-hearted support and would welcome the end of the war upon any reasonable terms.

NEW SPANISH CABINET

Canalejas Drops Ministers Who Are Opposed to His Policy

Madrid, April 4.—The Canalejas ministry as reorganized has been gazetted. The changes were dictated by the premier, who was given free rein by King Alfonso, as a condition upon which he withdrew his resignation.

The ministerial crisis, which appeared fraught with the greatest possibilities, seems to have ended as abruptly as it began. It has resolved itself into a second reconstruction of the Canalejas ministry, those who were opposed to the premier's policy being dropped.

The premier agreed to continue in his position on condition that he be permitted to make such changes in the cabinet as he deemed necessary. To this the king readily assented.

WOMAN WILL SERVE AS CHIEF OF POLICE

Telephone Operator Will Have Plenty to Keep Her Busy

Wakefield, Mass., April 4.—Miss Helen Murphy, chief operator of the local telephone exchange, will be night chief of the Wakefield police beginning next Monday. While Chief of Police Pollard will be in charge of the department during the daytime, Miss Murphy will take charge at midnight.

Every half hour the patrolmen will call Miss Murphy by telephone and she will record the calls, which will be listed and submitted to Pollard the following morning.

In case she may desire to get into communication with any of the members of the force she has but to touch an electric button. This will light a red incandescent lamp which is attached to the box on the street.

The exchange will further serve as police headquarters in that persons may call up and report all matters which would come under the police, emergency or fire category. The young woman will also be expected to take care of her telephone work.

BOSTON'S SCHOOL BUDGET

Sum of $4,759,000 Appropriated For the Current Year

Boston, April 4.—Millions of dollars were appropriated by the school committee last night for repairs and alteration of school buildings, salaries, pensions, etc., for the current year.

The annual budget, which has been on the table since Feb. 10, was taken up and carried through, the total amount being $4,759,000, an increase of $204,000 over last year. In addition to the annual budget a separate loan order was passed for $500,000, to be expended for new school buildings or additions to present buildings.

LIFE TERM IN PRISON

Wife Slayer Pleads Guilty of Murder In Second Degree

Springfield, Mass., April 4.—Upon his plea of guilty of murder in the second degree, Edward J. McNanley of this city was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state prison in the superior court here.

McNanley, who had been arrested on the complaint of his wife for non-support and drunkenness, cherished a grievance against the woman, and when the opportunity was given he fired two shots into her head, killing her instantly. He then made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide.

Harvard Wins Big Debate

Cambridge, Mass., April 4.—Before a large audience which filled Sanders' theatre, Harvard triumphed over Yale in the annual debate. The subject argued was: "Resolved, that all elective state officers should be nominated by direct primaries." Harvard upheld the negative side of the question.

Frozen to Death In April

PROMINENT MEN ARE MISSING

Remarkable Changes From Last Session Are Shown In Whole Organization—Democratic Majority of Sixty-Eight In House, While Republican Majority In Senate Is Reduced to Nine by November Elections

Washington, April 4.—The interesting situation of a Democratic house and a Republican senate meeting to consider a "Taft administrative measure" directs unusual attention to the convening of the Sixty-second congress in extraordinary session at noon today.

The political complexions of the two branches of congress are as follows: House—Democrats, 228; Republicans, 160; Socialists, 1; vacancies, 2, the Ninth Iowa and the Second Pennsylvania districts. Senate—Republicans, 50; Democrats, 41; vacancy, 1, from Colorado.

The roll calls in the two branches will show some remarkable changes from the last session. In the house the Democrats will show a gain of 54 members, and the Republicans a loss of 55, the Socialist member, Victor Berger of Milwaukee, accounting for the difference in the equation.

By reason of the change resulting from the election last November, new faces will be seen not only in the membership of the house, but in the whole organization. Republican employes in great number are out and their places will be filled by Democrats. Choice rooms in the Capitol and in the house office building, long controlled by the Republicans, will be surrendered to the representatives of the party which gathers up the house reins.

Instead of the 59 Republicans who occupied seats in the senate on March 4, there are only 50 today. The ranks of the minority are increased from 32 to 41 and will be 42 when the vacancy in Colorado is filled. There was one vacancy in the last session caused by the death of the late Senator Hughes of Colorado.

More notable even than the large number of new faces in the senate and house is the absence of so many veteran legislators. The speaker's marble rostrum will not resound with the vigorous whacks of the Cannon gavel, for Mr. Cannon appears in the ranks of the minority.

Veterans of many legislative struggles are missing from the house floor. Chief among those whose absence is noticed are Tawney of Minnesota, Boutell of Illinois, Scott of Kansas, McKinlay of California, Bennet, Fish, Parsons and Cocks of New York, Hull and Smith of Iowa, Denby of Michigan, Keifer of Ohio. Four members, Hitchcock of Nebraska, Poindexter of Washington, Gronna of North Dakota and Townsend of Michigan, have been elevated to the senate.

No longer will the senate roll call open with the familiar name of Aldrich, the Rhode Island leader having voluntarily renounced another term. He is succeeded by Henry F. Lippitt.

Many other striking figures are missing from the senate floor, notably Hale of Maine, succeeded by Charles F. Johnson; Beveridge of Indiana, who was vanquished by John W. Kern; Kean of New Jersey, in whose place is James F. Martine; Warner of Missouri, replaced by James A. Reed; Dick of Ohio, replaced by Atlee Pomerene, and Carter of Montana, succeeded by Henry L. Meyers. All of these changes represent Democratic gains except in the case of Rhode Island.

Although the Democrats in the house have declared for tariff legislation during the extra session of congress, the prediction is freely made in congressional circles that no such legislation can be put through the senate and that the extra session will adjourn earlier than has generally been anticipated.

IRRESPONSIBLE NEWS REPORTS

Protest from Prominent Residents of Houghs Neck

Editors Daily Ledger:

In the issue of the Telegram of March 31 was published, under glaring headlines what purported to be a report of the monthly business meeting of the Houghs Neck Union Chapel society. The article instead of mentioning the main item of business was almost entirely given to an effort to describe a minor item of business which received scarcely more than five minutes of notice. Only one other item of business was mentioned, thus giving the idea that the entire meeting was one of "dispute."

Having stated the number present, (which was incorrect,) the article reads, "they were treated to a display of pyrotechnics between the pastor, Rev. C. R. McMeeken and ex-Secretary Hiram W. W. Darrow." Then speaking of a sum donated to the work, (which was also incorrect,) it states that the pastor "flayed Mr. Darrow for quite a while" and also spoke of a "cross examination" as if some legal procedure had taken place. Again it spoke of an "alleged shortage," all of which place the matter in the wrong light.

The facts are that at the beginning of the year a sum of money was received and expended without the knowledge of the society or having been received into the treasury. Believing that the business of the church should be transacted on business principles and that all expenditures should be by action of the church, having passed through proper hands, the matter was called-in question and inquiry was made as to the authority for such expenditure.

There was neither "display of pyrotechnics," nor a "flaying for awhile," but simply a plain business matter. Why such uncalled for personalization and sensational putting should have been resorted to by the reporter is difficult to understand. The entire putting of the matter gives false idea.

We the undersigned, having read the above mentioned newspaper report and having been present at the business meeting, believe the report to be a gross exaggeration and a flagrant mis-representation of all interested parties. Such misrepresentation is not only positive injustice to an individual but tends to injure greatly the religious work of the society.

We hereby request, that out of respect for the individuals concerned and for the work of the church, that in the future there be no publication of reports in the Telegram received from irresponsible parties. The facts as stated above are correct and we request their publication.

Mr. and Mrs. William McDonald and daughter Dorothy of Roxbury are spending the week at their cottage on Great hill.

H. P. ABBOTT DEAD.

Hiram P. Abbott, one of the prominent liquor dealers of Boston, who for the past 40 years had been engaged in business at 146 Kneeland street, died early Monday morning at the Boothby hospital. Mr. Abbott had been ill but three days, death being due to kidney trouble. He was about his duties as late as last Thursday evening and appeared in his usual good health.

About 30 years ago he was also engaged in business in Quincy and was known among the older residents of this city.

He was born in South Braintree 67 years ago. At the age of 19 he enlisted in the 38th Mass. regt., and served throughout the war with that regiment. Upon returning from the war he became identified with the liquor business. He was an honorary member of the Lancers ,a member of Lewiston lodge of Elks and the founder and president of the Boston Social and Fishing club, an organization of 15 or 20 years ago.

The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon with services at the Waterman chapel, 2328 Washington street, Roxbury, at 2 P. M.

SUPERIOR COURT.

The Norfolk superior civil court convened in Dedham on Monday for the April term under the new judge, John D. McLaughlin of West Roxbury. After the attorneys had extended their congratulations to the judge the new grand jury was sworn in and retired.

The Monday cases before the court were:

Eva May Brower of South Norwalk, Conn., vs. Elbridge G. Hunt of Weymouth. A $10,000 contract action. Plaintiff non-suited.

Susan W. Groce of Quincy vs. Old Colony Street R. R. Co., for personal injuries received while riding on an electric car in Weymouth. A settlement will be made by the company.

John P. Robinson vs. Lois M. Clapp, both of Stoughton. Plaintiff non-suited.

Adelaide E. Hawes vs. Edwin W. Hawes both of Stoughton. Uncontested divorce libel. Libellee defaulted.

INDICATIONS.

"John," said Mrs. Binks, uneasily, the other night, "I am very much afraid that my bank is in a bad way."

"Oh nonsense, my dear Maria, nonsense!" said Binks, "Why it's one of the strongest financial institutions in the country. What ever put that notion into your dear old head?"

"Well it's very funny," said Mrs. Binks, still unconvinced. "They've just returned a check of mine for $25 marked "No funds!"—Harper's Weekly.

TOO LONG A NUISANCE.

Editor Daily Ledger:

The fire scare which the residents near the Angier Mills, Wollaston, experienced Saturday afternoon, caused by the oil waste left burning at noon by the employees of E. H. Angier, calls attention once more to a nuisance too long endured by people living in that vicinity. If the owner of the factory had any thought or consideration for the people who own homes near by, and are compelled to live in daily deluges of smoke, cinders and a smell which is most offensive he would repay the kindly efforts of these same people when they saved his buildings from fire, by seeing that the indiscriminate burning of the oil waste every night by his employees is stopped at once. Little Items of Interest In Towns About Quincy

The new time table of the Nantasket beach railway calls for six trains a day each way between Stoney beach and Nantasket junction and also restores Sunday trains.

The Nantasket Point hotel of about 24 rooms has been placed on scows at Sunset Point and floated to Nantasket beach. It was built at Nantasket and was moved to the Point when the Metropolitan park commission took charge of the beach.

The town landing committee of Milton is to develop town property for recreation purposes, the first work to be the construction of a boat landing off the stone wharf. A dredger is to be used to deepen the water at the northerly end of the wharf, where there is a mud flat.

The Wellesley town meeting of Monday authorized the appointment of a committee of three to procure plans for a sewerage system.

One of the victims of the auto accident in Daytona Florida on Sunday was Miss Gertrude V. Pfeiffer of Hyde Park, who lived near the Dedham line.

SPORTING NOTES.

In the Columbus club bowling league final standing Quincy was third from last, beating out Allston and James A. Hayes councils.

The Randolph girls basketball team defeated the Sharon girls Monday evening by a score of 17 to 4. The game was played on a neutral floor.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The younger boys of the Quincy Point club held their regular meeting on Monday evening. The older Boys will meet tonight in the vestry of the Point church.

A rehearsal of the play "Rooney's restaurant" to be given in connection with "College Chums" on April 18 will take place this afternoon.

The Wollaston club will meet in the vestry of the Baptist church on Thursday evening.

The annual gymnasium banquet will be held in Hotel Greenleaf on Thursday evening. Only one ticket remains unsold and that will be gone before night in all probability.

The Wireless club will hold its regular weekly meeting Friday evening.

A hat and bonnet sale will be held in association hall on Saturday under the auspices of Unity Circle of Kings Daughters. Hats for everybody will be on sale.

BRIEFS

The Central station apparatus was called out on a still alarm at 11 o'clock Monday night for a grass fire off School street.

Two or three men with hoes can work wonders in a day in improving the appearance of streets. The cleaning of gutters is money well expended.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Melville nee Florence Newcomb of Newcomb street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son born March 3.

The street watering and oiling order passed by City Council Monday night goes into effect April 20. Commissioner Bainbridge deserves the thanks of the City Square merchants however for the sprinkling given the streets this morning.

The habit some children have of playing in the street and racing with the street cars came near costing Gunner Johnson, a 10 year old boy, a serious accident Monday afternoon. The boys were playing tag near the corner of Copeland and Buckley streets, and the boy ran against a passing car and was knocked down. Had the car been moving fast he might have been killed.

JOLLIFICATION.

A "jollification" will be held on Wednesday evening at the Park and Downs Congregational church to celebrate bringing to a successful conclusion the project for a new church building.

The contract has been awarded to Edward H. Sears of 34 Kemper street, Wollaston, and the building is to be completed by November 1, 1911.

The first spadeful of earth will be turned by the pastor at the meeting on Wednesday evening after which work will go forward with a rush.

At the "jollification" a supper will be served and Rev. Asher Anderson of Boston, secretary of the National Council of Congregational churches will speak. His subject will be "Put money in thy pocket."

MEN'S CLUB.

Members of St. Chrysostom's Men's club waited in vain at their meeting on Monday evening for the scheduled speaker J. Frank Chase secretary of the Watch and Ward society.

One of the entertainment committee was delegated to meet the next incoming train with the expectation that the previous one had been missed but no speaker appeared. Mr. Chase was finally reached by telephone at his West Roxbury home and replied that in the excitement of an afternoon meeting he had forgotten his engagement at Wollaston.

A short business meeting followed this announcement in which church repairs and the holding of a ladies' night were discussed. Refreshments were served.

SIRES AND SONS.

Frank A. Munsey, magazine and newspaper proprietor, is an expert horseman.

Francis Wilson, the actor, is a collector of rare books, prints and manuscripts. His father was a Quaker.

The Hon. Whitelaw Reid is an authority on Talleyrand and has written an introduction to Talleyrand's memoirs.

Charles Rohlfs, husband of Anna Katherine Green, the novelist, was an actor for many years and played with Edwin Booth.

Anthony N. Brady, the big New York financier, got his start with a string of tea stores in Albany. He was born in France.

John A. Wilkie, head of the government secret service, ran away from home when he was a small boy and sold matches in the streets of New York.

The Duke of Norfolk as the hereditary holder of the office of earl marshal has the sole jurisdiction in all questions of honor and arms in Great Britain.

Robert H. Davis, editor of Munsey's, has the elephant fad. His office and his home are cluttered up with figures of the beast in every material that can be carved, molded, bitten or chewed into the form of the circus pachyderm.

Sporting Notes.

The University of Virginia plans to spend $35,000 on an athletic building.

Morton F. Plant's new racing schooner is being built at the Herreshoffs' yard in Bristol and will be named Elena after Italy's queen. It will be launched in April.

Lawrence C. Hull, Jr., of Laporte, Ind., who won a Cecil Rhodes scholarship at Michigan university, has become a member of the New York A. C. and will try for new records in the 100 and 440 yard races.

B. F. Ufer, a wealthy Oklahoma oil man, will spend a fortune to make Carl Morris champion heavyweight of the world. His first move is to buy out his former manager's contract for $25,000 and to order a $5,000 gymnasium outfit.

Two Little Bills.

Robert was in the habit of expecting reward for every little service. At the end of the week he made out a "bill" to his mother and carefully laid it where her eyes would fall upon it. The items were as follows:

"Mother Owes to Robert.
"Five cents for running errands.
"Five cents for being good."

That evening there appeared beside Robert's plate a paper upon which was written:

"Robert owes mother, for years of happiness, nothing; for nursing him through long illnesses, nothing; for doing good to him, nothing."

Thoroughly ashamed of himself, Robert ran to mother, threw his arms around her and sobbed:

"Mother, I will do everything I can for you after this, and I'll never ask you to give me anything but just love."—Omaha World-Herald.

Easy to Please.

"So," said his girl's papa furiously, "you think you could make my little girl Arethusa happy?"

The young man considered his prospective pa-in-law, who had gout and a face like a fire engine and an eighty horsepower temper.

"She's been happy with you, sir, hasn't she?" the young man asked.

"I think so, my boy—I think so," replied his girl's papa. "I certainly think so. I think so certainly. I'm certain I think so."

"Well," chimed in the young man sweetly, "if she's been happy with you I certainly think I can make her happy. I think so. I think so certainly. I'm certain I think so."

PRESIDENT TAFT URGES RECIPROCITY WITH CANADA

Points Out the Advantages in Special Message to the New Congress Today

Washington, April 5.—President Taft's first message to the Sixty-Second congress was submitted today. The message, which deals only with reciprocity with Canada, follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmitted to the Sixty-First congress, on Jan. 26 last, the text of the reciprocal trade agreement which had been negotiated under my direction by the secretary of state with the representatives of the Dominion of Canada. This agreement was the consummation of earnest efforts extending over a period of nearly ayear, on the part of both governments, to effect trade arrangements which, supplementing as it did, the amicable settlement of various questions of a diplomatic and political character that had been reached, would mutually promote commerce and would strengthen the friendly relations now existing.

The agreement, in its intent and in its terms, was purely economical and commercial. While the general subject was under consideration by the commissioners I felt assured that the sentiment of the people would result in the increase of trade on both sides of the boundary line, would open up the reserve productive resources of Canada to the great mass of our customers on advantageous conditions, and at the same time offer a broader outlet for the excess product of our farms and many of our industries.

Details regarding a negotiation of this kind necessarily could not be made public while the conferences were pending. When, however, the full text of the agreement, with the accompanying correspondence and data explaining both its purpose and its scope became known to the people through messages transmitted to congress, it was immediately apparent that the ripened fruits of the careful labors of the commissioners met with widespread approval. This approval has been strengthened by further consideration of the terms of the agreement in all their particulars. The volume of support which has developed shows that its broadly national scope is fully appreciated and is responsive to the popular will.

The house of representatives of the Sixty-First congress, after the full text of the arrangement with all the details in regard to the different provisions had been before it, as they were before the American people, passed a bill confirming the agreement as negotiated and transmitted to congress. The measure failed of action in the senate.

In my transmitted message of the 26th of January I fully set forth the character of the agreement and emphasized its appropriateness and necessity as a response to the mutual needs of the people of two countries, as well as its common advantages. I now lay that message, and the reciprocal trade agreement as integrally part of the present message, before the Sixty-Second congress, and again invite earnest attention to the considerations therein expressed.

I am constrained, in deference to popular sentiment and with a realizing sense of my duty to the great masses of our people whose welfare is involved, to urge upon your consideration early action on this agreement. In concluding the negotiations the representatives of the countries bound themselves to use their utmost efforts to bring about the tariff changes provided for in the agreement by concurrent legislation at Washington and Ottawa. I have felt it is my duty, therefore, not to acquiesce in relegation of action until the opening of the congress in December, but to use my constitutional prerogative and convoke the Sixty-Second congress in extra session in order that there shall be no break in continuity in considering and acting upon this important subject.

William H. Taft.

The White House, April 4, 1911.

REAL BOSTON IS FAVORED

But Committee of the Legislature Is Divided

It is reported that the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs of the Legislature has voted to report the "Real Boston" bill of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, possibly with some changes. It is rumored there will be several dissenters on the committee, possibly five.

Representative Thomas of this city is a member of the committee, but it is not reported how he voted.

The committee will also report bills for the annexation of both Hyde Park and Chelsea to Boston with a referendum.

A federation of the cities and towns in the metropolitan district is favored by the Chelsea board of control according to the announcement made Tuesday in reply to a communication from Edward A. Walker, chairman of the special committee on "Real Boston." Although the board has never taken any formal vote on the matter, it notified Mr. Walker through its executive clerk, Charles H. Reed, it desires to be recorded in favor of the proposed federation.

INSTALLATION BANQUET

New Officers of Presbyterian C. E. Society

The installation banquet of the First Presbyterian Christian Endeavor society was held in the lecture room of the church Tuesday evening. A little after 7 o'clock over 100 young people sat down to the tables prettily decorated in red and white, the Christian Endeavor colors. An orchestra composed of Wendell Clark, cornet; Miss Edna Crockett, violin; and Miss Jessie Shirley, piano; furnished some excellent music, while the guests were waiting to be seated.

The menu: cold ham, potato salad, salmon salad, pickles, rolls, butter, pie, cake and coffee.

When the last course was completed, Miss Margaret McIntosh, the retiring president, called for reports from the other officers.

Rev. James A. Matheson, pastor of the church, was then introduced as toastmaster. Before any toasts were called for a brief entertainment was given. Misses Helen and Jennie Cumming sang a very pleasing duet and were called back for an encore. Miss Ruth Kemp gave an enjoyable reading, and was also called upon for an encore.

Brief addresses were given by the Union officers who were present—Alden H. Blanchard, James Ross, James L. Lewis and Miss Ida L. Thomas and by two of the church elders, Alexander Clark and Alfred Bishop.

The installation ceremony was conducted by Rev. James A. Matheson. The following officers and Committees were installed:

President—Wendell Clark.
Vice President—Ruth Kemp.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

And they call this spring.

Now spring comes. Last week she took a little peep in.

Not a very good day for the launch of the steam trawler Crest. But the Crest doesn't care. Water is her element.

Milwaukee's socialistic workingmen, out of employment, have asked the socialistic mayor, whom they elected on the strength of his promises, to find them work.

And some farmers had begun to plant their gardens hoping to have early vegetables. The snow will not hurt peas, but they will not grow in this kind of weather.

"New York," says the Providence News, "may soon be in the same situation Rhode Island was a few years ago and have but one United States Senator." Perhaps congratulations to New York are in order.

Wonder why the King's Daughters are to have an opening of Easter millinery at the Y. M. C. A. Is it to tempt the men of that association to change their style of headgear for something more festive? My won't they look just too sweet for anything!

Theodore Roosevelt in addressing a crowd of several thousand in Reno, Nevada put the matter of divorce in that state clearly and fearlessly to the people when he said:

"It is one colony of which you want to rid yourselves," he declared. "I don't care what you do with these of your own state who seek divorces, but keep citizens of other states who want divorces out of Nevada. Don't allow yourselves to be deceived by the argument that such a colony brings money to your city. You can't afford to have that kind of money brought here."

DRIFT OF OPINION

"The new parcels post arrangement with Haiti is welcome, of course," says the Boston Globe, "but how soon shall we be able to send within the limits of the United States parcels weighing up to 11 pounds at the rate of 12 cents a pound.?"

That is the question of the hour. No amount of winking and blinking, the inflation of bubbles of sophistry, or the shoving forward of the bogey of government ownership of railroads as the inevitable result of the establishment of the proposed system, will blind thinking people to the real issue. At present, the domestic parcels post limits the people of the United States to a 4-pound package, costing 16 cents a pound. Under the present order of things, the foreigner is enjoying cream, so to-speak, while the people of this country must be content with skimmed milk.

The same arguments that have applied to and have vindicated the adoption of lower postage rates for letters and periodicals are unerringly indicated in the agitation for a domestic parcels post system equal in liberality to that which has been established, by postal agreement, with a long list of foreign countries. The moment that system is established here, that moment popular benefits will immediately become diffused, where private interests now reap the lion's share.—Salem News.

NOT AN EDITOR.

Senator George L. Barnes wishes the Daily Ledger to correct a report that has become current, that he is interested in a syndicate of newspapers on the South Shore. He has no interest whatever, his only connection with the matter was as attorney, having drawn up the necessary papers for a transfer of certain papers.

CHANGE IN TAFT'S CABINET.

Walter L. Fisher of Chicago Takes Richard A. Ballinger's Place.

Richard A. Ballinger's resignation as secretary of the interior in President Taft's cabinet was a surprise to politicians and considerable surprise was also expressed at the selection of Walter L. Fisher of Chicago as his successor. There had been rumors at many times during the last year that Mr. Ballinger was to retire, but these rumors were always denied by Mr. Ballinger and by the president.

In accepting Mr. Ballinger's resignation, which was based on the grounds of ill health and the tremendous cost to which he had been placed in defending himself from attack because of his official actions, President Taft praised Mr. Ballinger in the highest terms and declared that the secretary of the interior had been "the object of one of the most unscrupulous conspiracies for the defamation of character that history can show."

The president said that, personally, he would be glad to have Mr. Ballinger remain in office, but that he felt it would be an injustice to a faithful government employee who had already made many sacrifices for the public good.

Simultaneous with the announcement of the resignation of Mr. Ballinger came the announcement that Mr. Fisher had accepted the portfolio. The new secretary was born in Wheeling, W. Va., July 4, 1862. He was admitted to the bar in 1888 and since then has practiced law in Chicago. He was one of the organizers of the National Conservation association of which Gifford Pinchot is president. Mr. Fisher is one of the vice presidents, and he has also been identified with other conservation movements. In recent years he has represented Chicago as special counsel in litigation with street railway companies.

NON-SKIDS FOR HORSES.

Several Styles of Shoes Designed to Prevent Slipping.

Numerous inventions have been made with a view of preventing the slipping of horses on smoothly paved streets. The horse's foot was never designed for use on asphalt or other pavements which are hard and slick, and any one who has watched horses drawing loads along a city thoroughfare has felt the need for something that would enable the animal to maintain its balance.

similar invention is made entirely of leather, the rear portion of which is studded with tacks, which will make the footing sure.

That these inventions are practical is assured, but the cost is such as to make their use a hardship in many instances. Heavy draft horses will wear the iron calks of their shoes in a short time on a granite paving, so it will be seen that leather and rubber will not wear long under such severe use.

IN FASHION'S REALM

Poke Bonnet Shapes Rival the Jockey Cap and Columbine Hat

It is a temptation to gossip a good deal about the artistry shown in color combinations this Spring. We are accustomed to brilliant colors in the Autumn, which are brought out to offset the dreary gloom of our long Winters, which are so gray during the majority of days that they need the scarlet and yellow and purple of women's clothes to give a note of gayety against depression.

In the Spring we expect to see the introduction of light tones of blue, pink and lavender with great quantities of white and tan. For this reason the gorgeousness of the present colors rather startles. We wonder, and not unwisely, if this brilliancy can endure long; our late Spring and Summer are as clear and brilliant as our Autumn and Winter are gray and thick. If we are to accept the Oriental attitude of garish color against the blinding glare of hot suns we must change our natures somewhat. With all the heat that is lent us annually, we have never learned to accept it if we could avoid it, or endure it with any tolerance.

As a nation we look upon heat with terror, and go through any sacrifice to get out of its power. The Oriental, on the contrary, enjoys it and flaunts the red, purple, and yellow of his clothes on the hottest days. It looks as through the fashion powers were trying to cultivate this imperturbable attitude toward heat in the Anglo-Saxon mind by producing the most vivid colors for its Spring and Summer use.

No two colors could prove this position more emphatically than cerise and papal purple. These are brought into the highest favor at the present moment, and will be worn in gown and hats and accessories throughout the early season. Whether we can standthem in July remains to be seen. Cerise alone is the touch of color to be put on black hats, on blue gowns, on white serge suits, and it is to be widely used for separate blouses. It is the one tone of red that fewest women can wear, and yet it is the tone that has been chosen by the designers to outrank all others. Right here, before I forget it, it would be well to tell you how amazingly fashionable these cerise satin blouses will be. Last Autumn they were brought out in Paris by two or three of the famous tailors in combination with coat suits of black camels hair and dark blue serge. Very few Americans adopted the idea. They considered it a shocking combination; this was because they were drilled into the idea of the one-color scheme from neck to heel and the violent contrast of the cerise blouse against the blue skirt was not according to their acquired taste.

This Spring the combination has been again brought out, and it promises to be more popular. The Winter has taught us much about the use of violet colors, and we are not so shocked at the mere combination of cerise with something dark. There is an extremely good dark blue serge model that carries a blouse of cerise satin that may be followed by a number of persons.

The skirt is conveniently narrow, with a swinging box plait down the back and a band of wide black silk braid below the knees. The coat is the square, short, sacklike garment that we will wear the next six months, if not longer. It is single-breasted, fastened with blue bone buttons, has small sleeves without cuffs, fastened with link buttons at wrist, and has a turn-over collar of ecru filet lace. The bodice is cut on the kimono pattern, with small, tight sleeves that reach to the elbow, and a V-shaped opening in front. The edges are finished with a bias binding of the material, and the guimpe is of ecru dotted point d'esprit.

Dark purple serge is to be as popular for suits as our old friend blue, and the designers have no intention of missing this opportunity to combine with it a cerise blouse. To make the whole costume more gorgeous, a papal purple hat will be worn with it of fine straw, trimmed with broad irregular loops of cerise and black-striped velvet ribbon.

It is rather amazing how many places have been discovered where this brilliant tone of red may be used. Large poke bonnets of geranium in cerise tone are trimmed with purple velvet loops, and a face border of dull green leaves. Turbans of wide-open California violets are trimmed with loops of cerise velvet ribbon; cerise cloth collars and cuffs are put on linen suits of white, tan, blue and brown. Corded silk is often used for this. Cerise cravats of chiffon cloth or satin ribbon will be worn with negligee shirts of heavy white and cream china silk, and these ties are especially effective on the new shirtwaists of black and white striped pongee and madras.

Cerise silk stockings will be worn with white suits and gowns when white slippers are added; they will also be worn with black patent leather pumps when cerise is added to the hat, or to the suit as a blouse. Cerise slippers are plentiful, to be worn with stockings in the same tone with evening gowns. Plain black hats for all occasions have bands of cerise satin around the brim or a panache of plumes in this color at the back.

You may not like cerise, and it may not be becoming to you, but if you want to be in the fashion you must add a bit of it to your costume in the place where it will not effect your looks.

The millinery openings, as well as the practical exhibitions on the streets during the balmy days, have shown that we will remain true to certain freakish but clever hats.

The shape known as the Robin Hood is in favor, but it has given place, in some degree, to a collapsible envelope hat and a fireman's helmet without a brim. These are both quite effective, especially the former.

It is in soft straw, in all colors, rests squarely on the head, covering the hair, and has its long pointed top neatly turned over like the flaps of an envelop, and is caught down over the left ear with a large flat button made of straw. If one desires more trimming, there is a swaggering quill run across front or back. The majority of women like it better without this adornment.

The poke bonnet has been with us for some weeks, but we never fairly realized how popular it was to become until it had appeared on the heads of hosts of girls. It is round and simple, like the bonnet of our grandmothers, or it is aggressive and scooped, like the dashing bonnet of the Directoire. It is trimmed with a wreath of posies, or it has flashing plumes at the back that stand upright and curl over at the tips.

Some of the shapes are cut out at the back in order to show an outstanding Psyche knot or an Empire bunch of curls and puffs. Others have loops of ribbon, and still others have wide streamers that are tied into a flat bow under the hair at the nape of the neck like a barrette, with ends that fall to the waist.

The most astounding new hat is the jockey cap, which has been brought out in straw, with a wreath of small flowers or a band of bright satin ribbon, or merely a knot of cherries and green leaves at the side. It is difficult to find anything about this cap to recommend. Maybe it will be worn; we have no excuse for wearing some of the things that have been accepted during the last two years, but the envelope hat and the jaunty Robin Hood are so much more attractive that they may put the other one out of commission.

Large hats are as large as ever, but they are not as popular as the small ones. The turbans, poke bonnets, all the Robin Hood varieties, and the Continental shapes take precedence over the wide, flaring hats.

The latter is really a charming hat and while it has been suggested all Winter it has not really been worn in its entirety as now. It has the wide upturned brim, with the fluted or pointed ends, and a trimming of ribbon bows or a cockade. It comes in straw, faced with velvet or satin. It reminds one more of the dashing hats worn by gentlemen of the eighteenth century than of the regular army hat.

There is also a dashing Columbine hat, which is in brightly colored straw with an unusually high brim, back and front, that turns flatly away from the head and meets at the top. Between the two brims there is a mass of fuchsias or other small flowers. This hat can only be worn by an excessively smart woman, who knows how to carry off conspicuous clothes.

The aeroplane hat is in evidence everywhere. It takes its name from the bow at the back, rather than from the shape of its crown or brim. It has "planes" of brilliantly colored ribbon, and the hat itself is usually a turban of ordinary shape, at least the ordinary shape of this season, which, if fashionable, is not ordinary.

The fireman's helmet, which has no brim, fits the head closely, is quite high and has a ridge that extends from the middle of the forehead to the middle of the neck. Its trimming usually consists of a broad band of velvet ribbon at the base, with a narrower one in the middle, to cut the height, and then a fantasie of some sort at the side. This may be in one color, or a combination of them, and the Chantecleer coloring is still popular.

The pansy hat is exceedingly pretty. It is made of the flowers in their soft, yellow and purple tones, placed on a purple turban and trimmed with upstanding loops of pansy purple velvet ribbon. It is the fashion on all these hats to use striped velvet ribbon, as well as the plain; in truth, black and white ribbon, which is made up of velvet on silk, is quite the thing to put on walking hats in every shape and in all colors.—Anne Rittenhouse in New York Times.

WATER LOAN ACT.

A hearing was held before the Committee on Water Supply at the State House on Tuesday on the petition of the City of Quincy for legislation to authorize the city to incur indebtedness to the amount of $200,000 for the purpose of extending the water system. Mayor Shea and President Bryant of the City Council appeared in favor of the bill. Mayor Shea told of the rapid growth of the city, and the urgent need of extending its water facilities. He also said that he appeared for Chairman Branch of the Finance committee, who had been instructed by the City Council to advocate that the terms of loans incurred under the bill should not extend over a longer period than twenty years. The Mayor said the city had expended $700,000 in the past twelve years in extending its system. There was no opposition to the bill.

ADAMS CHAPTER.

Mrs. Walter E. Piper of 206 Centre street entertained Adams Chapter Daughters of the Revolution at her home on Monday afternoon it being the usual monthly meeting. Mrs. Titus presided at the business session after which the afternoon's program was in charge of Mrs. Piper.

Mrs. James E. Neary who seems almost to belong to the chapter having been a guest and entertainer several times opened the program with a guitar solo receiving appreciative applause for her skill and musical rendering. Rev E. C. Butler of First church read a paper on Calvin and his religion showing the change of thought from his time to the present. It was a broad unprejudiced view. Mrs. Antoinette S. Paige read a humorous poem and the program closed with another guitar solo by Mrs. Neary and the singing of America.

Mrs. Piper was assisted in the hospitality of the social hour by her committee Mrs. Frank F. Prescott and Miss Harriet B. Pierce.

QUINCY ALLIANCE.

Quincy Alliance is rounding out its season of interesting and profitable meetings, the final meeting to be on April 24. "Social Service" will be the topic of the meeting the subjects and speakers being as follows:

"The Italian Immigrant," Rev. Francis P. Malgeri; "Country Week," Mr. H. Houghton Schumacher; "The Stearns' Neighborhood House," Miss Gurna Saville; "The South End House," Miss Gertrude Green. The meeting will close with the usual informal social hour. It promises to be an unusually good meeting, one to draw out a large attendance of members as well as guests from neighboring towns.

PLAY AT BROCKTON.

Charming Colonial maids in court costumes, with pompadours, patches, powder and paint, were the representatives of the Brockton Woman's club Monday afternoon, the occasion being the annual club dramatics, when 700 members and friends gathered to witness the matinee producution of the colonial comedy, "Maids and Matrons," produced with over-whelming success. For the first time in the history of the club the doors were opened to the public, regardless of sex for the afternoon performance.

Last year the afternoon performance was for the benefit of club members and the evening production open to the public. This year the committee decided to have both performances open.

Invitations were extended to the presidents of the Whitman Woman's Club, Ladies Library Association of Randolph, Rockland Woman's Club, Afternoon Club, Abington, Ousamequin Club, Bridgewater, Cabot Club, Middleboro, Philergian of Braintree, the Weymouth Woman's Club and the Dorchester Woman's Club, to be present as guests. For these a row of seats was reserved.

"Maids and Matrons" is in three acts, written by Grace B. Faxon, and the cast includes young women only. Men appear in the play only by inference. The time is 1760 for the first and second acts. The third act is 20 years later. The action centres about love affairs of Miss Mary Phillipse, a charming coquette who has lovers three among them George Washington then a young soldier.

The play calls for something more than the usual talent found in amateur players, and the plot gives unusual opportunities for picturesqueness and color. It wins out, as must every play that succeeds, by its fidelity to human nature. The characters and motives depicted are precisely those found in the history of all girl friendships, whether in Colonial days or the 20th century.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

The April meeting of the Executive board will be held Thursday morning at ten o'clock at the club house. As the club year is drawing to a close and there is much business to be considered it is hoped members will be present and prompt at the meeting.

There should be a large attendance at the next meeting of the Quincy Women's club as the speaker is one who has a national reputation and is a man of broad ideas a man who puts his shoulder to the wheel for the good of the masses. The Hon. Louis Brandeis may be called the father of savings bank insurance and the pension system. At the meeting of the club on Tuesday he will tell of the work along those lines in Massachusetts.

On Thursday afternoon April 13, the last current events lecture for this season will be given by Mrs. May Alden Ward at three o'clock at the club house. The Art and Literature committee Mrs. Bickford, chairman, has extended an invitation to club members to attend the lecture.

The last lecture under the auspices of the Arts and Crafts committee will be given on April 18 at four o'clock at the club house when Mr. Jennings will speak on Interior Decoration.

There will be an election at the April 11th meeting of chairmen of committees and at the annual meeting in May the club officers will be elected. Ballots for both elections are being prepared.

The children's party at the club house on Saturday afternoon was a big success, enjoyable to children and parents as well. There were about seventy-five children and they were accompanid by a goodly number of mothers and club members.

For entertainment there were guessing games; dancing, with Miss Hannah Litchfield at the piano and a feature much enjoyed by the children was the appearance of Uncle Remus, empersonated by Willard E. Keyes of Wollaston, who told most delightful stories.

There were some disappointed faces when Mrs. Park announced as the children formed in a grand march, that instead of the usual plate of ice cream each child would be given a book, but when the book was opened disclosing ice cream and cake there was as happy a bunch of young people as one could desire. They thoroughly appreciated the joke played on them. There was also punch and candy.

Mrs. Robert E. Park chairman of the Program committee had the affair in charge, assisted by club officers: Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, and Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham.

KINGS DAUGHTERS.

The regular meeting of Unity circle, King's Daughters, was held in Bethany chapel, Tuesday evening with a large attendance. At the business session $100 was voted to the maintenance fund of Pond Home. The following were appointed delegates to the county convention in Sharon, April 13: Mrs. Edward Miller, Mrs. E. W. Branch, Mrs. Francis Abele, Jr.

The devotional exercises were conducted by Miss Alice Dunn. Miss Isabelle Murphy sang a solo in connection with the exercises. The entertainment was in charge of the Music Ten, Mrs. H. W. Tirrell chairman. Miss Isabelle Murphy sang another solo, Miss Simmons of Adams street gave readings, and Mrs. Tirrell read a very interesting paper on "A visit to Pond Home."

Explosion Cripples Light Service

St. Paul, April 5.—The city light service here was practically put out of commission as a result of the destruction of the $500,000 power plant of the St. Croix Power company at Apple River Falls, Wis. A dynamo exploded, setting fire to the plant, which was completely destroyed.

Cutting Out One Factor In The High Cost of Living

One of the chief causes of high prices is high profits. Any plan that reduces the size or the number of profits that stand between the factory and you is a plan in your benefit.

Regal Shoes are Sold Direct from the Factory to Wearer at Cost Plus Five Per Cent. Commission and the Low Regal Selling Cost

Heretofore, all good shoes have been built to sell at fixed "even" prices—$3.50, $4.00, $4.50, $5.00 and so on. If a shoe could be sold at, say $4.35, shoe traditions would not permit it. It had to be "built up" by adding unnecessary expense to sell at $4.50, or "cut down" (to its hurt) to sell at $4.00.

All this has been changed by the Regal Shoe Company's new plan of selling shoes just as many other necessities are sold—and just as all necessities should be—at a definite, small commission over cost of manufacture—in our case only 5 per cent.—plus the cost of selling.

It makes no difference whether or not the price figures out in "even money." The new plan gives you Regal Shoes nearer to actual cost, and charged with smaller and fewer profits than any other make. The price is stamped on the shoes at the factory. This stamp is your guaranty that more of your money goes for quality and less for profit than in any other shoe you can buy.

This is the stamp that will hereafter be found on Regal Shoes. It is your guarantee that the price appearing in its centre is the lowest for which a shoe of such quality can be bought.

THE COUNTY ENDEAVORERS

To Be Addressed by Speaker Walker and Others

Patriots' day, April 19, is convention day for the Christian Endeavor societies of Massachusetts. In all but one of the counties these group conventions will be held, and the total attendance will be approximately five thousand.

One of the best programs in the State has been arranged for Norfolk county, and the societies at Foxboro where the convention is to be held are preparing for a large attendance. Committees have been busy for several weeks perfecting arrangements for transportation and entertainment and nothing is being neglected which will add to the success of the occasion.

Among the distinguished speakers who have been secured are Hon. Joseph Walker, speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives Hon. Samuel J. Elder, recently special counsel for the U.S. government at The Hague arbitration tribunal Dr. George L. Cady, pastor and sociologist and Mr. William Shaw, general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor.

Because of the prominence of the speakers the sessions will be thrown open to the public, and many other than Endeavorers will no doubt attend. The special convention train will leave Boston at 8.55 A.M. and arrive in Boston on the return at 5.55 P.M. It will stop at Hyde Park in both directions.

—"Dollar Gas" is the slogan of citizens of Woburn. Petitioners, under the auspices of the Woburn Citizens Association, are asking for a reduction of the $1.40 gas rate and an extension of the mains. At a hearing it developed that requests for extension of service had been met with the answer that the prospective business did not warrant it.

TO CONSIDER RECIPROCITY

But Democrats Expect to Greatly Extend the Program

CONGRESS IN EXTRA SESSION

All Democrats Vote For Clark For Speaker, While Mann Receives Votes of Republicans—Canadian Pact Reintroduced by McCall—Great Demonstration Accorded Bryan and Harmon—Speaker Outlines Program

Washington, April 5.—Democratic cheers of victory, suppressed for sixteen years, marked the passing of the house of representatives from the control of the Republicans to that of Democrats. Champ Clark was sworn into office amid the cheers of Democrats and Republicans alike, who were ably assisted by the hundreds of men and women in the galleries.

Not a vote was cast against Clark on the Democratic side, 217 of 228 Democrats voting for him, eleven members being absent. On the Republican side the insurgent forces, somewhat diminished in strength, showed evidences of continuing warfare against the party leaders. Representative James R. Mann of Illinois received 131 votes for the speakership, which made him minority leader. Sixteen insurgents voted for Mr. Cooper of Wisconsin, and one insurgent voted for Mr. Norris of Nebraska.

No speaker ever witnessed a more inspiring scene than did Champ Clark as he walked down the centre aisle and ascended to the marble desk which he has so long coveted. With Clark's election formally completed the house began the consideration of routine business, swearing in of new officers, passing resolutions of notification to the senate and president and drawing of seats.

The interest of opening day centred almost entirely in the house and the routine proceedings of the senate were all but forgotten. The re-elected and new senators were sworn in under the old regime and then a recess was ordered to await the organization of the house and the report of a committee appointed to wait upon the president.

Reciprocity Bill Introduced

Representative McCall of Massachusetts, who introduced the bill at the last session of congress to carry the reciprocity agreement into effect, reintroduced his measure and it was referred to the Democratic committee on ways and means, where it will be sidetracked for a similar measure, but of Democratic origin.

The scenes that marked the gathering of the new national legislature was spectacular. The joy of political contest seemed to be in the air. Champ Clark received a great ovation. "Uncle Joe" Cannon, the retiring speaker, was also wildly cheered. The greatest demonstration of all, however, came when William J. Bryan and Governor Harmon of Ohio met on the floor of the house. The two men, each a leader in the Democratic party, shook hands heartily.

Speaker Clark's Address

Mr. Clark became speaker of the house at 1:20 o'clock when he added "I do" to the oath administered by Representative Talbot of Maryland. In his speech he outlined what the Democrats proposed to do. After thanking his colleagues for the speakership and the ovation accorded him and admitting that he realized fully the responsibilities involved upon him Clark said:

"We are this day put on trial, and the duty devolves upon us to demonstrate that we are worthy of the confidence imposed in us by the voters of this land.

"We will not shirk our duty. We do not shrink from the responsibilities. That we will prove equal to the emergencies there can be no doubt, and the way to accomplish that is to fulfill with courageous, intelligent patriotism, the promises made before the election in order to win that election.

"By discharging our duties thoroughly and well, subordinating personal desires to principles and personal ambitions to love of country, we not only will receive the endorsement of the country, but what is far better, we will deserve it.

Revision of Tariff Downwrad

"Chief among those promises were an honest, intelligent revision of the tariff downward, in order to give every American citizen an equal chance in the race of life, to hamper none unduly, or grant special favors or privileges, and to reduce the tariff cost of living by eradicating the enormities of the present tariff. Bills are already on file looking to this accomplishment."

Mr. Clark outlined the following as additional to the Democratic program:

The popular election of senators by direct vote of the people, a bill for which he said had already been prepared by the Democrats.

Changes in the house rules for the thorough consideration of measures.

Economy in the public expenditures.

The publicity of campaign contributions before election.

The bill to accomplish this, said Mr. Clark, had been prepared and introduced and will be speedily passed.

The admission of Arizona and New Mexico to statehood.

"I violate no confidence," said the speaker, "in stating that, so far as the house is concerned, they will be speedily admitted, and they will be admitted together.

"In conclusion," said Clark, "I suggest to my fellow-members on both sides of the house that he serves his party best who serves his country best."

Throughout the day the shadow of the coming presidential campaign fell across the Capitol. There is no question that maneuvers for advantage next year will play an important part in the affairs of the house and senate in the next few months.

NEVER TO KISS WIFE

Woman Says Husband Signed an Agreement to That Effect

St. Louis, April 5.—When Dr. R. L. Barrington, member of the Ethical society and special pension examiner for the government, would sit down to a meal in his home he used to ask his wife: "Is this food poisoned?"

Mrs. Mary W. Barrington, who is suing the physician for divorce, testified to this habit of his before Judge Rassieur.

On cross examination Mrs. Barrington identified a contract signed by her husband.

The note read: "I agree not to annoy my wife by kissing or caressing her, to confine my conversation to impersonal or business topics, so that our lives may be as tolerable as possible, and to have my guests, if I happen to have any, to myself."

BABY EMPEROR IN COMMAND OF ARMY

Chinese Government Has a New Military Program

Pekin, April 5.—An imperial edict, issued in the name of the infant emperor, assumes for him supreme command of the army and appoints the prince regent generalissimo until the emperor attains his majority.

The proclamation is the most important of a series of edicts, by which the throne has gradually raised the military standard, until the army, which was once the most despised profession, is now considered of the highest type.

It reviews at length the valorous history of the ancestors of the present dynasty and intimates that dangers are lurking about the frontiers. It declares the necessity of a great army, and demands that the families discontinue selfishly seeking their own interests, and unite as every family will suffer if conquered. It announces a new military program. If fulfilled, the proclamation will prove historical.

WOMAN MAYOR OF CITY

Office Awarded Her After She Tied Opponent In Election

Hunnewell, Kan., April 5.—Mrs. Ella Wilson is now mayor of this city. At the election she and O. M. Akers were tied for the office. At first it was suggested that the two candidates draw lots for the office. But that did not appeal to the male voters. They said that if Mrs. Wilson could race a man to a tie she ought to have the office. Therefore the judges of election declared her elected.

Now she is going to clean up Hunnewell, she says. She declared in campaign speeches the town was harboring blacklegs and that the pool halls were being run contrary to law. She proposes to correct these alleged infractions of the statutes.

Both the local and state police are putting forth every possible effort to find some clue to the dynamiters, but they admit that they are completely baffled.

The contractors declare that 100 bricks and a few hours' work will put the structure in as good shape as ever.

GIRLS LEAP FOR LIFE IN $200.000 BLAZE

None Injured Beyond Being Jolted Up and Frightened

Dedham, Mass., April 5.—The main building of the Cochrane Manufacturing company, makers of carpets and handkerchiefs, was practically wiped out by fire yesterday afternoon. The damage is estimated to total $200,000.

There were 500 people employed in the building. Nearly all of them were girls. The fire started about 12:20, and because of this fact nearly all of the girls had gone to their homes for luncheon.

On the ground floor, when the fire started, were about twenty-five girls eating their lunch. So quickly did the flames spread that they were thrown into a panic. Instead of trying to make their exit through the doors, they rushed pell mell to the windows and leaped out. Fortunately the distance to the ground was only about six or eight feet and save being jolted up considerably and badly frightened, the girls suffered no injury.

Wichita, Kan., April 5.—William Matthewson, original "Buffalo Bill," is to become a bridegroom for the third time in 81 years. The bride-to-be is Miss Olive O. Johnson, 30, stenographer.

SAYS CAMORRA DOES NOT EXIST

De Marinis Charged With Planning Cuocolo Murders

DUE TO PERSONAL HATRED

Man With Long Criminal Record, Including Murder, Said to Have Received Cuocolo's Ring as Token That Vendetta Had Terminated Successfully—Boasts of His Family and Friendship For Aristocrats

Viterbo, April 5.—The jury in the Camorra trial listened to the interrogation and defense of Giuseppe de Marinis, who is charged with having planned the murder of Gennaro Cuocolo and his wife.

De Marinis is one of the few prisoners who wear the "Sfregio" or scar inflicted upon the cheek by the Camorra for a violation of one of the society's pledges.

De Marinis, like Alfano, denied the existence of the Camorra and protested his innocence of the murder of Cuocolo. The witness is one of the most interesting of the prisoners, and his criminal record, according to the police dockets of Naples and Rome, extends back for a number of years.

De Marinis is accused of hating Cuocolo personally because of the treachery of the latter. Several years before the Cuocolo murder, in June, 1906, Cuocolo planned a big robbery, which was successfully executed by De Marinis. Later Cuocolo contrived to turn his confederate over to the police and secured all the loot.

It was De Marinis, the caribineers charge, who received Cuocolo's ring marked with the initials "G. C." This ring was supposed to be a token that the vendetta against Cuocolo had terminated "successfully."

Although he was employed in a slaughter house, De Marinis before his arrest was always dressed in the height of fashion and invariably carried large sums of money. He was frequently accompanied by a fashionably dressed young woman who disappeared mysteriously after his arrest and is supposed to have fled to the United States.

De Marinis started his criminal career at the age of 14, when he was arrested as a pickpocket. It was not many years later before he was convicted for murder. Although he has been imprisoned scores of times, the sentences inflicted even for serious crimes were always light.

De Marinis spoke in a pompous manner and boasted of his friendship for Neapolitan aristocrats and his own family. He had dressed with scrupulous care for his ordeal on the stand and seemed elated at occupying the centre of the stage. He punctuated his story with the dramatic gestures of the stage, occasionally flicking a speck of dust from his clothing.

"I come of a noble family and am exceedingly well educated," was one of his statements to the court. We are of a family of traditions and good blood. My business affairs have been of importance."

In view of the fact that De Marinis had been employed in a slaughter house before his arrest, this sally was received with laughter. Unabashed, the witness continued:

"I am a man of aristocratic habits, and am proud to say that I have frequented the best theatres and the most fashionable cafes in Naples. My intimates were members of the nobility, and I frequently rode in the esplanades with men whose names are well known all over Italy."

The witness then entered boastfully into his relations with aristocrats, keeping his voice up so that no one in the room would lose a word of it.

MADMAN IN ST. PETER'S

Fires at Canons Without Warning and Causes Much Alarm

Rome, April 5.—A man subsequently identified as Pietro Pesanti, and thought to be insane, entered St. Peter's armed with a revilver, and without warning fired upon the canons, who were engaged in the recitation of the breviary "In Choir."

The shot went wild and the man was seized and placed under arrest. He fought savagely and slightly wounded a policeman. The worshippers were much alarmed until the madman was secured.

The Honorable Senator Sagebrush

SYNOPSIS.

Evan Blount, son of "Boss" David Blount ("Senator Sagebrush"), has been rejected by Patricia Anners. Dick Gantry offers him a position with the Transcontinental railway, which is fighting his father. McVickar, head of the railroad, and "Boss" Blount quarrel.

The boss demands that the railroad stop the use of crooked methods. Going west to meet his father, Evan meets a man who takes him for a forestry employee.

Evan is kidnaped by a band of men, evidently land corporation agents, and is taken at night to a mansion seemingly presided over by a woman.

The house is Wartrace Hall, Senator Blount's home, and the woman is Evan's stepmother, whom he had never met.

The senator purposes running Evan for attorney general despite the young man's recent arrival in the state. Evan objects. He hears his father called a political trickster.

McVickar defies Senator Blount to nominate Evan. Patricia and her geologist father arrive at the Sagebrush capital.

At McVickar's request Evan joins the railroad's forces as division counsel and political worker. He favors clean politics, but finds that his office is made a rallying point by small political hangers-on of the road.

Evan has a disagreement with Gantry about the road's mixing in politics. His father pulls wires unknown to him to have him invited to speak in a distant mining town. Hathaway, who has been trying to do business with the road and with Senator Blount, is to have a talk with Mrs. Blount.

Exposure of the railroad is threatened by Evan to Gantry unless rebating and other unlawful practices are stopped. Evan suspects his secretary, Collins, of tampering with his desk.

The desk is blown up by a burglar, evidently after Evan's papers. Gantry tells McVickar that Evan is getting to be too much for him to handle.

Hathaway wants a rebate from the road in consideration of political favors. He is referred to Evan and is advised by Mrs. Blount to put Professor Anners' name on his list of stockholders.

Evan's interview with Hathaway reveals the road's misdoings. In a rage he resigns. Gantry holds up the resignation. Evan insists that it go through to McVickar.

Patricia refuses Evan again. She advises him to stick to the road and work for clean politics. He withdraws his resignation and is sent into the field on a speaking tour.

CHAPTER XVIII.

FATHER AND SON.

HAVING the sacrificial thing to do, Evan Blount was not of those who make a painful task more painful by needlessly postponing it. Judge Hemingway was sitting in chambers. This Blount had learned when he was returning from his call upon Blenkinsop. With the way open before him there was nothing to do but to walk in it.

The courthouse was only two squares east and one south from his offices in the Temple court building, and on one of the intervening corners stood the towerlike building of the Daily Capital.

It was on the Capital corner that Blount halted, asking himself how far he would be justified in withholding Gryson's statement from the editor until after the scandal had been public property through its appearance on the court records. Open publicity had been his watchword from the beginning, and was he to hesitate now because the ties of kinsman were holding him back?

While he was hesitating before the door of the newspaper office a small red touring car dropped out of the stream of vehicles in the street and stopped at the curb. A moment later he became conscious that the single occupant of the car was calling to him. It was Patricia, and her mood was reproachful.

"I like the way you treat your friends," she said when he had crossed quickly to her. "What have I done that you should send word to me that you couldn't or wouldn't see me?"

"You have done nothing—nothing at all," he made haste to say. "I have been overrun all day with callers—people who had much to ask and nothing to give in return. I had no idea that you would come so early when I told Collins to deny me to everybody. And there was another thing. If you could know"—

"I am very willing to know," she interrupted.

The newspaper corner was one of the busiest in the city, and its curb was no place for confidences. Blount stepped quickly around the front end of the red car and swung himself into the seat beside its driver. "Drive into one of the quieter streets," he said, "and I'll share the miserable burden with you, as I have shared all the others." And when the little car was creeping on the low gear out one of the broad residence avenues he told her all, exaggerating nothing and palliating nothing.

"I can't reason against the facts, Evan. You know what you are saying and why you are warranted in saying it," she began. "But I still believe absolutely in your father. What are you going to do?"

"The only thing there is to do," he returned, with a note of harshness in his voice which was only a measure of his suffering. "When you picked me up on the Capital corner I was on my way to Judge Hemingway's chambers with the affidavits. I have taken a solemn oath, Patricia, and the law which I have sworn to uphold is greater than"—

He was going to say "is greater than any man's immunity," but she finished the sentence otherwise for him.

"Is greater than your love for your father. I suppose I ought to be able to understand that, but I am not, Evan, you must not do it. Every drop of that father's blood in your veins ought to cry out against it."

"Ah," he said, with a quick indrawing of his breath, "you don't know what it is costing me!"

"Truly, I don't. Evan, your father is a great and good man. If he had a daughter instead of a son she would know it. I wish I were his daughter. I should try to show him that blood is thicker than water!"

"You wish you were his daughter? Do you realize what you are saying?" Then, brokenly: "Don't, Patricia! Don't make me do evil that good may come. Can't you understand how I am driven to do this thing, how every fiber of me is rebelling against the savage necessity? God knows I'd give my life and all my hopes of happiness if the necessity could be wiped out!"

Instantly she changed her attack.

"If I can't bribe you I must and will convince you," she persisted. "You are a brave man, Evan. I know, because I have seen you tried. You mustn't turn cowardly now."

"Nor shall I," he countered quickly. "But I don't understand."

"Don't you? Isn't it cowardly to strike this cruel blow in the dark? You know your father isn't here to defend himself. You can't do such a thing without at least giving him the warning that you would give your bitterest enemy."

"His absence is merely an added twist of the thumbscrews," he said in fresh wretchedness. "He is not here, and the time is too short to get him here. What is done must be done today—this afternoon. Otherwise it will be too late to stop this last and most shameless attack upon the liberties of every honest voter in this commonwealth. Don't make it harder for me, Patricia. Surely you can see how hard it is as it stands."

"I can see that you are about to do something for which in all the years to come you will never be able to get your own forgiveness, Evan," she said.

Then, with a sudden skillful flick of the speed lever, she sent the little car ahead with a lurch, steering it in the sharpest of swerves into the nearest cross street affording an outlet to the northern road.

"Stop, Patricia!" he cried. "What are you doing? I must go back to the courthouse!"

"I'll take you back to the courthouse," she promised, deftly slipping in the third speed, "and you shall be there before Judge Hemingway goes home. But, in common justice, you must and shall first tell your father what you are going to do! Don't try to stop me! If you do I'll run into something and smash the car."

"DON'T TRY TO STOP ME!"

With the switch plug on the dash within easy reach, it would have been a simple matter for him to stop the car. But her single hearted devotion was not to be so easily thwarted. It had not occurred to him that he might drive to Wartrace Hall and return in time to set the legal machinery in motion to stop the frauds. So when he leaned forward it was not to throw the electric switch, as she feared; it was merely to adjust the wind shield so that the blast of the speed rush would not blow them both breathless.

For fifteen miles north of the capital the Quaretaro road is a straightaway race track, and Miss Anners proved herself a fearless driver. Almost before Blount realized it the red car was among the hills and climbing to the mesa levels. At Shonoho canyon they passed a horseman coming down the canyon road. The man's horse shied at sight of the car and threatened to bolt, but Patricia was looking straight ahead and made no movement to slacken speed. In the passing glimpse Blount thought he recognized the rider. It was the man Barto or his double.

By the time the little car was flying up the cottonwood sentineled avenue at Wartrace Hall Patricia had broken a record. The thirty miles from the capital had been covered in forty-two minutes.

When she brought the car to a stand at the carriage entrance the young woman spoke for the first time since

PACT IS CONCLUDED

Closer Commercial Relations Between America and Japan

Tokio, April 5.—Ratification of the American-Japanese commercial treaty were exchanged following a luncheon given at the palace of Emperor Mutsuhito in honor of American ambassador O'Brien. Premier Katsura and Foreign Minister Komura were present at the luncheon, preceding which the emperor received O'Brien in private audience.

During the audience the emperor congratulated the diplomat upon the share which he had in the negotiations which made closer the relations between the two countries and entrusted him with a verbal message for President Taft in which the American executive is complimented upon the conclusion of a treaty on which Japan places the highest possible value.

After the luncheon the emperor handed to O'Brien an English translation of his formal message to President Taft. The Anglo-Japanese commercial treaty has been signed and was published today.

Defeat of the General Butler statue resolve in the senate by a vote of 13 to 22.

Defeat of the woman suffrage resolve in the house by a vote of 69 to 161.

Defeat of resolve allowing salary of the late Judge Bond.

TWO MEN KILLED IN FITCHBURG FIRE

Newspaper and Other Concerns Are Burned Out

Fitchburg, Mass., April 5.—Two men were killed, one was seriously injured and several were overcome by smoke in a fire that gutted the Cushing block on Cushing street.

The dead are Lieutenant Charles W. Grinnell of Chemical Engine 1, and George W. Dow, employed as foreman at the J. S. Cushing grain elevator.

Grinnell was struck by falling bricks after a hot air explosion as he was about to enter the burning building. He was instantly killed.

The damage to the building is estimated at $30,000. It was occupied on the first floor by the Fitchburg Daily News for press and composing rooms, the Thompson bakery and Fitchburg creamery.

EXCEEDED ITS AUTHORITY

Hub Board of Health Wrong In Ordering Separate Milk Bottles

Boston, April 5.—Boston's board of health had no authority to make its famous "original package" milk regulation which provided for the elimination of the "dip tank" from the stores of this city and caused Bostonians to get their milk delivered to them in sealed bottles.

A decision of the supreme court to this effect was handed down yesterday. As a result the old custom of persons carrying their own milk pitchers, bottles and cans to the stores to purchase milk, which was done away with by the "original package" regulation, may be resumed in this city. Likewise can the practice of ladling out milk from dip tanks in stores be again taken up.

Concord, N. H., April 5.—After the most spirited filibustering of the session the house of representatives passed the bill appropriating $12,000 for the erection in the state house grounds of a statue of Franklin Pierce, New Hampshire's only President of the United States.

The vote was 164 to 73. The bill will now go to the senate.

New Steamship Record

New York, April 5.—The coastwise record between New York and Havana has been broken by the steamer Saratoga, which covered the distance, 1183 miles, in two days, twelve hours and thirty-one minutes.

HARRISON IS CHOSEN MAYOR

Has a Plurality of 17,082 In the Chicago Election

OVER 340,000 VOTES CAST

Failure of "Silk Stockings" to Venture Out In Storm Causes Falling Off In Strength Expected For Merriam—Previous Experience In Mayor's Chair and Promise of Seventy-Cent Gas Factors In Harrison's Favor

Chicago, April 5.—Carter H. Harrison, who has previously served eight years as mayor of Chicago, was elected mayor on the Democratic ticket yesterday by a plurality of 17,082.

Scrutiny of the returns by wards and precincts shows that Merriam got nearly 7 percent fewer votes than Fred Busse (Republican) got four years ago, whereas Harrison ran over 17 percent ahead of the figures attained by E. F. Dunne (Democrat) at that time. The vote reached above 340,000, which is approximately 25,000 more than the record at the last previous mayoralty contest.

Despite this, both sides agree that Merriam lost because the "silk stocking" wards failed to show the strength that had been expected from them in favor of Merriam.

Even in the Twenty-Fifth ward, where Merriam's candidacy was conceived, failure by Merriam supporters to go out in the drizzling rain, which fell all day, to cast ballots for their choice, caused Merriam's total to drop far below expectations. It was the result from this ward which first gave Merriam an intimation that his fight was in vain.

On the other hand, Harrison, who was receiving the returns at his home, announced, as soon as this ward had reported, that he had won. After this ward reported the result never was in doubt.

While the First ward gave its usual Democratic plurality, it was not alone in this and the river wards of similar character that Harrison showed strength. His eight years of service in the mayor's chair drew many from the ranks his opponent had counted on. Also his promise of 70-cent gas was said by his managers to have had great influence with the West Side wards, where he showed unexpected gains.

DAVIE IS PENNILESS

"Boy Broker" Had Spent All His Money When He Reached Brazil

Boston, April 5.—The reason why Robert E. Davie, who is on his way from Rio Janeiro to Boston to answer to swindles that are said to amount to $500,000, did not fight extradition, it is learned, was because he was penniless and friendless.

This fact was brought out in a communication from the secretary of state to police headquarters. In this official communication was a brief extract from the report of United States Consul Schlecta, who caused the arrest of the Boston fugitive.

The consul said that Davie had lived under the name of Roger E. Parsons and under that alias had received much mail through the Y. M. C. A. in Rio.

ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

Cheering News From the Bedside of Actor Denman Thompson

West Swanzey, N. H., April 5.—Once again the remarkable vitality which two years ago brought Denman Thompson back to health when almost at death's door with pneumonia, is getting the better of disease and the venerable actor, who has been ill with uremic poisoning for a fortnight past, appears to be on the road to recovery.

While he appreciates that he has been sick, Thompson does not realize, his physicians say, the seriousness of his illness.

The Phantom Wagon Train

By SALLY MENDAM

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Shortly before the buffalo disappeared from the western plains I joined a hunting party to get a last crack at this noble game. We took the old freighting road from St. Joseph, Mo., to Denver, on which many a wagon train had passed before the completion of the Union Pacific road as far as Laramie enabled merchants to transport their goods by a much more advantageous route. We had been out but a few days when an old plainsman wandered into our camp. He was the ghostliest chap I ever saw. He looked to be very old—how old we could not tell—and yet he didn't seem to have any home. So far as we could judge, he was an inhabitant of the plains, sometimes living with white men, sometimes with Indians.

One night after the others had turned in I was before my tent sitting with the old plainsman smoking when I heard the creaking of a wagon. It was bright moonlight, and I saw toward the east what appeared to be an old fashioned plains schooner—a wagon drawn by four horses—coming toward us. We were a quarter of a mile from the road on which it was moving—the old St. Joseph and Denver freighting road—so that we got only a distant view of the team.

"I didn't know," I said to the plainsman, "that wagons pass over this road since the railroad has been finished."

"They don't; that's the phantom team."

I laughed incredulously.

"Ef you'd like to hear the story," he replied, "I'll tell you. But you won't believe it nohow."

The wagon lumbered along westward and disappeared. The old plainsman told me the yarn.

"One mornin' about twenty years ago a spick and span wagon with a new canvas cover drawn by four shiny horses was ferried across the Missouri river from St. Joe and struck out for Denver. Inside was a family of emigrants. Jim Ringler, the husband and father, drove, while the mother and four children were inside. They were goin' out to make a home in some of the new territories into which the western world was divided. There wasn't anything about the emigrant, his family, his wagon or his horses that wasn't prosperous looking. He had sold out his business and put the money into this outfit.

"Six months from that I met Ringler movin' south of Colorado Springs. His family didn't look so comfortable, a good deal of the paint was wore off his wagon, and his horses were lean. He said he'd been disappointed in findin' a good place to settle. He'd tried the plains and the mountains. The plains was too low and the mountains was too high. He was lookin' for somethin' intermediate. I recommended the foothills, and he said he'd try 'em.

"Purty nigh a year passed, and I met the Ringler family ag'in in Utah. There wasn't one of 'em that didn't look like a skeleton, there wasn't a bit of paint on the wagon, two of the horses had died, and the other two was skin and bone. He said he was still lookin' for a place to settle, but hadn't found anything to suit him.

"The last time I ever seen Ringler's outfit was after another year had passed. It was on this road. The family had just been murdered by a party of Indians. The wagon was turned upside down, the Indians had taken the horses, and the bodies of Jim Ringler, his wife and children were layin' beside the road scalped. I've seen 'em a good many times since, always on the old St. Joe and Denver road headin' westward. I've often tried to git near enough to 'em to see ef they was spick and span like they was when they started or with the spokes rattlin' from bein' dried out as they was when the Indians got 'em."

There was something about the creaking of the disappearing wagon, the story and the old plainsman to make me shudder. As for a real wagon passing over that deserted thoroughfare that had been abandoned for the railroad, it did not seem possible that any emigrant or freighter would take a route so dangerous and so expensive. Yet I could hear the wagon rattle, and, catching a faint view of it in the moonlight, I saw that it was a veritable schooner of the olden time. Without a word I said good night to the man who had told me the story and turned in.

In the morning the old fellow was not in camp. He had gone without leave as he had come without invitation.

That day we met some plains people. I told them about our visitor and the story he narrated. They had evidently heard the story before and seemed to believe in its ghostly attributes, for they stood listening to it in a sort of fright. When I had finished they asked me to describe the man who had told it.

"He was tall and thin, with a white beard and hair, a hook nose, not a tooth in his head and glittering eyes, sunk deep in their sockets. He might be any age from seventy to a hundred. There was a scar of a terrible gash he had received right across his cheek"—

My listeners scattered in every direction, except one old fellow, who stood shivering and crossing himself.

"What's the matter?" I asked.

"Great heaven, man, it was Jim Ringler himself!"

Little Items of Interest In Towns About Quincy

The schoolhouse at Weymouth recently given to the Grand Army will be remodelled as a memorial hall.

The voters of Hyde Park, who voted for annexation to Boston in order to get a five cent fare, received a jolt at the State House on Tuesday when the Old Colony street railway opposed a bill authorizing the Boston Elevated to lease the lines in Dedham and Hyde Park. Neither company desire it.

The committee on metropolitan affairs of the Legislature voted unanimously on Tuesday to appoint a subcommittee to draft a bill permitting the annexation of Hyde Park to Boston. Both communities will have a chance to vote on the question at the state election.

Dedham voted at town meeting this week adversely on celebrating the 275th anniversary of the town.

About 1500 pounds of cod and haddock were strewn along Nantasket beach on Monday, probably from some fishing boat.

Dedham thinks it has celebrated enough anniversaries and at its adjourned town meeting voted that there will be no celebration of the 275th anniversary of the foundation of the town, the order to appropriate for a celebration having been postponed indefinitely.

The selectmen of Braintree have appointed: Chief of police, Amos J. Loring, night patrolmen, Horace F. Hunt, Jeremiah F. Gallavan and John P. Shay; moth commissioner, Oscar A. Hubbard; fire warden James M. Cutting; inspector Josephus Sampson; pound keeper, N. Allen Penniman; Sealer, Charles M. Lothrop; field drivers, Josephus Sampson, Chas. W. Matthews and Charles Mahar.

PRESENTATION TO PASTOR

Resolutions Also Adopted by Epworth League

The regular monthly business meeting and social of the Epworth League of the Hall Place M. E. church was held in the vestry Tuesday evening.

The meeting was called to order by the president, J. M. Francis. A nominating committee of three members, Miss M. E. Hodgkinson, Miss Hilda Francis and Miss Florence Manhire, were appointed to bring in nominations for the officers for the coming years.

Resolutions were adopted by the League on the resignation of Rev. Carl H. Raupach the pastor.

Miss Maud E. Hodgkinson on behalf of the Epworth League then presented Mr. Raupach with a League pin as a token of the love and esteem in which he is held by the league, and in appreciation of his great helpfulness during his ministry here.

When Mr. Raupach recovered from his great surprise he thanked the members in a few well chosen words for their kind remembrance of him, and said that he would ever be interested in the work of this league and would be ready to be of any assistance he could.

The Social hour was in charge of Miss Hilda Francis. Ice cream and cake were served by the fourth vice president assisted by Miss C. Hodgkinson, Miss P. Kristofferson, Miss H. Francis, and J. M. Francis. A good number were present.

His foot was removed half way to the knee, and although 70 years of age he is reported to have withstood the operation well and his speedy recovery is looked for.

Mr. French has been connected with the railway mail service for many years having been appointed in 1883. He formerly ran between Boston and Cape Cod but had recently been detailed as transfer clerk at the South station. He is the first and only president of the Washington M. French Hose Association, which was named for his father, and ha s a host of friends in Quincy who hope to see him about again soon.

—The New England Kennel club opens next Tuesday for three days. Celebrated dogs from all parts of the world will be seen, Irish wolfhounds and old English sheep dogs which have won prizes not only in this country, but in nearly every show in Europe. The total number of entries is 1253.

BRIEFS

Quincy veterans are in attendance at the annual encampment of the Massachusetts department which opened today in Faneuil hall.

The street railway, which had its open cars already to put into service in anticipation of pleasant weather, has put them back into winter quarters for a time.

The Supreme court has handed down a decision which says that the Boston Board of Health had no authority to make its "original package" milk regulation which provided that milk should be delivered to customers in sealed bottles.

At the last meeting for this year of the official board of the Hall M. E. church, held Monday evening in the vestry, suitable resolutions were passed on the closing of the pastorate of Rev. C. H. Raupach, who leaves here after four years of faithful, earnest work, during which time he has endeared himself to his people.

"A Western aviator took his wife up in an aeroplane for a picnic dinner," as if the high cost of living was not sufficiently high now.

THE MAN WHO HELPS.

The man who is a benefit to a community is not the man who lives entirely for himself who never gives time or money to assist in public or private charity who patronizes home traders only when actually obliged to do so, who is constantly looking after the dollar which is coming to himself with no thought of any of his fellow citizens, who pays his taxes grudgingly, who expects everyone to help him, but has no help for others. Do you know any such?

On the other hand the man with a cheery smile and a helping hand, even when it is of no especial benefit to himself, the one who helps his neighbor without constantly thinking what he can get out of it, who does all his trading at home, who constantly has a good word for his town and his fellow citizens, who is genuinely glad to see some one beside himself prospering, such a man is of great value to any community. The world wants more of them.—Franklin N. H., Journal Transcript.

Many a man would not have to eat breakfast food if his wife did not have to wear silks.

WASHINGTON STREET THE BEST SITE

In Favor of Trolley Freight Depot on Tisdale Lot

In another column will be found a report of the Board of Trade meeting last night which was very largely attended. The order before the City Council granting a location to the Street Railway Co. for a branch off on Washington street was under discussion and debated at length pro and con. It was finally endorsed by a vote of over two to one. The arguments of Paul R. Blackmer in favor are given in full:

At the meeting of the City Council the other evening, during the debate on this question, I listened with close attention to the arguments delivered against this location, and I was surprised to see how far from the real issue many of them were directed. For instance, nearly every speaker insisted that the readiness of the company to comply with a condition imposed upon them, in the face of their own protest, by the Committee on Streets,—a condition by the way which was one of the kind which the Council had by law a perfect right to impose—was regarded as an admission beyond doubt by the company that that which was forced upon them was right. Because we have to pay the current prices for the necessities of life is no argument that we concede the justice of the conditions which impose upon us the high cost of living.

Again, several of the speakers disclaimed any prejudice against the Street Railway company, and took pains to place themselves on record as in favor of the trolley express; but in the next sentence they or feeling by reminding their associates that the right to operate trolley freight in the city had been granted over their protest.

Now, gentlemen, isn't it for the best interests of our city, and for the persons residing therein that we deal with the real issue on its merits Should not we start from the premise that whatever may have been the opinion of most of our citizens in the past as to the desirability of trolley freight in Quincy, now in the light of experience and investigation we are all satisfied that a trolley express service would be a distinct benefit and is desirable for this city and its people. And is not the only issue now fairly before us whether the construction of a single branch-off on Washington street, built as proposed, used and operated under the restrictions set forth in the company's franchise and order now before the City Council, one that carries with it such objections as will warrant the Council in refusing to grant it.

Is the obvious advantage of a central location upon a main thoroughfare more than offset by adverse conditions surrounding this particular location?

That seems to me to be the real issue; not whether the willingness to accept a hard bargain or numerous conditions is an admission that we are wrong; and not whether the city at one time was unwilling to grant a franchise; not whether something may have occurred in the past having no realtion upon this matter was decided adversely to certain interests, but whether there is in fact any serious or real objection to this location.

OBJECTIONS MET.

One of the objections most frequently heard is that the street at this point is too narrow—that the proposed manner of crossing the street is such that the use of the turnoff by the cars and the use of the street by vehicles, occasioned by a location of a trolley express depot will be such serious factors in the travel of the street as to make it a nuisance or objectionable.

The street, in fact, is at this point 50 feet wide, 35 feet from curb to curb. It is a street wider than Washington to the Adams House, wider than Beale street corner of Farrington, wider than Squantum street at the corner of Hancock. The distance the trolley express car will travel from the main line to the property line is 25 feet. Going at the rate of four miles an hour, it would take a car six seconds to cover the distance, and with the attendant flagman, it might require 10 seconds. Eight cars a day passing over this branch-off would take a minute and 20 seconds during 12 hours a day. The street therefore would be blocked by car or cars for a minute and 20 seconds not at one time, but in the aggregate throughout the day. Again the car would start from one side of the street to the other, and would not necessarily occupy the whole street during the ten seconds.

A record was kept in the cities of Taunton with 34,000 inhabitants, and in Brockton with its 58,000, during the entire day of the number of teams per hour, and the maximum teams at any one time doing business at the office of the trolley express. In Taunton the average number of teams per hour was six.—the largest number of teams in the yard at any one time was five. In Brockton the average number of teams per hour was less than eight, and the greatest number of teams in the yard at any one time was five.

A record of vehicles passing on Washington street in either direction, and on Hancock street near Granite street, was kept on Tuesday, March 28, of this year. Between the hours of three and four 66 vehicles passed this location in either direction on Washington street. On Hancock street between the hours of eight and nine there were 81. At the same hour on Washington street, there were 46. Between seven and eight in the morning during the time one of the cars would make a trip only 29 vehicles passed this place in either direction. Between four and five there were 55, and between five and six, 40.

To illustrate what little difficulty there is experienced in crossing the track by a large number of teams, over which a heavy traffic is run, consider the branch turn-off from Washington street and along Coddington street in the center of the city. On Sundays ,in the summer time, during eighteen hours of the day, there are 250 cars crossing between Washington street and Coddington street. During eight hours of the day and evening there are 24 cars pass over this turnout per hour ,and this during the same period that more than 100 automobiles per hour cross the same tracks. Compare such use with the four cars crossing twice each per day over Washington street into the express terminal. Compare the use of Washington street by the trolley express cars with the use of the street by passenger cars at the corner of Newport avenue and Beale street, at Beale street and Farrington street, at Barry's corner, and at other points in the city where we all know there are a hundred or more cars crossing per day.

ANTICIPATE WIDENING.

Now the railroad company have agreed to place their buildings back from the street line 15 feet, and this is in anticipation of a widening of the street, which must soon come. We admit that the traffic over Washington street is heavy, but it is on holidays and Sundays that congestion takes place; on these days no trolley express will run. We realize that it would not only be an advantage to the people of Quincy to have a wide thoroughfare, an advantage to the people in outlying wards of the city to get quick transit over Washington street, but that it would also be an advantage to the company, and recog-

MAY BUILD FOR CHILI

Fore River Co. Submits Bids for Battleships

The Fore River Shipbuilding Co. was one of the three American shipbuilding firms to submit bids for 26,000 ton dreadnoughs for Chili which were opened at the Chilean legation in Washington on Wednesday. Each bidder had to submit three designs for each vessel, so that the Fore River Co. sent six designs.

These were taken to Washington on Tuesday night by Secretary MacQuarrie and were forwarded to London on Wednesday night. The bids however were sent by cable.

At the office of the Fore River Co. this noon it was said that it would be some time before anything was heard from it, at least ten days before the plans reached London.

Then the Chilean naval commission would have to look over the designs and as there were upwards of 100 designs all told, it would take some time after that before they were heard from.

European bidders for the construction of the same vessel submitted their bids direct to the Chilean naval commission in London.

The amounts of none ofthe bids have been made public, and will not be until given out in London.

A dispatch from Washington says: Senior Yoacham, charge d'affaires of the Chilean legation, forwarded Wednesday night to the naval commission in London the figures submitted by the American bidders. He said he was unable to disclose the figures, that being a function of the commission in London.

Secretary of the Navy Meyer has taken the position that should the bids of the Amercan firms be accepted, this government would afford them the same facilities in respect to government plans and papers as were given the builders of the Argentine dreadnoughts.

This consideration, it is believed, will have much influence with the Chilean government in the selection of the builder.

The other two American bidders were the New York shipbuilding company of Camden, N. J., and William Cramp & Sons of Philadelphia.

FIRST SOD TURNED FOR NEW CHURCH

New Edifice for Park and Downs Society Will Now Be Rushed to Completion

Supper, Jollification, and Address by Dr. Asher Anderson

In a pouring rain, and amidst a conglomerate mixture of snow, mud and other of natures elements, Rev. William B. Ayers turned over the first sod on Wednesday evening in the erection of a new edifice for the Park and Downs Congregational church, to the cheers of his congregation.

Mrs. B. A. Banks, president of the Womens Missionary society was the next to handle the spade, and after her came the building committee and other members of the church, until all had had a chance to help along the good work.

After breaking the ground all adjourned to the vestry where a hearty and appetizing supper was served by a committee of the ladies consisting of Mrs. B. A. Banks, Mrs. Clarence Hunter, Mrs. Frederick Torrey, Mrs. James Macdonald, Mrs. Herman Forsyth, Mrs. Herbert Tucker, Mrs. Bissette, Miss Mary Tobey, Mrs. Charles Gilliatt, Mrs. Frank Knowlton, Mrs. T. H. Irving, Mrs. C. A. Boynton, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Norman Northrop, Mrs. Newell, Mrs. Bussler and Mrs. Lentell.

A "jollification" in the church followed the supper, at which Rev. Asher Anderson of Boston, secretary of the National Council of Congregational churches was the speaker. His subject was "Put money in thy pocket."

The speaker was introduced by Rev. Mr. Ayers as the best friend he

DRIFT OF OPINION.

That such medical inspection as is necessary in the public schools should be under the direct charge and with the full and unhampered responsibility of the school committee seems to us a proposition beyond all need of argument. Having control of the schools in all other matters, the commission of this highly important function to the school board should follow as a matter of course. The intrusion of another board through a body of subordinates over which the school committee has no control and for whose acts it cannot have the slightest responsibility is so contrary to every established and accepted principle of good administration that we have never been able to see why school committees have so long submitted with only spasmodic and timid protests. In the long run, no such divided power and responsibility can work well. They have not worked well in this city, where the alleged medical inspection is notoriously unsatisfactory, and where there are continual accusations of its inefficiency. Such foundation for judgment as the experimentation with the school nurse has afforded leads to the reflection that probably all the purposes of a practical medical inspection could be secured far better than they are secured at present by wiping out the entire corps of medical inspectors appointed by the board of health, and putting the entire duty into the hands of a school nurse with possibly two assistants. We think the board of health should voluntarily surrender the function of medical school inspection, but if it will not the school committee will be amply justified in a persistent agitation to induce the legislature to compel such surrender.—ew Bedford Standard.
New Bedford Standard.

Dr. H. W. Wiley, the food expert, is the latest to join in the crusade for more outdoor exercise by the American people. He declares that "nearly every man and woman at some time in their lives verge upon insanity" and insists that drugs and drink and worry are making us a nation of mental and nervous wrecks. In this he is supported by many eminent physicians who are doing more and more each year to get their patients away from their city surroundings and in the outdoor. Perhaps the most attractive antidote offered for this danger that threatens us has been prescribed by Governor Johnson of California. In an address to the school children of San Francisco he said:

"The love of birds and trees is one of the healthiest emotions of the human heart. It may well be cultivated. There is no more innocent and no more gratifying source of enjoyment than intelligent interest in the beauties of nature. Learn to know the calls and plumage of our birds, the varying foliage of our trees; grow to love the quiet places where they may best be studied and you will be happier and better citizens of our great state."

Governor Johnson's advice to the children is equally good for the grownups. The sunshine, the open places, the voices of nature are the most effective tonics for the cure of pessimism and the weakening ills that affect the city dweller.—Framingham News.

BIG CONTRACTS FOR WARSHIPS

Steered to United States by the Navy Department

MEYER DEFENDS HIS ACTION

Had Backing of State Department In Furnishing Secret Plans and Other Information to Argentine to the End That American Shipbuilders as Well as Our Government Might Reap Benefit—Believes Plan Beneficial

Washington, April 6.—The administration, through Secretary of the Navy Meyer, has made response to the LaFollette resolution of last February demanding to know what, if any, secret plans and other information relative to the construction of battleships has been furnished to representatives of the Argentine republic to enable American builders and business firms to secure a $32,000,000 contract.

The two Argentine battleships are now under construction by the Fore River Shipbuilding company at Quincy, Mass., the contract having been secured with the active assistance of the state and navy departments.

Secretary Meyer admits that secret plans were furnished by the department, upon his authority, and defends the practice as one common to all European governments and in the interest of American merchants, builders and workmen and the government itself.

The chief interest in the report of Meyer relates to the furnishing of confidential plans made by the board of ordnance of the construction of underwater torpedo tubes, the work being done at the Washington navy yard. It appears from the correspondence that when the bids for the battleships were being made and the Americans were in sharp competition with European builders, the Bethlehem Steel company applied to the navy department for assurance that if it obtained the contract for ordnance materials it could obtain from the bureau its plans for the construction of the tubes.

The responsibility of justifying the action of this government chiefly fell to the secretary of the navy, but Secretary Knox in his answer said that the action of administration officials was in accord with the policy of the act of 1909, under which the department of state was reorganized and the purpose of which was the extension of American trade relations.

Secretary Meyer's reply says that the patents on the plans to be used in this connection are not the exclusive property of the United States. Further he declared that this country will benefit greatly by the exchange of naval construction information with other countries.

The two Argentine battleships, which are being built at private shipyards here, are partly from plans which this government has adopted for the construction of the new battleships New York and Texas, for which appropriations were made only last session. For the information furnished, the United States reserved the right to purchase the two vessels from Argentina in case they were to be sold at any time. Furthermore Argentina was to consider the plans confidential.

On request of Senator LaFollette the reports of the two cabinet officers were ordered printed. Included in the reports was a list giving plans of guns, gun mounts and other appliances pertaining to the armament of battleships, which were communicated to the Argentine republic. Plans of the fire control system have not been disclosed, but it is the intention of the navy department to permit the use of that system in the vessels being constructed at Quincy, Mass., and Camden, N. J., for Argentina.

"It was apparent," said Meyer, "that if the American competitors in the shipbuilding trade were to offer bids upon a footing of equality with their foreign rivals, it was essential that they receive from their government the same assistance and support as that which the great ordnance manufacturers of Europe obtain from their governments."

Moving Pictures to Be Introduced In Pawtucket Sunday School

Pawtucket, R. I., April 6.—The introduction of moving pictures as a method of religious instruction in the Sunday school is the unusual feature which is soon to be brought into use at St. Mary's Roman Catholic church here. The pictures are to illustrate Bible history.

The advent of the moving picture education will come after Easter, and if the plan proves acceptable, it will probably be adopted by other churches, which are awaiting the result of the experiment with interest.

QUINCY BOARD OF TRADE

Trolley Freight Location on Washington St. Endosed

One of the largest meeting that the Board of Trade has held for some time was that of Wednesday evening. The magnet that drew out the large attendance was the question of the location of the trolley freight depot. There was another subject up for discussion, namely Public Docks, but after more than three hours discussion on the trolley freight question the meeting adjourned after the Board had put itself on record as approving the location selected by a vote of 19 in favor and 7 against.

The principal arguments in favor of the location were made by Paul R. Blackmur, who went into the question in detail to show that the element of danger and congestion would not exist.

John L. Miller and Mr. Berman claimed that the place for the freight depot was in the business centre where the business is. Each of these speakers were cross examined at length by Charles H. Hardwick, one of the principal objectors to the location, and his objections were brought out largely in his cross examination.

Others to speak in opposition were Councilmen John R. Richards and Charles A. Erikson. Neither of these gentlemen were opposed to a trolley freight but opposed the location of the freight depot, on the claim that it would cause congestion and would be dangerous.

Arthur W. Stetson also opposed, but his remarks consisted of a statement that he supposed the reason why certain people signed the railway petition was because they objected to the stable nuisance.

One of the arguments brought out in favor was that with a trolley freight car people on the street knew where it was going, but with some of the auto express cars on the street no one knew where they were going until they hit.

The question of endorsing the location was then put to a vote with the result above stated, namely 19 in favor and 7 against.

During the evening the following letter was received from President P. F. Sullivan of the street railway company:

Boston, Mass., April 5, 1911.
Mr. Eugene R. Stone, President Board of Trade, Quincy, Mass.

Dear Sir—Referring to the movement for the widening of Washington street, Quincy, this company realizes that at no distant day it will be necessary that a double track shall be constructed in said street in order to enable the company to better serve the public. Under such conditions we are prepared to co-operate with the proper authorities as to said widening and to bear a reasonable proportion of the cost of the same.

Very respectfully,
P. F. Sullivan, President.

Another matter was the motion of William H. Teasdale endorsing the Sunday post office movement. This resolution was unanimously adopted with but little discussion.

It is understood that the Sunday closing means that mails will be received and dispatched as usual, and the office will be open at certain hours so that box holders may get their mail, but the general delivery and stamp window will be closed.

The arguments of P. R. Blackmur relative to the trolley freight depot appear in full in another column.

Ex. Councilman McDevitt Comments on Trolley Express

Editor of Quincy Ledger:

As an interesting listener at Monday night's meeting of the City Council, and as the matter of the location on Washington street asked by the Street Railway Co., has not been disposed of as yet, I am writing these lines in the interest of the general public. One of nicest political games was partly pulled off at the meeting, and more shame to the members in the working wards of the city—Two, Three and Four—that stood for it.

I knew in advance how the Democrats would have to vote, and if there is any such a thing in the supposed minority representation in the City Council, as using your own judgment, its about time for it to assert itself. Councilman Ericson is to be congratulated for bring in a minority report, and the members who stood by that report represent what is commonly known as the people, when they take a stand as they did on this question.

From the outside, looking in, they had a solid argument and presented it well, while the opposition's was as much out of place as a tall hat on a tramp.

Let me quote from the Woonsocket Call of Dec. 10, 1909. The Street Railway's representative offered in return for a trolley express franchise in the city of Woonsocket to furnish the street sprinkling cars if the city would supply the men to operate them, to pay a percentage for the express earnings, besides the passenger earnings, and other minor concessions. But City Council wanted other concessions and refused to grant them the franchise.

My experience on the committee on streets in the past, on the same question, has been that we laid down too easy. And for any member of the Council to say that politics is not played on this question, and that the game is not worked for all it is worth, to use a slang phrase, "Tell it to Sweeny."

There should be more publicity of committee meetings. It might not hurt the public to know that when this matter came up in the committee while I was a member, a well known official of the company said the committee meeting reminded him of a Quaker meeting. And throwing a bill on the table told another official of said company to go out and get some cigars. I will say that the lights were on.

Of the many arguments that have been advanced for and against this question, the most important one has been over-shadowed, and that is, is not this franchise worth something in return. I think it is. For example, this same company issued a book around Brockton and vicinity where the fare is ten cents for seven cents as an instance from Holbrook to Campello. But they practically "gold brick" the citizens of Quincy, just because the representatives of the people lay down so easy, and they get by when election time comes around, as a sort of a reward.

You hear quite a lot about the franchise granted by the Railroad Commission but it is only a piece of paper. The injunction process is still applicable. I will not say much on this point at this time.

In conclusion let me congratulate the members who voted for the minority report, and at the same time remind the members from Wards Two, Three, and Four that there is a great traveling public from these various sections and particularly during the working hours who have to be crowded into cars that are over crowded, with little redress, and let me further say to the members from Ward Four, that that Improvement society in our ward has been seeking for a lot of concessions from this Street Railway Co., and among them a transfer for the people working in the Baker Mill at Milton. We have only received the glad hand so far.

There is a bill before the Legislature known as the Henderbury bill limiting trolley express franchises to a number of years. Why not wait until this bill is disposed of. Think it has a favorable chance to be enacted.

One might say a shrewd politician would not mix up in a matter like this, but let me say, wool is best suited to be placed on people's backs, and not to be pulled over their eyes. Thanking you for the courtesy of publishing these lines, I trust you will believe me to be sincerely yours,

John J. McDevitt.

Train and Track.

Railway passenger traveling is cheaper in Hungary than in any other place in Europe. The fares there are about one-third the fares in Great Britain.

The Buenos Aires Southern, with 3,038 miles of line, is now the largest Argentine railway system, exceeding the Buenos Aires and Pacific, with its 3,028 miles.

Electric railways purchased 5,381 cars, 3,571 being for passenger use, in 1910. This was an increase of 735 cars compared with the orders of the year before.

Recent Inventions.

An improved cover for street manholes, recently patented, screws into its socket so that wagons cannot knock it out.

To spread out a woman's hair to dry after a shampoo a New Jersey man has invented a wire frame, fitting upon the shoulders.

A collapsible berth that may be hung on the back of a car seat has been invented by a Californian for the benefit of infants being taken on long railroad journeys.

Some one has advertised for 500 cats to ride in airships. It is apples to doughnuts that the pussy that went up with Brother Wellmen is not an applicant.

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Mrs. J. Boyle, 8 Marsh St., Quincy, Mass., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and can say they are unequaled for curing kidney disorders. They built up my system and in six weeks, freed me from kidney complaint from which I had suffered for a long time."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster—Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

PARENTS' ASSOCIATION.

The second regular monthly meeting of the Parents and Teachers association of the Cranch school was held in the school building Wednesday evening with an attendance of about 125.

President Pfaffmann called the meeting to order and asked for the report of the committee on resolutions. A. F. Schenkelberger reported that the matter of the Cranch school yard had been laid before the School Committee and they in turn had referred it to the Mayor. Mayor Shea assured the committee that the yard would be attended to immediately.

Miss Emma Perkins, supervisor of Music, sang three very pleasing solos, with Ethel Humphrey as accompanist.

Following the address by Dr. Sheehan, the hospitality committee took charge. The executive committee appoints the hospitality committee for each meeting. At this one the eighth grade teacher and parents of eighth grade pupils were chosen. Mrs. Edwin Livingston and Mrs. James O'Donnell poured and Miss Carrie Crane, Mrs. George Norris, Mrs. Henry Hall and Mrs. Victor Miller served. While the refreshments were peing served, Miss Mary L. Rodgers furnished music on the piano.

Dr. Sheehan spoke on "Health Proplems in the Schools." He opened his address with an exposition of the methods by which the knowledge of diseases and their cures were arrived at. Then he pointed out the safeguards against disease which nature provides.

Following this he gave a number of precautions which parents ought to take: Do not give your child anything but clean food if there is any doubt be on the safe side. "Do not get hysterical about germs, it is not necessary to sterilize everything, nature in most cases will attend to that but be sure the source from which the food is obtained is at least moderately clean."

"Give the children wholesome food, you all know pretty well what that is; briefly whether liquid or solid it is clean, nourishing, looks good, smells good, tastes good. You may be sure that anything fulfilling these requirements will do no healthy person harm provided always there is no excess."

"The time is not far distant, I hope, when we shall have school dentists. Toothache causes in the aggregate as much pain as any other bodily ill. It is not fair to subject innocent children to such distress, because of lack of knowledge and of means."

"We can protect children by giving them good food, good care, warm, clean and light clothes, clean and comfortable beds, sunshine, fresh air day and night and healthful play."

A FEW DON'TS.

(1.) Don't think that because certain neglected children seem to get by that carelessness is a good thing. The hospitals are full of unnecessary suffering.

(2.) Don't let your children play with fire.

(3.) Don't listen to volunteered more or less well-intentioned advice from your neighbors and irresponsible old ladies.

Don't use drugs unless you know how.

Don't expect results too soon. Keep at it! Remember that a little tincture of time is an excellent medicine. Don't reason from one case to another and don't forget that a little knowledge is a mighty dangerous thing.

"Contagious diseases are of course many in number. Certain ones are in the ascendancy at times. Our method of control is to acquaint the teachers with the beginning symptoms and to have them exclude at once those pupils whose symptoms are even suggestive of the more dangerous diseases. In spite of the potential drawbacks of shamming, loss of time and even failure of promotion this is the only decently sure method of checking the spread of contagious disease in the schools. Is it not better to have 10 or 12 children playing about outdoors than to have one of the number or possibly more in school with an undeveloped but contagious disease endangering their fellows. As regards defects and chronic disease, our method is to call attention to them and advise thep arents to have the individual case properly treated.

Under present conditions through the parents to have the individual case the teachers, the sound and healthy pupils are fairly well protected. But the time will soon come, I hope, when we shall have outdoor schools for those who are not rugged. Education we must have, but the child that is kept to his task at the expense of his future welfare, is only too common. The teachers cannot help this, they are not physicians and one must not expect them to decide difficult questions of physical judgment. More complete inspection and outdoor schools will solve the problem. Therefore let us work for them.

We have heard in the past a good deal about the child's duty to its parents, it is high time to hear something of the parents duty to the child. Only by persistent effort, eternal vigilance and application of science can we protect those whose physical and mental welfare we are in duty bound to regard as our dearest possessions."

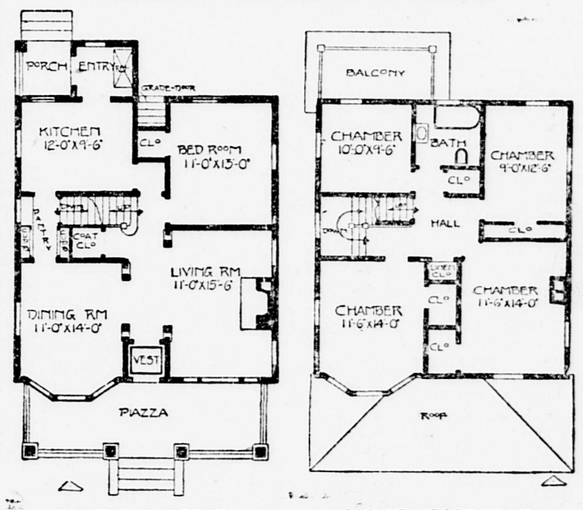
PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN. SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

This house, though of the conventional two story type, has distinct individuality in its artistic exterior. The arrangement of rooms utilizes every inch of space and provides many conveniences. This house should appeal to the many who insist on a bedroom in the first story. The finish in the first story can be either of birch or oak and in the second story of pine to enamel, with birch floors throughout. The size of the house is 28 by 30 feet. First story, nine feet; second story, eight feet. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $3,100.

By special arrangement with me the editor of this paper will furnish one complete set of plans and specifications of design No. 833 for $25.

PEACE IS COMING.

Within the last twenty-five years conditions have been brought about by the rapid progress of civilization that will within the next twenty-five years result in the disarmament of all the powerful nations of the earth. These conditions have already made war between great civilized powers, such as the United States, England, Germany and France, impossible. Germany owes England billions of money, and a war between England and Germany, though it should result in a complete conquest of Germany, would break every man in England. The United States owes England such vast sums that a war between England and the United States would bring about the same result. So it would be between any two of the great powers, whichever was the conquerer. The result would be the same. Though there might be some cause, the cost of victory would be so great that the conquering nation would be the sufferer.—Rev. J. W. Lee.

BRIEFS

All the snow that fell Tuesday night has disappeared.

Many churches in the Greater Boston postal district have voted unanimously in favor of Sunday closing of post offices.

There are now in Massachusetts 132 camps of the Sons of Veterans with 5500 members.

The members of the Order of Moose appreciated on Wednesday evening at their meeting the illustrated lecture on Historic Quincy by Charles H. Johnson.

DEATH OF TEACHER.

Miss Ellen A. Desmond, for nearly 22 years a teacher in the Willard school, died Wednesday as a result of shock following a sergical operation. Miss Desmond was a Quincy born girl, and educated in the public schools of Quincy and was graduated at the Quincy High school. She was appointed a teacher at the Willard school in September 1889, and taught there continually since that time. Miss Desmond at one time sang in the choir at St. Mary's church, and always took a deep interest in the work of that society.

PUSH TARIFF LEGISLATION

House Majority Intends to Carry Out Its Program

REPUBLICANS ARE DISTURBED

Realize That They Must Take Position on Each Measure Presented by Democrats, Who Hold the Whip Hand—Results of Work of Special Session Will Have Much to Do With Next Presidential Election

Washington, April 6.—The Republicans in congress are plainly worried with the situation that confronts them. They realize that as things stand today the advantage is with the Democrats. How to change this situation so as to prevent the Democrats from making capital that will be useful in next year's presidential campaign is the problem that confronts them. The best of them admit that they do not see a solution.

The Democrats have now shown their hands. They have been perfectly frank about what they propose to do. They intend to put through the house of representatives with promptness bills revising several of the schedules of the existing tariff law, pass a bill ratifying the Canadian reciprocity agreement, enact a law requiring the publication of campaign contributions both before and after election, adopt a joint resolution providing for a constitutional amendment for the election of senators by direct vote of the people, approve the constitutions of the states of Arizona and New Mexico, and further amend the rules of the house.

The Republicans must take a position on each of these measures. The senate will necessarily be concerned with all of them except the changes in the rules of the house.

The Republicans are inherently inclined to oppose every item in the Democratic program. Generally speaking, the Republicans in both senate and house will be unfriendly toward the Canadian reciprocity agreement which President Taft negotiated and which he is bound to have ratified, if he has to depend upon the votes of Democrats to bring this about. Whether the Republicans will oppose the entire Democratic program when it comes to the scratch remains to be seen. The prevailing view at this time is that they will.

The Democrats realize that they have the whip hand. This is particularly true with reference to tariff legislation. They propose to put their tariff bills up to the senate, and then calmly wait for the Republican senate to accept or reject these bills.

If the proposed tariff legislation is rejected at this special session, it will be renewed at the regular session beginning next December and will be held up before the Republican senate until within a few months of the presidential election. The influential representatives of the Democratic party—Democrats who are not members of either the senate or house—who have been here this week, say they are convinced that if the Republican senate shall refuse to accept the Democratic tariff revision the election of a Democratic president next year will be assured.

Unquestionably the present thought of the conservative Republicans in the senate is to refuse to accept the tariff bills the Democratic house will send over to the senate. The elder Republican senators say without hesitation that there will be no tariff legislation at this session beyond the ratification of the Canadian reciprocity agreement, and they are not certain that will be ratified by the senate.

President Taft intends to let the congress solve its own problems. He is telling callers that he feels he has done his duty by calling the legislative body together to act on the Canadian reciprocity agreement. it is pretty well understood by public men who come in contact with him that he will not put any obstacles in the way of a reasonable revision of the existing tariff law. Public men have an impression that he would probably veto a bill or bills providing for a radical revision.

DANGER IN ROLLER TOWEL

Found to Be Responsible For Many Cases of Eye Disease

New York, April 6.—The exhibition of work being done by and for the blind, which the Association for the Blind has arranged to have President Taft open here on April 26, will include a demonstration of some of the horrors of the roller towel.

A committee on prevention of blindness, which includes well known specialists, has found that an appalling number of persons, especially children, have contracted eye disease by use of the roller towel in factories, schools, clubs, hotels and offices.

Fund For Swedish Heroes

Stockholm, April 6.—Andrew Carnegie has endowed a fund of $330,000 for the establishment of a Swedish hero commission similar to those of the United States, France and England.

POWERS MAY BE OUSTED

Opposition to Man Convicted of Murder Serving In Congress

Washington, April 6.—Kentucky Democrats are considering the advisability of taking action looking to the expulsion from the house of representatives of Caleb Powers, four times convicted as the murderer of Governor Goebel.

That the feeling against Powers is bitter is indicated by the fact that when the Kentucky members took the oath of office the Democrats refused to take the oath at that time because Powers was in the group of Republicans taking the oath. The Democrats took the oath later.

Another indication of the feeling against Powers is to be found in the fact that the Democrats have served notice that they will not serve on any committee to which Powers is assigned. The charges to be filed against Powers are said to be independent of his alleged connection with the Goebel murder and are of a personal nature.

CHARM FAILED TO WORK

Negress Paid For Token to Secure Husband's Release From Jail

Boston, April 6.—Daniel B. Harrison, a negro, was arraigned in the municipal court on the charge of stealing $7 by false pretences from Mrs. Emma Tarby.

Mrs. Tarby's husband is serving time at the house of correction and Harrison told her that he could remove the dark cloud which kept her husband there for $12. She did not have this amount, but offered $7 which she raised by pawning her watch. Harrison gave her a prayer book, a heart-shaped charm and some powders to burn until 11 o'clock each night. She did as he told her, but her husband did not return and she complained to the police. The case was continued for two months and the bail placed at $100.

LOVERING ENJOYED LONG PUBLIC RECORD

Death of Ex-Congressman Who Was Also a Soldier

Wakefield, Mass., April 6.—Colonel Henry B. Lovering died at his home in this town. He was nearly 70 years old.

In 1861 he enlisted in the Union army. He fought in many battles up to the battle of Winchester, when four gunshot wounds in his leg necessitated its amputation.

He was elected to the state legisulature in 1872 and 1873. He was mayor of Lynn in 1881 and 1882 and in the latter year was elected to congress. He was re-elected in 1884, defeating Henry C. Lodge, but lost to Lodge in 1886.

He was United States marshal from 1888 to 1891, when he became warden of the state prison. He resigned as warden in 1893 to become pension agent for the United States government. He is survived by a wife, a son and two daughters.

ENTERS A DENIAL

Camorrist Treasurer Says He Had Nothing to Do With Murders

Viterbo, Italy, April 6.—Giovanni Rapi, the supposed treasurer of the Camorra, was heard in his own defense yesterday. Questioned by President Bianchi of the court of the assizes, he made a general denial of complicity in the murder of the Cuocolos and called attention to discrepancies in the testimony of Gennaro Abatemaggio, the informer.

By profession Rapi is a high-class gambler. The surveillance of the Italian police becoming oppressive, he went to Paris, and when expelled from the French capital he set up business in London, subsequently returning to Italy with a fat purse, there to go broke again.

MAKES RECORD RUN

Destroyer Walke Makes 30½ Knots During an Hour's Trial

Boston, April 6.—The Walke, one of the fastest torpedo boat destroyers built at the Fore River works, made a remarkable run yesterday on the Provincetown course, when she bettered her previous record of 29¾ knots by ¾ of a knot, making during one hour 30½ knots.

This fast run was made primarily to test the water and fuel consumption, and Chief Engineer Edwards stated after the run that the boat had kept well within the guarantee. The meter showed that the boat developed 14,000 horsepower, 2000 above the guarantee.

Utilities Commission In Iowa

Des Moines, April 6.—The Iowa house of representatives passed the Crist bill for a public utilities commission by a vote of 80 to 15. The bill provides for a commission of five men to have supervision over common carriers within the state, street car systems, electric lighting, gas and water power sites.

Pothier Pardons Four Convicts

Providence, April 6.—Four pardons were granted yesterday by Governor Pothier, one for manslaughter, two for larceny and one for misconduct.

WASHINGTON STREET

nizing that situation, and desiring to meet it fairly and generously, the president of this company has, over his own signature, stated to your President, and authorizes me to convey the information to him, that when the city is ready to widen Washington street, the company is prepared to cooperate with the proper authorities as to such widening, and to bear a reasonable proportion of the cost of the same. Now isn't it better for the citizens of this city, for this municipal corporation to have a partner in the street, interested in the widening of the street, under certain moral obligations if you like, than to refuse them a reasonable accommodation, and then later ask them to come in and help bear burdens from which they derive little benefit.

AESTHETIC OBJECTION.

The other objection raised is the so-called aesthetic objection, namely that the location of a trolley express station on this lot is going to lower or retard civic improvements in the surrounding property. To anyone who is at all familiar with the locality, who has inspected the proposed plans of the building to be erected by the company, who appreciate the fact that the old stables and out-buildings are to be all torn down and entirely eliminated from the present location, who have examined the surrounding buildings and their appearance from every point of view, the argument on the face is absurd and ridiculous.

If our building is to be detrimental to the surrounding situation, is not it significant that most of the surrounding owners are in favor of this proposed building. How are the public spirited gentlemen who criticize our building going to control the development of the other 30 or 40 lots of land and buildings, beginning at the property upon which is maintained the Chinese laundry and restaurant adjoining, corner of Temple and Washington streets to the buildings over the canal on Washington street?

The cry which is raised in the furtherance of civic beauty may prevent the erection by us of a good looking, express station on this particular lot, but it cannot control the action of one single individual in the development or improvement of a single piece of property on either side of this street either north or south of Foster street. If the objectors can control private property owners why have they not done something regarding the conditions ofaffairs on the corner of Temple street and Washington street? One of the most prominent objectors to our location, and who has argued strenuously against the character of the buildings to be erected, owns property diagonally opposite from this location which could not, by the greatest stretch of the imagination, be considered an adornment to Washington street, or an accessory to the architectural features of the library and the post office, concerning which he seems to be so anxious.

OTHER LOCATIONS.

Now, gentlemen, it has been suggested that there are other locations as good if not better than this one, and the different Councilmen have been advised either by well-intentioned parties ,or by persons having an axe to grind, to require us to locate elsewhere. The very minute the Council gives encouragement to the selection of other possible locations, they will take on a perilous subject matter. Do not forget the troubles which Councilmen have when they attempt to select a school house lot, and in that case they are in a measure protected against the owner, because they may exercise the right of eminent domain, and take what they want. We are subject entirely to the hold-up of an individual if we are forced to deal with him.

Take for illustration the lot most frequently referred to as being an alternative location, the lot behind the Greenleaf hotel. It has already been stated that during the hours when we would operate cars, there are twice the number of vehicles passing at the point on Hancock street from which we would have to diverge on to Granite street. We would be compelled to install three curves in all,—two from Hancock street, a cross over from the easterly track to the westerly track,—and over rails carrying more lines of cars than the Washington street tracks. We would be compelled to put in special work in the way of tracks at an expense of $6,000 alone, and then we would be faced with the proposition of possible changed conditions growing out of the change of grade of the railroad.

If the arguments of the objectors were based on facts concerning the congestion of Washington street, you can easily see that the condition would be infinitely worse here for the same reasons. The land that could be obtained would be near the railroad location, and therefore the cars operating over Granite street would be shut off from view of teams coming from under the bridge owing to the bend of Granite street beyond railroad bridge.

The business blocks on Granite street have usually a large number of teams and autos standing in front of them, and the street itself is narrower at this point than at Washington street where the proposed location is requested.

BRICK PAVING.

You should not forget that since the establishment of Maple street, a great many of the teams which used Foster street into Washington street, have been diverted from that street through Maple street; that the paving of the street its entire width in brick has disposed of the objections and discomfort in travelling over the street. It is not unusual for the cars to cross the street. They cross them now three times between Quincy and Nantasket without seriously inconveniencing travel.

Regarding the petitions filed with the Council, the company filed a petition in favor of the location containing about 250 names. The persons interested in opposing this location secured about 200 names.

Now a word regarding the petition last referred to. It is true that the petition contains the names of some of the prominent and substantial citizens of this city, but I have reason to know that many of the men who signed that petition were in entire ignorance of the true facts as to either the charatcer of the building to be erected, or the manner of operating the cars into the same. Personally I have talked with several of them, and they have stated to me that had they known the true facts, had they seen the statement of the general manager as published in the paper, and the drawings of the proposed express depot, they would not have signed the petition, and now, knowing the facts, are in favor of the location, and with the prospect of an early widening of the street, I have seen no one who seriously objects to this location.

The City Engineer of Quincy some time ago at the request of the Mayor prepared studies for a widening of Washington street. It is proposed, I understand, to make the street a uniform width of 65 feet. It has been recognized that this widening would soon come. The loaction of the express building will not in any event add any material burden on the traffic of the street.

ARBOR DAY.

Governor Foss issued a proclamation Tuesday naming April 29 as Arbor day. The proclamation in substance is as follows:

"In accordance with the provisions of section 16, chapter 53, of the revised laws, I hereby set apart Saturday, April 29, as Arbor day. The day should be observed throughout the commonwealth; trees, shrubs and vines should be planted, neglected trees cared for, and gardens beautified.

"Classes of school children, under the direction of their teachers, should plant seeds, or set out saplings, according to some carefully arranged plan; and thus not only help in building up the future of our woodlands, but learn a valuable lesson in systematic cooperation.

"In the effort to suppress the gypsy moth and other pests which are destroying our trees, the state has been spending such immense sums as to occasion much criticism, and this work cannot possibly succeed, and might properly be abandoned, unless individual owners of trees will do their full share of it. In this, as in all public work, state ordinances and outlays can never relieve the citizens themselves from doing individually their full civic duty.

"Moreover the attention of the citizens of Massachusetts should be increasingly directed to country and suburban life, and to the rich possibilities of our state in agriculture. No better start can be made than by taking a keener personal interest in the trees and by working actively to safeguard and develop the fruit and timber products of the state.

"We have many days set apart in this state for special observances; but among them all Arbor day is preeminently marked by its practical usefulness. I urge that it be suitably observed by everybody, not only as an occasion of enjoyment, but as a means of performing some useful service to the present and future advantage of the commonwealth in the manner designated."

THE PULL IS STEADY.

"If there is one enterprise on earth that a 'quitter' should leave severely alone it is advertising. To make a success of advertising, one must be prepared to STICK like a barnacle on a boat's bottom. ADVERTISING DOES NOT JERK; IT PULLS. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases day by day and year by year, until it exerts an irresistible power."—John Wanamaker.

The Honorable Senator Sagebrush

By FRANCIS LYNDE

SYNOPSIS.

Evan Blount, son of "Boss" David Blount ("Senator Sagebrush"), has been rejected by Patricia Anners. Dick Gantry offers him a position with the Transcontinental railway, which is fighting his father. McVickar, head of the railroad, and "Boss" Blount quarrel.

The boss demands that the railroad stop the use of crooked methods. Going west to meet his father, Evan meets a man who takes him for a forestry employee.

Evan is kidnaped by a band of men, evidently land corporation agents, and is taken at night to a mansion seemingly presided over by a woman.

The house is Wartrace Hall, Senator Blount's home, and the woman is Evan's stepmother, whom he had never met.

The senator purposes running Evan for attorney general despite the young man's recent arrival in the state. Evan objects. He hears his father called a political trickster.

McVickar defies Senator Blount to nominate Evan. Patricia and her geologist father arrive at the Sagebrush capital.

At McVickar's request Evan joins the railroad's forces as division counsel and political worker. He favors clean politics, but finds that his office is made a rallying point by small political hangers-on of the road.

Evan has a disagreement with Gantry about the road's mixing in politics. His father pulls wires unknown to him to have him invited to speak in a distant mining town. Hathaway, who has been trying to do business with the road and with Senator Blount, is to have a talk with Mrs. Blount.

Exposure of the railroad is threatened by Evan to Gantry unless rebating and other unlawful practices are stopped. Evan suspects his secretary, Collins, of tampering with his desk.

The desk is blown up by a burglar, evidently after Evan's papers. Gantry tells McVickar that Evan is getting to be too much for him to handle.

Hathaway wants a rebate from the road in consideration of political favors. He is referred to Evan and is advised by Mrs. Blount to put Professor Anners' name on his list of stockholders.

Evan's interview with Hathaway reveals the road's misdoings. In a rage he resigns. Gantry holds up the resignation. Evan insists that it go through to McVickar.

Patricia refuses Evan again. She advises him to stick to the road and work for clean politics. He withdraws his resignation and is sent into the field on a speaking tour.

She had given David Blount's son her ultimatum.

"Find your father quickly and say what it is right to say. When you are ready to go back I'll keep my promise and drive you."

It was old Barnabas who admitted the bearer of evil tidings. "Yas, sah; Marstah Majah's in de libra'y." was the answer to Blount's question. And, throwing coat and hat aside, the bearer of burdens not his own walked quickly across the hall and let himself into the room of trial.

"Well, son, you made out to get here, didn't you?" said the father quietly, pushing a book aside. "Draw up a chair. Where is the little girl?"

Blount saw instantly that he must be brief and pitiless.

"Miss Anners is at the carriage entrance in the car, waiting to take me back to town," he said, constraining himself to speak calmly. "I have an appointment with Judge Hemingway which must be kept, and he leaves his chambers at 4 o'clock. Do you know why I have made that appointment?"

The senator shook his head slowly. "How should I know, son?"

"It's not a pleasant thing to have to tell you," the younger man went on, ignoring the chair to which the long stemmed pipe was pointing. "But Patricia says I must. A little over an hour ago evidence—legal evidence—of corruption and false registration in four of the city wards was put into my hands. You know what I've got to do with it, father."

The older man nodded. "Yes, I know what you think you've got to do with it. But I wouldn't do it if I were you, son. Haven't you learned that one of the first rules in the book of politics is not to hang the dirty clothes out where everybody can see them?"

Evan's heart sank within him. It was evident that his father was still unsuspecting, still unconscious of the impending blow. Only utter frankness could avail now.

"I can't discuss expediency with you," he said hastily. "This evidence I speak of involves you personally. There is trouble ahead, serious trouble, and you don't seem to realize it. The city papers will be out in the morning publishing evidence of other crooked political work—evidence which I have been gathering here and there all over the state and which was stolen when my safe was blown up last week. I did not intend to publish it if I could help it. I was holding it over my own people as a club to make them decent and to keep them decent. But I have reason to believe that it has been edited so that it will accuse only you and the machine, and by to-morrow morning the entire state will know. I don't have to tell you what the effect of this added exposure of wholesale corruption in the going to be."

The senator had laid the pipe aside and was staring soberly at the fire.

"You're a man among a thousand, son," he said quietly. "When it comes to a pure question of right and wrong you don't hesitate a minute, do you? You haven't said it in so many words, so I'll say it for you. You've got me right where you can send me to the penitentiary? That's about what you're trying to tell me, isn't it?"

"Don't put it that way, father," protested the son. "I gave you fair warning. I've got to fight for the right as I see it. If I don't I shall be less than a man—less than your son. Can't you see that it is breaking my heart?"

A silence electrically surcharged with possibilities settled down over the quiet room for a little while. At the end of the pause the senator rose and put his hand on his son's shoulder.

"I haven't a word to say," he said slowly. "As you told me that first day out here, son, it's your job to hew to the line and let the chips fall where they may. Go ahead and do what seems right and law abiding to you. I'd rather go to jail twice over than have you do anything else. Is that what you wanted me to say?"

Blount dropped into a chair as if the hand on his shoulder had crushed him and covered his face with his hands. It was hard—harder than even his own prefigurings had forecast it.

It was a long minute before he staggered to his feet and groped his way to the door, leaving his father standing before the fire, still with the hand outstretched which had been laid in fatherly affection upon his shoulder. When old Barnabas had helped him into his coat and had given him his hat he sought Patricia.

"Must you go back?" she queried when he had descended the steps to climb stiffly into the seat beside her.

He nodded.

"Your duty is clear?"

He nodded again.

"And the consequences?" she asked.

"I don't know," he muttered. "Ruin and disgrace for all of us, I suppose. Of course I shall resign from the railroad service and stand with my father when—when the thing is done."

"Don't do it, Evan; don't do it! I have no more than a woman's reason to give you, but I am sure you are opening the door to a lifelong sorrow for yourself and—and—for me."

It was the last two words that steeled him to his purpose. Not even for her dear sake would he turn aside from the plain path of the oath bound obligation. It struck him like a blow that the turning aside would make him forever unworthy of her love.

"Take me back to the city as quickly as you can, Patricia," he said, "or, better still, stay here and let me have the car. That is my last word."

For answer she threw the speed lever into the high gear and snapped home the clutch. Like a projectile hurled from a catapult the little touring car shot away down the cottonwood avenue, and the second race against time was begun.

For the first few miles Patricia Anners' single passenger had all he could do to keep his seat. More than once Blount found himself mechanically reaching for the steering wheel, but as often he caught himself in time. As on the outward race, Patricia was looking straight ahead and giving the little car every throb of speed there was in it. None the less, he could see that she had it under perfect control.

What happened came with the suddenness of the thunderclap following the bolt that strikes near at hand.

"DON'T DO IT, EVAN; DON'T DO IT!"

The approach to the mouth of Shonoho canyon was down a long incline with a gentle curve near the bottom to hide the canyon entrance until they were within a hundred yards of it. Blount had a momentary glimpse of some barrier—a tree, he took it to be—lying across the main road. Seeing it, he realized in the same instant that Patricia was neither releasing the clutch nor applying the brakes. After that there was barely time to snap the switch and to throw the heavy glass wind shield down before the devastating crash came.

AS TRIBUTE TO DEAD FRIENDS

Two Great Processions In the Streets of New York

75,000 MARCH IN THE RAIN

Countless Thousands Who Look on Unconsciously Join In Wave of Mournful Emotion—Many Kneel In Wet Streets In Prayer as Two Divisions Meet—Bodies of Unidentified Fire Victims Buried In City Plot

New York, April 6.—Rain reduced to less than 75,000 the army of 200,000 workers who had planned to march in memory of the victims of the Washington place factory fire, but what the storm took in numbers, it added in solemnity.

The demonstration will long be remembered by those who took active part and by countless thousands who came to look on, but who unconsciously found themselves joining in the wave of mournful emotion which swept the line of march.

Upon the removal from the morgue for burial of the eight remaining coffins containing the unidentified victims of the fire in which 144 lives in all were lost, workers poured from sweatshops and garment factories throughout the city and formed in line at uptown and downtown starting points.

Neither division took part in the little funeral procession, but marched only as a demonstration, while the eight unnamed dead were borne to a resting place in a city plot.

The downtown section was headed by 500 men and women employes of the Triangle Waist company who survived the fire and when this contingent turned into Washington square, where so many of their comrades met death, one young woman in the throng lost control of herself and broke forth into a wail that swept the entire throng even to the onlookers.

Meanwhile the uptown division had been trudging south and as the two sections poured into the square and met thousands burst into tears, many knelt in the wet streets in prayer and women and men embraced and wept.

The police, who were out in force, had trouble in getting the sobbing marchers into line without allowing them to go around the Asch building, where the fire occurred.

The uptown marchers, flanked by spectators, spread back for twenty blocks, and the down town line was fully as long. Both avenues leading to the square were as great mushroom fields of dripping black umbrellas. The only touch of color was in the small American flags which each of the marchers carried, but even these were draped in crape.

Now and then the line was broken by a bedraggled banner, lettered "We mourn our dead."

The delegations of marchers included representatives from nearly all the garment workers' unions, the Woman's Trades Union league, the Woman's Political Party and many woman suffrage organizations.

The bodies of the unidentified dead were buried in a city plot of the Evergreen cemetery. The services were conducted in three faiths over all of the bodies, the Jewish, Catholic and Protestant services all being read. Officials of the department of charities were present as official mourners for the city.

DISRUPTION THREATENED

Strife Between Chicago Labor Unions Ties Up Building Operations

Chicago, April 6.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor is expected to arrive in Chicago tomorrow to take a hand in a series of jurisdictional fights which are threateninig to disrupt organized labor and paralyze the Chicago building industry.

As a result of internal warfare in the unions over jurisdiction more than $10,000,000 worth of building operations are tied up and unless the labor officials take steps to remedy conditions contractors predict that the building industry will remain at a standstill throughout the spring and summer.

MAINE TUBERS IN CANADA

St. John Dealers Find Them Cheaper Than the Home Product

St. John, April 6.—Potatoes from Maine are being placed on the market in St. John at 40 cents a barrel less than the prevailing wholesale price for the home product. Several local grocers have placed orders for potatoes with Maine dealers for $1.60 per barrel, delivered in St. John, freight and duty paid.

The same dealers made inquiries at Woodstock and other provincial centres, and found that they could not get the home grown product delivered here for less than $2 a barrel wholesale.

Common Cup Must Go

Providence, April 6.—The bill prohibiting the use of common drinking cups in public places, previously passed by the house, has received the unanimous approval of the senate.

MANY CLAIM TO BE SANE

All the Inmates of Matteawan Asylum to Be Examined

Albany, April 6.—Because a number of the inmates of the Matteawan state hospital for the insane, including Harry K. Thaw, have been endeavoring to bring about their release on the ground that their mental condition is such that they should no longer be confined there, an examination will be made of all the inmates with a view to determining whether any of them should be discharged or sent back for trial.

Commissioners Osborn and Van Kennen, who were appointed by Governor Dix to investigate the administration of various state departments, have secured the services of Drs. McDonald and Flint, alienists, to make an examination of the mental condition of the inmates of the institution.

ON A PLEASURE TRIP

Philadelphia's "Stolen" Boy Enjoying Himself In Atlantic City

Philadelphia, April 6.—Twelve-year-old Bernard Rogers, who disappeared from his home in this city more than a ewek ago, was found yesterday afternoon in Atlantic City, where he went on a pleasure trip.

Widespread interest in his disappearance was aroused when his uncle, Joseph P. Rogers, an assistant district attorney, received a postal card Tuesday purporting to be from a convict who had been sent to the penitentiary through Rogers' efforts. The writer informed Rogers that he had shut the boy in a freight car for revenge.

It was thought that the boy might really have been locked in a car and been starved to death.

PRESIDENT REPLIES TO JAPANESE RULER

Appreciates and Reciprocates the Message of Friendship

Washington, April 6.—As soon as President Taft received from Ambassador O'Brien at Tokio Emperor Mutsuhito's message of cordiality, he cabled the Japanese ruler a reply of like tenor. The president's message read:

"I beg to assure your majesty of my deep appreciation of the friendly message sent through the American ambassador on the occasion of the consummation of the new treaty between our respective countries. I am happy to join with your majesty in the confident expectation that the treaty will result in binding still closer ties that have so long united the peoples of the United States and of Japan in amity and peace. I also beg to assure your majesty of my hearty reciprocation of the sentiments of cordial friendship."

WORKING ON RULES

Congressmen Have Not Yet Settled Down to Business

Washington, April 6.—Both houses of congress listened yesterday to President Taft's brief message, urging the adoption of the reciprocity agreement with Canada.

The senate adjourned, but the Democratic house proceeded further with its organization by adopting a new set of rules.

To a great extent the new rules are a repetition of those that have been handed down by many congresses in the past. The Democrats assert that their greatest reform is taking away from the speaker his power to appoint committees and to designate the chairman of each committee.

PLUNGED INTO HOT WATER

Treatment of Insane Patient May Result In His Death

Worcester, Mass., April 6.—Acting upon information furnished by Dr. Quinby, head of the Worcester state hospital for the insane, Thomas J. Brennan, 32 years old, an attendant at the institution, was arrested, charged with allowing two insane inmates to plunge Ralph K. Stewart, an aged insane inmate, into a bath tub of boiling water, which resulted in burns that may prove fatal.

Brennan, who has been considered one of the most trusted employes, was taken to police headquarters and booked on a charge of assault and battery. Bail was set at $1000.

Plaisted Names New Judge

Augusta, Me., April 6.—Fred E. Beane, chairman of the Democratic state committee, was named for the superior court bench of Kennebec county by Governor Plaisted. He will succeed Oliver G. Hall, whose term expires on April 25.

Taft Heads Peace Forum

Washington, April 6.—President Taft has accepted the honorary presidency of the international peace forum.

Declares That Our Large Cities Need More Freedom

CROKER HITS BLUE LAWS

Says He Is In Favor of Local Option Law on Racing

New York, April 6.—After spending several months in Florida, Richard Croker sailed for his Irish home on the Mauretania.

"It is a mistake to go abroad for a change of climate," said Croker. "People are going to the other side, where they can get some freedom and be rid of the puritanical laws of large cities.

"However, some people go abroad to escape the rigorous racing laws here. Such laws are narrow and do not express the will of the majority. They should be referred to a popular vote."

MOTHER STRANGLES CHILD AND HERSELF

Woman Commits Awful Act While Mentally Deranged

Whitinsville, Mass., April 6.—While mentally unbalanced, Mrs. Flora B. Blanchard strangled her 1½-year-old son, Harlow, to death with a towel.

Then she ended her own life in the same manner, using the strap from the baby's high chair to cause death.

Mrs. Blanchard's husband, returning home for lunch, found his wife and child dead, the child in his cradle with a towel about its neck, while the mother lay upon the bed firmly holding the end of the strap with which she had ended her life.

Mrs. Blanchard was 42 years of age, and the daughter of John Briorly of Worcester, who committed suicide about six months ago. Before her marriage she was a teacher in the schools of Northbridge.

LORIMER $100,000 POOL

Editor Kohlsaat Names Funk as Source of the Report

Springfield, Ills., April 6.—E. H. Kohlsaat, publisher of the Chicago Record-Herald, testified before the state senate investigating committee that Clarence S. Funk of the International Harvester company was the man who told him that a pool of $100,000 had been raised to elect William Lorimer to the United States senate.

Kohlsaat's testimony was a bombshell in the courtroom where the hearings are being held. He took the stand under a threat of being sent to jail for contempt if he refused to divulge the name of his informant.

The International Harvester company is one of the biggest corporations in the world.

RANKS ARE THINNING

Grand Army Veterans Hear Commander Rap Lodge and Crane

Boston, April 6.—Senators Lodge and Crane, referred to as "the two honorable gentlemen in the United States senate from the most loyal and patriotic state in the union," were held responsible for the defeat of the Sulloway pension bill by G. A. R. Department Commander Fisk, in his address at the annual state encampment at Faneuil hall.

Four hundred men came to Faneuil hall yesterday. Each year sees the ranks grow thinner and thinner. To the death roll last year was added the name of the department commander, J. W. Jones. The loss by death in 1910 was 724, as against 721 in 1909.

San Francisco, April 6.—Charles C. Moore was unanimously elected president of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition company. He is president of a civil engineering company of San Francisco.

The Sirolin Sentinel

QUINCY, SATURDAY, APRIL 1, 1911

What Is Sirolin?

Sirolin is a famous European preparation that comes to America with an unequalled record of success in the treatment of pulmonary disorders.

Sirolin not only relieves the local symptoms and protects the tissues against the invasions of the tubercle bacillus, but it promotes appetite, increases weight, and acts as a tonic.

The cough is allayed, nutrition is facilitated, and consumption is prevented. Sirolin is therefore the logical cough medicine. Hence, its great favor.

Sirolin contains no morphine, codeine, habit-forming or constipating drug.

Sirolin is pleasant to the taste—a clear, syrup-like liquid.

It is entirely different from the ordinary preparation for coughs and colds. It has no depressing effects, and contains no narcotics or harmful ingredients.

Ask your druggist.

Bothered By A Bad Cold?

A severe cold or a light one, even, is something more than a "bother."

It is dangerous.

Through the general weakening of the vitality resulting from it, the system is left open to the inroads of other diseases, especially those of the pulmonary organs.

Nine-tenths of the cases of consumption may be traced to a bad cold, which allows the tubercle bacilli to get a hold on the lungs.

So a cold ought to be cured—but how?

An antiquated way is to sit wrapped in a blanket, huddled up with your feet in a tub of hot water. At the same time take some preparation that makes you feel dejected, and gives you a headache, and takes away your appetite.

A better way to cure your cold is this—

Take Sirolin in regular doses, wear warm and dry clothing, and rest.

Supplement this treatment by eating as much good food as you want—Sirolin will give you the appetite—and keeping your mind cheerful.

The disagreeable symptoms will disappear almost immediately, and the cure will be a matter of a few days. Then—

Avoid more colds by taking plenty of exercise—brisk walking in the open air is good—sleeping with all windows open, and taking a dose of Sirolin now and then.

MILITARY WHIST.

There was a large attendance Wednesday evening at the military whist held in Protection hall under the auspices of Maple lodge, Knights and Ladies of Honor. The weather was extremely stormy, and it was thought on this account the attendance would be small. There were 26 tables in play, however, and the contest for supremacy was a keen one. The hall was beautifully decorated, the national colors predominating, while each table had flag decorations. The souvenirs for the best scores were awarded to H. Seldon, J. Henry, John H. Gillis, Mr. Hogan, Miss Nellie M. Cate, R. Burns, J. Birnie, Mrs. J. Birnie, W. H. Smith, Miss E. G. Smith, George Blaisdell and Mrs. George Blaisdell.

APRIL FOOL SKETCH GIVEN

Enjoyable Entertainment by Men's Club at Quincy Point

The first annual entertainment of the Point church Men's club was held in the church vestry Wednesday evening. The vestry was crowded and all felt well repaid for braving the elements.

The opening number was a selection by a nine-piece orchestra led by J. D. McBride: First violins—James Melville and C. Bergstrom; second violins—D. McLaughlin and J. D. McBride; Clarionet—F. A. Brooks; Trombone—C. E. Chilstedt; cornet—Ralph Murphy; drums—F. Walter Brooks; piano—D. Henderson. The piece was roundly applauded and was encored.

The second number was a group of songs sung by Arthur Peverley with Wendell Luce as accompanist. Mr. Peverley's voice was at its best and its quality was appreciated by the audience.

Next came a sketch entitled "April Fools." Peter Dunne Brown had three marriagable daughters who were rather expensive and he desired to marry them off. He received a letter from a Mr. Smith who had long loved his daughter Fannie, and desired her hand in marriage. He would call at 10 o'clock that morning to talk over the situation. A Mr. Smith arrived but he proved to be the wrong one, and had come to look over a horse named Fannie which he believed Mr. Brown wanted to sell. The conversation was very funny since one wanted to marry off his daughter and the other wanted to buy a horse. He had been gone but a few moments when a very solemn looking individual arrived. He proved to be a Mr. Smith, an undertaker who had come to bury Mr. Brown's daughter, Fannie in accordance with a letter received. Mr. Brown thinking he was surely the suitor received him very joyfully. Their conversation was even funnier than that between Mr. Brown and the first Mr. Smith. The matter was finally straightened out by the recollection that it was April first, and the three men saw that their letters were all April fool jokes.

John Melville as the James Smith the sportsman took his part well, and Irving Hayden made a beautifully solemn undertaker. Harold Newcomb took the part of Peter Dunne Brown wonderfully well and acted with such ease and naturalness that the scene was especially vivid.

"Tommy" Melrose contributed the next number on the program by giving imitations of Harry Lauder, in costume. He sang three songs in dialect all of which elicited much applause.

F. G. Brown told a number of stories on an Irishman, and gave a short character sketch.

The orchestra gave another excellent selection which was well received and encored.

J. Ronar made a hit with his songs in blackface and was loudly encored.

The final sketch was entitled "The hunter and the coon." P. H. Holman and J. W. Hendry took this occasion to pass out compliments to all their friends in the course of their dialogue. Mr. Hendry sang a coon song which was well received by the audience. Mr. Holman took his part well and amused the audience as much by his side remarks as by the regular official dialogue. Mr. Hendry disguised his voice and himself very successfully, and took the part of the coon well.

The entertainment as a whole was very enjoyable and the audience considered that it had received many times its money's worth of fun.

WHAT THE WORLD NEEDS

Men With Moral Backbone and Religious Convictions

At the fifth in the series of mid-week Lenten services in the Wollaston Unitarian church Wednesday evening the visiting clergyman was the Rev. Joel Hastings Metcalf, Ph. D. of Winchester, who has a world-wide fame as an astronomer, having discovered a comet visible every six years, astoroids and some stars.

Mr. Metcalf preached a strong sermon, replete with a wealth of illustrations from ancient and modern literature from the text:—"I knows thy works that thou are neither cold nor hot: I would thou wert cold or hot. So because thou are lukewarm and neither hot nor cold, I will spew thee out of my mouth"—Revelation 3 15-16

What the world needs is not My Lord Turn-about, My Lord Time-rever, My Lord Fair Speech, Mr. Smooth-Man Mr. Facing Both Ways, Mr. Anything—men that are neither cold nor hot— but men with moral backbone and religious convictions, men that put their religion into their daily business, that keep the ten commandments, men that "follow in the footsteps of Him whose holy work was doing good."

"Men whom the lust for office does not kill;
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess convictions and a will;
Men who have honor; men who will not lie;
Men who can stand before a demagogue
And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking
Tall men, sun crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty and in private thinking."

Mrs. Frank A. Page, the well known singer rendered two beautiful solos that were much appreciated. The next service will be held Good Friday at 7.45 with the Rev. W. H. Lyon, D. D., of Brookline as preacher, and Miss Minnie Hardwick, soloist, accompanied on the flute by Lucien Thayer.

SPORTING NOTES.

At Brockton High school, the members of athletic squads have to sign a written contract before they are eligible to represent the school. The articles of the contract include restrictions with reference to scholarship, the consent of the boy's parents, regularity of habits and conduct, athletic goods loaned by the school, participation in outside athletics and method of transportation for out of town games. This contract has to be signed by both parent and scholar and it will go into effect when the first call is made by the coach at the beginning of each season.

In the spring football practice at Harvard, a lively scrimmage took place yesterday. Graustein, playing at half back, made a 70 yard run on an intercepted forward pass.

With between 15 and 20 amateur baseball teams and at least two semi-professional teams playing the game in Quincy during the spring and summer the fans should get a surfeit of the national pastime. The city playgrounds and Merrymount park will be used by the majority of the teams. The Y. M. C. A. teams hope to get the use of the diamonds to be placed on the Coddington street property which has been loaned by H. M. Faxon. The season opens for most of the teams on Patriots day but from the looks of things now, there will be little opportunity for outdoor practive and the fans cannot well expect brilliant work in the opening games.

Adams A. A. will have one of the strongest of the amateur teams. They will play independent ball this year. The Cranch A. A. will have a team even stronger than last years. Dakers is one of the new recruits. The Ramblers will have practically the same team as last year.

Makaria will be represented by a team of equal strength with the one that started the season last year.

NOT THE PROPER LOCATION.

To the Editor:—

I was surprised to hear of the action taken by our City Council on Monday evening favorable to granting the proposed location of the Trolley Freight station on Washington street. I am sure that we who have the true interest of our city at heart have expected better than this of our representatives in the Council. Much has been said against the Washington street location, yet I have heard nothing in its favor. I do not object to the trolley freight; it will probably be a good thing for our city. But I think, with many others, that if the Washington street location is granted it will be a great mistake, and will result in lasting damage to property values in the vicinity as well as being a blot upon a locality which should be devoted to a different class of business than trolley freight.

In all that has appeared in the public print concerning this important question I have not seen any other location suggested. Is it possible that in our city, with so much unimproved and undeveloped land near the business centre, there is no other place for this freight station? Why should Washington street, which is narrow and congested and upon which there is the heaviest traffic, be the only street considered? If the trolley freight must be on one of our principal streets, why should it be on a street where the main trolley track is on the side of the street, and on the side opposite that on which the station is proposed to be located? Does our City Council realize that this spur track will cross the whole width of Washington street, and that it will also cross the only sidewalk on the street which is used at all and interfere with people who use this sidewalk as well as with those who use the street?

Put the trolley freight anywhere but on this street. Gentlemen of the Council, look about you. Do you not see any little spot of undeveloped ground in our city where this proposed "improvement" can be put? Do you not think your city will be called upon to expend money enough in the proposed widening of Hancock street, without having the necessity thrust upon it of soon widening Washington street also if you put this "improvement" where it is proposed? Put the trolley freight on Hancock street, where the trolley track is already in the middle of the street, so that a spur track will not cross the entire width of the street, and where widening is already advocated and will without doubt soon take place.

The writer has no personal interest in any particular location, but he has the interest of the city as a whole at heart. As no one else has suggested any other location, he feels it his duty to offer a suggestion, in the hope that the suggestion may lead to a more general discussion and to a final conclusion which will save Washington street from a noisy and unsightly business where formerly there has been comparative freedom from such nuisances. We are about to abolish our grade crossings; do not let us create another grade crossing nuisance on our principal street.

On the easterly side of Hancock street between Cottage avenue and Revere road there is plenty of undeveloped, or underdeveloped property that could be utilized for the purpose of the trolley freight. The main track is there in the middle of the street, the only sidewalk which is much used is on the westerly side of the street. The principal business development is also on the westerly side. The freight yard spur track put here would not ruin the sidewalk. The traffic of teams and autos to and from the yard would not make the use of either the street or sidewalk here dangerous.

Let every citizen who cares for the best interest of his city make it a point to see his councilman and urge upon him the importance of this matter from every point of view, before it is too late. Not to grant the location on Washington street does not mean that Quincy will lose the trolley freight. If the people wish and their representatives, the councilmen, demand, some other location, without doubt the railway company will be willing to meet the demand. If the Hancock street location, suggested by the writer, is not a good one, then who has a better suggestion to offer? NOW, before the harm is done, let us all unite for our city's welfare and see to it that this thing which is to be done is so done that it shall not be a blot upon our city. Let the Trolley Freight station be placed where it will do the least harm to our people as a whole, those who walk as well as those who ride. It should not be placed on Washington street. Citizen.

When silly twaddle is used as campaign argument, the presumption is that the user has no other argument.

Though the Japanese war scare has blown over, we may expect another blow in most any time.

FIRST SOD TURNED

had, and the best friend the church had in New England.

Dr. Anderson prefaced his lecture by saying that he realized the proposition the people of the church were up against and he congratulated them on their attainment. Money, said the speaker, answereth all things. The phrase "money talks" is the slang everywhere. Nothing comes into our life with so much power as money. In our mad rush for wealth we are apt to forget everything else. A cynical man once said 'The American's god is the dollar.' Materialism obscures divinity.

In our study of character we must not exclude the purse for with the losing of money come anxious thoughts, many fears, sleepless nights, wrecking of nerves, much pain and the parting of friends.

An empty head is a poor thing to own but an empty pocket lets one down in the very labyrinth of obscurity. It is evil enough to be poor but infinitely worse to be made to feel so.

The pocket is a consequential affair that has no counterpart. It was a saying of our forbears that mind made a man and the want of it a fellow. The idea then was that a man might remain poor if he but kept his principle. Today the glitter of gold gilds over all else.

The speaker quoted a lengthy excerpt from Dicken's "Our mutual friend" which dealt with the vast power of "shares," the English synonym for riches.

While modest merit must have money if it would win recognition, the man reeking with corruption is readily accepted in so-called social circles if he but has the name of being wealthy.

Mammon rears its altar and at that altar are sacrificed muscle, nerve, reserve strength and vigor, men are slaves in the treadmill of toil in order to have the fattest purse in the neighborhood.

Mr. Anderson spoke of the graft that is instituted in public life that the people's dollar might be secured. He mentioned in detail the doings of Tammany hall, mining schemes and the celebrated "rifle range" graft of the City of Boston.

What a difference there is, however, between the benefits of health and the power of wealth. I have no doubt Rockefeller would gladly give his barber a million dollars if he could but grow hair on the top of his bald head.

Money making is not to be discouraged but we should look at the method. The trouble is we want more than we need. The empty pocket need not be a thing of discouragement. To have not ought to encourage one to get.

Fill your pocket, but fill your heart with sympathy too. Fill your pocket but in the filling let not your integrity be blurred by the shadows and groans of other lives.

Fill your pocket but leave behind the approval of your fellow men by doing good with what you earn. If it is not to be so it were far better a millstone were hanged about your neck and you were drowned in the depths of the sea.

Following the lecture, the pastor spoke of the new church. Work is being started today by Contractor Sears and operations will go forward with a rush in order to complete the building by November 1st as agreed in the specifications.

On Monday morning the tearing down of a portion of the present building will be started. This will necessitate the installation of a new stairway and other changes which although they will probably be a hinderance will not seriously interfere with the affairs of the church.

An enthusiastic campaign will be started immediately to raise the remaining $3500 to complete the sum necessary for the building.

A rising vote of thanks was extended Messrs H. A. Cole and William C. Northrop upon the completion of a creditable sketch of the new building from which a cut will be made.

During the evening violin solos by Miss Louise Steffens accompanied on the piano by Miss Henrietta C. Gram were enjoyed.

Composing the building committee are: Rev. William B. Ayers, Mrs. Theodore C. Gram, Mrs. John B. Atkins, Herbert Tucker, George A. Smith, John B. Given, Sereno N. Ayres, C. A. Boynton, N. S. Sanford and Fred M. Torrey.

Diaz' one big mistake in his career was hanging on under the impression that his place could not be filled by any Mexican.

CITY SQUARE FIRE.

The alarm from Box 26 at 2.38 Wednesday afternoon was for a slight fire among some old rags in the concrete garage of Robert T. Johnson on Maple street. The rags were soaked with gasoline and a match thrown near them caused a slight explosion, followed by fire.

The rags were thrown out of the window and the blaze extinguished with a lawn hose before the department arrived. The loss was trifling. Box 26 always calls out a large crowd and several hundred people soon gathered.

The Wisconsin genius who proposes to tax $6 a year for the privilege of remaining bachelors doesn't seem to know what the average man is willing to pay for peace.

CORE DRILL AT QUINCY QUARRY

First Machine of Its Kind Ever Set Up Here and Promises Great Things

Tells Kind of Granite at Great Depth in Quarry

A machine that is attracting much attention is at work at what is known as the Berry quarry, owned by J. S. Swingle, known far and wide to the trade as the "Extra Dark man." The machine in question is what is known as a core drill, and is being used at the Berry quarry to ascertain what the strata of the granite is below the surface.

The Berry quarry has always been called a medium colored stock, but Mr. Swingle believes that way down below the surface there is an extra dark granite which is the kind that is now in great demand.

The machine was brought over from New York last week, and set up in the quarry, and is working every day. It is the intention of Mr. Swingle to go to a depth of 200 feet if not deeper.

The machine although small is a wonderful one, for it takes out a core three and a quarter inches in diameter, in the shape of a column. Up to the present time the machine has taken out a core to the depth of over seventeen feet, and as yet no seam has been encountered, and the granite is clear and entirely free from knots, showing that down deep there is an almost inexhaustible supply of granite of a superior quality.

The method of drilling the core is an interesting one. Many such machines are used in the mines in the West to make boring, and there they are called diamond drills. In this case small steel shot, similar to that used on polishing wheels, is used.

A steel tube three and one-half inches in diameter, resembling a water pipe, is fastened to the end of a shaft, and made to revolve at a rapid rate. Into this pipe the small steel shot is poured and the rapid revolving of the shaft causes the core to be cut which comes up through the pipe as it gradually goes downward. The man in attendance at the machine with a lever forces the pipe downward as the core is cut.

At the present time, owing to the smallness of the special horizontal boiler, that has been set up to furnish steam, being too small, it is not possible to run the machine continuously, occasional waits are necessary to get up more steam. Even with this handicap however, about six feet of core is being taken out each day.

As stated above it is Mr. Swingle's intention to go to a depth of 200 feet or more, and in order that it may be accomplished as soon as possible it is the intention to run the core drill night and day.

The Berry quarry is one that was taken over by the quarry syndicate several years ago, but never worked, although it had an exceptionally fine grade of granite. It soon filled with water and when purchased by Mr. Swingle looked like a forlorn hope. Mr. Swingle however has an inexhaustible supply of push and energy and today the quarry presents an entirely different scene. The headland has been cleared off, and the water pumped out, and where a year ago boys and men were wont to go in swimming, today there is a large gang of quarrymen at work getting out stock, and a core drill at work to ascertain what is way down below the surface.

It is the first machine of its kind ever set up in Quincy, and is worth a walk over the granite hills at West Quincy to see.

A petition was received from the Houghs Neck Associates asking that a branch reading room be established in the section.

ATHLETIC FEATURES OF THE Y.M.C.A.

Association May Have an Athletic Field Centrally Located

The first annual banquet of the gymnasium members of the Y. M. C. A. was held in Hotel Greenleaf Thursday evening with an attendance of 50. At 7.30 the men filed into the dining room and were served the following substantial supper: Chicken broth, fried cod potato au gratin, roast chicken, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, macaroni, ice cream, fancy cakes and coffee.

Dr. E. R. Johnson as toastmaster introduced first Frank S. Baker, manager of the Boston Traveler. Mr. Baker spoke very interestingly of the mechanical devices used in getting out a newspaper ,told how the papers containing the final scores of a ball game were placed on sale in the street, two minutes after the score was received, explained the working of a linotype machine and in general gave his audience an idea of the hustle and bustle in a newspaper office just before the paper goes to press. In closing his address Mr. Baker said that newspaper men as well as men in other kinds of business have found that honesty is the best policy, and every effort is made to tell the truth in the newspaper. "Of course," he said" things have to be turned out in such a rush that it is oftentimes a difficult task to get everything exactly right. And the time is coming very soon when the man who is dishonest in business will not stand any show with the public.

"We often hear it said that you can't be honest and succeed in the newspaper or any other business but I believe that the time is not far distant when a man can't be anything else, if he would succeed."

Edward Jenkins, captain of the first basketball team, was next called upon. "Jinks" spoke briefly, for modesty forbade his saying very much.

F. I. Killam, physical director of the Brockton Y. M. C. A., spoke on "Extension." He traced the development of the association from its beginning and pointed out opportunities for healthier growth. Extension can only be made by cooperation he said, and its up to you young men to do the work. We old directors and leaders can't do it. You younger fellows have just got to get in and push, get your arms under your physical director, lift him up and help him along. If you all pull together we won't have to worry about extension in our associations.

McArdle, captain of the track team, was the next speaker. He considered the year's work satisfactory on the whole, and expressed a hope that the men would continue in their training for out door work. The prospects for a winning team next winter he considered good.

"Bill" Childs, captain of the second

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Uncle Sam knows what to do with his old battleships.

"After Mexico, what?" inquires a contemporary. The United States, a few persons are inclined to suspect.

Br'er Champ Clark is lying low, but certainly it cannot be said of him that he is saying nothing.

If the New York officials trying to dodge responsibility for the latest tragedy of 150 lives had shown half as much activity before the fire, it might have been prevented.

And now we are going to be afflicted with rival south pole claimants!

Those harem skirts must be Turkish atrocities we used to hear about.

It is a matter of general congratulation that by a unanimous vote the senate at Concord, N. H., on Thursday passed the bill providing for the purchase of Crawford Notch, the grand scenic entrance to the White mountains. It would be a pity to have such a natural beauty spot destroyed by commercialism.

J. S. Swingle by introducing the core drill into Quincy may not become as famous as Solomon Willard who opened our quarries to build Bunker Hill monument; but he may be classed with some of those who have revolutionized granite quarrying and manufacturing. In 1803 granite was first split by wedges by Josiah Bemis, George Stearns and Michael Wild. About 1831 Joseph Richards invented the bush hammer. In 1858 Henry Barker introduced granite cubes for street paving, and later Henry Barker & Sons began to saw granite. Machines have also been introduced for polishing granite, for surfacing granite, and quite recently the pneumatic tools and other inventions.

We doubt however if Mr. Swingle can become better known for his invention than for his trade mark "Extra Dark Man." All the trade knows him as such, and a letter with that address without his name would reach him.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Edward Southworth has presented the High school library with several volumes of reports of National Educational society.

The course of study for next year will be out the first of next term. Pupils will be required to hand in their list of courses before June 1.

The report cards for the third term will be out the first day of next term April 17. The marks of the Seniors will be reckoned up early next term so that the ten honor pupils may be selected and the graduation speakers chosen.

Head Master Howlett will speak before the Parents and Teachers association of the Wollaston school on April 18. His topic is "Some perils in the pupil's way."

Many of the teachers will spend their vacations at home, some will travel and others will seek recreation through a change in work. Mr. Howlett will spend his time working up a scholarship for Colgate to be given by the New England alumni of this University. Mr. Howlett was chosen chairman of the Aluimn scholarship committee.

The question of securing the use of the pasture beyond the car barn for an athletic field should demand the attention of the city. It could be used not only by High school, but by the grammar schools and others in the city. An enclosed field or one which could be controlled by the school or city authorities would be a valuable asset to the city.

The Rev. J. A. Magee, the new pastor of the East Braintree M. E. church, assumes his duties Sunday.

NEW PROBE IN LORIMER CASE

La Follette Presents Resolution to Reopen Inquiry

NEW WITNESSES IN ILLINOIS

Revelations Concerning Alleged "Slush Fund" of $100,000 Make Situation Look Serious For Illinois Senator—Many Who Voted to Seat Him at Last Session Are Now Out of Office—Many New Ones Against Him

Washington, April 7.—Senator La Follette introduced in the senate a resolution asking for an investigation of the election of Senator Lorimer of Illinois.

Although it has been expected that the opponents of Lorimer would take action to reopen the investigation of the legality of Lorimer's seat during the present session of congress, the prompt action of La Follette caused a sensation in the senate.

Mr. La Follette preceded the resolution with a long statement reciting the previous action of the senate in the other Lorimer investigation, and in this the committee on privileges and elections was criticized for its failure to summon certain witnesses and obtain testimony which had a bearing on the case. It then recited that the Illinois legislature appointed a committee to investigate like charges against Lorimer and refers to the testimony recently given before that body in which it was alleged that $100,000 had been expended to obtain the election of Lorimer.

The resolution then nominated five new senators to conduct an investigation, the expenses to be paid out of the contingent fund of the senate.

The resolution names Senators Works of California, Townsend of Michigan, McLean of Connecticut, all Republicans, and Kern of Indiana and Pomerene of Ohio, Democrats, as the committee.

Senator La Follette refused to allow the resolution to go to a committee, and it was laid on the table, where he will call it up at a later date. The resolution says:

"It appears from the published report of the proceedings of the said Illinois state senate committee that witnesses who were not called and sworn by the committee of this senate appointed to investigate said charges, have appeared before the said committee of the Illinois state senate and upon being interrogated have given important material testimony tending to prove that $100,000 was corruptly expended to secure the election of William Lorimer to the United States senate."

That there will be a reopening of the Lorimer case in the national senate is assured. It is the belief of men in Washington that this is but the beginning of the biggest political housecleaning that America ever saw.

Every man in the United States senate who had anything to do with keeping Lorimer here, in view of the startling testimony regarding the $100,000 "slush fund" that was raised in a hurry, should court investigation, in the opinion of the average citizen of the capital.

Many of the senators who voted to seat Lorimer are out of office now, and their places are filled for the greater part by men who would vote against him.

Oglesby Apepars to Be Interested

Springfield, Ills., April 7.—An astonishing revelation in the Lorimer bribery investigation came when it was disclosed that Lieutenant Governor Oglesby had demanded that he be made an ex-officio member of the Helm committee in the senate, which is probing Lorimer's election as a United States senator. Oglesby is a Lorimer man.

The second highest official of the state was peremptorily refused a place on the committee. In spite of this refusal, a motion will be made in the senate to seat him.

This move is conceded to be the last desperate stand of the Lorimer people. The capital is in an uproar.

Now that Clarence S. Funk, manager of the International Harvester company, has charged that Edward Hines, a millionaire lumber man of Chicago, asked him to contribute to a $100,000 fund raised for the election of Lorimer, it is predicted that some of the biggest men in the country will be called to testify before the committee.

JURY CLOSELY GUARDED

Result of Threatening Black Hand Letter In a Former Trial

Chicago, April 7.—Federal authorities are exercising unusual precaution at the trial of Gianni Alongi, charged with sending threatening letters through the mails, to guard against any violence upon United States District Judge Landis or others connected with the case.

The jury will be closely guarded, owing to the rumors that the jury in the former trial disagreed because one of them had received a "Black Hand letter."

OWN FLESH AS BAIT

How a Woman Caught Fish to Keep Her Children From Starving

Vancouver, B. C., April 7.—Fish dealers confirm a story that an Indian woman living on a small island north of here cut a piece of flesh from her body in an effort to procure food for her children when they were starving.

The woman and children were in desperate straits. The last scrap of food had been eaten the day before, and there was no game,, although the woman sarched until her strength gave out.

In this conditon she cut a strip of flesh from her body. This flesh was used as bait to catch fish, and thus sustained life until aid arrived.

LIPPINCOTT A SUICIDE

Head of Publishing Company Takes His Own Life by Shooting

Philadelphia, April 7.—Craige Lippincott, head of the publishing house of the J. B. Lippincott company and prominent in the financial and social life of the city, shot and killed himself in his magnificent home in this city.

The cause that led Lippincott to end his life is not definitely known, except that an authorized statement given out by an officer of the publishing company states that he shot and killed himself during a period of temporary aberration. Lippincott was born in this city in 1846.

LARGE SHIPMENTS OF BERMUDA ONIONS

Section of Texas Wilderness Converted Into Fine Farms

Laredo, Tex., April 7.—The Bermuda onion crop that is now moving to market is such an important factor in the spring railroad traffic that what is known as an "onion special" is run daily to St. Louis. This "onion special" is made up exclusively of freight cars loaded with Bermuda onions and it is operated on passenger schedule.

Asherton is the greatest Bermuda onion shipping point for its size in the United States. Where there was nothing but a wilderness of chaparral three years ago there are today broad stretches of irrigated farms upon which onions and other products are grown.

Several hundred thousand acres of ranch land in this region have been converted into farms, two railroads have been constructed through the former remote territory and many new towns laid out during the last three years.

NEW EXPLOSIVE SHELL

Can Be Depended Upon to Destroy Airships In Time of War

Washington, April 7.—Military experts in armaments and explosives believe that the great danger from aeroplanes and balloons in war has been set at naught by the invention of a new explosive shell by the Krupps in Germany.

The new shell is so delicately constructed that, while it resists the air, it explodes upon striking anything heavier. Even the gas bag of a balloon or the delicate woodwork of an aeroplane is sufficient to cause an explosion from impact.

POSTAL OFFICIAL MISSING

Shortage of $8500 In Department Over Which He Presided

Chicago, April 7.—A shortage of $8500 is reported in the wholesale stamped envelope department of the Chicago postoffice. Postmaster Campbell says the head of the department, John J. Daly, has not appeared at the postoffice since the shortage was called to his attention last Monday.

A general investigation of all the books kept in the various departments of the postoffice was begun some time ago and the investigators found they could not balance the accounts in Daly's department.

RECOGNITION OF PORTUGAL

Senators Not Yet Disposed to Ask the President About It

Washington, April 7.—The senate refused to consider offhand a resolution inquiring of the president whether the republic of Portugal had received the recognition of the United States.

The resolution reciting the facts of the revolution was introduced by Mr. Culberson. He asked for immediate consideration, but Mr. Cullom moved reference to the committee on foreign relations, and on a vote the motion was adopted.

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.

TROLLEY FREIGHT STATION.

Editors Daily Ledger:

There seems to be a great outburst of energy against the proposed locating of a trolley freight office on Washington street. Isn't it a question of "not in my back yard but most anybody elses?" The most strenuous objection comes from an abutter who has residential property to develop. If as he said at the hearing he expects the street to become a business one, why object to a good beginning such as proposed by the Street Railway people? Surely it is an improvement over the livery stable that has been a menace to health, a dangerous fire trap and a nuisance as to looks and noise for years.

If Washington street is to become a business street as predicted are not the conditions the same so far as the trolley office is concerned as any other business street? Why shove it off on Hancock or some other? If Washington street is to become a business street it will have to be widened. The city is lame in not defining a street line years ago but it has got to remedy the matter sooner or later and why not now? The car tracks at the side of the road are dangerous with or without a trolley freight office and should be put where they belong. Why not make Washington street of proper width for double tracking and do it now? Travel demands it. Safety demands it. It is a state road from the Point bridge to Chubbuck street why not a state road to Hancock street?

Is the business on Washington street at the present time such as to attract more business? Can you see the present ones in your mind's eye—Abbott & Miller's Express, Stetson Shoe store, the Furnald building and a fine group at Canal street?

The proposed Trolley Freight office outdistances all of them, and allows a big handicap. If it is not wanted on Washington street why try to put it near good substantial blocks like Music hall, the Kincaide building, etc.

If trolley freight is to benefit business and business men, also every person desiring to send or receive packages, its office must be central. It must also be in a good locality where ladies can go as well as men. It is simply an up-to-date express office where the goods are brought to the office by trolley and delivered by autos and teams.

When it comes to being dangerous I had rather take my chances with the trolley which is large and slow moving compared with most autos that speed up and down Washington street. If the trolley freight will slow up the autos it will prove a blessing.

Has Quincy any wide, safe streets? How about School, Franklin, Maple and many others? It is a pity something cannot be done to make the city realize how narrow and inadequate most of its streets are.

Give the Street Railway a show but make conditions to safeguard existing and future conditions in our city.

HOTTEST OF SEASON.

A change of 25 degrees in temperature from 12 o'clock noon Wednesday and 12 Thursday was sudden, and as welcome as it was sudden. Wednesday at noon it was 42 degrees ,and Thursday 67 degrees. Thursday therefore was warmest day of season, 59 the warmest day of the season, 59 being the highest point the mercury has reached this season. The warmest April day last year was April 5 when the mercury climbed to 75 degrees at noon.

BURIAL AT QUINCY.

The funeral of Hiram P. Abbott, formerly of Quincy, was held from the Waterman chapel, Roxbury, Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Sheed Anderson of the All Souls' Unitarian church officiated and the services were of a simple nature. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery Quincy. There were many friends and business associates present and members of Lewiston lodge of Elks acted as pall bearers. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

LAST OF VESPERS.

The last of the series of vespers for this season in the Wollaston Unitarian church will be held Sunday, April 9, at 4.30 o'clock. A fine musical program will be rendered by the quartet of the First church, Quincy, including the "Venite Exultemus Domino," "Gloria Patri," "Lord's Prayer," the "Benediction" and these anthems: "The radiant morn hath passed away," by Woodward; "Cast thy burden upon the Lord," by Mendelsohn; and "The Lord is my Shepherd," by Bischoff.

LAND VALUES.

An evidence of how valuable land in City Square is becoming for business purposes came to the attention of the Mayor a few days ago when a gentleman called at his office and made him an offer to rent a section of the lawn on the depot side of City Hall. The man wanted to erect a small stand for the sale of newspapers, cigars, etc., and offered to pay a rental of $100 a month and pay it in advance.

OUR CITIZENS IGNORED

Petitions of Prominent Citizens Should Have Consideration

Editors Daily Ledger:

At the meeting of the Council last Monday night when the proposed location of the Trolley Freight station was under discussion ,one of the Councilmen who seemed strongly in favor of the proposed location made the remark that the petition against the location sent to the Council and signed by our most influential and prominent citizens had no weight with him at all and that he did not even look at it.

Does a man who pays no attention to the expression of opinion and wishes of two hundred of our most prominent citizens and our heaviest taxpayers, properly represent our city? These citizens are entitled certainly to have their petition read and considered and a councilman who fails to do so is not properly representing them or looking out for the interests of the city which he is supposed to guard.

The arguments against this location as presented that evening were surely much weightier, and far more convincing than were the speeches of those in favor of this location.

This petition of our best and most prominent citizens, the protest of the Women's club and the Historical society should have weight and should at least receive proper attention from all the Councilmen who desire to properly represent their constituents or have the public welfare at least. The Councilmen or governing boards of other Massachusetts cities where trolley freight stations have been erected have apparently had the interests of their city at heart to the extent of not allowing freight stations to be built upon their principal and most crowded streets and near their public buildings.

We hope our Councilmen will be equally solicitious and have as much civic pride as those of other cities. Let any unpredjuced person read the printed extract of the speeches of our Councilmen upon this matter and see if there is any reasonable doubt as to which side represented the logic, the good sense and the protection of the city interest. It seems to us considerable assumption upon the railway's part to even ask for such a location.

MILTON.

At the annual meeting of the Thursday Evening club in Ellsworth hall East Milton, the following officers were elected: Vice President—Samuel Woods; Secretary—H. B. Cooper; Treasurer—George A. Arnold. Rev. W. D. Roberts is permanent president.

Chris Mahoney of Milton is making good on the Red Sox and it looks now as if he were sure of his berth on the team.

Fred Allen of Bryant avenue was taken to the Milton Convalescents home on Wednesday. He has been confined to his home for seven months with rheumatic fever.

Mrs. Davison of Adams street is in New York visiting friends this week.

The fire department was called out Monday morning at 8 o'clock for a grass fire on the Fenno estate. In the afternoon there were two other grass fires. A telephone call brought Hose 2 to Brook road boulevard for a grass fire. A still alarm at box 67 brought out Hose 2 again half an hour later for a grass fire back of the McDonald estate across the street from the engine house.

The regular monthly dance for Cunningham gymnasium members was held in the "gym" Wednesday evening. There was a fair sized crowd present in spite of the disagreeable weather.

BANK EXAMINATIONS.

Gov. Foss sent a message to the Legislature on Wednesday endorsing a recommendation made by Harvey S. Chase, the public accountant who examined the office of the bank commissioner, recommending that laws be enacted requiring that private banks, trust companies and co-operative banks be examined by public accountants reporting to the bank commissioner, their fees to be paid by the banks and not by the state. Savings banks are now so examined.

Dedham has voted to put the police and firemen under the civil service act.

Y. M. C. A.

said he felt about as much out of place as a skunk at a lawn party, but his speech belied that statement. He thought the season was a success as a whole, but felt that the team should have done better.

R. D. Chase, president of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. was to have been one of the speakers, but illness in his family prevented his coming.

L. F. LaRose, physical director of the local association was the last speaker. He gave statistics concerning the year's work showing the number of men that had used the floor regularly, and several surprising figures were given. Over 7,000 men had been on the floor during the year for regular gymnastic work, and counting meets, basketball games, etc., over 19,000 had used the gymnasium during the year. These figures do not deal with individuals but with aggregates.

The coming outdoor work was mentioned and it was stated that the association had hopes of getting the use of the Edwards estate back of Music hall for an athletic field. On this field there would be an opportunity forthree baseball diamonds and a quarter-mile track.

The basketball season summaries were given, showing the averages of the players and the totals for the teams. The first team won 10 games and lost 10, the second won 13 and lost 7. Financially, the basketball season was a success. There was enough of a balance in the treasury to make up for the deficit in the track team expenses and to have the first basketball team and the track team as guests at the banquet, leaving a few dollars for the purchase of a mat or some piece of apparatus.

Association emblems were given to the following: Jenkins, Dackers, Morris, Rich, Trask, G. Booth and Parker.

Championship medals were awarded to Trask, Wilson, Sutermeister, McArdle, Cliflin and Phelan.

Trask was awarded the cup for first place in the all around test; L. White received the second cup, and Estey the third.

A handsome trophy for the dual meet between the Employed Boys and Intermediates which was won by the latter, was on exhibition. The two classes will compete for this trophy each year and the names of the point winners will be engraved on it.

The cup for the extension club basketball championship was awarded to South Quincy which had won 12 games and lost none.

In concluding his remarks Mr. LaRose said that Quincy was at the top in clean sport; there was not a black mark against any man or any team; and it is up to the men on the teams to keep their records clean above all else.

IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY MEETING

After an evening of discussion and controversy a constitution and bylaws were officially adopted by the Park and Downs Improvement Association at its meeting in Poland hall on Thursday evening.

The result was not attained however until the report of the special committee had been picked to pieces and radically changed.

The chief bone of contention was the name of the organization and whether in it should be included reference to Wollaston Park.

While nearly all agree that the residents and property owners in Wollaston Park were welcomed and desired the majority would not assent that the name should be embodied in the title of the association. Several residents of the Park entered an earnest plea that their district should be represented in the associations name and it was finally voted to lay the matter over until next Thursday's meeting.

Another point which brought forth a fund of discussion was the amount of influence the directors should have in the direction of the association and their powers and length of office.

Upon motion of Mr. Whitman it was voted that the directors consist of a president, vice president, secretary, treasurer and five other directors to be elected annually on the fourth Thursday in April.

The meeting opened with a few remarks by President Frank Burgess dealing with the future atcions of the association and a reading of the last meeting's minutes by Secretary Snow.

As set out in the constitution the object of the association shall be the impovement of the physical civic business, and social conditions of Norfolk Downs and Wollaston Park.

There will be a membership fee of one dollar upon joining and yearly dues of two dollars to be paid semi-annually. While not so stated in the constitution and bylaws as yet it is understood that any male resident or property owner of Norfolk Downs or Wollaston Park may become a member upon favorable vote by the association.

The organization will be incorporated at an early date when the officers and directors will be legally elected.

Following this action President Burgess is planning an aggressive campaign in which much needed improvements in Norfolk Downs and Wollaston Park will be given careful consideration.

SAILORS ENTERTAINED.

The Men's club of Christ church, members of St. Margaret's Guild, and many of the parishioners, over 100 strong, went to Charlestown to entertain the inmates of the Sailors Haven on Thursday evening. When the guests arrived at 7.45 they were greeted by the genial superintendent Stanton King, who set to work to make things comfortable for the new arrivals. Rev. Mr. Armstrong opened the exercises with an address. A quartette composed of Fred Warmington, William Warmington, Archibald Parsons and George Davey next rendered a selection.

A cornet duet was given by Miss Elizabeth Furnald and Mr. Newcomb, after which a solo was sung by Carleton Beal. A chorus from the "musical revue" was next sung by a number of the men. Mr. Armstrong sang a solo, Henry W. French gave a humorous address, and little Joe Beal gave a recitation. The quartette then sang again, and Mr. Wrigley concluded the program with a solo. The sailors of the Haven contributed little skits, songs and dances between the selections by the visitors.

The evening closed with the serving of refreshments consisting of coffee and buns served by members of the Men's club and young ladies of the guild. At 10 o'clock the visitors started for home after a most enjoyable evening. The sailors of the home pronounced the evening the best they had spent for years.

—Congratulating Reno, Nevada on its Young Men's Christian Association building, just completed, Ex-President Roosevelt said that he had not known until a recent controversy arose that to Catholics and Jews, who, he said, were often among the most liberal contributors to this work, was denied the right of holding positions on the managerial boards of the association. This he characterized as gross injustice. Col. Roosevelt said: "A Catholic layman or Catholic priest, who works with us, should be allowed to have his full and fair share in the management Do that in the name of the Y. M. C. A., and then, when you get Catholics and Protestants in, I am going to appeal to the Catholics and Protestants to take in the Jew, if he is a good fellow, in the same way."

Marcus M. Goodale who died at Dorchester this week was taken to North Weymouth on Thursday for burial.

Mary F. Perry a school teacher at Scituate for thirty years died on Wednesday.

ROBBED OF $96.

Carl Hedstrom of 191 Centre street reported to the police this morning that he had been robbed of $96, and that he had reason to believe that his room mate Edward Tonasini was responsible for the missing of the money.

Hedstrom, who is a stone worker, is of a very saving disposition, and has a bank account. It has been his custom to save up what money he could, and when he had saved $100 to put it in the bank. He had $96 saved and was planning to bank $100 on the next pay day. This money he kept in the bottom of his trunk.

This morning when he woke up he found that his room-mate had got up before he did and was gone. Thinking about his money he opened the trunk, and was nearly frantic when he found the money gone.

Inquiry at the place where Tonasini worked brought out the information that he had not reported for work this morning, and no trace of him could be found. Hedstrom then reported the matter to the police and at the headquarters of the Granite Cutters' Union hoping that the missing man might be traced through the union.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

HUMANE DAY.

Humane day, as April 11 is called, was observed in the public schools today as the schools will not be in session next Tuesday. There was no set program for the observance, but it was worked into the general school work of the day. A number of copies of the new Humane manual, for use in the public schools, have been received by Supt. Barbour, and these have been distributed among the school.

The initial object of Humane day is to emphasize the duty of men to the brute creation, both from the view point of science and of sentiment. The more comprehensive purpose as embodied in the Manual is to teach the humanity of peace and of mercy against crime, war and all forms of violence.

This is the fifth anniversary of Humane Day, which was started in the Boston schools April 12, 1906. The second Tuesday of April has been set apart by the school authorities of Boston for this purpose. And the other cities and towns have accepted this date.

STEAMER RUNS ASHORE IN FOG

1720 PASSENGERS ABOARD

Lies Helpless on Sand Bar Throughout Entire Day—Waves Wash Over Deck as Wind Increases—Many Immigrants Reasonably Calm, Although Unable to Understand Assurances of Ship's Officers

New York, April 7.—Seventeen hundred and twenty passengers, within sight of the first of the big lights which marked the finish of their transatlantic voyage, spent a sleepless night last night on the great steamship Prinzess Irene of the North German Lloyd line, fast in the sands off the seaward coast of Long Island, on the edge of the "Graveyard of the Atlantic" and less than fifty miles from the harbor of New York. As night fell a high ground swell battered the full height of the vessel's superstructure.

After running her nose into the sand during a fog early yesterday morning, the big liner lay helpless throughout the day, surrounded by tugs and revenue cutters. Efforts to pull her free at afternoon hgh tide failed, and because of a rough sea no transfer of passengers was attempted.

The decision was then reached to leave all hands on board, pending renewed attempts to drag her clear today. If these fail, transfer will be made to the Prinz Freiedrich Wilhelm of the same line.

At low water last evening the stranded liner lay with her length of 525 feet broadside to the beach on the one hand and the sea and wind on the other. The incoming tide, urged on with a wind which increased during the evening to nearly twenty miles an hour, rocked the vessel visibly as seen from shore, and every other swell rolled up her black sides and spat about her white superstructure.

As the night wore on, lifeguards patrolled the beach with surf boats and breeches buoy in readiness for any emergency and put little faith in the sturdy efforts of the tugs to pull the liner off.

The scene of the grounding is about ten miles east of Fire island, approximately forty-six miles from the Battery and 1000 feet from the beach of the treacherous sandpit which skirts the outer edge of Long Island.

Creeping carefully in the murky weather, the Prinzess Irene did not strike hard, and few of her passengers, 235 of whom are in the cabins, realized what had happened until they rose for breakfast. And although two-thirds of them are Italian and Greek immigrants, unable to understand the assurances of the officers, they were reasonably calm.

Captain Goddard and six veterans from the Lone Fim life saving station, who went out to the Prinzess Irene when they sighted her in the fog, decided to remain aboard all night to do what they might to reassure the more nervous passengers. On the beach Captain Baker, with twenty-five years' experience behind him with the treacherous bars, remained in his oil skins all night, and with six men was ready to put out a life boat or shoot a breeches buoy line, if the wind assumed the proportions of a storm.

The Prinzess Irene is of 11,000 tons net, nas 9000 horsepower, is 525 feet long, 60 feet beam and 38 feet in depth. She was built eleven years ago at Stettin, Germany, by the Vulcan Shipbuilding company.

VITOZZI WEEPS ON THE STAND

Dramatic Scene as Camorra's "Guardian Angel" Testifies

DECLARES HE IS A MARTYR

Says All He Asks In This World Is Justice—Accuses Carbineers With Causing "Downfall of Innocent Men"—Has Always Been a Good Priest, but Had to Come In Contact With Evil—He Finally Collapses

Viterbo, April 7.—Father Vitozzi, 'the guardian angel of the Camorra," took the witness stand in the trial of Enrico Alfano and his Camorrist associates and denied his guilt with such impassioned vehemence that he collapsed and fell to the floor in a faint, halting the proceedings.

It was Vitozzi who secured the release of Enrico Alfano, alias Erricone, when the head of the Neapolitan society was first imprisoned in the investigation of the double murder of Gennaro Cuocolo and his beautiful wife.

When the direct interrogation of the priest was begun there was a dramatic scene. Attired in his clerical robes, the priest solemnly crossed himself as he began his story.

The witness was excited and frequently wept, pressing a handkerchief to his eyes. At other times he spoke in a loud, bold tone and added emphasis to his words by vigorous gestures.

It developed in his testimony that he had appealed to King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena to help him from his present dilemma. He said that he had sent personal communications to both the king and queen.

President Bianchi of the assize court started in by asking Vitozzi many questions about his affiliations in Naples.

"I am well known and respected there," answered the witness. "I am honored to say that my acquaintances include senators and many members of the chamber of deputies."

Rising in his seat, the priest cried: "I am a martyr. I am sick from the slander and cruelty which has been visited upon me for the past three years. All I ask in this world is justice."

He quieted then and went on to say that he had once officiated at memorial religious services at the Monza chapel and had received a telegram from Queen Margherita thanking him for his services which he had given free. The telegram, said the priest, is among his belongings. He had it framed as a keepsake.

Father Vitozzi, as the other defendants examined before him had done, accused the caribineers, charging that they were in league with certain other interests to "bring about the downfall of innocent men."

"Throughout my life," continued Vitozzi, "I have been a good priest. Priests more than any others come in contact with evil. It is their duty to accept the confessions of wrongdoers. The priesthood is intended to combat the wickedness of the world and to do that we must know what we have to fight."

The witness then told of saying masses for the repose of the soul of the late King Humbert, who was murdered by anarchists. As his story progressed he grew more and more excited. In the midst of a fit of weeping he suddenly lurched forward in his chair in a collapse.

At this point the attorney for Vitozzi broke in with the assertion that the witnesses against his client had been bought and that he could prove it. This brought forth denials from the prosecution and in the hubbub that followed the session was adjourned.

OLIVER CROMWELL'S HEAD

Exhibited In London to Members of Archaeological Society

London, April 7.—What is asserted to be the head of Oliver Cromwell was exhibited to the members of the Royal Archaeological society in this city. According to tradition the skull was blown off the pole at the top of Westminster hall, and picked up by a sentry, who hid it and only confessed on his death bed to his wife.

Sir Henry Howarth and Professor Boyd Dawkins both state that the evidence makes it extremely probable that the head is that of the protector.

For Reciprocity and Peace

New York, April 7.—The New York chamber of commerce adopted resolutions indorsing reciprocity with Canada. Resolutions calling for an international peace tribunal to prevent war were also adopted.

Big Price For Titian Painting

Paris, April 7.—It is said that the Titian, "La Schiavona," belonging to the Crespi collection, has been bought for $100,000 by Wildenstein and Gimpel, Paris and New York picture dealers.

Fire Destroys Car Barns

Cincinnati, April 7.—The car barns of the Cincinnati, Georgetown and Portsmouth Traction line were burned.

DRINK WATER FOR HEALTH.

Two great aids to beauty and health in the world are the simplest and least often followed. A woman who will not fail to take obnoxious medicine recommended by her doctor, at the most inconvenient times, finds it too difficult to adopt these two remedies—fresh air and quantities of pure water.

Even those who have successfully educated themselves in the fresh air cult still neglect the equally important habit of drinking plenty of pure water. They daily bathe the body externally without a thought of the necessity of internal bathing.

Any doctor will tell you that a certain quantity of water should be taken daily; a pint and a half is the very least that one is supposed to drink. Yet there are many people who never drink water at all.

When one thinks of the cleansing power of water upon the body applied externally one is astonished that it is not more universally used as an internal cleanser.

A woman whose complexion was the envy of all drank thirteen glasses of pure water a day between meals and slept with every window in her bedroom wide open. While she was fortunate enough to start life with a good complexion, she attributes all the freshness and youth of her looks to these simple causes.

The morning bath has become a necessity to all who indulge in the niceties of life, and it would be well if the morning drink would also be adopted by women. Nothing is so good for one as to take a glass or two of water immediately after one's bath, or the first thing when one rises. If cold water gives one a feeling of nausea, and it does to many, take hot water. This should be drunk as hot as one can bear it and in as great a quantity as one can stand. The juice of half a lemon in it works wonders for the complexion and the health.

Every woman should take all reasonable precautions to keep herself well, because ill health saps vitality. Each time one is ill a tiny bit of youth and freshness is sacrificed. One's reserve force is lowered and every illness acts against the preservation of one's good looks.

Begin at once to throw open all your windows and to drink water all during the day, and you will be astonished to see how much younger you will look and how much prettier you will be. And youth—in face and figure—is now the aim and desire of every woman. She strives for its slim freshness as she used to strive for beauty.

The Honorable Senator Sagebrush

By FRANCIS LYNDE

Copyright, 1910, by Street & Smith

SYNOPSIS.

Evan Blount, son of "Boss" David Blount ("Senator Sagebrush"), has been rejected by Patricia Anners. Dick Gantry offers him a position with the Transcontinental railway, which is fighting his father. McVickar, head of the railroad, and "Boss" Blount quarrel.

The boss demands that the railroad stop the use of crooked methods. Going west to meet his father, Evan meets a man who takes him for a forestry employee.

Evan is kidnaped by a band of men, evidently land corporation agents, and is taken at night to a mansion seemingly presided over by a woman.

The house is Wartrace Hall, Senator Blount's home, and the woman is Evan's stepmother, whom he had never met.

The senator purposes running Evan for attorney general despite the young man's recent arrival in the state. Evan objects. He hears his father called a political trickster.

McVickar defies Senator Blount to nominate Evan. Patricia and her geologist father arrive at the Sagebrush capital.

At McVickar's request Evan joins the railroad's forces as division counsel and political worker. He favors clean politics, but finds that his office is made a rallying point by small political hangers-on of the road.

Evan has a disagreement with Gantry about the road's mixing in politics. His father pulls wires unknown to him to have him invited to speak in a distant mining town. Hathaway, who has been trying to do business with the road and with Senator Blount, is to have a talk with Mrs. Blount.

Exposure of the railroad is threatened by Evan to Gantry unless rebating and other unlawful practices are stopped. Evan suspects his secretary, Collins, of tampering with his desk.

The desk is blown up by a burglar, evidently after Evan's papers. Gantry tells McVickar that Evan is getting to be too much for him to handle.

Hathaway wants a rebate from the road in consideration of political favors. He is referred to Evan and is advised by Mrs. Blount to put Professor Anners' name on his list of stockholders.

Evan's interview with Hathaway reveals the road's misdoings. In a rage he resigns. Gantry holds up the resignation. Evan insists that it go through to McVickar.

Patricia refuses Evan again. She advises him to stick to the road and work for clean politics. He withdraws his resignation and is sent into the field on a speaking tour.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE ROUNDUP.

IT was only the car that was disabled. Beyond a severe shaking up neither Patricia nor Blount was seriously hurt. Recovering from the shock and being assured of Patricia's wholeness and his own, Blount sprang out to see what the collision had done to the car. The inspection was brief. With the front axle bent, the radiator crushed and one cylinder of the engine broken, the little car was safely out of commission.

"We're done for," he said shortly, helping his companion down from the driving seat.

Patricia was still trembling and pale, and he thought that the accident was accountable.

"Do you mean—that we can't—go on to the city?" she quavered.

"Not unless we walk, and it is exactly fifteen miles. I happened to notice the speedometer record on the roadster when we turned around here last Sunday."

"What shall we do?" she asked when the improbability of any timely rescue made itself apparent.

Blount looked at his watch. It was already a few minutes past 3 o'clock.

"We'll sit down and wait for somebody to come along and rescue us," he said, striving to say it lightly. "I'm sure we ought to be glad and thankful that it is no worse. We stood a good chance of being killed, both of us."

She shuddered and said: "I might have stopped sooner. There—there was time, don't you think?"

Evan had thought so, and he was regarding her curiously. There had been many motoring experiences in their acquaintance of a year and not a few hazards, and he had more than once rejoiced in her cool presence of mind in the face of sudden danger.

"I wondered a little that you didn't," he ventured to say. "I never saw you hesitate before."

The look that she gave him was pathetically pleading.

"I stopped—just one little instant to think—of your father—and—and those terrible papers in your pocket and what was going to happen if you should reach Judge Hemingway in time, Evan," she confessed brokenly. "Can you ever forgive me?"

It was a moment for the brushing aside of obstacles once and for all, and he took her in his arms—would have done it if the lonely Quaretaro road had been the busiest street in the capital.

"You are my brave, loyal darling," he said. And because she let him say it and hid the face, from which the cold pallor had suddenly fled, on his shoulder, the political struggle and everything pertaining to it became as things of naught and the lonely road the way to paradise.

The silence of the immensities held them for a moment—a golden silence for the lover, but a moment of keen self reproachings for the maiden sobbing on his shoulder.

"Oh, I don't know how I could have done it—but I did!" she wept. "I—I was ac-actually glad when I saw the tree. I didn't have the courage to—to upset the car in the ditch."

Again he comforted her, and the political venalities withdrew into a still remoter region.

"It was to be," he said. "That is what the tree was put here for—to stop us."

She looked up at that.

"Why, that is so, isn't it? There are no trees growing around here—none at all. Who did it, Evan?"

Blount shook his head sadly. "There is only one person in the world who could have any strong reason for stopping us," he asserted. "I can't imagine how my father managed it in the short time at his disposal. That tree has been dragged down out of the little canyon since we passed going north. You can see the trail of it in the road."

"Please, Evan," she pleaded, "don't ask me to believe that your father planned it! Why, we might have been killed outright, both of us!"

"I know," he returned gloomily, "but—hello, here comes our rescue!"

It was rather a figure of speech than an assurance. Around a turn in the canyon road came three horsemen pointing for the main highway and ambling gently. They were hardly within hailing distance before Blount recognized his three waylayers of the night of mysteries in the Lost River mountains, with Barto in the lead.

"Howdy?" said the timber looker, riding up to hang with one knee over the saddle while he grinned at the two castaways. "Lost out again, Mr. Blount? Couldn't make out to run your chug wagon over that there pine tree, eh?"

"Did you put the tree in the road?" snapped Blount, with rising anger.

"I reckon we did," was the cool reply, "and it was one job too. Had to drag it f'm more'n a mile down the gulch with the horse ropes."

There was material for an explosion, but Blount controlled himself.

"By whose orders did you do it?" he demanded.

"The boss'."

"Mr. Hathaway?"

"Not on your life. It was the big boss this time."

Blount's quick glance aside at his companion was a sorrowful "I told you so," and he did not question Barto further.

"Well," he said, turning back to the outlaw, "what is to be done with us?"

Barto pursed his thick lips. "If the lady can make out to ride one of the bronc's," he began, "there's a right comfortable little shack of a hotel at the head of the gulch, and"—

"But we are on our way to the city," Blount interposed, still trying to master his impatience.

The timber looker shrugged.

"All right. I reckon there ain't no law ag'inst your walkin' or settin' down to wait till somebuddy comes along. But it might be a good while."

Blount turned to Patricia.

"Shall we wait?" he asked, and she nodded quickly, with a look in her eyes that he could not interpret.

"I don't believe we care to go and look for your shack hotel," he said to the road blocker.

Barto swung straight in his saddle and fell into the attitude of one listening. Then the grin became a menace, and he spoke sharply.

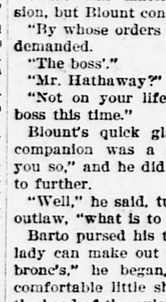
"Gimme them papers you got in your pocket and do it sudden!" he commanded. "Then you can stay here till the cows come home if you want to. Quick, I say!"

"No," Blount said crisply.

Instantly Barto's pistol was out.

"Give 'em up!" he shouted. "Shell 'em out or"—

The diversion came stormily. Around the curve from the north—the curve that had so lately been Patricia's undoing—came a huge touring car, with a big man at the wheel, a veiled woman in the mechanician's seat and the tonneau crammed with armed men.



WILL JONES

"SHELL 'EM OUT, OR"—

Barto snapped his pistol at the oncoming car, and when the weapon missed fire he wheeled his horse to the canyon road, up which his two companions were already urging their mounts. Two seconds later the big car had stopped at the tree barrier, and six men with Winchesters were popping the halt signal at the flying highwaymen. It was speedily effective, and when the game was bagged the senator swung down from the driving seat of the big Italian car and gave his orders briefly.

"Take these fellows up yonder to the hotel at the canyon head and see that they're kept out of mischief till tomorrow night, Granger," he said, singling out the leader of his tonneau squad. "Then tell the gentleman you'll find bossing things up there that the jig is up, and he may as well come to the city. He'll find me at the Inter-Mountain when he wants to talk it over."

A little engineering feat, made possible by the big car's towrope, soon cleared the way, and when the great car, with the two women in the tonneau and Evan in the seat beside his father, was devouring the miles in the straightaway race to the city the young man said what was due.

"I was blaming you for the tree and for Barto's attempt to get those affidavits away from me," was what he broke the humming silence to say, and the senator nodded.

"I guess it was pretty lucky we had our ears to the cut-in on McVickar's private wire up yonder at Wartrace," he said, but that was all that he said.

The courthouse clock was just striking 4 when the huge touring car, with its radiator sizzling hot, came to a stand before the entrance to Judge Hemingway's chambers.

"You're still in time, son," said the senator quietly.

But Evan Blount made no move to get out of the car.

"Was I jumping at conclusions, dad?" he asked half shamefacedly.

"A little that way—just a little that way," was the gentle reply. "You see, Gryson did sure enough turn traitor this morning when he gave you those affidavits. He'd had a quarrel with Mr. McVickar. Every one of those crooked names means a vote for your railroad, son. That was why I told you you'd better not holler out about it. It was against your own side."

"Then there is all the more reason why"— he began, but his father was once more putting the clutch in.

"No," he interrupted, still in the same gentle tone; "don't let's jump at any more conclusions, Evan. Wait just a little while. There's more to come—and I shouldn't be surprised if it came before dinner time."

It did come before dinner time—came when a dust covered car driven at reckless speed tore in over the northern road and was pulled up with a jerk at the Inter-Mountain entrance to let Mr. Hardwick McVickar debark and hurry to the clerk's desk.

"Senator Blount? Yes, he's in his rooms; he said you were to come right up," said the clerk, and, without stopping to strip off his dust coat, the vice president hastened to an elevator.

What took place behind the closed door of the sitting room in the Blount suit is not a matter of record, and Evan Blount, sitting beside Patricia in Mrs. Blount's private sitting room and concluding a lasting peace with his father's wife, was too happy to care very much. But after a time the summons for which he had been waiting came, and he went—almost reluctantly—to join his father in the room of conference.

"Has Mr. McVickar gone?" he asked, finding his father sitting alone.

"Yes; he's gone—gone to order out his car and go back to Chicago," was the slow spoken reply. Then, with the quizzical smile wrinkling at the eye corners, "How does the political wrestle strike you by this time, son?"

"It strikes me that I haven't been in it—not even in the outer edges of it, dad. Isn't that about the size of it?"

"Oh, no; you've been doing good work—mighty good work, for your company. McVickar recognizes it. You've helped out in the only way that help could come in this campaign. You've worked up a good, healthy public sentiment in favor of a square deal for everybody. McVickar was fixing to lose it all; cooking the registration lists and buying votes and making deals right and left, the same as usual. But it's all off now, and he's gone, and we're going to have one clean, straight up and down election, son. The 'machine' says so."

"The machine?" queried the younger man.

Escalloped Cabbage. To one cup of cabbage take one cup of white sauce, three tablespoons of bread crumbs (buttered), cut off outside leaves of cabbage, wash, cut in small pieces, and cook in boiling salted water until tender, leaving lid off so as to bleach cabbage. Place alternate layers of cooked cabbage, white sauce, and buttered crumbs in buttered baking dish, and cover with buttered crumbs. Bake until white sauce bubbles up, and crumbs are golden brown.

Tomato Sauce. One rounded tablespoonful of beef drippings, one rounded tablespoonful of flour, one level teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper, one heaping teaspoonful of sugar, one cup of strained tomato. Melt the drippings in a saucepan, add the salt, pepper, sugar and flour and stir until smooth. It is better to remove the saucepan from the stove while doing this. Then add the heated strained tomato and cook until smooth and thick.

Date Loaf Cake. One pound of dates (after seasoning), one pound English walnuts (meats), one cup pastry flour, two rounding teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one cup granulated sugar, four eggs beaten separately, one teaspoonful of vanilla, extract. Let the dates and nut meats be kept as whole as possible. Sift over them the flour, baking powder, and salt, sifted together, add the sugar, and mix again; beat in the yolks, fold in the whites; bake in two loaf bread pans, in a modern oven, nearly one hour. Must be baked slowly to insure success.—Antoinette M. Fortin.

AMUSEMENTS

DOINGS ON THE STAGE OF

LOCAL AND BOSTON THEATRES

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

The third week of the Aborn Grand Opera Company's season at the Boston Opera house, starting Monday, April 10th, will be occupied by Donizetti's masterpiece, "Lucia di Lammermoor." With its pathetic story, founded on Scott's tragic novel, "The Bride of the Lammermoor," and its score so full of musical gems like the famous sextette, Lucy's mad scene, Edgar's final song at the tomb, and many other simple musical beauties of the familiar and rich Italian style, this opera after three quarters of a century of popularity, maintains as strong a hold as ever upon the affections of music lovers in general. Several important new arrivals to the Aborn forces will occupy prominent roles in "Lucia." The title part will be sung at alternate performances by Edith Helena, the noted coloratura soprano whom the critics of other cities have named "The American Tetrazinni," and Regina Vicarino, a young artist of Italian forbears, but a native of this country, who has been singing in grand opera in California with success, and who has never before appeared in the East excepting a recent recital in New York. Eugene Battain, a tenor who has established himself as a favorite, will share the role of Edgar with Domenico Russo who was formerly with Hammerstein's Opera Comique organization. The following week will see the first production in English in America of Massenet's famous opera, "Thais" with Lois Ewell, Edith Helena, Lila Robeson, Mischa Ferenzi, Giuseppe Picco, Louis Kreidler, Herbert Waterous, Florence Coughlin and Frederick Huddy in the cast.

BOSTON THEATRE

Robert Hilliard is creating a profound impression in "A Fool There Was" at the Boston Theatre where he remains for next week. Great and enthusiastic audiences are aroused to a high pitch of nervous tension. In this noble old playhouse, around which cluster some of the finest legends of the American stage, the most distinguished native and foreign players have triumphed. Mr. Hilliard's vital and virile personation of the fool who goes down to disaster, through infatuation for the vampire woman pictured in Kipling's famous poem is entitled to a prominent place in the Boston Theatre's wonderful dramatic portrait gallery. It is the finest example this period affords of the tense and powerful in acting. Mr. Hilliard gives noble strength to the portrayal of the distinguished man who is burned to a cinder in the furnace of temptation.

The production is on a big scale, full of beautiful pictures. One of impressiveness shows the deck of a hugh ocean liner, crowded with passengers, amid the joyous confusion of the sailing hour. During the final week there will be Wednesday and Saturday matinees. At the Wednesday afternoon performance $00 orchestra seats at $1.00 are set aside.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

An exceptionally good list of features for B. F. Keith's Theatre the week of April 10th is now in preparation, and when the full bill is announced it is confidently predicted that it will be one of the strongest offered at that house during the entire season. It is sufficient to say that one of the features already engaged is Louis Simon, who last appeared here as the principal comedian in "Katy Did," and who will produce one of the funnist sketches ever put on in vaudeville, called "The New Coachman." A new feature of the week will be Lou Anger, a Western comedian in a German soldier character who has been making a tremendous hit and will make his first appearance here in the East. Barry and Wolford will be seen in a new comedy called "At the Song Booth;" Oscar Lorraine, the wonderful impersonator of famous violinists, is also on the bill, and a big feature for the children will be Maude Stickney's Circus, with some of the most intelligent trained animals that have ever been seen on the stage. Annie and Effie Conley are also booked for that week.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

Ethel Barrymore is certain of receiving a warm welcome during the fortnight beginning April 10 when she is to be seen at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston. As an actress brilliant in early promises and in later fulfilment she has won for herself an immense following. She stands today as one of the really commanding figures on the stage and is liked for herself as well as for the art she so skilfully spreads over all that she does. Welcome as Miss Barrymore always is it would seem as if she would be more so than usual at this time for the reason that her offering, a double bill from the gifted Scotch playwright, James M. Barrie, is one that possesses an irresistible appeal to those who appreciate all that is good and worth while in the theatre. This double bill is made up of Barrie's early work "Alice-sit-by-the Fire" and the latest contribution from his pen, "The Twelve Pound Look." During the long season that she spent in New York this double bill was Miss Barrymore's chief offering and its success could not have been more emphatic. The company surrounding Miss Barrymore is strong and well balanced. The leading man is Charles Dalton. The matinees during Miss Barrymore's short stay at the Hollis will be on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

There is no reason to be astonished at the success of "The End of the Bridge" at the Castle Square. Among plays of recent years it has no rival for its straightforward plot and vigorous characters, and it will therefore begin its sixth week on Monday with every sign of continued popularity. It is evident that those who go to see it, remain to appreciate it, for it receives the undivided attention of every audience, and enthusiasm and applause are continuously frequent. With the close of the coming week it will have received no less than seventy two performances on the Castle Square stage. Every player helps to make for the success of "The End of the Bridge." Mr. Craig is an excellent Dr. Garret, Miss Young a delightful Joan Mannering, while Miss McDannel's Peter is the most charming little boy ever seen on the stage. The other roles are well acted by Mr. Hassell, Mr. Walker, Miss Colcord and Mr. Hickey.

LAUNCHING OF THE CREST.

The steam trawler Crest was successfully launched at the Fore River Wednesday afternoon in the presence of a few guests. The launch was a private one, and the official launching party was composed of a few friends of the officers of the Bay State Fishing Co. Although the weather was inclement the Crest slid down the greased ways and into her native element as graceful as a swan. Her sponsor was Miss Barbara Hunter Cole, the 8 year old daughter of Harrison Cole of Braintree, the Boston manager of the company.

Miss Cole was attended by her sister, Dorothy Cole, Miss Helen Vining and Miss Frances Longfellow. Mumm's Extra Dry was used to christen the new boat, and as she commenced to slide down the ways Miss Cole preformed her part of the function as gracefully as have the sponsors of the warships launched from these yards.

As the Crest entered the water there were cheers for the new addition to the fishing fleet and for the sponsor.

In the launching party, aside from those mentioned above, were Harrison Cole the Boston manager; Mrs. Cole, Donald Cole, George Reed, Mrs. Herbert Young, Cranmore Brooks, Miss Frances Houghton, E. E. Carpenter of New York and W. J. Wilkinson.

The Crest which is a sister ship of the Spray, Ripple and Foam, is 117 feet long and 22 1-2 feet beam, and is of 233 tons gross. She has Scotch boilers and thriple expansion engines of 450 horsepower. Her equipment includes a net 100 feet long and 10 feet deep, held down by weights.

A CRUSTY CHARACTER.

George E. Turner, at a dinner at the Curtis Hotel in Lenox, said with a smile:

"This hotel was originally a New England boarding house. The board was very simple here. And old Curtis, the original old Curtis, was a character.

"Curtis used to drive a very aristocratic lady, Mrs. Butler, every afternoon. One day he was extremely talkative. Mrs. Butler stood his talk for an hour or so, and then she said, in her stiffest and most grande dame manner:

"'Mr. Curtis, I pay you to drive, not to talk.'

"Curtis, of course, said no more. But when the bill came at the end of the month there was one day's extra charge ,which was set at $2.50 instead of the usual 50 cents. Lenox prices, by the way, were lower then than now.

"'Mr. Curtis,' said Mrs. Butler, 'what is the reason of this singular charge of $2.50 instead of the usual half-dollar on the 11th?"

"'Half a dollar for the drive and $2 for your sass,' old Curtis answered gruffly."—Dallas News.

THE PULL IS STEADY.

"If there is one enterprise on earth that a 'quitter' should leave severely alone it is advertising. To make a success of advertising, one must be prepared to STICK like a barnacle on a boat's bottom. ADVERTISING DOES NOT JERK; IT PULLS. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases day by day and year by year, until it exerts an irresistible power."—John Wanamaker.

For the Thin and Bloodless!

The thin and bloodless, with pale cheeks, white lips and frail angular physique, of this community have been much interested in the reports of physicians and others concerning the effectiveness of the treatment for increasing the red and white corpuscles of the blood, thus adding color and weight with its accompanying vigor to the depleted system. A gain of from ten to thirty pounds is not at all unusual where the treatment is regularly used for several months, while the color improves almost from the beginning. Most good apothecaries supply it in the from of three-grain hyponuclane tablets, put up in sealed packets, with directions for home use. Its action aids assimilation and absorption of the flood eaten very promptly.

The selectmen of Brookline have approved the gift of Mrs. Davenport of a drinking fountain for horses. The fountain is to be placed on the northerly side of Washington street east of the park driveway. It will be installed by the water board.

It is reported that the Selectmen of Hull have decided to put a stop to the overspeeding of autos in that town. They say that their leniency in the past has been taken advantage of to an unreasonable extent and that not a few of the residents have had narrow escapes. No traps will be set at first, but officers will be placed conspicuously in sight with instructions to enforced irrespective of persons. warn violators and take names, and if the offence is repeated the law will be.

MRS. MURPHY.

Mrs. Bridget Murphy who died Thursday morning at her home, 38 Summer street, has for many years been a resident of Quincy. Mrs. Murphy was born in Halifax, N. S., coming to this city while a young woman, and was known by many here in whose homes she has been in times of sickness and trouble. Beloved by all for her bright cheery nature, she was a valued helper in the sick room, and her passing will be mourned by many. She leaves a sister and devoted niece to mourn her loss. Funeral services will be held at St. Johns church on Saturday morning.

The bill to allow street railway companies to run their cars across private spur tracks of railroads without coming to a full stop, as now required by law, subject to the approval of the railroad commissioners, was passed to be engrossed in the Senate on Thursday by a vote of 23 to 13. Senator Barnes voted yes.

Miss Eva May Brower of Connecticut was non-suited this week in her breach of promise case against Eldridge G. Hunt of Weymouth.

CASSIDY—SMITH.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Smith in North Stoughton, Wednesday evening when Miss Ethel Bugbee Smith, their daughter, was united in marriage to Rev. Herbert Arthur Cassidy of Wollaston in the presence of the immediate friends of the families of the contracting parties. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Wesley Wiggin of Wollaston.

Among the many presents was a beautiful carving set from the Ladies' Aid society of North Stoughton Methodist church, where Mr. Cassidy has preached since last August.

After a brief trip to New York and places of interest they will reside at North Easton where Mr. Cassidy was appointed at the last session of the New England Southern Conference as pastor for the present year and begins his labors on Sunday.

LOST POCKET BOOK RECOVERED.

Mrs. Brent of Washington street recovered a pocketbook lost over two months ago, the first of this week. The pocketbook which contained a considerable sum of money was lost in the church one Sunday during the winter and no clue could be obtained with regard to it. Mr. Shirley, the janitor was sweeping in the church gallery on Monday, when his broom struck something under one of the seats, which upon examination proved to be the pocketbook.

How it got there is still a mystery for Mrs. Brent says she has never been in the gallery in her life. The only explanation put forward is that whoever stole it, lost their courage, slipped up into the gallery and dropped the pocketbook there.

SUGGESTION FOR QUINCY.

Mayor Barry of Cambridge in his inaugural address this week said: "I believe that the city government should take the initative and authorize the expenditure of a reasonable sum for advertising our city's industrial advantages, and I urge appointment of a commission consisting of five members, to be selected, one from the Citizen's Trade association, one from the Cambridge Tax Payers' association, one from the Harvard square Business Men's association, one from the Central Labor union, and one to be chosen from the citizens at large."

GOOD SERVICE WANTED

Trolley Freight Should Run Hourly to Boston

Editors of Daily Ledger:

It is folly to talk about only six or eight cars a day entering and leaving the trolley freight depot when established. Unless there is hourly service between Quincy and Boston, as now furnished by Abbott & Miller, the new service will not amount to much. This would mean one car into the station, and one car out each hour. In addition to this there should be one or two cars each way between Quincy, Braintree and Brockton; and one or two each way between Quincy, Weymouth, Hingham and Nantasket; also cars between the different Quincy stations, for it is understood in the franchise grant that stations shall be established in each ward of the city, and probably Houghs Neck.

If Abbott & Miller and other expressmen have their baggage come by trolley from Boston, they must go to the new freight depot to receive and deliver their goods, so that the new freight depot will have ten times as many teams daily as now enter the Abbott & Miller yard—single teams, double teams, autos, etc.

At any hour of the day, without this added service ,one or more cars may be seen waiting near the corner of Washington and Temple streets for their turn to use the track. This is especially true in summer, and this is where the congestion comes in; it will become more and more serious.

It should not be difficult to find a desirable location for the trolley freight depot where the track is located in the centre of the street. Let me suggest a few.

The terminus on Saville street between the two grain stores.

The Faxon lot at the corner of Hancock street and Faxon avenue, with track near the Shaw building.

Any of the house lots between Music hall and School street, or between Cottage avenue and Elm street.

If it must be on Washington street, select some location on the westerly side, where the track is located. Why not between Revere road and Cherry avenue?

An Ti Bluff.

SPORTING NOTES.

Fred Holbrook of South street is building an airship modelled on the Bleriot monoplane type.

Wesley Ganzel starts for New Bedford on Monday for a tryout in the New England league team of that city.

Chris Mahoney of East Milton, who went to California with the Red Sox has refused to sign with the Topeka, Kansas team in the American association. "Chris" has been batting at over 400 for the Red Sox and his friends believe that he should make good with the Boston team.

The Quincy A. A. meet this evening for the election of officers. All applications for membership will be received by any of the following: E. J. Townsend, J. King, J. Phelan, E. Prout.

"Sid" Patterson is expecting to go to Indiana before long to begin work as pitcher on the Bluffton team in the Northern Indiana league.

NEW ASSESSOR.

August Weeden has been appointed by Mayor Shea as assistant assessor in Ward Three in place of Leo J. McMaster, who has resigned to accept a position with the Edison Cement Co.

PIPE ORGAN WANTED.

The annual meeting of the Congregational corporation of the First Presbyterian church was held Thursday evening and was largely attended. Reports were made by all of the different departments and were of a very encouraging nature.

The building committee made a report which showed after deducting the amounts pledged for the recent addition there was an unpaid balance of about $2,500.

The subject of installing a pipe organ in the church was discussed, and a special committee appointed to look into the matter.

Other matters of church interest were discussed informally.

These officers were elected:
President—Forbes Craig.
Secretary—Charles Ross.
Treasurer—Alex. Smart.
Trustees—John J. McLennan for three years, Everett Clark for two years and Norman Wilson for one year.

REBEKAH INITIATION.

About 130 assembled in I. O. O. F. hall Thursday evening to witness the initiation of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge. The work was done in a most creditable manner, which brought hearty congratulations to the degree team and degree mistress, many present saying that never before had they seen the work done better. After the business meeting came a very enjoyable social hour with collation.

MELROSE OPPOSED.

By unanimous vote, the city government of Melrose has gone on record as opposed to any of the plans for a "real Boston" or Greater Boston now being considered by the Legislature. The Melrose Board of Trade, however by a small majority vote decided to support the "real Boston" plan.

MASS AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The funeral of Michael F. Welsh was held this morning from his late residence 129 School street at 8.30 o'clock, and was followed by a high mass of requiem at St. John's church at 9 o'clock, mass being celebrated by Rev. John J. Coan. The services were largely attended, the members of Division 5, A. O. H., attending in a body. There were many beautiful flowers. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery.

CANDIDATE FOR HOUSE

Ex-Councilman Piper in Field in Fifth Representative Distric

Although it will be some months ye before State politics will occupy th attention of the public, it has become quite certain that there will be an in eresting contest in the Fifth Repre sentative district for the Republican nomination. Representative Thomas who aspires to the speakership ma be expected to again seek the nomina ion, and Councilman Bolster has an nounced his candidacy.

This morning another candidate fo he nomination has entered the fiel n the person of ex-Councilman Wal er E. Piper. When seen by a repre entative of the Daily Ledger, Mr. Pi per said that at the earnest solicita ion of many of his friends he had de cided to announce that he would be candidate for the nomination next fall

Mr. Piper is almost too well known to need any introduction to the voter of Quincy. He was a member of the City Council during the years 1902, '03 '04, '05, '06, and '07, part of the time serving as Councilman from Ward Three and then as Councilman at large. During the last two years as a member of the City Council he was its president, and made a good presiding officer.

At the earnest solicitation of friends he became the candidate for Mayor in the campaign in 1907, but Mayor Shea was elected.

Representative Thomas is serving his third term in the Legislature which according to precedent is as long as any man may expect, and the general feeling is that he should step aside and give someone else a show. Should he do this, it will leave the field as it stands now between Councilman Bolster and ex-Councilman Piper. Should Representative Thomas again try for the nomination it will make a three-cornered fight.

Mr. Piper, is a member of the Masonic fraternity, having recently been honored by being appointed to the second office in the new commandery of Knights Templar, instituted in Quincy last month. He is also a past president of the Board of Trade and a member of the Granite City club.

MAKING WAY FOR FOUR TRACKS

Four Houses Being Moved at South Quincy--One an Old Landmark

Once a Latin School Attended by President Adams

Work was commenced this week moving four houses of Charles H. Spear on Franklin place. The houses are at present located on a strip of property forty feet in width recently purchased by the New York, New Haven &Hartford railroad to make room for the abolition of the grade crossings and four tracks. The job is quite an undertaking, as it includes the moving of a house which according to Pattees history is one of the oldest houses in Norfolk county, probably 250 years old.

Three of the houses will be moved forward and turned part way around, so as to face Franklin place, which runs west to the railroad line and then south toward Water street.

The old house is to be moved about 100 feet toward Water street. This house was formerly located on Franklin street on the lot now occupied by the Calvary Baptist church and was moved to its present location near the railroad track about 25 years ago. Several times it has caught fire from sparks from passing locomotives. Some of these fires have done considerable damage to the building, but the fire department has saved it from distruction. The house is a story and a half building and now occupied by two families.

By the town records, it appears that a public Latin school was kept in Braintree for upwards of a century. When and by whom it was taught, we are unable to say; most probably it was in connection with the common town school. This school, however, was of some note, as Mr. John Adams mentions that he was at one time an inmate of it:—"My early life and education was first at the public Latin school in the town of Braintree, then at a private academy under Mr. Joseph Marsh, within three doors of my father's house, then at Harvard College in Cambridge, where, after four years of studies, I received a degree as Bachelor of Arts, in 1755."

This is a very ancient house, and is one of the old relics, if not the oldest on Franklin street. It was first in the possession of Mr. Samuel Tompson, who in 1672, sold it to the Rev. Moses Fisk, the second settled clergyman of the First Church. This estate than consisted of a house, barn, orchard, and six acres of land, and was purchased for 115 pounds. It was bounded southerly by a tract of land commonly called Mill, easterly on the county road, westerly upon land of John Needham and Samuel Savil, northerly on Mill street. (That part of

DENNIS F. CROWLEY LOWEST BIDDER

Second Set of Bids Opened by Commissioner for New Montclair Schoolhouse

Amount Now Within the Sum Appropriated

Bids were opened this morning by Commissioner Bainbridge for building the new Montclair school house for which the City Council has appropriated $45,000. Eight bids were received. There was one other bidder, but he did not arrive at City Hall, owing to the delay in the train, until five minutes after the hour, and his bid was refused.

The bids were supposed to include heating, ventilating and plumbing and with one exception the bidders included this. A. B. Murdock, whose bid was the lowest, did not include the heating, ventilating and plumbing, so that his bid will probably have to be thrown out, as it did not comply with the requirements. The eight bids received were as follows:

Dennis F. Crowley,	40,990
John W. Duff,	43,167
C. S. Cunningham, Sons,	43,473
W. F. Kearns, Co.,	43,550
L. D. Cadario & Sons,	45,349
A. Varnerin & Co.,	45,427
Dillon Bros.,	45,497

On all of these bids, there were certain deductions and additions to be made before the exact figures of each bidder could be reached. These were later figured out by Commissioner Bainbridge and the architect, and as a result the exact bids were as follows, including damp course, copper wall, capping, electric wires and porcelain knobs:

W. F. Kearns, Co.,	43,215
John W. Duff,	43,542
C. S. Cunningham,	44,920
Dillon Bros.,	45,897
L. D. Cadario & Sons,	46,013
A. Varnerin & Co.	46,056

Citizens of Wards Five and Six have protested to the Mayor against awarding the contract to Mr. Crowley, so that a contest is expected.

"Cascarets are certainly fine. I gave a friend one when the doctor was treating him for cancer of the stomach. The next morning he passed four pieces of a tape-worm. HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Soon strawberry short-cake will be in our midst.

Senator Bailey says that all the Democratic Senators are wrong and he is right. The Hon. Joe should not have left himself out of the bunch.

W. J. Bryan, Champ Clark and Gov. Wilson are scheduled to make speeches in New Jersey from the same platform and on the same night, provided a platform can be found large enough for all three.

Early buds that were thinking of bursting reconsidered the matter.

Apparently the Japanese war scare overworked itself and expired in consequence.

Illinois legislators have fixed up a bill to prevent the drinking of liquor on trains except in buffet or dining cars. Those who ride only in box cars will please take notice also.

MAKING

After the death of the Rev. Mr. Fisk this property was sold by the trustees of his estate, April 13, 1710, to the Rev. Joseph Marsh, his successor, who married Ann, the daughter of Mr. Fisk. Mr. Marsh, for the six acres, paid 133 pounds 6s. 8d. The trustees said, if the house had not been so much decayed, they should have demanded 200 pounds. This being the case, we think Mr. Marsh must have extensively repaired it. In this house Mr. Joseph Marsh, the son of the minister, taught his classical school.

The proprietors contiguous to this estate, since the purchase of it by Mr. Fisk, seem to have changed somewhat, as the following bounds would indicate:—"Easterly, on the county road, southerly on land of Moses Curtis, Westerly in part on land of William Vesey, and partly on land of the late Deacon Penniman, and northerly in part by Mill street, so called, and partly on said land of Deacon Penniman." This house was formerly owned by the late elder Frederick Hardwick, and is now in possession of Mr. Charles H. Spear, and is located on the westerly side of the street, a few rods south of his residence.

In connection with this subject we will give the streets where all of the earlier ministers of the First Church resided, viz:—Rev. William Tompson, Henry Flint and the Rev. Peter Whitney, owned and occupied estates located on Sea, now called Chestnut street; Flint and Whitney were on the east side, and Tompson on the west. Rev. John Hancock and Briant resided on the Hancock lot, where the Adams Academy now stands. Rev. Mr. Wibird, not being married, boarded at Mr. Thomson Baxter's, whose house was located on Canal street, later Revere road.

TODAY'S COURT.

John W. Mahoney and John F. Leary were arraigned for robbery at Quincy and held in $1000 each until next Thursday.

Charles B. Cushing was fined $25 creating a disturbance on a railroad train at Braintree.

Regal Shoes at Cost Plus 5 per Cent.

An Earthquake for the Trade, but a Benefit to the Public

Regal Prices Are Now $3.35 to $5.85

NOBODY OUTSIDE the shoe trade can realize what a jolt that trade received when the Regal Shoe Company announced its new pricing-policy.

"HENCEFORTH," said the Regal Shoe Co., "all the shoes we make will be priced at COST OF MANUFACTURE AND SELLING, PLUS FIVE PER CENT. COMMISSION, no matter whether that price figures out in odd or even money, and without regard to the 50c jumps between prices, heretofore arbitrarily fixed in the shoe business."

IT WAS NOT the five per cent. that gave the jolt. The Regal Shoe Co. has always done business on a five per cent. profit and every manufacturer knew it. It was the abandonment of the "even price" that caused the stir.

THAT "EVEN-PRICE" policy has been the darling superstition of the shoe trade for twenty years or more. Standard shoes had been sold for so long at $3.50, $4.00, $4.50, $5.00 and so on, that dealers thought no other prices were possible.

"BARGAIN" SHOES—nameless products shoveled out by shoe "departments"—might be sold at odd prices. But standard makes—oh, never!

IT WAS ARGUED seriously by expert shoe-salesmen that men and women who wanted shoes of name and character would rather pay even prices. That is, they argued that a man would rather pay $5.00 than $4.85, whether or not he got anything worth having for that extra 15c.

AND SO, WHEN a designer produced a new shoe that could be sold for profit and all at $4.85, the manufacturers were up against an embarrassing situation.

THEY COULD DO any one of three things—and some one of these three things they all did:

THEY COULD LET that $4.85 shoe stand as it was and ask $5.00 for it, getting an extra 15c profit, if Regal competition would allow it,—or

THEY COULD ADD 15c worth of unnecessary expense to the shoe, bringing its price up to $5.00

OR, THEY COULD SKIN 35c worth OUT of the shoe, bringing its price down to the next even figure—$4.50, but spoiling the shoe's quality-balance.

BUT AS FOR DOING the obvious and proper thing—selling that $4.85 shoe for $4.85—why that was not to be thought of!

SEEMS RIDICULOUS, doesn't it? But all superstitions seem ridiculous after you have exploded them. And the Regal has exploded this one.

HEREAFTER, Regal Shoes will be built just as the Regal style-builders plan them. They know their business, and they know their public.

IF THEY SAY "This shoe is right as it stands—the best shoe that can be devised and built for its particular want and purpose"—why that shoe is going to the public just as it is, unaltered by a foolish custom.

THE DESIGNERS will not be required to add anything unnecessary to it, nor to take anything out of it, to bring its price up to or down to any set figure.

THE MANUFACTURING COST of that shoe will be figured carefully; five per cent. will be added and a further allowance covering the actual cost of selling that shoe to the customer, and the resulting sum will be the price of that particular shoe, whether it is $3.35, or $3.50, or $4.85, or whatever it is.

THE PRICE WILL BE STAMPED ON THE SHOE AT THE FACTORY and certified public accountants will verify the prices and also verify the fact that only five per cent. commission is added.

YOU GAIN MORE than the dimes you save by the odd prices. You gain also by better balanced quality and by the fact that you pay only for what you want.

REGAL Style-Builders now have a free hand. They simply get out the BEST SHOE THAT THEY CAN DEVISE for a certain purpose at about a certain price. You pay for exactly what you get, plus the fair 5 per cent. You are taxed nothing for useless additions.

GATTLING GUN AT FIRE

Firemen Were Kept n for A While

The alarm from Box 152 at 12.03 this noon was for a fire in a small club house on Freeman street, that caught from a grass fire near by. When the department started in to extinguish the fire there were several quick reports that sounded like a gattling gun, and bullets went flying through the air. Fortunately, however, none of the firemen were hit.

Sparks from the fire also set fire to the roof of Mr. Thompson's house, but this was extinguished with a chemical stream.

The club house was badly gutted with a loss of $100. After the fire the firemen found four revolvers and two rifles in the building, and a quantity of cartridges, a number of which had been exploded by the fire.

DANCE OF THE Y. P. R. U.

Last of the Season and Very Enjoyable Party

The last dance of the series run by the Y. P. R. U. of First church was held in Alpha hall Friday evening. The attendance was the largest of the season and the popularity of the course was well attested. The hospitality committee, consisting of Miss Catherine Saville, Miss Beatrice Morrison and Brewster Walker, had charge of the arrangements. Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis and Mrs. George G. Saville were the patronesses of the dance.

Young people from all parts of Quincy and a number from out of town were present to enjoy dancing to music by the Wollaston orchestra, and to witness a little acrobatic work by one of Quincy's well known performers.

Dancing was continued until 12 o'clock giving an opportunity for the usual number of dances with extras. The young ladies were all handsomely gowned, and the hall presented a very pretty picture while the dances were in grogress. The starlight waltzes were very popular and the waltzers were urgent in their demands for an encore. Inasmuch as this was the last of the series, the orchestra was generouh and the dancers were especially privileged. The last dance was all too soon in coming, and the waltzers clung to the encore like a long lost brother.

The course as a whole has been very enjoyable to those who have participated in it. Dances have been held the first Friday in December, February and April, and entertainments were given in January and March. The first of these was given by the Arlington Glee club assisted by a violinist and in March the annual ministrel show was presented. The dance last evening was the final event in a course which has been by far the most successful even run by this organization.

BARGAIN HAT SALE.

The hat and bonnet sale of the King's Daughters opened in the parlor of the Y. M. C. A. this afternoon. The hats were placed on exhibition this morning, and judging from appearances there will be some big bargains. There are hats and bonnets of all sizes and descriptions, hats for girls and hats for women, hats for old girls and young girls and best girls, hats that will match the most difficult complexion or shade of gown.

The only kind of bonnets that were missed by the reporter was that with the holes in it for ears to stick through which sometimes adorn the heated brow of the equine damsels in summertime. But, nevertheless, anyone wishing to procure a good hat trimmed or untrimmed they would do well to look over this assortment.

Mrs. Everett C. Bumpus as her contribution toward the work of the Women's Guild of Christ church is to give on Easter Monday evening in the parish house her lecture on "Some of the World's greatest altar pieces." She will tell of altar paintings from the time of Cimabue to Raphael giving the history of the painters and subjects.

AS A STATE HIGHWAY

Old Colony Boulevard Heard on New Proposition

Unbeknown to the people of Quincy the committee on roads and bridges of the Legislature gave a hearing yesterday on the petition of Melville F. Rogers for the construction of a State highway in the city of Boston from Columbia road to Neponset river. The bill provides that the highway shall be 60 feet wide, that it shall be constructed within two years by the State highway commission, east of the Plymouth division of the New Haven railroad from Columbia road to Freeport street, and from Freeport street southeasterly to the Neponset river.

Mr. Rogers conducted the hearing for the petition. Atty. Arthur L. Spring, for the Boston law department, said he was confident the mayor favored the improvement, though it was opposed for years by his predecessors. It should be a straight State highway proposition, and it should be built out of the regular appropriation for state highways, he said.

J. H. Stark said a portion of the route had already been acquired. The Cove street bridge has been constructed at a cost of one and a half millions, and the city has acquired from the railroad its old roadbed at a cost of $800,000. The total cost of this improvement has been estimated at $999,500.

Senator Murray and Representative Carr also favored the bill. There was no opposition and the hearing closed.

WILL TROLLEY FREIGHT BENEFIT QUINCY?

Trolley freight might be made a benefit to the citizens of Quincy, but is it going to be? Our people are entitled to know and that too before any location is granted and while we have some say in the matter. We have been in the dark too long. It is time a definite plan was outlined.

Are the prices to be lower than the present charges? Many people think we are to have quicker and better service than we have now? But are we? The railway representatives say they are going to run only a few cars a day. In that case we have quicker service from the auto trucks now than we shall have from the trolley express.

Is the trolley freight to bring express matter from Boston? Or only from other points? If it does not bring packages from Boston, will it be the advantage to our merchants that some of them think?

Is it wise to make any concessions until we know exactly what advantages we are to receive. Why should not the city's representatives be as practical in the city's affairs as in their own and know what benefits the city is to receive now while they are in a position to dictate terms. Would any good business man grant such a great concession as the privilege of carrying on what may in time become a monopoly of the express business without restricting the concession in such ways as to protect the public.

Why should we suffer the inconvenience of having such express matter as now comes by railroads carried over our streets by trolleys if we are not going to be assured in positive and definite terms of the advantages we are to receive.

Now we have the benefits of competition in the express business. We have a remedy in case one company charges too much.

Why should we take so much for granted about the benefits of this trolley express. Because it has been advantageous—else where it does not follow that it will be here. Perhaps the people in those places, were bright enough not to grant concessions, without restrictions and until they had assurances of lower prices and quicker deliveries than formerly enjoyed. And doubtless they were wise enough not to grant such a location as the one asked for on Washington street in our city where it will very much inconvenience our people, add greatly to the danger of travel there both for pedestrians and drivers of all kinds of vehicles and be out of keeping with the neighborhood and the beautiful public buildings .

MISS DESMOND

The funeral of Miss Ellen A. Desmond for many years a teacher at the Willard schol was held this morning from St. Mary's church and was very largely attended. Mayor Shea, the members of the school committee and teachers of the Willard school being among those present. Mass was celebrated by Rev. Henry T. Grady the Gregorian mass was sung by the regular choir with Miss Mary McKay as organist. There was also solos by Dr. Daniel B. Reardon. Mrs. Ambrose Roach Ballou of Dorchester and Mrs. James L. Fennessey. The flowers were many and beautiful. Burial was at St. Mary's cemetery.

The flag on the Willard school building was at half mast out of respect to Miss Desmond.

—Charles Francis Adams returns from Panama convinced that conditions of life are better and the cost of living cheaper in the canal zone than in Massachusetts. In sanitary transformation of tropic regions this country tops the list. Why not import Col. Goethals and Col. A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Straw Hats and Fur Coats the Favorite Spring Fashion at New England Capital—Young Couples Crib Ideas at "Ideal Homes" Exhibit—Boston Needs a Baked Bean Factory, Says Mayor Fitzgerald—Suffrage Leaders off for International Convention at Stockholm.

Straw hats, low necks, silk stockings and pumps, are out in April bloom along Boston's thoroughfares, but there is still a tendency to hang onto the comfortable fur coat regardless of the incongruity of the combination. It's lovely to be stylish, but it's a terribly cold looking job these days when grim winter lingers in the lap of spring.

Attention, all you young people who are planning that "ideal home" which is to be built as soon as Billy gets another raise. An event unique in the annals of Boston and New England is the big Ideal Homes Exposition which is drawing crowds of young, middle aged and old people to Horticultural Hall. An organization of real estate brokers, operators and owners in Massachusetts has produced a display of miniature plots of land, models of houses of concrete and other materials, perfectly fascinating bungalows and cottages, and all sorts of modern conveniences and aids to the housewife. One interesting feature of the exhibition is the display of models of poured cement houses by a new system which provides desirable homes at low cost. The central ideal home has been the object of busy endeavor by architects, contractors and house furnishers and decorators for a long time. There is noticeable in the visiting crowd a large predominance of young couples, all of whom try to look indifferently entertained, but who give themselves away occasionally by a surreptitious peek at cosy fire-places, or by delighted nudges and ecstatic squeals over some particularly enchanting bit of design.

The bigger, busier and better Boston, according to Mayor Fitzgerald, will never be just what the comic papers think it ought to be until someone establishes a baked bean industry in the hub. "If Van Camp can bake beans in Indianapolis and make a success of it, and we cannot do it, then we ought to shut up shop," declares the energetic executive. Now there are Bostonians whose ideas of classical refinement are hurt to think of a baked bean factory's being situated in the modern Athens. Yet why not? We have the reputation and we might as well have the profits therefrom. Surely Boston baked beans should be Boston baked beans. The incident is recalled that at the time of the San Francisco earthquake it was thought advisable to send a carload of beans to that city, but it was found they could not be baked in Boston. The order was placed with a Boston firm but the beans were baked in Baltimore! Anyone knows that really truly "Boston baked" require the very atmosphere of the New England capital to be a success, and it is a safe wager that were such a factory started as the Mayor has in mind it would do a business beyond the wildest dreams. It is not too much to anticipate, indeed, that the entire population of our country would become as enthusiastic bean eaters as the Yankee always has been. With the whole country sitting down to Boston beans and brown bread on Saturday evening and Boston beans and fish cakes for Sunday breakfast, the Hub could give up its other industries and grow fat on the proceeds of its rightful monopoly.

Mrs. Mary Hutcheson Page, secretary of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association, has just returned from New York full of the enthusiasm that is making the equal suffrage cause hum. She attended the farewell luncheon tendered to Mrs. Chapman Catt at the Hotel Astor on Mar. 31st, previous to the latter's departure on a world tour with Aleta Jacobs of Holland, president of the Dutch Woman's Suffrage Association. The suffrage leaders will first attend the international convention in Stockholm in June, and then visit every country where there is an organized suffrage movement—which means about twenty-six, or practically every civilized country in the world. Mrs. Page was impressed at the luncheon, at which between two and three hundred were present, with the appearance of the women. If anyone still retains the old idea that suffragists are masculine, ancient and angular specimens of womanhood gowned in ugly, mannish attire, a view of that well dressed feminine assemblage would have been a surprise. The central figures were Mrs. Chapman Catt, with Mrs. W. W. Penfield and Mrs. James L. Laidlaw on either side, the latter two prominent and youthful leaders in New York circles, the trio forming a picture not often seen. This gathering of beautiful women, as graceful as they were competent, as brilliant as they were attractive, were a far cry from traditional suffragists of the cartoon. Many members were called upon for speeches, among them Mrs. Page and Mrs. Ruth Litt, who gave the theatre Boston budget galley 2 for the pageant and plays recently presented in New York in the interest of suffrage. The well known actresses who took part in the plays also gave notable addresses. A meeting of protest was called by the suffragists at Cooper Union in the evening on account of the fire horror, and Mrs. Page had many interesting things to tell about this. It was agreed in no uncertain language that the anti-suffrage argument that women should depend upon their "natural protectors" had received a very black eye, and that these girls and women herded together in fire traps with no means of redress or of helping to decide what conditions shall be, would never be adequately protected until they had the ballot. Unanimous resolutions in favor of giving the working woman the right to protect themselves were passed. Among the speakers at this meeting was Morris Hillquit who will soon be heard by Hubbites at the May Day Meeting of the Socialist party at Tremont Temple.

Quincy People Pleased to Learn How It Is Done.

It's pretty hard to attend to duties
With a constantly aching back;
With annoying urinary disorders.
Doan's Kidney Pills make work easier.
They cure backache,
They cure kidney ills.

James P. Daugherty, Hammond Place Quincy, Mass. says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to let other sufferers know what they have done for me. I was bothered a great deal by backache and had but little strength or energy to get through with my day's work. I took many so-called kidney cures, but did not succeed in finding relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at the Cox Drug Store. I was surprised and gratified by the prompt way in which they relieved me. My back was soon strong and free from pain and I felt better in every respect. I would go to considerable trouble to get anyone to use Doan's Kidney Pills, as I have so much confidence in their merit."

ROBERY.

The keenness of Charles Watts, proprietor of a restaurant at Squantum, and the prompt work of Patrolman Clark of the Neponset sub-station, caused the arrest of two Atlantic men charged with holding up and robbing Miss Lulu Deane of Braintree at Squantum on Friday afternoon.

The men arrested are John F. Leary, aged 24 years, and John W. Mahoney, aged 29 years, both claiming Atlantic as their home.

Miss Dean came from Braintree Friday afternoon to look at some real estate at Squantum which she intended purchasing. As she left the cars at Atlantic she met three young men who represented themselves to her as real estate men with property to sell at Squantum. They accompanied her to Squantum leaving the car at Huckins avenue.

As soon as the car was out of sight she says the three men grabbed her and threw her over a wall and robbed her of $4.50 in money which she had in her bag. They also tried to take a diamond ring from her finger, but were unsuccessful. It is said that the assault was seen from a small store and the people there saw the men go toward Neponset. Charles Watts kept the men in sight until he was sure they were going across the river when he telephoned the sub-station at Neponset the facts of the hold up, and where the men had gone.

Patrolman Clark was all alone in the station, but he locked up the station and started for the Neponset depot. Hiding around the corner he waited until a train should approach, as he was afraid if he showed himself the men would separate. Just then an inward train pulled into the station and as the men were about to board it he grabbed two of the men and shouted to the conductor to grab the third man.

The conductor had a tussle with the fellow but he broke away and ran down the track toward Popes Hill leaving his hat behind.

Officer Clark took his two men to the station and telephoned the Quincy police, which was the first information they had of the alleged robbery.

The auto patrol made a flying trip to Neponset, and getting the two men made a run to Squantum, where the Deane woman was found and positively identified the men as two of the three who had assaulted her. The men were then taken to the Quincy police station and locked up.

According to the police $3.99 in money was found on Leary, which is said to be a princely sum for him to have.

Miss Deane is the same woman who figured in an episode at Rock Island some months ago. This was the case where a cottage which she owned took fire early one morning from a stove and it was with difficulty that the woman was rescued from the building in scanty attire, by being pulled through a window by her companion. At that fire she not only lost her house but a set of valuable furs.

Officer Clark claims that he knows the third man and it will only be a question of a short time before he is also arrested.

PLAN TO RUSH RECIPROCITY

Democrats Will Put It Ahead of Tariff Tinkering

NO JOCKEYING FOR POSITION

Rendered Unnecessary by President's Assurance That Congress Will Not Be Prorogued—Caucus to Outline Tariff Policy to Be Pursued by the House—Severe Shock Said to Be Coming to Woolen Manufacturers

Washington, April 8.—A caucus of the Democrats of the house will be held early next week for the purpose of outlining the tariff policy to be pursued by the house. Chairman Underwood is going to put the entire proposition up to the caucus, bind the members of his party, and take his tariff bills into the house in the order designated by the caucus.

This is the decision reached by the majority members of the ways and means committee. A week ago it seemed to be settled that the woolen and cotton schedules would be considered before the house was given an opportunity to vote on Canadian reciprocity.

At that time the Democrats were fearful that if they passed the reciprocity agreement first the president might take advantage of his prerogative and prorogue congress as soon as the two houses disagreed as to the date of adjournment. With such a contingency confronting them the Democrats felt justified in jockeying for position and they were not willing to surrender the whip hand to the president.

Now that President Taft has written a letter to Representative McCall of Massachusetts, the putative author of the reciprocity agreement, giving assurances that he would not prorogue congress, there is a disposition among several of the Democratic leaders to take up the reciprocity first and follow it with the tariff bills. The members of the ways and means committee have decided to submit the entire proposition to the caucus, a call for which will be issued in a day or two.

The woolen schedule is probably ready for consideration by the house and it can be predicted that when it becomes public it will give a severe shock to the woolen manufacturers.

While no member of the ways and means committee is willing to discuss the nature of the changes made in the woolen schedule, it is known that the sub-committee in charge of the schedule have been working with a view to reducing the average duties in the schedule considerably below 40 percent.

In view of the fact that many paragraphs in this bill carry protection of not less than 200 percent the enormous amount of the reduction being made by the sub-committee can be readily seen.

MARTIN MINORITY LEADER

Bryan Men Defeated In Caucus of Democratic Senators

Washington, April 8.—Senator Thomas S. Martin of Virginia was selected at the senate Democratic caucus as permanent caucus chairman and minority leader during the present congress. He received 21 out of the 37 votes cast, 16 going to Senator Shiveley of Indiana, who was then elected vice chairman. Senator Chilton of West Virginia was elected secretary of the caucus, the last two named places having been filled by acclamation.

The expected long contest did not develop. The progressive Democrats, as the followers of William J. Bryan prefer to be designated, were opposed to Martin, but a number found themselves in an embarrassing position because of pledges made many weeks ago that they would support Martin for the minority leadership.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGED

Boston Man Dies While Alleged Assailant Is Being Arraigned

Boston, April 8.—Harry W. Crawley, aged 40, appeared in the Roxbury municipal court yesterday and was held in $5000 on a charge of manslaughter. On the night of March 30, Crawley is said to have attacked Gabriel Jones, as a result of which Jones was removed to the city hospital with a split skull.

While the case was being heard in cour word as received that Jones was dead. Judge Williams immediately fixed the bail at $5000 and a charge of manslaughter was entered.

THAYER OPENS WITH VICTORY

Defeats Roxbury Latin on Common at Braintree

Thayer academy of Braintree opened its baseball season successfully yesterday afternoon by defeating Roxbury Latin school 8 to 4, on French's common, Braintree.

The visitors were the first to score, getting a run in the second inning. The Thayer team evened things up in the third inning, and got two more runs in the fourth. With the help of several errors and some good hitting the Thayer boys scored three runs in the sixth inning, and got one in both the seventh and eighth.

As was to be expected, errors were numerous on both sides, Thayer making 6 and the Latin school boys 7. The home team showed their ability to hit by straightening out twelve clean ones. Wilson pitched a good game for Thayer considering that it was the first of the year. He allowed the visitors 7 hits, but they were well scattered. The work of Corse at shortstop was commendable.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Thayer A.	0	0	1	2	0	3	1	1	0—8
Roxbury L.	0	1	0	0	1	1	0	0	1—4

BRIEFS

Fair weather is predicted for Sunday.

Rev. F. B. Richards of South Boston will preach at Bethany church Sunday morning in exchange with Rev. Dr. Hardy.

A representative of the Boston Floating hospital is to tell of its work at the meeting of the Y. P. R. U., Sunday night in First Church chapel.

Mrs. William Wilde, Mrs. Frank Spear, Mrs. George Walker and Miss Emily Poulin of North Weymouth left yesterday on a trip to Washington.

The Y. P. C. U. of the Universalist church at North Weymouth is to give the play "Bar Haven" in Quincy on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the local Y. P. C. U. Three Quincy boys are in the play Frank and Harold Smith and Louis French, so the presentation will have a local interest.

Look out for the Brookline boys at Squantum next summer when the high flying begins says the Boston Record. The lads at the high school are greatly interested in aeronautics and are busy drawing designs which they hope will become aeroplanes by the time the entry lists are made out.

Seumas MacManus who lectures tonight at the Quincy Mansion school is widely known. Smith college, the Lawrenceville school, Brooklyn Institute of Arts and many others speak in highest terms of him. It will be a great privilege to listen to him and Mrs. H. M. Willard of the Quincy Mansion school invites the personal friends of the school to enjoy that privilege.

Members of the Fathers and Mothers' club hold a home talent conference on vital issues Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at 3 Joy street, Boston. Mrs. May Wright Sewall will speak on "Internationalism the World Ideal"; Mrs. Robert E. Park of Wollaston, "The Aims of the National Congress of Mothers"; Mrs. Julius Andrews, "The Juvenile Court Possibilities"; Mrs. J. Henry Woods, "Women for Women in the Municipal Courts"; Mrs. Clara J. Marsh, "The Work for the Physical and Moral Betterment of School Children Done and Doing by the Fathers and Mothers' club"; Dr. F. M. Merrick, "Home Economics." A social hour will follow.

Ladies are requested to bring individual mirrors since the Y. M. C. A. does not boast very many, believing that vanity should be discarded on the door mat. The reporter felt the need of one when he was over there trying on the hats. The ladies assured him they looked perfectly fetching, but failed to state what they would fetch. But the prospective purchaser of a new Easter bonnet would really do well to look over this stock which has enough variety for Woolworth's or Wanamaker's.

BOYS' GREAT OPPORTUNITY

Getting Valuable Instruction at Shipyard School

The work of the Fore River apprentices is one of the interesting phases of the big shipyard plant at Quincy. James E. Neary, who has charge of this work, meets with the boys in the schoolroom twice a week for two hours at a time. Instruction is given in mathematics, mechanics, drawing, etc., regularly, and once a week from 10.45 to 11.45 on Saturday a lecture is given by one of the head men of the company. General Manager Smith and Treasurer Sedgwick have spoken on previous occasions. This morning a lecture was given by W. F. Rice, head of the electrical department of the company.

Mr. Rice gave a very interesting and instructive talk on "The electrical appliances on the Argentine battleship." He pointed out that greater use has been made of electricity on this ship than on any built for the United States navy, or in fact on any battleship in the world, and gave in a general way an idea of the magnitude of the electrical work on the ship.

About 60 first and second year boys were present at the lecture, and after the roll was called by Mr. Neary, and the speaker was introduced, all gave perfect attention for three quarters of an hour.

The school will continue to keep until hot weather comes, and Mr. Neary will explain interesting work going on in various parts of the yard. The school work of the year closed last week. These Saturday morning lectures will be given until the school shuts down the last of June.

The boys seem to realize the fine opportunity they are getting of learning their particular branch of work, and of improving themselves in general. By means of these lectures, they are given a broader view of their own little part, and are made to see where their work is related to that of all the others, and how each one of them is just as much a part of the plant as the next man in another department. Thus in addition to the greater knowledge of the company and the work it is doing, each boy is given a broader horizen and something higher to look up to for the future.

MAKARIA BALL TEAM.

The Makarias will again appear on the diamond with one of the strongest lineups they have ever had. On April 19 they open the season with the Quincy team, champions of the Old Colony league last year. Of last years team, eight or nine returned with about twenty new candidates to be tried out and everyone will have to hustle.

The battery work will be taken care of by Smith and Troup on the receiving end, and Bates and Taber in the pitching department.

The infield, with R. Ganzel, McKenzie, Nicoll, R. Bates and Manning, the crack infielder and base runner of the Quincy High team will be one of the best around Boston.

The outfield will be cared for by Curtis, Eggleton, McDonald and Artis, and several good new men may be developed from the other candidates.

The team will be coached by Mr. Ganzel, who has so ably taken care of this department for the last four years, and the usual high class baseball will be shown the patrons of the sport in Quincy.

THE CHILI BATTLESHIP

A Report That Quincy Company Was Not Lowest

A dispatch to the Herald from Valpararso, Chili, says the English tenders for the construction of a battleship of 26,000 tons for Chili, it is announced, are the lowest of all those received. The European bidders submitted their bids to the Chilian naval commission in London, while the American bidders, of whom there were three, submitted their bids to the Chilian legation at Washington.

These are the battleships upon which the Fore River Shipbuilding Company of Quincy submitted several plans and bids. It is early yet to say who will get the contracts for the Quincy plans may be far superior to all others. It will take some weeks to decide which is the best. The Fore River Company is still hopeful.

HEALTH AND COMFORT

MATURITY is not a disease, but it does place certain limitations upon our powers.

CHIEF among these limitations is our inability to read fine print at the usual distance, thirteen inches.

EFFORT to continue doing close work under such conditions produces eye-strain, headaches and many nervous disorders.

LENSES intelligently selected will relieve such eye-strain and enable the wearer to resume close work with perfect comfort and without injury to the eyes or health.

TWO FIRES AT ONE TIME

Shipyard Men Driven from Their Boarding House at 1.45 A. M.

Other Fires on Granite Street and School Street

The members of the fire department got but little sleep Saturday night, for they were called out early Sunday morning and were kept busy until daylight. The first alarm was from Box 42, and sounded at 1.20. This was for a fire in a house on Granite street occupied by a Finn family. The fire started from a wood box in the rear of the kitchen stove. While there was considerable smoke the fire loss was small. Chief Williams who is not in the best of health does not answer night alarms as yet. The occupant of the building could not be learned. The loss was not over $100.

Before the recall had been sounded, an alarm from Box 723 was sounded. Driver Faircloth counted the box number all right, and dashed at top speed for Quincy Point. The drivers of the steamer and Central station truck in the confusion counted the box as 75, and they dashed for that box. Just at this time the blizzard started in and the weather was tough.

As the recall on Box 42 had not sounded, Box 723 at 1.43 acted as a second alarm for the Wollaston and Atlantic apparatus, who are under orders to answer the second box if the recall on the first box has not sounded. The result was that the Wollaston and Atlantic apparatus made a dash for Box 723, so that the entire department, save West Quincy and Houghs Neck responded.

The fire was in the Parker House situated at 500 South street, occupied by Joseph Harron as a boarding house for shipyard workmen. The fire started in the kitchen and had made good headway when discovered. By the time the fire department arrived there was a brisk fire in progress.

The fire gutted the lower part of the house, and the smoke which penetrated the whole house drove the boarders some in scanty attire into the street, where the blizzard was raging. It was bitter cold and many of the men suffered considerable from the cold and damp night. They eventually found shelter in houses in the immediate neighborhood.

District Chief Packard was in charge, and after a hard fight of over an hour the fire was extinguished, although it was 3 o'clock before the recall sounded. The lower part of the house was considerably damaged by fire, and the upper part by smoke and some fire which had eaten its way upward through the partitions.

With the heavy wind that was blowing at the time the firemen did well to save the building. Just what the loss will be is hard to tell, but it is estimated that it will be upwards of $1,200.

The third fire alarm of the day was sounded from Box 35 at 12.17 Sunday noon, and was for a fire in the basement of the Mitchell house on School street occupied by Michael T. Sullivan. The family were at dinner at the time, and were surprised by a volume of black smoke which came into the room and nearly overcame them. The alarm brought a quick response, but the smoke which was very dense penetrated every room in the house, so that the smoke damage was quite heavy. The fire was confined to the basement and was extinguished with chemical stream. The loss should not exceed $200.

Many of the occupants of the boarding house were recovering from their Saturday night sprees, and in addition to fighting the flames the firemen and police had to contend with a lot of drunks. Some of these men refused to leave the house, and it became necessary for the police to almost drag them from the building. One man more drunk than the others absolutely refused to leave his bed, and as his room was filled with smoke and ther was danger of his being suffocated, it was necessary to drag him out bodily.

STORIES OF OLD IRELAND

Seumas MacManus Lectures at Quincy Mansion School

Livermore hall of the Quincy Mansion school was filled Saturday evening with the pupils and friends to again enjoy the hospitality of Mrs. Willard.

Rev. Dr. van Allen of Boston who is often a guest at the school introduced Mr. Seumas MacManus as one of the few men who could translate and express in verse and prose, the beauty, soul, spirit and witchery of the fairies of Ireland and called him in story telling the chief high priest of Donegal.

It was an evening of rare enjoyment. Mr. MacManus' undisputable talent at story telling showed marked individuality and captivated his audience at once with his brief description of the primitive ireland of long ago, as contrasting with the Ireland of today; and of the old beliefs, stories, Irish folk lore and fairy tales which he had heard around the firesides winter evenings.

The professional story teller was a most important person, as was also the wandering beggar vagabond who would always stop at the house from which issued the biggest smoke, because that would indicate the biggest pot cooking the family supper. He would make himself one of the family, lead the rosary with prayers for all until their backs ached, then in would flock the neighbors to which he would unfold the wonderful tales, around the magic circle, sometimes until cock crow.

Mr. MacManus first story about Nancy Kelly the post mistress, of her keen understanding of human nature and her wideawake sense of satire, of all the voluntary information she acquired when people came to post their letters—a few unprincipled people used the slot in the window under cover of night and then they lived to regret it—of Jimmie the post man; of the all abashed Patrick Martin and his courtin' letters; and Nancy's advice givin' for nothin' caused laughter.

He then told of the beautiful belief embodied in the battle wars of heaven; of those cast out into the seas became mermaids and those who fell on dry land were the fairies.

The story of the old man who with his family was starving when the fairy brought him a beautiful white cow, of the beautiful white calves that were born each year. The ending caused the greatest of merriment as did the story of the hunch backs.

His tales of the native birds, the crow and the bat, the black bird and plover ,the robin and eagle were very interesting, and he gave the Gaelic translation of their bird language. The old proverbs of the Irish race were odd, and to the point.

His poems, had the stamp of originality, of quaint peculiar humor, wholesome country sentiment which pleased all. Each story was enthusiastically received, and the manner in which the last one as an encore was told richly deserved the applause.

—The Sealer of weights and measures in Malden found an unusual condition of affairs Wednesday at the grocery store of G. H. Johnson. He found that Mr. Johnson was giving his customers 17 ounces for a pound. Mr. Johnson himself was astounded.

GRANITE CITY CLUB ELECTION

Eben W. Sheppard the New President

The annual meeting of the Granite City club was held Saturday evening, and brought out a large attendance of members. The reports of the officers for the year were very gratifying. The finance report showed all bills for the year paid and a balance of over $500 on hand. The trustees' report showed the trust fund in the Savings Bank to be over $1,200. The present membership was reported to be 115.

The retiring officers were extended a vote of thanks for their services, and the retiring president, Henry F. Tilden, personally thanked the officers who had labored with him during his three years.

Two were elected to membership, and it was voted that the price of tickets for the annual banquet April 26 for members be placed at $1, and for members guests at $2.

QUINCY CELEBRATES SURRENDER OF LEE

Everything Was Hilarity and Joy and Business Was Suspended for a Day

E. Granville Pratt, Esq., Presides at Town Hall Meeting.

Quincy in Civil War, No. 1.—By Frank Fisher Prescott.

QUINCY has a proud Civil war record. In the 60s we were but a small town of LESS THAN 7000 POPULATION—Men, women and children,—but we sent to the front NINE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-FOUR.

The expenses incurred by the town for the Civil war amounted to $48,912.11, as follows:

Amount paid for Bounties, $34,632.50.

Amount SUBSCRIBED by citizens, $12,651.63.

Expenses of RECRUITING, transportation of recruits, war records, meeting and extra services of the town officials, $1,627.98.

Sometimes in reading a book, one likes to glance first at the CLOSING CHAPTER, and the Daily Ledger will therefore be pardoned, particularly as today is an ANNIVERSARY DATE.

It was on April 10, 1865, that news reached Quincy that on the preceding day Gen. Lee had surrendered.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT of Saturday, April 15, 1865, said under the Caption—"VICTORY AND PEACE—ONE AND INSEPARABLE:"

The glorious triumph of our National arms and the prospect of a speedy and honorable peace, fill all hearts with joy.

BOOMING CANNON, PEALING BELLS, FLOATING BANNERS, PROCESSIONS, BONFIRES and ILLUMINATIONS, the HEARTY GRATULATIONS of the street and the ENTHUSIASM of meetings called impromptu attest the fervor and depth of feeling everywhere exhibited.

"The capture of the Rebel CAPITOL was announced last week. Now even that VICTORY is overshadowed by the THRILLING EVENTS of the past week.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Harrison of Chicago—Harrison! is there not a presidential reminiscence or suggestion in that name?

A town by the name of Hunnowell was elected a lady mayor. Well, considering its name, how could it help itself?

It is probable that the Lorimer case will be again brought up in the Senate and much more thoroughly investigated than during the last session. Startling revelations have been brought out by a committee of the Illinois state senate. The editor of the Record Herald in Chicago, has told of receiving intelligence that a hundred thousand dollar fund was used to elect Lorimer, and while he refused to reveal his informant, the informant has revealed himself with names and dates making very strong evidence.

The extra session of Congress was opened with no remarkable or spectacular accompaniment. The introductory speech of the new Speaker lacked the terseness and dignity of Speaker Carlysle's introductory address, but it was not remarkably below the forensic efforts of some of his predcessors. From his language it was evident that Speaker Clark imagined himself the chosen of ninety-two millions of Americans, instead of the incidental nominee of a majority of the lower house of which he was by a freak of politics a nominal leader.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

If the turnstiles on the Boston Elecvated are not in violation of the statutes providing for proper egress from places of public resort—a point upon which opinions differ—and if conditions "of the most extraordinary kind" would necessarily have to be brought around, in order to render stiles menaces to life, one conclusion will generally be accepted: as now maintained, the turnstiles are rank nuisances. At hours when the traffic is light, and plenty of time admits of careful use, patrons can manage to get along fairly well. It is when the exits are in great demand, with crowds corresponding, that patrons are subjected to annoyance and inconvenience. Unless special care is practiced, the chances of being struck in the face, or otherwise injured, by the revolving bars are far too imminent. But as the turnstiles save the company the hire of attendents at such places, scattered protests on the part of patrons will hardly disturb the equanimity of the management—and the turnstiles will remain—Salem News

Fathers and mothers usually think that the problem of their relationship to their boys and girls is all on one side—their own side—but it isn't. The problem is two-sided. Children are perplexing to their parents, but the truth is that parents are about as often perplexing to their children. This other view of the matter, the children's view, is uniquely presented in a little story in the American Magazine by Lucy Pratt. She quotes a boy on "Fathers and Mothers," as he writes it—a fictitious boy, but a real boy after all—and as he discusses parenthood he says: "If you have a new teacher and she isn't a good one, they change her and get you a better one. But if you have a new father and mother and they aren't good ones, you have to keep them just the same. It is the same always. You can change a bad teacher any time for a good one, but your father and mother have to stay your father and mother whether they are bad or good. You can't change them. Not ever. Doesn't it seem kind of dreadful to think of?" This other view of the relationship was suddenly presented to a father once upon a time after he had indulged in an unusual number of "dont's" in reprimanding a particularly active lad who seemed unable to do anything without getting into trouble. He looked at his father a moment and then said: "Father, is there anything a boy like me can DO?" It is profitable for parents to get, now and that's about what it means to the children's view that it is dreadful to think that they can not ever change bad fathers and mothers for good. If boys and girls are trials because they are heedless and careless and naughty and so many other things, fathers and mothers should remember they themselves are probably trials to the boys and girls because they are so often unfair, unkind, impatient, inconsistent, unsympathetic and even deceitful. The problem of the relationship of parents to children is assuredly a two-sided problem.—Haverhill Gazette.

GRAND ARMY DEMONSTRATION.

Quincy will take a prominent part next week in the Grand Army demonstration at Lowell. Col. Edward Anderson of this city will be the orator and Rev. E. Victor Bigelow, whose wife was a Quincy lady, will deliver the ode. It is a celebration on Patriots day in honor of the old 6th Massachusetts Regiment. The association will be escorted to the First Congregational church opposite Memorial hall, where the exercises will be held. A trained chorus from the High school will sing six war songs.

Y. P. C. U. DRAMA.

The attention of the dramatic loving public is called to the comedy drama entitled "Bar Haven," which was given with great success at the Universalist church, North Weymouth, two nights last week, drawing a large attendance each evening. The same is to be given at the Universalist church, Quincy, Tuesday, April 11.

QUINCY CELEBRATES

THE NEWS OF THE SURRENDER OF THE GENERAL-IN-CHIEF OF THE CONFEDERATE FORCES WAS RECEIVED IN QUINCY EARLY MONDAY MORNING, APRIL 10.

Here as in Boston, everything was HILARITY AND JOY. Business was suspended and DURING THE WHOLE DAY THE CHURCH BELLS WERE RUNG and firearms discharged, while eager groups gathered at the Post Office and Railroad Station TO READ AND HEAR THE NEWS.

At night our village was in a blaze of light, the citizens having illuminated their dwellings. Some having provided fireworks, made a display in spite of the rain storm.

At 8 o'clock the Town Hall was crowded to overflowing by old and young, to congratulate one another over the good news.

After music by the Quincy band, Col. Adams escorted E. GRANVILLE PRATT, ESQ., to the platform as chairman, who introduced to the audience the following gentlemen of this town,—H. FARNAM SMITH, EDWARD W. HOWE, H. F. ALLEN, REV. Mr. FULLER, REV. Mr. TWING, and JAMES E. TIRRELL, who in neat patriotic speeches, interspersed by music from the QUINCY BAND, entertained the audience in a very happy manner till after 10 o'clock."

Judge Pratt, mentioned above as chairman, is today the associate justice of our District court. The late Mr. Smith was father of Fred H. Smith of Quincy Point, and served on the School Committee many years. Rev. Edward P. Twing was pastor of the Evangelical Congregational church from 1862 to 1867. The late Judge Tirrell was a well known lawyer, the father of Frank A. Tirrell.

The Daily Ledger will continue to review Quincy's part in the Civil war with anniversary instalments almost daily. April was a particularly eventful month, as it saw both the beginning and the end of the war.

All Quincy veterans of the Civil War are invited to assist the Daily Ledger in making these anniversary reminiscences of the war of value. As far as possible events will be chronicled in order beginning in 1861. Those who are in possession of letters sent home from the front in 1861 are requested to make a copy of the same or parts of the same, and forward promptly to Frank F. Prescott. They should reach the office, if possible, a week in advance of their date. That is a letter of May 1, 1861, should be forwarded before April 25. All the April letters should be forwarded at once. These letters will deal wholly with Quincy's part in the Civil War, which will be news to 90 percent of the citizens of today.

QUINCY SHOULD CELEBRATE.

Saturday of this week—April 15—will be the 50th anniversary of the day when Quincy was aroused as it never has been since, by Lincolns call for 75,000 volunteers. The Daily Ledger suggests that there be an impromptu celebration on that date. That the church bells be rung, that flags be displayed everywhere, that a mass meeting be held in the evening with local speakers, Grand Army men and others. That there be cannon salutes, fireworks and a grand hurrah!

INSPECTORS HUNT MYSTERIOUS WOMAN

Two Thousand Letters In One Day For "Miss Mills"

Boston, April 10.—Boston postoffice inspectors made a tour of several cities and towns in Masaschusetts in an endeavor to locate the mysterious "Miss Mills," who is badly wanted by the postal officials to collect several hundred thousand letters, which wait her in different postoffices throughout the country.

Yesterday almost 2000 letters, nearly all of which contained cancelled postage stamps for which "Miss Mills" wrote to thousands of persons by the endless chain system, requesting them to send their used stamps to her, so that she might be able to start a children's hospital ward at St. Georges, N. S. W., were received in Boston. "Miss Mills," in her letters, said she needed 500,000 cancelled stamps.

SIX THOUSAND HOMELESS

Female Residents of Notorious Quarter In Tokio Burned Out

Tokio, April 10.—The notorious Yoshiwari quarter of Tokio was destroyed by fire Sunday. Many of these houses were almost palatial in appearance. Six thousand female inmates were rendered homeless.

The Yoshiwari is conducted under government licenses, which provide for the establishment of hospitals, and several of these institutions also were burned. Altogether it is estimated that 5000 houses are in ruins, covering an area approximately four square miles.

A large number of women were severely injured, but as far as is known, no deaths have occurred. Five hundred troops are guarding the territory.

POWER BEING OSTRACIZED

Democrats Will Not Serve on Any Committee With Kentuckian

Washington, April 10.—Caleb Powers, the Kentucky Republican who was convicted of the murder of Governor Goebel and who was elected to congress after he had been pardoned, will not have an easy time in the house.

It is practically certain that Representative Mann, the minority leader, will not assign Powers to any committee on which there is a Kentucky Democrat. The Democrats from that state declare that they will not serve with him on any committee.

Powers appears to be somewhat concerned over the report that an effort will be made to vacate his seat in the house.

MURDERED BY ROBBERS

Station Agent Fought Hard to Save Cash Under His Charge

New York, April 10.—William Hutchins, station agent, telegraph operator and postmaster at the village of Croton Lake, N. Y., was found dead in his office. He had been shot down by a band of robbers who entered the station and demanded all the money he had in the ticket cash drawer.

Hutchins must have refused the demands, for the condition of the room showed that he had fought hard. There is no clue to the murderers.

SAFE AT DOCK IN NEW YORK

Prinzess Irene Was Imprisoned Eighty-Three Hours

SHIP APPARENTLY UNHARMED

Has Not Taken Water and Plates Are Probably Intact—Captain Not Likely to Suffer Punishment—High Tide and Tugs Do a Job Which Surprises Life Savers—Towing to Port Resorted to, Although Unnecessary

New York, April 10.—Bearing no visible scars except a shattered rudder post the North German Lloyd liner Prinzess Irene slipped away from Fire island yesterday afternoon as unexpectedly as she ran aground in the fog on Thursday morning.

After eighty-three hours of imprisonment in the said off the Lone Hill life saving station she cheated the "graveyard of the Atlantic," and was floated with the aid of tugs at 3:05 p. m. At 3:40 she left in tow for Scotland light, practically at the entrance of New York harbor, and anchored for the night.

This morning the Irene came up to her dock. After divers have examined her hull she will be rushed to Newport News for more thorough examination in drydock. Her stay there will depend upon what this inspection discloses. The vessel has not taken a drop of water, however, and her plates are thought to be intact.

The North German Lloyd has been noted for its kindly leniency toward conscientious commanders who have mishaps, and as the veteran Peterssen of the Prinzess Irene will take his ship back across the Atlantic under her own steam, substantially undamaged, it is the assumption here among those who profess to know, that Peterssen's personal grief will be his chief punishment.

To the life savers who followed the work which was done to save the Prinzess Irene her sudden floating was a great surprise. Captain Goddard of the Lone Hill station was astounded. In his opinion it was "a miracle of good luck," otherwise an unusually high tide, stirred up by a southeasterly storm at sea.

Two hours before the water was due to its full height, the ship, which had been stationary for three days, was seen to rock in the swelling tide and twenty minutes later her bow rose slightly. The powerful wrecking tugs, Relief and Rescue, were pulling valliantly on her stern to both starboard and port, and the Irene's donkey engines were straining at the cables which were caught in kedge anchors to the seaward.

At 3:03 the anchor cables began to slacken—the first sign that the big ship would free herself from the sand pit. Another pull and her stern was free in thirty feet of water, and at 3:12 the six feet of the ship's red belly which had shown which she stuck in the sand, dwindled to a narrow ribbon of red as she slid away into deeper water. She was afloat.

Meanwhile the tugs Nichols and Timmins, which had been standing by, set their stub noses against the Irene's bow sides and edged her out into still deeper water. She lay to until it was made certain that she was still seaworthy, and was cautiously towed away to the west. Her engines were in good working order, but it was feared that the propellers might foul the shattered rudder, and towing was resorted to as wisest. Two additional tugs acted as rudders and steadied her at the stern.

TOWN HALL BURNS

$10,000 In Bonds Destroyed In Fire In a Maine Village

Wells, Me., April 10.—Ten thousand dollars in town bonds, owned by G. W. Hatch, were destroyed in a fire which wiped out the town hall building, in which Hatch's general store was located. The bonds were in a safe in Hatch's store, but the heat was so intense that the strong box afforded little protection for the paper. All of the town records were saved.

The blaze started in the Hatch store, one of three stores occupying the first floor of the building, and is supposed to have been caused by a match thrown into a pile of rubbish.

Railroad Repair Shops Burned

Sanbornville, N. H., April 10.—Flames which had their origin in an insignificant chimney fire wiped out the Boston and Maine railroad repair shops and engine house here and for a time threatened the entire village with destruction. The loss is $35,000.

Woman's Body In Reservoir

Brattleboro, Vt., April 10.—Encased in the ice of Chestnut Hill reservoir, the body of Mrs. Mary A. Currington of Bellows Falls, who is believed to have drowned herself four months ago, was found by boys.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The Sunday morning service at the Wollaston Unitarian church was in keeping with the spirit of Palm Sunday—the church being appropriately decorated with potted palms, one of unusual size and beauty filling the large space in front of the pulpit. Mr. Waldo F. Bates sang as an opening solo "Palm Branches," and his fine voice and clear enunciation made it a great pleasure to his hearers. Rev. Carl G. Horst made a glowing word picture, full of oriental warmth and coloring, of Christ's entry into Jerusalem as shown in the Passion Play in Oberammergau during the last presentation. "God never leaves himself without witnesses, but expresses Himself in the beauty of nature all about us, in the abundance and variety of the recurring seasons and in our own appreciation of spiritual and moral values." In man's receptivity to truth and in his openness of heart lie the expression of God's greatness, and His revelations are more in man than to him, since even Deity may not reveal himself to our spiritually blind and deaf. And in all the centuries since that entry into Jesusalem, science which has done so much in other directions, has added nothing to religion; for what can modern science add to the communion of spirit with spirit or the harmony of love and law or the depth and wisdom of charity? Religion is faith, it is trusting unwaveringly in the eternal fatherhood of God; the utterances of Jesus in those far-away days are the final word in our own religion. And His religion was more than preaching or teaching—it was truth earnestly lived, religion made flesh and dwelling among men, a living example of good deeds, blessing those who came within its influence.

At the Wollaston Unitarian church on Easter Sunday, there will be special Easter music, and sermon at the usual hour of morning worship, by the pastor, Rev. Carl G. Horst. Following this service will be held the communion service to which all who wish to commemorate in this way the life and death of the Master are invited. There will be an Easter Sunday school service in the auditorium of the church at 4.30 P. M. All parents and friends of our Sunday school members are urged to be present.

This evening at 8 o'clock Whatsoever Circle, King's Daughters will meet with Miss Helen Foster, 223 Safford street.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Unitarian club will take place Tuesday. Dr. Percy G. Styles of Simmons College will speak on "Sleep." Dinner at 6.30.

The Junior Lend-a-Hand club will hold its meeting with the secretary Gretchen Horst, 67 Winthrop avenue, Tuesday at 2 P. M.

The last meeting of the Women's Alliance for his season will be held in the vestry Wednesday, at 2.30 P. M. This is the annual business meeting at which the election of officers will be held, reports of committees and officers read and other business transacted.

The last in the series of special Lenten services will be held Good Friday evening at 7.45. The visiting clergyman the Rev. Lewis G. Wilson, Secretary of the American Unitarian Association will preach the sermon. Miss Minnie Hardwick, soprano, will sing two selections, "O Lord, Most Holy" by Franke and "O Saviour, Hear me" by Gluck and will be accompanied on the flute by Lucien Thayer of Wakefield. The public is cordially invited to attend this service held on one of the Christian Church's greatest Holy Days and render thanks unto Almighty God for sending into the world in the fulness of time the Prince of Life, who suffered under Pontius Pilate and was crucified.

QUINCY POINT CHURCH.

The pastor preached an unusually good sermon at the Sunday morning service. "A living church" was the topic of the sermon. Special Palm Sunday music was rendered by the choir under the direction of T. B. Pollard.

In the evening, the pastor preached another fine sermon using as his topic "King of our lives."

SWEDISH BAPTIST.

The Sunday morning sermon was preached from the text Matt 21:1-11. "Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem" was the subject of his discourse.

A contest has been started in the Sunday School to increase the attendance and to have the pupils more regular in their attendance.

The Young People's meeting was led by Mr. Hellstrom, the president.

In the evening the pastor spoke on the supper at Bethany and told some known characteristics of the three persons who participated, Martha and

THE SOUTH SHORE SYNDICATE.

About the middle of March Miss Floretta Vining dropped in at the Ledger office for a chat. She said she was to retire from the newspaper bpsiness and had arranged to sell her papers the last of April to a Republican syndicate naming Herbert A. Tilden of Cohasset, Senator Barnes of Weymouth, Lieut-Gov. Frothingham and others as being interested. She said also that the company was picking up other papers in the county, any that could be bought cheap, and were to buy a daily in Quincy. Some of the newspaper comments on the combination are as follows:

NEWSPAPER SYNDICATE

Miss Floretta Vining of Hull for several years editor and owner of several papers circulating in the South Shore towns of Weymouth, Hingham, Scituate, Cohasset and Hull, has decided to retire from the newspaper field. Several Republicans among them Mr. Tilden of Cohasset, Senator Barnes of Weymouth, and Lieut. Governor Frothingham are to buy the papers and make them strong Republican organs. Incidentally they are to pick up a few papers in Norfolk county that can be bought for little or nothing, which will doubtless prove a godsend to their present owners if not to the prospective owners.—Quincy Daily Ledger, March 24.

MISS VINING TO RETIRE.

Miss Floretta Vining of Hull, clubwoman, writer, lecturer, farmer and journalist, is to abandon her newspaper work in which she has been a prominent factor along the South Shore for years.

She conducts a syndicate of South Shore weeklies, four or five in number, in which interests affiliated with the Republican party have negotiated to purchase.

"An agent of the Republican party came to me about it," said Miss Vining today, "and I agreed to let him have my newspaper property on a month's trial, after which, if satisfactory, he is to purchase outright."

From other sources it was learned that plans are under way by the same interests to buy up other weeklies and dailies in Norfolk county, some of which have been struggling along some time.—Boston Herald, April 7.

SENATOR BARNES NOT IN IT.

"I have recently had called to my attention that there has appeared about the town a circular stating that I am interested in a new syndicate of newspapers to be published on the South Shore. In the interest of accuracy, I wish to state that I am in no wise interested from a business standpoint in the proposed enterprise. I did act as counsel in drawing certain papers and agreements relating to a proposed transfer of certain newspapers, but I am not on any way connected with the business which is proposed in the circular I have mentioned, and the use of my name in that connection is absolutely without authority from me.

As a considerable number of people have spoken to me about the matter, I would be glad and grateful to you if you could publish this letter in order that a correct statement of the facts may appear. George L. Barnes, in Weymouth Gazette, April 7.

NEW PARTY ORGAN.

Herbert A. Tilden of Cohasset, in a letter soliciting subscriptions for stock in a projected corporation which will publish the South Shore News, covering 15 towns in Norfolk and Plymouth Counties and the city of Quincy, has declared that Lieutenant Governor Frothingham and Senator George L. Barnes of Weymouth are back of the enterprise. The move is regarded along the South Shore as a step in the Frothingham campaign.

Senator Barnes had a letter in the Weymouth Gazette, declaring that he has no other interest in the proposed newspaper than to have drawn up some legal papers in connection with it.—Boston Transcript, April 8.

MISS VINING TO REMAIN.

Herbert A. Tilden of Cohasset, in a letter soliciting subscriptions for stock in a projected corporation which will publish the South Shore News, a republican paper, covering 15 towns in Norfolk and Plymouth counties and the city of Quincy, states that Lieut.-Gov. Frothingham and Senator George L. Barnes of Weymouth are back of the enterprise. The move is regarded along the South Shore as a step in the Frothingham campaign. As a nucleus the letter adds, the Floretta Vining syndicate of weeklies will be purchased, and the news will cover 15 towns and one city in Norfolk county.

Miss Vining admitted last night such plans were under way and would probably be consummated within six weeks. Miss Vining, who for many years has been famous as an editor, will retain her position and will have charge of the papers in Hull, Cohasset and Hingham. "I am not going to quit the business. I am going to increase my circulation; the stock company will make some people sit up and take notice," Miss Vining told a reporter last night.—Brockton Enter-

CANAL HEARING.

The newly appointed Inland Waterway Commission of which President Bowles of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. and Frank F. Crane are members, will give a hearing at room 439, State House, tomorrow, at 10.30, for an expression of opinion upon the usefulness to commence of the Taunton river to Hingham harbor canal.

A canal survey has been made by the United States Army Engineers and an estimate of cost prepared for a canal 25 feet deep, 200 feet bottom width, and a canal 17 feet deep and 125 feet bottom width, 52 miles long, from Taunton River to Hingham Harbor,—a feasible route, having four locks, two of which would be at Hingham. The Board of Army Engineers are required to consider the value of such a canal for the commerce of the United States and to report in December next whether or not in their opinion its construction should be undertaken.

BOARDERS ARRESTED.

Officers Thorne and Olson were called to 202 Chubbuck street about 3.30 Sunday morning to quell a row among some of the boarders who had celebrated the night before and had drank more than was good for them. The three men concerned in the row were Humphrey J. Leahy John Hayes and Owen Hayes. They got into a row in the bath room and during the struggle the bath tub was put out of commission and the wash bowl smashed. Word was sent to the officers who were at the fire on South street and they placed the three men under arrest. In court they were fined $15 each for drunkenness and ordered to pay $7.34 each to Mrs. Stevens the boarding house keeper to pay for the damage done.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Delory was arraigned for disturbing a meeting at Weymouth. Case continued until Tuesday.

Humphrey J. Leary, John Hayes and Owen Hayes were fined $15 each for drunkenness at Quincy, and $7.34 each to pay for the damages done to the boarding house of Mrs. Stevens while they were under the influence of liquor.

—An original plan to educate the public upon the means for spreading disease has been tried for some days in Boston. Babies are placarded in their carriages and go-carts with signs reading: "Don't kiss me. It is harmful." Perhaps it is quite unnecessary to state that none of the young Bostonese ladies have been discovered wearing any such signs. —Spencer Leader.

The Vacuum Cleaner

Keep up to date should be the aim
Of every man and wife;
And thus make lighter for each one,
The burdens of this life.

Why not clean house the easiest way,
Which would be by machine;
A "Vacuum Cleaner" is the thing
For such a tiresome scene.

With a Duntley Motor cleaner,
At two dollars per day,
Your carpets would be better cleaned,
Than in the hard old way.

Not only are the carpets cleaned
But walls, lace curtains too;
All cleaned so nicely that you feel
'Tis just the thing for you.

'Twill save you money, time and strength,
Three quite important things;
And lessens the inconvenience,
Which cleaning house now brings.

Try a Duntley Motor Cleaner,
Or one that works by hand;
The latter comes a little less,
But both are in demand.

MARCH WEATHER.

The weather during March was characterized by marked and sudden changes in temperature, the month averaging somewhat colder than usual, and by frequent, though not heavy, precipitation. The mean temperature of 32.2 degrees was 1.4 degrees lower than the normal for the month and the lowest for March since 1906. Last year it was 39.1 degrees. The maximum temperature for the month was 62 degrees on the 22d, while the lowest reached was 10 degrees on the 16th.

Like the preceding months of 1911, March was deficient in precipitation and the total for the month of 3.27 inches was 1.11 inches less than the usual amount. In 1910 the monthly total was 1.77 inches and in 1909 it was 4.42 inches. A measurable quantity of rain or snow fell on 16 days, the most in any day being .79 inch on the 15th. During the month there were four inches of snow which fell on seven different days. There was much less relative humidity than usual, the mean for the month being the lowest on record for March, somewhat more sunshine than is customary and about the average cloudiness.

There was the usual amount of wind, the mean hourly velocity of 21.6 miles being exactly normal. The maximum velocity of the month was 62 miles per hour fro mthe west on 62 miles per hour from the west on the 23d, 27th and 31st. The prevailing wind direction was west. Ice disappeared from the neighboring pounds on the 28th and 29th, about five days later than usual. Thunderstorms occurred on the 15th and 29th and an aurora was observed on the evening of the 25th. WHAT IS A DOLLAR?

The Rev. George Wood Anderson of St. Louis, himself chaplain of an advertising club, recently made a few remarks before the Pilgrim Publicity Association of Boston on the almighty dollar. "A dollar is not an insignificant thing. It is of great value. Here is a dollar—what is it? 'Legal tender,' says one. It is more than that; this dollar is part of my life. It is one of my yesterdays. I worked hard the other day and earned a dollar. In the evening I could have thrown it away, saying that money is nothing, but I looked at it and said, "This is all I have in tangible form of one day of my life; I will save it as I would guard my life; tomorrow I need not work, for my yesterday will secure the services of someone else who can perform my task. But I prefer to keep the dollar and earn another ,and thus as I guard my health in order to take care of the future, I guard my dollars which are my past. My dollars are my yesterdays, and I shall save them until I have sufficient of them to work while I sleep. Only the product of their effort makes sure a well-cared-for old age free from worry.'"

Patrick, in answer to an advertisement for a coachman, applied for the position. He was one of three applicants, and patiently waited until his turn arrived to offer his services. The gentleman who wanted the coachman loved a joke, and when the first applicant had answered a few of his questions, he finally asked him:

"How near the edge of a precipice would you undertake to drive my carriage?"

"Your Honor, I'd come within a foot of it."

The same question was put to the second applicant, who replied:

"I'll drive within three inches of it all the way, and never slip a wheel."

Patrick was then asked what he would do. "Faith, your Honor, I'd kape as far away from the idge as possible." Patrick was engaged.—Harper's Round Table.

THE PULL IS STEADY.

"If there is one enterprise on earth that a 'quitter' should leave severely alone it is advertising. To make a success of advertising, one must be prepared to STICK like a barnacle on a boat's bottom. ADVERTISING DOES NOT JERK; IT PULLS. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases day by day and year by year, until it exerts an irresistible power."—John Wanamaker.

COFFER DAM COMPLETED

First Stage of Raising Battleship Maine Successfully Accomplished

Havana, April 10.—In the driving of the last few interlocking steel piles of the last of the twenty caissons forming the inclosing wall of the huge basin or coffer dam surrounding the wreck of the Maine, the first stage in the great work of exposing and ultimately removing the shattered remains of the battleship sunk in the harbor of Havana on the night of Feb. 15, 1898, has just been brought to successful conclusion.

It is expected that the filling of the caissons will be completed by the end of April, and after that the second and most interesting stage of the work—that of pumping out the great basin and leaving exposed the hull of the battleship in precisely the condition she was on the morning after her destruction, thirteen years ago—will be proceeded with.

LOSING IN POPULATION

More Than Thirty-Two Thousand Emigrants From Ireland In 1910

London, April 10.—Ireland's estimated population Dec. 31, 1909, was 4,376,534, and on the same date of 1910 it was 4,371,144. The number of emigrants from Ireland in 1910 was 32,457.

Ireland is the only one of the three branches of the United Kingdom that is expected to show a diminishing population in the census now being taken.

EXPLOSION KILLS OVER A HUNDRED MEN

Nearly All Alabama Mine Victims Were State Convicts

Littleton, Ala., April 10.—From 100 to 115 miners are believed to have met death at the explosion in the Banner mines of the Pratt Consolidated Coal company, near here. The deadly black damp was a menace to all who attempted to enter the workings and it may be several days before all the dead have been recovered.

While no official statement has been made, it is believed the explosion was caused by safety powder ignited by a lamp and followed by dust. There were 170 men in all, only five of whom were free laborers. The others were convicts, mostly negroes sent from the surrounding counties to serve sentences ranging from ten days to two years.

SEVENTY-FOUR DEAD

Forty-Five Widows and 137 Orphans In Throop Colliery Horror

Scranton, Pa., April 10.—Seventy-four is the revised total of the toll of the mine fire at the Pancoast colliery in Throop. A canvass of the families of the victims shows forty-five widows and 137 orphans.

Every corner of the workings which a fleeing victim might have reached in his frenzy for pure air has been searched, and every body has been removed.

SOLD FOR ABOUT $3,500,000

Madison Square Garden Failed to Pay as an Amusement Resort

New York, April 10.—Madison Square Garden has been sold. Notwithstanding official denials it was learned on excellent authority, The Times says, that New York's greatest amusement building has been purchased by Henry Corn, a New York realty operator. Just what Corn paid has not been disclosed, but it is believed to be close to, if not quite, $3,500,000.

As the garden has never paid as an amusement resort it seems an assured fact that the building will soon be torn down and twelve and sixteen-story office buildings and lofts erected on the site.

PURSUERS ENTRAPPED

Mexican Federal Force of Ninety Wiped Out by Rebels

Atlixco, Mex., April 10.—Trapped in a canyon six kilometers from Atlixco, a force of ninety federals was almost annihilated by a band of rebels, in whose pursuit they had been engaged for twenty-four hours.

Reports of fthe battle received here say that almost every man in the detachment was killed or wounded. The rebel loss is said to have been small.

The assaulting force were driven from this place by federals, but not until they had burned the village archives and robbed the treasury.

Canal Suicide Identified

Lowell, April 10.—The body of the man who committed suicide by jumping into the Pawtucket canal last Thursday was taken from the water Sunday afternoon, and identified as that of Adelard Provenchal, a cotton weaver, aged 39.

Store Safe Looted

Boston, April 10.—Mrs. O. S. Ochs, head of the Rusian Importing company, discovered, when she opened her store for business, that during the night burglars had looted the safe of jewelry and cash to the amount of $2000.

OLD OFFENDERS UNDER ARREST

Smuggling Plot Is Foiled by Agents of the Government

PLAN TO BRING IN ALIENS

Trio Who Were to Land Chinamen at $450 a Head Rounded Up In Boston After Months of Trailing—Sleuth Poses as "Angel" and Comes Into Possession of Details of Scheme Which Was to Have Netted Big Sum

Boston, April 10.—On the eve of their departure for a $50,000 cargo of Chinese laborers whom they had openly boasted they could land beneath the very nose of President Taft, three alleged smugglers of Chinese were arrested in Boston through the clever work of secret agents of the federal department of justice.

The $25,000 steam yacht upon which they were to set sail from the vicinity of Boston in preparation for a return with more than 100 aliens for whom there was a market price of $450 each, offered by prominent Boston and New York Chinatown merchants, swings idly at her anchor in Massachusetts bay, while her prospective master, Captain Harvey C. Daly, with Goodman Phillips and George M. B. Gardiner, awaits arraignment before a United States commissioner on a charge of conspiring to bring Chinese laborers into the United States.

The arrest of the latter two was most spectacular. Standing in the Adams house Phillips was reaching out his hand for a check for $700, which was to pay the initial deposit on the yacht and also to secure the crew of six close-mouthed and nervy seamen, when he was arrested by United States Deputy Marshal Young.

Daly was arrested a short time later on Blackstone street, after a visit to his East Boston home by Deputy Marshals Bancroft and Ruhl had proven futile.

Each with a record of crooked work of one kind or another, Daly and Phillips being connected with previous attempts at smuggling and Gardiniere with a scheme to sell ordinary eggs and poultry at fabulous prices as rare specimens of swans and other fowl, they were hardly out of the prison shadows when the secret service men were on their trails.

The arrests were the outcome of one of the cleverest cases of espionage in the history of the federal department of justice. Following Gardiniere from the time he left Barnstable prison, where he had become acquainted with Phillips, who was serving a sentence for his connection with another smuggling case, the secret service man ingratiated himself with the agent of the daring smugglers in Jamaica and received a proposition from him to enter the deal, a side remark being passed to the effect that it would be easy to outwit the sleuths as they were such "thickheads."

Phillips the Ringleader

According to the story of the government officials Phillips was the ringleader in the undertaking, Gardiniere's part being that of the "fixer," or go-between, and Daly's the task of piloted the yacht to and from Port Antonio, Jamaica. It is to the carelessness of Gardiniere while in Jamaica that the intimate details of the plot became as alphabet blocks to the secret service agents who had watched each man for months.

At Jamaica a cargo of at least 100 Chinese laborers were to be taken aboard, together with large quantities of opium and other dutiable goods, and the vessel was to return to make a landing somewhere in Massachusetts.

Arriving in this country, the Chinese were to be taken care of by a coterie of prominent Chinese merchants of Boston and New York, the conspirators receiving a price of $450 a head for the Celestials. All arrangements for the disposal of the coolies had been made, so the officials say.

The culmination of the plot came when Phillips and Gardiniere met in the smoking room at the Adams house and discussed the final plans with the secret service agent who to them was the "angel" of the fortune-making expedition. Near them were Deputy Marshals Youn, Ruhl and Bancroft and Special Agents Debelle and Schmidt.

As Ruhl and Bancroft grasped Phillips, Gardiniere, who was just putting into his pocket the fountain pen with which he had signed the agreement regarding the trip, turned pale with dismay and terror. As he turned to edge away, Young slipped the twisters about his wrists. The arrest of Daly followed a few hours later.

Boy Shot In the Eye

Beverly, Mass., April 10.—Ernest McConiskey, 7 years old, heard some of his playmates shooting air rifles. He climbed a high board fence and challenged them to shoot at him. One of them did, and the shot hit Ernest in the eye. Physicians say the lad will probably lose the sight of one eye.

CHELSEA'S GREAT FIRE

Palm Sunday a Reminder of Disaster Which Swept the City

Chelsea, Mass., April 10.—Three years ago Palm Sunday the Chelsea fire occurred. The fire swept over 287 acres, destroyed 2822 buildings, took nineteen lives and rendered 16,000 people homeless. The loss was estimated at $17,000,000. The population was 39,000 and the valuation over $27,000,000, of which $5,500,000 was destroyed.

The valuation of new buildings erected since the fire is $7,179,711. When the entire area is again built over the valuation will be over $33,000,000, it is estimated. The population is now nearly 34,000.

With the exception of the postoffice every public building that was burned has been replaced.

SHORTAGE IN BIG MARKETS

Causes Heavy Demand and Higher Prices For Maine Potatoes

Portland, Me., April 10.—On account of the New York potato shortage the demand for Maine tubers has increased. Central Maine potatoes are demanding higher prices than any other potato on the market, selling as high as 65 cents. Aroostook potatoes are selling at 60 cents.

A short time ago many of the Maine farmers feared the season would close leaving them with the year's crop on their hands, but the unexpected shortage in the large markets promises an outlet for the Maine product.

DEMOCRATS TO GIVE SENATE SOME WORK

Tariff Bills May Not Be Ready For Quite a While

Washington, April 10.—Before the house Democrats bring forward their tariff bills they will probably pass several important measures. The formation of committees has occupied so much of the time of the ways and means committee that work on the tariff bills has been delayed and they may not be ready for some time.

Pending their preparation the Democrats want to give the senate something to work on. Accordingly they have practically concluded to pass the bill for direct election of senators, the campaign publicity bill and the Arizona-New Mexico statehood bill before taking up the tariff bills.

When they begin on the tariff the wool schedule will be first, followed by the cotton schedule. A bill reducing the tariff on the necessaries of life will come next.

It has also practically been decided that the Canadian reciprocity bill to be brought forward by Chairman Underwood will be almost an exact duplicate of the McCall bill. It will carry no tariff rider.

NOT AFTER THE JOB

Roosevelt Makes Public Declaration as to Presidential Candidacy

Spokane, Wash., April 10.—Theodore Roosevelt made his first public declaration regarding his possible candidacy for the presidency at a luncheon given in his honor by the Commercial club.

"I am not an aspirant for anything because I have had everything," he said. "No man alive has had such a good run for his money."

Mr. Roosevelt said he was making his tour for no other purpose than that which he has already assigned—to thank the people who had elected him to the presdency. Had he never come to the west, he said, he never would have raised the regiment and never have become president.

ALLEGED SWINDLER CAUGHT

Investors Said to Have Been Cheated Out of More Than $50,000

Boston, April 10.—A unique and extensive swindling scheme was brought to light by the arrest of Richard Phillips by postoffice inspectors and a United States marshal. He is charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

More than 200 victims have lost in the vicinity of $200 each through alleged bogus contracts purporting to give them certain right in a patent owned by Phillips for a trolley retriever, it is alleged by the postoffice inspectors who brought about the arrest. The total losses probably aggregate more than $50,000.

Set Herself on Fire

Newport, R. I., April 10.—Mrs. Mary A. Fitch, who poured kerosene over her clothing in her home here and then set fire to her garments, died at the Newport hospital. She was placed in an insane asylum in 1909, but was liberated last December.

The Honorable Senator Sagebrush

By FRANCIS LYNDE

Copyright, 1910, by Street & Smith

SYNOPSIS.

Evan Blount, son of "Boss" David Blount ("Senator Sagebrush"), has been rejected by Patricia Anners. Dick Gantry offers him a position with the Transcontinental railway, which is fighting his father. McVickar, head of the railroad, and "Boss" Blount quarrel.

The boss demands that the railroad stop the use of crooked methods. Going west to meet his father, Evan meets a man who takes him for a forestry employee.

Evan is kidnaped by a band of men, evidently land corporation agents, and is taken at night to a mansion seemingly presided over by a woman.

The house is Wartrace Hall, Senator Blount's home, and the woman is Evan's stepmother, whom he had never met.

The senator purposes running Evan for attorney general despite the young man's recent arrival in the state. Evan objects. He hears his father called a political trickster.

McVickar defies Senator Blount to nominate Evan. Patricia and her geologist father arrive at the Sagebrush capital.

At McVickar's request Evan joins the railroad's forces as division counsel and political worker. He favors clean politics, but finds that his office is made a rallying point by small political hangers-on of the road.

Evan has a disagreement with Gantry about the road's mixing in politics. His father pulls wires unknown to him to have him invited to speak in a distant mining town. Hathaway, who has been trying to do business with the road and with Senator Blount, is to have a talk with Mrs. Blount.

Exposure of the railroad is threatened by Evan to Gantry unless rebating and other unlawful practices are stopped. Evan suspects his secretary, Collins, of tampering with his desk.

The desk is blown up by a burglar, evidently after Evan's papers. Gantry tells McVickar that Evan is getting to be too much for him to handle.

Hathaway wants a rebate from the road in consideration of political favors. He is referred to Evan and is advised by Mrs. Blount to put Professor Anners' name on his list of stockholders.

Evan's interview with Hathaway reveals the road's misdoings. In a rage he resigns. Gantry holds up the resignation. Evan insists that it go through to McVickar.

Patricia refuses Evan again. She advises him to stick to the road and work for clean politics. He withdraws his resignation and is sent into the field on a speaking tour.

"Yes; you didn't know that a machine organization could be put to any really righteous use, did you, boy? But this is one time when it has gone in to knock out the crookedness, big and little. Listen, son. When you wired me that you were coming out here I lay awake nights thinking how I'd put you in training and then when the time came I'd help you up into the saddle and make you the boss of the roundup, as I'd been. Want to hear the rest of it?"

Blount nodded.

"Then it came over me all of a sudden that I'd been as crooked as a dog's hind leg; that we'd all been crooked. Not that I'd ever taken a dollar for my personal pocket, for I haven't, but I've bought and sold and dickered and schemed with the best of 'em and the worst of 'em, just as McVickar's been doing for the past two months. Then I asked myself if I'd like to see you wallowing in the same mudhole, and—well, Evan, you may have a son of your own some day, and then you'll know. I thought I'd try you a little at first, and I did—that first day out at Wartrace. When you ripped out at me that day I made up my mind right then and there that I'd put the whole power of the 'machine,' as you call it, into one campaign for a clean election and a square deal."

"My heavens!" ejaculated the son. "And I've been fighting you and your organization at every turn!"

"No, you haven't," was the quick rejoinder. "You've been fighting graft, and that was what you thought you were hired to do. McVickar wasn't playing just fair with you. He gave you your job in the first place to take you away from me, but you've been in the hands of your friends right from the start, Evan. It was the organization that gave you all these chances to preach the new gospel of the square deal. It was the organization that pushed Hathaway up against you, so that you'd know that the railroad people were running around in the same old circles, hollering for justice and doing everything they could to defeat the ends of justice—muddying the spring because, they say, they don't know what else to do.

"Lastly, it's the organization that's going to see to it that your word to the people of this state is made good, son. Maybe we'll never be able to do it again, but this one time we shall do it. Gordon is going in by the biggest majority ever given to a governor of old Sagebrush, and the legislature will be five to one in favor of the square deal."

The younger man left his chair and walked to one of the windows to stand, looking down upon the lights of the busy street. When he turned again it was to say, "I don't see where I am to break in, dad."

"You have already broken in. While the legislature is going to be anti-corporation, it is also going to be fair when it finds out that all the railroad deals have been called off and canceled. You're the man to show the lawmakers that this has actually been done. McVickar made a hard and fast point of that when he consented to wipe the slate clean and go away and let us run our politics to suit ourselves. He made me promise to put it up to you fair and square, with a handsome increase in salary and an iron-clad agreement to back up every claim you should make when you assert that the railroad company will fire the first man that is caught evading the laws. That's what I've been fighting for in this campaign, Evan, and it's what you must fight for."

The son took the two steps necessary to reach the father's chair and held out his hand.

"I'm with you, dad," he said heartily. "I'll stay, and I'll make Mr. McVickar respect me and my principles before I'm through with it. But I'm still a little bit afraid that you and your kind are a menace to civilization and a free government. You won't mind my saying that, will you?"

"Lawzee gracious, no! Say anything you like, son, or, rather, let me say something else first. How about this 'career' business of Patricia's? Have you fixed that up yet?"

Evan shook his head despondently.

"She's going home with her father in October," he said, then: "Do you know what she did today, dad? She ran the little red car into that tree intentionally so I couldn't get back here in time to use those affidavits which she and I both supposed would incriminate you."

"God bless her loyal little soul!" said the senator. "I hadn't told her what I was trying to do; but, Lord love you, she knew—you trust a woman for knowing, every time, son. And now one more thing. Have you come to know Honoria any better in these last few days?"

"Yes; much better within the last hour, dad."

"Good. That does my old heart a heap of good, son. Let's go and get those two good women and take 'em down to dinner; then we'll drive back to Wartrace and get ready to touch off the fireworks when the returns come in. I tell you, son, tomorrow's election is going to be a regular old fashioned, heave 'em up and keep 'em a-going landslide!"

Evan Blount was turning to go—back to the inner sitting room, where Patricia was—when he suddenly remembered little Blenkinsop.

"Don't let that worry you for a minute, son," said the man who seemed to be at the heart of everything that was happening. "Half an hour after you left Blenkinsop this morning that stuff that they had stolen from your safe and then garbled up to suit themselves was all killed. When I told Blenkinsop over the phone that there wouldn't be any crooked lists used tomorrow—that he was merely fixing to put himself on record as the biggest liar on two continents—he came down.

CHAPTER XX.

THE LANDSLIDE.

CONTRARY to all expectation, the election proved to be one of the quietest ever known in the Sagebrush State. A few editors there were, like Blenkinsop of the Daily Capital, who later on maintained that it was merely another triumph for the machine, but there was no gainsaying the result. The reform ticket, with or without the help of the machine, was elected by sweeping majorities everywhere, and Gantry, sitting in his office and reading the wire returns as they came in, gasped for breath and swore despairingly over each fresh batch of messages.

At Wartrace Hall the Hon. David turned to his son.

"Well, Evan, are the tangles all straightened out for you now?" he asked gently.

"Just about all of them," laughed Blount. He had spent a very happy evening, chiefly because Patricia had been occupying the other half of the small divan he had dragged out to face the fire. "But I'm still unalterably opposed to the machine in politics," he added.

The senator laughed silently.

"Call it 'organization' instead of 'machine,' son, and you've got the power that moves the civilized world today. You've heard me called the 'boss' from the time Gantry had his first talk with you back yonder in Massachusetts. Call me a man with friends enough to make me a sort of leader in the old home state and you've got it about right. I don't say that I've always used the power justly. The Lord knows I'm no more infallible than other people. But, as I said to you yesterday, son, no matter what you've heard or who said it, I've never used the power to fatten my own pocketbook. I've bought and trafficked and bargained—I don't deny it—but only when it seemed as though the end justified the means."

"But the end never justifies evil means, dad," was the son's steadfast rejoinder. Then he looked up quickly from his place beside Patricia. "Is that the secret of all the invitations I've been getting?"

The humorous crow's feet were wrinkling at the corners of David Blount's eyes.

"I reckon so, son," he admitted. "You have been in the hands of your friends—and they're my friends—right from the start. Mighty near everything you have done has been scheduled for you."

It was just here that the professor excused himself and stumped off to bed. Mrs. Honoria signaled to her husband and vanished in her turn. A few minutes after she had gone the senator rose and threw a fresh stick on the fire. Then he came to stand before the two on the little divan.

"Son," he said gravely, "you've got your work cut out for you, and it's a good sized job. When the legislature meets you've got to go in single handed and alone and get a handful of reasonable laws passed for your railroad You're going to have a hard fight, and there'll be times when you'll long with all your soul for some good, clean hearted little woman to go to for comfort and counsel. Of course I know that Patricia here has got another job, but"—

The senator had been out of sight and hearing for five full minutes when the young man reached over and took the hand that was lying nearest him.

"Yesterday afternoon, Patricia, when I had right and reason and logic on my side, your woman's intuition found the truer path. I know I am only one and your poor people are many, but I am still selfish enough to"—

"WE MUST LIVE OR DIE FOR EACH OTHER."

She looked up quickly, and the beautiful eyes were shining.

"We can't learn everything all at once, Evan," she said, breaking in upon his pleading. "There was one moment yesterday when I learned the greatest thing of all. It was the moment when I saw the tree lying across the road. I knew then that I—that I"—

"I know," he said gently; "you knew that we must live or die for each other. You have heard what my father has said. I can't walk in the way he has marked out for me without you, Patricia."

With a swift little love impulse she lifted his hand and pressed it to her cheek.

"You needn't, Evan, dear," she said simply.

THE END.

QUALITY FLOWER SEEDS.

One of the commonest mistakes of amateur flower lovers is that of buying cheap seeds. The grower of flowers should, above all things, have a passion for the best, and should not be content with anything else. If the seed is poor, no amount of care in culture can redeem its defects.

Try this year to plant better seeds, even if you must plant fewer. Do not sow so thickly, and consequently save some of the usual waste in thinning. A China aster full of petals to the centre is greatly to be preferred to one with the centre a mass of tubular florets, as is so commonly seen. A few large-flowered, splendid sweet peas are better than a host of small, poor ones. Patronize reliable seed houses that have reputations to sustain, and insist on getting the best seed the market affords.

Early sweet peas may very well be started in pots and transferred to the bed where they are to blossom. In this way several weeks may be gained, as the young plants get a good root growth and are a few inches high before they are taken from the pots. This method is now regularly practiced by many commercial florists for their winter flowering sweet peas, saving the benches for other flowers while the peas are getting started. It is also frequently practiced by intelligent amateurs for getting the blossoms very early out-of-doors. Try the plan this year. The last of February plant four or five sweet pea seeds in a four-inch pot or six in a five-inch pot, and place in the cellar window or in a cold frame. Do not keep in too warm a place, as the young plants need a cool, moist soil to get a good root growth. Then, when the bluebirds are warbling their welcome notes and you are planting your main crop of sweet peas out-of-doors, transfer these from the pots, disturbing the roots as little as possible. They should give you flowers in May.—Clarence Moores Weed.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. RAILROADS WIN RATE APPEAL

Order of Minnesota Commission Overruled by the Court

CHARGES HAD BEEN REDUCED

Judge Sanborn Hands Down Decree In Accordance With Recommendations of Special Master Who Ascertained Facts In the Case After Fair Trial of Reductions—State Expected to File Notice of Appeal at Once

St. Paul, April 10.—Judge Sanborn, senior United States circuit judge, Eighth judicial circuit, in an exhaustive opinion, decided the Minnesota rate cases against the members of the Minnesota state railway commission on the grounds that the necessary effect of the reduction ordered was substantially to regulate interstate commerce, to create unjust discrimination between localities in Minnesota and those in adjoining states in violation of the commercial clause of the constitution, and to take the properties of the railroad companies without just compensation in violation of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution.

The suits were brought by stockholders of the Northern Pacific Railway company, the Great Northern Railway company and the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railroad company against those companies, the attorney general and the members of the railway and warehouse commission of Minnesota to enjoin the reduction of the passenger rates in Minnesota from 3 cents to 2 cents a mile, the merchandise rates 20 percent to 25 percent, and the commodity rates 7.37 percent.

The railroad companies had put all these reductions, except that on commodity rates, into effect, and the cases were begun and tried after the effect of these reductions had become provable. Evidence in the case was given before Charles F. Otis, special master, who reported the facts and recommended decrees in favor of the stockholders.

Judge Sanborn entered decrees which affirm the report of the master and enjoin the enforcement of the reductions after June 1, 1911.

Former Attorney General of Minnesota E. T. Young, who started the rate suits against the railroads on behalf of the state, says the decision leaves the rate making power entirely in the hands of the railroads, and affects the state railway and warehouse commission so that it cannot move without consulting the federal courts. He says the state will file a notice of an appeal at once.

Won't Discuss the Decision

Washington, April 10.—Particular interest was manifested by members of the interstate commerce commission in the decision handed down by Judge Sanborn, but no comment upon it was made for publication.

The relative jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission and the various state railroad commissions always has been a matter of concern, because at any time the national and state bodies were likely to come into conflict.

DEFENDS SWEAR WORDS

Amherst Professor Declares That They Are Sometimes Necessary

Amherst, Mass., April 10.—"Swearing is as necessary as any other form of language," said Professor Andrews to an English class at Amherst college.

"When you burn your finger," he added, "you do not stop to consider what you are going to say. It is natural to break out with some swear word, some oath which has served mankind for many ages.

"Swearing is and always will be the universal language of man. Even though the exact meaning of a phrase be not known to a foreigner, still he can comprehend the nature of an expletive through its force, appropriateness and innate expressiveness."

HELD AS MURDERERS

Brothers Are Charged With Slaying Husband of Their Sister

Providence, April 10.—The police presented such a strong case concerning Frank and Antonio Zoglio, charged with murdering their cousin, Alfonso, who was the husband of their sister, Philomina Zoglio, late Saturday night, that the two were held without bail for trial, until April 25, although they pleaded not guilty.

Alfonso Zoglio was shot throug the heart, after he had tried to shoot his wife through a window, and while he was gasping his last few breaths on the sidewalk, was pounded on the head with a hammer. The men under arrest have admitted, the police say, complicity in the murder.

Little Items of Interest In Towns About Quincy

But little past the three-score milestone, and yet having celebrated her golden wedding anniversary, and having been a great grandmother for five years, Mrs. Lydia Chevigny, wife of Louis Charles Chevigny, passed away at Brockton on Thursday at her home, 35 Rutland street, aged 64 years. Her life, though filled with all the joys that crown womanhood and old age, was comparatively brief says the Enterprise and Mrs. Chevigny seemed merely in mature years when death called her. She was married at the age of 12.

W. Stanley Atherton, Randolph's boy aviator, the son of Former Selectman Winthrop B. Atherton, is coming rapidly to the front in the world of aeronautics, says the Brockton Enterprise, and has already attracted the attention of some of the leading men in the profession. He is now at work on a new model, which he expects to have ready for trial the first of June, that is expected to revolutionize aerial navigation, as it is practised today.

The Old Colony Driving Club is to open their season on the afternoon of April 19 at the South Weymouth fair grounds. The club has changed its meeting place from South Weymouth to Braintree, where they hold weekly meetings. At a meeting held last week the club voted to improve the track and also to make other improvements at the grounds. This season the club is to try to make a banner season as there are several new members admitted, who are owners of fast driving horses.

The pastor preached an excellent sermon at the Sunday morning service, taking as his text John 2:5,—"Whatsoever he said unto you, do it." "Intelligent service" was the topic. In developing the thought Mr. Davis spoke under three heads (1) The Advice; (2) The Opportunity; and (3) Preparation.

The Sunday School had only a fair attendance but the Men's class was well attended. The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting was led by R. Neal.

In the evening the pastor spoke on "The common salvation." The Bible references were John 1:37, and Rev. 22:17. He told of the Saviour, how he saved us and pointed out the peculiarity of salvation namely that it is common to all.

THE REWARD.

We sent our son to college.
We're tickled—yes, indeed!
The higher education
Has filled his every need.
It makes, past any doubting,
Success an easy thing.
A big league team, he tells us,
Will take him south this spring.

His mother hoped to see him
Well up in classic lore.
She rather leaned to writing,
But I had hoped for more.
What, pray, is bookish knowledge
Unto a pitching wing?
He'll train with the big leaguers
Down south this very spring.

It's cost us lots of trouble,
Not speaking of the cash;
But, since rewards come swiftly,
Repining would be rash.
The money and the worry—
It's all worth while, by jing!
A big league team will try him.
He trains down south this spring.

KANSAS HAS A CARNEGIE WHO GIVES AWAY RICHES.

Only Has $40,000, but Wants It Spent at Once.

Like Andrew Carnegie, John Booth, an eighty-seven-year-old resident of Manhattan, Kan., intends to give away most of his fortune before he dies. Booth of course hasn't as big a job as has the laird of Skibo, but he finds plenty to do giving away his money to projects that he feels are worthy of it.

Last fall Mr. Booth attracted attention by a gift of $1,000 which made possible the establishment of a children's playground in Manhattan. The other day he gave $2,000 to the Manhattan Young Men's Christian association, which needs funds to help it in its work.

"I have more than $40,000, and I don't need the money," Mr. Booth says. "I am eighty-seven years old, and I don't spend $40 a month."

The old philanthropist lives alone in a two room house in Manhattan. All his sons and daughters are dead, and he has no near relatives. His chief ambition now is to give away all his money before he dies, and of course there are plenty of applications for it. But Mr. Booth wishes to see that the money is going to do some good, and before any gifts can be obtained from him it is necessary to show him just how the money is to be spent and satisfy him that his gift will accomplish something.

Mr. Booth is a retired farmer, and all his money he made from the soil. For more than forty years he lived on a farm in Riley county, and here he accumulated the $40,000 which he is now devising means to get rid of.

CAMPS OUT ON SHIP'S DECK.

Hunter Sets Up Portable House When Cabin Is Filled.

Perhaps the strangest passenger accommodation ever occupied on a passenger steamship sailing out of New York recently housed James Montgomery Nelson of London on a Savannah liner. Mr. Nelson is a hunter and was bound for the Everglades of Florida. He was anxious to sail on a Saturday, but when he went to book he found that all the rooms were disposed of. He appealed to the general passenger traffic manager, who explained that there was no room on the vessel. Mr. Nelson was not discouraged.

"I will guarantee to make myself comfortable if you will let me sail," he said to the manager. "I am going to Florida to camp out. I am carrying a portable house which I built on the lines of a miniature parlor car. It is only ten feet long and seven wide, and I can set it up anywhere. It will be impossible, you say, to let me sleep in the saloon. Well, sell me a ticket and allow me to put up my little house on deck. I will be mighty comfortable, and I will be no trouble."

After considering the matter this was agreed to, and when the vessel sailed two sailors, under the direction of Mr. Nelson, set up his small house on the after deck.

A wireless message from the captain of the ship said that Nelson's house was great and the Englishman had been holding an almost continual reception since the vessel sailed.

FASHIONS FROM MIDDLE AGES

Joan of Arc Hat One Style Excavated For 1911.

Having run through the entire gamut of the comparatively modest hats, toques, beehives and the like which succeeded the picture hat of a year or so ago, the Paris milliners are turning to the middle ages for inspiration.

Old manuscripts, prints and engravings of the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries are being studied with a view to suggestions for new fashions, and the latest models from the Rue de la Paix that appear in England and America may turn out to be copies of hats worn by contemporaries of Nell Gwyn.

The Joan of Arc hat is the happiest find from the fashions of long ago. The maid's hat, a blue velvet toque with trimming of gold lace turned up at the four corners, was for two centuries in the possession of an Orleans family and after the French revolution was in the hands of one of the religious orders. Although it disappeared at that time, drawings of it were kept, and it is from these that the new fashion has been created.

THE WITTING STATUE

Unveiled by Quincy Young Lady at Worcester

One of the crowning events of the Eastern conference of Swedish Methodist churches held in Worcester last week was the unveiling of a statue of Rev. Victor Witting ,at one time pastor of St. Paul's church on Fort street, Quincy. The little granddaughter of Mr. Witting, Beryl Johnson, daughter of Oscar Johnson of Deldorf street, Quincy, unveiled the statue.

Mr. Witting came to America during the first half of the nineteenth century and was for many years a preacher in Chicago. He also edited the Swedish Methodist paper. From Chicago he came to Worcester where the greater part of his ministerial work was done. During his pastorate there he was sent to Sweden by the conference and introduced Methodism into his native country. About 15 years ago he took up the work in Quincy and was pastor for two years after which he went back to Worcester. Upon his retirement from the active ministry he came to reside in Quincy with his daughter, Miss Emma Witting who is well known here as a musician having charge of the music in the Swedish Lutheran church.

Mr. Witting died here about five years ago at the age of 81 and was taken to Worcester to be buried in the family lot. During his long and useful life, Mr. Witting did a great deal of good outside of his work as minister and editor, writing books and delivering lectures. During the last two years of his life he completed a history o fhis life, written in the Swedish language.

The statue was erected in the Swedish cemetery near the shore of Lake Quinsigamond in Worcester by the Eastern conference which he served so faithfully during his life time.

THE MERE MAN'S VIEWPOINT

WOMAN AND HER CLUB

By BYRON WILLIAMS

THERE'S a yellow streak in some people as pumpkin colored as a bed of calendull.

Today I saw a mother sobbing out her heart. From the darkened front room came the sweetly nauseous odor of tuberoses. Surrounded by white asters and lilies of the valley, his nut browned hands clasped mutely across his breast, this woman's only son lay in there asleep.

Down behind the grocery store stove old Abe Haskins helped himself to a sliver of codfish and remarked that "While it wa'n't charitable to say so now, if Mrs. Jones had paid less attention to that Browning club and more to her home the boy wouldn't have run away and got killed on the railroad."

Which not only was not charitable, but was not true. It not only was not true, but by the time the remark had reached this broken reed of a woman, steeped in woe, it was a crime—a crime committed against the purest and the most abject of God's creatures, a helpless mother, sobbing, "Oh, my boy, my boy!"

The facts are that Willie Jones did not run away and get killed because his mother, weary with the tedium of housekeeping and longing for something to divert and elevate her mind, joined the Browning club. It wasn't because she gave one day a week to endeavor to grasp hold of something above the sordid level of things that Willie went away like Robinson Crusoe and came back like Cardinal Wolsey.

On the contrary, it was because Willie, just like his mother, longed to do something different—yearned to vitalize the spark of adventure or the coal of ambition or romance, for frequently they are the same, that was within him. He went away because things were rather dull around home. He had explored the same woods all summer, gone in swimming in the same "old swimmin' hole" and had his shirt tail tied in the same old knots for epochs. He had sawed wood with the same old saw, always dull, and split kindling with the same old broken handled ax ever since the birth of floriculture. He had tagged home the same old brindle colored, contrary minded, crumply horned cow for centuries, and the night before, to add insult to injury, her wabbly legged, bang haired calf had kicked him in the apple granary of his anatomy with its snoot and made him mad.

Dwelling upon the same old Sunday school lesson and remembering that Horace Dodds, the village banker, once had told his father there wasn't much in that town for a boy to look forward to, Willie had jumped the freight and gone away. Davy Crockett had done the same thing and heaps of other great men, and why shouldn't he?

Mother, go to all the clubs you can without forcing too much fried beefsteak on to the family, but do not let your boy's hope grow dim or wander off into pirate roosts and the lairs of Lotharios. Do not let lofty ambition die within him. Keep him interested in something higher and better than putting the pool ball into the corner pocket. See that he has something to do mentally as well as physically. Keep his mind busy imagining. Keep his aspirations burnished. Keep an ideal light burning.

The government is spending $50,000 a year to improve the government mule—and it isn't spending the money in cheap restaurants for cigarettes. Don't let the mule beat the boy.

Do not be afraid of the fire in your son as long as you have control of the throttle. It is the force, the energy, the dynamo of his being. Themistocles was so full of spirit that his tutors feared for him. He became not only a great general, but a most prudent one. Keep the fire of energy under the boy and point him toward the stars—toward pure women, great men.

If you learn something worth while at the Browning club come home and tell the boy about it. Get his confidence by being his companion. Help to create a fellowship between the boy and his father, but, most of all, make him understand a mother's love. The realization of it in after years will be the greatest heritage you can leave him—the holiest of holy memories.

Blithers' Luck.

"You're in pretty good luck, ain't ye, partner?" said Si Hawkins as he drove up to where Blithers sat on his overturned automobile, which had most successfully emulated the turtle in getting over on its back.

"Ya-as," returned Silas, with a pleasant grin. "With all her machinery turned up that way ye don't hafter lie down on your back in the mud underneath her to see what's gone wrong."—Harper's Weekly.

An Animated "Dummy."

A merchant in a Kansas town is very particular to have everything in his store in proper trim. In the ladies' suit department is a dummy which is always dressed in the height of fashion and which always stands in the exact center of a certain rug. In the dusk one evening he walked in and saw the dummy out of its place. With a snort of disgust and impatience he walked over, picked it up and set it down where it belonged. To his great amazement it moved and talked some too! He had picked up a live woman.—Housekeeper.

Before the Daily Ledger starts its series of articles dealing day by day with Quincy's part in the Civil war, it is well to sum up the great sacrifices of these years from 1861 to 1865.

SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Buckley received their many friends at their home, 56 Walnut street, Atlantic, Friday evening, April 7, the event being their silver wedding anniversary.

Vocal and piano selections were rendered by Miss Driscoll. A chafing dish supper was served, the table being prettily decorated. Mr. and Mrs. Buckley were the recipients of many beautiful and costly gifts. Rev. D. W. Waldron, the minister who performed the ceremony twenty-five years ago, was unable to be present, but sent a letter of regret with silver. Friends were present from Quincy, Dorchester, Lynn, Woburn, Roxbury, Mattapan and elsewhere.

NEW TELEPHONE NUMBERS.

Quite a number of changes in telephone numbers of Quincy subscribers will be made this week. At the telephone office this morning it was stated that these changes were necessary and that they were provided for several weeks ago, so that the new numbers might appear opposite the subscribers names in the new telephone directory. This directory will be issued next Monday, and all the contemplated changes will be made before that time. Many find the frequent changing of numbers a nuisance, but the Telephone Company claim that it is necessary, and in order to avoid as little confusion as possible it was arranged that the new numbers should appear in the new directory.

DAMAGE TO MELROSE.

Repairs to the steam collier Melrose, built at Quincy, which grounded in the harbor last week, will cost about $40,000 according to reports from New York. Survey of the vessel showed that more than forty plates had been damaged, many so badly that they will have to be replaced. Others will be taken off and straightened. It is expected that the Melrose will be laid up for about a month.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The suggestion of the Daily Ledger, that Quincy take some notice of the departure of its "Minute Men" for the South, meets with favor from Mayor Shea, Grand Army men and other citizens. April 15, 1861, was the date Col. Abner B. Packard of the 4th Massachusetts regiment, M. V. M., received orders to report in Boston the next day. Quincy was the headquarters of the regiment at that time, but the companies were scattered throughout the Old Colony towns, as far as Taunton. The daily instalments of "Quincy in the Civil War" now being published in the Ledger will tell of the prompt response of these companies.

Lowell will celebrate on April 19. Cambridge will celebrate on April 17. But Quincy is entitled to celebrate two days earlier—April 15. Two days, in fact two hours, meant much in those days, for the 4th Massachusetts was only an hour or two ahead of the 6th Massachusetts in leaving Boston, and the 4th Massachusetts was the fire Northern regiment to reach Virginia.

The Daily Ledger would be pleased to hear from all citizens who are interested in an impromptu celebration on Saturday of this week. A mass meeting will probably be held at City Hall to be addressed by local men.

Here are the plans of Cambridge. Arrangements for the observance of the departure of the first volunteer company from Cambridge for the war of the rebellion on April 17, 1861, have been practically completed.

A well attended meeting of the First Volunteers Citizen's association was held Saturday night at city hall in that city, Maj. Gen. William A. Bancroft presiding, and the reports from the various sub-committees were most encouraging. Tickets for the banquet, to be held in Memorial hall, have been disposed of in large numbers.

Citizens and storekeepers along the route of the parade have signified their intention of decorating in honor of the occasion. Maj. Gen. Bancroft, chief marshal of the parade, has issued the following instructions:

"The following organizations, having accepted the invitation of the association to act as escort to the surviving members of the first volunteer company, will please report at the State armory, Massachusetts avenue, on Monday, April 17, 1911, at 4.45 P. M. sharp, Cos. E. C. and A., 8th regiment infantry; 6th company, coast artillery corps; troop C. 1st squadron cavalry, Massachusetts national guard Leslie F. Hunting camp, 12, United Spanish war veterans; Col. T. W. Higginson camp, Sons of Veterans; J. C. Wellington camp, Sons of Veterans; William H. Smart post, G. A. R., Charles Beck post, G. A. R.; P. Stearns Davis post, G. A. R.; John A. Logan post, G. A. R.

"The parade will form on Massachusetts avenue near the State armory and starting at 4:50 P. M. will move over the following route; Massachusetts avenue, Harvard square, Peabody street, Cambridge street, to Memorial hall where the guests including the G. A. R. posts, will leave the . The remainder of the escort will proceed over Cambridge and Columbia streets and Massachusetts avenue to the State armory to continue the celebration."

Quincy likewise should observe the 50th anniversary of the departure of its company—Co. H.

That the Democrats of the new Congress consider the extra session a happy opportunity to make political pabulum for the presidential election next year is evident. Mr. Bryan is on hand and he is more conspicuous in the hotel lobbies and at the Capitol than any Democrat among them. Gov. Harmon of Ohio is also in Washington. Speaker Clark the new presidential aspirant, is making himself heard on subjects relevant and irrelevant and bids fair to submerge himself in remarks and explanations.

FROM TAXPAYERS POINT OF VIEW

Street Railway Causing Expensive Street Widenings

Editor Daily Ledger:

At the meeting of the Council the other evening several citizens spoke in favor of widening Hancock street, as it was becoming badly congested. Hancock street now is about eighty feet in width. The necessity for this widening is due to the fact that the tracks of the trolley railroad take up so much room that the street is, at times, badly crowded.

Now if the trolley freight station were located upon Washington street, which is only thirty-one and a half feet from curb to curb, would it not be far more imperative to widen that street already too narrow and crowded because of the one track there? What will it be when a second track is laid, which must be added if the station is located there.

The widening of these streets mean very heavy land damages and the cost will be large. Who is to pay for all this? Not the railroad, although this expense is incurred upon their account. It means that the taxpayers of Quincy will have to pay a large increase in taxes which already most of us find very burdensome and heavy.

The railroad can with its camera, judging from their pictures, in your paper, transform a narrow street into a wide boulevard, but the city cannot so easily widen our streets as can this magical camera.

Do we wish to put our hands down deeper into our pockets that the railroad may obtain a location, objectionable in almost every respect, when a location can be found which will not necessitate such an expense?

With two streets to widen will not our taxes soar to a tremendous extent? We may put off widening Washington street for some time but not if a freight location is granted there. We look to our Council to reduce rather than increase our expenses, if possible.

A slur is also cast at the character of the buildings near the proposed trolley station site. The modest unpretentious dwellings, however, represent the homes of some of our good citizens and taxpayers. These homes are associated with pleasant and tender memories perhaps and are dear to the hearts of the people who live there, for these buildings, however plain or simple they may be, mean "Home." What chance have these people against a large and rich corporation who wish to disturb this neighborhood if our Council does not come to their assistance and protect them?

Is it not wise to look ahead? In the march of progress, these buildings, may, in a few years time, give way to substantial building blocks while a freight station with its yard filled with cars or piled up with unsightly freight will remain a fixture.

Let our taxpayers reflect before granting a location which means, an increase of taxes to them and an inconvenience and eyesore to our city.

"A Tax Payer."

TOM JOHNSON PASSES AWAY

Succumbs to Sickness Which Had Lasted a Year

POOR BOY TO MILLIONAIRE

Fortune Sacrificed In Efforts to Save Estate of Brother to Latter's Family—Achieved Great Success as Street Railway Magnate—Served In Congress and Was Five Times Chosen Mayor of Cleveland

Cleveland, April 11.—Tom L. Johnson, twice congressman from the Twenty-First Ohio district, five times mayor of Cleveland, champion of 3-cent railway fares and prominent advocate of the single tax theories of the late Henry George, died here last night. Death was caused by cirrhosis of the liver. He was 57 years old.

Mr. Johnson had been ill for more than a year, but his condition was not thought serious until he suffered a relapse on March 15. Besides his wife Mr. Johnson is survived by one son, Joffin, and a daughter, Mrs. Bessie Mariani.

The death of Johnson removes one of the most picturesque figures in American public life and ended a career that raced from poverty to millions, and through altruistic fidelity to principle, fell from wealth to less than affluence, all this within a comparatively brief lifetime.

His ancestry traced back to a great-great-grandfather who came to America in 1714, and Tom L. Johnson had relatives among all the famous families of the south. His father was a cotton planter in Arkansas at the beginning of the Civil war. At its end the family was penniless in Staunton, Va. Young Johnson began to retrieve the family fortunes at the age of 11 by selling newspapers on the only train that ran to Staunton. He made $68 in a few weeks, which sum paid the fares of all to Louisville, where they were at home.

Tom L. Johnson was born in Scott county, Kentucky, and after financiering the return of his clan to his native state he got some schooling and then went to work as a street car conductor. Soon he was superintendent and his father was chief of police.

Invention of a fare box gave to the boy his first capital. He got an interest in the street car line and went to Indianapolis to buy a tram line there.

William H. English sold it to him for $50,000, mostly in notes. Johnson built up the property rapidly, gave to Indianapolis the best service it had ever known and made money. Within a brief period Chicago capitalists bought his Indianapolis tram system for about twenty times as much as he had paid for it.

He bought a Cleveland suburban horse car line and undertook to extend it all over that city in competition with the lines of the late Mark A. Hanna. In the meantime trolley power came into use. Johnson invented a girder rail for trolley tracks and was making a large fortune out of their manufacture.

He won his fight in Cleveland and within a few years his lines paralleled those of his rivals. He had paved streets to get franchises and increased employes' pay to about 75 percent, at the same time reducing a working day's length to ten hours. His younger brother, Albert, was his aid in these enterprises.

From Cleveland Johnson extended his trolley holding to Detroit and New York.

Soon thereafter he was induced to go into politics, and in a rock-ribbed Republican district in Cleveland was very narrowly defeated for congress. He won the seat by an overwhelming majority in 1890 and represented the district from 1891 to 1895. His sayings and doings in Washington made him famous.

In 1901 Johnson was elected mayor of Cleveland, and was re-elected four successive terms. On taking office he refused to renew any of the city tramway franchises except upon a 3-cent basis. The companies declined, but continued to operate, whereupon Johnson tore up their tracks and replaced them with rails of the Municipal Traction company, to which he had given years of work and much of his large fortune.

The 3-cent fare principle did not work continuously to advantage, and in 1908 the situation was such that a compromise met general approval. Johnson declined to yield and was defeated for re-election.

His financial downfall, which soon followed, was due in large part to his efforts to save the estate of his brother Albert to the latter's family. His traction fight and political campaign and the 1907 panic stress upon financial institutions he had founded and conducted upon somewhat altruistic principles all combined to divide his attention and his forces.

NO GROSS INJUSTICE

Ex-President Roosevelts Comments on the Y. M. C. A.

Editor Daily Ledger:

The Daily Ledger of April 7 reports ex-President Roosevelt as saying at Reno, Nevada, that he had not known until a recent controversy arose, that Catholics and Jews were denied the right of holding positions on the managerial boards of the association. This he charactarized as "gross injustice."

Many will doubt his first statement, and possibly but few will see where the "gross injustice" comes in. Protestants frequently give liberally to the support of Roman Catholic institutions, but who ever heard of one who complained that he was not allowed on the boards of management?

All contributions to Y. M. C. A. are entirely voluntary. If a Jew contributes he does so because of the secular advantages of the association to all young men, and not for its religious work, for which in the nature of things he cares nothing.

The Y. M. C. A. carries on religious work, and rightly seeks out for its managerial boards men in full sympathy with all branches of its work, and in order to remain true to its history and the object for which it was founded, it must remain christian, or become a mere secular club, without any national or international affiliations.

A christian is on who believes in Christ, and the doctrines taught by him concerning himself—sin, salvation, etc., and which the Apostles taught the early church. A company of such believers found an association to do the work their Master would do for men, and necessarily they must believe Christ's words concerning himself.

To quote briefly:—"Came to save that which was lost." "To give his life a ransom for many." "Blood shed for remissions of sins." "Not to call the righteous but sinners to repentance." "The way the truth and the life." "I and my Father are one." "No man cometh to the Father but by me." "Hereafter shall ye see the son of man sitting on the right hand of power and coming in the clouds of Heaven."

The Apostles declared that he is the "One Mediator" the "one foundation." "Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved." Not Moses, Budda, the Virgin Mary, Angels or Saints but the one name.

People may call themselves what they please; or claim to be some great thing, but if they are deniers of the teachings of Christ or if they explain them away, or bury them beneath mountains of human philosophy, beyond the reach of the common people they cannot truly call themselves followers of Christ, and should not seek to control work in which they have only a slight interest.

The Y. M. C. A. has for years past done a grand work for men physically and mentally. There is no coercion or compulsion used—neither in the rooms nor outside to get the unwilling to attend the religious meetings of the Association. Such as come are welcome, and are as a rule made better men morally by such truths as they receive there.

One of the Common People.

The Daily Ledger will continue to review Quincy's part in the Civil war with anniversary instalments almost daily. April was a particularly eventful month, as it saw both the beginning and the end of the war.

All Quincy veterans of the Civil War are invited to assist the Daily Ledger in making these anniversary reminiscences of the war of value. As far as possible events will be chronicled in order beginning in 1861. Those who are in possession of letters sent home from the front in 1861 are requested to make a copy of the same or parts of the same, and forward promptly to Frank F. Prescott. They should reach the office, if possible, a week in advance of their date. That is a letter of May 1, 1861, should be forwarded before April 25. All the April letters should be forwarded at once. These letters will deal wholly with Quincy's part in the Civil War, which will be news to 90 percent of the citizens of today.

QUINCY SHOULD CELEBRATE.

Saturday of this week—April 15—will be the 50th anniversary of the day when Quincy was aroused as it never has been since, by Lincolns call for 75,000 volunteers. The Daily Ledger suggests that there be an impromptu celebration on that date. That the church bells be rung, that flags be displayed everywhere, that a mass meeting be held in the evening with local speakers, Grand Army men and others. That there be cannon salutes, fireworks and a grand hurrah!

WALTER BURRELL IN BOSTON.

Walter B. Burrell, who was stricken with a shock several weeks ago while on his way home from Savannah, and taken to the Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore, arrived in Boston on Monday. When he was taken to the Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore, Chief Burrell, his brother, went on and remained with his brother several days until he was thought to be on the road to recovery. As soon as it was thought advisable Walter again started for home by boat. On the way however he sustained another shock, and was in a serious condition when the boat reached Boston. Chief Burrell met the boat and had Walter removed to the Relief hospital until arrangements could be made to remove him to Quincy.

The passage up from Baltimore by boat was very rough and Walter was obliged to remain in his bunk all of the time. Two hours before docking he had what the physician on the boat called an epeleptic shock. It is thought that he will recover from this shock sufficiently to be removed to Quincy, although it will be necessary for him to remain at the Relief hospital for a few days.

When Chief Burrell visited the Relief hospital this morning he found his brother Walter resting comfortably. It will be necessary, however, for him to remain there a day or two when he will be removed to the Quincy City Hospital.

NORTH DAKOTA AT BOSTON

Battleship Rhode Island Also Expects

The big battleship North Dakota, built at Quincy, arrived at Charlestown navy yard Monday afternoon from the southern drill grounds, the first of the six battleships that are to come here for docking and repairs.

Today the battleship Georgia, flagship of Rear Admiral Thomas R. Howard, commanding the fourth division, and battleships Virginia, Rhode Island and Nebraska are expected. April 25 the Delaware, a sister ship of the North Dakota, will arrive from Valparaiso, Chile, where she took the body of the Chilean minister, Anibal Cruz.

The North Dakota left the drill grounds Saturday morning. That night a heavy storm drove the ship off its course to some extent, despite the vessel's great power. Some of the sailors declare it was the worst they ever encountered. No damage was done, however.

Capt. Gleaves was in communication by wireless with the Charlestown yard from early Monday morning, says the Globe. He was delayed in getting a pilot and waited several hours to come in with the flood tide.. Today the North Dakota will be floated into drydock. This ship and the Delaware will have all except their underwater repairs done at the New York Yard.

Three hundred of the North Dakota's crew came ashore on furloughs of 12 days. The men can report back to the ship here or at New York.

The Rhode Island will not be drydocked, as it recently lost a propeller and was drydocked at Norfolk. The ship will be placed in reserve here June 1.

With the arrival of the fourth division today there will be eight modern battleships at the Charlestown yard, taxing the berthing space.

The Georgia will lay on the west side of pier 2, nearest to the main entrance. The Illinois, which is being rehabilitated, was towed down Monday and placed between piers 2 and 3, adjacent to the Constitution. The North Dakota will berth on the west side of pier 4. The Nebraska on the west side of pier 5, and the Virginia on the west side of pier 6. That Rhode Island will have the furthermost berth on the east side of pier 8.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

A party of Juniors accompanied by Mr. Gumb and Mr. Clee took a hike about Boston on Monday visiting the State House, Public Library, Boston Y. M. C. A. and the Youth's Companion building.

The Atlantic club had its regular weekly meeting Monday evening.

The Juniors were called out for baseball practice this morning.

The Quincy Adams club will meet this evening in the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church. The younger boys will debate on the question—Resolved, that the United States was justified in sending troops to Mexico. A social and refreshments will follow.

If the weather becomes a little warmer Mr. Clee plans to take a party of boys to South Hanover, where the summer camp was located last year, for an overnight hike. They will start Wednesday morning and return Thursday afternoon.

"The Country Minister" will be rehearsed by members of the Quincy Adams club Wednesday evening.

There will be a rehearsal of "College Chums" Thursday evening at 9.30.

The Wollaston club will meet in the Wollaston Baptist church, Thursday evening.

A baseball game between the Intermediates and the Employed Boys will be played Saturday afternoon.

The Juniors will go on a hike on Saturday, probably striking out for Hyde Park.

Mr. Clee has made final arrangements for the location of the summer camp. It will be situated in Rindge, N. H., on the shore of Thorndike pond, and will be pitched the first of July for two weeks. The pond is of good size, about five miles long by one mile wide, and is under the brow of old Mount Monadnock, an ideal place for a camp.

Saving Valuable Time

THE telephone saves the painter a great deal of valuable time. He don't have to run around for every little thing he wants. He gets it quicker by phone than on foot.

In the same way if you want a painter to do some work the quickest way to place the order is by telephone. He gets started without delay.

It's the universal Bell service that makes it invaluable to both. It is always a convenience and often a necessity. There are 5,000,000 telephones in the Bell system.

It will pay you to have a telephone. The Local Manager will be glad to tell you about the low cost.

BRIEFS

Wollaston Alliance has its annual meeting tomorrow afternoon.

Quincy members of the Shriners will attend the theatre party at the Shubert Tuesday afternoon and evening, April 18.

Mrs. Janet McClellan and Miss May Birnie of Phipps street have gone to Kittery, Maine, to spend the Easter holidays with Mrs. Charles Williams.

Tomorrow Quincy Alliance is to hold an all day neighborhood meeting in First Church chapel beginning at 11 o'clock with luncheon at noon and an interesting program in the afternoon.

A party of young people gathered at the home of Andrew Stewart, Whitwell street, Monday evening to assist Mary Stewart in celebrating a birthday. The evening was spent in playing games, listening to good music, and in devouring the plentiful supply of ices and cake which had been prepared. Among the handsome presents received was a gold watch, given by her father and mother.

HOLIDAY GAME.

The Quincy Ramblers are coming out on Patriots' day at Merrymount Park, against the strong Beacon Chambers team of Boston, which includes some players of note such as the battery, Kelly of East Boston and Soule Barmly with the Lynn Association. The infield will be played by Levins, Ward, Hussey and Quinn, while Steele, Johnson and Toleman will play the outfield.

Rice and Chapman will probably divide the pitching, while "Bootus" Chapman will direct things behind the bat. Makaria has been trying hard to get Manning on second, but they have found that "Bill" knows the Ramblers are here to stay. Fowler will be on first this year and "Peany" Caine on the third station. "Vive" McCarty will still be on his plot at short. In the outfield are Conway, Oliver, L. Chapman and Gilbert.

The Ramblers are starting out strong and intend to pull off larger games than last season, and all the fans that may come to Merrymount Park or Ward Six this year will see a game worth while. And don't forget by the way that there will be a benefit for the Ramblers pulled off at Music hall, May 2, given by the most popular school girls in this city.

MICHAEL LINK'S SUDDEN DEATH

Important Witness In Lorimer Case Is Found Dead

IS A VICTIM OF APOPLEXY

Had Testified That He Was Participant In Bi-Partisan Coup Which Elected Lorimer and Received Share of "Jackpot"—Indicted on Perjury Charge and Turned State's Evidence, Obtaining Immunity

Edwardsville, Ills., April 11.—Michael S. Link, one of the chief witnesses against Senator William Lorimer, who admitted that he had accepted a bribe to cast his vote for Lorimer, was found dead in the bathroom of his home here. A doctor pronounced his death due to apoplexy.

Link was one of the four men who confessed that they had received their share of the Lorimer jackpot from "Bathroom Bob" Wilson in the bathroom of a St. Louis hotel. He was a member of the Browne faction in the legislature which elected Lorimer. He obtained immunity by appearing for the state.

After the Lorimer bribery charges were aired, Link was taken before State Attorney Wayman of Cook county and testified that he had taken part in the bi-partisan coup which elected Lorimer, and that on June 21, 1909, he had received $1000 as his share of the jackpot.

Part of the money was paid to him, he said, by Robert E. Wilson, the intimate friend and representative of Lee O'Neil Browne, in a private bathroom in the Souther hotel in St. Louis.

Link, with Holstlaw, Beckmeyer and White, the others who confessed that they had been paid for their votes for Lorimer, was a witness in both trials of Lee O'Neil Browne.

After Link's perjury indictment was withdrawn he issued the statement that he had never accepted a bribe, that $5000 was a gift and that it had no bearing on the Lorimer-Hopkins contest.

Link's death occurred on the eve of the resumption of the investigation of the Lorimer election by the Holm committee of the Illinois legislature. The work is to be taken up Thursday.

A statement was given out Sunday that every member of the former legislature who voted for Lorimer would be subpoenaed. Link frequently had said to friends that he had told all he knew and did not want to be questioned again. He was 52 years of age. A widow and two daughters survive him.

A week ago Link celebrater the twenty-fifth anniversary of his wedding. He told his guests he had heart trouble and knew he was going to die suddenly. He said he had made all arrangements for his estate if he should die. Link was manager of the 3000-acre farm of John J. Mitchell of Chicago.

BUILDING COLLAPSES

One Man Hurt, While Fifteen Others Narrowly Escape Death

Salem, Mass., April 11.—The two-and-a-half-story wooden machine pany collapsed yesterday afternoon, owing to weakened foundations, caused by heavy rains. Patrick Kelley was hurt. His condition is serious.

Fifteen men were at work in the building when the crash came. All but Kelley had miraculous escapes.

The building was filled with tons of heavy machinery. The company manufactured all kinds of leather working machinery and most of it was of an extremely heavy type.

The entire building was wrecked. As the upper floors fell the side walls crashed outward.

SPHINX RIDDLE SOLVED

Tomb of Monarch Who Ruled Egypt Nearly 5000 Years Ago

Boston, April 11.—The mystery of the Egyptian Sphinx has been solved by Professor George E. Reisner of Harvard, who announced the solution of the famous puzzle at the opening of the exhibition of the Harvard Egyptian expedition collection at the Boston museum of fine arts.

Professor Reisner, who was in charge of the expedition, said the Sphinx was the tomb of Cephr Cephren, an Egyptian ruler of the fourth dynasty, who ruled 2850 B. C. "The head of the Sphinx is the portrait of Cephren, the king who built the second pyramid," said Reisner.

Conspiracy to Smuggle Chinese Is Charged Against Three Bostonians

Boston, April 11.—Waiving examination and acting as their own lawyers, Goodman Phillips, Harvey C. Daly and George M. B. Gardenier, arrested on a charge that they had conspired to smuggle Chinamen into this state from Jamaica, were held for the action of the grand jury by Commissioner Hayes of the United States court.

Bail was fixed at $5000 for Phillips and $3000 each for the other two men. The wives of Phillips and Daly appeared in the federal building and held a long conference with their husbands.

THREE HUNDRED ARE REPORTED MISSING

Many Girls May Have Perished In the Tokio Fire

Tokio, April 11.—Fire is still burning in the Yoshiwara quarter, where four square miles of buildings of the city's tenderloin were destroyed by flames. After fighting the flames for twenty-four hours, troops and firemen were exhausted, but the conflagration is under control.

The damage is estimated at $2,000,000. The hospitals are crowded with injured girls and nearly 300 are unaccounted for. Seven thousand are homeless. Many of the missing are believed dead, but it will be impossible to start a search in the ruins for many hours.

The fire is believed to have orginated in one of the numerous opium houses with which the place abounds. The denizens of the quarter, long used to the rigid discipline of the city, are herded together, giving the soldiers no trouble. The government faces a serious problem in the housing of them.

GETS A YEAR IN JAIL

Parker Wrongfully Sought Money From Christian Scientists

Boston, April 11.—Samuel G. Parker was sentenced to one year in Cambridge jail by Judge Dodge in the United States district court on a charge of having used the mails in a scheme to defraud 1100 first readers of the Church of Christ, Scientist, in this country and abroad.

Under the name of Eli N. Dow, Parker solicited through the mails subscriptions to a secret fund which he said was intended for the recovery of the property which Mrs. Eddy bequeathed to the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, and which is now in the custody of the courts pending litigation.

RAIN ADDS TO MISERY

Food and Supplies For Chinese Famine Relief Are Inadequate

Washington, April 11.—The fund and supplies available for the relief of the starving people of China are wholly inadequatel and the death rate is increasing, according to a cablegram received by the state department from American Consul General Wilder at Shanghai.

The cargo of the United States transport Buford, which arrived in Chinese waters, will afford relief at certain points, for about fifteen days, Wilder added. Continued rainfall is increasing the distress.

Aeroplane Circles Dirigible

MEXICAN TALE A FABRICATION

No Treaty Between the Republic and Japanese

TAFT NAILS A WAR SCARE

Foster of Vermont Sees Criminal Conspiracy to Create Strife Between Friendly Nations by Those Who Want Not Less Than Two Battleships Built Every Year—Malicious Propaganda Is Generally Denounced

Washington, April 11.—President Taft moved swiftly to squelch the latest Japanese war scare story. Incidentally a member of the senate committee on foreign relations revealed some of the reasons which the president has given that committee and the committee on foreign affairs for the mobilization of troops on the Texas border.

Through Senator Burton of Ohio, the president made an emphatic denial of the report from Mexico City that a proposed treaty between Japan and Mexico caused the movement of troops to Texas.

"The president authorizes me," said Burton, "to deny in most emphatic terms the story from Mexico City about a secret treaty between Mexico and Japan. There is not one word of truth in it."

Senator Bacon of Georgia, ranking minority member of the foreign relations committee, after a talk with the president declared that Taft was surprised and indignant at the reports implicating Japan and Mexico.

"You can put the whole story down as absurd," said Bacon. "The president has talked to me and to other members of the committee and explained the reasons for sending the troops south. There was danger of widespread revolution and perhaps anarchy in Mexico. The president acted quickly and decisively. He believed that the army should be on the border ready for any emergency when congress met."

Senators and representatives, members of the senate committee on foreign relations and of the house committee on foreign affairs are unanimous in their condemnation of the story.

"I can say emphatically and without a reservation of any kind that the story is a malicious fabrication," declared Representative Foster of Vermont, chairman of the house committee on foreign affairs of the last congress and ranking Republican member of the committee in this congress.

"President Taft showed me the entire correspondence between himself and Ambassador Wilson and I give my word of honor that the name of Japan did not once appear in that correspondence.

"I am absolutely convinced that there is a criminal conspiracy on foot for the purpose of bringing on a war footing between the United States and Japan. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are being spent to carry on this propaganda and I am confident that the plans of these conspirators will unfold themselves before very long.

"I am convinced that this constant agitation for a war between the two nations is nothing but a subterfuge employed by those people who are determined that this government shall build not less than two battleships each year. To endanger the friendly relations of two great nations in order that certain selfish interests may be gratified is nothing short of criminal."

Mr. Foster's sentiments are echoed in part by senators to whom President Taft showed the correspondence between himself and Ambassador Wilson. Several senators, when informed of Foster's views about the battleship propaganda being behind the war talk, declared that there was something bigger than a two-battleship-a-year movement on foot.

"This is the most malicious propaganda that has ever come to my attention," said Senator Lodge. "As a member of the senate committee on foreign relations, President Taft showed me the correspondence with Ambassador Wilson. The name of Japan does not appear in any portion of that correspondence.

"I am not at liberty to disclose the nature of the information communicated to this government by Ambassador Wilson, but I am able to state in the most emphatic terms that there is not the slightest justification for the constant reiteration of this war story about the United States and Japan."

Tartar General Assassinated

Hong Kong, April 11.—A Tartar general was assassinated at Canton by an anti-Manchu fanatic, who lodged four bullets in the general's head. The general's bodyguard dispersed in panic. The police arrested the assassin.

Fisher Formally Nominated

Washington, April 11.—President Taft formally sent to the senate the nomination of Walter L. Fisher of Illinois, to be secretary of the interior.

WOULD VIOLATE THE LAW

Mellen Opposes State Plan For Railroad Rate Investigation

Concord, N. H., April 11.—Maintaining that the plan for investigating the Boston and Maine railroad rates in New Hampshire, adopted recently by the legislature, would make him subject to the penalties under the Hepburn rate law for rebating, President Mellen protests, in a letter made public last night, against certain features of the proposition to settle the railroad traffic question in this state.

Under the plan of investigation adopted by the legislature, the Boston and Maine may continue its present traffic rates for another year on the understanding that if any of these rates are found by the investigating committee to be excessive or illegal, the road may be sued for the excess charges.

Mellen objects to this, maintaining that it would force him to pay rebates to certain shippers in violation of the Hepburn rate law.

RECIPROCITY COMES FIRST

Passage of Agreement In the Senate Now Seems Assured

Washington, April 11.—Canadian reciprocity will be made the first important business of the house by the Democrats and will pass the senate, notwithstanding all efforts at obstruction, according to information about the Capitol.

The senate is not expected to take kindly to the reciprocity bill, but it is stated by one of the most influential of senators that a favorable vote will be taken before the close of the session.

The Democrats have been moved to take up reciprocity first partly by the assurance of the president that he will take no advantage of his power to prorogue congress and partly by the belief, if not knowledge, that the president will sign a tariff whose provisions are not radical.

EXPENDITURES AT THE STATE FARM

Are Without Satisfactory Safeguards, Says Governor Foss

Boston, April 11.—Governor Foss sent to the legislature the preliminary report of C. L. Harpham, business economist and engineer, who was sent to Bridgewater to investigate the state farm there.

The governor complains about the state farm that no purchasing system is in operation, that bids are not solicited for food supplies, that there are "grave irregularities in the manner of disposing of money, that the foreman of construction has drawn approximately $200,000 in fifteen years for the hiring of laborers, and that as a rule there are no receipts on file to prove what distribution of this money was made; that there are no receipts to show what a state agent paid for live stock or whom he bought it from; that the treasurer of the farm is permitted to draw additional sums for service, although he gets a salary of $2500, and that while the payroll for 1910 amounted to less than $100,000, more than $300,000 was spent for food, materials and other expenses without satisfactory safeguards."

GRAND TRUNK FAVORED

May Get More Than It Asked From Providence City Committee

Providence, April 11.—The city committee on the Grand Trunk railway charter has not only favored the Canadian company's request to the legislature that it be allowed to cross the tracks of its rival, the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, to reach tidewater, but has gone a step further and suggested that it use the tracks of the New Haven company.

The recommendations are contained in resolutions adopted at a meeting of the committee and which were presented to the city council last night. The committee believes that by using part of the New Haven's tracks only one grade crossing will be necessary instead of the two requested.

LONG TERMS IN PRISON

Five Members of Black Hand Band Punished In New Jersey

Newark, N. J., April 11.—Seven years at hard labor in state prison was the sentence given each of four leaders of a Black Hand band in the common pleas court.

A fifth, a wealthy Italian, was sentenced to a three years' term. The quintet were convicted of drugging and robbing two men, largely on the testimony of a woman confederate who turned state's evidence.

WORLD IN BOSTON SOON TO OPEN

Great Missionary Exposition to Have 20,000 Demonstrators

EXHIBITS FROM MANY LANDS

Entire Mechaniics Building In Boston to Be Occupied For Four Weeks Beginning April 22nd—Native Life and Mission Work All Over the World Will Be Shown In Brilliant Scenes

Preparations for the great missionary exposition officially known as "The World in Boston," toward which for months past, the interest of church leaders, Christian workers and business men of Boston and a considerable section of New England, has been directed, is rapidly maturing, and on Saturday, April 22, the doors will open. This notable religious undertaking, the significant name of which has become familiar to multitudes through the columns of the newspapers, will occupy the entire Mechanics building on Huntington avenue, Boston, for a period of four weeks.

An appropriate program, embracing addresses by leading speakers, will inaugurate the opening on April 22, of this unique demonstration of the great enterprise of missions. Samuel B. Capen, LL. D., of Boston, chairman of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions; Bishop William Lawrence, of Episcopal diocese of eastern Massachusetts; President W. H. Faunce of Brown university, Providence, R. I.; Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., president of the United and World's Society of Christian Endeavor; Miss Caroline Hazard, former president of Wellesley college, are among the officials of the undertaking, and from among them will be delegated those who are to take part in the opening program. Other speakers on the opening day will be Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery of Rochester, N. Y., who will represent the women's missionary organizations, and Dr. Booker T. Washington, president of Tuskegee institute.

Preparations for the exposition began two years ago. With the passing months details have been worked out for the presentation in the concrete of the meaning of the word "Missions." To this end features from all parts of the world have been secured and a multitude of volunteers, called stewards, numbering almost 20,000, have been enrolled, instructed and drilled to take part in the exposition. These 20,000 stewards come from nearly 500 churches in Boston and its suburbs, and through study and much practice by rehearsal, have fitted themselves to describe the exhibits, answer questions and give detailed and intelligent information to visitors, impersonating the people of the country to which they are assigned and wearing the native dress.

There will be actual scenes from many countries. Japan will be depicted by a Japanese street and a beautiful scene from that attractive country as nearly true to life as it is possible to make it. A tall pagoda will dominate the Chinese village. In the India section will be a Kali temple and a Zenana, the women's apartments in the home of an India gentleman. Another foreign scene is an African village, with real Congo huts, an idol's house and a missionary's home. Mohammedan lands will be represented in smaller scenes. In contrast with the methods of the native doctors of pagan lands, Medical Missions are to be demonstrated.

Several large sections of the Exposition are to be devoted to scenes depicting the evangelising effort made along Home Mission lines.

On the second floor of the great Exposition building there may be seen a comprehensive exhibit of Educational Missions. Other features which will have a place are tableaux of every day scenes in the home life of all peoples and moving pictures of native life and of the work of missions in all parts of the world.

One of the interesting features of "The World in Boston" will be the demonstrations made by the stewards in the various scenes. At stated times during each day they will take part in some life-like illustration of the native life of the non-Christian countries to which they are assigned. The picture shows two women in the African village demonstrating the pounding of grain by native Africans and the preparation of the flour thus formed, for food.

AFRICAN VILLAGE SCENE

The musical feature of the Exposition is the Pageant of Darkness and Light, to be presented every afternoon and evening in the great pageant hall. More than 3500 people have volunteered for the choir and platform of the Pageant. There are five episodes covering the four quarters of the earth, north, south, east and west, with a closing scene, in each of which 200 persons will take part. The music is difficult, but beautiful. There are not only grand hymns, but choruses which thrill with their intensity, marches which make the hearer beat time involuntarily and selections which are highly dramatic or tragic. The Pageant was presented in London in 1908 to crowds of people every day. It was regarded there as one of the greatest religious spectacles of the century.

Those who have been chosen as soloists include Miss Blanche Towle of Boston, as soprano; Miss Adelaide Griggs of East Somerville, Mass., as contralto; Mrs. Francis Annesley of London, Eng., mezzo-soprano; Mr. Henry Gurney of Philadelphia, tenor; Mr. Frank Conly of Philadelpia, bass; Mr. William Gustafson, Jr., of Boston, as baritone.

GENERAL VIEW OF "THE ORIENT IN LONDON"

WORLD IN BOSTON HAS FINE POSTER

Design of Great Missionary Exposition, Becoming Known Throughout New England

The official poster of "The World in Boston," bearing the design of the cross and the Arab, is becoming very familiar throughout New England. It is one of the means by which the great Missionary Exposition to be held in the Mechanics building, Boston, from April 22 to May 20, is being made known.

"THE WORLD IN BOSTON" POSTER

The design is used on "The World in Boston" stamps, of which nearly a million have been issued; an attractive button bears the same picture; the cover of the Exposition Herald has the cross and the figure and it will be seen also on the handbook and on the programs. The posters which are appearing on the billboards and the cards in the Boston street cars also carry the same characteristic design, and it has been been reproduced in a small size to hang in churches.

An idea of the striking poster may be had from the picture. The cross, which bears a view of the city of Boston, is blue, and the ground tint is yellow. The robe of the figure is gray and the lettering is red, there being four colors and many tints.

LEGACY OF $1,000,000

Relinquished by Baltimore Widow to Wed For Second Time

Philadelphia, April 11.—It will cost Mrs. Kate F. Elkins, widow of William L. Elkins, Jr., something like $1,000,000 to marry William D. Neilson, a local clubman. Their engagement was announced yesterday afternon. No date has been set for the wedding.

When Elkins died some years ago he left realty to the value of $1,250,000 and personal property of greater value. Mrs. Elkins gets her dower in the property, but in his will Elkins left her the bulk of his fortune.

In his will, however, he tied a string to the legacy, which provided that in case Mrs. Elkins should remarry the princely fortune should go to the two children, Mrs. Elkins relinquishing her share of the estate.

As Mrs. Elkins is immensely wealhy in her own right she probably will not feel the pangs of hunger when she relinquishes the fortune of her husband upon her second marriage.

SLAYERS OF CUOCCOLOS

Names Given by One of Prisoners In Trial of Camorrists

Viterbo, April 11.—There was another scene of tumult in the assize court during the Camorrist trial when Giacomo Ascrittore, one of the witnesses, upon the stand, swore that the real murderers of Gennaro Cuoccolo and Maria Cuoccolo were Gaetano Amadeo and Tomasso de Angelis, two of the fellow prisoners of Enrico Alfano in the steel cage.

The witness recently made it known to Crown's Prosecutor Santero that he was prepared to corroborate the confession of Gennaro Abatemaggio, the informer.

His charges against Amadeo and de Angelis indicate that he is prepared to try to save the lives of the other defendants accused of the Cuoccolo murders. Ascrittore also charges Amadeo with participating in other crimes.

CHARGE IS CHANGED TO MANSLAUGHTER

Asylum Attendant Must Explain Death of Inmate

Worcester, Mass., April 11.—Following the death of Robert Stewart, the 70-year-old inmate of the state asylum, who was plunged into a bathtub of scalding water by two other inmates, the charge against Thomas Brennan, the hospital attendant in whose care Stewart was left, has been changed to manslaughter. He was arrested Wednesday on a charge of assault and battery.

Stewart was found in a bathtub which had been filled with scalding water. The hospital authorities ordered an investigation and this disclosed the fact that Brennan had been wheeling Stewart to the bathroom in a chair, when a patient in the ward became violent. Brennan left Stewart in charge of two supposedly "mild" patients while he went to quiet the violent man.

After that he forgot about Stewart. The "mild" patients, in the meantime, took Stewart to the bathroom, filled the tub with hot water and threw him in.

CORRUPTION IS CHARGED

Boston City Council Votes to Investigate Building Department

Boston, April 11.—Sensational charges to the effect that Boston's building department is reeking with corruption and that the lives of many residents of this city have paid the penalty of the same, were made by Councillor James M. Curley at yesterday's meeting of the city council.

Not in years have charges of so serious character been made against a city department, the result being that the city council voted to make a special investigation of this branch of the city's service. It was decided by the council, however, to ask the law department if it had the authority to do so.

GREAT MILL MERGER PLAN

Southern Corporation Will Control Over Half a Million Spindles

Charlotte, N. C., April 11.—A merger of cotton mill interests that may reach a magnitude beyond anything yet undertaken in the south is under way. The Holt, Williamson, Edwin, Duke and Mehane interests in North and South Carolina are seeking an alliance that will bring their mills into one corporation, which will control more than 500,000 spindles and a capitalization of some $10,000,000.

The merger will embrace the mills now owned and controlled by the Holt family, the Williamsons and the Duke mills, now in operation and contemplation.

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill. Quincy cures are the proof.

Mrs. J. Boyle, 8 Marsh St., Quincy, Mass., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and can say they are unequaled for curing kidney disorders. They built up my system and in six weeks, freed me from kidney complaint from which I had suffered for a long time."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster—Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Character Lessons to Train Youth

By JAMES TERRY WHITE.
[Copyright, 1909, by the Character Development league.]

XIX.—Ambition.

JAMES T. WHITE.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN was born into the poorest of surroundings. His parents lived in such a condition of poverty that they could not even teach him to read. But he was not contented with his lot. He had a desire to be somebody and to do something in the world, so he determined to learn to read and taught himself with a spelling book, and the Bible was his only reading book. He had a desire to learn that nothing could subdue. What is this called?

Contentment that is satisfied with mediocrity and insignificant results ceases to be a virtue and becomes a fault. "Good enough" never makes real progress and often degenerates into shiftlessness. One should aim at perfection. One needs a little discontent to spur him on. The habit of mind that seeks to excel is called ambition. It is right to be contented with what we have, but not with what we are.

It is a worthy ambition to work hard for a comfortable home. Even ambition to be rich is worthy, but it must be remembered that riches may be purchased at too dear a price.

Everybody should have the ambition to do well whatever he does, at play as well as at work, but above all it should be his ambition to do the best things. Every one should cultivate an ambition to excel—a passion for perfection.

A boy used to crush flowers to get their color and painted the white side of his father's cottage with all sorts of pictures. He became the great artist Titian.

An old painter watched a little fellow who amused himself making drawings of his pot and brushes, easel and stool, and said, "That boy will excel me some day." And he did, for it was Michelangelo.

A German boy was reading a delightfully thrilling novel. Right in the midst of it he stopped and said to himself: "Now, this will never do. I have work to do in real life." And he flung the book into the river. That boy was Fichte, the great German philosopher.

No one can afford to do less than his best. "Aspiration is inspiration." Ambition to excel, however, defeats its own purpose if it leads to the employment of unworthy means. Ambition is neither a virtue nor a vice, although it may easily become one. It derives whatever moral quality it possesses from its object and from the means employed in its attainment.

The world admires the ambition to "get on" in the world and to help others to "get on" in it. The highest ambition is to achieve something for the benefit of one's fellow man.

Ambition excites enthusiasm, which is the compelling power that overcomes all obstacles. Enthusiasm enables one to do the work that his heart desires. It brooks no interference with the accomplishment of its object. What matter that young Benjamen West had neither pigment nor brush! He made color from indigo and brushes from the cat's hair. Sumner says, "Have ambition to be remembered, not as a great lawyer, doctor, merchant or scholar, but as a great man—every inch a king." The people with high ideals are the advance guard of humanity. They cut the smooth road over which march future generations. Whipping and scolding only made Ole Bull more devoted to his violin.

Benjamin West was asked how he attained such excellence. He replied, "By observing one simple rule—to make each picture the best."

Practice.—Upon the next piece of work or duty you are called upon to perform determine to do it perfectly; do it better than any one else could.

BRAINTREE WATER SUPPLY

Report of Committee Debated at Town Meeting

The adjourned town meeting at Braintree was called to order Monday evening by Moderator Benj. H. Woodsum at 7.45 o'clock and the citizens proceeded at once to business.

Article 72 was taken from the table and it was voted to accept the legacy given in the will of Ann M. Penniman and hold the same in trust for the purposes set forth.

The amount is $500 and the money is to be used for prizes awarded for declamation, etc., in the Braintree schools.

Under article 19 it was voted to appropriate the sum of $90 for the establishing of a fire alarm box at the corner of Plain and Grove streets.

Article 63 was taken from the table and the discussion upon it pro and con lasted until adjournment. It related to the purchase and installation of new machinery for the water works. and the question of joining the waters of Great and Little ponds by a conduit. In this connection the report of the committee appointed to investigate the matter was received.

Elmer E. Abercrombie scored the committee and its report, claiming that the committee had reached no new conclusions, but had submitted a report gained from information of several years previous. The speaker furthermore spoke in favor of driven wells as a means of increasing the water supply and cited estimates on such work that he had taken pains to procure.

In reply H. A. Rhodes, the chairman, defended the action of his committee and read letters from engineers and State officials to prove that the committee had worked hard to obtain accurate and up-to-date information on the subject.

Captain James T. Stevens of the Water board spoke in favor of the committee's report, and said that in his opinion the combined water supply from the two ponds would suffice for the town for the next twenty or even thirty years.

John Kelley another of the Water Commissioners, spoke at length. He quoted from old Town reports and read a tremendous amount of statistics relative to the average number of gallons of water used by the town for many years past. He was in favor of re-modelling the station at Great pond rather than building a conduit. He moved that a committee be appointed to investigate the cost of entering the Metropolitan water system, but action on the motion was not reached.

W. F. Rogers, secretary of the committee, was in favor of utilizing local supplies of water rather than going to the Metropolitan system, and illustrated his arguments by large bulletins giving comparative costs of the two proposals.

The meeting was declared adjourned at 10.10 o'clock until May 1, at 7.45 P. M.

FREIGHT BY TROLLEY.

The Boston News Bureau of Friday commented as follows on freight by trolley:

Next Thursday is the last day the Boston city council has for making a report on the petition of Boston Elevated for authority to carry freight by trolley in the city. In the event of the council refusing to grant the authority or declining to take any action on the petition the matter will go to the Massachusetts railroad commission.

It has frequently been the case during the past year where street railways have petitioned towns and cities for authority to carry freight for the local authorities to decline to take action within 60 days after filing and a similar proceeding is probable in the present case.

In such instances the Massachusetts railroad commissioners have frequently certified that public convenience and necessity require granting the right to carry freight and have issued an order requiring the railways to act as a common carrier for certain classes of freight.

In authorizing street railways to carry freight the Massachusetts railroad commission usually makes the following regulations and restrictions:

The company shall receive and deliver baggage express and freight at suitable places or stations.

All baggage, express and freight shall be transported in suitable cars to be run at no higher rate of speed than that at which the company operates passenger cars.

The exercise of the authority granted shall in no way alter the duties of the company relative to transportation of passengers, nor in any way interfere with conduct of the passenger service.

The authority granted is given upon the express condition that it shall not operate in any way to enhance the value of assets of the company in event of purchase by the city, town or state.

Granting of the petition to the Boston Elevated Railway Co. will be of vital importance in making a success of carrying freight by trolley in Massachusetts as it would be impracticable to operate trolley freight cars in the eastern part of the state without an entrance into Boston.

Freight carrying by trolley is not an experiment. Even in a neighboring Commonwealth the annual report of the Rhode Island railroad commissioners shows 11 street railway companies which are engaged in carrying freight or have the right to engage in this business. These roads are now operating 76 freight cars and realized a gross income last year of $233,943, an increase of $23,822 over 1909.

In eastern Massachusetts the Old Colony Street railway is the only road doing any amount of freight business, but it is proposed by all the roads to develop this business on an extensive scale if the Boston Elevated is authorized to bring their cars to a Boston terminal.

MILTON AUTO CASE

Boston Photographers Were Greatly Disappointed

Several photographers of Boston newspapers who came to Quincy this morning to get a snap shot at Miss Esther Slater, a member of a wealthy Milton family, went back to Boston at 11 o'clock with their plates unexposed.

Miss Slater was supposed to have appeared in court on complaint of Officer Fallon of the Milton police, for exceeding the automobile speed limit. Miss Slater, however, had secured counsel, and an arrangement was made to have the case called some other day. The photographers made appearance at 9 o'clock, and camped on the sidewalk in front of the Court House sending one of their number inside to give the signal when she should appear.

Finding themselves disappointed in securing a picture of the young lady, they started in to get a shot at the new Milton police auto, which is a terror to all speeders.

Chief Pierce told them, however, should they undertake to snap him he would run them down, and knowing that Chief Pierce meant what he said they gave up that stunt.

Officer Fallon was trying out his new car last week, when Miss Slater dashed by in he automobile going at a rapid rate of speed. Officer Fallon started after her, and for a few miles there was a spirited race. The Stanley steamer gradually overhauled Miss Slater's gasoline, and shooting past her Officer Fallon stopped her progress.

The officer claims that Miss Slater was making over 50 miles an hour when he stopped her.

TODAY'S COURT.

Carl Hohn was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Robert H. James of Newton was fined $15 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

Oliver A. Sullivan of Holbrook was fined $15 for drunkenness Mar. 20.

SUNNY MONDAY

There is not an ounce of rosin in Sunny Monday Laundry Soap. Rosin is used in all other laundry soaps—because it is cheaper than the fats and oils used in Sunny Monday. Sunny Monday costs more to manufacture than any other laundry soap of which we know. It is kind to clothes—will not shrink flannels or woolens, or turn clothes yellow.

Sunny Monday is just as pure as its whiteness indicates; it is the safest and most economical laundry soap you can use.

CATBOAT CHAMPIONSHIP

Quincy Yachts Will Have Some Crack Rivals

Six cabin catboat races for the championship of the Atlantic coast are to be held in Hull bay Aug. 31, Sept. 1 and 2, under the rules of the Massachusetts Catboat Association and the Boston Yacht Club. The boats are to race boat against boat, and crack yachts from all clubs along the New England coast are expected to compete, although the races are expected to simmer down to boats of the Quincy and Narraganset bay clubs.

Last year the Dolly III and Iris, both representing the Quincy Yacht club, went to Narraganset bay and captured all prizes in sight, and this year the Narraganset bay yachtsmen hope to turn the tables.

Two races are scheduled for each day, starting at 10.30 A. M. and 2.30 P. M.

The racing measurement is to be over all length, and the racing rig, mainsail only, with allowance of seven seconds per foot per mile. Length overall not to exceed 30 feet nor less than 22 feet. Cash prizes of $20, $15 and $10 each are offered the winners in each race. In addition there will be the following trophies: First, Commodore's trophy, a bronze Chelsea ship clock; second, vice commodore's trophy, a gold stop watch; third, rear commdore's trophy, a gold stop watch.

The commodore's trophy will be awarded the boat that wins the championship on highest percentage for the six races. The other trophies will be given boats securing the next highest percent.

WHY IT IS BEST.

The Daily Ledger has three times as much news as any other Quincy daily and is therefore worth two cents. FIVE times the circulation of any other Quincy daily, and is therefore the best advertising medium. This is not an idle, or reckless, or irresponsible claim, but is made advisedly.

MOTHERS MAKE THIS HOME MADE COUGH SYRUP.

The good, tender, thoughtful mother can make a full pint of the quickest acting, permanent result giving cough syrup which can be used by the whole family for coughs and colds, thus preventing pneumonia, sore throat diphtheria and other fatal maladies. Just obtain a concentrated fluid known as Essence Mentho-Laxene—a 2 1-2 oz. bottle, and empty it into a pint jar or bottle. Then take a pint of granulated sugar and pour over it a half pint of boiling water; stir cool and fill up the bottle with the syrup. Full directions for making and using are contained on each package. All good druggists sell it or it can readily be obtained of their wholesaler. Thousands of families are using this because of its cheapness and thoroughness.

BIRTHDAY OF TRIPLETS

May Be Out in Their New Carriages This Week

Today the Wentworth triplets are five months old. Their increase in weight has not been as rapid the past month as in other months, but all have gained from one to two pounds. Barbara continues in the lead her weight today being 11 pounds, 8 ounces. Laura is next with 10 pounds, 14 ounces and Billy is close behind with 10 pounds, 12 ounces.

The carriage which was ordered through Henry L. Kincaide & Co., was made to order by the Hayward carriage company, and will be on exhibition this week at the store of Messrs. Kincaide. It is designed to hold all three of the babies. It is painted a dark blue with slate trimmings.

All the babies are plump in the face, and take notice of their many callers. Each has a bright colored doll in which considerable interest is taken. They also shake the rattle in good shape. All Quincy hopes the triplets will continue to flourish.

MERGED WITH BOARD OF TRADE

Retail Merchants Association Take This Action by Unanimous Vote

Select Dates in June for Annual Merchants Week

Definite action was taken by the Quincy Merchants' Association at its meeting Tuesday evening, which merged the association into the Board of Trade, of which it will become a part as soon as the necessary papers are executed.

The meeting Tuesday evening was held in the rooms of the Board of Trade, and upwards of thirty of the merchants were present.

President Crane presided, and the first business was the report of the committee relative to the office of Sealer of Weights and Measures.

SEALING OF WEIGHTS.

C. C. Hearn for this committee reported that a new sealer had been appointed and was doing good work, and that there was no further grounds for fear that the State commission would proceed against merchants on account of their weights and measures not being properly sealed. He also reported the amounts paid for salaries for this office in other cities in the Commonwealth. These salaries ranged from $100 to $700 per year.

GAS DEMONSTRATION.

A letter was received from the Citizens Gas Co. stating that permission had been obtained to place six temporary posts at the head of Granite street for a demonstration of street lighting by gas.

THE MERGER.

The merger question was then taken up. The committee having this matter in charge reported that the best interests of the business of the city could be served by the merger of the association with the Board of Trade. They reported the agreement which had been prepared.

This agreement provided for the Merchants' Association to be merged into the Board of Trade and to be known as the "Merchants' branch of the Board of Trade." All members in good standing shall become members of the Board of Trade, others on the payment of $5.

All members of the Board of Trade who are merchants shall be members of the Merchants' branch.

This branch shall elect its own board of officers, the chairman to be a member ex-officio of the directors of the Board of Trade.

The rooms of the Board of Trade shall not be used for political purposes, and politics shall be eliminated from all meeitngs.

Several present spoke in favor of the merger, saying that it was probable that the Citizens' Association, Civic League and Granite Manufacturers' Association would also be merged with the Board of Trade in some form. When this was accomplished it would be possible to have a paid secretary who should be at the rooms all the time.

It was then unanimously voted to merge into the Board of Trade.

The special committee on erecting a large signboard at Atlantic reading—"Work, Live and Trade in Quincy"—reported that the location desired by the Association could not be secured.

The committee was given further time, and given full power to get a location for the sign on the best site possible.

MERCHANTS' WEEK.

Th question of a merchants' week was then taken up and discussed at length. It was the general opinion that a program such as last year could not successfully be carried out, as it required too much work. The sports and band concerts, all agreed, should be cut out, but all favored some form of an advertising sheet.

In place of contributing money for sports and band concerts, the merchants should cut prices deep for the week, losing in profit what was last year contributed for the out door events. This slashing of prices for the week would make people sit up and take notice.

WOMAN SHOT AND KILLED

This afternoon about 2 o'clock there was a deliberate murder on South street, between Main street and North street.

The victim was Lizzie Shaiour of Cyril street, and the murderer was also a Syrian probably Arsar Hadad.

The woman was walking along South street at this lonely spot when the man came out of the bushes and shot her in the head, death being instantaneous.

The assassin escaped into the woods towards Quincy avenue and Braintree.

What transpired between the two is not known, but Mrs. Corey is said to have seen the shooting.

Medical Examiner Jones promptly responded, and also Dr. Bushnell and Dr. Middleton.

The body was taken by the Police ambulance to Hall's undertaking rooms.

THE ASSASSINATION OF LINCOLN

How Beloved President Was Shot Down During Week of His Great Triumph

Was Attending Performance at a Washington Theatre

On Monday the Daily Ledger recalled the surrender of Gen. Lee of the Confederacy on April 9, 1865, and the triumph of the Union forces. Yesterday we told of the Quincy fatalities in the Civil War of 1861-65. Before reviewing Quincy's part in that great conflict day by day there is one more April anniversary that should not be overlooked, the assassination of President Lincoln on April 14, 1865.

The President died the next day. The funeral at Washington was on April 19, and on May 4, 1865, the interment took place at Springfield, Ill.

The Quincy Patriot of April 22, 1865, was in mourning for Lincoln, and reported the assassination as follows:

IN THEATRE PARTY.

On Friday evening, April 14, 1865, President Lincoln and wife visited Ford's theatre, Washington, for the purpose of witnessing the performance of the "American Cousin." It having been announced in the afternoon papers that the President and General Grant would be present, the house was crowded.

WOMAN BADLY BURNED

Her Clothing Takes Fire from a Bonfire

Mrs. Laura Jones of 28 Pleasant street, widow of John Jones, was seriously if not fatally burned this noon at her home by her clothing taking fire from a bonfire in the yard. Shortly after 11 o'clock Mrs. Jones started to burn up some old papers in the yard. There was quite a heavy wind blowing at the time, and before she was aware of it her clothing took fire. Enveloped in fire she ran screaming toward the house and tried to enter, at the same time trying to beat out the flames with her hands.

Just as she ran for the house one of the Sewer department teams driven by William Taylor, drove by. Seizing a horse blanket he rushed to the assistance of the woman, and pulling off the burning clothing wrapped the blanket about her and extinguished the flames.

Mrs. Jones however was very badly burned about the face, body and hands, and but little hopes are entertained for her recovery.

In the meantime some one ran to the police station and called the ambulance, and an alarm was turned in from Box 41. Chief Burrell summoned

TESTIMONIAL TO MINUTE MEN

Saturday the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Call

It will be definitely decided tomorrow what form Quincy's testimonial to the Minute Men of 1861 will take. Whether there will be an impromptu mass meeting at City Hall or not. Certainly it will be a flag day, and flags will be displayed on public buildings and private residences. As individual inclination decides there will probably be gun salutes during the day and firewords in the evening. Members of the Grand Army, Mayor Shea, ex-Mayor Sears, ex-Mayor Hall, Col. Edward Anderson, Capt. Franklin Curtis, Col. Henry L. Kincaide and others would like to have a gathering at City Hall as a testimonial to the members of Co. H of the 4th Massachusetts regiment. The Daily Ledger would like to hear today from others who are interested.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPIL.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The way harem skirts are attracting improvised street processions is a sure indication that they will soon be sufficiently numerous to divide the mods of men into their component units.

Col. Roosevelt's home has gone Democratic during his absence in the far West, but the Colonel is a Cosmopolitan and his homecoming will be none the less hospitable.

President Taft's message to Congress is very brief and to the point on reciprocity. It was for this he called an extra session, and he is not exploiting other issues, however much he may be called on to consider them before the end of the extra session.

It is rumored that some adventurous women are going to insurge against Dame Fashion. and it is said that Dame Fashion has been discovered to be a man—a manufacturer, and that it is to his interest to change fashions three or four times a year in order to make the beautiful things that women wear obsolete so that they will purchase more and more of his fabrics. This is news that everybody new. There is no doubt whatever but that the sex could array themselves as beautifully and distractingly as they do on one-fourth the present expenditure if it were not for the interest of manufacturers, modistes and milliners in rapid Protean changes for the promotion of their business. The reason why men dress at only a fraction of the cutlay of women is because they resist the sartorial changes which tailors would like to impose and which they do to some extent effect. A man's dress suit, swallow tail or tuxedo, will last him from two to five years, and it is more or less the case with regard to his other clothes and hats. Btu the fashion journals and the weeklies and dailies, including the patent insides other clothes and hots. But the fashion plates, and everybody, has to follow them, and there is where the money goes.

W. R. C. SUPPER.

The Woman's Relief Corps served a supper in Grand Army hall Tuesday evening to 80 members of the corps and the post. Mrs. L. C. Hewson with a corps of ten assistants had charge of the supper. After the tables were cleared the remainder of the evening was spent in playing whist. Prizes were won by Mrs. Emma Marnock, Mrs. Annie Brown, Mrs. Beatrice Porterfield, Fred Holbrook, Miss Birnie, Mrs. C. P. Gould. The first prize won by Mrs. Marnock was a ticket book. Mrs. Oxford won the consolation prize.

Announcement was made of the celebration of General Grant's birthday in Colonial hall, April 27, under the direction of Mrs. C. P. Gould, patriotic instructor of the Woman's Relief Corps. Mrs. Lue Stewart Wadsworth, national patriotic instructor of the Woman's Relief Corps will be the principal speaker.

The W. R. C. and G. A. R. are also interested in the proposed testimonial on Saturday of this week to the Minute Men of 1861.

WEDS SIXTH HUSBAND

Woman of Twenty-Nine Buried Two and Divorced Three

Logansport, Ind., April 12.—Although only 29 years old, Mrs. Lydia Rice-Crozier-Baker-Hayes-Smith has taken a sixth husband in the person of Edward Hones, a candy maker of Lafayette. This is his first venture in the matrimonial field.

Of the quintet of husbands to whom Hones is the successor two died and three departed by the divorce route. With a smile Mrs. Rice-Crozier-Baker-Hayes-Smith-Hones told the justice of the peace who performed the ceremony that she hoped she would never need to get another divorce.

The President in company with Mrs. Lincoln, Mrs. Harris and Major Rathbone, occupied what is termed the State box, composed of the two lower right hand private boxes thrown into one, and ornamented with flags. Mr. Lincoln enjoyed the performance, and was in unusually good spirits.

ASSASSIN ENTERED BOX.

During the third act, and while there was a temporary pause for one of the actors to enter, the assassin entered the President's box,—upon which, Mr. Rathbone of New York, rose to enquire the cause of the interruption, but before he could speak the assassin drew a pocket pistol and aiming at the President's head, fired the fatal shot.

Dropping the pistol the assassin drew a bowie knife, and wounding Mr. Rathbone in the shoulder, he then rushed to the front of the box waving a long dagger in his right hand exclaiming, "Sic semper tyrannis!" and immediately leaped from the box to the stage and ran across to the opposite side, making his escape amid the bewilderment of the audience from the rear of the theatre, and mounting a horse, fled.

PRESIDENT SHOT.

The screams of Mrs. Lincoln first disclosed the fact to the audience that the President had been shot, when all present rose to their feet, rushing toward the stage, many exclaiming: "Hang him! hang him!"

The excitement was of the wildest possible description, and of course there was an abrupt termination of the theatrical performance.

On a hasty examination it was found that the President had been shot through the head above and back of the temporal bone, and that some of the brain was oozing out.

He was removed to a private house opposite the theatre, and the surgeon general of the army and other surgeons were sent for to attend to his condition.

INSENSIBLE UNTIL END.

He remained in a totally insensible state from the time he was shot, 9.20, till he breathed his last 7.30 next morning. The surgeons exhausted every effort of medical skill, but without relief.

On an examination of the private box, blood was discovered on the back of the cushioned rocking chair on which the President had been sitting, also on the partition and on the floor. A common single barrelled pocket pistol was found on the floor.

The Daily Ledger will continue to review Quincy's part in the Civil war with anniversary instalments almost daily. April was a particularly eventful month, as it saw both the beginning and the end of the war.

MR. MILLER PROTESTS

Emphatic Against Lowest Bidder for New Schoolhouse

Editor Daily Ledger:

I wish to address a few facts to your many influential readers, citizens of Quincy, on a subject which I consider of vital importance to their interests and welfare.

I notice in your issue of the 8th inst., the names of the different bidders for the Montclair school, the lowest bidder being the same person who built the Coddington, the addition to the Lincoln, and the Atherton Hough school building.

Now, Mr. Editor, I wish to register my emphatic protest against this contract being awarded to him, on account of the poor work he has furnished the city in the buildings he has built. Let us consider them briefly and take them in rotation.

The Coddington is the best of the three, yet it was so unsatisfactory that the Commissioner held up payment of approximately $6,000 for some six months in order to compel said builder to remedy the defects but the building had been used in the meantime, and Mr. Contractor contended that was acceptance (and I think justly), but that did not fix the defects, so the city got stung.

Next was the addition to the Lincoln school, where it was a constant turmoil between the architect, inspector of buildings and contractor, to get him to live up to the specifications, which he deliberately violated in many ways. One instance, the window spaces between the old building and the new were to be be bricked up to prevent the spread of fire, but they never were. Again his contract called for completion in June, but he did not get it done until September, one day before school opened, and then only by the absolute demand of the Mayor, and working all day Sunday and compelling the janitor to work night and day to get it even passable for school to open. Then within two months there were large cracks in the brick work caused by poor foundation, and when these were being used as an election issue some one rushed up and filled them with red cement.

Third we come to the Atherton Hough school at Houghs Neck. First, the specifications called for concrete made one part Portland cement, three parts good sharp sand, and five parts good clean stone. The other contractors figured on using crushed stone from the Tide Water Crushed Stone Co., but this contractor used the muddy gravel out of the cellar,and so the architect stated before three witnesses that it was mixed one part cement, five parts muddy sand and seven parts poor shale gravel which made such a poor mixture that it would not harden so the Mayor held him up some ten days, then let him proceed where he should have been compelled to take it out, and live up to the specifications.

The brick work is done in the poorest manner that it is possible to imagine, in my opinion. Any boy that had two months' experience could lay brick better. The granite used in the building is a disgrace to the whole granite industry, dark, light, yellow and green all in one course. The specifications implied new material to be used in this building, while the contractor used old second hand black boards in the upstairs rooms. Now, any one knows that second hand material can be bought for one-half what new material would cost, so why should he be allowed to substitute.

Then again, the steps at the front entrance are set in an unworkmanlike manner, the joints being supported only by loose stone chips without cement. They looked so bad that the Mayor told me he would have them reset in the spring and would keep $50. back from the contract to pay for that yet, Mr. Editor, I have no hesitancy in saying it will take $100.. If I were building such a building, and could violate my specifications to such an extent, I would make fully one thousand dollars out of that little building, that the city paid full value for. Then why is this thus? No business man would allow such substitution, slighting, and absolute ignorance of specifications.

The School Committee spends much time and thought on the plans and specifications of the school buildings, and why is it so hard to get value for city's money. I had hoped this man would retire from bidding on more buildings, but as the advertisement for the bids for the Montclair school reserves the right to reject any, or all bids, I sincerely hope our Mayor, who has to an exceptional extent been supported by business men, will not consider the lowest bidder on the Montclair school building that it will be given to a contractor that will give fair value for the citizens money.

I have nothing personal at stake, but as a citizen and a large taxpayer, and knowing the facts in regard to past contracts, I am very deeply interested, and as the city charter gives the School Committee no say in a school building from the day they approve the plans until it is turned over to them as a finished building, they cannot be held the least accountable, and it is only to our Mayor, as head of the corporation we can look, but the stock holders have a right to petition and protest, which I hope will be made so strong and emphatic that no Mayor can afford to disregard it.

Yours for the City.
John L. Miller.

Elks However Enjoy a Grand Banquet at Union Hall

Quincy lodge of Elks was considerably disappointed Tuesday evening when the deputy appointed to install officers did not appear. After a wait of an hour, the telephone brought the response that sickness was the cause of the absence of the deputy, and that notice to this effect had been sent, but for some reason had been miscarried in the mails.

An elaborate banquet had been prepared in Union hall and the two hundred present sat down to it after the business of the evening had been transacted. Anthony Thompson was the caterer and the menu was as follows: Ambassaodr salad, lobster salad, chicken salad, chicken croquettes and peas, small rolls, iced olives, salted nuts, selected fancy cake, Harlequin ice cream, frozen pudding, cocoa, chocolate mousse, bisque glace, cigars and cigarettes.

The committee endeavored to get three names for each office that club members might have a choice. Blank ballots have been sent each member with the request that they fill out with their preference for each office and return to the committee. From the ballots returned will be made up the ballot for election. The above list is to assist members in making up their preference ballot but other names may be used.

An amendement to article 1 of the constitution was read by Mrs. John W. Sanborn on the incorporation of the club. This will have to be read again before being acted upon.

The final business of the afternoon was the discussion and vote on enlarging the club to 450. Miss Annie L. Prescott who proposed the amendment spoke in favor and Mrs. Frank S. Davis against. General discussion followed. There was much said for and against and when it came to question a standing vote was necessary to decide, the vote resulting in 49 in favor, to 77 against; the total vote being only about a third of the club membership.

The program opened as usual with music, the club having the pleasure of listening to a group of songs by one of its favorite members Miss Alice Gertrude Coe, who was accompanied at the piano by Miss Marion Whiton, who although not a club member has often delighted the club by her playing and accompaniments. Miss Coe was in fine voice, her selections pleasing and the applaus was appreciative.

The remainder of the afternoon was in charge of the Philanthropic committee and Mrs. Ward Whitcher, introduced Herman LaRue Brown of Boston, who is associated with Mr. Brandeis in his work. "Thrift" was the subject of Mr. Brown's address.

In taking up the question of thrift, that of taking care of oneself and family during the rainy day and the latter part of life.

The ordinary laborer can get a living wage and is all right while he is well and strong, but when he is unable to work or is too old he cannot get means of subsistence. Science is tending toward the prolongation of life and if a man or woman is to have his life extended 15 or 20 years he must have something to live on.

Saving is a thing that is easy to talk about, all of us have a beautiful theory but often times we fail in the practice.

Three things are necessary to promote saving, first, a margin over necessary expenditure, second something to make it worth while and third something to make it popular. Saving can be taught. At the end of the French and English war, France had to pay the largest war indemnity ever heard of and the money came out of the pockets of the French peasants who had learned how to save and not from the lavish spenders higher up in the social realm.

The people of Massachusetts have learned quite a little about saving. Ordinary life insurance, which is co-operative saving, is common among us. But in the case of the poor man, life insurance is much harder to get. The big companies have what they call industrial insurance for which the poor man pays for his few hundred dollars worth twice as much in proportion as does the rich man for his thousands. It costs twenty cents on every dollar to take care of the money paid in by the rich man and forty cents on a dollar to take care of the workingman's money.

Starting with the life insurance investigation six years ago and a magazine article published by Mr. Brandeis, Savings Bank Insurance has taken hold of the people of Massachusetts and is slowly working reforms throughout the country. By means of this $1,500,000 was saved last year directly or indirectly for the working man. A state actuary, a medical inspector and an ordinary savings bank are all that are necessary to give this scheme a chance to work. By means of it insurance is given to the poor man at cost and that forty cents which was paid to the life insurance company is clear gain for the workingman.

The offices of employers often serve as savings bank agencies. It is not necessary for all banks to become insurance banks but if one bank in every city or town will act as an agency for the insurance bank, the desired end will be accomplished.

By means of this idea, the general cost of insurance has been decreased and the big companies like the Metropolitan and Prudential are holding out attractive premiums.

The problem of the aged and unemployed is yet awaiting solution. In England the old age pension is given but it means a tremendous cost to the government. Up at the State house in Boston a measure is being introduced which amounts to the same thing as the old age pension. Whether this will solve the problem or not remains to be seen; but at all events we must either remove the cause of poverty among the aged or secure a remedy for it. The savings bank insurance idea is a step in that direction, the coming generation is being educated in thrift.

At the last meeting before the annual, on April 25 at the clubhouse Dr. George L. Cady of Pilgrim church Dorchester will speak on "The Golden Age," under the auspices of the Visiting Nurse committee. The meeting will be public and invitations are also to be extended to local clubs to attend.

2nd Vice President—Mabel Pratt.

DAUGHTERS AMERICAN REVOLUTION.

The Abigail Phillips Quincy Chapter, D. A. R., were entertained at the home of Mrs. Charles Pinkham, Warren avenue, Monday afternoon, the Regent Mrs. Walter F. Jones in the chair.

Silent tribute was paid the memory of one of the members, Mrs. Warren W. Marple who passed away Friday, April 7, and the historian of the chapter, Mrs. George Taylor was asked to send resolutions to Mr. Marple.

Three new members were elected, Mrs. Seth Crocker, chairman, outlined plans for a colonial tea to be given at the home of the regent, May 20, when Martha Washington, Abigail Phillips Quincy, and other colonial dames will receive the guests.

Mrs. Ida F. Waterhouse and Mrs. Roger Wilde will attend the National Congress, D. A. R., to be held April 17, 24th in Washington, D. C. The same ladies were also chosen as the delegates to the state conference to be held in Boston in May.

The literary program of the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. George Taylor and consisted of a group of songs pleasingly rendered by Miss Sallie Litch, "With You" and "Stolen Sweets."

The paper was written and read by Mrs. George Taylor, subject, "Merrymount" presented as a story, geographical, historical and legendary, and was so unique, interesting and instructive that it would be well worth printing as a whole in the columns of "Merrymount" (Quincy) Press.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Miss Sallie Litch and Miss Ruth Sanborn assisting.

PI ETA PLAY.

Lee '12 won applause in the role of Longstreet Pondsby. As the dashing widow G. S. Phenix '12 made a favorable impression while P. C. Squire '11 was successful in the character of Miss Wells. The Indian maid dance in the second act by E. R. Kimball '11 and the pony ballet was most unusual.

Why Regal Styles are Authentic and Fresh

The Regal straight-line selling system, direct from factory to wearer, is not alone economical—it is quick. It takes other shoe makers, selling through the usual way, from four to six months to get a new style to the public.

Regal does this in from three to six WEEKS!

The newest Regal styles now on sale left the Regal factories within the past three weeks. They are not guesses or "trial styles," as shoes that were made four months ago must be. They are reproductions of actual, custom-made styles originated and approved for this Spring's wear by the acknowledged authorities of footwear fashion in New York and London.

Regal style-watchers are on duty constantly in the centers of fashion. No milliner or dressmaker keeps in closer touch with new styles, or follows them more promptly.

This stamp will be found on the soles of all Regal Shoes. The price of the pair appears in the center. The price is verified by chartered public accountants and certified by them as being cost plus five per cent., plus cost of selling. It does not always figure out in "even half-dollar" prices that you have always had to pay for good shoes. It is frequently some "odd" price, like $3.35 or $4.65 or $5.85. Whatever it is, it is the lowest price for which a shoe of that quality can be sold. You save all the odd change that you formerly gave up to maintain the traditional prices.

TO PURIFY POLITICS.

In all the prosecutions waged against unlawful corporations there is a desire to reach the men "higher up." When the disbursing agent who contracts for a delivery of votes at a certain time and for a certain price is put behind prison bars, then a step will have been made which will tend to improve instead of debauch politics.—C. It will contain a room for the heating apparatus, tools, etc., a laboratory under glass for class work, with all the conveniences necessary for carrying on the work effectively, and a greenhouse proper. The cost is to be about $6200 and it is expected the house will be ready July 1.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

IN FASHION'S REALM

Tri-color of the French Revolution a Spring Fashion

Chiffons and Muslins Trimmed with Heavy Laces.

There is no more mystery about the fashions. What is to be is now well known. French and American inventions, modifications and combinations have appeared; the worst is here, as well as the best.

We may not be content with what the designers have ordained for us, but I think every one is far more satisfied with the styles of today than with those of yesterday. Hats are decidedly better, more artistic, more graceful, There are still monstrosities; there always will be throughout the vegetable and animal kingdom as well as among clothes. As for gowns, they are so much like what has gone before that they cause interest but not amazement.

The sum and substance of the new fashions are:

The red, white and blue of the Revolution will be worn singly and in combination. Black and white stripes will be extensively used.

Skirts are short and scanty; waists, high and large; sleeves, short and small. Trimming as well as drapery is used on all skirts whether for street or house. The Directoire, the Incroyable, the Empire lines rule all clothes; the Indian and Egyptian colors dominate.

The trouser skirt—the jupe-culotte—may not become popular, but it is so modified and refined that it will be worn. The harem skirt is impossible. The two are entirely different; the public did not have this difference fixed in their minds when the fashion was first cabled to this country.

Hats are large and small, and the crowns are large enough to just fit the head. For this reason false hair is practically abandoned for anything except indoor wear.

The majority of American women are more immediately interested in coat suits for the street than anything else when the season changes. This is their first Spring purchase, for we have worn such thin materials in the house during the last three winters that frocks are not as great a necessity as coat suits when the weather changes twice a year. There is a decided difference between now and then in thes garments. It is true that the woman who owns a good-looking lightweight Winter suit with a narrow skirt and a single-breasted hip-length coat can continue to wear it and not be unfashionable, but the new ones have skirts that are trimmed around the figure, and coats that barely reach the hips.

The skirt of today was introduced last October by some of the extremists, but the plain skirt, with its straight panel down the back, became so universal that the trimmed one had no chance. It was worn here and there by women who would rather be different from their fellows than anything else. This is the skirt that is seen now on all the majority of new models.

It has a fold of the material at the knees and hem, with broad braid of moire or satin between in a fold of equal width. The height of the figure determines how many of these folds there shall be; tall women continue them from hem to hips. This skirt is shorter if anything than the ones we wore in the winter, but this is to be expected in summer clothes. The universal wearing of pumps and fetching stockings gives one a right and a reason to cut the skirt from three to four inches from the ground.

The coats are bolero, Eton, or straight hip-length affairs. Many of them are overtrimmed with braid, sailor collars, buttons, and flat ornaments. This is especially true of the French ones, for Paris acknowledges that it never could make as good a street suit for an American woman as does an American tailor.

It is rather astounding to watch the extraordinary persistence and repetition of the tri-color in the new gowns. Red, white, and blue will be combined in hats and gowns in a most unexpected way. One frock of Revolution blue has lines of black and white jet beads running from waist to hem; the lining is Revolution red satin, showing for a few inches at the ankles. The revers are of black and white striped satin, which look rather queer on a half-low gown, but nothing escapes this trail of the Directoire. The sleeves are kimono-shaped and quite short; they are made of blue silk voile over red chiffon, and the girdle is of the red caught with a buckle of blue. The white is given by a half-low guimpe with undersleeves of thin French lace.

Blue serge suits have touches of red and white in some conspicuous place, and blue linen suits have deep sailor collars of white eyelet embroidery mounted over bright linen. This is a point wihch it would be good to remember as it is an especially attractive fashion on girls and all those women who preserve youth and slimness, despite their years.

The Revolution hats for Summer are immensely effective. The Napoleon bicorne is in the forefront, and when it is made of eyelet embroidery over red straw and filled in at the top with blue clematis the effect is quite worth while.

White bicorne hats of thin straw, which are bound with black satin at the edge, are trimmed with a panache of red, white and blue plumes; bright blue hats have a bow of striped red and white velvet run across the top of an almost imperceptible crown; red hats are trimmed with blue and white striped ribbon.

The same combination is noticed on a large number of blouses, both for everyday and ceremonial wear. As white eyelet embroidery is to be excessively fashionable again, it gives the touch of white in a most graceful way, and the bright red and blue can be used as lining, as revers, or as piping. These are worn with serge suits of every color, and are considered especially smart with white ones.

The colors are not the only evidence of the striking revival of the Revolutionary styles. There are the coats with their wide turned-back revers, slanting across the hips to hem and beginning at the waist line. There are the voluminous chest revers of striped materials the multiplicity of military cords and buckles and tassels; there are the flat shoulder capes two in number which are always associated with the men's apparel of that time.

Sometimes these are turned back in front with bright revers, as was the fashion in that day, and they only serve to elongate and make more sloping the seamless shoulder line. There were a quantity of rosettes worn in the Revolution—cockades of red, white and blue, or even of more sombre colors—and these are repeated in the new gowns. They catch the drapery and fasten the girdles, and are placed in the middle of the back.

The Napoleon collar ,the slender panniers that do not loop up, but are draped across the figure from the waist in front to the knees at back; the thin fichu of tulle or muslin, with its tiny edge of lace—all these have returned to favor. They are part and parcel of the revival of an early epoch in Napoleon's life for as yet fashion has not really swerved from the years when this man was in power.

It has attached the peasant, the Oriental and the Byzantine to the fundamental styles, but the Directoire, the Consulate and the First Empire are the fashions that have really ruled. These remain ,with the addition of the Revolutionary ones.

The lavish use of coarse laces is rather extraordinary. We were not sufficiently warned of the incoming tide of them. It is true that the Venetian meshes have been with us for a long time and we have ceased to remember when Irish wasn't in fashion; filet we have had with us more or less through the past decade but point Milan is a new introduction.

The design is something like shooting stars heavily worked over a firmament of open circles and squares, irregularly placed. The type of filet lace with which we are most familiar is strongly fashionable. It is used in bands of twelve and fifteen inches on the skirts or tunics of handsome evening gowns. It is placed on satin or chiffon or heavy net. Blouses are made of it for wear under coat suits, and also it serves as a part of house gowns built of handsome fabrics.

Heavy though it is, it is combined with the printed floral gauzes which are to be again in fashion this Spring, and it is quite the thing on severely plain gowns of white charmeuse satin. It is probably as blouses for coat suits that it will be most widely accepted by the majority. It does not look especially well with the rough mannish coat suits that are used for every day, but it goes fitly and well with the new suits of black satin and also those of thin twilled serge; they are at their best with suits of white serge with white linen and with heavy silk pongee.

When they are made up into these blouses they are often combined with a fine quality of eyelet embroidery, which is as much in style as the Italian laces and one might add almost as expensive. There is this to be said about the latter that the woman who is clever in getting good imitations can pick up some exceedingly good pieces of filet at the curtain counter and make herself a blouse at a moderate expense. The soiled white tones, as the French call them, are used in these laces along with the natural color and with ecru and cream. The bleached white is out of favor for the moment. It is not even used on dead white fabrics, the designers preferring the other tones.

If these are not becoming to a woman she can easily enliven them by putting here and there a touch of color; cerise and purple are the first shades that come to mind, but the trouble is that these seem to come to so many minds at the same time that we are in danger of being flooded by them. No matter how lovely a thing is in the beginning, we weary of too much repetition.

The Venetian laces especially point de Venise are in teh front rank of fashion, and they are used unsparingly one one-piece frocks of foulard, serge, satin, and marquisette. They rather run riot over the latter. One gown of marquisette is a bright pink made with a tunic which is draped around the figure from the back and drawn up at the front waistline under a huge stomacher of colored crystals.

This drapery is edged with Venetian point and a wide fold of it goes across the front of the lower skirt. The short Empire bodice is almost entirely of the Venetian lace with the pink marquisette made into short square sleeves and a square back which resembles a sailor collar, but is attached to the girdle at the lower edge. The gown is half low, and with it goes a long string of coral pink beads, which is looped up on the bodice and caught at the left arm. There is a girdle of lace, which ends under the jeweled piece in front.

Narrow bands and edgings of these heavy laces will be used to trim both white and colored blouses. They will be more fashionable than Irish and the finer French laces. As a following to these heavy laces there is a revival of macrame which used to be done in lambrequins for mantelpieces instead of for gowns. It is made of coarse twinlike strands, and forms a pointed lattice work. It is used on ultra-smart linen suits and one-piece frocks and matches the tone of the linen exactly.

One exceptionally good model in natural colored linen has a scant skirt with a five-inch band of macrame around the knees; the blouse has a similar piece, which goes under the arms, and there are five-inch bands on the three-quarter sleeves. There is a sailor collar of Revolution blue crepe de chine, fastened in front with a flat bow of blue satin ribbon; there are two long ends of cord, finishing in blue bead tassels above the waist. A black patent leather belt goes with the suit. That the hat is red goes without saying. We are in danger of being exhausted by the sight of red hats by June.

Writing of red reminds one that its sisters in shade will also be worn. These tones are fuchsia, radish, coral, water-melon, cerise and magenta.

Empire green, or what is sometimes called Napoleon green—that vivid, bright emerald shade that is so strongly associated with Empire furniture—is back in power. It is combined with gray with silver metal, with white, and infrequently with black. Of course, the silver is the correct combination especially when it is of brilliant embroidery and runs to laurel leaves or Empire wreaths. It comes in all the new materials but is most popular in satin and in mousseline.

The great designers have no hesitancy in dropping a gown of Empire green voile, mousseline, or marquisette over one of deep bright blue in the same or another material. As you remember this combination is not new and it is not Empire but it is brilliantly Oriental, and we are much tarred with that brush.

Among the blues there are so many new tones that it is hard to remember all. Mediterranean, Egyptian, king's, lapis lazuli, raven are the names that one hears most. Turquoise, which is strongly Egyptian, is for some reason not much used. It is a daily trick of the designers to combine blue and black this season; one sees it in hats, in gowns, in coats, and in blouses. One fashionable woman has nearly her entire Spring wardrobe made up in variants of brilliant blues and deep blacks.

Cerise and blue, purple and red, black and white, blue and red, and pansy purple with geranium red are the color combinations that greet us at every turn. The natural straw tones are in high favor whether for gowns or hats. They are especially smart for rough coat suits for the early days of Spring. These tones in gloves take precedence over others. What is known as champagne suede in gloves is used for evening for afternoon and for street. It has ousted white and black.—Anne Rittenhouse in New York Times.

TIME TO CHECK TAX DODGING

Recent Acts of Wealthy Citizens Have Stirred the People

SPECIAL MESSAGE FROM FOSS

Asks That Supreme Court Be Requested to Render Opinion as to Legislature's Constitutional Authority to Amend Present Tax Laws—Says Evasion Debauches Private Morals and Destroys Citizenship

Boston, April 12.—In a special message sent to the house and senate just before adjournment yesterday afternoon, Governor Foss bitterly attacked tax dodging and urged the passage of an order introduced by the committee on taxation seeking an opinion from the supreme court on questions of law relating to the power of the general court to levy assessments and to fix rates of taxation in order that the tax laws may be changed.

Referring to the recent exposure of tax dodging, Governor Foss said:

"Recent disclosures of attempts by wealthy citizens to evade taxes—particularly taxes of personal property—have deeply stirred the people of Massachusetts. Such evasion is not new, but it has now reached a point where extraordinary effort should be made to stop it.

"Serious questions have arisen regarding the constitutional power of the legislature to levy taxes, and so long as such doubt exists it will be used as an excuse by all whose special interests are opposed to the general welfare to discredit and oppose any such change.

"In order that our present tax laws may be amended, it is absolutely necessary that your constitutional authority be determined by our supreme court.

"I, therefore, urge upon all your members to unite in asking the supreme court for such a decision. When such determination has been reached you can attack the problem of improving our method of apportioning and enforcing taxes with more hope of success.

"The evasion of the taxation laws, whether due to the desire to evade just burdens or to a weakness in the system of taxation itself, cannot be tolerated in any country that is desirous to remain free.

"Such evasion debauches private morals and destroys the foundation of good citizenship. It converts our tax laws into agents of injustice and oppression and thereby strikes at the basis of political justice. It creates favored classes and arouses resentment of the less favored classes against them, and thus contributes to class hatred and prejudice.

"Nothing more certainly destroys respect for law; and I am persuaded that in Massachusetts the time has come to terminate conditions that are a reproach to the good name of the commonwealth."

HAYTIAN "JUSTICE"

Feeble-Minded Youth Executed For Making Revolutionary Speech

Cape Haytien, April 12.—A feeble-minded youth of 22 years paid with his life for the indiscretion of an anti-goverament utterance. The summary punishment meted out has made an unpleasant impression. The Haytien is described by his friends as irresponsible, while some say that his head had been turned by the recent sinister events in the republic.

At any rate, his fervor carried him away Monday afternoon and he harrangued a crowd with sentiments distinctly revolutionary. He was arrested and yesterday he was shot.

AN EASTER MUSIC LESSON.

Christine Wright was bitterly disappointed. She had expected to sing the Easter solos at St. Luke's and had just learned that another singer—"that pale-faced Cutler girl," as she resentfully called her—had been chosen. Neither of them had been elected to the position of first soprano at prosperous St. Luke's, but both had been candidates.

Christine had a magnificent voice, and while taking special vocal training had sung in the chorus and made hosts of friends. She naturally expected to be chosen. Piqued and puzzled by what seemed a sudden reversal of fortune, she sought Dr. Laird, the director, in his office.

"I'm sorry my singing doesn't satisfy the St. Luke's people, Doctor," she said, trying to speak indierently.

"Why, it does. I'm nearly sure you will have the position," was his quick reply.

"But I understand the Easter solos are to be given to Miss Cutler. You may remember that you spoke to me weeks ago about 'getting ready for Easter,' and I have been practicing ever since."

"Well, now, I had forgotten that. The fact is—sit down, Miss Christine, and I'll tell you—we have deferred to the minister in this matter. He had heard Miss Cutler sing a certain solo which was just in line with his subject, and—"

"Please, Doctor Laird, tell me the whole truth. If there's a reason, I ought to know it. Everybody understands that Miss Cutler doesn't need the place, and I do. You have all encouraged me to try for it and now, giving her this work looks as if—"

Her voice faltered, and the good doctor hastened to say:

"I see how you look at it. Now I'll be plain and tell you that, while our minister admires your voice, he says it doesn't help on the spiritual side. He says Miss Cutler studies the meaning of words until her audience feels the very soul of whatever she sings. Perhaps you remember that anthem—part of sixty-fifth Psalm? Well, she borrowed his commentary, that she might get the whole setting of an Easter harvest scene, and when she sang it, it was a sermon, and we all knew it."

"And Dr. Wheaton thinks she will interpret Easter music that way, I suppose?" said Christine, with curling lip.

"I suppose he does. But you understand we want you just the same in the chorus, and I had arranged a quartet—"

"No, thank you, Dr. Laird. I don't wish you to 'arrange' anything for me. I'm sorry I didn't know that ministers expect singers to help with the preaching. I seem to need a course at the theological seminary to meet the full requirements! Good afternoon."

"Too bad!" the doctor mused, "but somebody had to tell her. Her voice is all right, but her spirit is all wrong. She is a mere budget of ambitious worldliness in spite of her spendid Christian ancestry. Well, if culture could only give her a soul—" and then with a puzzled shake of the head he turned again to his prescriptions.

Meanwhile Christine hurried homeward, hardly aware that her feet touched the pavement, she was so angry. For wasn't she to conquer the world with her voice? Choir work was only a stepping-stone to the dazzling career so many had predicted for her; and to be criticised and set aside by a minister because she did not interpret her music in a way to help his preaching—well, could anything be more ridiculous?

The beautiful solos she had chosen were on her piano. One was a joyful song of praise, the other words of prophecy set to tender music and ending in a prolonged paean of victory. She scanned the words critically, and reaching, "The chastisement of our peace was upon Him, with His stripes we are healed," paused to say: "I suppose Miss Cutler would 'interpret' that, whatever it means; but she never can sing 'life and immortality' as I can, never, never!" And hot tears filled Christine's eyes as she crumpled the sheets and thrust them out of sight.

What to do with herself on Easter Sunday was a question. She had only an aunt to consult, and speedily decided to go as far from St. Luke's as possible, thus also avoiding unpleasant explanations which friends would demand. So at an early hour she dressed herself plainly, leaving her Easter hat in its box, and took an electric car marked "Green Hills." Where "Green Hills" was she neither knew nor cared. She could at least ride to the end of the route and back again.

Out of the city and into the open country the car bowled along dropping its passengers at every little village until Christine was left alone. This was beautiful, for with the opposite window open she could watch the forests where delicate Spring tints were blending with dark evergreen shades, could watch birds and clouds, and clothe the wide fields with her fancies.

After several miles of lonely travel the car stopped in front of a tall, bare yellow building, and a benevolent looking woman came in. She looked at Christine with friendly curiosity, but receiving no encouragement for conversation, sat in silent contentment until a stout lady in a fur cape made her uncertain way to her side, exclaiming as she did so:

"Well, Lucretia Burbank, where've you been?"

"Why, I've been down to see Aunt Nancy and carry her some Easter flowers," was the answer.

"Oh!" with a little sympathetic groan. "How does she stan' it beln' on the town? She'd never ought to be, belongin' to the fam'ly she did; but if she must, I think it's well she's blind—I do indeed."

"She's happy, she's always happy, you know," Mrs. Burbank answered. "Seems like one o' David's psalms to hear Aunt Nancy talk. She says to me, 'I shall have to preach my own Easter sermon, but the birds will be my choir. Birds never jar your nerves the least bit, says she, 'an' this mornin' they've been praisin' the Lord for hours. I expect they sang in the garden where the new tomb was,' says she, 'that mornin' when Jesus rose from the dead.'"

"I never thought of that before, but I dare say they did," said the stout lady, thoughtfully.

"Aunt Nancy asked about the missionary collections this year, and she thinks we don't live up to our duty. 'Think how they're waitin' says she, 'our brothers and sister that Jesus wants to see walkin' in newness of life.' She made me take her little savin's—I hated to—forty-nine cents she had. Here 'tis, tied up in the corner of my handkerchief."

Mrs. Burbanks smiled, and wiped the tears from her eyes.

"I always give my 'widow's mite,'" said the fur-cape lady (who was not a widow) complacently, and quickly added:

"What did you carry her for flowers?"

"Just carnations and some of them feathery ferns. She can smell 'em fine. But she made me carry part to that old Mis' Higby in the next room. The matron says she believes Mis' Higby's forgot how to smile. She never does, never! Aunt Nancy says; 'Poor cretur, there's no Easter glory in her soul!'"

"The difference in people is amazin'," said the fur-cape lady.

"Yes, I don't know of anything that varies more," replied Mrs. Burbank; and then she turned to greet a church-going family and a young girl with a roll of music in her hand.

"Well, Miss Eva," she exclaimed, joyfully, "we was all afraid you wouldn't come to sing for us this year, but we're made now;" and the stout lady added, in a low tone, "If it's convenient and nobody'd be offended, I do hope you'll sing several pieces alone."

"Yes, Mrs. Stebbins, I have one here," and she smilingly tapped her roll.

"Well, here we are," Mrs. Burbank announced; then, turning to Christine, she said: "Was you goin' to worship with us this mornin'? If so, I'd be pleased to give you a seat in my pew."

With murmured thanks Christine followed her into the little white church. Several ladies with pots of geraniums and begonias were hurrying to the altar where a presiding genius was arranging the decorations.

"That's Eva Appleton's mother," whispered Mrs. Burbank. "She's always energizin' round to keep up our church activities. I most wish she'd had the Christmas motto taken down, but still, 'Peace on earth, good-will to men,' isn't bad for Easter. That's what we want every day in the year, isn't it?"

Christine assented. There was an outreaching in her nature toward "peace" which she had never felt before.

The opening hymns sung by a choir of a dozen untrained voices shocked Christine's sensitive ears, and she wondered how Eva could stand there with that saintly smile upon her sweet face while the various "parts" clashed around her.

It was a relief when the sermon began, to which Christine listened, for once, without whispering or writing and reading notes. The teaching of early years, the prayers of parents and grandparents now in the Home Land, centralized around her in the plain little church as the pastor talked about the supreme mysteries of life and death. His eyes seemed to read her thoughts as he said: "As Jesus burst the bars of death, so he gives to every soul power to escape from the grave-clothes of sin and come up into life and liberty. To be satisfied with anything else is to discount Christ's work for us. To be satisfied with anything else is to lose the possibility of an earth-life of grandest achievement and a heaven-life of victory." She had often heard more eloquent words, but what was this strange longing for resurrection-life which made her heart ache with its intensity? How unworthy her ambitions seemed when exposed to this new test!

But now Eva stepped forward with her music, and as the first strain fell upon Christine's ear she recognized it as her own favorite selection. The girl's voice, sweet and clear, chanted the words of prophecy, and they took on new meaning. It wailed for an instant over the dread fulfilment under the shadow of the cross and silence of the sepulchre, then rose exultingly with its Easter message of life victorious.

"Amen! Amen!" responded the minister, in a low tone, as she paused, and the felt stillness of the people told Christine how a song may be a sermon.

"Oh, Eva!" said Mrs. Burbank, a moment later; "if you could sing that to Aunt Nancy, it would give her a glimpse of glory."

"I wish I could," the girl responded, "but you know I must be at the City mission this afternoon."

"I can sing it," said Christine, impulsively. "Would you like to have me stop on my way home?"

The keen eyes studied her face an instant. "Yes, I would. Eva'll let you take her music, and I'll go along with you."

The tall, ugly, yellow house, so bare in its surroundings, was reached, and for the first time in her life Christine saw the "town's poor" in their recognized dependence. Several decrepit old men were on the narrow platform basking in the noonday sun, and two women with flying hair appeared around a corner, only to dart back in dismay at the sight of strangers. As they entered the house they saw two little children with scared, elfish faces clinging to the matron, and Christine was dimly conscious of other shadowy faces behind them. Could she sing of life and immortality in such a place?"

"It's pleasant in Aunt Nancy's room," explained Mrs. Burbank, as they climbed the uncarpeted stairs and reached a cozy corner room.

"I've brought somebody to sing you an Easter song, Aunt Nancy, " she said, cheerily. "No, not Eva—Eva had to go back to her Mission; but it'll be the very one she sang at church. This is Miss Wright from the city, and she worshipped with us this morning."

Christine offered her hand to the bright-faced blind woman, who clasped it in both her soft palms, as she said: "Now, if you've no objection, we'll let my door stand open so they can hear you downstairs. It may do 'em good, poor souls!"

Mrs. Burbank opened the door, and standing near it, Christine's glorious voice gave wings to the longing of the morning and to the new joy which was dawning in her heart.

"Praise the Lord!" He does give us the victory!" ejaculated Aunt Nancy, her face shining, as the last tones died away.

"Let me just look at you," she pleaded. "I'd like to see if the face matches the voice."

"She wants to put her hands on your face, if you don't mind," Mrs. Burbank explained.

So Christine knelt beside the little woman, and let the soft hands touch her hair, forehead, eyes and cheeks.

"You're one of the Lord's own, I'm sure, or you couldn't sing as you did," she whispered.

Christine wanted to lay her head in the old saint's lap and give way to the pent-up emotions of her heart, but she only said, with a half sob:

"No, Aunt Nancy, I never have been; but I want to be—I mean to be."

"It's a good time, dear, to begin to live," the low, insistent voice went on as the blind woman held Christine's hands. "'Because He lives we do live also'—that's the way I say it; and it's a life that ends in victory, just as you sang."

It was nearly time for a car, and Mrs. Burbank called up the stairs to say that she saw it in the distance. So, dropping a kiss on the wrinkled cheek and promising to come again, Christine hurried away.

Mrs. Burbank felt that an apology was due this girl with the wonderful voice, so, before they parted, she said: "If I'd known you was such a singer, I'd have seen that you was invited into our choir. It's too bad; and you must have felt real slighted."

Christine smiled happily.

"Not at all. I didn't care to sing—I'm just taking lessons."

Can you explain how the crocus unfolds its petals before the snow disappears? No more can we tell how sudden miracles of grace are wrought in human hearts. They are triumphs of life and love—that is all.—Mrs. O. W. Scott.

COMEDY OF BAR HAVEN

Presented by Y. P. C. U. at Universalist Vestry

A large and appreciative audience greeted the cast of the three act comedy "Bar Haven" which was given in the vestry of the Universalist church Tuesday evening. The plot centres about the adoption of a waif by Mr. Wardell of "The Manor," and the subsequent ejection of the girl when the second Mrs. Wardell, recently widowed, found that Kate was not an own daughter. Later developments proved that she was the own niece of Mr. Wardell and rightful heir of his estate. When this knowledge comes to Mrs. Wardell she attempts to put the girl out of the way with the assistance of Gideon Graham, a wealthy rascal who has been jilted by Kate. Several love affairs are mixed up with the plot, and in the end all are happily mated and Kate then Mrs. Hardy Stone comes to her own.

The play was quite pretentious for youthful amateurs to attempt, but the cast is to be commended for the splendid manner in which it was carried through. Some of the parts of course had greater opportunities than others and those are the ones to which one would naturally turn in criticizing the performance.

The character of Capt. Hiram Hopper was well portrayed by William R. French, and Frank G. Smith took the part of Hardy Stone in an able manner. Edgar Styles as Leo Bradley and Mabel F. Baker as Arbella Wortendyke, although their parts were not conspicuous gave a very good account of themselves.

Lillian Fisher as Florence Wardell likewise fulfilled the requirements of her part well and in the closing scene came to the front in a well acted dramatic situation. The part of Mrs Wardell was one of the most difficult and one was satisfied that the part suffered not one whit and was placed in very able hands when given to Doris L. Torrey.

Edwin R. Sampson took the part of Rev. John Wesley Wiggin in admirable fashion, and got off his Fourth of July oration in fine style, particularly at the point where he said "this country shall never fall," but the orator did.

The part of Kate Wardell, the heroine was very pleasingly taken by Ruth A. Thayer, and Minnie Thayer as Spray Hopper was all that could be desired in the part. The fun making depended largely upon Benjamin Litchfield, who took the part of Cy Brackett, and did it more than justice. He simulated the antiquated twang of the old mariner's voice to perfection, and was naturally funny in all his actions.

One of the more difficult parts was that of Gideon Graham, the heavy villain, which was taken by Harold Smith. The choice of the one for the part was fortunate, for Mr. Smith assumed the guise and voice very readily and carried the part through in good shape despite its difficulties.

During the intermissions music was furnished by the Quincy Point orchestra.

George L. Phillips gave some very enjoyable readings between the first and second acts.

Ice cream tickets were on sale during the intermissions, and after the performance all were given opportunity to redeem them for cold bricks.

Mrs. Lottie Sampson, as prompter, and John Commerford, who had charge of the scenic work, assisted materially in making the affair a success.

DR. ADAMS PRESIDENT

Unitarian Club Listen to Address on Sleep

The following officers were elected at the annual meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian club held in the Unitarian vestry on Tuesday evening:

President—Dr. Charles S. Adams.
Vice President—Louis F. R. Langelier.
Secretary—John E. Simmons.
Treasurer—Charles P. Loring.

The report of the secretary showed that when vacancies are filled the club will have its full membership of 100 and a waiting list of 9. The treasury was shown to be in a very healthy condition and this report met with applause.

A hearty vote of appreciation was unanimously extended to Frederic W. Plummer, formerly of Quincy, a retiring member of the executive committee, for his efficient work in connection with the committee.

The young men who served the club the past year were also given a vote of thanks. They consist of: Clarence Armstrong, Starrett White, Carl Smith, Raymond Hall, Lester Rollins, Charles Thompson, Philip Barnes and Arvin Page.

Frank A. Page in moving a vote of thanks to the retiring president, Charles H. Brigham, referred in a tactful manner to the latter's propensity for the cracking of chestnuts.

With his subject of "Sleep," Professor Percy G. Stiles of Simmons College kept those present wide-awake with a dissertation on this interesting topic.

Sleep, said the speaker. is a subject with which we all think we are familiar, yet it is full of mystery and embodies a great many curious things. We find that sleep is more necessary than food. A Chinese punishment consists of deprivation of sleep. After being kept awake for two weeks the victim, following a course of delirium and stupor, dies an agonizing death.

In considering the characteristics of sleep, the primary question is the cause. Is sleep a form of anesthesia, or a swooning? Is it a form of drugging, or a fainting caused by a derangement of the circulation.

On the whole it bears resemblance to both conditions. We find anesthesia in the accumulated products of the day's life where the system has drugged itself with its own waste. On the other hand the actual onset of sleep is undoubtedly due to circulation as we find definite changes here and the brain is robbed of change of blood fow is demonstrated blood.

Much experimental evidence of the by the plethysmograph. This is an instrument that measures upon the arm the swelling and shrinking of the blood vessels. It is found that when in a brown study the body is in a normal condition, but immediately, as the attention is directed upon something, blood leaves other portions of the body going to the reinforcement of the brain circulation and accelerating its flow through the brain. In sleep which may be defined as inattention we find that the arm and other portions of the body are slightly swelled, as the heart does not have to work so hard and takes the easier channels.

Mr. Stiles spoke of dreams and the effect of exterior noises upon the nervous system. Although the subject is not conscious of them, noises cause a response from the sensitive nerves of the body. This shows the importance of quiet conditions for sleep. Although a person may by habit accustom himself to sleep to the roar of an elevated road, his nervous system is bound to suffer.

The gradual dropping off to sleep was mentioned. First, the loss of muscular control. Then the loss of skin sensation. Then a sort or semi consciousness and finally the last tie to be broken being that of hearing. The return is in the exact reverse order.

The deepest sleep is attained in the first hour after dropping off, and from then until morning its weight gradually diminishes.

Dreams play an important part in determining the necessity of the "extra forty winks," and the proof of whether this is caused by laziness or real fatigue. If the dreams are disconnected with the days' work, and wholly unexpected, it shows good health and the cause is laziness. If dreams follow the rounds of the day's interests it is a sign of nervous strain, and that this person needs more rest.

Professor Stiles was extended a rising vote of thanks, and the heavy rain of questions which followed showed the interest awakened in the subject. An excellent roast lamb dinner was served.

BRIDGE BILL SIGNED

Draw in Quincy Point Bridge to be 125 Feet

The bill authorizing the repairing of the Quincy Point bridge and the widening of the draw to a width of not less than 125 feet was signed by Gov. Foss on April 1, and has now become a law. The bill provides that the work shall be done under the direction of the County Commissioners and trustees of the bridge, and shall be financed by the County Commissioners.

The amount to be expended is not stated in the bill, but the cost will be apportioned as was the original cost of building the bridge, which means that the City of Quincy pays thirty percent. It is understood however that the Fore Rive Shipbuilding Co., will pay half the cost of widening the draw.

The County Commissioners and trustees of the bridge will meet in the office of Mayor Shea tomorrow morning and arrangements will be made to commence work immediately.

Dr. Jones, and Mrs . Jones was removed to the City Hospital.

The services of the fire department were not needed, as the fire did not reach the house. William Taylor, the driver of the sewer department wagon, deserves great credit for his prompt assistance; but for his prompt action the woman would probably have been burned to death. Mrs. Jones is 76 years of age.

At the City Hospital this noon it was said that Mrs. Jones remained about the same as when brought there this morning. It was also said that she was very seriously burned and it could not then be said whether she would live or not.

MURDERER IS STILL AT LARGE

Seen in Woods near Braintree But That the Last Clew of Haddad

Autopsy Over Body of Farss Woman This Morning

The most important clew as to the whereabouts of supposed murderer this morning came from Braintree, from the gardener of the Wales estate. He informed the police that afternoon he saw a man run across the farm who acted in a suspicious manner.

The man was running and every few minutes would turn and look back apparently to see if anyone was following him. He then disappeared toward Braintree.

This morning shortly before 9 o'clock word was received from Quincy Point that a bundle of clothing had been found under the Quincy Point bridge. The police auto was sent down after them, as it was thought they might possibly have belonged to Haddad.

The clothing was found by Harry Pray, and was on a beam under the draw, and had been placed there during the past 24 hours. The clothing consisted of an overcoat a pair of dark blue pants, and two pairs of drawers. All of the clothing was old and worn, and had evidently been left by some tramp.

Some boys, however, declare that they saw a man go through Sheppards coal yard Wednesday afternoon wearing the coat.

There was nothing in the pockets and the police place no reliance on the find, as in order to have deposited the clothing where found Haddad must have doubled on his tracks.

As he is well known by many of the Fore River employes, who live at Quincy Point, the police do not think for a minute that Haddad would be foolish enough to come back.

Officer Hinchon, who is at work on the case at Quincy Neck, said this morning that Mrs. H. G. H. Newcomb, who resides near the old Wendell quarry, saw a man supposed to be Haddad run by her home toward the quarry.

Along the railroad track Officer Hinchon found tracks in the sand that were evidently made by a man running. The police are positive that the man crossed Quincy avenue, and entering the woods disappeared toward Braintree.

Officer Hinchon has searched through the Syrian boarding houses at Quincy Point but found no trace of him.

There are some who advance the opinion that the murderer has made away with himself, and that he will be found in the bottom of the old Wendell quarry. This quarry is one of the deepest in the city, and has not been worked for years.

It may be decided later to explode dynamite in the quarry. The police are very certain that the man is not in hiding in the woods of this section, as they were thoroughly thrashed out Wednesday afternoon.

This morning the woman's husband and friends visited Hall's undertaking rooms to arrange for the burial

MR. CROWLEY REPLIES

Emphatic in Reference to Schoolhouse Contracts

Editor Daily Ledger:

After reading the letter published in your paper yesterday I feel that in justice to myself, and fairness in general, a reply is in order.

First: Referring to the statement made by Miller to the effect that the Commissioner of Public Works was compelled to hold up $6,000 of my money to cover alleged defects. I maintain that that is an absolute falsehood, and that he deliberately lies. I refer any interested citizen to the city records for proof. There is not and never was a complaint on file made to me against said building by the architects, the one to whom the contractor is obliged to look for his instructions as the building progresses, and the certificate of acceptance when completed.

In December, 1908, at St. Mary's hall, West Quincy, Miller made a public statement in which he said that in his opinion the Coddington school was the best school building in the city, and was a credit to the Mayor, the contractor and the citizens in general. How can the citizens reconcile this statement of 1908, as against his letter of the 12th inst, without questioning his sincerity and integrity.

LINCOLN SCHOOL.

Second Miller's statement of constant turmoil between architects, inspector of buildings and contractor I brand as another deliberate falsehood. There was some controversy between the architect and inspector occasioned by the latter sending his reports to the School Committee instead of to the architects or Commissioner of Public Works, and it was Miller who made the statement to me that he did not approve of the inspector's attitude in the matter. Personally, it did not concern me.

Regarding the space where old windows were situated, will say that the plans are on file at City Hall, calling for these openings to be "filled in." They surely are filled in, having a plaster partition on one side to match the old building, and another partition on the other side to match the new building, and they are as fireproof as any other partition in this school house.

Further it was absolutely impossible to complete the building in June, as school was in session until the latter part of the above month, and there was some $1,500 worth of work to be done, and this delay was so understood by the architects, School Committee and Commissioner. What advantage would it be to the city before September 1, when there was no school in session, it being summer vacation?

With regard to cracks in the brick work that Miller speaks about, he made his first and only true statement, but when he says it was caused by settlement in the foundation he takes away the virtue from that statement, for again he lies. As a matter of fact (and I will submit to expert testimony) they were weather cracks caused by the brick being laid in cold weather on the North side of the building and without a doubt the coldest section of the city. He lies if he infers that I filled the cracks before election time for political purposes, and his ignorance of construction is again manifested when he used the term "red cement" as there is no such product on the market.

HOUGHS NECK SCHOOL.

Third: The specifications called for the concrete to be mixed in portions of one part cement, three parts sand, and five parts stone. Before submitting my estimate I had permission from the architect to use gravel, it being considered by engineers as equal if not superior to crushed stone for foundation purposes. Miller states that the contractors figured on using stone from the Tide-Water Broken Stone Co., and again he is misrepresenting. He says muddy gravel was used, but the facts are that the foundation was built on a gravel and sand bank, and only mud used in connection with it is what Miller is now slinging, it being his biggest asset. This sand and gravel was inspected by the architect and commissioner and approved before using.

NO CONTEST BY MISS SLATER

Pays a Fine of $20 for Overspeeding in Auto

Miss Esther Slater of Milton, who was summoned into court by Officer Fallon of the Milton police, for overspeeding, appeared in court this morning. It was expected that she would contest the case, and the regular attendance anticipated an interesting session. They were doomed to disappointment however. Miss Slater arrived at the court house at 9 o'clock and when the court came in at 9.30 her counsel, Paul R. Blackmur stepped up to the bench and informed the court that he represented the defendant in the case of the Commonwealth against Slater, and that he desired to enter a plea of nolo-contendre. The court accepted the plea and imposed a fine of $20, which Miss Slater paid with a smile. The party then took their departure.

In front of the court house one solitary reporter stood on guard with a camera, and as she stepped into the automobile, click went the shutter. An attempt to get a second snap of Miss Slater in the auto was prevented by the Metropolitan park police auto, which shot through between the photographer and Miss Slater's car. During all the time the young lady was in court her face was wreathed in smiles and she evidently enjoyed the experience.

WHERE TO ADVERTISE.

"When you advertise you want to reach the people, all the people, the oldest inhabitant, the man who moved to town yesterday, the young people just married, the young man or woman who has just earned the first dollar and is itching to spend it. You want them all, the rich, the poor, from the cradle to the grave, and the only advertising medium that reaches them all the time is the newspaper."

COMING EVENTS.

Under this heading The Ledger will print single line notices of future happenings of interest to Quincy people. Secretaries of clubs, societies and other organizations are requested to forward to The Ledger notices of their meetings, entertainments, etc.

If a report of the entertainment is desired send to this office tickets for the use of the reporters which will guarantee a full and accurate account in The Ledger the next day.

TESTIMONIAL TO MINUTE MEN

Col. Henry F. Walker of the 4th Mass. Expected

The testimonial meeting in honor of the Minute Men of 1861 will be held in City Hall Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. The meeting is not called for the purpose of opening old sores in connection with the great Civil strife of the nation, but to venerate the names and deeds of those who promptly responded to the call, fighting for what they believed was right.

The meeting is not calculated to stir up only feelings of sorrow in the hearts of the people, but to engender deeper feelings of patriotism in the minds and hearts of all of us.

The public is invited to attend and cooperate at this meeting, to do honor to those men of Quincy who fought for their country. Many of them are long since dead, but a few of the patriots are living, and we feel secure in stating that the Quincy veterans will be there.

Among those expected are Col. Henry F. Walker of the 4th regiment, who is now a resident of Boston; Captain Curtis of Company H, a resident of Quincy, Col. Edward Anderson, Rev. Rufus B. Tobey, Mayor Shea, ex-Mayor Sears, ex-Mayor Hall, Col. Henry L. Kincaide and a number of others.

Let us the people of Quincy gather

STAINER'S CRUCIFIXION

The Cantata Well Rendered a Christ Church

The beautiful cantata, "The Crucifixion" by Stainer was sung by the combined chorus of Christ church and St. Chrysostom's church, on Wednesday evening in Christ church.

The church was well filled with parishioners and visitors from other churches. Preceding the singing of the cantata, there was a service of choral evensong by the choirs. The cantata was well rendered under the direction of Professor Wrigley, the capable organist of Christ church. The solo parts were sung by William Carter, Walter Holmes, Charles Banner, Archibald Briggs and Mr. Holland. Mr. Marr was to have been present, but was detained at home on account of illness.

The voices of the choirs blended very pleasingly and the singing was excellent. The suffering and sorrow of the scene was brought to the audience very forcibly through the power of the music and the service was altogether fitting of the day and season.

CITY COUNCIL.

There is a movement on foot to make the meeting of the City Council next Monday evening a short one. It is on this evening that Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, holds its annual ball, and President Bryant of the City Council has promised to attend. There are also several members of the City Council who are members of the Knights and they desire also to attend.

The Committee on Licenses is all ready to report on the various applications for licenses and these are likely to provoke considerable discussion, especially those granting permits to transport liquor. In addition to this, the order granting the street railway a location for a branch-off on Washington street comes up for its second reading, and a repetition of the debate on this question is looked for. Then the Finance and Street Committees will also have a number of reports to make, so that it will be seen that under ordinary circumstances the meeting is likely to be a long one. With the liquor permits eliminated, however, it is probable that the business could be cleaned up by 8.30.

The plan of some of the members is to adjourn until Friday evening to consider the granting of liquor permits.

FINE POINT.

"So," said the judge, "you say that you never went to Chicago from Huntersville. Now this is a very important point in the case and I give you one more chance to explain, for you and Snyder were seen on the same train. Now you must be precise."

"No, sir I never went to Chicago."

"Didn't Snyder go?"

"Yes, sir."

"And you were with him. Now out with it."

"Yes, sir," answered the witness after a pause. "You see, I told the truth, because it was this way: We sat opposite each other. He faced the engine. I didn't go to Chicago. I just backed away from Huntersville."

of the victim. If possible the burial will take place this afternoon, and if not it will be held Friday. The services will probably be held at the undertaking rooms by a Syrian priest from Boston. The burial will be at St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy.

CRIME PREMEDITATED.

Not since the wholesale shooting by Restelli on July 29 last has there been so much excitement as there was Wednesday afternoon when without apparent warning a woman was shot down in a cold blooded manner in the public streets. The shooting took place shortly after 2 o'clock or about the same time of day that Restelli started in with his deadly work that ended with the killing of two persons and the sending of three others to the hospital with bullet wounds.

The shooting Tuesday was the result of the refusal of the woman to bestow her affections on the murderer.

The murdered woman was Mrs. Lizzie Farss aged 38 years the wife of Abraham Farss of 56 Cyril street, and the supposed murderer Kissar Haddad of 154 Sumner street.

The shooting took place near the corner of South and Arnold streets and Mrs. Susan Kuori who was with Lizzie Farss the victim, says that Kissar Haddad was the man who did the shooting.

According to her story she and Mrs. Farss were out for a walk, and with them was a young child of Mrs. Kuori. Mrs. Farss was wheeling the carriage, and the two women were walking along when Haddad came out of the bushes on the side of the street and stepping up to Mrs. Farss took her hands from the baby carriage handles. He moved her five or six feet from the carriage. Then placing his hand on her shoulder turned her around so that her back was toward him. He then drew a revolver and placing it at her back fired. As the woman fell he made a remark with a bad meaning and then ran into the woods toward Quincy avenue. The Kuori woman screamed and ran to the prostrate woman.

Mrs. Sabibi Joseph was in her yard near by, and witnessed the shooting. She also ran to the prostrate woman.

After being shot the Farss woman went about six feet, and then fell dead, the bullet having pierced her lungs.

The noise of the shooting quickly attracted a crowd. Some ran for doctors and others ran to notify the police.

Dr. Middleton was the first physician to reach the scene and after him came Medical Examiner Jones and Dr. Bushnell. A few minutes later the patrol auto dashed up, having made a remarkably quick run, with Officer Phillips at the throttle.

As the patrol dashed up the Kuori woman started to run across the field, but Officer Dinneen put after her, and soon overtook her. From her the police got the story of the shooting.

For a time there was a scene of the wildest kind of excitement. The street was soon filled with Syrians who knelt around the body as it lay in the street shouting and praying. The sight was a horrible one. When the woman fell, her head was lower than the body and the blood from the internal hemorrhage rushed through the mouth covering her with blood.

Learning that the man had gone through the woods toward Quincy avenue, the police auto dashed to Newcomb square, hoping to head the man off. Shortly after 3 o'clock two boys coming out of the woods told the police they had seen the man near the Braintree line.

In order that every officer available might be sent on the search the police call was sounded and the officers in the outlying districts hurried toward the police station. The police auto was sent to City Square and as fast as officers arrived in the cars they were hurried to the scene to join in the search.

Three trips were made to City Square the auto taking squads on each return trip to Quincy avenue or Penns Hill.

In the meantime Sergt. Hanson telephoned the police departments of Braintree and Weymouth and other towns along the South Shore, and the Neponset police, in case the man should go in that direction. The man had quite a start however and at dark he had not been rounded up. Had there been available officers on hand they could have been rushed to Braintree and headed the man off, but valuable time was lost in getting the officers out.

Haddad the supposed murderer is said to be 28 years of age. He is 5 feet, 8 inches tall; dark complexion with brown mustache and hair and very high forehead, giving him the appearance of being bald; on the back of his right hand was a tatooed cross by which he can be easily identified. When last seen he wore a dark blue suit, but no one seems to know whether he wore a hat or cap.

The body of the woman was removed to Hall's undertaking rooms. The search was kept up until late Wednesday night, but without result. There were several reports of the man having been seen. These clews were immediately followed up without result.

Chief Burrell and Inspector Goodhue were in attendance at the Superior court in Dedham. Lieut. McKay was at home to lunch at the time, and was notified by telephone. He hurried to the scene in an automobile and directed the search.

POLICE WAGON STUCK.

It was on the last trip of the Police auto from City Square just before 4 P. M. that it was put out of commission for about two hours. Officer Phillips was at the throttle and aboard were Officers Larkin, Duffy and Donovan who had made a quick run from Squantum, and representatives of the local press.

The auto climbed Penns hill with ease, up by the water standpipe. In descending on the Braintree side a team was met which evidently knew the road and clung near the centre. Officer Phillips was forced out too far to the right, and instantly both wheels on that side were mired to their hubs. The men inside got a bad toss but escaped injury.

The police officers started out on their search of the woods in that vicinity, but the newspaper men stuck to Officer Phillips and all worked heroically.

Soon reenforcements appeared, but when the auto was moved, a few feet it sunk as deep as before. A jack, passing teams, and horses of the neighborhood were all pressed into service and a paved road was built from the stone wall near by, but not until some cedar posts were used as levers, and the whole crowd pushed, was the wagon extricated.

None but those who saw the situation could appreciate the difficulties. Officer Phillips worked like a Trojan all the time, and was a sight to behold when success crowned his efforts, being covered with mud.

A LOVE AFFAIR.

The tragedy of Wednesday afternoon came as as the result of a love affair which started about five months ago when the murderer first met the victim of the tragedy. Kissar Haddad, who fired the fatal shot, came to this country about five years ago. He first found employment at Cramp's shipyard in Pennsylvania, and later came to Fore River.

A few months ago he was discharged and went to Camden, New Jersey, where he first met Mrs. Farss. She was a buxom, rather attractive looking woman, 20 years of age, and Haddad fell deeply in love with her. About three months ago, the first of the year, he forced her to elope with him to Newport News from Camden.

The husband notified the police and the runaway couple were pursued and detained. Haddad was in the lockup for eight days and was released upon the signing of the following agreement:

"I, Kissar Haddad, in consequence of my release from all charges brought against me by Abraham Farss do hereby agree forever hereafter to keep away from the wife of said Abraham Farss."

This document was dated Jan 19, 1911.

Abraham Farss came to this country from Syria about four years ago and obtained employment at the Fore River shipyard as a riveter. After working at the Fore River yard for two years he went to Camden and about five months ago sent for his wife.

Haddad was acquainted with Farss, and when his wife came over went to live with them. The elopement took place a couple of months after he came to board with them.

Farss and his wife came to Quincy about two months ago, and the former secured a position at Fore River again and hired the house at 56 Cyril street. Haddad came to Quincy about a month ago and got a job at the shipyard again, this time under the name of Jack George. He roomed at 152 Sumner street.

He had been forbidden to come near the Farss residence, and Mr. Farss had not seen him there, but some of the neighbors said they had seen him enter the house two or three times lately during the daytime when the husband was at work.

The wife had sent him about his business each time, and had not mentioned the matter to her husband. Haddad was considered very erratic by his fellow countrymen in many ways and they consdered him crazy. He worked only about two days a week at the Fore River yard.

On Tuesday when the men were coming out of the yard from work, Haddad hailed Farss, but latter refused to have anything to do with him and walked off in the other direction. Haddad did not go to work on the day of the murder and the first of the afternoon was playing pool in the store at the corner of Cyrii street when Mrs. Farss came in to get a pie.

She went out and wheeled her baby carriage up the street accompanied by Mrs. Kuori of 154 Sumner street, who was leading her three year old child by the hand. They went up to South street and walked toward the shipyard.

On their way back they stopped for a moment and watched Mr. Oliver, the lace curtain laundryman at his work. Proceeding down South street they came to Arnold street when Haddad appeared.

Mrs. Kuori with her child was in the lead. Haddad took Mrs. Farss by the arm and ordered her to leave the baby carriage and go with him. At the same moment he took the pistol from his pocket and pressing it to her back, pulled the trigger, and then dashed off along the path through the woods between South street and Quincy avenue.

Mrs. Farss staggered a few steps and then fell dead. Mrs. Kuori did not realize what had happened for a moment, but when she recovered her senses cried for help. People came rushing to the spot from all sides, and two of the spectators ran to telephone the police.

Two young men, Charles Rogers and Thomas Smith, who were walking through the woods saw this man running for dear life,, but did not know of the murder, and did not understand the cause of his haste.

C. H. Oliver, whose place of business was close by, saw the women when they stopped to watch him at his work, and about ten minutes later when he was told that a woman had been murdered up the street was very much taken aback to know that it was the one he had seen such a short time before. Just before the news of the tragedy reached him he too had seen the man running through the wood, but had not thought much about it until he was told of the murder.

THE MURDERER.

Kissar Haddad, the murderer, is a man of medium height, stockily built, with slightly bald head, florid complexion and light brown mustache. On the back of his right hand a cross had been tatooed. When Abraham Farss, the husband was asked if he thought the murderer would be caught, said that he did not think he would be caught alive.

The husband took the death of his wife heroically but the brother of Mrs. Farss was almost beside himself with grief and rage, and it took two men to hold him and prevent his going out in search of the fugitive. None of these Syrians were drinking men, but Haddad was looked upon by all of his fellow countrymen as unbalanced, and all were agreed that he was madly in love with Mrs. Farss.

The spot where the tragedy occurred was one of the loneliest in the vicinity. There was not a house within several hundred yards and the scene of the murder was scarcely visible from any of them. On one side of the road at that point were wide fields, and on the other, the woods. Mr. Oliver said he saw two men following the women down the road, and the next sight of a human being was when he saw the man dashing through the woods. Another report has it, that the murderer sprang out from a clump of bushes at the side of the road and came up behind the woman. Mrs. Kuori who was ahead of Mrs. Farss at the time when Haddad accosted the latter, did not know where he came from.

The police arrived at the scene of the tragedy about twenty minutes after the shot was fired. A small posse was formed and the search began immediately after their arrival.

THE AUTOPSY.

An autopsy was held by Medical Examiner Jones at Hall's undertaking rooms this morning. Dr. Sheahan, Dr. Reardon and Dr. Blanchard were present during the autopsy.

The physicians found that the bullet entered the right chest just below the shoulder blade, that it had penetrated both lungs and aorta causing hemorrhage.

The aorta is the great artery which carries the blood from the heart to all parts of the body except the lungs. In other words it is the main trunk of the artery system. Death was almost instantaneous.

The concrete is still in place, and at all time open for inspection.

I made a proposition to the city to have expert tests made of the concrete, with the understanding that I would pay any expense incurred if the concrete were found to be faulty, and if not the city to assume same expense.

When he says that a boy with two months' experience could lay the brick equal to the work done, he again handles the truth very carelessly, as the masons were all union bricklayers and mostly citizens of Quincy, in compliance with a provision in my contract.

Regarding granite trimmings, I believe it to be of good average quality cut according detail, but it may be that Miller knows something about granite. Summing the whole situation up, I have built these schools on honor, won them in open competition according to plans and specifications, and had them always open for inspection.

Now let us look at

MILLER'S RECORD.

He is chairman of the Quincy School Board. First, he betrays his position of trust when he in direct violation of the City Ordinance he accepts plans for the city without a public advertisement, where the expenditure is over $500. In this case it involved $4,200, and was handed over without any competition. Is not that so, Miller?

Did you not offer to purchase land for the new schoolhouse site, on Water street at eight cents a foot, same being taxed for less than three cents. This land is almost entirely submerged and has been used by the neighborhood for a dump for the last thirty years. Did you have the interest of the city at heart, or did you have something else in mind?

You say you could make $1,000 building the Houghs Neck school the way I built it. You could make $2,000 buying land the way you buy it. If it were not for you, and your associates playing dirty politics coupled with some prejudice, these buildings would not be discussed or the issue.

Miller play fair. Don't think that the people of Quincy can't see your motive. Don't try to boost yourself at somebody else's expense. You can't fool the intelligent voter of today.

You claim to be a successful granite manufacturer, but I think in the heating business you would be an absolute success, for without any doubt you are the greatest hot air merchant that it ever has been my misfortune to come in contact with.

Yours in fairness,
Dennis F. Crowley.

A COUNTRY IN MOURNING

How News of the Death of President Lincoln Was Received in 1865.

Was About to Celebrate the Close of Civil War

(Quincy in Civil War, No. 4—By Frank Fisher Prescott.)

The news of the shooting of President Lincoln on Friday evening, April 14, 1865, reached Quincy Saturday morning, and was quickly followed by the news of his death.

PATRIOT IN MOURNING.

The Quincy Patriot went into mourning with inverted column rules and reported the effect of the news as follows:

The sad and melancholy intelligence, which was transmitted over the wires from Washington on Saturday morning, April 15, that the President had fallen by the hand of an assassin, and an attempt made on the life of Secretary Seward, were crimes of such enormity, that it staggered belief, and when later in the day, the news was confirmed and the people were forced to admit the truth, its effect was like a paralytic shock; they bowed in silent grief to the awful dispensation! and mourned, as if it were over the last agonies of the nation.

It was a

not only at human life, but the vital principles of free institutions; for in a Republic, where every man is a sovereign—the rulers mere creatures of his will, who can be removed when the majority decree it, there can be no excuse for acts of violence,—to rise above the law,—and leave the well-beaten paths of republican usages; and whoever resorts to such means, disgraces his manhood, his country, his name as an American citizen, and should be held as an outlaw—dangerous enemy of a free government.

Thus, by the hand of an assassin, Abraham Lincoln, has fallen! No time since he was first elected could he have been taken from us, and leave so few enemies. Many of those who opposed him at the last election—only a few months ago—were learning to love and honor him.

THE GREAT AND THE GOOD,

Never have we had a President since the days of Washington, that we could less afford to lose; nor could there be a time when his loss would be more deeply felt. Just as the success to our arms had lit up the whole land with joy, and we were looking forward to a national holiday in commemoration of the hopeful prospects which, under the auspices of his wise administration, had been secured to us.

FRIDAY CLUB ENTERTAINED.

Mrs. Theophilus King of Adams street was hostess on Wednesday for an evening meeting of the Friday club, Club members were privileged to invite a guest presumable a man and there were about fifty members and guests to enjoy the evening's pleasures.

In the absence of Mrs. Emery L. Crane, president of the club, Mrs. W. E. Alden, vice president announced the program which was arranged by Miss Edith Randall and consisted of songs, readings and living pictures representing the various countries studied by the club. The pictures were shown in a large frame. The curtains were in charge of Misses Alice Arnold and Mary Faxon.

An orignal poem by Miss Randall opened the program and caused much merriment as it contained hits on the prevailing fashions, ancient and modern women etc. Then followed: Song 'La Spagnol"—Mrs. Frank F. Page and the picture "Spain" represented by Mrs. John F. Welch. Reading, "Aucassan and Nicolette" an old Provencal love poem, Mrs. George G. Saville. Picture "France" by Mrs. Wilson March and Mrs. D. E. Wadsworth.

Song—"Maid of Athens"—Mrs. Page. Picture "Greece" Mrs. Henry M. Faxon.

Readings—from Pierre Loti's "Disenchantment". A Petitioner at Court and The Muezzin's Call to Prayer by Mrs. Otho A. Hayward. The picture "Turkey" by Mrs. Cockayne.

Song—"Memories of Gallilee"—Mrs. Page. The picture "Palestine"—Mrs. Francis Abele representing the woman of Samaria.

Reading—Arabic poem—Mrs. Gurney to the accompaniment of an Arabic Cradle Song. The picture Barbary States—Mrs. J. M. Nowland representing an Arabian mother.

The costumes were very accurate beautiful being copied from old pictures. There were lovely pieces of embroidery and quaint jewelry. It was an exceedingly entertaining program.

During the serving of a most exquisite spread to look at and delicious to taste, the hostess added further pleasure by a musical program of songs by Mrs. Talbot and whistling solos which received enthusiastic encores.

It was a very happy evening, happy for both hostess and club and one to be long remembered.

BANKRUPTCY PROCEEDINGS

Liabilities of Carnegie Trust Officials Reach Millions

APPOINTMENT OF A RECEIVER

Action of Creditors Means Beginning of Federal Inquiry Into Doings of Cummins, Moore and Condon, In Which Interesting Banking History May Be Disclosed—How Cummins Talked Money From Bankers

New York, April 13.—Petitions in bankruptcy were filed here against three Carnegie Trust company officers, as follows:

William J. Cummins, now under indictment; liabilities $5,000,000, assets $400,000. Charles A. Moore, liabilities $2,000,000, assets of $100,000. Martin J. Condon, liabilities $6,500,000, assets $500,000.

Payson Merrill was named receiver for all three under bonds of $100,000. Merrill said he knew absolutely nothing of the nature or the intent of the proceedings beyond the fact that he had been appointed receiver.

But three petitioning creditors are named, which is all the law requires, but their lawyers said that many more are associated with them. The creditors who appear are: Hermann C. Brewster, Herbert Hatfield and James S. Watson. They allege against Cummins in their petition that preferential payments have been made since he became insolvent and that there has been transfer and concealment of considerable property with intent to hinder, delay and defraud creditors.

The lawyers for the creditors are Samuel J. Koenig and Parsons, Closson & McIlvaine. Koenig said that the actions were not brought against the respondents as directors in the Carnegie Trust company, but as individuals. "Because all three of the respondents were connected with the Carnegie Trust company, whose condition we all know, it was decided to put them into bankruptcy to show what their exact assets are and to protect all creditors."

Cummins is in Nashville, his home. Condon said at his offices that he would make no statement. Moore is understood to be in Italy, where his father is so seriously ill that he has not been informed of the complications in which his son has been engangled since the failure of the Carnegie Trust company.

The Carnegie Trust company, long on the edge of failure, was thrust over the precipice by the failure and indictment of Joseph G. Robin, president of the Washington Savings bank, and an officer closely connected with the Northern bank of New York.

Wall street bankers were greatly interested by the news that bankruptcy proceedings had been resorted to by those to whom members of the Cummings syndicate were heavily indebted. This action was taken to mean that the United States courts would now conduct an inquiry on their own account, and that the whole story of the Carnegie Trust failure would be told to the tribunal before whom the Morse, Heinze and other celebrated banking cases were tried. These disclosures will involve an extremely interesting bit of banking history, for the ease with which Cummins and his friends "got into" many of the large downtown banks has excited comment for weeks past.

The fact that Cummins succeeded so well was largely due to the fact that he came to New York with letters from judges, bankers and business men of the south, who vouched for his integrity, shrewdness and business judgment.

"Cummins could talk money out of your pocket so pleasantly that you would delight to give it to him," said a banker. "Always a plausible speaker, he had his propositions worked out so beautifully in black and white that he had no trouble in getting a loan, especially when he offered to procure the indorsement of some supposedly wealthy man. He was the sort of an optimist that made everyone feel optimistic. Such tactics are old in Wall street and they have been often tried before, but to Cummins and his associates belong the credit for having put through financing of a kind that is usually hard to get the tanks to take up."

STOLE POSTAGE STAMPS

Boys Used Them to Buy Trinkets From Mail Order Firms

Portland, Me., April 13.—Two boys pleaded guilty before Commissioner Bradley to having stolen $98 worth of postage stamps from the residence of Postmaster Allen at Orr's island and said that they had used $22 to purchase jackknives, watch fobs and other articles from mail order firms.

They led a deputy marshal to a place where they had hidden the remainder of the stamps in a hole in the ground.

The boys, Alvoid Wilson, 17 years old, and Norman E. Wilson, 13, were released on bail pending further hearing.

TORNADO CUTS WIDE SWATH

Death and Ruin In Its Wake as It Sweeps Western Towns

Topeka, Kan., April 13.—A heavy wind storm, attaining the velocity of a tornado in some sections, and accompanied by rain, hail and lightning, swept over western Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, killing thirteen persons, practically destroying two towns, injuring almost 100 persons, wrecking scores of buildings and putting almost every telephone and telegraph wire in the territory out of commission.

The Kansas end of the tornado started near Whiting and swept in a southeasterly direction more than fifty miles.

It is thought that many more people were killed and injured than have yet been reported. Telephone and telegraph crews are working to get the wires in shape.

TARIFF MEASURES BEFORE THE HOUSE

Canadian Reciprocity Along Lines of McCall Bill

Washington, April 13.—Two of the tariff measures which the Democratic house expects to pass in advance of any general legislation were introduced by Chairman Underwood of the committee on ways and means.

They are Canadian reciprocity, following the identical lines of the McCall bill passed last session, except for a clause authorizing the president to continue negotiations for reciprocity with Canadian articles not covered by the pending agreement, and a bill to put on the free list about one hundred articles now dutiable under the general tariff. Both will receive early consideration.

The free list bill is designed to placate farmers for agricultural losses which they feel they will sustain under the Canadian agreement, but it contains also some foodstuffs and boots and shoes.

WOMAN REFUSES TO LEAVE HER HUSBAND

Failure to Comply With Request to Elope Costs Her Life

Quincy, Mass., April 13.—Kifer Hadad, an Assyrian resident of Quincy, shot and killed Mrs. Elisabeth Farill, whom he met on Main street.

Hadad had been endeavoring to induce Mrs. Farill to leave her husband and elope with him. He met her in the street and asked her to leave her husband. She refused. Then he pulled a revolver out of his pocket and shot her dead. The police are chasing him in the woods.

Mrs. Farill was 30 years old and an unusually attractive woman. A few years ago Hadad induced Mrs. Farill to leave her husband, and the couple disappeared for some time. The woman finally returned to her husband.

For the last two weeks Hadad has been dogging her steps. Time and time again he has pleaded with her to desert her husband for him. She has always refused.

SPIKE DISABLED GUNS

Congressman's Plan to Keep Them From Being Bought by Rebels

Washington, April 13.—To prevent foreign countries buying second hand armor and arms which have been discarded by the United States, Representative Moore of Pennsylvania introduced a bill and also a joint resolution, requiring that such condemned arms or armor "be mutilated so as to render them harmless as instruments of warfare or violence."

The joint resolution calls upon the secretary of state "to invite the civilized nations of the world to consider the advisability of holding an international conference" for the purpose of having all of them adopt such a policy.

Mr. Moore declares his purpose is to prevent, if possible, the purchase of arms by revolutionists in various countries.

Boston, April 13.—A chase that extended from the Atlantic to the Pacific was ended yesterday when Louis F. Gates, a lawyer and former officer of the Masaschusetts naval brigade, was arrested in Calgary, Canada, for the Boston police, who charge him with obtaining $8761.26 by illegal means.

According to the police Gates was legal adviser for Mrs. Clara B. Woolls of Cambridge, who was executrix of the estate of Leonard Morrill, and while acting as her attorney obtained the money by different illegal means.

ROWING MACHINES CREAKING NOW

College Crew Squads Practicing Indoors For Coming Season.

HARVARD IS WELL SATISFIED.

Crimson Has but Three Seats to Fill In Last Year's Boat—Columbia Has Many Candidates—Princeton Ambitious—Penn and Annapolis to Meet.

The sounds of outdoor athletic teams at indoor practice are issuing from college gymnasium buildings these days. From the baseball cage comes the thump of balls, and the creak of rowing machines forces its way from the closed crew rooms. The campaigns of the so called "winter teams" are nearing their end, and spring sports are anticipating the season. Especially is this true of the oarsmen.

At New York Columbia's crew candidates are drilling daily under the sharp criticism of Coach James E. Rice. The first call brought sixty candidates, and Rice lost no time in boating them on the machines. In the basketball flurry at Columbia the oarsmen are overlooed, but they are working hard and in quiet. Their day will come toward the last of June, when the shells will sweep down the Hudson in the big intercollegiate regatta.

Harvard's Bright Outlook.

Harvard, too, is training, and training hard. The reports of crew activities at Cambridge state that Coach Wray has over sixty men trying for places in the different boats. Practice is being held in the boathouse on the Charles, and prospects are again bright for a broom party at New London.

All the available veterans have reported for work and are rapidly rounding into form. It will not be a case of hard training with them, for they have kept themselves in good condition through the winter. The varsity eight did not suffer heavily from graduation. All but three of the men who led the procession on the Thames last summer are available. To fill the trio of vacancies Coach Wray has the material from a very strong freshman eight of last year and a good string of secondary men to choose from. Be it known, the class of material at Cambridge is not makeing Wray prematurely old.

Princeton's campaign in the spring will be unusually ambitious. For the first time since 1884 the Tigers will compete in intercollegiate rowing. It is certain that Yale and Cornell will row on Carnegie lake this spring. No definite dates have been scheduled, but it is said to be a surety that the races will be held. A Princeton crew may also compete in the Henley at Philadelphia. A new shell has been ordered by the athletic association.

Princeton's crew candidates are holding daily practice in the gymnasium. The drills are under the direction of Professor Duncan Spaeth. Indoor work will continue for the next few weeks. It is planned to boat the men on Carnegie lake about the middle of March. The squad has been divided into four crews.

Interest in the coming rowing season at the Naval academy is already strong, the scheduling of a race against the University of Pennsylvania after a lapse of a number of years being an event which has directed more than the usual attention to aquatics.

Pennsylvania has consented to take its varsity and freshmen crews to Severn for a race on May 13.

With Harry Vail, the old Harvard coach, in charge, Wisconsin will make one more strong bid for rowing honors at Poughkeepsie. Over twenty-five candidates answered first call recently. As the Badgers have lost but three of last year's crew they should be very strong.

ANOTHER A. A. U. TANGLE.

Colleges Want to Use Men Who Play Summer Baseball.

At no period in the history of amateur sport has there been more need of a little backbone on the part of the national officials, for practices have been gradually creeping in which if not checked most inevitably result in harm to the status of the American amateur. Just now there is a wave of unrest all over the country. Out on the Pacific coast men who played baseball for money want to compete in amateur track meets, and as these outlaws have the backing of some colleges that tolerate summer ball playing there is likely to be a tangle, as the A. A. U. people are inclined to keep the outlaws out.

May Take Lester to Australia.

Former Heavyweight Champion Fighter Tommy Burns contemplates taking his pupil, Jack Lester, to Australia. Burns says Lester is a good fighter, but is not a good boxer. Lester is five feet ten and a half inches in height, weighs 180 pounds and will be twenty years of age on May 2. He is a Polish American and is built on lines similar to the late Stanley Ketchel.

England Has Dog Importing Craze.

The craze for importing dogs more or less known to English fame is again being felt in and around Toronto. Bulldogs are the most popular breed inquired after, and prices range from $60 to $1,250.

KILLS CHILD WITH A TOWEL

Woman Disregards Her Daughter's Entreaties to Spare Her

PATHETIC TRAGEDY AT HUB

Anniversary of Son's Death Made Mother Melancholy and Misery Was Increased by Daughter Being Reprimanded In School—Calmly Admits Committing Terrible Act and Does Not Appear to Be Distressed Over It

Boston, April 13.—Mrs. Clara Russell, aged about 45, was arrested on the charge of murdering her 12-year-old daughter, Marjorie, at her home, 1191 Washington street, Dorchester. The police claim that she strangled the child with a towel while the little girl was asleep in her room. They say that she frankly admits her guilt, but shows no sign of emotion, and they consider her demented.

Some years ago the woman's husband left her and she has since been obliged to support herself and her daughter by taking in washing. Gilbert Munroe, who lives nearby and is the woman's brother-in-law, called at the house yesterday. He noticed that the daughter was not about and inquired as to her health. The woman calmly replied that Marjorie was dead.

Munroe gave a start and asked how that happened. In the same calm tone the woman replied that she had killed her. Munroe was stupefied and asked why she had done such a thing, but she merely answered that she thought it was time to put her daughter out of the way.

Not knowing what to believe, Munroe rushed to the girl's room and found her lying on the bed with a towel about her neck. Then he rushed down stairs and found Patrolman Foley. He told him what had happened and the two ran back to the house. They found Mrs. Russell sitting in the kitchen. Foley told her that she was under arrest.

This did not bring forth any sign of emotion and she calmly put on her hat and coat and went with the policeman to the police station, and she told Captain Hall the same story. She added that when she started to kill her daughter the girl awoke and begged her mother not to kill her, but she refused to listen to the child's entreaties.

Two things are known to have preyed on the woman's mind. Seven years ago she lost a son who would have been 18 years old Tuesday. She spoke of this several times Tuesday and it seemed to make her melancholy. The little girl, who was in the fifth grade of the Gilbert Stuart school, was reprimanded Tuesday for not keeping in line. Marjorie told her mother about this and the woman seemed to be much affected. Last February the woman was forced to go to a private hospital to be treated for a nervous disorder.

The house in which the woman lives is a three-story wooden structure and Mrs. Russell has three rooms on the top floor. All were neat and clean and there was a pile of snow-white laundered goods in the kitchen.

FROM LONDON TO PARIS

Prier Flies 250 Miles Across Country Without Making a Stop

London, April 13.—Pierre Prier, the aviator, started in an aeroplane from Hendon in an attempt to make a flight to Paris without a stop. The airman crossed the English channel between Dover and Calais and continued on his flight to the French capital.

Hendon is six miles from the centre of London. The approximate distance between Hendon and Paris is 250 miles. Yesterday's flight of Prier is the first attempt of the aviator to fly from London to Paris. A flight from Paris to London was achieved by the late John B. Moisant. Delayed by bad weather, however, it took Moisant twenty-one days to accomplish the journey. Prier, by reaching Paris without a stop, has made a new world's record for cross-country flight.

CHAMPAGNE FLOWS IN STREET GUTTERS

Rioters Destroy Vats and Demolish Residences

Paris, April 13.—The rioting of vintners in the vicinity of Damery, aroused over government restrictions relative to the manufacture of champagne, spread into new quarters and the troops on the scene were unable to check it. Thousands of grape-growers and employes marched to Epernay, joining the rioters there. Many were wounded in clashes with the authorities. The excitement is so intense that bloodshed is feared.

Bands of rioters from Damery, Ay, Epernay and other nearby towns in the wine belt marched to Ventuil, where they destroyed vats and thousands of dollars' worth of bottled champagne. The streets are filled with shattered glass and the gutters are flooded with wine. The rioters attacked the residences of champagne merchants, demolishing several buildings.

Hunnewell, Kan., April 13.—Mrs. Ella Wilson has taken her seat as mayor and presided over the city council for the first time. Mrs. Wilson said that she would appoint Mrs. Rose Osborne, defeated candidate for police judge, to the office of chief of police. Mrs. Osborne, it is understood, has agreed to accept that office provided she is given an assistant.

The mayor, who took her oath of office just like a man, has let it be understood that she is out for a businesslike administration, that she will insist on a cleaner and greater city, that the morals of the youth shall not be endangered by licensed or tolerated evils. It appears to be settled that the gambling must cease.

GOLDBERG BROTHERS CAUGHT

Heads of Alleged "Can Opening" Gang Wanted For Robbing Boston Jewelry Store Are Found Serving Time In Jail For Having Burglars' Tools In Their Possession—Skipped Bail In New York a Year Ago

Boston, April 13.—A year's search for Joseph Goldberg, known as "Joe the Red," and his brother, Jacob Goldberg, wanted by the Boston police for the robbery of the jewelry store of Samuel E. Ullian in this city, from which $15,000 in jewelry was stolen in February, 1910, came to an end in a small town in Austria.

Inspector Lynch of the Boston police headquarters cabled Chief Watts yesterday afternoon that he had located the two brothers in an Austrian jail and was preparing papers for their return to this country.

The Goldbergs were arrested for the crime last April in New York, but while out on bail awaiaing extradition proceedings decamped to Canada. The long search then began. It led from Canada to England and thence, after many false clues, to Kalonea, in the Austrian province of Galicia.

They were located after much detective work by officers of the Scotland Yard, London, through admissions by their "pals." They had been in Austria, their native country, less than a month before they purchased burglar's tools. A charge of breaking and entering was laid against them and not proved, but they went to jail for having the tools in their possession.

After leaving America the Goldbergs were traced to the Whitechapel district of London. They joined Harris Rothstein, alias "Kovac the Smith," in the so-called "toughest" section of the city, in his anarchistic den.

They fought the police in the riots between the police and anarchists last fall and for some time it was believed they were killed in the melee. Rothstein is still believed to be dead. In London they were known as members of the "can opening" gang.

It was with a tool for burglary somewhat resembling a can opener and not familiar to the Boston police that Ullian's safe was broken open and the jewelry taken. The Goldbergs were supposed to have a patent on the "can opening" device for safes, for it worked so successfully that they never vouchsafed the secret to others in their profession.

There is no extradition treaty between this country and Austria covering the crime of burglary, or breaking and entering, as it is listed.

It is claimed Lynch can obtain the deportation of the two men to adjoining countries, which have treaties that permit the return of persons under the charge against the Goldbergs.

DECAYED EGGS IN COURT

They Are Quickly Removed After Two Samples Are Opened

Boston, April 13.—Three men who were arrested by Patrolman McCaffery for having decayed eggs in their possession with intent to sell, and also for having three bags of sand with a covering of about an inch of sugar and weighing 100 pounds each, were found guilty in the municipal court.

Michael Farresy was sentenced to three months in the house of correction. Walter Garland was fined $30, and Joseph Cohen was sentenced to one month in the house of correction. Appeal in each case was entered.

The eggs were produced in court as evidence, and McCaffrey opened two of them in the courtroom, but he was obliged to remove them immediately.

SENT TO AN ASYLUM

Ellen Ahearn Considered Insane When She Killed Mary Moulton

Boston, April 13.—Ellen J. Ahearn was committed to the insane asylum at Bridgewater by Judge Stevens of the superior criminal court. The woman was charged with the murder of Mary Moulton in a lodging house at 62 Hudson street.

The grand jury considered the case, but refused to return an indictment against the woman because it considered that she was insane when she committed the crime. The Ahearn woman has previously been confined in institutions for the insane.

NATURAL ICE HEALTHY.

The first warm days of spring always bring hurried demands from householders for that great necessity of town and city life, ice. The local ice men are prepared to supply all orders. As to the quality, as that is particularly interesting to the heads of households where ice is used freely in drinking water, it is a satisfaction to the dealers in natural ice to be able to assure the public on the very highest authorities in public health and scientific circles in this country, that there is no danger possible from the use of their ice for all domestic purposes.

For instance, in a recent address, Dr. H. W. Hill of the Minnesota State Board of Health, said that, after investigating thousands of epidemics of typhoid fever and dysentery, he had entirely eliminated natural ice as a source of disease, for he had never found a single case traceable to the use of natural ice. He now declines to consider ice as a factor in causing disease and devotes his time to other possible causes.

And Dr. William T. Sedgwick of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, at Boston, America's leading sanitarian, in a lecture last fall declared he had long used natural ice in drinking water for his own family, being convinced it could not cause any disease, but that on the contrary iced water as a drink in his opinion is a gentle and effective stimulant of high value in combating the physical exhaustion occasioned by torrid weather. He also said of natural ice that "taken by and large it is one of the purest food materials of our time!"

Thse opinions are backed by the results of recent investigations of the effect of freezing on bacteria which may be present in water. Dr. E. O. Jordan, professor of bacteriology in Chicago University, in summing up the question says: "The great majority of typhoid bacilli perish within a short time. All investigators are now agreed that three weeks after freezing less than one per cent, and probably less than one-half of one per cent remain alive." None of the natural ice offered the public now has been stored for less than four, and most of it has been stored for six to eight weeks, when, according to Dr. Eugene H. Porter, health commissioner of New York state, the last bacteria is dead and the ice practically sterile.

The conclusions of these eminent men that natural ice is not a possible source of danger to public health is of vital interest to the people in this community, where, owing to our long warm summers, with many intensely hot spells, the fear of using natural ice freely in water, tea and other iced drinks, would cause needless discomfort, if not actual suffering, to thousands of people.

STRENUOUS ACTION NEEDED

If Quincy Is to Save Its Beautiful Civic Centre

Editors of Daily Ledger:

An important matter, and one which concerns the future welfare of our city, requires the quick and strenuous action of all public spirited citizens, namely the proposed location of the trolley express depot of the Old Colony Street Railway Co., on Washington street, Quincy, within our "Civic Centre."

To locate there would be a serious mistake and would prove most disastrous to the natural and favorable development of this section of our city.

Washington street is the principal thoroughfare for automobile service to the South Shore and it should not be made a possible death trap neither should it be made dangerous for our school children and others.

Is it not short-sightedness on the part of our Mayor and City Council to even entertain seriously such a proposition? We should think any sensible citizen would know that this is not a proper location, if he but stopped to think the matter over seriously and wisely.

There are several other much more well-calculated locations available and now is the time to act in deciding upon an advantageous site, both as concerns the city and the company.

Petitions have been sent into the city government against this location, but apparently they were of little avail. Why? Is it because public sentiment has not been thoroughly aroused to settle this matter and settle it right? We think not. There seems to be plenty of public sentiment against it. For once, at least, isn't it time to let such an important matter be decided upon its merits and not from a point of expediency?

It is not necessary to call attention to the various objections in this communication, they are so apparent that any citizen can readily see them if he will take the trouble to consider the matter seriously.

How can any reasonable-minded citizen, who has no private interest to be served justify such a location for a freight depot when there are other sites, apparently better for the company, and far less objectionable to the best interests of the city?

Where is there in New England a finer civic centre than ours? Would it not be a shame to spoil it by allowing a freight depot in it? What has the railway company done for Quincy? Our City Square is congested now because of lack of through passenger service. Our streets between the railroad tracks in many places in the city are in bad condition. Now why should we grant an express location in our civic centre? We see no reason. Why should we widen streets and furnish greater police force for the benefit of the street railway? Why should added burdens be put upon the city without necessity?

The purpose of this communication is to arouse all citizens who have not already been made aware of this proposed location to the end that they may send in their protests to the City Council at once, and may see their councilmen personally and urge them to vote against it.

A Resident of Ward Four.

NOT IN SYNDICATE.

Lieut.-Gov. Frothingham issued a denial Tuesday of the story that he was connected with the syndicate which had purchased from Floretta Vining her string of South Shore papers. Mr. Frothingham says:

"My attention has been called to a statement that I was connected with a syndicate of newspapers on the South Shore. As a rule I do not deny all the false statements and rumors made, but in this case, as it may have some effect on others, I wish to state emphatically that I not only have no such connection, but that I refused to become a party in this transaction and am not interested in the syndicate financially to any degree."—Herald.

OIL FUEL FOR RAILWAY.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway is converting twenty-two coal-burning locomotives into oil burners. This change is to be made on the strength of the good results shown in tests which the road has been quietly making for some time past. The Cape train between the South Station, Boston, and Provincetown, has been used for the test, and it is stated that a saving of approximately $12.00 a day in running expenses has resulted from the change.—Scientific American.

WOULD PUT IT UNDERGROUND

G. B. Bates Writes Open Letter on Trolley Freight

Mr. President and Members of the City Council:

"Eternal vigilance is the price of Liberty." It behooves you as representatives of the citizens of Quincy to be on your guard, for the friends of predatory interest, and the benefactors of special privilege, are never asleep, but always at work,—scheming.

There has grown up among the people a wide-spread distrust of legislators, who many of the people think are servants of special interests. Will the rumor current in our city, that vested interests are in the saddle at City Hall, be verified? Will the City Council, with their eyes open, make such a stupendous and irrevocable blunder, and pass this order, for a location for a trolley freight yard, in the very heart of public travel?

The worst possible location for public safety. Jeopardising the lives of tens of thousands of people daily, who are compelled to cross and recross this very locality, traveling to and from the Post Office, Library, Y. M. C. A. and the to be New Court House to say nothing of the thousand innocent little children who attend daily the Coddington school; not mentioning the thousands of people who are waiting daily in City square to travel, and the thousands of people who go daily to and from the Quincy station.

Mr. Councilman, you want to pay but little heed to the loud talk of the hired megaphones of the railroad interests. They tell you there will be only two or three freight cars daily, and will be attended with a red flag, (but that red flag signifies danger.) What will be the conditions here 25 years from now, with the ever fast increasing of society?

When the steam rail road was first built through Quincy there were but two trains daily, but today there are over 200 trains daily, (and fast multiplying) passing over the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. through Quincy.

Mr. Councilman, be on your guard, for the responsibility of the consumation of this eternal, and irrevocable outrage of the public rights on society is up to you, and you alone. Let the world know of your vote on this most vital and far-reaching question that you can be trusted, to do that which you believe and know to be in the public interest, and will put the public good above the privileged class interest, for profit.

Mr. Councilman, a year ago our City Council very wisely refused to grant a perpetual franchise at grade through our highways for trolley freight to the Old Colony Street Railway Co. Go and do likewise, and refuse this location for a trolley freight yard. Put it up to the railroad commissioners to grant it, the same as last year's Council did. Let the railroad commissioners be guilty of the responsibility of this abortion on society.

I am informed that this oligarchy receive their apointment from state and have received their salaries from the railroads. Their acts are unconstitutional, for nobody can serve two masters.

Trolley freight at grade through our highways in Quincy will be a menace to society and dangerous to public safety, as unnecessary for the public of Quincy today as a fifth wheel for a wagon. Think of it; trying to abolish grade crossings and at the same moment granting franchises for trolley freight at grade through our public streets. We certainly must be crazy and will be so considered by our children and future generations.

Will the City of Boston grant a franchise for trolley freight at grade or a location for a trolley freight yard at grade on Washington street? No, a thousand times no. Public necessity does not demand today trolley freight in Quincy. Trolley freight when it becomes a public necessity should be under ground through a tunnel.

Yours truly,
G. B. Bates.

Quincy, April 12, 1911.

—Brockton has made a move to secure city playgrounds. An order to authorize the committee on public property to hire playgrounds in different parts of the city for the summer season and equip the same, and also for the grading of the McKinley, Franklin and Cary school grounds, and the appropriation of $2,500 for this work was referred to the finance committee by the board of aldermen Monday night.

COLONEL PACKARD RECEIVES ORDERS

Told to Report the Next Day, April 16, 1861 With His Command, in Boston

Co. H. of Quincy Was Taken by Surprise When Bell Rung

(Quincy in Civil War, No. 5—By Frank F. Prescott.

The Quincy Light Infantry had dissolved about 1845, and in 1855 the Hancock Light Guards were formed out of the "Know-nothing" organization, called the "Guards of Liberty." The company became well disciplined and at the outbreak of the Civil War was in a flourishing condition.

The Liberty Guards desired to be organized as an independent company but finding that it could not legally be accomplished, they concluded to form a company under the military laws of Massachusetts.

After receiving their charter they completed their organization by making choice of the following named persons as officers:

Captain,—Abner B. Packard.
First Lieutenant,—William S. Glover.
Second Lieutenant,—William Nash.
Third Lieutenant,—Thaddeus H. Newcomb.
Fourth Lieutenant,—Franklin Curtis.

TO PRESERVE UNION.

It was on Monday, April 15, 1861, that Abner B. Packard of Quincy, the colonel of the 4th Regiment, M. V. M., received orders to report with his command the next day in Boston, ready to proceed South to preserve the Union of the United States. Co. H, of Quincy was a part of this regiment.

ALARMED BY BELL.

When Col. Packard received his orders on that eventful April 15, the bell on the Stone church, or as it is known today, the First church was rung calling the people together, most of whom were taken completely by surprise, as it was expected that some peaceful settlement would be effected. No one even dreamed of war.

At this time means of communication between towns was extremely limited, there being but few telegraph lines, so Col. A. B. Packard of this town, who commanded the regiment was obliged to despatch men on horseback to eight different towns from Dorchester to Plymouth and Taunton to notify the several companies that their country needed their services to protect its very life. In the remarkably short time of two hours the Quincy company was in line, ready to take the cars for Boston, where they were joined in the course of the day by the balance of the regiment.

THREE FIRE ALARMS RUNG

Department Called to Haughs Neck for Weymouth Fire

The fire department was called out three times Thursday between noon and midnight on bell alarms. Box 27 was the first alarm, and was sounded at 3.03. This was for a fire in an automobile owned by Benj. Johnson. The machine was coming up Washington street and when near the Universalist church a passing team discovered that the back of the car was all ablaze. He shouted a warning, and ran for the fire alarm box and sounded the alarm. The driver of the automobile lost no time in bringing it to a stop and getting out. The fire was extinguished without any great loss.

The alarm from Box 615 at 4.15 was for a fire on the marsh off Oak street, Atlantic. The fire was working over toward the large barn of Mr. Buckley when the alarm was sounded. The fire was handled by the Atlantic and Wollaston apparatus although the steamer got as far as Norfolk Downs before the recall sounded.

The alarm from Box 116 at 8.37 was a false alarm. There was a large fire on the North Weymouth shore. This was seen by a man who thought the fire to be on Rock Island and he ran to the nearest box and sent in an alarm.

The fire seen proved to be the burning of three summer cottages on Wessagussett hill on the north shore, to-

ONLY EIGHT SURVIVORS

Testimonial to Quincy Minute Men Saturday Night

Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., was pleased at its meeting on Thursday to know that a Testimonial meeting will be held at City Hall on Saturday evening in appreciation of the Civil War veterans of 1861-65.

Capt. Franklin Curtis, who is adjutant of the Post, was present. He carries with him always a little memorandum book in which is recorded the names of all the members of Co. H of the 4th Massachusetts regiment who responded in April 1861. He has made it his business to keep in touch with all these Minute Men and where they have died he has the dates. Where men were killed in war he knows how and other details.

Capt. Curtis read from this book and reported that only eight of the Co H men were living as follows:

Franklin Curtis, Quincy.
Joseph Lapham, Quincy.
Robert Josselyn, Quincy.
E. W. H. Nutting, Quincy.
James Larkin, Malden.
William H. Feltis, Togus Home.
James J. Dowd, Ohio Home.
William S. Wilbur, unknown.

All these will be specially invited to the Testimonial meeting as guests of honor. The Post was also pleased to learn that there was a prospect that Col. Henry Walker, one of the commanders of the 4th Mass. Vols. might be present, and the Post voted to act as his escort if he comes.

It is probable that the historic Richmond flag now in the possession of the Post will be on exhibition at City Hall at the meeting. This was the first flag flown at Richmond on the day of evacuation by the Confederate forces.

The Woman's Relief Corps is also interested in the Testimonial meeting and Mrs. C. P. Gould the patriotic instructor is arranging for patriotic exercises.

It is hoped that hese organizations will also be interested: Sons of Veterans, United Spanish War Veterans, Ladies' Aid Society, Camp Boyd Auxiliary, Boys' Brigade, Boy Scouts, Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company and others. Col. Walker is a past commander of the Ancients.

Mayor Shea will call the meeting to order. The speaking will be impromptu and will probably be interspersed with music. See Saturday Daily Ledger for further particulars.

The Minute Men of Massachusetts will observe the 50th anniversary in Boston tomorrow, meeting at Wesleyan hall at 10 A. M. for business. At 12 o'clock a line will be formed on Bosworth street and proceed via State House, City Hall and State street to Faneuil hall where a banquet and campfire will be held at 1 o'clock. The galleries are open to the public.

COL. WALKER COMING

Col. Henry Walker notified the Daily Ledger at noon today that he would attend the Testimonal meeting at City Hall on Saturday evening.

He will arrive by train from Boston at 7.23 and will be met by Paul Revere Post. It is at considerable personal inconvenience that he comes to Quincy because he is now an aged man and does not venture out much evenings. But he was a Quincy boy; he knew Capt. Curtis and the Minute Men from Quincy, and is interested in Quincy. He will find it necessary to return to Boston on the 9 o'clock train. All Quincy should give the heriob commander a hearty welome.

JUDGE FLINT MASTER.

Judge Flint has been appointed master in the suit in which eight bottling concerns ask for an injunction to restrain the Central Labor Union and the International Union of Brewery Workers of America from striking. A strike was anticipated a week ago when the bill was brought, and since that time some of the men have gone out. The union men demanded that the shops be unionized, an increase of $1 a week and an eight hour day for six months of the year.

MURDERER HADDAD SEEN IN BRAINTREE

Probably To a Train at East Braintree Within One Hour of Crime

Whether He Went to South Shore or Boston Not Known

Officers Milford and Farrell, who were detailed Thursday to follow up the Braintree end of the clews of Haddad the alleged murderer spent the day in and about East Braintree, and had the satisfaction of learning beyond all doubt that on the day of the shooting Haddad reached the East Braintree station and it is probable that he took a train from that station. The first train to arrive after the time he is placed in Braintree was going south. Whether he took that train or the train going toward Boston a little later and changed at Braintree is not known.

It is believed by the police however that he took the train for the South Shore and left the cars at Hingham and then made his way toward Brockton, Taunton, Fall River or Providence, where there are numerous colonies of Syrians.

Thursday afternoon the police of these cities were requested to search for the man wanted and it is quite certain that he will have difficulty in secreting himself among his own nationality.

As stated in Thursday's Daily Ledger, he was seen by Mrs. T. H. J. Thayer near the old Wendell quarry and later by the gardener of George O. Wales. As the man ran along he frequently looked back, apparently to see if anyone was following him.

The next person to see Haddad was Miss Bertha Arnold of Park street, Braintree. She met him near the corner of Cedar and Elm streets. At that time the man seemed thoroughly exhausted and was breathing hard, as though from a long run. He stoped Miss Arnold and asked the way to the railroad station. Miss Arnold pointed up Elm street. According to Miss Arnold it was then 2.20. If this be true the man must have made very quick time in getting away after doing the shooting, as the distance is about two miles.

It has been learned that the Syrians will not harbor or conceal a countryman if it is known that he has killed another man's wife. A number of local Syrians went to Weymouth on Thursday to search among the colonies, and they announced that if found he would be shot in the leg so he could not get away, and then turned over to the police.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Pneumonia is a dangerous disease at any time, but as the cold weather changes to a milder form with the opening of April, the liability of contracting a cold is greater than during the months when a lower temperature prevails, but with more even and steady pressure. The mortality statement of the health department of New York, shows that April opened with an exceptionally large fatality from pneumonia. During the week ending last Saturday the total number of deaths from both lobar pneumonia and broncho pneumonia was 359, against a total of 309 in the previous week. The statistics for March show that the deaths from both forms of this disease were most numerous in the week ending on the 18th ult, when the total was 335, which was exceeded in no week during the entire winter, except in that ending December 31, when the mortality was 358. This shows that the most dangerous of winter diseases has continued into the second week of April, and is a warning to all that the greatest care must be taken to avoid the danger that still threatens humanity. Cool and damp weather with marked changes, such as were experienced last week, and again on Sunday and Monday, are especially dangerous. Persons who are debilitated, though only in a slight degree, should be more than careful through the month of April. The changes that are forced upon us are very trying even to the most healthy and hardened constitutions, and persons who are less fortunate should take no chances. The experiences prevailing since April came in suggest that warm weather is still a thing of the future and somewhat remote, and it is wise to defer laying aside warm clothing until milder weather is fully assured. —Lynn Item.

The conviction of some Mississippi cotton dealers for misuse of the mails, and the reporting of three new indictments against a "broker" in Boston who made a specialty of the flotation of mining schemes, both gold and copper, come as welcome reminders that swindlers who would prey upon a gullible public are not having so easy a time as heretofore. In getting after illegal promoters who are successful mainly as they employ the advantages of the postal department, the postal authorities are doing much to put a stop to the virtual robbery of a host of credulous people. In reporting indictments against men who sell stock in prospect holes for securities backed by a developed mine, grand juries are calling a halt to practices which have spelled tremendous losses, in the aggregate, for the victimized element. Operationsin wild-cat securities are not so bold and unblushing as in years gone by, but they are sufficiently so to justify the postal department and prosecuting officers in being ever on the alert, in protecting the public.—Salem News.

Mrs. E. I. Beal in her great sorrow the meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. will be omitted Friday April 14. The Board of Directors will meet at 3.30 P. M. in the Association building to elect a nominating committee for the ensuing year.

COUGH AND COLD SYRUP
Made at Home, Touches Spot.

A great big, full pint of laxative cough syrup of the finest quality known to the medical world can readily be made by any woman or even child. To a pint of granulated sugar add a half pint of boiling water, stir and cool. Obtain at drug store 2 1-2 ozs. Essence Mentho-Laxene, empty it into a pint bottle and fill up with the syrup. A teaspoonful every hour or two will check or stop a cold in the head, and cure any cough that is curable. It will pay any family to keep it always in the home to avoid the diseases due to colds, such as pneumonia, bronchitis, sore throat, diphtheria and consumption. It is marvelously quick in action and permanent too.

MISS VINING JOLTS 'EM.

Miss Floretta Vining in the Hull Beacon, in what some call her valedictory editorial, as she may sell her papers to a syndicate, raps the Chilton woman's club of Boston, which has applied for a liquor license, rather sharply. The death of another woman's club in Boston that was headed by Julia Ward Howe and others leads Miss Vining to draw comparisons between that club and the Chiltons to the disadvantage of the later.

She also hands out a few jolts to men, and declares that a woman with money is the prey of all of them. "A combination of men," she says, "will steal every time from a woman." She says there is no such thing as friendship, and that a woman can't employ a man to protect her interests without losing. "Man," she adds, "plans to do up all women."—Brockton Enterprise.

Ladies Aid Alliance at Wollaston is Flourishing

With an annual meeting and election of officers in the Wollaston Unitarian vestry on Wednesday afternoon, the Ladies' Aid alliance of that church brought to a close the thirteenth and most successful year of its existence.

At present the alliance has a membership of 115, the largest in its history, which brings it fifteenth in numerical rank of the Massachusetts alliance branches.

The past year has seen a large increase in the attendance of meetings the average number present for the year surpassing all previous records

Following is a list of the officers elected:

President—Mrs. W. F. Atwood.

First Vice President—Mrs. Frank A. Page.

Second Vice President—Mrs. Harry A. Stevens.

Third Vice President—Mrs. Car G. Horst.

Secreary—Mrs. Charles Jameson.

Treasurer—Mrs. William M. Chase

The meeting opened with a devotional service in charge of the acting president, Mrs. Frank A. Page and was followed by reports from Mrs. George W. Bennett, secretary and Mrs. William M. Chase, treasurer

Mrs. Harry A. Stevens reported for the Cheerful Letter work, Mrs. Chas S. Adams for the fellowship and membership committees, Mrs. Edmund S Taylor for the sewing committee Mrs. George R. Thompson for the tea committee, and Mrs. Charles T. Baker for the housekeeping committee.

All indications were of a wholly optimistic trend and the society is looking forward for a most successful year to come. Mrs. George W. Bennett relinquished the office of secretary after a faithful service of four years.

CANTATA REPEATED.

The beautiful cantata "The Crucifixion" by Stainer was sung by the combined choirs of Christ church and St. Chrysostom's, Thursday evening at St. Chrysostom's church. The church was filled with parishioners and others. The recital of the Apostles Creed, and a short service of prayer by the rector, Rev. Frederick H. Steenstra followed the processional, "Christian! dost thou see them."

The cantata was well rendered under the direction of Prof. Wrigley who presided at the organ. The solo parts were sung by Messrs Herbert H. Albee, George A. Allen, and Archibald H. Briggs. The singing was excellent, and the suffering and sorrow of our Saviour was forcibly shown through the music and words which was most appropriate and fitting for holy week.

$2000 FIRE AT BRAINTREE

Four Tenants Of the Robinson Block Suffer Loss

Two alarms were sounded from Box 34 at Braintree shortly after 10 o'clock this morning for a brisk fire in the Robinson block on Elm street and before it had been extinguished the upper part of the building was badly gutted and the damage will be upwards of $2000.

The fire started around the kitchen stove in the rooms on the second floor occupied by Mrs. Dodge as a boarding house. From there it ran across the hallway to the tenement occupied by Mr. Heinlein, which was also badly gutted. The fire also worked into the tailor shop of Henry Seigel on the first floor, but the damage there was largely by water. The fire worked in behind the walls and the firemen had to do considerable tearing down of the plastering to get to it. It was after 11 o'clock before the recall sounded. The building is alongside the Christian Science hall block.

THE PULL IS STEADY.

"If there is one enterprise on earth that a 'quitter' should leave severely alone it is advertising. To make a success of advertising, one must be prepared to STICK like a barnacle on a boat's bottom. ADVERTISING DOES NOT JERK; IT PULLS. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases day by day and year by year, until it exerts an irresistible power."—John Wanamaker.

HORRORS OF WAR.

The Quincy Patriot of April 20, 1861, had very little to say relative to the opening of the Civil war. It printed the following editorial of 29 lines and followed it with a sketch of Fortress Monroe:

"Civil war, with all its horrors, is now impending over us. Our streets during the week have worn quite a military appearance; martial spirit has risen to an intense fervor—recruits have been called for and dispatched to the South, to protect the public property and the government at Washington from a threatened invasion.

We hope the fears of the people have been unnecessarily alarmed—in a Civil war we have everything to lose, and nothing to gain. Blood may flow, but it will not wipe out the wrong, or unite us again as one people.

"When Greek meets Greek then comes the tug of war." Is there no hand to stay this mighty torrent of sectional hostility, and say to the troubled elements—peace be still? Let us trust for the best, and never despair so long as there is a ray of hope for reconciliation.

IN GOOD SPIRITS.

Our gallant little corps, the Hancock Light Guard, under the command of Capt. Franklin Curtis, promptly answered to the requisition of the government, and on Wednesday (April 17) took their departure for their place of destination, Fort Monroe, Virginia. They went off in good spirits, mustering between 50 and 60 rank and file. May health and a safe return await them.

gether with their contents, and the partial destruction of a fourth cottage, the total loss being estimated at $6,000. The cottages burned were those of Charles Leavitt of Weymouth, George Weeks of Boston, and Albert Reed of Brockton. The owner of the cottage partially destroyed is not known. Mr. Leavitt came to his cottage early in the evening and lighting a lamp left it burning on the lower floor while he went up stairs. The lamp exploded which started the blaze which spread so quickly that he was obliged to jump out of the window to escape. The house burnt like tinder and although two alarms were sounded the fire had spread to the other cottages before the department arrived. Several other cottages took fire from the sparks but were saved by the firemen. Nothing was saved from the three cottages destroyed, and but little from the cottage partially burned.

The alarm from Box 273 at 12.37 this noon was for a slight fire in a small building on the Baker Yacht basin property, used by the captains and engineers of boats at the basin as a clubhouse. The fire started from some unknown cause near the floor, was put out with the aid of a lawn hose before the department arrived.

Mrs. Laura Jones, who was severely burned by her clothing taking fire from a bon fire on Pleasant street, Wednesday noon, died at the City Hospital Thursday afternoon as a result of her burns.

The annual business meeting and supper of the Wollaston Baptist church will be held this evening.

TOO DRUNK TO TESTIFY

Squantum Robbery Case Heard and Continued

The cases of John W. Mahoney and John F. Leary for robbery of Lulu Dean at Squantum came up in the District court this morning.

The Dean woman was brought into court on a capias, as she did not appear Thursday, the day to which the case was first continued. When she was called to testify it was seen that she was badly under the influence of liquor, so much so that the court refused to allow her to testify. It was decided to go on with the case without the woman, who was taken to another room.

Later she was placed under arrest for drunkenness and sent to the police station to sober up.

The witnesses were heard and the weight of the evidence seemed to be against Leary. It came out that Leary and the woman came from Neponset on the 11.35 car last Friday for Squantum, and that both were under the influence of liquor. They got off at Squantum and their actions attracted considerable attention. The case was continued until Saturday morning to hear the woman's testimony.

WARD FOUR IMPROVEMENTS.

A regular meeting of the West Quincy Improvement association was held Thursday evening.

John Evans, chairman of the committee on the June 17 outing at the West Quincy playground, made a partial report.

It was voted to go on record as in favor of the Sunday closing of the post office.

It was also voted to confer with the superintendent of the Quincy post office relative to an earlier collection of mail at West Quincy. The earliest collection now made is at 9.30, which means 10 o'clock and after before the mail reaches the Quincy office.

There was an informal discussion on the plans for the June 17 outing.

BRIEFS

A delightful day.

Flag day tomorrow for the "Minute Men of 1861."

More Easter programs of the churches will appear in the Daily Ledger of Saturday.

A new cross walk is being put in across Maple street at the junction of Washington street.

The Citizens Gas Co. have begun to set temporary posts at the head of Granite street for an exhibition of street lighting by gas.

C. H. Johnson, auctioneer, has a valuable property advertised for sale on Saturday which should interest any one looking for a good investment.

The cooperation of patriotic ladies and gentlemen, and all the patriotic organizations of the city is invited to make the Testimonial of Saturday evening worthy of the Minute Men of 1861. It will be held at City Hall at 8 o'clock.

PLANS FOR POINT BRIDGE.

The County Commissioners and Trustees of the Fore River bridge met at City Hall on Thursday afternoon to discuss the question of repairing the bridge and widening the draw, as provided by a recent act of the Legislature. The commission organized with John F. Merrill, chairman of the County Commissioners as chairman, and Edward W. Hunt of the Weymouth selectmen as secretary. The subject was discussed informally for an hour or more, after which it was voted to instruct Herbert T. Whitman to prepare plans for the repair of the bridge and the widening of the draw, and present them to the commission when ready.

TO VISIT NAVY YARD.

A large body of Juniors of the Y. M. C. A. will take a hike to the Charlestown Navy yard Saturday morning. Nine battleships steamed into the harbor this week and went to the navy-yard. The North Dakota is in dry-dock. Mr. Clee has secured special permission for the boys to go aboard the battleships. It will be an unparalleled opportunity for the boys, and it is probable that practically all the Junior class will go. The train leaving Quincy at 8.12, Wollaston at 8.14, and Atlantic at 8.17, will be taken. The party will be back at noon. Besides the opportunity to see the battleships, the boys will be shown other objects of interest about the navy yard and will be able to see 5000 sailors in costume.

AN EASTER AWAKENING

Rev. Fannie E. Austin Becomes Universalist Pastor

The parish committee of the Universalist church has sent out to the parishioners and friends of the church an Easter greeting. It is also in the form of an announcement that Rev. Fannie E. Austin, whose sermons at the church have been so acceptable, is to come as the pastor of the church. A special invitation is extended to all friends of the parish to be present at the Easter services on Sunday. There will be Easter music, Easter flowers and the parish committee trust the Easter spirit will fill the hearts of all.

The Universalist church is situated on Washington street a short distance from City Square. It is one of the oldest churches in the city. It has a fine plant, including a beautiful church auditorium with vestry on the street floor, and it is intended that Easter shall mean an awakening for a new life that shall extend over a broader field.

MILTON.

Blanche Powell, daughter of Albert F. Powell of Willard street, died at the Children's hospital, Boston, Wednesday. She was operated on for appendicitis but the case was too far advanced to allow recovery.

On Patriots' day, Milton High will play Milton Academy at Cunningham field.

The afternoon game for the Cubs on the holiday will be with the Blackfoot A. C. of Wollaston.

The play, "Nephew or Uncle" to be given by members of the Milton high school athletic association will take place next Friday evening, April 21, in Milton Town hall.

Gertrude Robertson, the year old daughter of George N. Robertson of Belcher circle, is ill with scarlet fever.

On Easter Sunday there will be a communion service at 9.30, the morning prayer and service following it. There will be special music at both services. At 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon there will be a Children's union service at St. Michael's church with children of the East Milton church and of St Michael's participating.

The fire department has been called out frequently for grass fires lately. On Saturday box 34 was sounded twice by fires in the woods off Mather street and at the second alarm for a fire in an outhouse of the bungalow. An out of town alarm 452 on Monday was false. A telephone call came to the East Milton hose house on Wednesday from the vicinity of Box 68 for a grass fire off Granite place. The department was called out Thursday morning at 11.37 in response to an alarm at box 38. The fire was in a field off Hyland street.

THE BOARDERS ENTERTAIN.

At the regular session of John Hancock lodge, I. O. O. F., held Wednesday evening, "the Boarders" took possession of the lodge room under the good of the order, and entertained the lodge members. "The Boarders" are composed of resident Odd Fellows of Wollaston who are regular attendants of the local lodge. The program consisted of music by an orchestra, vocal solos and duets, readings and recitations. This was followed by all proceeding to the banquet hall where a bountful collation was served, after which a social hour was enjoyed.

—A change in the lighting effect of Brockton City Hall clock was put into operation this week and the glory of the municipal timepiece is much enhanced. City Messenger Seth L. French has changed the former ordinary incandescent lights that have served to light the clock faces to the new and more brilliant Tungsten lights.

THE MISSION AT ALASKA

St. Chrysostoms Guild Addressed by Miss Wood

Miss Elizabeth Woods of Fort Yukon, Alaska, a missionary of the Episcopal church, gave a most interesting talk to the Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's church at its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon. Beginning with a brief history of the country from the time it was purchased of Russia up to the present time.

When the Yukon river was discovered, trading posts were established, leading up to the establishment of the different missions. Mr. Kirby was the first missionary to carry the gospel message, which has been abundent blessed by God. She told of the hardships he and his two Indian boys encountered on the trail and up the river. Many small children were baptised, the Indians ceased their evil ways, and for the first time knelt before their God. Miss Woods also spoke of many other missionaries and the Bishop, many of whom barely escaped with their lives at different times.

Miss Woods was at Circle City for five years before going to Fort Yukon. During the terrible epidemic of diptheria which she said was appalling, she took the desease but through it all managed to put up medicines each day which were sent out by her interpreter.

At that time five years ago, she paid 50 cents for a five cent bag of salt, 25 cents per pound for sugar, etc. She told most pathetic stories of how eager the children were to come to her mission school, and in most cases the parents were just as willing. They want to be taught the white men's language. She had a most prosperous school; several new buildings have recently been erected for his mission. They teach the Indian women how to be neat and keep their own homes clean by employing them to do the cleaning of these buildings, and pay them by giving them towels, soap, brushes, brooms, etc., which they are most glad to get. The mortality of babies has been reduced to almost nothing; before they were always dying. Her description of the Christmas celebration, how they decorated, etc., and of the sending on of presents which they can spare to other missions. Of course Miss Woods is dependent on the States for her Christmas boxes.

She spoke of several little Indian boys by name, one of which, Alfred is here in the East with her, and will be with Miss Woods this month at the Alaska booth at the World-in-Boston. He is five years old, and was given to her by his dying mother. It was most interesting to hear how she teaches them hymns; how readily some of them learn, and the various doings that go to make up the daily life. How much good the books and magazines accomplish which are sent out how they are read and reread by white men at the trading posts until there is literally nothing left of them.

Many took the opportunity to speak to Miss Woods and thank her personally for her kindness in coming. During a social hour Mrs. John E. Walter and Mrs. George A. Vibert served tea, fancy crackers and cakes.

MRS. J. Q. A. WILD.

Mrs. Caroline A., widow of John Q. A. Wild, died Thursday morning at her home on Granite street. Some three years ago she broke her hip and since then has failed gradually although not entirely confined to her room, and passed peacefully into rest Thursday morning after awakening from the night's sleep, she slept again, to awaken in a world free from pain and sorrow.

She is survived by six children, two sons, James H., and Frank and four four daughters, Mrs. Susan Johnson, Mrs. Caroline Littlefield, Miss Sara A. Wild and Miss Emily C. Wild.

RECITAL AT ATLANTIC.

The pupils of Miss Marguerite Louise Holbrook gave a piano and voice recital in Atlantic Music hall, Wednesday evening. They were assisted by Miss Marie McDavid, reader, of the Leyland Powers school of Boston, Miss Rosemary Cooper, violinist, and Miss Nelchen Sievers, and Miss Agnes Sully in the oxen dance.

Miss Holbrook's pupils showed careful training and were certainly a credit to her. There were piano solos by Misses Eldeine M. Young, Ruth Parker, Dorothy Fratus, Gladys Hammond of Atlantic, Misses Anna Byorkman, Annie Thomas, Mabel Doring, Agnes Nelson and Florence Nelson of Norfolk Downs and Miss Ruth Ewell of orchester and Miss Holbrook Duets by Miss Ethel F. Young and Miss Holbrook, Miss Marion Hallett and Miss Louise Tuttle, Ruth Ewell of Dorchester and Miss were well played and highly appreciated. Vocal solos were rendered by Miss Holbrook, Miss May Crane and Miss Myrtle Gifford. Miss Evelyn Cheney's place who was prevented by illness, was taken by Miss Holbrook.

Miss Marie McDavid delighted her audience by her splendid selections and charming personality. Her last reading "At the Photographers" was enjoyed immensely. Her voice and style of reading is particularly adapted for concert platform work.

Miss Rosemary Cooper played Mozart's Rondo in D, and a Schubert movement, as only Miss Cooper can, andthere was a hush of reverence during both of her selections. Miss Nelchen Sievers and Miss Agnes Sully danced a very pretty dance known as the oxen dance.

The hall was well filled and every one pronounced the affair a success. Miss Holbrook has been teaching during the past six years and has the honor of being one of the most prominent and popular music teachers of this part of the city. It is whispered that Miss Holbrook is planning to give another recital in June, which is something for everyone to look forward to.

Splendid addresses were given by H. Houghton Schumacher, who spoke on "Country Week;" Rev. F. P. Malgeri, on "The Italian Imigrant;" and by Miss Taplin of Hale House, who spoke on "Settlement House Work." Mr. Malgeri works among the Italian people of greater Boston under the American Unitarian association department of New Americans.

E. church, Fort street, who has been in Worcester for a week attending the annual eastern Swedish conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, of which he is a member, was ordained as an elder in the church by Bishop McIntyre, and by the same bishop, was commissioned to return to Quincy to continue his work for the third year in the church and among the Swedish people. He will conduct the Easter services on Sunday.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. WERE NOT INTIMIDATED

Street Railway Men Are in Favor of Trolley Freight

Editor Daily Ledger:

It is alleged that at a meeting of the City Council, recently held, where the location of the spur track entering the proposed trolley freight station on Washington street, was discussed, a member of the Council made the statement that the street railway employes who signed the petition in favor of said location did so because of pressure and intimidation from the street railway officials.

In order to dispel any such impression, we, the employes referred to, desire to have it known that we are a thoroughly organized union, and wish to make it plain to the citizens of Quincy that our signatures to the said petition were not obtained by intimidation or pressure of any kind from the officials of the company.

We find upon investigation that a majority of the business men and citizens generally, favor the trolley freight, and the location asked for by the Street Railway Company. Furthermore members of our union would be employed on the express cars at a living wage.

To further dispel the impression that may be abroad on account of the assertion made by the councilman referred to, we would call to the attention of the citizens generally, and the councilmen in particular, that these same employes which he says were intimidated into signing the petition, have bitterly fought the company for concessions which they believed they were entitled to, and would fight them again if circumstances should arise which would make a fight necessary. The street railway employes are a body of men who will not stand for intimidation from anybody.

A good soap at a fair price.

No, madam, soaps are not "all alike."

They differ in size, shape, quality and price; also in what they do and the way they do it.

The ideal soap is a soap that is of convenient shape and good quality, and, at the same time, sells at a fair price.

Lenox Soap fulfills these requirements.

The 440 yard dash and running broad jump championship events of the Y. M. C. A. will take place at 10 o'clock on the morning of the holiday. A 22 yard limit has been set on the handicaps. Shaughessy did good work at first base for the winners.

The Womans Golf association of Boston met on the links of the Wollaston golf club yesterday. A team match was played in which team A defeated team B 8 to 5. Miss C. L. Duncan of team A defeated Mrs. A. McGregor, team B in a 19 hole match by 1 up.

The little savings bank into which a small hand slips a penny at a time, and which precedes the opening of an account for the child in the bank of deposit where interest is paid accruing to the child's account, should not be overlooked by the thoughtful parent. The temptation to spend every penny received assails our little ones as in very truth it confronts older people. The windows of the confectioners' shops are filled with candy and sweets and many a penny is dropped into the drawer of the merchant when it should instead be put by for future use. To utterly condemn children for spending money is unwise, but if a little girl or boy has, to begin with, an allowance of a penny a day, a certain amount should be set aside for some purpose that will bring results. We must not teach the children to hoard their little fund, but we ought to teach them to invest it judiciously.—The Christian Herald.

AMUSEMENTS

DOINGS ON THE STAGE OF

LOCAL AND BOSTON THEATRES

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

The management of the Boston Opera House announces that its third season of grand opera will be of eighteen week's duration commencing Monday the 27th of November and ending Saturday March 30th. Four subscription performances will be given weekly, Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings and Saturday Matinee. The subscription books are now open. The scale of prices should appeal to every music-lover in New England and none should miss the opportunity of becoming a season ticket-holder of the Opera House. Every opera-goer knows the advantages enjoyed by the season ticket-holder, especially by the out-of-town patrons. For a comparatively small sum the out-of-town opera-goers can secure good seats for every performance and thus avoid the inconvenience of ordering seats by mail for some special performances, sending in their checks for the amount only to receive the disappointing response that the desired seats are sold already.

Opera may be a luxury but to the true lovers of the highest form of music it is a necessity. For years these music-lovers longed to have an opera house of their own where they could hear the masterpieces of their favorite composers, the new works of the masters of the modern schools, and the great stars they worship. Their hopes have been realized. The Boston Opera House has given and will continue to give its patrons all they desire and its managing directors have justly and deservedly gained the confidence of the music-lovers of New England.

A subscription department office is open at the Opera House daily from 10 A. M. to 5 P. M. where plans of the auditorium can be seen and all necessary information will be given.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

Unquestionably the biggest attraction that has been announced for vaudeville in the last ten years comes to B. F. Keith's Theatre next week. It is called "A Romance of the Underworld," and was written by Paul Armstrong author of "Alias Jimmy Valentine" and "The Deep Purple," two of the biggest dramatic successes in recent years. This is Mr. Armstrong's first attempt in vaudeville, and he has outdone all other authors in the magnitude of his production. There are no less than twenty-four speaking parts, and as a New York critic has said, every character seems to have been molded into the part. The first scene shows the interior of the New York criminal court on Sentencing Day, with the judge, court officers, the prisoners in the pen, the spectators, etc., and the entire proceeding of the court takes place on the stage. Of course a story runs through it, and many of the characters are incidental, but nevertheless they are strongly drawn and there is an endless amount of comedy through the piece. The second scene shows the interior of the New York Tombs, an exact reproduction, with the prisoners getting ready to go to Sing Sing. Here the action of the piece is carried along swiftly and is both humorous and pathetic. There has never been anything like it on the stage. It was put on in New York at the 5th Avenue for a week, and would have continued there indefinitely had not Mr. Keith arranged previous to the production to have it appear at his Boston house. An exceptionally strong vaudeville show will surround this big production, including Mr. and Mrs. Allison in "Minnie from Minnesota," Cooper & Robinson; Edwards, Van & Tierney; Hon & Price; and the Landry Brothers.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"The End of the Bridge," bids fair to be the remarkable sensation of the season at the Castle Square. Its seventh week begins on Monday, and crowded houses will be the rule at every performance. Miss Lincoln's play, it should be remembered is given twice each day, afternoon and evening. The one hundredth performance is fast approaching, and when it arrives it will certainly be celebrated with a great deal of enthusiasm. Mr. Craig's acting as Dr. Garret is especially notable, and Miss Young's Joan Mannering is also a feature of the performance, while the boy Peter is acted with astonishing realism by Miss McDannel.

ABORN GRAND OPERA COMPANY.

The coming week, the fourth in the Aborn Grand Opera Company's prosperous run at the Boston Opera House will be not only the most momentous occasion of this organization's experience there, but will also be one of the most important in Boston's operatic history, for it will bring the first production in English anywhere in the world, of Massenet's world-famed opera, "Thais." It will also be the first time a modern French opera has been sung in our language in Boston; indeed, this work was only presented there once before, when Hammerstein's Manhattan Company gave it a single performance in French a year or two ago. The works of the modern French composers, practically unknown in this country until three years ago, have risen rapidly in public favor lately until they form a highly popular part of the repertoires of the Metropolitan, the Boston and the Chicago-Philadelphia companies, the three greatest organizations appearing at high prices on this side of the Atlantic, and the Aborn English Grand Opera Company has shown its usual progressiveness by being the first to offer them at popular prices To this modern French school belong such favorites as Massenet's "Thais" "Manon" and "The Juggler of Notre Dame," Debussy's "Pelleas and Melissande," Charpentier's "Louise" and Saint-Saens' "Samson and Delilah," all of which Messrs Aborn will produce in English within the next twelve months, and Offenbach's "The Tales of Hoffmann," which they gave its first English presentation three years ago, and which they will revive this spring.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

Mr. Henry W. Savage will present a superb revival of the delightful musical comedy, "The Prince of Pilsen," one of the greatest successes in this particular field of amusement ever staged in this country, at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, for a limited engagement, commencing Monday, April 17. "The Prince of Pilsen" is now in its eighth season of continuous success, a record that is rarely attained by a musical comedy and which most pertinently evidences its remarkable and distinctive merit and worth. Its popularity increases with each succeeding season, and this is no doubt due in a great measure to the policy of Mr. Savage, who keeps it at the highest possible notch of excellence, both in its material equipment and in the quality of vocal and acting talent made use of in its presentation. The score or more of charming musical numbers contributed by Gustave Luders have become generally familiar to music lovers; but they possess that quality of freshness and harmonic buoyancy so rarely caught by present day composers. Frank Pixley's story, with its dainty thread of romance, is charmingly set in a maze of delightful scenic surroundings, beautiful costumes and pretty femininity. There will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturdays.

KILLED QUESTION OF LUMBER IN TARIFF

What Hines Gained by Putting Lorimer In the Senate

Springfield, Ills., April 14.—James Forester, manager of the Muddy Valley Mining company, was the first witness called when the Helm investigating committee of the state senate opened its session yesterday afternoon. Forester's testimony developed nothing of importance.

Herman R. Hettler, a lumberman of Chicago, followed Forester. He declared that Edward Hines on May 20, 1909, told him that he had elected Lorimer to the United States senate. Hettler said Hines told him that he had "put Lorimer over" himself and that he said he had beaten President Taft and killed the question of lumber in the tariff.

HAS LONG BAFFLED POLICE

"Mother of Thieves" Is Finally Convicted and Sent to Prison

New York, April 14.—Mrs. Rebecca Frank, owner of real estate in Brooklyn worth more than $50,000, was sentenced to serve from two years and six months to four years and six months in the Auburn state prison for women. She was convicted as a receiver of stolen goods.

"You are known as the mother of thieves," said Judge Foster in imposing sentence, "and since the days of Mother Mandelbaum there has been no woman more dangerous to society than you. You have been a police menace long enough."

Mrs. Frank was known among her neighbors as an associate of thieves, but her craft and skill baffled the police for years.

TESTIMONY OF DOGS

Results In Holding of Men Who Have Borne Good Characters

St. Louis, April 14.—Although Luther Myers and Roy Shelker have previous good characters, in a preliminary hearing they were bound over for the grand jury on the charge of attempting burglary upon the testimony of bloodhounds.

The hounds picked Myers and Shelker out from a gang of woodcutters in the Illinois river bottoms, eight miles northwest of Fieldon, Ills. They had followed a trail from a saloon at Fieldon, which was broken into.

At the preliminary hearing about fifty acquaintances testified to the good character of the accused men.

BRIEFS

The City Council Committee on Streets meet tonight.

After Easter, Mr. Wrigley has arranged to have three organ recitals in Christ church.

The annual parish meeting of the First Universalist church will be held next Tuesday evening.

The Jolly Sixteen met at the home of Mrs. Walter Howes, 16 Cottage street, Thursday evening.

City Square received its first coat of oil dust preventative this morning, and a nasty mess it made of it until it was absorbed by the dust.

A number of the Sons of Veterans of the Quincy camp are planning to attend the jubilee of the Milton camp next Wednesday evening.

The meeting of the Fragment society of First church postponed on account of the storm will be held Tuesday afternoon April 18 at two o'clock.

Captain Pike of the Undercliff, which is at Bakers yacht basin, has returned to the Point to superintend the refitting of the boat. He has been spending the winter at his home in Nova Scotia.

The young people from the colleges have started in work for the last term of the year. Willis Middleton, Alfred Brown and A. P. Bonney, students at Tufts Medical and Dental schools are among this number.

Rev. Herbert A. Cassidy and wife of Wollaston have gone to North Easton where Mr. Cassidy will begin his work in the Methodist church on Easter Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Cassidy were married last week in Wollaston.

Special Easter services will be held at the Quincy Point church on Sunday. In the morning and evening there will be special Easter music by the choir and a soloist. Rev. C. P. Marshall will preach both morning and evening.

William A. Field of Wollaston Park is home for the wedding of his brother next week. Mr. Field is meeting with success as the eastern Pennsylvania representative of the Atlas Portland Cement Company.

The crew of the Cape Cod have gone to Baltimore to sail the new boat back. Mr. Rich went down there some time ago to make final arrangements about purchasing the boat. This new one is a beauty and is much more commodious than the Cape Cod being 100 feet longer and correspondingly larger in beam. It is not known what will be done with the Cape Cod but probably she will be sold after the necessary repairs have been made. The new boat will begin her regular trips between Boston and Provincetown next month.

Editor—"Why, this article you've written isn't sensational. It's a statement of the exact facts in the case."

Reporter—"I know it. But when it appears in our paper think of the sensation it will make."—Life.

Little Items of Interest In Towns About Quincy

The boys of Abington high school have been putting in a good share of their time during vacation in getting the athletic field in the rear of the school into shape under direction of the principal.

A new soldiers' monument is soon to be erected in Randolph. The site favored by the majority of the townspeople is in the middle of Central square.

The W. C. T. U. of Rockland have packed an Easter box to be sent to Boston for the shut-ins.

QUINCY COMPANY QUICK TO RESPOND

Joined Fourth Regiment, M. V. M., in Boston Within Twenty- Four Hours

First Regiment to Arrive at Fortress Munroe on Lincoln's Call

(Quincy in Civil War, No. 6—By Frank Fisher Prescott.)

Today is the fiftieth anniversary of April 15, 1861, when Col. Abner B. Packard of Quincy, received orders to report in Boston the next day with his command, the 4th Regiment, Massachusetts Volunteer Militia. Co. H, of Quincy responded within 24 hours, reorganized in Boston April 16, and April 17 left for Fortress Munroe.

The route taken by the 4th Regiment is not generally known by the people of today, but it was mostly by water, and is told interestly in a letter sent to the Quincy Patriot from Fortress Munroe by one of the Quincy volunteers, under date of April 28, 1861:

SPECIAL TRAIN.

I suppose you and your readers would like to hear about the Fourth Regiment, or at least, that part of it which belongs to Quincy. We left Boston late Wednesday afternoon in a special train for Fall River, there to take a steamboat for this place. All along the road, the various depots were thronged with those who had friends or relatives in our corps, who saluted us with cheers and discharges of cannon as we passed along.

BOAT AT FALL RIVER.

Arriving at Fall River about ten, we marched on board the "State of Maine." We numbered four hundred and seventy all told, while the boat could not comfortably accommodate more than two-thirds of that number; consequently we were much crowded together, and the men were obliged to sleep anywhere and everywhere.

COALED AT NEW YORK.

Our progress was very slow so that we did not reach New York until seven o'clock Thursday evening. We stopped here until four next morning taking coal on board, and trimming ship.

While there, the captains of the various companies with the Field and Staff were invited to take supper at the Astor House, where we spent three or four hours very pleasantly, and then again embarking were soon on our way.

NO CLEWS OF MURDERER

No Stock Taken in Story of Louis M. Daas

Chief Burrell does not place much reliance in the story told by Louis M. Daas, who claims to have met Haddad on South street on the afternoon of the murder at 4 o'clock. At that hour the streets about the scene of the murder were alive with policemen and armed citizens seeking the murderer, and as many of the searchers knew Haddad it would have been impossible for him to have run such a gauntlet and not have been captured.

After Daas told his story to the Overseer of the Poor he was taken in hand by the police and questioned closely with the result that his original story was somewhat shattered. Daas claimed at first that he met Haddad, who he knew well on South street a little after 4 o'clock, and that he stopped and talked with him. Haddad appeared to be greatly excited and he thought he was drunk. After some words, which Daas did not understand, Haddad hurried away. Chief Burrell questioned Daas closely and came to the conclusion that there was not much of merit in the story.

There is not much question but what Haddad got out of town via. Braintree, taking a train at that station. It is reported that he had considerable money with him, but that is one of those things that can not be verified. He will doubtless seek out some Syrian colony and as soon as his countrymen find out who he is they will not only refuse to shelter him, but will promptly turn him over to the authorities.

Chief Burrell said this morning that there were no new developments in the murder case. He stated that

THE MINUTE MEN'S ANNIVERSARY

How Quincy Is Today Observing the Prompt Response of Co. H.

Citizens Mass Meeting Tonight at City Hall

Today flags are flying all over Quincy and church bells were rung at 7 A. M., 12 M. and 6 P. M. in observance of the day just 50 years ago when Col. Abner B. Packard, the commander of the 4th Mass. Regt. M. V. M., receive orders to report with his command in Boston FORTHWITH. Because of his prompt response appreciation is shown today by the citizens and the patriotic organizations. Flags are flying on City Hall, the schoolhouses, Post Office, Y. M. C. A., business houses and private residences. George H. Wilson is proud of the old flag he is flying today. He has newer and brighter ones, but the one on the Wilson building is very old and has seen years of service

This evening there will be a grand mass meeting at City Hall at 8 o'clock, to be preceded at 7.30 with a reception to Col. Henry Walker and other Minute Men. All patriotic people of Quincy, ladies, gentlemen and young people are invited.

Col. Walker and other Minute Men will arrive from Boston on the train at 7.23 and will be met at the station by Paul Revere Post, 88 G. A. R., Abner B. Packard Camp, S. of V., the Spanish War Veterans and others. There may be a short march if weather will permit via Saville street, Washington street, Temple street and Hancock street to City Hall.

Today the hall has been decorated with plants and flowers from the greenhouses of Mrs. Abner B. Packard, and with flags. The historic Richmond flag, the first to fly at Richmond on evacuation day is upon the wall at the head of the hall, and is sacredly guarded by Paul Revere Post. A large painting of the late Col. Packard occupies a conspicuous place on an easel.

Mayor Shea will call the meeting to order and give the address of welcome. No formal program is announced but there will probably be reminiscences by Capt. Franklin Curtis and other survivors of Co. H., also by Col. Walker, Col. Anderson and several others.

A piano has been placed in City Hall today and there will be music by the Wollaston orchestra, a quartet number by the Misses Packard

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Hymn for the garden season: "Lay down the shovel and the hoe."

From the number of second hand automobiles for sale, one concludes that last year's motor is as bad form as a 1910 Easter hat.

Mr. Taft says he is going to have efficiency in the government departments, which is one more luxury for the people to pay for.

Maine farmers are forming a potato trust. In time Uncle Reuben may ride the automobile and the bank presidents jump out of his way.

The philosophers who call for "Sweetness and light" can now find it by looking for a red haired girl eating maple sugar.

When you buy goods in some distant city that could be had as well at home, you miss the chance to make a business ally in your own town who sooner or later may be very useful.

You can't dun people any more on a post card. Such duns never bother debtors any, and as the creditors like it very much, it seems too bad to stop a practice that adds to human happiness.

If the mistress of a home on a swell street goes to the metropolis for her fine feathers, soon the wife of the clerk and the laborer will be spending her dollars to help build up some congested center.

CELTIC SONG-CYCLE.

The Bertha Cushing-Child concert will be given in Alpha Hall this year, Monday, May 15. It is always a pleasure to listen to Mrs. Child's rich contralto. Unusual interest will be added this year by the first public performance of Miss Magadelen S. Worden's celtic song-cycle for four solo voices. Miss Worden is a young composer whose fine work is attracting much attention. She will personally direct the cycle, and play the accompaniment. The solo parts will be sung by Mrs. Child, Mrs. James H. Slade, Mr. Benjamin Berry (the tenor of King's chapel), and Mr. Louis Schalk the well-known baritone. These fine singers, with Mr. Russell A. Kingman 'cellist, and Mr. Charles L Greene of Quincy, accompanist, will also assist in the first part of the program.

Mrs. Lloyd W. Jones of Verchild street has been confined to her bed for over two weeks with a severe attack of tonsilitis and grip, attended by Dr. J. A. Gordon her family physician for twenty-seven years. She is fast improving and her many friends will be glad to see her again among them attending to her activities. Her daughter Mrs. Charles E. Mathaurs of Cambridge, nee Alice Jones has been with her during her illness.

INSOMNIA

"I have been using Cascarets for Insomnia, with which I have been afflicted for over twenty years, and I can say that Cascarets have given me more relief than any other remedy I have ever tried. I shall certainly recommend them to my friends as being all they are represented."

OLD COLONY STREET RAILWAY COMPANY ANSWERS NEWSPAPER ARTICLES

Paul R. Blackmur Gives Additional Facts and Figures

Shows What the Trolley Car and Company Has Done for Quincy

We believe that the frequent publication of letters containing the same arguments by the same person under different fanciful names, such as R. We Easy; Pro Bono Publico; Anti Publiss; Tax Payers; Quincy Ite; Public Spirit and others, for the purpose of trying to impress the citizens with the belief that there is a widespread objection to the location of a trolley express depot on Washington street in our City, is so shallow as to fool nobody. They certainly will not carry weight with the members of the City Council. Other articles published containing personal abuse directed against the employees and representatitves of the Street Railway Company can be dismissed. That is usually the last resort of persons who have no case.

The Old Colony Street Railway Company gives to the public and to the members of the City Council facts and figures over the signature of responsible representatives of the company, and they expect these figures will be carefully considered in the determining the issue upon its merits.

On April 13th, Mr. Gammon the superintendent of the company timed the car at Newcomb Square switching on to the Fore River Yard tracks and travelling a distance of some 25 feet additional thereon. The car stopped on the main track before taking the switch and was proceeded by a conductor so that the conditions observed were ismilar to those that would exist in Washington street at the proposed location. The time on the first trial was 12 seconds going into yard and 10 second coming out. The second trial was 13 seconds going in and 11 seconds coming out.

The proposed branch off on Washington street will occupy 25 feet if the street from main track to the company's property, and as has been stated before the company will begin its express service by operating two cars a day, making four crossings of the street in all, taking from 10 to 13 seconds each time.

At present the city of Brockton with 58,000 people having a trolley express established six years between all surrounding towns and cities south sends out six express cars per day only. In Quincy we hope soon to operate four, making eight crossings of the street, and this will probably take care of express business here for many years to come. But for the sake of argument let us consider that in the future we will operate as many as Brockton or even twice as many, which would be 12 cars in 12 hours twice crossing the street. Would that add any real burden to Washington street as compared with the use of street by the passenger cars, and the use of other streets by other cars?

These cars are the same size as are the passenger cars. Would two, four or a dozen more cars travelling along and across Washington street cause real congestion? In order to comprehend what these few additional cars amount to in the traffic of a street, consider what traffic streets of this size bear eleswhere. Washington street in Boston west of Summer street is narrower from curb to curb than Washington street in Quincy at the point in question, and Winter street is narrower than Foster street, and in Boston there is an additional way street nearly opposite Summer street, pouring traffic into Washington street.

During the rush hours the Boston Elevated Railway Company operate 137 CARS PER HOUR ON EACH TRACK on Washington street. During the quiet hours they operate 81 CARS EACH WAY PER HOUR, and during the entire day operate BOTH WAYS 3156 CARS During the rush hours thousands upon thousands of people and vehicles pass over and along the streets in question, and yet I venture to say few if any of the readers of this article ever saw an accident at that point.

Here is another illustration of what is really congestion, Boylston street in Boston is an instance where the Railway Company operates 420 cars per hour in conjunction with a tremendous pedestrian's travel and vehicle traffic.

In the selection of this location we believe that we not only provide a real convenience for citizens of Quincy today, but also have had due regard for the future use of this street. If as to the future we are in error no one will be before us in recognizing and correcting the situation.

For several years subsequent to 1900 the Street Railway Company operated a car barn on Washington street near the fountain. From this barn over 200 cars a day travelled in and out and crossed the entire width of Washington street. Before any serious complaint was made by the citizens the company of its own volition abandoned the old location, and this too in the face of objections by many who thought there was an advantage to have a car barn so centrally located.

What are 4, 8, or 12 cars a day going to this express office to 200 cars into the old car barn? The claim of congestion of traffic over Washington street by teams and automobiles during the week day at the present time is ridiculous. We took record of vehicles passing in both directions over Washington street and Foster street on March 28th, between the hours of 7.00 A. M. and 6.00 P. M. This would be the same period during which we would operate our trolley express. The following is the complete record.

Record of all conveyances in both directions, March 28, 1911.

In an article published April 13th in the Ledger a correspondent asks "What had the Railway company done for Quincy." The answer to that is, what has the trolley car done for the development of New England and all the suburbs of the City of Boston.

A Street Railway Company operated by electricity connecting the cities and towns is one of the greatest of modern instruments making for social and economic progress.

What factor in our present civilization contributes so much to the happiness, convenience and comfort of the travelling public? Would the residents at the Point go back to the days in transportation of Lapham's carriages?

Five cents today buys much less than it formerly did of almost any commodity, but much more of transportation on the Street Railway car. It carries you safely, regularly and comfortably with greater frequency for a longer distance than ever before; takes you farther than the quarter would twenty years ago; and farther in some instances than the dollar.

Who would ever go back to the old horse Railway cars on Washington street, Quincy, or the omnibuses in Boston for transportation? But today we hear the same argument by persons of narrow vision trying to block the wheels of progress that we did twenty years ago when electric cars were first proposed.

If the person who asked the question had in mind what the Street Railway does for Quincy in direct revenue of dollars and cents I would refer him to the state and city records which show that the Old Colony Street Railway Company paid the city of Quincy more than any other city or town in its territory. $39,850.48 are the figures our city fathers received from the Street Railway Company last year.

Lynn was the next city to Quincy, but they receive $6,000 less than Quincy did. Fall River was the largest in this territory and they received about $19,000 or 21,000 less than was paid to Quincy.

It costs nothing for Quincy in extra police to protect the great power plant at Quincy Point, but the citizens are benefitted by the labor which it employs and the large amount of taxes which result from the capital invested there.

Another correspondent says we pay nothing for the street by reason of our cars operating thereon, but he forgets to state that we pave and keep in repair the pavements between the rails and 18 inches outside, and in addition to this last year we paid the City of Quincy $5048.55 as an excise tax, the third largest amount paid on the Old Colony system. The city is supposed to expend the same on streets we occupy. This money is received by the City Treasurer but is appropriated by the City Council for such purposes as it sees fit.

Now gentlemen let me ask a question, what has the automobile owners done for Quincy for whom our opponents are so solicitious? Do those who rush through to the South Shore in great numbers at excessive speed, covering us with dust, contribute anything to the city? Of course we must be careful not to delay them any part of ten seconds at Foster street, otherwise they might leave on the street some of its surfacing which we are constantly replacing at so much pain and expense.

Don't forget that the trolley car is the poor man's automobile.

Paul R. Blacmur,
74 Elm street, Quincy.

The Lorimer scandal in the last congress left such a bad impression that hopes are general that his eligibility to sit in the senate will again be brought forward. In the light of allegations made public this week as to the manner in which his election was promoted, through the use of a so-called $100,000 "slush" fund, the fact must appear to fair-minded people, with a befitting regard for the honor of the senate and for the reputation of the country, that Lorimer's seat should in justice be declared vacant.—Salem News.

Mr. Albert M. Karwich, musical director for the "Pi Eta" and "Tech" shows, has charge of the music for the Men's Club Revue at Music hall, April 26.

Colonel 4th Regt., M. V. M.
First of Our Citizens
To Respond to the Call
For Troops in 1891

Today two wreaths have been placed at the door; one of galyx leaves with a small flag and the figures 1911, and the other quite artistic with red, white and blue.

Mrs. Packard, the widow, is not in good health, and it was necessary today to call a physician but she is greatly interested in this testimonal by Quincy people to the Minute Men. Lincoln's call of April 15, 1861, read:

Whereas, the laws of the United States have been for some time past and now are opposed and the execution thereof obstructed in the states of South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Texas, by combinations too powerful to be suppressed by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, or by the powers vested in the marshals by law; now, therefore, I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, in virtue of the power in me vested by the constitution and the laws, have thought fit to call forth, and hereby do call for the militia of the several states of the union to the aggregate number of 75,000, in order to suppress said combinations and to cause the laws to be duly executed.

The details for this object will be immediately communicated to the state authorities through the war department. I appeal to all loyal citizens to favor, facilitate and aid this effort to maintain the honor, the integrity and existence of our national union, and the perpetuity of popular government, and to redress wrongs already long enough endured. I deem it proper to say that the first service assigned to the forces hereby called forth will probably be to repossess the forts, places and property which have been seized from the union; and in every event the utmost care will be observed; consistently with the objects aforesaid, to avoid any devastation, any distinction of, or interference with, property, or any disturbance of peaceful citizens of any part of the country; and I here command the persons composing the combinations aforesaid to disperse and retire peaceably to their respective abodes, within 20 days from this date.

☞The Palms Theatre, Houghs Neck will open April 19 under the management of A. L. Maynard, with a high class show. Will cater especially to women and children.

A program of music and readings was enjoyed. The pastor, Rev. Joseph Walther and the Superintendent of the Sunday School Elford D. Dufgan, who with their wives were present, both spoke briefly.

The evening opened with the singing of "Where hast thou gleaned today" and was followed by a vocal solo by Ella Whitehead entitled "Whispering hope." Martha Waring contributed a reading entitled, "Anabelle McCarthy's party." Refreshments followed, and the party adjourned with singing "Bringing in the sheaves," after pronouncing it a most enjoyable evening.

It is almost needless for me to say New York was all alive with excitement. Her "pet pride," the Seventh, was to sail in the Mercury soon to be followed by three other regiments. Uniforms were to be met at every corner, and seemed to be a passport in one's favor.

READY FOR ATTACK.

At noon on Friday the men were all mustered in the saloon, their arms inspected, ten men detailed from each corps and provided with ball cartridges. This detachment, numbering one hundred men, were ordered to sleep on their arms, ready at a given signal to take their appointed stations to repel any attack. The single cannon on board was manned, provided with cartridges and cannister shot.

We had heard in New York that there was a chance of our being intercepted, and as far as we were able were determined to be ready. At midnight all our lights were put out. A steamer passed us and sent up a rocket. In a moment our drums beat and our men stood to arms. The steamer, however, passed on without molesting us.

FORT MONROE CITED.

At day light we could see Fort Monroe in the distance; no flag, nor sign of life was there.

Three miles down the bay we had hailed the keeper of the light boat stationed there, but had received no answer; he is an ultra secessionist and since then has resigned his office.

WELCOMED WITH CHEERS.

We laid off and on abreast the Fort nearly an hour; at last we saw the stars and stripes raised on the flagstaff, and ran down to the wharf. We quickly disembarked and marched into the fort. As we landed, the men of the garrison who crowded upon the parapet, welcomed us with cheers which our men answered with a will.

FOURTH REGIMENT FIRST.

In the afternoon Col. Wardrop's regiment, the Third, came in on the "G. R. Spaulding." We were first on the ground and our chief anxiety had been lest the Third should reach the post before us.

In the afternoon the Third embarked upon the "Pawnee," Commodore Paulding, and sailed for Norfolk.

The result of the expedition you probably have learned from papers of the day. Property to an immense amount was destroyed, and the Confederate navy, or what the rebels intended to appropriate as theirs, was ruined.

GARRISON EXHAUSTED.

We were greeted heartily by the garrison on our arrival. For weeks they had daily been in fear of an attack. The night before our arrival the officers and men had slept on their arms expecting an assault. The men were worn out by continued watching, having been obliged to be on guard duty two nights out of every three.

THE CUMBERLAND.

The Cumberland lies abreast the Fort, and stops every vessel going up or down, examines their papers, and compels them to hoist the stars and stripes. On Friday last, the frigate brought to a schooner which, on examination, proved to be loaded with a full field battery, bound either to Norfolk or Wilmington. Her captain was put on guard, while the contents of his vessel are now lying on the wharf, guarded by our own men.

CO. H ON GUARD.

On Saturday the Quincy company were posted on the wharf with orders to shoot any man who attempted to cut the schooner's fastenings. We are quite busy now getting into the regular routine of army life. One company of our regiment is daily detailed for guard duty, and two for fatigue duty. Attending to parades, mounting guns, and other like duties, take up most of our time. In a week every gun will be mounted, and the men will have an easier time.

NO COWARDS.

We are all sorry here to know that at home Captain Curtis is considered a deserter, and is charged with cowardice. Such a charge is utterly false and groundless. He had leave of absence for three days, and was a bearer of despatches from Col. Packard to the Governor. He returned to his post promptly at the time appointed and intends to stay as long as the Fourth Regiment continues in service. I shall write to you again whenever anything happens worthy of note.

(Signed) "Quincy."

VOTES FOR WOMEN.

I want to vote very much, and if I could I should. Isn't it absurd that the women who have fed the babies should not be allowed to vote on measures to bring about clean milk for them because by some tradition of the prehistoric age men have done the voting? Industrial questions, such as the minimum wage, are matters of which women know quite as much as men.—Jane Addams.

This is the stamp that will hereafter be found on Regal Shoes. It is your guarantee that the price appearing in its centre is the lowest for which a shoe of such quality can be bought.

Shoes for Easter

You are not well-dressed unless your feet are. In a careful costume the shoes are as important as the hat. If you make Regal Shoes the foundation of your Easter costume you have begun right.

REGAL Sign of ye REGAL

Why Regal Styles are Authentic and Fresh

The Regal straight-line selling system, direct from factory to wearer, is not alone economical—it is quick. It takes other shoe makers, selling through the usual way, from four to six months to get a new style to the public.

Regal does this in from three to six WEEKS!

The newest Regal styles now on sale left the Regal factories within the past three weeks. They are not guesses or "trial styles," as shoes that were made four months ago must be. They are reproductions of actual, custom-made styles originated and approved for this Spring's wear by the acknowledged authorities of footwear fashion in New York and London.

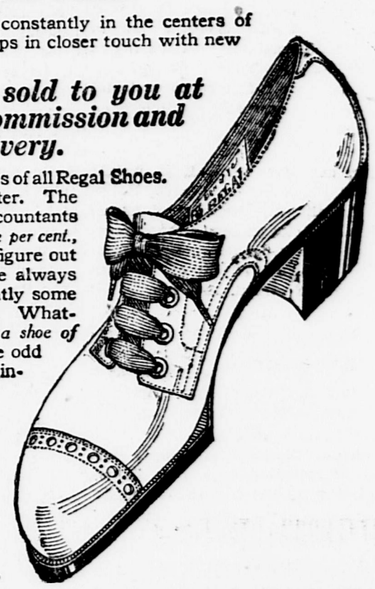
REGAL SHOES

FOR MEN AND WOMEN

Regal style-watchers are on duty constantly in the centers of fashion. No milliner or dressmaker keeps in closer touch with new styles, or follows them more promptly.

And Regal Shoes are sold to you at cost, plus only 5 per cent. commission and the cost of selling and delivery.

This stamp will be found on the soles of all Regal Shoes. The price of the pair appears in the center. The price is verified by chartered public accountants and certified by them as being cost plus five per cent., plus cost of selling. It does not always figure out in "even half-dollar" prices that you have always had to pay for good shoes. It is frequently some "odd" price, like $3.35 or $4.65 or $5.85. Whatever it is, it is the lowest price for which a shoe of that quality can be sold. You save all the odd change that you formerly gave up to maintain the traditional prices.



Regal Prices are now

$3.35 to $5.85

A dance will be held in Cunningham gymnasium on the evening of Patriots' day for the benefit of the baseball team.

J. Ernest Quimby and wife who have been at Pinehurst, North Carolina, for the winter will return to East Milton early next week.

The heirs of John Lawton of Milton came into possession of a plot of land on the Neponset side of the river recently by a release. A great many years ago, John Lawton took a lease of the property from the town of Dorchester in exchange for $1,200 and one of one percent interest for a long term of years. The city of Boston of which Neponset is a part has given the heirs a clear title to the property upon the payment of a few dollars to cover the interest.

NOTABLE BIRTHDAY.

Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Reed of Liberty square quietly celebrated their birthday yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Reed were both born the day President Lincoln was shot, April 14, 1865, which happened to be Good Friday. This year their anniversary fell on Good Friday for the first time since they were married. Since the event came in Holy Week only the immediate family was present to join them in a quiet observance of the day. Mr. and Mrs. Reed were each presented with a diamond ring. Mr. Reed is well known in Quincy as a member of the firm of Reed & Vendret and as treasurer of the Quincy Blue Granite Quarry Co.

GAS DEMONSTRATION

The Citizens' Gas company has erected six gas arc lights in City Square in front of Bethany church and the Daily Ledger office, to demonstrate what can be done in the way of making Hancock street a "Great White Way". This demonstration comes at the request of the Merchants' branch of the Quincy Board of Trade. On Friday evening two burner Gretzen lights were used, and this evening 5 burner Humprey lights of 450 candle power will illuminate City Square.

DIRECT ELECTION

Representatives Thomas and Langelier both voted yesterday in favor of the resolve for direct election of United States senators. The vote was 170 to 37.

THE BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Hubbites Have All Gone to the Dogs, with Chinese Chow Chows for a Relish—Peg Shoes for the Near Barefoot School Boy is Latest Philanthropy—Eat a Carrot a Day and Life a Century—New England's Greatest Industrial Chief Comes out for Government Control.

Fifty-seven different barks of dog have been regaling Bostonians on the street cars just prior to the completion of the canine collections at Mechanics Building—big dogs, little dogs, homely dogs and pretty dogs, leashed and led to the great show. Many passengers were entertained to no small extent by the wordy arguments between their respective owners as to "Who's Who" in Dogland. Much excitement was caused by the effort required to stow five yelping spaniels into two baskets amid high voiced orders and expostulations on the part of two women who, from the evident relish with which they jawed each other, must have been sisters. Through it all a dignified Boston bull terrior, so homely that his face must have ached, gazed scornfully at the melee, with a distinctly perceptible sardonic grin on his ugly countenance. All New England loves dogs and many were the out of town people gathered about the doors on the opening day. Of the new varieties exhibited perhaps the most heartily relished were the Chinese chow-chows.

Miss Boston looks forward to the promised visit of the St. John Fusiliers, who, it is announced, will come up from New Brunswick to help the Hub celebrate the festivities of June 17 and will prolong their visit over the 19th. The promise of an invasion of out of town soldiers always sets feminine hearts fluttering, and the 62nd St. John Fusiliers are noted for their bearing and bravery—for the honorable record and from the great number of men in the ranks who have won military service and war medals. The 8th Massachusetts infantry is to have charge of the entertainment of the visitors, and the sight of the splendid moose head and hide presented by Lieut. Col. McAvity of the Fusiliers to the 8th Massachusetts, and which now adorns their Cambridge headquarters, is a constant incentive to make the entertainment worthy of the guests. The Fusiliers will be accompanied by their regimental band and the drum and bugle band, and will participate in the military parade on Bunker Hill day. This is worth while reciprocity.

How the New England public service interests are falling more and more into the hands of broad gauge men is suggested by an account which a Boston newspaper publishes of the views of President Theodore N. Vail on governmental control of the telephone industry. This overlord of the nation's wires, both telephonic and telegraphic, has become a very familiar figure at the Hub where he directs the destinies of the biggest business known to this section. He takes abundant interest, too, in matters outside of office duties, as all realized who attended a dinner he recently gave for the purpose of furthering acquaintance between the local newspaper publishers and his fellow trustees of the Museum of Fine Arts. He is also a staunch supporter of the Boston opera house. In the domain of national affairs this resident of Boston's wealthiest suburb has been gaining favorable opinions by urging a radical departure from the old time corporation attitude.

"Public control, or regulation of public service corporations by permanent commissions," he says, "has come and come to stay. Control or regulation exercised through such a body has many advantages over that exercised through regular legislative bodies or committees. The permanent commission will be a quasi-judicial body." This opinion that public service companies should expect to submit to reasonable regulation was advanced in a tentative way by Mr. Vail in his 1908 report; he now amplifies it in a manner to make the whole United States take notice, urging that control and regulation should end abuses of capitalization, extortion and over-charging, but that private management should not be unnecessarily interfered with.

The unfortunate citizen who is obliged to subsist on the fare of city restaurants occasionally meets compensation in the form of valuable hints and helps for the conservation of physical and mental well being. A lady, evidently a disciple of Horace Fletcher, the other day imparted the intelligence, within hearing of several diners, that a carrot a day is the absolute guarantee of health. "Oh, yes, my dear," she exclaimed, "you eat them raw—just clean and scrape them, and cut them in slices, and eat a whole one every day of your life. There is absolutely nothing like it for the human system." One of her hearers who dislikes carrots has been seeing red ever since.

Pegging shoes for the needy pupils in his charge is the unique occupation of a head master of a group of schools in a greater Boston suburb. It has been learned recently that for nearly a year this master, with the assistance of two teachers, has maintained a secret room where he has repaired partially worn shoes obtained from wealthier localities in order that the pupils of his school might be able to go to their classes on stormy days. This work has been jealously guarded, that the beneficiaries might not feel humiliated. As the undertaking became more than he could handle alone, he admitted a few of the larger boys to help, under the impression that they were merely learning a useful trade. The two allied teachers, a man and a woman, keep close watch upon the needs of the children under their care, and inform the master as to what child had better be kept after school a few minutes and presented with a much needed pair of shoes. The work has now been extended to include clothing as well as shoes, and the good work goes on with unabated zeal, bringing comfort to many children without the embarrassment of feeling themselves objects of public charity.

Boston's Tech is fifty years young, and all Bostonians know it. The Hub has been filled choc-a-block with "old grads" and young ones celebrating the semi-centennial of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The settlement of the future of "Tech," whose management has been in an unsettled frame of mind for some time, was an important feature of the festivities. The loyalty of Tech men is shown in the offers of assistance toward the establishment of an adequate institution to meet the growing demands. One notable gift announced at the Congress of Technology was that of a tract of a thousand acres on the coast of Maine, close to sea, lake and river, for the purpose of a summer camp to be used as the necessary adjunct to a civil engineering school. Another offer is that of all the cement necessary to construct the entire set of proposed buildings of the new institute when the site shall have been decided upon. Many other donations were announced at the Congress, and Tech men feel that the famous school is starting on its second half century under most promising auspices.

The success of the Brandeis plan of furnishing life insurance at cost through the Savings Banks appears to be assured. Recent figures show that the premium income of the Insurance Departments of the Whitman Savings Bank and the People's Savings Bank of Brockton in March 1911 amounted to $6,997.52. The Whitman Savings Bank shows an increase of 51 per cent and the People's Savings Bank an increase of 65 per cent over the receipts of their respective Insurance Departments in March 1910. Nearly $1,700,000 of insurance is in force at the present time.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

WOLLASTON BAPTISTS

Annual Meeting Almost a Jubilee Occasion

The annual meeting of the Wollaston Baptist church was held in the chapel on Friday evening at which the election of officers, reports of the church departments, and a general discussion of church work took place.

Attention was called to the fact that this is the fortieth anniversary of the establishment of the church, and Mrs. George F. Pinkham, the only remaining resident constituent member, was presented with a large and beautiful floral bouquet as a token or regard and of forty years faithful service in the work of the church.

The year just passed has been one, if not the most successful years in the history of the church, and the spirit, in which the additional expenses of $700 were raised in a few minutes by voluntary contributions from the floor, was but the keynote of that which prevailed throughout the entire meeting.

A delicate acknowledgement of the pastor's good work was shown in the granting of a $100 increase in the salary of the Rev. Joseph Walther, bringing it to the figure of $2000 yearly, and including in addition use of the parsonage and telephone.

During the current year the church has directly contributed the sum of $2,163.50 for benevolences, which in the allied organizations $739.46 have been donated bringing the grand total used in this good work to nearly $3,000. For the running expenses of the church $4,269.51 have been raised and expended.

The meeting at which the pastor presided opened with passages from the scriptures and those present were lead in prayer by Deacons George E. Thomas and George B. Huntington.

The reading of the records by acting clerk J. Arthur Sparrow showed a church membership of 338, a net gain over last year of seven. During the past year the church has lost by death six members, the following having passed away: Howard Gannett, Ellen A. Sprague, Mary A. Paul, Sarah M. Litchfield Harry A. Burgess and Susan A. Marple.

Rev. Joseph Walther referred to the fortieth anniversary of the church and told how it was first organized in the home of Mrs. George F. Pinkham. He showed the appreciation of the society by the presentation of a bouquet. Mr. Pinkham responded for his better half with a few well chosen words.

Following the report of the auditor, Herbert W. Pinkham, the reports of Treasurer Francis H. Corey and Collector Harvey D. Black were accepted. The treasury showed a balance of nearly $300 on hand.

Charles B. Hall reported briefly for the weekly offering committee, while Deacon George E. Thomas told of the benevolences that had been accomplished through the deacon's fund or poor fund.

For the committee on the trust fund, Herbert W. Pinkham reported and made an earnest appeal that more pledges might be made, in order that none of the co-operative shares at present carried might be dropped.

Charles E. Goodspeed spoke for the beneficient offering committee, and told of the proposed donations intended with the funds available.

In his report of the Sunday school, Oscar A. Blaisdell, its secretary, told of the flourishing condition existing. His statement of the membership of the Walther and Albee classes of 58 and 59 members respectively brought forth a laugh. The former is made up of the adult men and the latter of the adult women, there being great rivalry between the two. The school has an active membership of 368 and associate and other members bringing the grand total to 412. Of the 28 baptisms during the year, all have been members of the Sunday School. Attention was called to Mrs. Pinkham's class of young ladies which has been organized for over ten years.

Elford D. Durgan, superintendent of the Sunday School, being called upon referred to the year past as one of testing in which obstacles had been met and faced in a very creditable way.

George F. Pinkham made several recommendations regarding the expenditure of funds.

For the Ladies Social and Benevolent Society, Mrs. Wellington Record told of its varied work which consists of devotional meetings, church socials, floral decorations, attention to the sick and bereaved, calling and benevolences.

Ernest C. Roberts, president of the Y. P. S. C. E. reported a membership of 60 and an average attendance of 35. He emphasized the earnestness with whch the meetings were taken hold.

Mrs. Kendall F. Harriman reported a very successful year for the Junior Christian Endeavor, taking into account the scarlet fever epidemic.

For the Eliot Home Mission society, Mrs. J. Arthur Sparrow reported, while Mrs. M. E. Black told of the work by the Women's Foreign Missionary society.

Miss Eleanor Dunn gave an optimistic repor tof the Nearer and Farther Lights Society.

Amos D. Albee brought in the report of the trustees containing the budget and recommendations for the coming year. He spoke of the need of more room for the Sunday School, and of the sketches made for additions which in the near future would entail an expenditure of from $6000 to $6,500.

John L. Miller, J. H. Marceau and Charles W. Bailey were appointed a committee of three to secure contributions to care for the additional floating debt of $700 incurred by alterations to the parsonage, insurance, etc.

At this juncture George F. Pinkham arose with the expression that the sum ought to be raised at the present meeting. This was taken hold of with a will, and in a short time accomplished. With the hymn "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," those present celebrated this action. In behalf of the committee of three, Charles W. Bailey thanked Mr. Pinkham for his assistance.

Harry A. Carpenter of Sharon was voted a member of the society.

Following are the officers and committees elected for the ensuing year:

Mills, Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. Edwin Gannett, Mrs. Charles Wade, and Mrs Gilbert H. Rhodes and was served by a corps of young people consisting of Misses Grace Schermerhorn, Eleanor Dunn, Marion Corey, Clara Porter Ethel Hatfield, Mildred Sayward, May Gold, Gertrude Barbour, Etta Holmes, Charlotte Scarborough and Messrs. WHEN HER BACK ACHES.

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Quincy women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden Bachache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of he stealthy appreach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Quincy woman's words:

Mrs. Deborah Prouty, 39 Quincy avenue, Quincy, Mass., says: "I am in a position to speak in the highest terms of Doan's Kidney Pills. My back ached nearly all the time and caused me considerable trouble. Any sudden movement or an attempt to stoop, sent sharp pains through my loins. My health was much run down and I had but little strength or energy. I was very much alarmed about my condition. When Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me, I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store, as I knew of many other people who had used them with success. The contents of three boxes convinced me that they were the best kidney remedy to be had. I am now in good health."

Grand Demonstration in Honor of Quincy's "Minute Men"

CITY HALL MEETING LARGELY ATTENDED

Ovations for Col. Walker, Capt. Curtis and Col. Anderson

Testimonials of Appreciation Interspersed With Music

Vivid recollections of the stirring times of fifty years ago, when in response to the call of President Lincoln many of Quincy's sons hastily laid aside their usual vocations and donning the uniform of blue hastened to respond to the call that this united country might be preserved, were brought to mind at the gathering at City Hall Saturday evening to commemorate that historical event.

The gathering was a notable one in many respects for in that gathering were many of the gray haired veterans of the Civil War as well as the widows of those who had answered to last roll call, the sons and daughters of these veterans and many of those who were equally as active to respond to the call of 1898 during the war with Spain.

City Hall looked particularly attractive with its decorations the national colors predominating. Suspended across the the southwest corner was the historic Richmond flag, the first to be raised in that city after the evacuation of the confederates. Back of the President's desk was another old flag a Colonial flag with thirteen stars denoting the thirteen original states. In front of the desk was a large picture of Col. Abner B. Packard banked on either side with Easter lilies, and potted palms and flags, while at each of the chandeliers on the sides of the hall were crossed flags. Along the front of the balcony was a row of tri colored bunting and at intervals crossed flags. The decorations were by Mrs. C. P. Gould and Mrs. Walter M. Packard.

THE HONORED GUEST.

The honored guest of the evening was Col. Henry Walker and several of the survivors of those who answered the "first call." Col. Walker arrived from Boston at 7.23 and was met by the Grand Army and Sons of Veterans who received him with due honors. Placed in an automobile with Capt. Franklin Curtis and Rev. T. W. Davison he was taken for a short parade about City Square and then escorted to City Hall.

Among the first to greet Col. Walker as he stepped from the train was Eugene W. O'Connor of South Quincy who was the Colonel's boy during the campaign. Arriving at City Hall he was greeted by Mayor Shea and escorted to the front of the presidents desk where for a half hour there was an informal reception. In the line with Col. Walker were these Minute Men of Co. H in 1861, Capt. Franklin Curtis, Comrades E. W. H. Nutting, Joseph W. Lapham, Robert Josselyn and John Larkin, the last named now living in Woburn, also Albert Keating and Charles F. Pierce who were recruits of Co H. and left for the South about a month later.

Meanwhile the Wollaston orchestra was rendering patriotic airs. Many of the audience including members of Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., Col. Packard camp S. of V., Paul Revere Woman's Relief Corps and other organizations came forward and shook hands with the old veterans.

The reception over Col. Walker was escorted to the platform and the exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. T. W. Davison of the Memorial church at Atlantic. It was very appropriate to the occasion.

WELCOME BY MAYOR.

Mayor Shea in opening the meeting said:

Men of '61,, Col. Walker and members of the Grand Army, we are assembled tonight to commemorate the stirring deeds and events that took place fifty years ago. Col. Packard received a call to report with his command on Boston Common FORTHWITH and to the credit of Co. H. of Quincy, within 24 hours they had said good bye to home and friends and all that they held dear. It is fitting therefore that we should meet and show our esteem to these men. As Mayor, I extend the warmest greeting of the City of Quincy, especially to that veteran an old Quincy boy, Col. Henry Walker, who went as adjutant of the 4th regt. of which Co. H was a part.

I now have the pleasure of introducing Frank Fisher Prescott, to whom the credit of this meeting alone is due as the presiding officer of the evening. It was Mr. Prescott who first suggested the testimonial.

Mr. Prescott said he appreciated the honor. He first quoted a toast of Robert C. Winthrop at Faneuil Hall in 1862:

"Our county—whether bounded by the St. Johns and Sabine, or however otherwise bounded or described, and be the measurements more or less—still our country,—to be cherished in all our hearts,—to be defended by ALL our hands."

He said it was the prompt response of the Minute Men in 1861, and the general uprising of the North that gave strength and courage for this statement. And we are proud of Quincy's record, and particularly proud of our Minute Men, some of whom are with us tonight.

Because of this semi centennial of Lincoln's first call for Volunteers, many of us have become better acquainted with the exciting times of 1861 than ever before. I was only a few months old when Co. H left for the South. On the Saturday night after their departure there was a meeting in this hall which was full of spirit—of patriotism—of Unionism.

Before the meeting closed over $2000 were collected. Would that we might raise a like sum tonight for a Memorial Hall to the Civil War Veterans. The addresses were interspersed with music by the Quincy Brass Band and cheers for Capt. Curtis, Henry Walker, Col. Packard, Dr. Saville and others.

He hoped the veterans would tell the younger generations all about the early days of the war.

COL. PACKARD.

We all regret very much that the gallant commander of the 4th Mass. in 1861 is not here. He lived to a good old age honored and respected by all. His widow still lives, and her greenhouses on our main street have furnished these beautiful plants. Their sons and grandchildren are here.

Mr. Prescott first introduced Misses Minnie, Ella, Ruth and Dorothy Packard, daughters of Walter M. Packard and grandchildren of Col. Abner B. Packard, for a quartet number. The Misses Packard sang "Tenting tonight on the old camp ground" and for an encore sang "Old Kentucky"

COL. WALKER.

Col. Walker was the first speaker and was received by the old veterans with three rousing cheers. Col. Walker spoke in a low voice which was hardly audible although the hall was so quiet that the dropping of a pin might have been heard. He said I want to thank you for the interest you have taken and for the opportunity to meet my old comrades. As I

APPARATUS GOT STUCK

in Responding to Noon Alarm from Germantown

The alarm from Box 12 at 12.06 this soon was for a fire in the woods near Bethel beach, and gave the Central station apparatus a hard time getting to the scene. On the way down the combination ladder got stuck on Sea street, where the street is being repaired. The steamer got by, however, by pulling ever the banking. Two automobile trucks loaded with furniture were stuck in the same place and at the same time. Some time consumed before the apparatus got through. The fire was working over toward some of the cottages when the alarm was sounded. Volunteers however prevented any of the cottages from taking fire.

The last lecture in series of four under auspices of the Arts and Crafts committee of the Quincy Women's club will be held tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock at the club house. The subject will be Interior Decoration and the speaker Mr. Jennings. It promises to be an interesting hour for those attending.

Remember the open meeting of Bay View L.O.L. No. 187 this evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. A. A. Rideout, grand master of Loyal Orange Institution of the province of New Brunswick, will speak. You are requested to bring others to the meeting to be held in Wilson's hall.

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

An order will be introduced at the City Council meeting this evening for the relocation of the Soldiers' Monument, which it is hoped may be adopted this evening, that the work may be completed before Memorial Day.

As now located the monument is hid, and the lot is so small that each year on Memorial Day many graves in the vicinity are desecrated. It is proposed to move the monument outside Mt. Wollaston cemetery, and locate it in a triangle in front of the Sea street entrance, where it may be seen and where there is space for the thousands of people who desire to attend the annual exercises on Memorial Day.

One order for $295 will provide a new foundation for the monument, and another order of $290 will be asked for the removal of the monument. Then the old lot can be sold for a goodly sum and the proceeds used, if needed, to complete the work If the combined sum is not large enough the Daily Ledger hereby agrees to raise a sufficient sum by subscription.

Some have said the present Soldiers' Monument is not as attractive as some being erected in these days, but it should never be discarded. The fact that it was erected as early as June 25, 1868, shows that Quincy was among the first towns to thus honor their soldier dead. Brookline and several other towns have no soldiers' monument today. This promptness is worth more than a "show monument" however much we would like to see one which would better advertise Quincy granite.

When Quincy can afford to erect another memorial to the Grand Army of 1861-65 it should take the form of a Memorial Hall, a home for Paul Revere Post, and we believe the time has arrived. Let Quincy keep its pledges of 1861 to the volunteers.

The people who want safe factories for garment workers must hand over more than 89 cents for a shirt waist.

DUNSTAN—SUMMERS.

A very pretty wedding took place this afternoon in Christ church when Arthur H. Dunstan and Sarah Summers, both of Quincy, were united in marriage by Rev. Richard E. Armstrong, rector of the church. Miss Mary Summers, a sister of the bride acted as bridesmaid and Frederick H. Dunstan, a brother of the groom was best man. The wedding was very quiet with only the immediate members of the family present.

After the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride, 34 Quincy street, and the couple started shortly after for a trip through New York, Philadelphia and Washington. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Dunstan will ocupy the residence at 17 Dysart street where they will be at home to friends after May 31. Mrs. Dunstan is a very popular young lady of South Quincy. Mr. Dunstan has been connected with the Quincy Postoffice for more than ten years and is prominent in many social and fraternal organizations of this city. The young people were the recipients of many beautiful gifts from friends and the organizations to which they belonged.

CAVALRY SENT TO THE BORDER

Arizona Posts to Be Reinforced by Eight Hundred Men

NOT TO CROSS INTO MEXICO

Duties Will Be Confined to Safeguarding American Settlements Along Southern Frontier—Washington Is Awaiting Official Reports Before Determining Line of Policy Regarding Customs Situation

Washington, April 17.—Brought by the battle of Agua Prieta to a full realization of the danger to which American settlements along the southern frontier are exposed by the civil strife in Mexico, President Taft has moved swiftly and vigorously along all the lines of precaution to prevent any repetition of the Douglas, Ariz., episode.

With reports coming into Washington of the imminence of another conflict at Agua Prieta, the president ordered the entire Sixth cavalry from Des Moines to Arizona to reinforce the posts there. This will add 800 men to the guard in Arizona.

This step by the president supplements his warning to the Mexican government and revolutionary authorities that American lives and interests must not be endangered by unrestrained border line fighting. It completes, it is said, the administration's present program of precaution.

The fact is emphasized in official quarters that the American troops in the south have specific instructions not to cross into Mexico under any circumstances. The officers in command have been ordered to preserve a strict neutrality and to see that American citizens do not expose themselves to unwarranted danger.

It is confidently expected in administration circles that the Mexican government and the commanders of the insurgent forces will heed warning from the President of the United States and, as far as the exigencies of war will permit, choose their battlegrounds with profound respect for the rights of a neutral power.

Officials are loth to discuss the acute situation that would arise in case the American town is again threatened. It is made plain that it would create a diplomatic incident that would be immediately dealt with by the president directly.

As far as the customs situation at Agua Prieta is concerned, involving the question of recognizing the control of the revolutionists there, official Washington is awaiting developments. The treasury department telegraphed to the collector of the port of Douglas for a detailed report of the conditions at that point and at the sister Mexican city of Agua Prieta.

The international aspect of the case is receiving the close attention of the state department. The administration, it is said, will await complete official reports before determining a line of policy. Nothing has yet been decided on this important phase of the question and it is pointed out that all discussion of it at the present stage is purely an academic one.

The additional troops ordered to Arizona will be distributed between Fort Huachuca, Nogales and Douglas. Nogales, like Douglas, is practically on the border line, while Fort Huachuca lies about midway between these two points, but forty miles distant from the boundary. Besides the troops ordered directly to Douglas Captain Gaugot, commanding the patrolling force there, has been given a free hand to call upon nearby posts for assistance if necessary.

An Attack on Federals

Chihuahua, Mex., April 17.—Forty or more insurrectos were killed and over 100 wounded in a battle fought between Sauz and Santa Clara canon, fifty miles north of here, according to federal couriers.

The federasl reported five killed, but later developments are expected to change the figures. A number of women and children are believed to be among the killed.

Coming across from Casas Grandes on their way to Chihuahua with prisoners, under General Valdez, the federals, followed by about 100 refugees, were attacked.

Five hundred insurrectos under Generals Orozco and Villa had been instructed by Francisco Madero to head off the Casas Grandes contingent and if possible capture and release the prisoners. The fight occurred on a hacienda as the prisoners, shackled together by ropes, and the women and children refugees weary from the long tramp, were scattered in a long broken line.

The federals immediately responded with a heavy fire and placed the prisoners and non-combatants under protection. The fighting continued several hours and resulted in the sending north from here of General Rabago with 500 reinforcements.

So far as is known, none of the prisoners, among whom are believed to be many Americans, were wounded, and none escaped, although these statements are based on unofficial reports.

CANARIES MAKE A HIT

Turned Loose In Philadelphia Church During Easter Service

Philadelphia, April 17.—Two hundred singing canaries for a few minutes caused consternation among the worshippers at the Central Congregational church here. The birds were released in the church just before the sermon and as the choir was singing throughout the offering.

Getting their freedom, the little singers flew in all directions, some alighting on the new Easter bonnets of the women worshippers, while others flew to the flowers which decorated the body of the church.

The idea of releasing the canaries originated wth Rev. C. L. Kloss, pastor of the church. So good was the effect, after the excitement had died down, he declares he will try it on some future Easter Sunday.

EMBANKMENT STOPS TWO FALLING CARS

Passengers In Railroad Train Get Severe Shaking Up

Maynard, Mass., April 17.—Two pasenger cars, carrying seventy-five passengers, toppled half over and crashed against an embankment after being derailed a half mile west of the Maynard station yesterday afternoon. Seven people were hurt.

Passengers were thrown from their seats into the aisles and against windows. Five women fainted and nearly everyone in the cars were more or less shaken up.

As the train was running at a 15-miles-an-hour rate the tender failed to take a switch. It ran on a different track from the engine a foot or two and then bumped onto the sleepers. It carried the two passenger cars off the tracks with it.

Just as the train was stopping the two cars toppled over and struck an embankment. But for the embankment, road officials say, many might have been killed.

DROWNED IN CESSPOOL

Father, Son and Two Would-Be Rescuers Overcome by Gases

Corona, L. I., April 17.—Father, son and two friends were drowned in a cesspool here. The son, in trying to clean the pool, was suffocated by gases and sank into six feet of water at the bottom.

The father, in grappling for him while he was still struggling, was also overcome and pitched forward into the pool. Two other laborers, who attempted to rescue the first two, were similarly dazed and drowned. Firemen dragged out the bodies.

Concord, N. H., April 17.—The New Hampshire legislature of 1911 was prorogued by Governor Bass.

The only incident of the closing hours of the session was the veto by the governor of special appropriations aggregating $137,500 for the normal school at Keene, for an armory at Portsmouth, for improvements upon the state house and for a building for the engineering department of the state college at Durham.

QUESTIONS BY J. L. MILLER

Replies to Letter of Mr. Crowley on School Contracts

Editor Daily Ledger:

I notice in your issue of the 13th inst. a letter signed by Dennis Crowley, in which he tries to extricate himself out of a very bad position in regard to the school houses he has built for the City of Quincy.

Now, Mr. Editor, I would not attempt to answer such a letter, for it is its own best answer. It is just what could be heard in any bar room on "Rum Row" or Dorchester avenue, but there are one or two questions I would like to ask Mr. Crowley.

Did you not say to me in the corridor of City Hall one morning in the first week in September of 1909, that you would not complete your contract on the Lincoln school until you got your money that was held up on the Coddington building?

Did I not ask you how much was kept back, and you answered over $6000.00?

Did I not ask you what it was kept back for, and your answer was, in vile language unfit for publication about the Commissioner of Public Work, because he claimed there were some things which had to be fixed, but you would not fix them?

Were you not told right there by an official of authority, that if you did not proceed with the Lincoln building at once that the City would put men in at your expense on Thursday morning?

There does not appear to be any falsehood on my part there, for the witnesses are still living.

I note what Mr. Crowley claims I said at St. Mary's hall, but he misquotes, for it was not half as strong as he says, but I care not if he is correct, I was sincere, for I was not then conversant with the defects. I had not been on the building all the time, and any one knows poor work will not always show at first.

I notice how Mr. Crowley tries to evade and twist facts on the Lincoln building. He says the trouble was the Inspector made his report to the School Committee instead of to the architect or Commissioner of Public Works. This is not a fact, as the Inspector made no report to the School Committee.

Mr. Crowley also misquotes the specifications when he says the old window spaces were to be "filled up," when the specifications, as approved by the School Committee read "bricked up." He says they are as fire-proof as the other partitions, but I would like to ask him who made him a judge over his performance of a contract? He is hired to perform the work, not to judge it. The City has other people for that purpose.

He says it was impossible to complete the contract in June, but he does not say the contract did not call for completion in June. If it could not be done, why did he sign such a contract. Enough, Mr. Editor, the facts are yet in evidence.

He does not tell us the blackboards in the Atherton Hough building were new. He doesn't tell us the steps are pinned up with loose stone chips. He doesn't tell us that he set all the posts in the cellar wrong, and had to cut them out and reset them, and how much he swore about having to do it. He doesn't tell us that he got the closets on the girls end of the building set six inches lower than they should be, so that there was no flow from them, and then had to put them up on a platform. He doesn't tell us he tried to have the building approved with only a gravel floor in the fresh air room, when it called for a cement floor. He doesn't tell us the concrete was good, but merely says "The concrete is still in place." Bless his stars, I did not expect it to fall down so quick. The granite trimming speaks for itself. I want no better proof of the truth of my statement.

Now if Mr. Crowley knows no more about building school buildings than he knows about the City Charter, then I pity the city. He says I procured plans for a school house without competition, when there is no money involved in the procuring of plans. The plans did not cost the city one dollar, but it is on a par with his statements in regard to the school lot for the Adams district, which he claims I offered to buy, when he ought to know I have no power to offer to buy.

He says it is almost entirely submerged with water, and used for a dump for the past thiry years. This is grand. Will Mr. Crowley show any one the dumpings or the water. The late Henry H. Faxon sold the gravel out of the front to the Town, so it is level with the street on the front and the back is some four feet higher than the street. I consider the owner has made the City a very low price in naming eight cents.

Does Mr. Crowley claim that the City got the Atherton Hough school lot for what it was taxed for? How about the Montclair lot? Was it purchased at the tax value, or were they purchased for eight cents per foot, yet they were both much further from the centre of the city. No, Mr. Crowley, the people of Adams school district do not need your help to select a school lot, and I doubt if the City Council will ask your advice.

Your very truly,
John L. Miller.

EASTER BRINGS OUT CROWDS

Overflow Meetings at Some of the Churches

FIRST CHURCH

There was an unusual alrge attendance Sunday morning at the Easter service at the First church. The floral decorations, which were very pretty were confined to the space about the pulpit. They consisted of lilies and pinks and nearly two hundred potted plants. The sermon was by Rev. Ellery C. Butler, who took for his text, "I am the resurrection and the life." A special Easter musical program was rendered by the choir. After the service there was a holy communion service conducted by Rev. Charles B.Ames.

In the afternoon at 4 o'clock the Sunday School held an Easter service in the church auditorium. The program included a processional from the chapel of the school, reading by Supt. Johnson, carol singing by the school, Easter service and responsive service, and an address by Louis P. Nash, president of the Sunday School Union. Then came the Easter offering for the children's mission and closing service after which, through the generosity of Henry M. Faxon each member of the Sunday School was given a potted plant.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

It was necessary to open the balcony at Bethany church Sunday morning to accommodate the large congregation. An exceptionally good musical program was presented by Mme. Morey, and Rev. Dr. Hardy's theme was "The Gates Ajar." He spoke with feeling of the two deaths during the week, and also endorsed the testimonial meeting to the Civil War veterans.

The Easter service of the Bible School took the place of the regular session of the Sunday School, an excellent program being presented.

In the evening there was also an Easter service with singing by the boys' choir assisted by 14 young ladies. The pastor gave an excellent address on "The Resurrection."

After the Sunday School service in response to a plea by Dr. Hardy 12 young people expressed their desire to join the church at the May communion.

Dr. Hardy will meet any other young people who are thinking of joining at the next communion Thursday evening at 7 o'clock in the church parlor.

Inasmuch as it will be Dr. Hardy's last communion in Quincy it is expected that a larger number than usual will want to unite with the church during the present pastorate.

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S.

Easter Sunday was observed and the Resurrection fittingly commemorated at St. Chrysostom's church with the usual impressive services and the church was filled. At the 7 A.M., celebration 150 came to pay their devotions and receive holy communion. The altar with its appropriately embroidered white silk hangings, over which was a fair linen cloth given by the Altar Guild was used for the first time.

The altar was beautifully decorated with Easter lilies in large brass vases. On the steps leading to the chancel were potted Easter lilies and just outside were the pink and red potted geraniums, and following the usual beautiful custom of the parish at Easter, the money for the flowers was given to the altar guild by individuals as memorials.

At 10.30 morning prayer and holy communion, the rector, Rev. Frederick H. Steenstra, delivered the sermon which was filled with the Easter spirit. He took for his text St. Matthew 28:20: "Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and lo, I am with you alway even unto the end of the world. Amen."

The special musical program by the vested choir was well rendered and in keeping with the occasion. Miss Louisa Allison Ross was organist.

Miss Jessie Fowler and Mr. George M. Campbell sang the duet.

The children of the Sunday School had their carol service at 4 P. M., bringing their mite boxes for missions After the singing of Easter hymns, each child received a potted plant.

At the 7.30 evening prayer Rev. Mr. Steenstra took for his theme what Easter day stood for on the missionary side of the church. Miss Edna Fowler and Mr. George M. Campbell singing the duet.

FIRST UNIVERSALIST.

The Universalists were pleased to greet on Easter Sunday some of the representatives of the old families long connected with the church. Rev. Fannie E. Austin the new pastor is an able and successful worker, and preached an appropriate sermon from St. John 11:25 and 26.

The music was furnished by a sextette, composed of Mrs. Fanny Huke, Misses Hyland, Holton and White and Messrs. Taylor and Bent. Solos were rendered by Miss Hyland, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Bent. Mr.Otis Bent is director of music. Mrs. Florence Cutter, organist.

At the Sunday School session little Easter chickens were given to the younger members bySupt. Hobart.

Pretty flowering plants were used in the Easter decorations of the church.

A Sunday School concert was given at 7 P. M. with a pleasing program.

The Dorcas Society will meet Tuesday evening with Miss Smith.

The annual parish meeting will be held Thursday evening.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

The pastor delivered the Easter morning sermon from the theme: "The Revelation of the Unseen World Awakens Fear and Great Joy."

The choirs sang two Easter anthems and the solo parts were sung by Miss Sadie Nelson and Fritz Swanson. The attendance at this service was very large.

In the evening a concert was given by the Sunday school children beginning at 7 o'clock and lasting over two hours.

CITY HALL MEETING

look among you I see few faces of those who responded to the first call. I am glad to see these celebrations which keep alive the spirit that inspired the men of 61.

We are few in number and we shall soon follows those gone before. We still have memories to be proud of, and it should be an inspiration for years to come. There are few here that can perhaps remember fifty years ago, when treason threatened our homes. Loyal men sprang to arms, and from every house top flags were hung out. We do not appreciate what these men did when it was necessary to save Washington, Norfolk and Fortress Monroe. It was the Minute Men that saved all three. They rushed there and held the enemy at bay.

When the call came he went to the State House and special messengers were dispatched to Old Colony towns and the next day every company was represented at Faneuil Hall. Capt. Curtis was in command of the Fourth, and from the time the regiment left until it returned no better soldier ever trod.

I could talk all night but I wish to simply say that I hope this organization will be continued that future generations may hear of the men that fought and bleed and died that this nation might be free.

Three more cheers were accorded Col. Walker as he sat down.

Mrs. Elexis E. Nason sang "Columbia the gem of the ocean."

Capt. Franklin Curtis of the 4th. regt. was next introduced. Capt. Curtis said that for him to attempt to make a speech would be impossible. When he realized the responsibility he assumed fifty years ago in caring for his neighbors and friends it seemed as though he must have been out of his head, for he had no experience and no one to go to for advice, but he did the best he could.

Capt. Curtis was also given three cheers.

Charles F. Pierce said that he had read that there were only eight of the original Minute Men from Quincy living. He rather disputed that statement however for the considered the men who responded as recruits a month later were also Minute Men. There were 39 of us and when we followed we had an opportunity to realize what we had got to meet.

The audience, led by Rufus B. Tobey sang the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

COL. ANDERSON.

Col. Edward Anderson who was colonel of an Indiana calvary regiment was next introduced, and he also received a hearty welcome. Col. Anderson said that he felt that it was a proud thing for the men born in Massachusetts to mix in with the men of 61, but he was one of the west. Way back when that Kansas-Nebraska bill was up he was one of those that went to Kansas to kill that bill. Arriving at Iowa city he found himself at the end of the railroad, and we bought horses and mules and started across the prairies toward Kansas. One Sunday morning he went looking for a church, and it was then that he met John Brown. One thing he said to me was, that before slavery can be done away with it has got to be by a power given by Jesus Christ. There is no redemption except through water and blood. Blood of young men and water the tears of those left behind. We killed that bill in Kansas and brought on the beginning of the war.

Do you realize of all that grand army of 2,778,000 enlistments 2,150,000 were 21 years and under, and but 600,000 were over 22 years. We had the old folks at home in New England who provided means to carry on the war. Should there be another war you boys of the High school are the ones to be relied upon to carry that war through and we have no fear that you will not do it. We are the only republic that has seen a mighty war, and still hold our power as we have a great loyal country to depend upon. Was the war a curse? It has brought us where we can see things we would never have seen. Col. Anderson briefly referred to his meeting with Lincoln before he was President and the growth of the cotton mills of the south since the war.

As Col. Anderson closed three cheers were given for the minute men of the west.

Then followed a piano solo by Miss Annie Dorley, after which the presiding officer read a letter of regret from Col. Porter who was confined to his home by illness and the audience sang "Marching through Georgia."

EX. MAYOR HALL.

After the audience sang "Marching Through Georgia," Hon. John O. Hall gave a splendid address, setting forth the stirring times of '61, and expressing his belief that the young men of today would be just as ready to respond to the call of duty as were the Minute Men of '61.

A very pleasing dialogue by Sadie and Elizabeth Files followed Mr. Hall's address.

Mrs. Belle Morton of the Woman's Relief Corps sang the "Star Spangled Banner" and the audience joined in on the choruses.

Past Commander George A. Wardwell of the United Spanish War Veterans was the next speaker. He expressed his pleasure at being honored to address such a gathering, and made a plea for a Memorial Hall to those Minute Men and Veterans who fought for the Union.

Commander Gould of the Sons of Veterans told of the work the sons were trying to do in carrying out the principles for which the Civil War veterans fought, and he too, gave expression to his conviction that a Memorial Hall should be erected by the citizens of Quincy to the Civil War veterans.

Lucy Morton gave an enjoyable recitation dealing with the subject of "Patriotism."

ORIGINAL POEM.

Cornelius M. Duggan, the well known poet read an excellent poem written especially for this occasion, the first verse of which was:

Tonight we honor Quincy's sons,
Who marched unto the front,
With gleaming swords and burnished guns,
They faced the battle's brunt,
To keep aloft the Union flag
Supreme o'er treason's frown;
From flowery mead and granite crag
They marched from Quincy town.

The audience then rose and sang "Tramp! tramp! tramp! the boys are marching" with a fine show of spirit.

DRUMMER BOY.

Rev. Rufus B. Tobey gave a fine address, telling how he tried to enlist as a drummer boy at the age of 14 but was prevented by parental objections, and how the next year he became a member of the "Home Guard." In closing his address he gave two anecdotes, one of the Northern soldier who shared the contents of his canteen and haversack with the Southern soldier; and the second of the Southern lad who came home shortly after enlistment declaring that it was no use to fight any more for God was on the Yankee side.

JUDGE PRATT.

Judge E. Granville Pratt was the last speaker of the evening. He gave a number of reminiscences of the methods used for raising money to support the soldiers, and told of one instance after the war which demonstrated quite clearly that the hatchet was buried. Judge Pratt, himself, figured in the incident when a box made of Massachusetts wood with a piece of Plymouth rock set in the cover, was presented as a receptable for a gavel, given by a Fitzgerald of Virginia, a staunch Southerner. This gavel was made of wood from the Appomatox road house. The box was made by a Quincy man. In his speech of acceptance, Mr. Fitzgerald as spokesman for the South, expressed a belief that the whole Union was the better and stronger now that the victory had been won by the North.

The reveille and flag salute call were played on the bugle by Wendell Clark, and after the new flag salute was given by school children and the old salute was given by the W. R. C. and veterans, taps were sounded on the bugle, and all joined in singing "America" and the meeting was over.

Past Commander James H. Webb seized the opportunity however to move a vote of thanks to Frank Fisher Prescott, the chairman of the meeting for the delightful program presented which was a delight to the Veterans of the Civil War.

Commander Ring of Paul Revere Post put the motion and it prevailed amid enthusiasm.

Mrs. Gould, patriotic instructor of the W. R. C. assisted by six ladies of the corps led in the flag salute. The meeting was one that will live long in the minds of those who were present and the younger generation should surely receive an inspiration from it to show greater patriotism in the future.

The daily articles relating the history of Quincy in the Civil War will be continued in the Daily Ledger tomorrow.

SMITH—RIDEOUT.

A very quiet and pretty wedding took place on Wednesday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Smith of Hayward street, East Braintree, when their daughter Marion Ball was united in marriage to Simeon Rideout of Boston. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. B. Magee, pastor of the M. E. church, assisted by Rev. R. L. Roberts a former pastor, now pastor of the M. E. church at Mooreup, Conn.

The bride was very becomingly attired in a travelling gown of blue and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. After a short wedding trip, they will reside at 136 Hayward street. when they will be at home to their many friends.

THOMPSON'S FUNERAL

Body of Veteran Actor Lies With Those Whom He Portrayed

West Swanzey, N. H., April 17.—Denman Thompson, creator and portrayer of that homely New England character, "Uncle Joshua Whitcomb," which he had endeared to theatregoers all over the country, was laid at rest here Sunday.

Burial was in the little cemetery across from the venerable actor's home, in which have rested for some years the bodies of those who in life gave Thompson the inspiration for "Uncle Josh" and his kindred characters.

The services were as simple as it was possible to make them. This was in strict keeping with Thompson's wish, expressed just before his death. There was no eulogy and no singing.

Just as the casket was being lowered into the grave, there was wafted to the ears of the assembled sorrowers the tune of the hymn "Nearer, My God, to Thee," played on the chimes of the Catholic church. Thompson presented the chimes to the church several years ago.

SUICIDE IN A CELL

Police Say Bruce Had Bad Record, but His Wife Denies It

Boston, April 17.—Harry Bruce hanged himself in a cell at station 4, a few minutes after being arrested for attempting to pick the pocket of a woman. Nothing unusual was noticed in his demeanor while he was being taken to the station house or while he was being booked by the officer in charge, but within a few minutes after he was locked up he was found hanging by his suspenders, which he had fashioned into a noose.

According to the police, Bruce has had a hard record. They say he has done time for several crimes.

A pitiful scene followed the announcement of Bruce's death at his home. He had a wife and little daughter. Mrs. Bruce denied that her husband had ever been a criminal, and was at a loss to account for any action of his which would cause his arrest. She said they had been married several years, and in all that time he had lived an exemplary life, working industriously and caring for his family in every way.

$200,000 LOSS IN TOLEDO BLADE FIRE

Up-to-Date Newspaper Office Is Quickly Burned Out

Toledo, April 17.—Fire broke out in the stereotyping room of the Toledo Blade office and spread with remarkable rapidity. The building is owned by Mrs. D. R. Locke, widow of "Petroleum Nasby" Locke.

The plant is one of the most up-to-date newspaper offices in the central west. The loss is estimated at between $150,000 and $200,000. The entire building was swept. In it was Robinson Locke's office, which contained his priceless theatrical library, which was ruined by the water poured into the rooms.

CHURCH PEOPLE IN RIOT

Quelled by Police After Two Men Receive Severe Beating

Chicopee, Mass., April 17.—Denied the right of hearing mass on Easter Sunday in St. Stanislaus church at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, the entire body of Polish societies of this city knelt in the snow in the rear of the new edifice and prayed.

Following this, feeling ran so high against Rev. Father Czelusniak, rector of the church, that a small riot broke out between the malcontents and the supporters of the priest, which resulted in two stepbrothers, named Paul and Leo Dymaki, being arrested. They were much the worse for the beatings they had received from an icepick and a pair of scissors used in the combat. Prompt attention from the police prevented the trouble asuming big proportions.

SUIT CLUBS BARRED

Woonsocket Tailors Notified That They Are Breaking the Law

Woonsocket, R. I., April 17.—The death knell of "suit clubs" in Woonsocket has been sounded. Men, who in the past have won tailor-made suits of clothes for $1 and upwards, will, in the future, be obliged to pay regular prices for wearing apparel.

Chief of Police Boston has notified the tailors of this city that they must not conduct suit clubs, as it is in direct violation of the law and strictly a gamble. He saw to it that each and every tailor was notified some time ago so that all would have a fair warning.

Jackies Rescued by Fisherman

Boston, April 17.—Clinging to the bottom of their overturned boat, while heavy seas threatened momentarily to sweep them from their precarious position, four sailors from the U. S. S. New Jersey were rescued off Spectacle island by Captain Benjamin F. Polack and the crew of the fishing boat Riverbank. The sailors were taken off just as one man was slipping into the sea.

PHILERGIANS.

The department of literature have charge of the next program for the Philergians, April 18th. "The Literature of Nature: Butterflies, Birds, Flower and Bird Songs" is the subject. Only one more afternoon, the annual meeting, May 2, is included in this year's program.

The Federation Traveling Health Library is to be at the Braintree Public Library until May 1st. It is hoped that those interested in health questions of the day will avail themselves of the chance to read these books.

BETTER POLITICS.

Something can be done by good laws, more can be done by honest administration of the laws, but most of all can be done by frowning resolutely on the preachers of vague discontent. In our political and social life alike, in order permanently to succeed, we must base our conduct on the Decalogue and the Golden Rule. Quack remedies of the universal cure-all type are generally as noxious to the body politic as to the body corporal. We must do our duty by the state. We must frown down dishonesty and corruption and war for honesty and righteousness.—Theodore Roosevelt.

HAMMOND MAY SUCCEED HILL

Said to Be Taft's Choice For German Ambassadorship

HILL TO STEP OUT IN JULY

Academic Diplomat of Old School Reported to Have Failed to Grasp Opportunity For Extension of American Capital In Near East—White House and State Department Continue Mum Regarding the Subject

Washington, April 17.—John H. Hammond, the mining engineer, who is an intimate personal friend of President Taft, is being suggested as a possible successor to David J. Hill as ambassador to Germany. Hammond will attend the coronation of King George as a special ambassador representing the United States. It is believed here that the appointment to Germany will be made shortly.

Dr. Hill, who recently resigned as ambassador at Berlin, will return to Germany about May 1 to arrange for turning over the embassy to his successor and for the shipment of his household effects to the United States. His resignation will take effect on July 1. Hill is a scholarly, academic diplomatist of the old school.

It is reported that the officers of the state department regretted his failure to bring to the attention of the department commercial opportunities which came to his attention in Berlin. One of these was the Turkish loan which was negotiated in Berlin, and which was handled entirely by German bankers.

Some officers of the department say that Hill failed to grasp an opportunity for the extension of American capital in the Near East, which field Secretary Knox is particularly anxious to invade.

The White House and state department failed to throw any additional light on the reason for Hill's resignation except to issue perfunctory denials that there had been any friction between him and the officers of the department.

STUDENTS INSPECT CANAL

Steamer Takes Technology Men Into Cape Cod Waterway

Sandwich, Mass., April 17.—The steamer King Philip of Boston, with 150 civil engineering students of Technology, entered the partly completed Cape Cod canal, the first passenger carrying craft to navigate the waters of the new maritime highway.

As the King Philip swung in around the great seawall the students gave round after round of college yells and kept it up, to the amusement of the crowd gathered along the banks of the canal.

Engineers Durham and Ackerman were there to greet the visitors and after a hasty inspection of the big discharge pipe of the General Mackenzie that was sending the "spoil" out over the Scusset marshes, the party started along the levees to the head of the canal, where three huge scoop dredges were at work.

He will also meet the United Improvement association, which has been investigating the subject of Boston assessments.

UNMOLESTED BY POLICE

Thieves Rob Inside of Church and Then Make Off With Roof

New York, April 17.—The crime wave has culminated in the theft of the roof of the McCadden Memorial church, Williamsburg. The thieves had already stolen all the lead pipe equipment of the plumbing without molestation by the police.

Not content with that they went back some time during the night and took the copper sheathing that covered the building, valued at $7000. Trucks were used to cart it away. Not a policeman was in sight, not an arrest has been made.

—One of the best advertisements a town has is its good roads, says the Mansfield News. In these later days when automobile rides are planned those towns having bad roads are shunned. Just as visitors talk about a big store, just so do autoists talk about a town having good roads, and that town gets visitors.

BRAINTREE LIGHT INFANTRY.

Saturday, April 15, is a red letter date in the annals of Massachusetts G. A. R. men and stirs a responsive chord in the hearts of many of our local veterans. It is fifty years ago today since the Minute Men of '61 or the Minute Men of Massachusetts, received orders to assemble in Boston preparatory to moving to Washington in response to President Lincoln's call for troops to defend the integrity of the union.

This organization consists of the 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th and 8th Mass. regiments of infantry, the 3d Battalion of Rifles and the Boston Light Artillery.

There is to be held in Boston today a celebration of the 50th anniversary of the reception of this order by the troops and their subsequent departure for the war. After a business meeting in Wesleyan hall, the veterans will pass in review before Governor Foss and Mayor Fitzgerald and march to Faneuil hall where there will be a banquet, speeches and a general revival of war memories.

Company C of the 4th Mass. regiment was recruited largely from our own town and was known as the Braintree Light Infantry. One of our best known citizens, Hon. James T. Stevens of South Braintree was its 1st Lieutenant. There were 66 men in the company when the regiment departed for the front and of these there are 17 living.

Out of the whole company of 66 men, 44 are dead and 5 are not definitely accounted for. One man, William B. Foster was drowned and these seven died in the service or were killed in battle after enlisting again in other regiments: John T. Ayers, T. J. Crowell, Loring W. Thayer, E. L. Bumpus, H. W. Dean, John Finnegan and Thomas Cahill.

First Lieut. James T. Stevens enlisted again in the 42d Mass. Infantry and served his regiment as the captain of Co. I. This is a gallant record and the surviving members are justly proud of the achievements of Co. C in the great struggle between the states. The company was organized in 1853. The men received notice April 15, 1861, at seven o'clock in the evening were ready to start for Boston at eight o'clock the next morning and left during the forenoon.

Herewith is given the text of the special order:

WOEFUL LACK OF INTEREST

Ex-President Nichols Writes on Public Issues

Editor of the Ledger:

As a constant reader of your valuable paper the writer is pleased to note your efforts editorially to enlighten the public mind on matters frequently of great importance to our citizens. Also that your columns are open to individual writers who desire to take issue, to agitate and discuss such questions, to the end that they may be finally settled to the best advantage of our city and its people.

This privilege is too seldom availed of by those competent to offer opinions and it is unfortunate, yet never the less a fact, that there is but little active aggressive intelligent interest shown by the great body of our citizens while matters often of vital moment are pending. This is particularly noticeable on the occasion of public hearings at the State House. Those given by our city government generally show lack of knowledge on the part of the rank and file as to what is transpiring, and an apparent indifference as to the final disposition of vastly important matters which are far reaching in their effects.

Legislators and city officials are human, abnormal, with political ambition. Private interests often conflict with public duty, and it is apparent that the only way to get honest and efficient government is by a concentrated lively public sentiment, which will force public servants to a realization of their accountability to the people. That the tenure of their office holding is solely dependant on their usefulness and the amount of intelligent and disinterested service rendered.

Our City Council frequently contains an agitating minority, representing the best ideas in the conduct of city legislature and administration, but from a lack of public support it soon wearies in well doing, and succumbs to the force of numbers, with the result that the city affairs are conducted along political lines by a few active politicians, and their adherents.

Petitioners and remonstrants are often ruthlessly pushed to one side, when the matters they represent conflict with the scheme of those who are playing the political game.

With reference to the location of the trolley freight terminal on Washington street now before the City Council, much has been said and written pro and con, which has practically nothing to do with the question. We are not now discussing whether or not the trolley freight business to be operated by the Old Colony Street Railway Co., is to be an untold blessing to the merchants and people generally. So far as our city officials are concerned it is purely a matter of the location of a freight depot on this particular spot.

The fact that bad curves, dangerous and objectionable conditions exist at Barry's corner, Beal and Farrington streets, and at other places, is no argument in favor of creating other similar conditions if such is to be the result. Except that public necessity and convenience demand them. That cannot be argued in this case, as it is fair to assume that other desirable locations are to be had.

The attitude of real estate owners towards the railway company provided this particular location is refused, is no part of the question. Healthy able-bodied corporations have established a reputation for being able to take care of themselves, and the oratory and pleading of paid attorneys in their behalf should be estimated at its true value, and taken, if able, with liberal doses of salt.

The highways belong to all the people. To the man who walks as much as to the one who rides, and public service corporations occupy them by consent. It is the duty of the Mayor and the City Council giving to the Railway Co., at all times fair and just treatment to safe-guard the general public interest, not simply for today, but with reasonable foresight into the future. And it is the business and privilege of the citizens to see that they do so.

Abolition of grade crossings, perhaps, is the most important matter pending. How many of our citizens outside a comparative few owning abutting property or who have incidentally personal interests, know or seem to care whether an elevated structure passes through the heart of our city that might be better depressed in these days when conduits and subways in populous communities are considered rational. What are we going to have? Are the people going to wait until— as in the cases of Lynn and Waltham—the structure is partly constructed and then awake to see what can be done to abate a nuisance.

Metropolitan Park and Highway improvments. The Daily Ledger has recently published interesting figures showing the meagre benefits that have come to Quincy from the enormous expenditures of millions to which in assessments, county and state, we have been annually contributing for many years. What outside of Furnace Brook parkway and the uncompleted boulevard at the Quincy Shore reservation can be considered a substantial local benefit for the money we have spent. And what are the people of Quincy saying or doing about it?

Annexation to Boston; Real Boston; The Metropolitan Council; are these live questions?

Without enumerating others the foregoing matters are a few among many (some of which are national and purely local,) which might well furnish material for the earnest and active consideration of all public spirited citizen, mens clubs, civic organizations, etc., to the betterment of our city. Thanking you for the space given.

MC DEVITT TELLS A STORY

Wants the Public and Council to Wake Up

Editor of Quincy Ledger:

As my letter of April 4, 1911, is still unanswered, and as the time for final action on trolley freight is close at hand, I desire to say a parting word to the sleeping public. When one gives a position to another it is very essential that one should be interested enough in the progress made to look over the situation. Therefore on Monday evening, April 17, 1911, take a stroll into the Council Chamber, and listen while your servants present your side of the case on this particular question .

To the general public how does this sound for amusement places, The Portland Street Railway Company have parks for their patrons around Portland and vicinity which are valued at over two hundred thousand dollars, free band concerts, open air theatres, dance halls, swings of all kinds and athletic grounds, and you you can attend a different park every day or evening and enjoy the above just for your car fare.

The Fitchburg Street Railway Company have a large park called "Wallem" valued at over seventy-five thousand dollars with the same amusements for just your car fare. The Boston & Maine Street Railway have a grand park and a lake outside of Concord, New Hampshire, with some amusements, and this practically exists where street railway we know operate.

Just a little reminder as to what the Old Colony Street Railway Company does for other places. For Brockton and vicinity Highland Park with all kinds of amusements. Between New Bedford and Fall River, Lincoln Park where dancing with an orchestra of over fifteen pieces, vaudeville theatre, swings of all kinds and many other things; these to be enjoyed for your car fare.

What have we got from them in this city, a few crowded cars in summertime to Houghs Neck, and the only amusement for the public whose eyes are in good condition, is to count the sea-gulls as they go in and out. Where is the waiting room in the centre? Where is the public lavatory. Where are the all night cars to Neponset? Where are the through cars from East Milton to Neponset that the people from that section once enjoyed? This company spent thousands of dollars for amusements in other cities and towns and why? Because the representation of the people in Brockton, New Bedford, Fall River have to deal with an ever watchful public, and they can't lay down. They have to demand for the people, and fight, or else they are relegated to the shelf as having been found wanting.

In our city our representatives in the city government are too easily drawn to the magnet of nothing.

To the expressmen who seem to be silenced by the prescription prescribed by this company, let me say that the expressman for delivery of goods has without a doubt been selected.

To the councilmen, who take the same prescription, let me say, there may be a reaction. If the Democratic arguments are to be taken as a party doctrine we better translate them into some language than the English.

To the Street Railroad Company, who prescribe nothing, congratulations are in order with more success to you as long as the public take no interest in things that should interest them so much.

Last if the people wish to dream on about the things they hope to receive from public service corporations, well enough. But if you should wake up before Monday evening. Go down to the Council chamber and see for yourself. Let me add that the freight sheds of this company in Taunton, Brockton, New Bedford and Fall River are situated in manufacturing localities and that no public building can be observed from either location unless you stand on the roof of the building.

For example, in Taunton their freight shed there is located in behind the car-barn, with river on one side, car-barn and carriage shop on the other, and manufacturing plant on the other. A team can not come in from the same street that the car does, but only from opposite side.

There is so much that might be said against the location on Washington street and the whole proposition but when you're stacked up against a proposition like this, where it becomes a political affair, the question of right has to swim up stream against current and its advocates have to pull against thetide with all its obstacles, while so many are feathering their nests take the more plausible course and join the great and overcrowded and more congenial crowd who take the easier course, swimming with tide at their backs.

To those that have eyes to see it does not take much mental exercise to understand this story. Two brothers, wishing to purchase a house, went to look it over, it happened to be newly painted and one of the brothers became carried away with it. But the other who was more cautious took a pole and began to poke under the foundation to see if the timbers were rotten,and to his surprise they were, and a lot of rats ran out. He called to his brother asking if he saw the rats. The brother answered no. He poked the pole in twice again, and as the rats continued to run out, he called to his brother again asking if he saw them, and the reply came back, no! Crawling from under the building he asked him why he couldn't see the rats running out, and the brother replied, I didn't want to see them, so I closed my eyes.

If you Mr. Councilman, can not see where you are about to hand over the most valuable grant that was ever given to this corporation it is because your eyes are closed, and you don't want to see it. To the people who cannot see when Councilmen vote against their interests on questions of this kind it is because your eyes are closed and you don't want to see. Thanking you for extended courtesies.

John J. McDevitt.

OLIN LEAVES CLEAN RECORD

Death Comes to Massachusetts' Secretary of State

WAS SICK BUT SHORT TIME

Double Pneumonia Followed Cold Contracted at Grand Army Encampment —Served State Faithfully For Twenty Years—Had Previously Been Newspaper Man and Fought In Civil War—Legislature to Elect Successor

Boston, April 17.—In joint convention the Masaschusetts legislature will be called upon to select a successor to Secretary of State William M. Olin, who died Saturday afternoon. Under the laws of this state the important office Olin so faithfully held must be filled in this manner.

Both political parties will hold caucuses. Upon their selection the convention will make its choice. It is thought this choice will fall to a Republican. In both branches the Republican strength is 153 votes and 141 votes is necessary to elect. Who this choice will be is yet a matter of speculation.

The cause of Olin's death was double pneumonia, which followed a cold contracted at the state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic two weeks ago.

During the encampment his friends urged him to guard himself against a severe illness by caring for his cold, but he laughingly waived them aside and refused to be kept away from the "boys," as he lovingly termed his comrades of the G. A. R. A week ago Thursday he was compelled to retire to his home and two days afterwart pneumonia followed. The crisis in the disease came Friday and Olin sank gradually.

With Olin at his death were his daughter, Miss Caroline R. Olin; his son, Edwin R. Olin; his brother, George B. Olin, and his sister, Mrs. Joseph Lathrop. Up to twenty minutes before his death he retained consciousness, and the end was a peaceful one.

Colonel Olin, since 1891 secretary of the commonwealth of Massachusetts, was born of New England parents in Warrenton, Ga., Sept. 18, 1845. He removed to this state in 1850 and was educated in its public schools. His first position was that of "printer's devil" in the office of the Worcester Transcript, which later utilized his services as a compositor. In 1863, at the age of 16, Olin enlisted in the Thirty-Sixth Massachusetts regiment and served in the war three years. At the close of the war he returned to Boston, perfected himself in stenography and joined the Boston Advertiser as a reporter. Ultimately he became city editor of that paper and then its correspondent at Washington. In 1879, after fourteen years spent on The Advertiser, Governor Talbot chose Olin as his private secretary, giving him the title of colonel, which otherwise belonged to him as lieutenant colonel and assistant adjutant of the First brigade, M. V. M.

Colonel Olin was retained at the state house in 1889 as the secretary of Governor Long. In June, 1882, he became private secretary to Collector Worthington, remaining in the custom house until December, 1885, when he went to Washington to be private secretary to Senator Dawes and clerk in the committee on Indian affairs. When A. W. Beard was reappointed collector at Boston he obtained the services of Olin as his secretary.

In 1890 Olin was elected secretary of the commonwealth on the Republican ticket, and has held the position by re-election ever since. Long associated with the affairs of the G. A. R., he was at one time adjutant general of the national encampment and member of the council of administration. The Regimental association twice elected him as its president.

At every gathering of the veterans of the Civil war he was a conspicuous figure, and he always took an extremely active part in welcoming and entertaining visiting veterans. "Olin's Gang," a half dozen sweet-voiced veterans, led by "Billy" Olin himself, sang the old war songs at camp meetings, smoke talks and dinners of the G. A. R.

Hunger Drives Indians on Warpath

Winnipeg, Man., April 17.—Indians in northern Canada are upon the warpath, accoding to advices received here. Rendered desperate by a famine the Indians are said to be assembled in bands of fifty, attacking posts and the camps of forest runners and lumber interests.

Aged Man Cures by Fasting

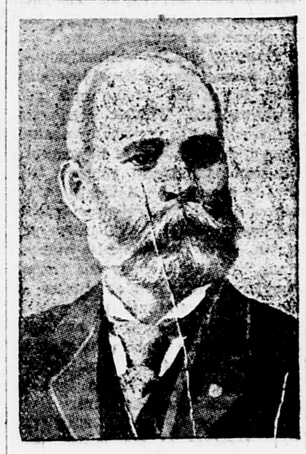
Holbrook, Mass., April 17.—Luke Reynolds, who has just celebrated his 96th birthday, always cured his illness by fasting. Recently he took cold and stopped eating. In a day the cold was gone.

Fishing In Nineteen-Inch Ice

Pittsfield, Mass., April 17.—Fishermen on Pontoosuc lake cut through nineteen inches of ice to set tip-ups for pickerel. The pickerel fishing has been excellent for several days.

WILLIAM M. OLIN

Long Served State In His Final Capacity



AN ALL-SUMMER INQUIRY

Probe of Government Department Expenditures of Wide Range

Washington, April 17.—Sweeping powers are conferred upon the chairmen of the nine house committees on expenditures in the various government departments by a resolution introduced in the house.

The Democrats believe that there is much extravagance in the departments and that they can bring about a great reduction in the annual appropriations by conducting a thorough inquiry. The resolution declares the proposed investigations may cover such periods as the committees deem necessary "for the protection of the public interest and for the exposing of frauds or abuses of any kind." The committees are empowered to examine witnesses under oath and to send for such records and papers as may be desired.

It is considered likely that the inquiries will extend throughout the summer and into the next session of congress.

HETTY GREEN WILL HAVE PRIVATE BANK

To Handle Business Interests of Herself and Son

New York, April 17.—Mrs. Hetty Green, with the assistance of her son, Colonel E. H. R. Green, has decided to consolidate her interests in a private bank, with a chain of branches running across the country.

"In New York," said Green, "our firm will probably be named E. H. R. Green & Co. Branches will be opened in Boston, Chicago, Dallas and San Francisco. We have decided that our interests can best be served from a private bank here in New York.

"Since the laws of the various states do not give us the right to hold real estate in the name of one corporation or trust company common to all, we have had to organize like other private bankers of this city whose interests extend elsewhere."

Colonel Green pictures his mother as grossly misrepresented in the past. Although she conducts her business on careful and conservative lines, he says, she has made it an invariable rule to reinvest her profits in the territory from which they were drawn, for the upbuilding of that territory.

TUMBLES INTO CHUTE

Wayfarer Seeking Lodging Place Stands on Head All Night

Auburn, N. Y., April 17.—After standing on his head all night, a prisoner in a narrow grain chute, into which he had fallen head first, Charles Stokes, a laborer, was discovered Sunday morning in the barn of John Hunter and rushed to a hospital, where it is said he will recover.

Stokes entered the barn to seek a night's lodging, it is said, and in walking about in the dark, plunged into the chute. His arms were pinned to his sides, and unable to move, he was forced to inhale the suffocating grain chaff all night. Stokes was pulled out, black in the face, but apparently not seriously hurt.

A HOSPITAL ROMANCE

Army Officer Weds Nurse Who Cared For Him While Sick

Washington, April 17.—Lieutenant Samuel J. Logan, retired, 50 years old, a brother of Rear Admiral Logan, married the young woman who nursed him through a recent severe illness.

The bride was Miss Jennie Stockland, a professional nurse of Rochester, N. Y. While in Syracuse on recruiting duty in December Logan became ill and Miss Stockland cared for him.

The Weather

Almanac, Tuesday, April 18.

Sun rises—5:11; sets—6:38.

Moon rises—11:59 p. m.

High water—2:15 a. m.; 2:45 p. m.

Forecast for New England: Fair; warmer in west portion; moderate west winds, becoming variable.

London's Fogs.

London's fogs vary in tint from black to yellow. Almost the only color they never turn, bright blue, is to be found in a region in Manchuria. There all the mists are of this shade, as mist is simply moist air condensing on dust particles, and the dust there, like the top layer of soil, is of a vivid blue.

Biggest Sponge.

The biggest sponge in the world is a Bahama, six feet in circumference and two feet in diameter, shaped something like a big, fat biscuit or a bride's cake that failed to rise.

Sweden's Church Boat.

The church boat is a popular institution in Sweden. It brings families to service from the farms around Lake Siljan to Leksand.

Wagner's Dogs.

Wagner, the great musical composer, had several dog friends. At one time in Vienna he had a dog named Po and another time one called Leo which he had saved from starvation But his greatest dog friend was Pepo which was his companion for thirteen years.

Grimly Named.

Cambrai boasts of a grimly named street, Rue Sans Tetes, so called because all its inhabitants were beheaded during the revolution.

Great on Dress.

In proportion to the population France has more people employed in the production of dress than any other of the eight principal countries of the world.

The Beautiful Turquoise.

The turquoise is considered as a talisman in Persia, its native soil. It preserves its possessor from accidents and insures constancy in affections. The value of the turquoise depends on its shade and its size, especially its thickness. Those classed as belonging to the old rock are valued very highly.

The Cossacks.

The Cossacks are not real Russians. It was not until 1654 that they joined the Russians and became a part of the population of the great white empire.

Giving a Glove.

Giving a glove was in the middle ages in England a ceremony of investiture in bestowing lands and dignities. In the reign of Edward II. the deprivation of gloves was a ceremony of degradation.

Ocean Currents.

There are twenty-five great ocean currents.

The Gardener Bird.

The highest development of the decorative instinct in animals is found in the gardener bird (amblyornis). This plain looking native of New Guinea builds its nest on the ground, spreads moss before it and over this green carpet scatters bright berries, flowers and insects. As the flowers wither they are replaced by fresh ones.

Caste in India.

In India a "caste" man, or citizen of high rank, is not permitted to partake of food cooked or handled by one of inferior caste.

—Secretary Meyer of the navy department has instructed his subordinates to omit the "hello" in their telephonic talks. The talkers are to tell who they are when the conversation begins. This will save time. It is already the practice with many who use the telephone frequently and it conduces to brevity.

—Welcome April. Your showers, your snow and your sunshine will make gardens beautiful, cause men to swear and hasten housecleaning. Welcome housecleaning time too. May your life be short. It will be active.—Mansfield News.

—The American-Japanese treaty has now been so thoroughly ratified that the attention of one great division of the country may be safely given exclusively to preparing for a record-breaking international exposition.—Christian Science Monitor.

SATURDAY BASE BALL.

The Fore River Timekeepers defeated the Fore River Apprentices in a loosely played game at Merrymount park on Saturday, 17 to 16. The pitchers were hit freely and errors were numerous and costly.

Throwing was the weakest point on both teams. For the Timekeepers, Elcock, Fallon and Muller did good stickwork, and Wilkins, Boyle and Costello excelled for the Apprentices. Hart of the Timekeepers did some star baserunning. Once in running from first to second he fell flat twice, but picked himself up again and reached the bag in safety. Williamson and Martin both pitched effectively at times but lacked steam and control, Bergfors, who went in as pitcher on the Apprentices in the latter part of the game was effective for an inning or two, but was weak in the sixth allowing a bunch of hits. The Apprentices made two runs in the last inning almost tieing the score.

The Ramblers and Makarias practiced together at the lower field, Merrymount park, Saturday afternoon. Batting, fielding and base running practice was given to about thirty candidates for the two teams. Stan Bates and Troupe were the battery for Makaria and Rice and H. Chapman for the Ramblers.

The Intermediates and Employed Boys of the Y. M. C. A. played a practice game in the field beyond the car barn Saturday afternoon. The latter won by a score of 5 to 3. About fifteen men were given a tryout on each side and all had an opportunity to put in some good practice. McDonald and O'Brien were the battery for the Employed Boys and Tirrell and Holmes for the Students.

CARD OF THANKS.

The chairman of the Testimonial Meeting to the Quincy Minute Men of 1861, held at City Hall on Saturday evening, desires to extend hearty thanks to all who cooperated in making the demonstration such a grand occasion. The prompt response of so many individuals and patriotic organizations made success possible. Thanks are particularly due to Mayor Shea, Capt. Franklin Curtis, Col. Henry Walker, Col. Edward Anderson, Mrs. Abner B. Packard, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Packard, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Gould, Commander Ring and veterans of the Grand Army, Past Commander F.P. Loud and William M. Bird, Commander Gould and members of the Sons of Veterans, Mrs. Marnock the president of the W. R. C., and the members of that organization, to Rev. Rufus B. Tobey, Rev. T. W. Davison, the press, City Messenger Tirrell and Clerk of Council Magee and all those who took part in the program of the evening, and to many others who gave the meeting encouragement. Not until Thursday afternoon,April 13, was it announced that a testimonial meeting be held, and the fact that it was such a success on historic April 15, shows that the patriotism of 1775 and 1861 is still alive in Quincy, Massachusetts.

THE MERE MAN'S VIEWPOINT

THE CHARM OF ROMANCE

By BYRON WILLIAMS

FAT, BALDHEADED AND ROMANTIC.

If romance is the parent of golden dreams there's a strain of the "old un" in all of us. Who has not had his dream?

And we never forget it. That's why a patriarch benedict with false teeth, bald as the top of a toadstool, pudgy in the anatomical regions and with no more sex magnetism than a string of mother's dried apples, will sit all evening long straining his watery eyes over a love story, the heroine of which is young enough to be his granddaughter and the hero sufficiently adolescent to need spanking.

As a rule, we don't care to know more about lovers when once Hymen has them Prometheus bound. We see them safely inside the enchanted land of Agapemone, tie a knot of myrtle on the gate latch, consign them to the care of Venus and the divorce court and go on downtown to collect the rent. In our heart of hearts we hope "they will live happily ever afterward," but if they settle in a particular part of paradise where hired girls are hard to get we doubt it.

Byron says romance paints a full length of lovers and only a bust of marriage. As a rule, we are not interested in the bussing of Darby and Joan, but the blood of the oldest of us surges like uncorked champagne when we see two young things sipping nectar from honeyed lips behind a curtain that throws shadows into the street. If Laura had been Petrarch's wife we wouldn't read his sonnets for two reasons: There would be nothing of interest in them, and they never would have been written.

But here's something different.

Eugenie Saure rushes into public print and offers $200 to an unhaltered man who will loan himself long enough to be the male end of a wedding skit. An eccentric uncle, having died in Vienna and left her a fortune, has made a stipulation in the will that she must be married before Christmas or the money goes elsewhere. The advertisements bring many men willing to be married temporarily, among them one H. O. Brown, who is down on his luck—a handsome, dashing bachelor, with dark brown eyes and a lovely mustache. They are wedded and, instead of the bride falling on the manly bosom of the groom and mussing his shirt front with lachrymose marital joy, instead of throwing her soft, wild arms about his neck and getting kissed on the end of her damp nose, they shake hands formally; she says, "Much obliged, Mr. Brown, for accommodating me; here's your $200," and rushes off to call a taxicab to catch her train for New York and the boat for Vienna.

"HERE'S YOUR $200."

Isn't it awful? And she gets away without the groom ever knowing whether or no she has cold feet.

But here enters the romantic strain in us. We can't help thinking that some day she will return to him. We can imagine her scouring the earth to find Mr. Brown, as did Evangeline for Gabriel of Arcadia. We cannot but think that when time has painted an aura about his head and her uncle's money has failed to buy the happiness of a home she will get to wondering if the tickle of that mustache of his wouldn't thrill her heart. We even can imagine his return.

She will be standing at the door of an arbor in the twilight hour. The trumpet vines will be in bloom an hour late for his coming. The scent of wild grapes will lend their blossomed incense to the zephyrs that fly out to meet him. The Boston terrier will stir uneasily at his kennel door and growl as a stalwart man, bronzed with the suns of foreign climes, steps proudly past the four-o'clock bed, catches a sight of her there in the frame of the arbor door, throws dignity to the winds, rushes down upon her in the salubrious shadows and gathers her to his beating heart.

HE RUSHES DOWN UPON HER.

"Brownie!" With a cry of ecstasy she yields herself to his embrace.

"Here's that $200!" he cries, tearing a roll of bills from his bosom.

"Keep it, love," she says, pressing her peachy cheek against his bronzed nose. "Tomorrow I shall give you $20,000,000 more."

And they lived happily ever afterward.

CITY COUNCIL EQUALLY DIVIDED

On Passage of the Trolley Freight Track Order on Washington Street

A Public Hearing to be Given This Evening

Although Monday nights meeting of the City Council was nearly two hours long, practically all of the time was given to the discussion of the order granting the street railway a location for a branch-off track on Washington street to the trolley freight depot.

The regular business was changed and orders in the calendar were taken up immediately after receiving the communications.

Several councilmen appeared in evening dress for they desired to attend the Knights of Columbus ball. They wanted to get through in time for the grand march at 9 o'clock but were unable to do so.

There were a large number of committee reports waiting to be acted upon, but none were reached as the Council adjourned for one week as soon as the branch-off order had been disposed of.

Councilmen Cherrington and Sodergren were absent.

JURORS DRAWN.

A venire was received for the drawing of jurors, and the Mayor, City Clerk and Councilman Histen drew the following: Seth T. Waterhouse, Andrew Milne, Maurice I. Gatcomb, Thomas F. Carrigan, Joseph L. Heaney and Samuel C. Philbrook.

PROTESTS.

Communications were received from the Quincy Women's club and the Atlantic associates protesting against the branch-off track on Washington street. Placed on file.

ENDORSEMENTS.

A communication was received from J. A. Barbour and a largely signed petition in favor of granting the location were also received.

A communication was also received from the Board of Trade stating that association had voted 17 to 8 in favor of the granting of the location. Placed on file.

APPOINTMENTS.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing Philip L. Sawyard, Walter L. Jackson and B. Gunning as weighers. Confirmed.

HANCOCK STREET.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Women's club endorsing the widening of Hancock street. On file.

ATHLETIC FIELD.

The Mayor forwarded two petitions urging that an athletic field be established in that part of Merrymount park now used as a pasture as a playground for the High school. Referred to Finance Committee.

GYPSY MOTH SPRAYER.

The order appropriating $1,375 for a gypsy moth sprayer was passed under suspension of the rules.

POLE LOCATIONS.

The order granting the street railway a location for one pole on Elm avenue was passed under suspension of the rules.

A public hearing was held at 8 o'clock on granting the Electric Light Co., a location for poles.. Supt. Austin and Mr. Hyland appeared in favor. Mr. White objected to having a pole located in front of his property on Prospect avenue. Hearing closed and order recommitted.

TROLLEY FREIGHT.

The order granting the Street Railway Company a branch-off location to enter the trolley freight depot on Washington street took its second reading and the rules were suspended.

Councilman Smith spoke at length against the order. He saw no reason why it should not be located at the car barn. Then there was no telling if the trolley freight was a failure that the Washington street property might be used as a car barn.

Councilman Bailey agreed with all that Councilman Smith had said.

Councilman Nowland asked Chairman Gardner of the Committee on Streets about the presence of railway officials at the committee meeting.

Chairman Gardner said that after

MARKETS OF BOSTON

Subject of Talk to Mens Club of St. Chrysostoms

Members of the Men's club of St. Chrysostom's parish have embarked in the lumber and nail business. Needed repairs and improvements to the parish rooms is the occasion for this enterprise.

By vote of the club at their meeting on Monday evening a novel scheme was launched to raise this money. Cards will be distributed among the clubs members, upon which are four plans, each purporting to contain ten board feet, and ten bags of nails. The holders of the cards are expected to sell the lumber at ten cents a foot and the nails for the same price per bag.

Those present took hold of the idea with a great deal of enthusiasm and it is expected that when the cards are called in on ladies' night of the club, which occurs in May, a large amount will have been amassed.

The speaker of the evening was George E. McKay who has served as superintendent of markets for the city of Boston for the past 34 years. His subject was a most interesting historical talk entitled "The markets of Boston."

Mr. McKay traced the development of the markets from the time they were established in the face of a hearty opposition up to their present importance to the city.

It was in 1740 that Peter Faneuil one of Boston's wealthiest merchants contributed the funds necessary for constructing a market and two years later on September 25th, 1742 Faneuil hall was completed.

Josiah Quincy in January, 1824, then being mayor of Boston, set on foot a movement which resulted two years later of a market adjoining, known as Quincy or Faneiul hall market.

Faneuil hall which was closed upon the completion ofthsi building was again opened on October 28, 1858, under the name it now bears of new Faneuil Hall market.

The Quincy market, said Mr. McKay, is the only business operation embarked in by the city of Boston that ever proved a financial success and that structure at first known as "Quincy's Folly" today still nets the city a steady income.

The speaker told of markets in other cities and of the conditions affecting the markets of Boston. His talk proved most interesting, and he was extended a hearty round of applause at its close.

The executive committee reported a novel scheme for raising money to defray the expense of repairing the

CONCERT AND BALL OF THE KNIGHTS

The Annual Party of Quincy Council a Great Success As Usual

Many Beautiful Gowns Worn by Ladies Present

A large and brilliant party enjoyed the annual concert and ball of Quincy council, No. 96, Knights of Columbus, at Quincy Music Hall on Monday evening. The hall was attractive with its decorations of American flags. Conspicuous on the platform was the emblematic maltese cross of the order, flanked on either side with tall rubber plants and palms. Suspended above was the beautiful banner of Quincy council and a string of Japanese lanterns.

But the most brilliant scene was made by the pretty gowns of the ladies participating in the dance. They were varied and beautiful.

Among the guests were noticed Rev. John J. Coan and Rev. Neil P. Brennan of St. John's church, Rev. William T. Grady and Rev. W. J. Duffy of St. Mary's church, and Rev. John P. Cuffe of the Sacred Heart church, who viewed the scene from the balcony for awhile. State Deputy William J. O'Brien, District Deputy Charles J. Brady, Mayor William T. Shea, President C. M. Bryant of the City Council, Representative W. R. Thomas, Postmaster Charles L. Hammond, Editor Frank F. Prescott, members of the City Council and other invited guests were seen on the floor.

The grand march was a feature of the evening and was led by Grand Knight and Mrs. John J. Cunniff, followed by Floor Director and Mrs Edward D. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. LaCroix, Mayor Shea and Mrs. C. M. Bryant, State Deputy William J. O'Brien and Miss Mary Keating, District Deputy Charles J. Brady and Mrs. Gerald Sullivan, Postmaster Hammond and Mrs. Jenness and sixty other couples.

Mrs. Cunniff was gowned in blue silk with an embroidered overdress, Mrs. Barrett in a pink marquisette with white lace, Mrs. Cole in blue silk with silver trimmings, Mrs. LaCroix in white net over pink, and Mrs. Bryant in black velvet trimmed with fur.

Wilson's orchestra furnished popular music for both the concert and dance, the program for the concert being:

"Guests of Honor" Weidt
Overture, "Pigue Dame" Suppe
Concert Waltz, "Wiener Burger" Ziehrer
Duet for flute and clarinet, "The Twins"
Messrs. Ross and Behr
Xylophone solo, "Pitter Patter" J. Daley
Gerald A. Sullivan
Finale, "Jolly Fellows" Capone

C. C. Whittemore was the caterer and furnished a very satisfactory supper from 10 to 1 o'clock, including cold meats, escalloped oysters, fritters, salads, fancy creams, cake, etc.

The floor marshal was Grand Knight John J. Cunniff and the floor director was Edward D. Barrett, DGK. The assistant directors were Richard A. Cole, financial secretary, and Alfred J. LaCroix, recording secretary; and the aids were William A. Carey, Michael T. Walsh, John Heffernan, Henry F. McGee, John Mahan, Joseph M. Larkin, J. William Lynch, Harry McGrath, Manuel Perry, Jr., Dennis S. Sweeney, John T. Cain, Joseph D. Granahan, Peter M. Sullivan, George W. Berry, John Tierney, John Crane, George Sullivan, William Sullivan, Frank J. Duffy, Andrew M. Driscoll, Edward J. Kelliher, William J. Parker, Bernard W. Reilly, John J. Reardon and Edward D. The hospitalities of the council were dispensed to the invited guests through the agency of a reception committee composed of James F. Burke, chairman, Timothy J. Collins, Timothy F. Ford, John W. McAnarney, John A. McGowan, Lawrence W. Lyons, PGK., Michael M. Barrett, John F. Bruton, Eugene W. O'Connor, John A. Mahoney, Thomas V. Keating, James W. Sweeney, Councilman Edward P. HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The whitewash is peeling off Senator Lorimer.

This is a great season for new clothes.

The tax on bachelors in Wisconsin is classed as a tax on unimproved property.

There may always be room at the top but those who start out for "Pikes Peak or bust" usually bust.

Will Arizona demand that Congress pass an act admitting Buffalo Bill to the Union.

Twenty-six thousand Easter eggs were condemned because coated with powdered stone. This is what comes from allowing hens to run out in the road.

Andrew Carnegie is reported to have dropped considerable money lately. But he had to do something with it until he could persuade one more town to take a library.

Republican party discipline is all upset. The school house door is locked, the teacher deposited in the coal hole, and the pupils are trying to force their way each on their own hook into the melon patch.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Assurances recently given that women might wear egret plumes with good conscience because the plumes are now gathered in the moulting season and without the sacrifice of the birds, are enegetically disputed by E. H. Forbush, the New England agent of the National Association of Audubon Societies. Mr. Forbush insists that the birds are destroyed for their plumage in the breeding season, the only time when the aigrettes are developed to the condition of beauty demanded by the millinery trade. The egret is nearly extinct in this country because of its ruthless slaughter for the sake of the plumes, and nearly all such plumes now used in the United States come from Venezuela, where, says Mr. Forbush, the slaughter still goes on. It is difficult to understand how any woman can decorate herself with the aigrette knowing the method of which the decoration is obtained. On the London market today, aigrettes now fetch eight pounds aigrettes now fetch eigth pounds sterling per ounce, and are thus worth twice their weight in gold.—Salem News.

Whatever line of study and work may be marked out for the Boy Scouts of America, it would seem as if there should be plenty of room and opportunity for the movement undertaken by the National Business League which contemplates the enlistment of boys in a tree-planting enterprise of nation-wide scope. The league idea is to take boys in companies, place them in charge of competent men and instruct them how to plant and to care for trees in wild and practically forsaken tracts and districts where nothing of value is grown now. Throughout the country there are tens of millions of acres in idleness that are capable of growing timber of some kind. A great part of this land is privately owned much of it is paying taxes; most of it is a burden to its owners.

With the view of building up, "in the great outdoors," schools of forestry, and with the further view of interesting boys in tree-culture, it is proposed that the owners of these lands be asked to surrender control over them completely for a term of years, so that the pupils may have ample opportunity of testing their skill. The owners will be asked, also, to furnish what seed or nurslings may be necessary, but all other responsibility is to be borne by the boys.

There is a large measure of wisdom at the bottom of this project. It is not usually a difficult matter to arouse the interest of boys in study or work that takes them into the country and into the woods, and assures them a fair share of amusement. Surplus energy of boyhood could hardly be put to a better use than that proposed here. Under tactful management many thousands of boys may be interested in tree planting, and the result of a few years of labor, which they would call sport, would make a vast difference in the prospective timber supply. East and West, North and South, there are almost innumerable bare and apparently barren places that call for just such an undertaking as that which the National Business League has in view.—Christian Science Monitor.

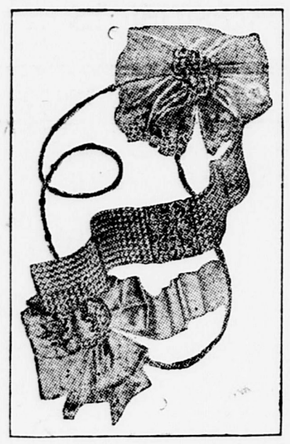
JEWELED ORNAMENTS.

Will Be Very Popular on Account of Coronation.



Jeweled ornaments of all descriptions, it is declared by London authorities, will be worn in lavish profusion the coming season, due chiefly to the coronation of King George and Queen Mary of England. The jewelers are vying with each other to produce the most elaborate effects. The picture shows some of the designs. The handsome dog collar occupying the center of the cut is composed of ten rows of famous pearls, carefully matched, and a wonderful reproduction of nature's work, both as regards coloring and texture. This dog collar is made doubly attractive by a large central plaque composed of an elaborate scroll work, carried out in Parisian diamonds, with a very big single stone in the middle of the design.

At the top may be seen a bow of real lace, which serves as a suitable background for a charming brooch of Louis XVI. design, while the ribbon waist belt, which comes below the dog collar, is drawn through a most picturesque and effective clasp, recalling the best period of antique French bijouterie. A long muff chain, suitable for evening wear, completes the picture, carried out in platinum and set alternately with Parisian diamonds and pearls.

Home Music.

"To use the player piano and the reproductive instrument not only for pleasure, but to increase your knowledge of music, is a duty you owe yourself," says C. H. Claudy in the Woman's Home Companion. "The musically ignorant may prefer light opera and march and waltz music to that which they do not understand, yet an evening of light music alone is much like a dinner of dessert alone. If you give a concert at home on player piano or phonograph, strive to arrange your programme with some regard to the fitness of things. As the chef increases the enjoyment of a meat with a sauce, of an entree with a sweet side dish, for contrast, so can you increase enjoyment of a musical program or 'menu' by contrast, by skillful arrangement of your numbers and by intermissions. If you have several short numbers of the same general character, play them one after the other without intermission."

Cord Around the Waist.

The very latest waist band is the cord. This takes the place of the ribbon or the sash or the old fashioned girdle. It may be adapted to any gown and be of any color or in gilt or silver. The cord may be looped artistically, with long hanging ends ornamented with pretty tassels.

For the Engaged Girl.

Monogrammed Turkish towels are now included among presents to the engaged girl. An oval of linen about four inches across has the initials embroidered upon it by hand.

This medallion is stitched into the toweling with two rows of fine machine stitching. Usually the marking is in pink or old blue, and if a monogram instead of separate initials is used a round medallion looks better than the oval one.

GOVERNOR ANDREWS ADDRESSES THE FOURTH

Col. Abner B. Packard Responded and Quincy Company Left Boston April 17, 1861

First Regiment to Leave New England on the First Call

(Quincy in Civil War No. 7)

(By Frank Fisher Prescott.)

Fifty years ago Monday Co. H of Quincy left Boston with the Fourth Massachusetts regiment, M. V. M., being the FIRST regiment to leave New England on the first call of Lincoln for troops in 1861, History as written in the "Minute Men of 1861" says:

"Hardly had the echoes of the guns of Sumter died away, when the proclamation of the President, calling for volunteers, sounded through the North, and met a cordial, earnest response from the governments of the loyal states. Among the first regiments called into the field was the Fourth Massachusetts composed of companies belonging to various towns along the Old Colony shore.

The order for its appearance on Boston Common, at noon of Tuesday, April 16, 1861, reached the hands of Colonel Abner B. Packard late on the afternoon of the 15th. He immediately issued his orders and dispatched them by a special messenger to the several companies under his command. The farthest point to be reached by the messenger was Taunton where he arrived at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, amid a driving storm of rain.

"Within twelve hours, every company had reported itself at Faneuil Hall, which had been made the place of rendezvous instead of the Common, on account of the storm. Later in the afternoon, in accordance with a telegram from Washington, the Sixth Regiment was ordered to proceed forthwith to Fortress Monroe while it was understood that the remaining Regiments, the Third, Fourth and Eighth would remain a day or two longer.

"On Wednesday, the 17th, however, the order of the preceding day was changed, and the Fourth Regiment was notified to be in readiness at 3 o'clock same afternoon, to march. With the exception of muskets and cartridge boxes, and the old state uniform, the men were almost wholly unprovided with arms and equipments. Most of them had expected to be able to send or go to their homes again before leaving.

"They were, however, soon fitted out with overcoats and blankets which the provident foresight of Governor Andrew had provided, knapsacks, and haversacks, the latter of which were stored with rations for three days; the old guns were exchanged for new Springfield rifle muskets; and at 3 P. M. the regiment stood in Merchants' Row four hundred and sixty-two men, all told.

It proceeded amid the most intense enthusiasm of the crowds which thronged the streets—to the State House, where after the companies had received further supplies of clothing and equipments of various kinds, they were addressed by Governor Andrew, who said:—

"It gives me unspeakable pleasure to witness this array from the good Old Colony. You have come from the shores of the sounding sea, where lie the ashes of Pilgrims, and you are bound on a high and noble pilgrimage for liberty, for the Union and constitution of your country. Soldiers of the Old Bay State, sons of sires who never disgraced their flag in civil life or on the tented field, I thank you from the bottom of my heart for this noble response to the call of your state and your country. You cannot wait for words I bid you Godspeed and an affectionate farewell."

"Colonel Packard replied in brief and fitting terms, and the regiment took up its line of march for the Old Colony depot. The march through the city was a perfect ovation. The intense, earnest excitement of the time showed itself in cheers, in many a hearty Godspeed, and in many a moistened eye.

"Quickly embarking on board a train in readiness to receive it, the Regiment at 10 P. M. marched on board the steamers, "State of Maine," at Fall River. All along the depots were thronged with anxious crowds, whose cheers and salvos of artillery testified their sympathy and good wishes."

"About midnight on April 18, 1861, we sailed from New York for Fortress Monroe, Va., going down on the coast. Not knowing who were in possession of the fortress, and expecting that we might be attacked by rebel steamers, Colonel Packard ordered a portion of the men to be supplied with ball cartridges and the six pounder, the only piece of artillery on board to be made ready for action.

We arrived off Cape Henry about 2 A. M., passed in toward Hampton Roads and landed at 8 A. M., on the 20th, marching into the fort amid the cheers of the little garrison. The fort was found to be almost unarmed on the land side and illy supplied with materials for war. For several weeks, the men were employed mounting heavy guns, unloading vessels, storing provisions, keeping guard et cetera."

This series of Quincy in the Civil War began in the Daily Ledger of Monday, April 10, 1911, and has been continued daily. Back numbers of the paper can be obtained for a limited time.

The laymen's movement which was started two weeks ago met with such success that it was held over a second week. Over thirty men and fifteen women assisted at these meetings and there were twelve conversions. The last meeting on Good Friday (Long Friday as the Finnish People call it) was the crowning meeting of the series.

Dr. Walker, who is one of the best speakers and hardest workers in the denomination will be one of the principal speakers. The Woman's Missionary society meetings will be held in connection with the meeting of the Presbytery.

The regular church prayer meetings will be held Thursday evening, the young peoples at 7 o'clock and the regular meeting at 7.30.

CHRIST CHURCH.

The first communion service was held at 7 o'clock Sunday morning with a large attendance.

The 10.30 service took the form of a Holy Communion service with a sermon by the rector on "The Fact of the Resurrection."

An offertory duet was sung by Stanley Ross and Mr. William Carter and A. Rendle sang a solo.

The church was beautifully decorated with Easter lilies and palms.

The Sunday school carol service was held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The rector gave an address to the children and each one was presented with a potted plant, red geraniums for the boys and hyacinths for the girls. The honor roll for perfect attendance at the Lenten services for children was read. Fifty names were upon the rolls. The missionary mite boxes which had been filled by the children were returned at this service and the altar was filled to overflowing.

A service of choral evensong was held at 7 o'clock. The evening sermon was delivered by Rev. Edward Tillotson of Swampscott, "An Argument for the Resurrection" was his topic.

The music of the morning was repeated in the evening and the Hallelujah chorus was rendered by the choir with splendid effect.

Rev. Carl G. Horst will lecture on the "Passion Play" under the auspices of the Unitarian Men's League of the First Unitarian parish in South Natick Friday evening, April 21.

Constantly increasing congregations have testified their appreciation of our mid-week Lenten services, at which prominent out-of-town clergymen preached the sermons. These were the only Lenten services held in Wollaston.

The Unitarian Church-Helpers will meet Thursday, April 20, at 2 P. M., in the vestry of the church.

All Unitarians should bear in mind the three important denominational meetings of the year, namely: 1. The National Federation of Religious Liberals which meets in New York, April 26-28. The annual meetings of the American Unitarian Association and allied societies to be held in Boston, May 22-26. The National Conference of Unitarian churches in Washington, D. C., Oct. 23-25.

The New England Associate Alliance will meet Thursday, April 27 in the Westminister Congregational (Unitarian) church, Rev. Richard W. Boynton of Buffalo will speak on "The old and the new order in religion."

Many summer schools throughout the country are held under the auspices of the Unitarian church of America. Among them is the Sunday School Institute at Meadville, Pa., which begins June 26, and the Isles of Shoals meetings, beginning July 16.

So many have expressed the wish to see Rev. Carl G. Horst's recent vesper sermonette on "A plea for high thinking" in print, that our pastor has consented to have it published.

Owing to somewhat serious complications, which have unexpectedly developed as the result of accident while making his escape from a burning hotel about six months ago, Rev. W. S. Key, of Watha, N. C., the first minister of our church, has had to have operations performed on his legs. His physicians are insisting upon his abandoning his long walks, which, while in pursuance of his multifarious duties, have during the last three years, aggregated something near six-thousand miles.

The Easter morning service at the Wollaston Unitarian church was well attended and the pulpit was beautifully decorated with palms and flowering plants, as well as with cut flowers, many of which were sent as memorials of members of the church who have passed away. Prominent among the decorations was the army of sturdy geraniums, which in small pots, cheerfully awaited the afternoon Sunday school service, at which one was given to each child attending. This pretty custom gives the little ones a sense of the appreciation in which they are held by those in charge of the service. A mixed quartette furnished music for the service and Rev. Carl G. Horst preached a sermon full of the Easter spirit of inspiration for living the best and highest life here as well as of a fixed hope in life hereafter.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN.

The pastor delivered his Easter sermon from the theme: "Reasons for believing on the Messiah." The text was found in John 9:35. Special Easter music was rendered by the choir. The attendance was very large.

The evening service at 7 o'clock wasaddressed by the pastor on the subject of "The Resurrection." Text, 1 Cor. 15:4. Special music was rendered by the choir.

There was another fine audience at this meeting.

A meeting of the Trustees will be held Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

The regular church prayer meeting will be held Thursday evening at 7.30.

QUINCY POINT CHURCH.

The Easter services at the Washington Street Congregational church were all inspiring and uplifting. The pulpit was beautifully decorated with Easter lilies.

Rev. Charles P. Marshall, the pastor preached an excellent sermon on the "Resurrection." The choir sang two splendid anthems, "The Lord is my Strength" and "They have taken My Lord Away" Miss Eleanor Crane sang a beautiful Easter solo.

In the evening, the children of the Sunday school gave a very enjoyable concert.

All the services of the day were largely attended.

The Good Friday service was addressed by Rev. Edward Norton, pastor emeritus of Bethany church. Mr. Norton gave a beautiful sermon on the topic "Seeing God" taking his thought from John 14:9. The attendance was unusually large.

The Ladies' Aid society will meet in the vestry on Tuesday for an All Day sew.

The regular mid-week prayer service will be held on Friday.

HALL PLACE M. E.

"Easter" was appropriately observed at the Hall Place M. E. church on Sunday. Rev. T. C. Martin, the newly appointed pastor began his ministry here at the morning service. He took his text from I Cor. 15-32, "If after the manner of men I have fought with beasts at Ephesus, what advantageth it me, if the dead rise not? Let us eat and drink; for tomorrow we die." The choir assisted by Mr. F. L. Badger, rendered "The love of Christ" and "Lift up your heads."

OPENING OF BALL SEASON

Makarias to Meet the Quincys Tomorrow Afternoon

Everybody is waiting for the grand opening of the baseball season of 1911 on the Water Street grounds, Patriots' day at 3.30, when the Quincy team, the champs of the Old Colony league last year, battle against the Makarias who have made an enviable reputation in the diamond during the last five years.

The Quincy team will have a strong aggregation on the field prepared to start off the season with a victory. They will be led by "Bill" Duggan, whose outfielding was the sensation of the league last year, and who was lately turned down an offer to play in the New England league. With him will be Fay, Nowell, Lonergan, Glaze and Conley of last year's team, while Fitzgerald, last year with Stoughton, has been secured to catch.

The Makarias will have their usual strong team with Troupe and Bates doing the battery work, and with the addition of Bill Manning of the High school team in the infield, the team looks exceptionally strong.

The game will start at 3 o'clock and those wishing to get choice seats should be on hand early for the management is expecting to handle the largest crowd they have ever had on their grounds at an opening game.

LAUGHING.

You hear that boy laughing?
You think he's all fun;
But the angels laugh, too, at the good he has done;
The children laugh loud as they
troop to his call,
And the poor man that knows him laughs loudest of all.
—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

LONG SESSION ANTICIPATED

Congress May Not Adjourn Until Late In July

SENATE'S ACTION A FACTOR

Democrats Will Insist Upon Reciprocity Being Enacted Into Law—Slow Work on Tariff by House Committee—Senate Must Accept Responsibility If Program of Democratic Leaders Is Not Carried Out

Washington, April 18.—Adjournment of congress will depend entirely upon the attitude of the senate. This is the decision reached by Democratic leaders in the house. Once the house completes its legislative program and sends it over to the senate the party leaders will not attempt to bring about a deadlock between the two houses in the matter of adjournment.

If the senate shows a disposition to postpone consideration of tariff bills other than the Canadian reciprocity agreement the Democratic house will not be averse to going to the country on the proposition and coming back for the regular session next December to thresh them out.

"Democrats in the house are not playing politics," said Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee. "Owing to the unlooked for demand for time for participation in the debate on the Canadian reciprocity bill it will be impossible to send that measure over to the senate as early as we had anticipated. I think now we will pass it in the house the latter part of the week. After that bill is disposed of we will take up the farmers' free list bill. When that has been sent over to the senate I doubt if there will be tariff legislation in the house for six or seven weeks.

"While the ways and means committee is working on the schedules which we propose to put through at this session the house will busy itself with reapportionment and not statehood for New Mexico and Arizona. Then, probably, it will be necessary for us to mark time and to adjourn three days at time while waiting for a tariff schedule.

"What the senate will do in the meantime is a matter of speculation. The house, of course, will insist on reciprocity being enacted into law and will not adjourn until that is done. Whether we would block adjournment because the senate would not accept Democratic tariff bills is another question.

"We in the house are only concerned with passing our legislative program. If the senate will not accept it then it is up to the senate to take the responsibility. We will not hesitate to go to the country on the issue."

Notwithstanding that the Democrats in the house would not block an adjournment resolution from the senate, it is becoming more and more apparent that congress will be in session for many weeks. The schedules which are expected from the ways and means committee will not come forth as expeditiously as had been expected, and the debate on every proposition sent to the senate is certain to be prolonged. It is doubtful, therefore, if congress can possibly get away before the latter part of July.

BATTLE WITH "MAN KILLER"

Champion "Lady Broncho Buster" May Die as a Result

Philadelphia, April 18.—In a battle between a girl and an outlaw horse, which has a record as a man killer, Miss Goldie St. Clair was crushed beneath the broncho in the arena of the "101 Ranch" exhibition yesterday afternoon.

Miss St. Clair is now at the point of dath, only murmuring in her delirium the determination to conquer and ride the untamed steed of the frontier.

The probably fatal accident appalled hundreds at the arena, almost at the conclusion of a performance of thrilling feats of horsemanship. Physicians are battling to save her life.

Although Croker says he retires from the department of his own free will, the fight against him has been long and bitter. It extends back into the Low administration and was intense in 1902.

CITY COUNCIL

the committee had decided what to do there were certain things desired, and a railway official was called in and asked to do certain things. After receiving his answer he was excused. He did not argue for the location and said nothing about it. Simply replying to what the committee asked the railway to do.

Councilman Leslie opposed the order. He thought people who had signed petitions should be given an opportunity to be heard by the committee. He moved the order be recommitted.

Councilman Richards favored recommitment. He also asked Chairman Gardner about the presence of a railway official at the committee meeting and Councilman Gardner again explained.

Councilman Richards said the rights of the people should be considered. Sentiment had considerable to do with granting the location. If we do not concede to sentiment we deserve to have our political heads shortened.

Councilman Branch was called to the chair.

Councilman Campbell also asked about the attendance of a railway official at the committee meeting, and for the third time Chairman Gardner told of the calling in the official.

President Bryant, from the floor, spoke at length in opposition to the motion to recommit. A public hearing had been held, and all that desired had been heard. One of the principal objectors had land to sell back of the Greenleaf hotel which would be a vicious location. Several who had signed the petition opposing had told him if they had understood the facts they would not have signed. The common law gives the city all the protection necessary, and if the location proves objectionable it could be revoked.

Councilman Leslie spoke of the bill now before the Legislature relative to trolley freight franchises.

Councilman Boyd moved the previous question.

Motion lost 10 voting yes and 10 no.

Councilman Smith moved, unless sooner reached, the vote on the motion be taken at 9.24. Voted.

After some further debate the motion to recommit was put, 10 voting yes and 10 no, and President protem Branch declared the order recommitted.

On motion of Councilman Smith, it was voted that when the Council adjourn it be until Monday, April 24.

Adjourned at 9.26 until April 24.

The Committee on Streets will give a public hearing tonight on the trolley freight track order.

FRENCH BALL AT ST. MARYS

Many Out-of-Town People at St. Jean Party

The nineteenth annual dance of the St. Jean de Baptiste Societie was held in St. Mary's hall Monday evening with a large attendance, and a great many of the people were from neighboring towns.

Those who had the dance in charge were: Director, Achille Rogers; assistant directeur, Ernest Rogers; aides, Wilfred Rogers, Arthur LeClair, Joseph Lemieux and Leo DuFour. Isaac Rogers had charge of the refreshments.

Y. M. C. A. PLAYS.

The plays in Alpha hall this evening, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. College club, promise to be first class in every particular. Richards of Symphony hall will render some fine piano music before the performance and during the intermission. The play, "Rooney's restaurant" is one of the best mirth provokers of the day and has been placed in good hands for this evening. The play "College Chums" is a comedy drama in three acts, which is sure to please. The serious moments serve to make the ludicious situations all the funnier, and the cast has been well trained under the direction of the well known coach, Erastus Osgood. The cast is composed of well known young people from various parts of the city and the hall promises to be well filled.

MUCH THE SAME.

"There's a smart set of lawyers up in our place. They have a little club that meets at the hotel and smokes and tells stories around the fire; and they kind of pat each other on the back and kind of laugh up their sleeves at all the rest of us funny folks. One awfully rainy night some time ago they were in a tight circle round the only fire in the tavern when a poor, rain-soaked fellow bounced in. The house was full. The man couldn't get a room. He looked wistfully at the fire; but no one offered him a place to warm his hide. One lawyer did speak to him, in a spirit, though of pure frivolity:

"'My friend, are you a traveller?'

"'I am sir,' said the stranger. 'I have been all over the world.'

"'You don't say so? Been in Germany, Egypt, Japan and all the countries of Africa and Asia?'

"'All of them; been everywhere.'

"'Ever been in hell?'

"'Oh, yes; been there twice.'

"'How did you find things there?'

"'Oh, much the same as here—lawyers all next the fire.'"

A COMPLIMENT FOR HIM.

She was 18 and very shy, and she never had been in the city before. There was no one at Broad Street station to meet her and she looked about timidly for a cab. Her mother had told her to take a hansom. She did not see any hansom, nor did she know that the cabbies wore a livery all their own. She did not see a policeman either, so she aproached a youth who was standing on the corner of Fifteenth street with this bashful question.

"Please," she began, "are you a hansom man?"

The youth raised his hand and twirled his mustache ingratiatingly, smiling with deprecating assumption of modesty.

"I am so considered," he replied.—Philadelphia Times.

LIED HIMSELF UP.

Miss Annie S. Peck, the distinguished scholar and mountain climber described in one of her addresses the strange effect that some mountains have on some men.

"In a word," she said, "it is an effect of mendacity. Thus, in a club one mountaineer said to another:

"'So Smith, fat Smith, actually climbed Mont Blanc?'

"'Smith? Not he,' the other mountaineer replied.

"'But he said he did.'

"'True; but in September, on his return from Chamonix, he only said he'd been to the foot of Mont Blanc. Since then he's gradually lied himself all the way up to the top."—Superior Telegram.

WHEN IMMIGRANTS WERE SOLD.

It is pointed out by the London Chronicle that, although the modern immigrant to American ports may be "sold" in a way, he is never sold in the same sense as were those emigrants of the eighteenth century whose fate one gathers from an advertisement in a New York paper of 1774. The advertisement runs: "Servants just arrived from Scotland, to be sold on board the Commerce, Captain Ferguson, master, lying at the ferry stairs, among which are a number of weavers, tailors, blacksmiths, nailers, shoemakers, butchers, hatters and spinsters fourteen to thirty-five years of age. For terms apply to Henry White or said master on board."

GRANDSON IS NOW CLAIMANT

George W. Glover, Jr., Wants Share of Eddy Estate

NEVER SURRENDERED RIGHTS

Rejoinder Filed by Son and Adopted Son of Scientist Leader Declares That Bequest of $2,000,000 to Mother Church Is Void—Eddy Estate Answers to Bill of Complaint—Claims State Laws Are Not Applicable

Concord, N. H., April 18.—Three new moves were made in the Eddy will case Monday afternoon. James W. Remick, former justice of the New Hampshire supreme court, entered his appearance as counsel for George W. Glover, Jr., grandson of Mrs. Eddy.

The contention of the grandson, through his counsel, is that the family settlement made by his father, George W. Glover, Sr., son of Mrs. Eddy, was made during his minority; that, on account of being a minor, the grandson could not legally become a party to the settlement; that he has never surrendered any of his rights as an heir to his grandmother's estate, and that, therefore, he, George W. Glover, Jr., is entitled to his share of the Eddy property, irrespective of any settlement made by his father.

The second move was when counsel for George W. Glover, Sr., and for Dr. Ebenezer J. Eddy, filed a brief rejoinder in the Merrimac county superior court to the recent answer of the executor of the estate.

In this rejoinder counsel for the contestants claim that the bequests of about $2,000,000 to the mother church in Boston is void under the New Hampshire laws relating to perpetuity. They further claim that because the bequest is to a religious and not a charitable society, the state of New Hampshire is not a party to the contract.

The state has already filed a motion to appear through the attorney general. Counsel further moves that the book "Science and Health," a copy of which has been filed by the defense as an exhibit in the case, be not admitted.

The last of the three moves came when a demurrer, asserting that the New Hampshire and Massachusetts statutes limiting the size of bequests to churches or religious societies are not applicable to the provisions of the will of Mrs. Eddy, was filed in the United States circuit court here by counsel for Henry M. Baker, executor of the Eddy estate, and the other defendant named in the bill of complaint brought by Dr. Eddy.

This bill was similar to that brought in the Merrimac county superior court by Dr. Eddy and G. W. Glover.

The demurrer declares that the residuary bequest is not for the local use of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, but for denominational and general uses in the extension of Christian Science, and therefore is not subject to the New Hampshire and Massachusetts statutes in question. It further relates that the plaintiff has no right to attack the probate of the will because he accepted $45,000 from Mrs. Eddy prior to her death in full settlement of any interests in her estate.

The defense contends that no federal questions are involved in the case at all and, consequently, the action in the federal court should be dismissed.

Pupils March From School While Brisk Blaze Is In Progress

Somersworth, N. H., April 18.—For the second time within a few months the firemen were called upon to extinguish a threatening fire in the basement of the Somersworth high school building. In both instances the fire was discovered in time to prevent a panic or serious conflagration by merest chance.

Sub-master White smelled smoke and found a brisk fire in a pile of firewood in the basement. While one student was sent to notify the firemen the others responded to the fire drill and marched out quietly.

McMANUS—O'BRIEN

A pretty wedding was solemnized at Randolph Monday at one o'clock in the afternoon when John P. McManus of South Braintree, son of the late Patrick McManus and Miss Katherine E. O'Brien of Randolph, daughter of William P. O'Brien, deceased were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The affair was a very quiet one owing to the recent death of Simeon O'Brien a brother of the bride. Miss O'Brien was married from the home of her cousin Mrs. D. J. Hand of Randolph and the ceremony was performed at the parochial residence by Rev. Daniel J. Gleason, pastor of St. Mary's church of that town.

The best man was George F. Slavin of South Braintree and the bridesmaid was Miss Margaret T. O'Brien of Randolph a sister of the bride. The bride's gown was a creation of net and Cluny lace and she wore a picture hat trimmed with willow plumes.

The bridesmaid wore pink messaline and a white picture hat trimmed with lace and pink panne velvet.

The happy couple held a reception to their relatives and friends after the ceremony at their new home 12 Thayer place, So. Braintree. They were the recipients of many valuable and handsome gifts. LAST CARD HAS BEEN PLAYED

Taft's Warning to Mexicans Has Not Been Heeded

PROBLEM UP TO CONGRESS

Must Decide Whether Situation Is Grave Enough to Warrant Intervention, Which Can Only Mean Long Drawn Out War With Republic South of Us—Blood of Peaceful Citizens Shed When Bullets Pour Into American Town of Douglas

Washington, April 18.—The United States government faces the first military crisis since 1898, and in all probability the Mexican situation, already intolerable to the high officials, will be presented at once to congress, which alone can say the word which means intervention in Mexico, and that means war.

President Taft has played his last card, and it is now up to congress in session to give him authority to issue the order sending the 20,000 regulars across the border on a mission to restore order in the neighboring country, and first of all to assure protection to the lives and property of American and foreign citizens in that locality.

Monday's battles on the border cost the blood of American citizens, and the United States government has not as yet allowed such sacrifice without vigorous protest, backed up by lines of blue and modern rifles, in the hands of men who know how to shoot and hit, emphasizing the protest.

In spite of warnings the belligerents across the Mexican border yesterday started a sanguinary fight at the threshold of the United States, and a number of citizens engaged in their customary peaceful occupations were struck by bullets from across the border.

The United States army officer commanding at Douglas, Ariz., issued strict orders that not a United States soldier should cross the line, not even to aid the Red Cross. He awaits the order from the commander-in-chief, and that order is intervention.

President Taft feels that he has done personally all that can be done by a chief executive to control the situation along the Mexican border. He and his advisers believe that now congress must say whether the situation is grave enough to warrant intervention and its consequences.

Through the state department the administration played what may be regarded as its last card yesterday. It reiterated in no uncertain fashion the representations made to Mexico lately that affairs like that at Douglas and Agua Prieta must not be repeated.

Instead of awaiting the customary period for a formal reply from Mexico the department asked for immediate assurances that there be no more fighting which endangers Americans in the border towns.

Information was requested also as to what measures the authorities had taken to prevent future combats of this kind.

A few hours after the department announced that it had issued this second demand the dispatches from Douglas began to come into the war department showing that the second battle of Agua Prieta had begun.

No reply has been received from the Mexican authorities.

No one here doubts that intervention means war. The topography of Mexico, the mountains, the insufficient means of quick communication, and a dozen other things that must be figured, would have to be met. Intervention would mean a long drawn out struggle, in which the Mexican federals and the Mexican insurrectos might soon be fighting side by side.

Furthermore, intervention would be likely to dissipate all the good feeling that years of careful diplomacy has created between the United States and the Latin-American countries.

Federals Lose Battle

Agua Prieta, Mex., April 18.—The most important battle of the Mexican revolution thus far was fought here yesterday between 1600 federals and 1000 rebels, and it resulted in the repulse of the former.

The battle, however, was not decisive. It lasted from 6:30 a. m. until sundown. At nightfall, two federal machine guns were in the possession of the rebels, and the federals had sustained a loss estimated by the rebels as at least 200 killed and wounded. The rebels gave their own loss at twenty.

At the beginning of the battle, regardless of the warning given by the United States government to the leaders of both forces, a rain of bullets poured into the American town of Douglas, and when the day was over it was found that seven non-combatant residents of that city had been wounded. It was a day almost of terror in Douglas.

More than half of Douglas was under fire from the beginning until the end of the battle. The American custom house was in the direct range of the attack, and the American soldiers near there were forced to seek shelter.

IN RELIGIOUS FRENZY

Crazed Moro Kills American Who Is Seeking Blood of Christian

Manila, April 18.—Lieutenant Walter H. Rodney of the Second United States cavalry, stationed in the Augusta barracks in the department of Mindanao, was murdered by a Moro Juaramentado who, crazed with religious passion, ran amuck thirsting for the blood of a Christian.

The assassin belongs to the Mohammedan sect of Juaramentador who have taken an inviolable oath to shed the blood of the hated Christians. They know no fear, believing that the performance of what they consider a religious duty if resulting in their own death will be rewarded with eternal bliss.

The fanatic was armed with a bolo and as he tore through the streets those who saw him fled in terror. He encountered Rodney seemingly by chance and struck him down before the officer could defend himself. Rodney was a native of California and 32 years of age.

ALL KINDS OF NOISES

Steamer at Hoboken With Big Collection of Animals and Birds

New York, April 18.—The classic shades of Hoboken were made joyful with screeches, hoots, roars, bellowings, hissings, honkings and twitterings when the liner President Grant slipped into her berth from Hamburg, where most of the wild animal collecting is centred.

The ship brought three camels, two cages of ordinary bears, one cage of lions, one cage of foxes, hundreds of partridges and thousands of all kinds of birds of all climates, twenty-five boxes of serpents, eleven cages of monkeys, all of whom had been seasick, three cages of assorted beasts of prey, one long box filled with turtles, one Thomas cat of rare variety, one case of pop-eyed green frogs and three cages of polar bears with basso profundo voices.

HOT TIME DUE IN D. A. R. CONVENTION

Women Lined Up For Battle Over President-General

Washington, April 18.—With the lines closely drawn for what is expected to prove the most sensational battle the Daughters of the American Revolution has ever had, the twentieth annual convention of that organization began its sessions here. President Taft delivered an address of welcome.

The battle centres about Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Story. The Daughters consider their office of president-general the highest office within the gift of the women of the United States. One of the chief assertions made by the Story faction is that Mrs. Scott, when elected last year, defeating Mrs. Story, promised that she would not run again.

ENGINE STOPS SUDDENLY

Two Men Have a Hundred-Foot Fall With an Airship

Mineola, L. I., April 18.—In attempting a cross-country flight from Mineola to Montauk Point, Leo Stevens, the aeronaut, and William Hillard, the aviator, fell 100 feet in a Burgess-Curtiss biplane after they had covered about about two miles of their journey. Both men were stunned but not seriously injured. The machine was wrecked.

The biplane was traveling at the rate of forty to fifty miles an hour when suddenly the engine stopped. The biplane dropped suddenly. Friends of the aviators who witnessed their fall from a distance hurried to the spot in automobiles and picked them up. Both men were unconscious but were speedily revived.

A YOUNG MAN'S BRIDE

Society Woman and Playwright Weds Amateur Actor

Paris, April 18.—Mrs. Alice C. Barney, the wealthy Washington society woman and playwright and widow of Alfred C. Barney, was married here to Christian Hemmick, also of the District of Columbia.

Hemmick, who is 26 years old and between 30 and 35 years younger than his wife, has taken an active part in amateur theatricals in Washington, and has acted in several of the former Mrs. Barney's plays.

A dispatch from Washington states that Mrs. Hemmick has assigned all her property in that city to her two daughters, retaining only a life interest.

Clean water and Lenox Soap—

That is the combination that suits the majority of women.

One is as important as the other. You cannot expect to have clean clothes if you do not use clean water. Nor will you get rid of the dirt, without injuring the clothes, if you do not use good soap.

Lenox Soap is good soap.

SINCE HE ASKED.

An English peer who visited Scotland was at a dinner given in his honor at a private residence.

A little daughter of his host, who was too well bred to stare, but who eyed him covertly, finally took courage:

"And you are really and truly an English lord?"

"Yes," he answered pleasantly, "really and truly."

"I have often thought I would like to see an English lord," went on the little maid, "and—and—"

"And now you are satisfied at last," he interrupted laughingly.

"N-no," replied the truthful child, "I'm not satisfied. I'm a good deal disappointed."—Scraps.

KENNEY AND HOLLIS

Were a Scream at the New Orpheum Theatre

The grand opening of the new Orpheum theatre on Franklin street took place Monday evening. The popularity of the show and its manager were attested by the fact that between 300 and 400 people had to be turned away from the doors.

Before the show began, the manager with a fife and drum corps escorted a party of guests from Boston from the Quincy station to the theatre.

From the minute the show began until "good night" was flashed upon the screen, the audience enjoyed itself to its heart's content, and many very complimentary things were said about the show and the manner in which it was run.

Both the humorous and the serious pictures were of a high class, and the audience was held convulsed or spellbound as the case might be.

Kenney and Hollis, the original college boys, made a tremendous hit with their songs and dances and gags, and were a scream throughout their 20-minute act.

Rose Redding in her singing and dancing act was very good, and proved herself a great favorite with the audience.

The singing of Tommy Murray, the well known tenor, was greatly enjoyed by all. "Where the river Shannon flows," beautifully illustrated by stereopticon views, was the song he sang.

The show will be repeated this evening, and on the holiday the management announce a bargain day. The show will run continuously from 2 until 10 P. M. There will be four vaudeville acts, four pictures and an illustrated song at the shows on the holiday.

CITY OFFICIAL RESIGNS

Assessor Falconer Must Look After Private Business

Alexander Falconer one of the board of Assessors has tendered his resignation to Mayor Shea with the request that it take effect immediately.

Mr. Falconer when seen this noon said that his relations with the board had been most pleasant, but that changes in his business were such that it required more of his time, and that he felt he could not consistantly neglect his private business longer. Mr. Falconer stated that he tendered his resignation on Monday, but told the Mayor that he would serve with the board a few days longer until his successor could be appointed.

Mr. Falconer was appointed a member of the board during the first year of Mayor Shea's administrations, to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of J. Winthrop Pratt.

Last year he was reappointed for three years and his team would have expired in February 1913.

Mayor Shea was not at his office this morning, and could not be seen in regard to a successor for Mr. Falconer.

One of the names prominently mentioned for the position is that of Wellington W. Mitchell. Mr. Mitchell was for many years connected with the granite business, and would make an admiral assessor as it has been the desire of the granite manufacturers that some granite man should be represented on the board.

Mr. Mitchell is at present secretary of the Board of Managers of Public Burial Places.

WENTWORTH TRIPLETS.

Quincy people will regret very much to learn of the death Monday evening of one of the triplets born to Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wentworth of Miller Stile road on Nov. 11 last. Up to a couple of weeks ago all three were flourishing, and the prospects were encouraging for raising all three. Barbara Blair, who had made the best gain, was taken seriously ill on Sunday with spinal meningitis. Dr. J. F. Welch gave prompt attention, and Dr. Richards came from Providence with a specialist on Monday, but the little one passed away that evening about 9.30. The burial will be at Rochester, N. H., the ancestral home of Mr. Wentworth. The other two babies, William and Laura, are well.

THE MURDER CASE

There are no new developments in the South street murder case, and no good clew of the much-wanted Haddad has been received by the police. There have been some rumers and while realizing that there was not much in them, the police have run them down. Police departments all over the country have been given a description of the man wanted, and are on the lookout for him.

It was the intention Monday night to have the Mayor and City Council offer a reward for his apprehension, and an order to this effect had been prepared and would have been introduced by Councilman Branch, had not an adjournment been reached before motions, orders, etc., were reached.

SUIT FOR $20,000.

Claiming that her husband died as result of injuries received in an altercation with Conductor Robert J. Eagan on April 9, 1910, Mrs. Roscoe S. Hunt, administrator and widow of the late Roscoe S. Hunt, has brought suits against the Old Colony street railway for $20,000. The first is brought to recover under the statutes for the death, and the other for the suffering of the deceased between the time of injury and the death.

THREE YOUTHS DROWNED

Dory Overturns When Lifesavers Are Within a Hundred Yards

Lynn, Mass., April 18.—George Fleet, 17; Mark Robinson, 20, and Earl Bray, 18, were drowned late yesterday afternoon, when their 20-foot sailing dory capsized off Dredge ledge.

One of the crew of the Nahant life saving station, on watch in the tower of the station, saw the dory pitching and tossing about and notified Captain Hayman, who ordered the lifeboat launched.

But when the lifeboat had come within 100 yards of the pitching dory a gust of wind caught the sail and the boat was overturned. The lifesavers worked like madmen to jump their boat nearer, and with a fine burst of speed pulled up on the overturned dory. Not a sign of the three young men could be seen.

AMERICA AND JAPAN ON FRIENDLY TERMS

New Treaty the Subject of a Celebration at Tokio

the foreign minister, gave a dinner for Ambassador O'Brien and the staff of the American embassy in celebration of the recent conclusion of the new Japanese-American commercial treaty. Forty persons were present.

In offering a toast to President Taft, Komura said that sincere friendship had "built a foundation which cannot be shaken by a campaign of falsehood and misrepresentation which is being prosecuted with an ingenuity worthy of a better cause. This treaty gives added proof of the solidity of the relations between Japan and the United States, and owes its existence largely to the active interest and wise statesmanship of President Taft."

Responding, O'Brien agreed with the sentiment expressed by Komura. He said the two nations were destined to continue in accord and harmony, and added:

"While President Taft richly deserves the encomium pronounced by the foreign minister, we must not forget that the emperor always accorded his assistance, interest and sympathy."

PRIZE WALTZ A FEATURE

But Prize Did Not Go To the Popular Choice

The first annual dance and entertainment of R. A. of L. U. 762, United Brotherhood Carpenters and Joiners of America was held in Alpha hall Monday evening with about 75 couples in attendance. The dancing before the intermission was interspersed with readings by Mrs. George Lewis, "The new servant girl" and "An old bachelor's story" were given in very entertaining style and elicited much applause.

The prize waltz came just before the intermission. Four couples were entered in the contest, and F. Sweeney with his partner Miss Lue Norris, and J. Berlucci and Miss Etta Thurber attracted the most attention. The dark horse won the prize however, H. Delory and Miss Della DeLaurier, although J. Berlucci and partner were the popular choice. In addition to the waltz the contestants were required to dance the five step schottische and in this F. Sweeney and partner and J. Berlucci and partner were noticeably superior.

The committee in charge consisted of the following George Newell, H. F. Thayer, C. S. Jones, Gus Austus, Thomas Fallon and H. F. Hammond. H. Delory was floor director and T. J. Connors assistant.

TROLLEY FREIGHT TRACK ORDER HEARING

Arguments and Vote About Equally Divided on the Question

The Only Location Wanted by Street Railway Company

There was a very large attendance of citizens at the hearing before the Committee on Streets of the City Council Tuesday evening. The hearing was held to get the opinion of the citizens on the order granting the street railway a location for a branch-off track on Washington street to the proposed trolley freight terminal.

The hearing commenced at 8 o'clock and it was nearly eleven o'clock before the hearing was adjourned. On a voice vote it was apparent that the audience was nearly equally divided. At the hearing good arguments were advanced both in favor and against the granting of the location. All speakers were given all the time desired, although some wandered away from the question at hand.

COUNSEL OPENS.

Paul R. Blackmur, counsel for the street railway, opened the hearing, and after reading the order, stated that in addition to this railway company had agreed to pave the street for 135 feet with vitrified brick and had

OPPOSED TO ELEVATION

Board of Trade Acts on Grade Crossing Problem

Again on Tuesday evening at a special meeting called for the purpose, the Quincy Board of Trade placed itself on record as opposed to any elevation of the tracs of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. in this city. The following resolve presented by ex-Mayor John O. Hall was adopted unanimously:

"Resolved,—That the Quincy Board of Trade earnestly protest to the special commission appointed to prescribe the plan to be used in the abolition of any plan of the plans Quincy and Quincy Adams, against the adoption of any plan or plans looking to any elevation of the tracks at said Quincy or Quincy Adams."

President Stone was requested to present the resolutions personally to the special commission on abolition of the grade crossings, and arrange for a hearing.

TWO SKETCHES PRESENTED

Holiday Entertainment of the Loyal Ladies

One of the most enjoyable gatherings of the Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor was the entertainment held Tuesday evening at Music hall, by the Scottish Musical Comedy company which presented two sketches before a large audience. The first sketch was a very laughable one, entitled "Breaking into Scotch," which served as a vehicle to introduce an Englishman to Scotland. The characters were impersonated by Mr. Henderson, as Sir Duncan Dundee; Mr. Daniels, as Lord Campapifax; Mr. Gilbert, as a Highland servant; and Mr. Merrill as the butler. It was a side-splitting farce and made a great hit.

The second sketch was a dramatization of Burn's "Tam O'Shanter" and was given by a male quartet. The story portrayed an evening at an Inn in the town of Ayr, such an evening as the ploughman poet may have spent in the jovial and congenial society of Tam O'Shanter, Souter Johnny and the landlord. It served to introduce many of the poems of Burns that had been set to music and was a rare treat.

The quartet was composed of L. B. Merrill, the landlord; John Daniels as Souter; James Gilbert as Tam O'Shanter; and Thomas Henderson, as Burns. In addition to this there was a duet by Miss Minnie Miller and Miss Annie A. Mackay.

At the conclusion of the entertainment there was dancing until 3 o'clock.

MONTCLAIR SCHOOLHOUSE

Will Be Built Under Supervision of Architect

While the Washington street tract location hearing was in progress in the Council chamber Tuesday evening, equally as interesting conference was in progress in the Mayor's office on the first floor. Some weeks ago the School Committee sent a communication to Mayor Shea protesting against the awarding of the contract for the Montclair school building to Dennis F. Crowley, and a petition signed by a number of citizens of that section was also presented to the Mayor. Tuesday evening the School Committee and a delegation from the petitioners were invited to appear before the Mayor and state their reasons.

The result was that the Mayor's office was filled to overflowing, and it was nearly 11 o'clock before that meeting adjourned. Chairman John L. Miller for the School Committee and several of the Montclair delegation, told the Mayor what they thought.

Some oil was found on the troubled waters when the Mayor said that the contract for this building would be entirely different from that under which the Houghs Neck school was built. Under that contract the architect had little to say, as full power was vested in the Commissioner of Public Works.

The contract for the Montclair school, would be drawn by the architect, who would be held responsible for the carrying out of the contract and he could be depended upon to see that it was carried out to the letter

The Mayor did not say to whom the contract would be awarded, but the Montclair citizens came away convinced that the building would be built according to plans and specifications and that whoever the contractor was he would be made to live up to it by the architect.

OVATION FOR COL. ANDERSON.

Col. Edward Anderson of Quincy, former commander of the 12th Indiana regiment, was the orator of the day at the testimonial services given in Lowell in honor of the old 6th Massachusetts regiment, which was composed mostly of Lowell men. Col. Anderson met with a great ovation, for in Grand Army circles he is known as the "Fighting Parson" because he first enlisted as chaplain of the 37th Illinois. At the time of President Lincoln's assassination there was a commission on his desk awaiting the official signature to make the Colonel a brigadier general.

Those who heard the Colonel at Quincy Point, and at the High school and the Testimonial meeting at City Hall last Saturday evening, know how he can speak and with the inspiration of thousands upon thousands of veterans, one does not wonder that the mass of humanity before him was swayed as never before by his oration.

City Treasurer Curtis has awarded the $30,000 four per cent sewer loan bonds to Parkinson & Burr at $102.10. The order provides that $2,000 shall mature annually 1912 to 1926.

SCHOOL NOTES

Tomorrow

TWO HERE, ONE THERE.

Rev. Dr. Hardy, the pastor of Bethany Congregational church, officiated Wednesday morning at the funeral of Barbara Blair, one of the five months old triplets of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wentworth of Miller Stile road. He quoted several Scripture passages relative to little children and read a little poem. In his remarks he emphasized the importance of keeping all three of the babies in mind—two here, one there.

It was a touching scene, the pretty little child in a pure white casket, surounded with floral tributes of lilies of the valley, sweet peas, rosebuds, pinks and other blooms. The parents close by. The one will be missed more than in a family where an only child is taken.

At 11 o'clock Mr. Wentworth and his mother left with the little child for Rochester, N. H., for interment. The new carriage ordered for the triplets arrived at the house a few hours after the death of little Barbara, a very inopportune time as it had been looked forward to with pleasure.

COUNTY ENDEAVORERS.

About 50 Christian Endeavorers from Quincy and Wollaston attended the County convention in Foxboro on the holiday. Carle R. Hayward of Quincy, the county secretary, presided at the meeting.

The theme of the Convention was "Good Citizenship." The following addresses were given: "Preparing for Citizenship" Rev. Milford R. Foshay, "An Investment of Good Citizenship," William Shaw, "The Public duties of the private citizen" Hon. Joseph Walker. "International Peace through Arbitration" Hon. Samuel J. Elder, "The Teachings of Christ Applied to Modern Problems," Rev. George L. Cady D. D.

QUINCY CITIZENS MAKE PLEDGES TO SOLDIERS

Agree to Provide Whatever Is Necessary for Comfort of the Volunteers

Mass Meeting Held to Redeem Those Pledges

(Quincy in Civil War, No. 9.)
(By Frank Fisher Prescott,)

Fifty years ago this morning, April 20, 1861, the Fourth Massachusetts regiment was the FIRST regiment to arrive at Fortress Munroe, only five days after the call of President Lincoln.

The people at home were not idle, as will be seen by a report from the Quincy Patriot of a "Grand Mass Meeting held also on April 20, 1861, the Saturday night after the departure of Co. H from Quincy:

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the citizens of Quincy was held in the Town Hall, on Saturday evening last, to devise measures to contribute for the relief of those who have left for the Army, and for any families who may be left destitute. The meeting was organized by the choice of the following officers:

President,—John Quincy Adams .

Vice Presidents,—Eleazer Frederick, Daniel Baxter, Noah Cummings, Ebenezer Adams, William B. Duggan.

TO REDEEM PLEDGES.

Mr. Adams, after thanking the citizens for the honor conferred upon him, stated that he had seen Captain Curtis of the Hancock Light Guard and told him that no exertions of his should be wanting to provide whatever was necessary for the comfort of his soldiers. He came to this meeting to redeem the pledge. Now is the time for deeds and acts—not talk. It

One Reason
Why Our Prices
Are Lower Than Boston

Every little while we like to say something about the Boston high rent district and the Quincy Low Rents—KINCAIDE'S Low Prices.

Of course you are aware that our prices are Lower than Boston and that rent plays an important part in the making of prices. Rent is the largest item on the bill of expenses—particularly in the case of the furniture dealer—as it requires a large amount of floor space to properly display and sell furniture.

We have 40,000 square feet of floor space. This amount of space in the Boston retail district would easily rent for 20 times as much as it does in Quincy. That means the stores located in the high rent district have to pay many thousands more for rent than we do. Who pays this great expense? You—if you bought of the shops located in Boston. On the price of every piece of furniture would be tacked a proportion of that extra rent. Are you content to patronize the high rent district and pay from 10 to 40 per cent more for your furniture than if you bought it of KINCAIDE?

KINCAIDE will duplicate practically every piece of house furnishing that can be found in Boston at a price 10 per cent lower than the Boston Store.

Isn't that something for you to think about?

For One Day Only---FRIDAY

we will sell drop side couches, complete with mattress and bolster really worth, $6.25.

Slide couches, with 2 mattresses and bolster easily worth $7.25.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Mr. Lorimer thinks this investigating business can easily be over done.

The desire to sit at the butt end of a fishing pole has kept many a lazy man out of serious mischief.

Riches do not always bring true happiness. A Pullman car conductor committed suicide the other day.

Our idea of a golf enthusiast is one who plays it right through the baseball season.

Long and fruitless has been Mr. Bryan's search for "available democratic candidates," and he may have to meet himself coming back on that same road.

Princeton in essaying to furnish the country with a President has trouble in finding one for itself.

If one bad cold cost Caruso $60,000 he would have to be endowed by Carnegie before he could afford to have the measles.

The Republicans in Congress have "gotten together" beautifully and the insurgents and "old guard" have buried all past difficulties and will present a united front to the common enemy from now on. If this keeps up it will mean that the Republicans will elect the president next year, which is a consummation devoutly to be desired.

Roller Skating.

London seems to have possessed a roller skating rink nearly a century ago, for in 1823 mention can be found of the invention of a skate "for rendering the amusement independent of frost," which was being "practically exhibited at the old tennis court in Windmill street."

The Bridegroom.

In primitive times the newly wedded man had to wait upon his bride and the guests on his wedding day. He was their groom.

Town Names In Mexico.

In sending letters to Mexico it is often as necessary to mention the state as well as the town as it is in the United States. There are eight towns named Rosario, seven Guadaloupes, seven Santa Catarinas, etc.

Papuan Women.

A Papuan woman can leave her husband without any legal formality, but if she marries again the second husband must pay something to the deserted lord.

Rheumatic Pigs.

Pigs are troubled by rheumatism more than by any other disease. Its work is so insidious oftentimes and its attacks so various in form that it is not recognized, but it may be set down as a rule that if the pig is afflicted by some mysterious malady, particularly one that incapacitates it in some manner, it is rheumatism.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

QUINCY CITIZENS

was our duty to meet and provide aid for those brave men, so long as we have anything to give, and he was willing to redeem his pledge to Captain Curtis to the last cent.

We must organize! The contest is begun. It is no slight affair. It is a contest between slave and free labor, and we must suffer and undergo,and bleed for the Flag of Our Country. We must be prepared with the iron determination of Cromwell. The feeling of '76 must animate us. Every man must be prepared.

THE SINEWS OF WAR ARE MONEY.

We must provide for those men who go, so that they will have no anxiety about their families. The sinews of war are money. We must see to it that "Old Masaschusetts does not allow her sons to suffer for anything which is in our power to provide. Let every man demonstrate with his money, that his heart is with the government, in this contest with treason—for it is nothing else.

Let no man hang back. Every man must come forward when called, or be forever disgraced. He had today engaged fifty muskets of the State to be used by a new company here. This was no enthusiastic measure, but one of absolute necessity. The men who have now gone will serve only till the last of July, and it is of the first importance that all be familiar with the use of arms. We need experienced men. There is no more terrible force on the face of the earth than a well disciplined regiment of Massachusetts men.

He spoke of his deep sympathy with our Quincy boys on that cold, dreary rainy day, deserted by their officers, going they knew not where, yet not dispirited. He honored those men, and would gladly have gone with them. Old Massachusetts has nobly responded to the call of the government. Every shot at Fort Sumter has fallen in Massachusetts, and produced a terrible crop of armed men, who will eventually carry the Flag to Victory.

CHEERS FOR CAPTAIN CURTIS.

Here Thompson Baxter, Esq., called for cheers for Captain Curtis, which were given with good will.

We are all here tonight as Union men, burying all former ties,—devoted to the Constitution and the Laws—pledging our "lives, fortunes and sacred honor to the protection of the Flag."

YANKEE DOODLE.

At the close of Mr. Adams' remarks the Quincy Brass Band, which had just arrived at the hall, responded to the call for "Yankee Doodle."

OUR FLAG INSULTED.

George A. W. Chamberlain, Esq., next addressed the audience, remarking that the last time he spoke in the hall it was for party, but had now forgotten that he ever belonged to any party. He now goes for Lincoln, party has gone, and the only question now is, are you a citizen of the United States? Our Governor, old Massachusetts, our Flag, have been insulted by the Confederate States. These states have begun the fight, and he feels like saying with Macbeth—

"Lay, on Macduff, and damn'd be him that first cries, hold enough."

Quincy boys went in good spirits. If they are cut down, we shall send on more, and more, and more, so long as there is a man left.

There seemed to be a singular fatality attending Massachusetts. The first blood shed in the Revolution of '76 was from Massachusetts men, on the 19th of April. And the first blood shed in this war with traitors, was at Baltimore, on the 19th of April, 1861, from Massachusetts men.

We'll tell those traitors that every drop of blood then shed by our men, shall make a sea of blood from theirs. Let them make the attempt to hang their accursed flag on Faneuil Hall. Here the speaker was interrupted by loud cries: They can't do it. They can't do it.)

He remarked that he felt sad when he saw a young man from Quincy leaving for the war against the entreaties of father, mother and friends, saying he loved them all, but loved his country more. That young man is a hero now, even though he never fires a gun.

A LITTLE PLAIN TALK.

Thompson Baxter, Esq., was called on for a little plain talk, and said he could talk plain and would. I don't want them to hang that flag on Faneuil hall. They may take Washington, and New York and other places, but they shan't hang that flag there while I live. My grandfather went to Bunker Hill ,and I would be in Washington before tomorrow night if I was not lame. I never was in such a meeting place as this in my life before. I see men of all parties present and all agreed.

When this war is over that Flag, (pointing to the National flag) will not wave over a slave. They will liberate themselves if we give them a chance. He had been to Boston today, to get Gov. Andrew to form a colored regiment. He felt ashamed that he lived on Quincy Point, but would say that the man who deserted his company was now sorry and would now go as a private in the new company.

HAIL COLUMBIA BY BAND

The band then played "Hail Columbia" which filled every heart with renewed patriotism.

The report of his meeting will be continued in the Daily Ledger tomorrow.

This series of Quincy in the Civil War began in the Daily Ledger of Monday, April 10, 1911, and has been continued daily. Back numbers of the paper can be obtained for a limited time.

PLAYS BY COLLEGE CLUB

"Rooney's Restaurant" and "College Chums" Presented

The plays of the College club were given in Alpha hall Tuesday evening before a very appreciative if not a very large audience. The opening sketch, "Rooney's Restaurant" was a farce in one act. The plot was trivial but Rooney made up for the lack of it, in his fun-making. Ralph Prout as Miss Catchum was also funny. John Reynolds took the part of Samuel Swellhead very cleverly and Leslie Morrison as Reckless Ralph was a typical desperado. Ed. Bullock and Sturgis Hunt fulfilled the requirements of their parts with ability. Mr. Gumb made a beautiful "Harp" and there were those in the audience who believe he has missed his calling.

John McEachern acted as stage manager.

The big play was a three act comedy entitled "College Chums." The audience was given a little insight into the mystery of the age to the uninitiated "college life." Love and war, football and hazing, and various other phases of collegiate activity were presented in a birdseye view. Several of the difficult situations were handled well and the whole production was above the average for amateurs. Unfortunately there is not space to tell Prof. Risley how much we appreciate his part nor are we permitted to give Prof. Weber and Howard Thorne, Arthur Kinsley and Grace Dinsmore, Alec, Mrs. Dinsmore and Paul a proper expression of the appreciation we have of their work. We regret that we cannot tell "the Babe" just why we think he was "all to the biscuit" and that we must call it our limit to tell Toby she was great. As for John Finlay, "well suh, you-all suah did fine" and as for Clifford Paige, we must confess that "Stretch had 'em all skun a mile," much as we hate to say it. It would not be well to close an account of the play without mentioning the perfect acting of Trask in the scene where he came on looking as if a cyclone had struck him. The exit on the arms of Paul and Arthur was perhaps the most realistic thing in the whole play.

The cast included: Leon White, H. Sutermeister, Sam Prout, Henry Safford, Charles Holmes, Frank Tirrill, Roland Estey, Henry Trask, Alex Robertson, Esther Dasha, Elsie Burrell and Louise Prout.

Before the performance and between the acts excellent piano music was furnished by Mr. Richards of Symphony hall. The ushers were: Rupert McFarlane, Theodore Du Plessis, Adrian McFarlane, Dwight Gearwar, William Cranshaw and Harold Price.

WANT JUAREZ IN THEIR HANDS

Insurrectos Demand Immediate Surrender of City

NO MEDDLING, SAY MEXICANS

Government Will Not Tolerate Intervention by United States—"Individual Americans" Blamed For Present Revolutionary Movement—Rebel Forces Which Were Forced to Quit Agua Prieta Are Reinforced

El Paso, Tex., April 20.—A formal demand was made last night on General Juan Navarro for the surrender of Juarez to the insurrecto army of Francsco I. Madero, Jr., within twenty-four hours.

The demand reached Navarro's headquarters while he was inspecting fortifications for the city's defense.

Against Intervention

Mexico City, April 20.—Mexico will not tolerate intervention by the United States. This was made clear by a statement given to the National News association by Francisco de la Barra, minister of foreign affairs and former ambassador. It was called forth by reports that the Diaz government was trying to force intervention by conducting battles close to the border. His statement follows:

"The Mexican government neither has solicited, nor will solicit, the intervention in its affairs of the American government or that of any foreign power, as such a step would not only be entirely opposed to the patriotic sentiment which animates it, but also derogatory to its dignity. This statement, I am convinced, reflects the sentiment of the whole country, irrespective of party or politics.

"Moreover, the government counts on a force sufficient to check the present revolutionary movement, a movement mainly abetted by individual Americans. The declaration of President Diaz and the conduct of his government have revealed the high and patriotic purpose which inspires them.

"On the other hand, the government and the people of the United States of America, animated by a feeling of friendship for Mexico and convinced that our policy is fair and loyal and that it is based on the principles and practices of international law, cannot possibly entertain ideas of such intervention."

"Joan of Arc" With Rebels

Agua Prieta, Mex., April 20.—The rebel forces which were forced to evacuate this town were reinforced by two columns, approximately 500 men, many of them cowboys from the American side. Another attack is expected at any moment.

In command in one force is Juan Cabral, and with him is the Mexican "Joan of Arc," Senora Talmantes.

Citizens report the concentration of insurrectos in the mountains awaiting word to join the attacking party.

The conduct of the rebels during the past week has been brigandage, not war, pure and simple. An American doctor and his wife were held by high rebel officials until the physician could secure indorsement from friends of a draft of $1000. His wife was held as hostage until he secured the cash and turned it over to the officers.

TROLLEY FREIGHT.

agreed to construct the building according to the plan agreed upon by the committee.

He said the question was not whether the trolley freight was a good thing, but the issue was on the location of the branch-off It is the intention of the company at present to operate two cars a day one in the morning and one at night. Later when the right to enter Boston was obtained four cars might be operated but for a period of fifteen years not more than six cars would be operated. The building would be open from 6 or 7 A. M. to 6 P. M., and no business would be done there evenings or Sundays.

The City Council could have the location revoked if at any time it proved to be a menace to life or a nuisance. It was different from the revocation of a long line of track. When the old car barn was located in City Square over 200 cars came in and out every day and there was never any complaint of congestion, and objection was made when it was proposed to move the car barn.

He described the new building which would be 40 by 80 and would set back fifteen feet from the sidewalk line. There would be a 70 by 90 foot space for teams to turn and 33 feet on the south side of the house. The old buildings would be torn down. He then compared Washington street, Quincy, with some of the narrow streets of Boston on which hundreds of cars were operated every hour.

LOCATION ILL ADVISED.

Delcevare King said the railway should be made to do all things possible and there should be a definite agreement. He however considered to location ill advised, as it was in the "civic centre," and the civic centre was being developed there.

Ex-Councilman J. L. Whiton, Jr., considered the proposed location a bad one. Two wrongs do not make a right. There were plenty of places adjacent to City Square which would not be objectionable.

Ex-Councilman John J. McDevitt said it should never be allowed when there were plenty of side streets, and he hoped no location would be granted on a main street.

TWO OBJECTIONS.

Rev. Dr. Hardy opposed the proposed location. The corner of Foster and Washington street was recognized as a dangerous place. He therefore opposed first on account of safety, and second because on account of civic development. There were plenty of places that could be selected that would not be objectionable. The city is developing a civic centre, and while he was soon to remove from Quincy he hoped that the civic beauty would not be retarded.

G. B. Bates considered it a dangerous place. The trolley freight he thought all right, but the terminal should be located somewhere else. He did not think the car barn on Hancock street would be out of the way.

CHANGE OF OPINION.

Ex-Councilman Charles H. Johnson said he had signed Mr. Hardwick's petition, but he had changed his opinion since then. No man was doing more to forward the interest of the city than he was, as he was repeatedly giving his illustrated lecture on Quincy. When they argue about civic centre, where for years property has deteriorated, and when people who own real estate put up one story shacks, it was ridiculous to say that this would take from the civic beauty.

People of Quincy must remember that the railway is a great benefit. It pays the largest tax and pays it without a murmur, while some of the other owners of real estate always pay with a groan. He wished someone would take up the other corners where automobiles rush through at high speed. The future business development is along Washington street.

CONGESTED STREET.

Herbert W. Robbins thought that the freight terminal should not be located on such a congested street. A location should be found where the house could be entered by a straight track.

Ex-Councilman John Q. A. Field spoke at length on the use of the streets by car tracks. The railway would not keep its agreement. This was a narrow street and a switch would be dangerous for carriages. He then referred to Water street, Elm avenue, Barry corner and other places, and said with the location on Washington street all cars would have to go around the church.

UNION IN FAVOR.

W. A. Kelley said that he was an employee of the railroad, and represented the railway men's union who had voted unanimously in favor, but they had not been coerced by the railway. We know that it means more business and living wages for more of our men. He could see no danger as the cars would be operated by men long in the business who were very careful. He had seen these men use the greatest care; they were men of long experience. It would take no time for a car to cross the street and he could not see any danger.

If automobile drivers were half as careful as motormen there would be fewer accidents and things that look like accidents. Washington street has got to be a business street, as it leads to our water front. In closing he said the street railway employees were tax payers and were not forced to sign any petition, and would not sign unless they believed it right.

A NECESSITY.

Capt. O. G. Fosdick of Houghs Neck said he lived in a portion of Quincy practically isolated, and he wanted the trolley freight. When it comes to a question of public necessity or public safety he considered public necessity came first. He ran a car for 21 years in Cambridge, where cars entered and left the barn every two minutes and there was never an accident there for motormen are careful. As for civic beauty we want our goods delivered by the trolley freight.

Councilman John R. Richards said that he desired to speak for one of his constituents Rev. John J. Coan who desired him to say he was opposed to to the place selected because it was dangerous.

Arthur W. Stetson said he had not changed his views. It was not the proper place and was rather dangerous.

NO TANGIBLE OBJECTION.

Ex-Mayor John O. Hall said the railway had selected a site near City Square and they had met all requirements of the committee. He had yet failed to hear any tangible objection except imagination. As an offset to danger there comes the increase of business and the greater care, so that the element of danger was not increased. The street railway company has endeavored to meet public convenience and make obstruction to traffic a minimum. It has been a wonderful factor in the development of Quincy. It would be better to make City Square a business centre and develope other sections residentially.

ALL A MYTH.

John L. Miller of the School Committee saw no reason to change his mind from what he had said at the hearing. No matter where it goes there will be the same objection. He believed this talk of congestion on Washington street was a myth. Back of the Greenleaf Hotel he considered bad, for there were three vehicles on that street to one on Washington street. Located near the Post Office and banks it would be handy, and the public will be better served than in other locations. It took a great imagination to see anything beautiful or artistic in looking down Washington street.

Frank F. Crane was a resident of that street and drove a carriage over it twelve times a day. He considered the argument of danger a myth. It does not amount to anything, and the depot would not be a meance to property.

NO DANGER.

Mr. Sochet favored and could see no danger. He had been in Quincy five years and seen hundreds of teams go in and out of Hall's stable on Hancock street where cars were passing every few minutes and never saw an accident. He had counted as many at 140 teams a day going in and out.

Mr. Johnson of Houghs Neck signed the petition in favor, and after hearing the arguments he felt stronger in favor of the location than before. He could not see where the danger came in. To his mind it would be safer than Coddington street.

TWO OBJECTIONS.

Rev. R. E. Armstrong opposed for two reasons. First, because we want to preserve the civic centre. We have made a good start with the Public Library, Post Office, Y. M. C. A. schoolhouse, and Court House and possibly new City Hall, and a trolley freight station would detriorate property. He understood in other cities it was not located so near the civic centre. People visiting Quincy will point to it with scorn. As to congestion he found that it now took some skill to ride a bicycle on the street and dodge cars and teams. As a matter of convenience it would not be a great boom to the people of Quincy, as a very small part of busines would be done by people coming to the office.

A GOOD THING.

Henry L. Kincaide said he differed from his friend Mr. Armstrong about the civic beauty. If all this agitation will awaken the people to civic pride it will be a good thing. The City Council and citizens should get together and arrive at some concrete plan for a civic centre. The Post Office was placed there because the land could be purchased cheaper. So was the Y. M. C. A. building. Washington street was narrow and he hoped something would be done toward widening. It was not right to make people from the south which was developing fast depend on one track. The question of danger is a myth.

As a business man he wanted the trolley freight as soon as he could get it. It was better to make a mistake once in a while than to do nothing. He believed the men in charge of the cars would be careful. It would be a great mistake to put it at the car barn or Coddington street. He considered Washington street an exceptionable good location, and could see no danger.

CONTINUOUS MENACE.

E. S. Beckford opposed, and could only add his protest to what had been said. He felt that it was wrong to grant a location at that place. He contended that it would be a continuous menace to real estate.

DANGER EVERYWHERE.

Ex-Mayor Sears said that while he was connected with one railway he had no connection with this one and his company was not interested, he simply expressed his personal views. There is no single forward movement that comes that does not have an element of danger with it. In this connection he cited the electric lights, water and sewer, etc. If we are to facilitate business there must be some inconvenience. There would be no more danger there than now. He desired to see the civic square developed but there should be a limit south. Today that limit is well marked at the Public Library.

A. L. Whitman considered the trolley freight a good thing and could see no danger on Washington street. He considered it an ideal location. Sentiment cuts but little ice in business.

STRENUOUS OBJECTION.

R. A. Hardwick opposed in a strenuous manner. People in favor have either an axe to grind or are speaking from friendship, or it is a business deal of some kind. He had visited other places and did not find the freight house in such public places. They were on back streets off of the business centre. He was not opposed to trolley freight, but other locations were equally as good if not better. It was a matter of dollars and cents why Washington street was selected. It is for this reason that they can see no danger. The conditions will not be the same a year from now. Matter of friendship should not enter into this. People who signed his petition had not changed their minds. No other location would have the opposition this does. Automobiles have got to travel fast, and why put danger up to them. On Coddington street it would inconvenience no one, and they would have all the room to expand they desired. It would be a source of danger on Washington street.

NO OTHER LOCATION.

Mr. Blackmur said that Saville street with the thousands going to and from the depot would be a very dangerous place. The company has selected this location, and if not granted will not ask for any other, but will develop other cities. The company has met every reasonable request and done even more. Any location selected would meet with the same objection. All through cars between Boston and Brockton will run by Randolph avenue, and not through Quincy, and if the location is refused we shall operate through cars to the south by this route.

Charles H. Hardwick in closing the hearing presented letters from Joseph A. Dasha, Mrs. C. A. Spear and Unity Circle of King's Daughters in opposition to the location. He also spoke of the sentimental aspect which he claimed should be considered. It was sentiment that made the world advance today.

At this point a voice vote was taken and as stated above the vote was about equally divided. The hearing was then closed.

WILD ESTATE AVAILABLE.

After the hearing closed there were animated discussions among interested parties. In the hearing of the Committee on Streets, the counsel for the Street Railway and several Councilmen, F O. Littlefield declared emphatically that other locations could be secured. He said it was not a fact that the Wild estate opposite Quincy Music Hall could not be secured. His wife was one of the three owners, and he was authorized by all three to state that the whole or any part of that estate was for sale, and could be secured by the Street Railway Company at assessed valuation. He said no bona fide attempt had been made to secure the property as claimed.

After the statement of counsel for the Street Railway, that the company would accept Washington street or nothing, Councilman Branch declared publicly that he would not vote for the order granting the location.

The City Council will probably vote on the order at its meeting next Monday evening.

Crowded Platform Collapses at Dedication of Soldiers' Monument

Spencer, Mass., April 20.—Just as Corporal James Tanner of Washington, former commander-in-chief of the Grand Army, was about to speak in behalf of the Civil war veterans in connection with the dedication of the new soldiers' monument here, the platform collapsed beneath him, throwing him and about sixty others who were on the platform in a heap.

None were injured, although a little panic ensued. After being extricated from the debris he delivered his speech, and last night took part in a Grand Army campfire, which marked the close of the day's festivities.

It is thought that the collapse of the stand was due to the undermining of its supports by the rain and hail, which continued almost incessantly during the day.

HAS NEVER "CONFESSED"

Explorer Cook Is on His Way to Witness Some Fighting In Mexico

Chicago, April 20.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, erstwhile polar explorer, is on his way to El Paso, Tex., to see the fighting, declaring that he is the discoverer of the North Pole.

"Don't you feel a little embarrassed now that you have confessed?" was asked him.

"Confessed!" he exclaimed. "Why I've never confessed! You don't call that magazine article a confession. That was merely the editor's unfortunate way of putting it."

Dr. Cook diffidently admitted that he had "made some good newspaper copy" in his day and asserted that he expected to make quite a little more before he passed on.

SURVIVORS OF "OLD SIXTH" CELEBRATE

Remnant of Famous Regiment In Lowell Parade

Lowell, Mass., April 20.—This city celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the day when the Old Sixth regiment marched through the streets of Baltimore on the way to Washington to save the capital from capture by Confederates and was attacked by a mob of southern sympathizers.

The men of the Sixth came from this vicinity, and it was regarded as a Lowell regiment. Survivors of the command were honored guests of the city and hailed everywhere as heroes. They were escorted through the streets by several military companies, members of the Grand Army of the Republic, together with scores of semi-military and civic societies.

Governor Foss was a speaker at the celebration. He said the men of the old Sixth were heroes and entitled to the utmost homage, but no old hostilities should be kept alive. He said he believed the tendency to arbitrate difficulties would in time make war impossible.

LAW AND ORDER LEAGUE

Formed to Put Check on Crimes Attributed to Troopers

Winooski, Vt., April 20.—In an attempt to halt the record of violent deaths in this town within the last few months, citizens held a mass meeting, organized a law and order league and appointed a committee of five to secure protection.

There have been three murders and two suicides here within a few months. The murders are charged to members of the Tenth cavalry, stationed at Forth Ethan Allen, two miles away. The meeting voted to protest to the commandant at the fort.

The victims were 21 years of age, George Day was operating the car. He has been arrested, together with George A. Hancock and Edgar Kelley. All concerned are residents of North Attleboro.

Further Railroad Curtailment

Portsmouth, N. H., April 20.—The next curtailment of the Boston and Maine system will hit the men in the freight train service. The plan is to reduce crews of yard switchers' work trains, and through freights, known as rounders.

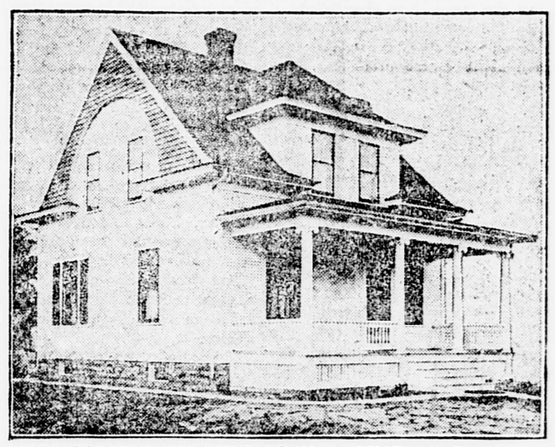
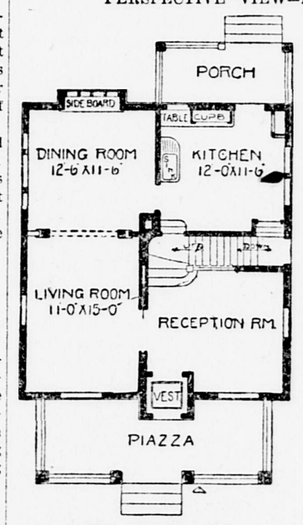
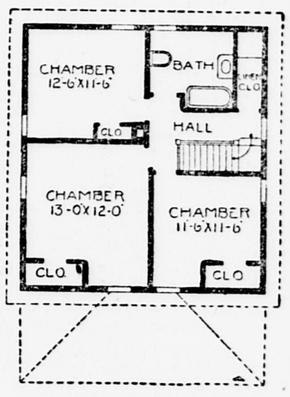
Design 93, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect.



PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN.



SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

This plan for a seven room cottage is greatly admired. The arrangement of the rooms is compact and convenient, making a comfortable dwelling for a family that can be accommodated in a house of this size. The first story contains four large rooms, all opening together. There is a sideboard in rear of the dining room, with windows over it. There is also a grade door on the kitchen side under the stairs to the second story. The second story is reached by combination stairways leading from the kitchen and reception hall. There are three large chambers in the second story, good bath and linen closet. Size 26 by 28.

There is a full basement under the entire house. The first story is nine feet high, the second story eight feet. Birch floors are used throughout, with Washington fir or red oak finish in the first story and pine to paint in the second. Cost to build, exclusive of plumbing and heating, $2,300.

By special arrangement with me the editor of this paper will furnish one complete set of plans and specifications of design No. 93 for $15.

NO DANGER.

Mr. Sochet favored and could see no danger. He had been in Quincy five years and seen hundreds of teams go in and out of Hall's stable on Hancock street where cars were passing every few minutes and never saw an accident. He had counted as many at 140 teams a day going in and out.

Mr. Johnson of Houghs Neck signed the petition in favor, and after hearing the arguments he felt stronger in favor of the location than before. He could not see where the danger came in. To his mind it would be safer than Coddington street.

TWO OBJECTIONS.

Rev. R. E. Armstrong opposed for two reasons. First, because we want to preserve the civic centre. We have made a good start with the Public Library, Post Office, Y. M. C. A. schoolhouse, and Court House and possibly new City Hall, and a trolley freight station would detriorate property. He understood in other cities it was not located so near the civic centre. People visiting Quincy will point to it with scorn. As to congestion he found that it now took some skill to ride a bicycle on the street and dodge cars and teams. As a matter of convenience it would not be a great boom to the people of Quincy, as a very small part of busines would be done by people coming to the office.

A GOOD THING.

Henry L. Kincaide said he differed from his friend Mr. Armstrong about the civic beauty. If all this agitation will awaken the people to civic pride it will be a good thing. The City Council and citizens should get together and arrive at some concrete plan for a civic centre. The Post Office was placed there because the land could be purchased cheaper. So was the Y. M. C. A. building. Washington street was narrow and he hoped something would be done toward widening. It was not right to make people from the south which was developing fast depend on one track. The question of danger is a myth.

As a business man he wanted the trolley freight as soon as he could get it. It was better to make a mistake once in a while than to do nothing. He believed the men in charge of the cars would be careful. It would be a great mistake to put it at the car barn or Coddington street. He considered Washington street an exceptionable good location, and could see no danger.

CONTINUOUS MENACE.

E. S. Beckford opposed, and could only add his protest to what had been said. He felt that it was wrong to grant a location at that place. He contended that it would be a continuous menace to real estate.

DANGER EVERYWHERE.

Ex-Mayor Sears said that while he was connected with one railway he had no connection with this one and his company was not interested, he simply expressed his personal views. There is no single forward movement that comes that does not have an element of danger with it. In this connection he cited the electric lights, water and sewer, etc. If we are to facilitate business there must be some inconvenience. There would be no more danger there than now. He desired to see the civic square developed but there should be a limit south. Today that limit is well marked at the Public Library.

A. L. Whitman considered the trolley freight a good thing and could see no danger on Washington street. He considered it an ideal location. Sentiment cuts but little ice in business.

STRENUOUS OBJECTION.

R. A. Hardwick opposed in a strenuous manner. People in favor have either an axe to grind or are speaking from friendship, or it is a business deal of some kind. He had visited other places and did not find the freight house in such public places. They were on back streets off of the business centre. He was not opposed to trolley freight, but other locations were equally as good if not better. It was a matter of dollars and cents why Washington street was selected. It is for this reason that they can see no danger. The conditions will not be the same a year from now. Matter of friendship should not enter into this. People who signed his petition had not changed their minds. No other location would have the opposition this does. Automobiles have got to travel fast, and why put danger up to them. On Coddington street it would inconvenience no one, and they would have all the room to expand they desired. It would be a source of danger on Washington street.

NO OTHER LOCATION.

Mr. Blackmur said that Saville street with the thousands going to and from the depot would be a very dangerous place. The company has selected this location, and if not granted will not ask for any other, but will develop other cities. The company has met every reasonable request and done eyen more. Any location selected would meet with the same objection. All through cars between Boston and Brockton will run by Randolph avenue, and not through Quincy, and if the location is refused we shall operate through cars to the south by this route.

Charles H. Hardwick in closing the hearing presented letters from Joseph A. Dasha, Mrs. C. A. Spear and Unity Circle of King's Daughters in opposition to the location. He also spoke of the sentimental aspect which he claimed should be considered. It was sentiment that made the world advance today.

At this point a voice vote was taken and as stated above the vote was about equally divided. The hearing was then closed.

WILD ESTATE AVAILABLE.

After the hearing closed there were animated discussions among interested parties. In the hearing of the Committee on Streets, the counsel for the Street Railway and several Councilmen, F O. Littlefield declared emphatically that other locations could be secured. He said it was not a fact that the Wild estate opposite Quincy Music Hall could not be secured. His wife was one of the three owners, and he was authorized by all three to state that the whole or any part of that estate was for sale, and could be secured by the Street Railway Company at assessed valuation. He said no bona fide attempt had been made to secure the property as claimed.

After the statement of counsel for the Street Railway, that the company would accept Washington street or nothing, Councilman Branch declared publicly that he would not vote for the order granting the location.

The City Council will probably vote on the order at its meeting next Monday evening.

ITS SUPPORTS UNDERMINED

Crowded Platform Collapses at Dedication of Soldiers' Monument

Spencer, Mass., April 20.—Just as Corporal James Tanner of Washington, former commander-in-chief of the Grand Army, was about to speak in behalf of the Civil war veterans in connection with the dedication of the new soldiers' monument here, the platform collapsed beneath him, throwing him and about sixty others who were on the platform in a heap.

None were injured, although a little panic ensued. After being extricated from the debris he delivered his speech, and last night took part in a Grand Army campfire, which marked the close of the day's festivities.

It is thought that the collapse of the stand was due to the undermining of its supports by the rain and hail, which continued almost incessantly during the day.

HAS NEVER "CONFESSED"

Explorer Cook Is on His Way to Witness Some Fighting In Mexico

Chicago, April 20.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, erstwhile polar explorer, is on his way to El Paso, Tex., to see the fighting, declaring that he is the discoverer of the North Pole.

"Don't you feel a little embarrassed now that you have confessed?" was asked him.

"Confessed!" he exclaimed. "Why I've never confessed! You don't call that magazine article a confession. That was merely the editor's unfortunate way of putting it."

Dr. Cook diffidently admitted that he had "made some good newspaper copy" in his day and asserted that he expected to make quite a little more before he passed on.

SURVIVORS OF "OLD SIXTH" CELEBRATE

Remnant of Famous Regiment In Lowell Parade

Lowell, Mass., April 20.—This city celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the day when the Old Sixth regiment marched through the streets of Baltimore on the way to Washington to save the capital from capture by Confederates and was attacked by a mob of southern sympathizers.

The men of the Sixth came from this vicinity, and it was regarded as a Lowell regiment. Survivors of the command were honored guests of the city and hailed everywhere as heroes. They were escorted through the streets by several military companies, members of the Grand Army of the Republic, together with scores of semi-military and civic societies.

Governor Foss was a speaker at the celebration. He said the men of the old Sixth were heroes and entitled to the utmost homage, but no old hostilities should be kept alive. He said he believed the tendency to arbitrate difficulties would in time make war impossible.

LAW AND ORDER LEAGUE

Formed to Put Check on Crimes Attributed to Troopers

Winooski, Vt., April 20.—In an attempt to halt the record of violent deaths in this town within the last few months, citizens held a mass meeting, organized a law and order league and appointed a committee of five to secure protection.

There have been three murders and two suicides here within a few months. The murders are charged to members of the Tenth cavalry, stationed at Forth Ethan Allen, two miles away. The meeting voted to protest to the commandant at the fort.

MAN DEAD, GIRL DYING

Betrothed Pair, While Planning Wedding, Are Struck by an Auto

North Attleboro, Mass., April 20.—Miss Lottie Thomas was fatally injured, and George Hunt, to whom she was to be married in June, was instantly killed by an automobile which tore over them as they were walking hand in hand last evening, planning for their wedding.

The victims were 21 years of age, George Day was operating the car. He has been arrested, together with George A. Hancock and Edgar Kelley. All concerned are residents of North Attleboro.

Further Railroad Curtailment

Portsmouth, N. H., April 20.—The next curtailment of the Boston and Maine system will hit the men in the freight train service. The plan is to reduce crews of yard switchers' work trains, and through freights, known as rounders.

Paris Still Third Largest City

Paris, April 20.—Paris retains its position as the third largest city in the world, the census just taken showing a population of 2,846,986. The present census shows an increase of 124,255 over the figures of 1906.

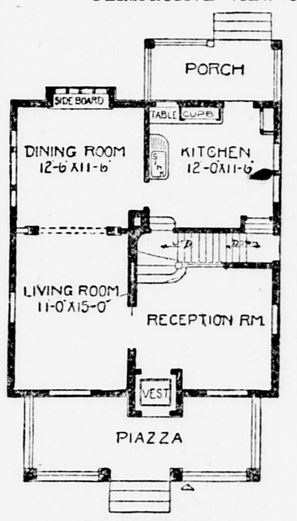
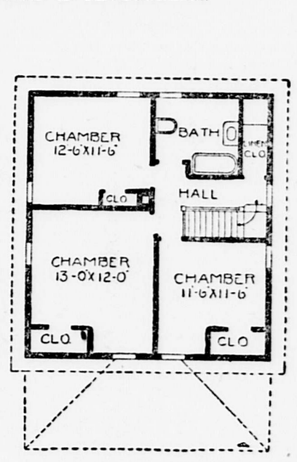
PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN.



SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

This plan for a seven room cottage is greatly admired. The arrangement of the rooms is compact and convenient, making a comfortable dwelling for a family that can be accommodated in a house of this size. The first story contains four large rooms, all opening together. There is a sideboard in rear of the dining room, with windows over it. There is also a grade door on the kitchen side under the stairs to the second story. The second story is reached by combination stairways leading from the kitchen and reception hall. There are three large chambers in the second story, good bath and linen closet. Size 26 by 28.

There is a full basement under the entire house. The first story is nine feet high, the second story eight feet. Birch floors are used throughout, with Washington fir or red oak finish in the first story and pine to paint in the second. Cost to build, exclusive of plumbing and hearing, $2,300.

By special arrangement with me the editor of this paper will furnish one complete set of plans and specifications of design No. 93 for $15.

BRIEFS

A cold storm.

Frank C. Gilbert has started work on a two-story addition to his house.

As a Boston paper states we are still running the Marathon between the coal bin and the furnace.

James Burke has accepted a position on the staff of the Brockton Times.

Patriots' day was an ideal one for out of door sports particularly until noon and many events took place.

The Coddingtons defeated the Washington school team Monday afternoon. The Coddingtons are now getting in good practice and expect to win a lot of games this season.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hodgkinson, Jr., of 16 Elm place are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, born April 17. She has been named Helene Esther Hodgkinson.

The street railway employees union are looking forward to a grand time at their annual concert and ball which takes place Friday evening.

The combination of oil and rain makes the streets recently oiled almost impassable for pedestrians.

The Granite City club kept open house on the evening of Patriots' day and entertained quite a number of guests. During the evening ice cream, cake and coffee were served.

George D. Follett of Putnam street and a party of friends were very successful at cod fishing on Patriots' day securing 36 fish, some weighing four pounds.

HOUGHS NECK.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Packard of Brockton spent the holiday at their summer home at Post Island, making the trip in their automobile.

SUNNY MONDAY

There is not an ounce of rosin in Sunny Monday Laundry Soap. Rosin is used in all other laundry soaps—because it is cheaper than the fats and oils used in Sunny Monday. Sunny Monday costs more to manufacture than any other laundry soap of which we know. It is kind to clothes—will not shrink flannels or woolens, or turn clothes yellow.

Sunny Monday is just as pure as its whiteness indicates; it is the safest and most economical laundry soap you can use.

The reports made at the Brockton Woman's club's annual meeting Monday showed an impressive year of work by the organization. There are 600 members, ten honorary members and a waiting list of 370. The club has enjoyed a year of success in the social line, and it has had success in other lines as well. In educational work the vacation schools have been important features. It has figured in the local musical world interestingly. It started the plan of country week, giving some people a chance for a breath of fresh air and a little rest which otherwise they would not have been able to enjoy. The lectures and entertainments for the club members have been worthy and of value. The arts and crafts exhibit was a success in all ways, and a picture, "The Brook," was bought by the club and presented to the city's municipal art gallery. The annual dramatic entertainment by the members if the club was an event of uncommon interest. A scheme of saving in several public schools has proven worth while. The financial report shows the circulation of considerable money during the twelve months, and a present condition of the club treasury that is cheering to the membership. Altogether it has been a good and useful year for the Woman's club, and its future is of the brightest.—Brockton Enterprise.

BETHANY TEN.

A very enjoyable entertainment was given at the home of Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, Greenleaf street, under the auspices of the Bethany ten, Unity Circle of Kings Daughters. Between 50 and 75 people, mostly members of Unity Circle, were present. In the latter part of the evening Dr. Hardy arrived and had his usual cordial word of greeting for all.

The subject of the evening was "Celia Thaxter and her Island Home"

Mrs. V. E. Miller, chairman of Bethany Ten, read a very well written paper on the subject and Mrs. Emma S. Moore sang a group of songs the words of which were written by Celia Thaxter. These so delighted the audience that she was requested to sing other songs as well.

The result of the evening was that all came to love Celia Thaxter and her home and hte beautiful poems she has written.

In the latter part of the evening refreshments were served by members of the Junior Ten of Kings Daughters.

DEPARTURE IN WOMAN'S CLUBS.

A new movement has recently been taken up by State Federations of Woman's clubs that promises epoch making results for women's domestic problems. Ninety per cent of the women of this country keep no servant largely because the good general houseworker has become about as extinct as the Dodo. Women of intelligence in domestic service specialize as cooks, waitresses and housemaids and go into homes of wealth where their services command high prices.

SERVICE AND SLAVERY.

It is perfectly useless to urge upon the wage earner the comfortable food and surroundings that the average servant enjoys. She knows that the general servant has practically no time that she can call her own, but depends upon the kindness of her mistress for her hours of rest or leisure; that domestic service is practically domestic slavery, and is so regarded by other trades and therefore commands little respect. Until this form of work is specialized and put on a trained basis, like nursing, the average housekeeper will have to depend largely on her own exertions.

It is to lighten the housekeeper's burden now, and bring about better future conditions that the federated clubs are establishing State Experiment Stations.

FOODS AND LABOR-SAVING DEVICES.

These try-out foods and mechanical devices, selecting the best so that women can buy, with confidence, appliances to lighten their labor, and can furnish their tables with appetizing, nourishing food without overstepping the limit of their husband's earnings. There are thousands of labor-saving inventions for the home, and kitchen, some excellent but too costly for average needs, many worthless, or so complicated that they easily get out of order and become useless, and only a few that are reasonable in price, and efficient in meeting the demands made upon them. The ordinary woman has neither time nor money to spend in trying out the various devices. It is here that the club experiment stations come in. They test all sorts of domestic machines, and the best makers are glad to supply their appliances. Information is given to all women interested telling just what results can be secured from any desired labor saving device, with a careful estimate of cost, a most important item.

PURE FOODS.

Similarly foods are investigated, and information that the average housekeeper can readily grasp in practical, concrete form is at the service of the woman who wants to give her family the best of food for a moderate expenditure. Nothwithstanding the great number of widely advertised "Near Foods" with which the markets are flooded, it is still possible to buy pure supplies at a moderate cost if you know how, but hitherto it has not been easy to get the information in such form that the unscientific, ordinary housekeeper, could grasp and use it.

COOKERS AND CLEANERS.

The various devices warranted to turn out food cooked so that tender, appetizing viands are assured for the home table, are among the most important inventions. New applications of electricity, alcohol, or hand power in forms adapted to small kitchens, are being supplied for homes, as they have already been successfully provided for clubs, hotels and other large enterprises. The vacuum cleaner is a more important invention for the home than the sewing machine and it will soon be reckoned as indispensable. It not only reduces the labor of sweeping and cleaning so that the average woman can compass it in one-tenth of the time needed by the old methods, but it increases health, drawing germs into its dust receptacle that the broom threw into the air to be deposited in the lungs of the family. In the quaint old city of Rahway, New Jersey, the community of master workmen engaged in making music boxes, are now turning out Regina double suction hand operated vacuum cleaners, of such simple construction that there is nothing to get out of order, and so efficient and inexpensive that the day of the broom and its drudgery is as surely passing as the day of the farmers hand scythe.

ELECTRICAL DEVICES.

Electricity is the coming motive power for all sorts of domestic appliances, not only for vacuum cleaners, but for grinding coffee, churning milk, washing clothes or dishes, or for any and all the labor of housekeeping. It takes intelligence to run machinery and as intelligence rules in domestic economy, household labor will take its place with other skilled trades and be respected accordingly.

Jeanette Van Reypen.

MRS. BUMPUS' LECTURE.

An unusual opportunity was given to art lovers Monday evening to hear a lecture on some of the great mediaeval altar paintings by Mrs. Everett C. Bumpus, given under the auspices of the Women's Guild in Christ church parish house. Mrs. Bumpus dealt altogether with those painted from the time of Cimabue in the latter part of the 13th century to Raphael in the latter part of the 15th century.

The history of the painters and of their subjects was given and the masterpieces of the different artists were described to some extent. The great paintings of Cimabue, Giotto, Martini, Buonsegna, Ghirlandajo, Mainardi, Perugino, Pinturricchio, Fra Bartolomeo, Signorelli, Benozzo Gozzoli, Lodoma, Raphael and one or two by Leonardo Da Vinci were described very graphically. Mrs. Bumpus has had an opportunity to study many of these paintings in the original and could give her own impressions as well as the views of many of the critics.

The lecture was beautifully illustrated by stereopticon views of the paintings in question and one could get a lasting impression of the products of these master workmen.

Mrs. Frank Moore sang two beautiful solos, "Ave Marie" by Leopold Kessler and "Evening and Morning" by Max Spiker. Mrs. Charles Sampson played the accompaniments.

The lecture was attended by a good sized audience and all found the evening altogether delightful.

A New Back for an Old One. How it Can be Done in Quincy.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one. Quincy residents would do well to profit by the following example.

Richard Smith, South Central avenue, Wollaston, Mass., says: "I suffered from backache and kidney trouble for a long time. I had dull pains through the small of my back and on arising in the morning, I was so stiff and lame that I could hardly dress myself. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply and in a short time after beginning their use, I was relieved. After I had taken the contents of two boxes of this remedy, I was in good health and I have had no kidney trouble since. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for this change in my condition and I gladly recommend them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Sixteen Million Now Living Doomed to Die of Pneumonia or Consumption

"The old ways in the treatment and the old conceptions of disease are passing away," said an eminent physician in a recent public address.

The new way of saving life and health is summed up in one word "Prevention"—and is the key-note of the mission of Sirolin, the great Swiss prescription for all throat and lung affections—and the latest preventive and safeguard against the two most deadly scourges of America, pneumonia and consumption.

The recent introduction of Sirolin into this country has placed this famous remedy within the reach of all. Sirolin has done a great work in Europe in reducing the death rate from pneumonia and consumption, and is recognized by the highest medical authorities as the best known specific for all forms of pulmonary disorders, in both acute and chronic stages.

It is time intelligent people discarded the "old way"—of dosing a cold or cough with dangerous opiate mixtures. Sirolin is absolutely free from any and all harmful drugs, and is a safe and sane remedy, as well as a preventive against the serious consequences of a common cold or cough.

Sirolin is now sold by leading druggists. If not readily procurable write to the Sole Agents—

CANNON FINDS FAULT WITH IT

Canadian Pact Was Suddenly Sprung on Congress

NOW BEING RUSHED THROUGH

Agreement Perfected Before Any Congressman Ever Heard of It—Does Not Meet Approval of Former Speaker and He Gives Reasons—Democrats Favorably Report Free List Bill Framed For Farmers

Washington, April 20.—Ex-Speaker Cannon attacked the Canadian reciprocity agreement in the house yesterday afternoon. He characterized the legislation as the most important to come before congress since the act that authorized the war with Spain. "And yet," he said, "this legislation is being hurried through without opportunity to carefully consider it.

"I ask if there is any man within the sound of my voice on either side of the chamber who ever heard of the Canadian reciprocity agreement until it was sent here in a special message following negotiations between this country and Canada. The bill is identical with the agreement presented by Mr. McCall, and yet I want to inquire if there is any member of this house who was ever consulted before this agreement was reported between the two nations. I shall pause a moment for reply."

Representative Cannon stopped abruptly in the midst of his speech and looked around the chamber.

"I note," he said after a moment, "that there is no man here who rises in his place to say that he ever heard of this agreement until it was already perfected."

Mr. Cannon declared that he not only spoke in behalf of his own district, but of the entire 92,000,000 people in the United States.

"It would not meet my own approval," he said, "and I could not maintain my own self-respect if I attempted to array section against section, industry angainst industry and farmer against factory men and railroad men, so I will vote against this bill from the broad standpoint that it is opposed to the best interests of them all. It is proposed here today to put into law, with but slight consideration, an act that will throw into the United States—a market for the agricultural products of 92,000,000 people—the products of a nation having but 8,000,000 people."

The farmers' free list bill was favorably reported by a strict party vote without amendment. The report charges the Republican party with having failed to keep its tariff pledges, and in support of the free list bill, in addition to Canadian reciprocity, says:

"While the Canadian reciprocity agreement is a desirable beginning of the greatly needed work of revising injurious tariff provisions, it cannot be expected unaided to afford more that a fragmentary and partial relief to the people."

The report proceeds to show that the free list bill is in the interests of farmers and will recompense them for any inequalities that may exist in the Canadian reciprocity.

SHOOTS WIFE, KILLS SELF

Series of Domestic Difficulties Culminates In Tragedy

Malden, Mass., April 20.—Zachariah T. Tallon of 754 Salem street shot his wife through the side, fired two shots in an ineffectual attempt to kill his stepdaughter, Edna Desmond, and then killed himself with his one remaining cartridge as the police were entering the house yesterday afternoon.

The shooting was the outcome, it is said, of continued disputes and family jars. Mrs. Tallon, a widow, married Tallon, a widower, five years ago.

D. A. R. Faction Leader Wants to Be the President

BOTH SIDES CLAIM VICTORY

Two Candidates For Daughters of Revolution Presidency

Washington, April 20.—The biennial election of president-general and other national officers of the Daughters of the American Revolution occurs today.

Much doubt exists as to whether Mrs. Matthew T. Scott of Illinois, who won the president-generalcy two years ago by a narrow margin over Mrs. William C. Story of New York, or whether Mrs. Story, again a candidate, will be elected. Both sides claim sufficient votes to elect their candidates.

NEW YORK SENATE VOTES INCOME TAX

Twenty-Five States Have Thus Far Approved Measure

Albany, April 20.—By a vote of 35 to 16 the senate passed the resolution approving the proposed income tax amendment to the federal constitution, which was defeated at last year's session by a single vote in the assembly, having passed the senate by just one vote.

The resolution is expected to be acted on by the assembly within a short time, and no doubt is expressed of its passage.

Twenty-five states already have approved the measure—eleven short of the requisite three-fourths. This does not include the embryo states of Arizona and New Mexico, both of which are credited with being overwhelmingly in favor of the measure.

SETS A NEW STYLE

Gold Bracelet Adorns the Ankle of Rockefeller's Daughter

Chicago, April 20.—Mrs. Harold McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, has set a style for society women. She possesses a gold anklet, especially made, worn so far only to the exceeding interest of a few intimate friends who have been moved to a general discussion of this novelty in fashion.

The anklet is not of the sort commonly pictured, a heavy hoop of metal resembling a handcuff. It is made of five tiny gold strands loosely caught together and forming a sort of ribbon, from which hang a number of gold bangles. There are no jewels set in it.

PEERS' POWER IS CURTAILED

Veto Clause of Parliament Bill Passed In Commons

"CLOSURE" IS RESORTED TO

Liberals and Irish Nationalists Unite In Campaign Against House of Lords—Thousand Amendments Introduced by Tory Opposition In Effort to Block Legislation Will Continue to Be Sidetracked

London, April 20.—With steam roller methods the government forces in the house of commons advanced the parliament bill, after an all night session.

Resorting to "closure," the Liberals forced a vote passing the first or veto clause of the measure, which curtails the power of the peers in dealing with revenue bills. The vote was 143 to 78.

The clause which was passed is one of the most important features of the parliament bill. It puts so sharp a limitation on the power of the upper house to interfere with financial legislation which is promoted in the commons that it practically leaves the house of lords of the future powerless to resist any important fiscal reform introduced by the ministry in power.

The majority by which the closure was carried shows once again the solid strength of the united ministerial and Irish Nationalist parties. The Tory opposition, which is fighting for the interests of the house of lords, had started on a campaign of instruction against the parliament bill by flooding the clerk's desk with a perfect shoal of amendments—numbering fully a thousand—the discussion of which would have kept the ministry night and day until next Christmas, thereby making all attempts at reform of the house of lords futile and farcical.

Premier Asquith and his associate ministers saw the purpose of this and took steps at once to put an effective block to all obstructions. Closure of the most drastic nature was decided upon and is being enforced with determination by the leaders of the government majority.

Everyone is waiting anxiously to see what happens to the bill when it reaches the house of lords. It may be that Lord Lansdowne and his brother peers may trim and emasculate the bill, so as to make it a weak and washy specimen of legislation, perfectly harmless as a weapon against the upper chamber.

But neither the British Liberals nor the Irish Nationalist leaders will consider any let up in the hammering campaign against the lords in which they are now engaged. Both Premier Asquith and Mr. Redmond are alive to the fact that it is "now or never" between the people and the peers. Public opinion is strong with the people and nobody doubts for a moment on which side the victory will lie. It is not the people who will have to strike their colors.

It is the determination of the ministry to carry the bill through all its stages in the commons before parliament is prorogued just before the coronation.

The fight on the parliament bill is closely linked with the fortunes of home rule for Ireland. No matter what the house of lords may strive to do, this bill is bound to go on the statute book. Once its provisions are the law of the land, victory for home rule is as certain as the stars.

PLAYED WITH SHOTGUN

One Little Fellow Instantly Killed and Brother Badly Wounded

Pittsfield, Mass., April 20.—Edwin Mattoon, 10 years old, and Fred Mattoon, 5, were shot by the accidental discharge of a gun in the home of their parents in New Lenox. Edwin was instantly killed and Fred is badly wounded in the shoulder.

Raymond Mattoon, 15 years old, had been gunning, and when he got home left his shotgun standing in a corner of the kitchen. He says he extracted all the shells and it is supposed that Edwin found a shell about the house and managed to put it into the gun. Then the gun was discharged while the children were at play.

LOOKING TOWARD 1912

Curley Says Foss Will Be Nominated For Vice President

Washington, April 20.—Representative Curley of Boston believes Governor Foss will be nominated for vice president in 1912. In an interview he said:

"With the passage of the Canadian reciprocity bill by congress Governor Foss will loom large as a vice presidential possibility in 1912 and in my opinion only the nomination of an eastern man for the presidency can keep him out of second place on the next Democratic national ticket.

Should an eastern man be chosen to lead the ticket, my calculations might be upset, but with a western man leading the ticket, Foss, in my opinion, is almost sure to be nominated for vice president.

WORLD'S MARATHON RECORD IS LOWERED

De Mar Wins Great Race From Ashland to Boston

Boston, April 20.—Clarence H. De Mar of Melrose won the fifteenth Marathon race under the auspices of the B. A. A. De Mar broke the world's record.

His official time for the twenty-five miles was 2:21:39 3-5. He beat his nearest competitor by three minutes and also took three minutes from the record established by Tom Longboat, the Indian, in 1907. Longboat's time was 2:24:24.

De Mar finished the last of the twenty-five gruelling miles running fresh. He was in excellent condition physically, but when he was weighed it was found that he had lost six and a half pounds during the run.

F. J. Madden of Boston was second. Edward Fabore of Montreal was third, while "Bob" Fowler was fourth. There were 142 entries.

It is estimated that between 250,000 and 300,000 people witnessed the race along the course from Ashland to the B. A. A. clubhouse in this city. The weather conditions were ideal.

MURDER IS CHARGED

Boston Man Said to Have Killed Another by Striking With a Brick

Boston, April 20.—Former Councilman Coleman E. Kelly was placed under arrest, charged with the murder of Jeremiah Mahoney, following a quarrel that started at a wedding celebration to which Kelly was an uninvited guest.

Kelly is charged with having killed Mahoney by striking him with a brick. The affair occurred near the corner of C and Fifth streets.

Kelly was arrested at his home after the police, who had been refused admission to the house by his brothers, had broken in the door. Kelly was in bed. The police say he was then somewhat under the influence of liquor.

Banker Charged With Misappropriating Money Is Arrested

New York, April 20.—On a bench warrant issued six years ago, John L. Caven, treasurer of the New York Central Storage company, was arrested at his offices here by Sheriff Davidson of Steuben county.

It is charged that Caven started a private bank at Cohocton in 1905 with an announced capital of $30,000 and that a few months later he disappeared with funds belonging to some of the depositors. An indictment was obtained, charging grand larceny. He was taken to Steuben county today.

Fire Destroys Art Treasures

Brussels, April 20.—A fire which is believed to have been the work of an incendiary destroyed the town hall of Schoerbeek, regarded as one of the finest examples of Flemish Renaissance work. Many valuable works of art were burned. The loss is estimated at 400,000.

HIGH SCHOOL GAME.

The Alumni put one across on the Regulars of Quincy High school on Patriots Day to the tune of 6 to 2. The regulars got their lone two in the second by a smart rally. Bootus flied to "Russ" "Mil" Chapman and Hill doubled, while "Pete" Chapman laid down a neat sacrifice. Ruderson was the hero who laid against a hard one for a peachy single, scoring two runs. Rice doubled to centre, Anderson stopping at third. Manning flied out, ending it all.

After the second the regulars were never troublesome. "Russ" Bates was the boy who was the cause of joy in the first sending in 2 runs, and doing the same in the ninth with timely hits to centre.

McCarty played a good game at short also getting three singles. "Hub" Tabb was in great form behind the bat. "Hub" was there with a single in the ninth too, with two and three on him.

Mansfield pitched a good game for the Yannigans; they being without a pitcher until about to start, when "Mans" was asked to join while sitting on the bench. A little warming up and he was ready for the Speed Boys and he made good with a jump. Rice's curves seemed to break just right. Although 8 bit the dust a few sore wings in the regular's lineup made it rather hard for Hill on first, but he did good work in picking them up at all angles. There was some class among the alumni.

RAMBLERS WIN.

The Ramblers came out with a good game to start the season on the holiday when they slipped on across the Beacon A. A. of Boston by the score of 9-3.

It looked up to 7th as though they were going to be shut out, until Soule got a triple and came home on a passed ball. Two passes, a fielders choice and two singles gave the city boys their other two.

But Rice was pitching a better game in the afternoon than in the morning; getting 16 strike outs to his credit. Four scattered hits were all they were able to register off "Scrime," and that is going some. Coleman's arm went back on him in the 7th and he retired in favor of Bates who held the Ramblers to 9 runs.

"Pete" Chapman broke in today with a slashing triple while McCarty made good on a home run which rolled clear to the street when the fielder misjudged the drive by an inch. "Bootus" was there with a couple singles and helped a great deal in holding many a city man to his sack. Rice got in some awful holes but came out with two to three strike outs every time.

ADAMS DEFEATED.

Adams A. A. suffered defeat at the hands of the Boston Independents on the holiday by a score of 5 to 3. Knight pitched a good game for the home team getting 8 strike outs, but errors were costly, and on account of these the visitors carried away the victory. Trotman played well for the victors getting 7 strikeouts and aiding in the scoring with a two base hit. O'Rourke led in batting for the home team getting two hits.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Boston Ind.	0	0	2	0	0	1	2	—5
Adams	1	0	0	0	0	2	0	—3

Earned runs—Adams, 2; Boston, 2. Two-base hits—Grethe, Slattery, Trotman. Sacrifice hits—Barry, Hyer. Double plays—Donovan to Slattery. Struck out—By Trotman, 7; Knight, 8; Grethe, 1. ORPHEUM THEATRE.

"Bargain Day" at the new Orpheum was a tremendous success. Four two hours shows were given and over 2000 people were in the hall during the afternoon and evening. Kenney and Hollis continued to convulse the audiences and Rose Redding increased her popularity. Two extra acts were presented at the holiday performances, Jack McCay, Scotch comedian and C. Alliston in a musical sketch were both fine and met with the heartiest approval of the audience. The new pictures came up to the standard of the first ones shown, which is as good a compliment as can be paid to them. "Tommy" Murray won his way still further into the favor of the audiences with his splendid tenor voice.

TODAY'S COURT.

Today was automobile day at the Quincy court and several who could not resist the temptation to go faster than allowed by law when passing through Milton were called upon to contribute. Stanford D. Toppan of Plymouth, Charles H. Davis of Yarmouth, Robert F. Malone of Yarmouth and William J. Pearman of Cambridge contributed $25 each, and Charles A. Griggs of Milton $15.

Arthur Guay of Manchester, N. H., was summoned by the Park police or rather was arrested and held at the park station until he could find someone to accept bail. There was no one in Milton so authorized, and it was necessary to telephone to Quincy for Lawrence Lyons the clerk of the court. It was nearly two hours after the man's arrest before he was bailed. In court this morning the court imposed a fine of $15, then reduced it to $10. After this the circumstance of his having to wait two hours for bail caame out, and the court remitted the $10 fine and placed the case on file, so that the man from Manchester while put to some inconvenience by being held made ten dollars by the operation.

Spencer H. Van Auken was fined $40 for drunkenness and shooting a revolver at Weymouth.

W. A. Turner was fined $5 for doing plumbing work at Quincy without a license.

LOST CHILD FOUND.

The lost child call was sounded at 7.30 Tuesday night to summon help to search for Edna Sweeney, the 10 year old daughter of Mrs. Edward Sweeney of Atlantic. The little girl went to Tuesday morning but did not return home at noon. Her mother fearing that something had happened to her notified the school authorities, and a search was made of the school building without result. During the afternoon the police on duty at Atlantic and Wollaston searched for the girl but without success. When the father returned home at night he found his wife almost prostrated with grief. Mr. Sweeney got in touch with the police department and the lost child call was sounded. This brought a small army of searches, and a systematic search that covered the whole of Atlantic was begun. Even the brooks and ponds were searched for traces.

Engineer Nyhan and Mr. Sweeney were together, and when passing the Sacred Heart church noticed that the door was open. This aroused their suspicions, and it was thought advisable to search the church. Walking through the church they found the little girl asleep in one of the pews in the gallery.

The father was overjoyed and soon had his daughter in his arms. When questioned she said that she had wandered about Atlantic all the afternoon, and had not eaten anything since morning. She said she finally got lost, and coming to the church recognized it and thought she could go inside. Being thoroughly tied out she laid down in one of the pews and fell asleep. She was very glad to get home and get something to eat. Her mothers joy knew no bounds as her daughter was placed in her arms.

The little girl said she had been reprimanded at school Tuesday morning and determined to run away.

FIELD—HALL.

Walter G. Field, son of Mr. Frank C. Field of Wollaston and Miss Robina Davidson Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Hall of Franklin street, were united in marriage at the home of the bride on Monday evening. The ceremony which took place at 8 o'clock was by Rev. Richard E. Armstrong. William A. Field, a brother of groom, was best man, and Miss Nellie Drummond, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Dorothy Quincy Hall was the flower girl. The Lohengrin wedding march was played by Miss Ruth Gardner. The ushers were George W. Holden and George F. Field. A reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Field will be at home at 27 Muirhead street, Wollaston after May 1.

WEDDING RECEPTION.

A very pretty wedding reception was given in Union hall Tuesday evening to Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Conway who had just been united in marriage by Rev. John J. Coan.

The hall was prettily decorated with palms and cut flowers and a bower was made in the rear of the hall where the couple received the guests. The bride was handsomely gowned in white messaline and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. The best man, Mr. Sullivan of Dorchester and the bridesmaid, Miss Conway of Providence, assisted in receiving. The ushers were friends of the groom who came up from Providence to attend the wedding. During the course of the evening a chorus of twenty men, friends of the groom, sang appropriate selections and the clever original song about "the happy pair" made a great hit.

Refreshments were served during the evening.

The happy couple left on the 11.19 train for Providence where Mr. Conway is engaged in the jewelry business and where they are to make their home.

LADY PASTOR CALLED

Easter Collection of $100 Cheered Universalists

Rev. Fannie E. Austin of Newburyport who has been, so acceptably, supplying the pulpit at the Universalist church, was extended a call to become the settled pastor of the church at the annual parish meeting held Thursday evening, and it is probable that she will accept the call.

The meeting was largely attended, and the enthusiasm shown was evidence that the church has taken a new leave of life.

Reports from the different officers and organizations were most encouraging, especially that of the treasurer, which showed all bills paid and a good balance in the treasury. The report of the Easter collection was particularly gratifying as over $100 were collected, the largest Easter collection ever made.

The officers elected for the coming year are:

Parish committee, George W. Gragg, George W. Wheeler, Frank Hobart, Arthur C. Merritt, Albert J. Graf.

Treasurer—Frank Hobart.

Clerk—Miss Mary Cudworth.

THE CANTELOPERS.

The musical comedies of the Pi Eta Society of Harvard University are alway greeted by large audiences in Quincy, and their performance for this year is particularly attractive, and has been a great success where presented. "The Cantelopers" is the title, and the cast includes a U. S. A. army commander, his son and daughter, a maid a widow of a former commander, her daughter and son, a maiden lady, a man deaf and wealthy, a stage driver, a mail carrier, an Indian chief, another Indian, an Indian maiden, a braze, the soubrette of the Liberty Belles, and another member of the troop. It is in three acts, the scene being in Nebraska.

SINGLE TAX DEBATED

At Meeting of the Wollaston Methodist Club

Charles B. Fillebrown of Boston was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Wollaston Methodist club on Thursday evening his subject being the single tax.

The speaker brought into prominence the unequal distribution of wealth, and by a series of questions and deductions attempted to convince those present of the feasibility and desireability.

Privilege, which Mr. Fillebrown described as the law given power of one man to profit at the expense of another, and the private appropriation of ground rent, were given as the chief causes of the present inequality of wealth. The single tax was held up by the speaker as a panacea and automatic remover of existing evils.

Mr. Fillebrown's views aroused a fund of controversy from the members present, and several spoke against the idea, claiming it was visionary.

Reference was made to the success which is attending this movement in New Zealand while certain portions of Canada were instanced as places where the idea is in the experimental stage.

The business meeting, in the absence of President Taylor, was conducted by Eric H. Ewertz in the chair. The appointment of a nominating committee was taken under advisement.

A bright and sparkling issue of the Wollaston Herald, the club paper, was read by S. N. Belcher. Refreshments closed the evening.

DYER—LORD.

Miss Grace Lord of Bath, Maine, and Mr. Calvin T. Dyer of this city were quietly married Thursday evening by Rev. Ellery C. Butler. The groom is a foreman in the Street department of the city and color bearer of Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R. He was with scarcely an exception the youngest to enlist in the Civil War, having volunteered as a drummer boy at 15, and being only 63 now. His wife is thirty years his junior and probably is the youngest soldiers wife of the Civil War in the country. Mr. and Mrs. Dyer will make their home with Mr. Dyers daughter, the wife of Walter F. Carman, the Commander of John A. Boyd Camp, No. 2, United Spanish War Veterans of Upland road.

John Quincy Adams Shows Crit Like His Ancestors

(Quincy in the Civil War, No. 10)

(By Frank Fisher Prescott.)

Continuing the report of the "Grand Mass Meeting" held in Quincy April 20, 1861 from the Quincy Patriot of those days we find interesting reading.

JUDGE MORTON INTRODUCED.

William S. Morton, Esq., was then introduced. He said he was gratified to see the earnest faces here present. It is evidence that all feel NOW is the time for action. It is our duty to act, to suppress the most cruel invasion ever known in the civilized world. If he was smaller and younger, he would not be here tonight.

Our Flag will yet wave over the whole Union. He had seen today armed men and earnest men, who are willing and anxious to avenge the blood shed by Masachusetts men, on the 19th of April 1861.—Men from the same State and the same county of those who fell on that memorable day in '76. General Butler. has today sent word that he'll march his troops through Baltimore, or leave his dead body there.

Men enough are everywhere ready when they can get arms, and I am in favor of purchasing rifles for the use of our citizens. The change in public opinion has been rapid. Last fall, Governor Andrew had great opposition in Boston, but now all Boston honors him, and will stand by him to the last.

CHEERS FOR SERGT. SPEAR.

Edwin W. Marsh, Esq., here called for three cheers for Sergeant Spear, who was at work twenty miles away from home, and never received word of their going until the morning they were ready to start, and at 11 o'clock was here, had taken leave of his family, and started with his brother soldiers.

The most vociferous cheering followed the remarks; and the band then played the "Star Spangled Banner."

THIS IS A SERIOUS TIME.

Mr. Curworth then made a short speech. He said: My friends, this is a serious time. Our Flag has been insulted. I glory to see all men of all parties merge into one to avenge the insult. The North has a hard battle to fight, but I feel confident they will fight that battle. I feel willing myself to go on the field of battle. My father was in the Revolution, and I am a Union man, and will fight for the Stars and Stripes" to the last drop.

CLERGYMAN THE NEXT SPEAKER.

The crowd was next addressed by Rev. Henry Giles. I was not aware, said he, that such a meeting as this was to be held, until a few moments before I came here. It has been remarked that there is no use in talking, and unfortunately for me, it is the only thing I can do. There are two classes in society—the talkers and the doers.

We are in the midst of a struggle against our desires. We have waited and received insults, and taunts and sneers. History will wonder at our patience; that we were so willing to bear and forbear—but now we have arisen in the force of calm passion, after having regarded and treated them as friends and brothers—bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh—and they being the agressors, having arisen without cause, have no right to complain. We must both act and speak. These are the qualities of a free people.

It is a sad case when soberly thought of. Such a tragedy has never occurred in history. In recorded struggles we have seen Civilization against Barbarism. In our case, Slavery against Freedom. We are in a position where power in nearly equally divided. We must be sober. We have the great principles of right on our side. We have long forborne, now we have spoken in the spirit and with the feelings of old Lacedemonia. Massachusetts is not great in space, but she is great in spirit. We shall meet the Southerners with the fire of Bunker Hill. We shall look them in their faces, and fire. We have a great deal on our side, but we must keep our powder dry.

I recollect an anecdote of a fellow in Cincinnati, who had considerable funds deposited in a certain bank, which it was rumored was about to fail. He went to the bank and demanded his money, which the clerk rather declined to pay. He drew his revolver and said: Pay me my money! And the cashier did it quickly. On being asked why he did not put his

Boston Merchants Complain Cannot Compete With Quincy

Just as KINCAIDE has been telling you for years—high rents, high valuations, high taxations has forced the Boston Merchants to acknowledge they cannot compete with the Suburban store. Listen to this, as reported in the Boston Globe of April 12th.,

Forced to Raise Prices

says George N. Talbot of 403 Washington street, Boston, at a hearing before the Boston Board of Assessors on April 11th, "forced to raise prices as a matter of self preservation", brought about by high rent, high valuation, high taxes. Who pays this high rent—who contributes toward the high expenses? YOU—if you trade in Boston.

Hear this—Walter A. Simmons representing A. Shuman Co., read a letter from Mr. Shuman complaining that the Boston Board of Assessors had increased the valuation of his property $50,000 a year for the last ten years.

$500,000 Increase in Ten Years!!!

Who pays it? Another extract from this letter of Mr. Shuman's says that the amount of taxes for even a small store between School and Boylston streets made it impossible to do business at a profit, as the taxes would be $12,000 to 16,000 a year. That's for a small store right in the heart of the big retail district—where the big stores are located.

Now Figure It Out.

With low rent, low valuation, small expenses, is there any reason why KINCAIDE cannot undersell the Boston store? We can and we do. We can save you from 10 to 30 per cent because we are not up against the high rent proposition.

If you see something in the house furnishing line in Boston, something you want, look it over carefully note the price, then call at KINCAIDE'S MAMMOTH STORE and get KINCAIDE'S price. Isn't that fair? We make this offer because we know we can save you from 10 to 30 per cent of the price quoted by the Boston store.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Well, Tammany landed its senator in New York, proving that the organization is not yet suffering from senile decay.

What a fine man for the staff of some yellow newspaper Capt. Hobson would be. Why hasn't he been corralled?

It is thought that W. R. Hearst will not positively insist on supporting an Independence League man in 1912.

The President ought to know that short and pointed messages are gratefully received.

It appears that neither the Mexican nor the Lorimer situations can entertain much hope of permanent peace.

Now that China is to have a modern telephone system we presume the line always will be "busy" when Russia calls up.

THOMAS CRANE LIBRARY.

Story Hour in Children's Room at Public Library.

Children to the number of 60 gathered in the children's room at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to enjoy one of Miss Hibbard's popular "story hours." Pupils of the Gridley Bryant and Quincy schools were the special guests.

The first story told was about Nathan Hale, then one of the King Arthur stories was read. This was followed by the reciting of Eugene Field's "Seein' things" and that by one of Uncle Remus's always entertaining stories in the negro dialect.

At the conclusion, as the children made no move to go, Miss White, the librarian, read the "Story of the little rid hin."

LOUIS F. R. LANGELIER

Addresses Union Club on State Legislature

In a lecture on politics before the Park and Downs Union club on Tuesday evening Representative Louis F. R. Langelier announced he would not be a candidate next fall for reelection.

The speaker also explained and defended his position regarding his vote on the Boston Charter bill which aroused a storm of criticism from certain quarters.

The talk was most interesting and instructive inasmuch as those present were enlightened upon phases of politics and government which they had never heard touched upon before.

There is nothing, said Representative Langelier, that the average citizen knows less (and should know more about) than the subject of legislation.

The speaker proceeded to describe the working of the State Senate and House, telling of the powers and responsibilities of each, and the manner in which one acted as a check on the other.

It does not dawn upon the average citizen what an easy matter it is to introduce a bill in the House. In fact it is up to the individual citizen or society. We legislators don't do it. None of us are hunting around for more bills to put in.

Contrary to the custom of most of the other states, every bill introduced in the legislature must be acted upon, either in one way or the other. There is no shelving a bill and it must be reported upon. This is one reason for lengthy sessions in Massachusetts. This year over 2,000 bills must be acted upon.

Mr. Langelier then traced the progress of a bill introduced in the House. The bill is read once, printed, then referred to a committee. A hearing is then held by the committee and all interested parties. The committee holds an executive session and reports on the bill. The bill then comes to the House and is read twice after being printed on the calendar. It is then given three readings in the Senate, after which it is engossed, when it comes back to the House for engrossment. From the time it has been introduced, the bill has been continually under discussion and when anyone tells you that legislation is forced through it is hardly true.

Freak bills said the speaker, must be given the same careful attention and go through the same elaborate procedure as the bill for the largest appropriation ever made in the state. Among those of late have been one to compel the Boston Elevated to carry hot sand in their cars in winter and another prescribing the length of bathing skirts.

There is always a starting point in elections. In order to run for an office a citizen must first go to the secretary of his party's City committee and get a nomination paper. He must then obtain five signatures for every ward that the office represents. The paper is then filed with the secretary of the City committee, who turns it over to the City Clerk. The latter has the name printed on the ballot and the citizen becomes a candidate. All he then has to do is to get the votes and be elected. The latter, however, as I know from experience, is not always as easy as it sounds.

Mr. Langelier told of the convention system of nomination, and the benefits of the direct nomination bill now before the Legislature.

There are times, said the speaker, when a man does what he thinks is his duty, that it does not strike with the idea of an editor or clique in control of a certain newspaper.

On the Boston Charter issue it is a question whether we voted as Lomasney did or Lomasney voted as we did. I voted for the measure and the bill took a second reading. If the bill comes up again, and there is a roll call, I will vote in exactly the same way.

Mr. Langelier spoke strongly against the unjust criticism of one Boston newspaper which he claimed emanated from the Good Government Association.

This is an association of which I think very little, said Mr. Langelier, and contains a class of men which are among the notorious tax dodgers. They tell people what they ought to do and then do not practise what they preach.

There were many bad features in the Boston Charter bill when it first went through, but we felt that to allow one amendment would open up the entire question of amendments and jeopardize the whole bill.

It was the idea to try out the scheme, and then as we saw the need of amendments to stand for them. Our vote will not change the charter one iota but simply allow the voters of Boston a chance to so do if they desire.

The speaker closed with the words of Edward Everett Hale, who defined a public man as a servant of the state, whose acts are subject to proper revision by his employers who are the people.

In the absence of the president, Rev. William B. Ayers took the chair at the business meeting.

The matter of efficient police and fire protection of the locality was taken up, and Messrs. Watts, Gilliatt, Burgess, Hingston and Nelson were appointed a committee to look into the same.

The matter of crossing fields and private land by wagons was taken up and Herman Forsyth and Herbert Tucker were appointed to report on this question.

The erection of tenements and other matters detrimental to the best interests of the community will be taken up in the near future.

Refreshments followed the address of the speaker.

WARD THREE SCHOOL SITE

A More Westerly Site Suggested As the Location

Editor of Daily Ledger:

At this time when we are reading in your valuable paper so much about our schoolhouse question, let me say a few words, in regard to the proposed lot of land for a new Adams school, in hopes that the residents of this district whose children we must attend this school, will show a little interest and demand a suitable location.

In the first place a new school ought to be more toward the west, as it will be but a short time before there must be a new school in or near Bigelow park, and again are the surroundings as good as we could wish for?

Now, we are the last to have the old wooden school house replaced with a new brick one, and should the city consider only the question of expense in choosing a location? What objection to the lot spoken of for a High school some time ago? This lot, corner of School and Marsh streets, is a large, high, airy and pleasant location. Are there not other lots in this vicinity that might be considered?

Now if we are fortunate enough to get a new schoolhouse in Ward Three, let me suggest that the old school lot be retained by the city and made into a small park or resting place for small children and their parents, to enjoy for a short time afternoons instead of being obliged to stay on the streets in an attempt to get a little of the outdoor life in the short time that they have to give to this recreation.

A few of these small places about our city could be maintained at a very little expense to our city, and would give untold benefit and enjoyment to many a worthy person and child. Hope that the readers of your paper may have an opportunity to read the ideas of more of our people on this question.

Ward Three Resident.

Skandia lodge, V. O., held its regular meeting Thursday evening in Protection hall. Three new members were initiated. Deputy Carl Frank of Boston was present at the meeting. Refreshments cinsisting of ice cream and cake were served and dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

NORFOLK BAR BANQUET

Resolutions on Members Deceased--New Members Elected

The Norfolk Bar Association held its annual banquet at Young's Hotel Boston Thursday evening, with a large attendance.

A business meeting was held at 6.00 at which new members were admitted and other business was transacted.

Resolutions on the decease of Thomas E. Grover, William G. A. Pattee, John P. S. Churchill and Bushrod Morse were read and entered up the records.

At 6.30 the members and guests filed into the dining-room. Asa P. French, United States district attorney, who is president of the association was in charge of the post-prandial exercises, and his opening speech and introductions of other speakers scintillated with wit and humor. He said among other things that the criticisms of the legal profession came as a rule from "crooks and criminals actual and potential."

Judge John W. Hammond of the Supreme court was the first speaker introduced by the presiding officer. His honor said that he liked to be with lawyers, and if he were to pass through life one hundred times he would want each and every time to be a lawyer. He said he loved the traditions and the amenities of the bar, including the time-honored privilege of swearing at the judge (out of his hearing) whenever he made a ruling or decision not to the liking of the attorney. "It is a great relief" said he "for the lawyer to be able to express his candid and sincere opinion of a judge in this way, even if he is quite respectful and polite when before him in court, and the attorneys who avail themselves of this ancient right grow fat and are happy."

Judge Ely of the Boston Municipal court James E. Cotter, and Lawyer Feeley also made addresses, the former paying a tribute to the memory of "Tom" Grover.

Concerning Mr. Churchill, who was an active member of the association until the time of his death, Mr. French said: "I am not a member of the society for psychical research, but I do believe that Brother Churchill is with us tonight and sorrowing because he cannot make his presence felt."

Judge Albert E. Avery is vice-president of the association and in accordance with rule, precedent and fitness will be the next president.

ZIZZY ZE, ZUM ZUM, ZUM

One of Songs at a Wollaston Entertainment

A supper and entertainment was held in the vestry of the Wolaston Unitarian church on Thursday evening by the young matrons of the Women's Alliance. An excellent menu at 6.30 was followed by an entertaining program in charge of Mrs. Carl G. Horst.

Pleasing piano selections were rendered by Mrs. W. F. Kimball and a song entitled "Zizzy ze, zum, zum, zum" was effectively given by Irving L. Shaw. Mrs. F. R. Wheeler and Mr. A. W. Rohn contributed selections on the piano and violin, while the singing of Frederick H. Bishop was enjoyed by all. Miss Margaret Hall sang "Sweet Marie" very prettily, and Mrs. Charles E. Barker told "How to cook a husband by one who knows." Mrs. Ralph W. Oldham and Miss Helen Foster sang "Rosie O' Grady" and Rev. Carl G. Horst contriuted readings entitled "Inside Inn" and "College revisited."

In charge of the supper was a committee consisting of Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield, Mrs. J. A. Hamilton, Mrs. Paul Brodbeck, Mrs. James B. Geddes, Mrs. Clarence Hutton, Mrs. C. H. Baker, Mrs. G. Ernest Carr, Mrs. H. S. Perkins, Mrs. A. B. Hillman, Mrs. Charles E. Barker and Mrs. Ralph W. Oldham.

NO STATE LOSES MEMBER

Massachusetts Gains Two Under New Apportionment Bill

Washington, April 21.—Massachusetts will be entitled to two additional members in the house of representatives if congress passes the reapportionment bill favorably reported to the house by the committee on census, making the total strength of the delegation sixteen.

The bill places the membership of the next house at 433, an increase of forty-two over the present membership. Under this plan no state loses a member, which would have been the case had a number lower than 433 been named.

The bill reported yesterday is practically identical with the Crumpacker measure, which passed the house last session, but which failed to come to a vote in the senate.

ACCUMULATED FOR YEARS

Over Half a Ton of Honey Found In Garret of Ancient Tavern

Pittsfield, Mass., April 21.—Over 1000 pounds of honey were discovered by workmen in the garret of the old Strickland house at East Lee, which they were tearing down. The honey is worth $200 and trouble is threatened between William Parlett, who has just bought the property, and Byron Devareness, the former owner.

The tavern was 150 years old and for a century it was in the Sturgis family. No one living can recall when a person last entered the garret where the bees had their storehouse, and it is thought the honey has been accumulating for over half a century. There were sixty swarms of bees under the rafters.

CAPTURED WHEN ABOUT TO COLLECT

Pair of Alleged Blackmailers Placed Under Arrest

Boston, April 21.—An attempt to blackmail Daniel W. Field, millionaire philanthropist and boot and shoe manufacturer of Brockton, for $14,000, led to the arrest of J. K. Dunbar, a farm employe of Field, and of Anthony B. Yerken, a tailor with a shop at Brockton.

Dunbar, ho is 25 years old, was arrested in the office of Field's attorney in Boston, where he was to receive the money in consequence of a previous agreement. Yerken was arrested at his shop in Brockton about an hour later.

The charge against the two defendants is that they used the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud and to obtain money by threats of violence. Both men are Letts, it is said.

The money was demanded in the name of the Universal Anarchist society and death was to be the penalty for failure to pay.

Roosevelt Declares He Is Not a Candidate For the Presidency

Philadelphia, April 21.—Theodore Roosevelt has no designs upon the presidency. The long silence that has reigned over Oyster Bay, as far as the colonel has been concerned, is broken, and this, quoted from an interview written for the Saturday Evening Post by Henry B. Needham, is what he says:

"I am not a candidate for the presidency. And my real friends will do me a cruel injustice if they seek to make me such."

A POSSIBLE CLEW.

The picture in the morning papers of the unknown foreigner who was shot and killed by Policeman Charles H. Newton, Jr., of Andover in an encounter Thursday morning, resembles very much Hadad, the supposed Quincy murdeerr, for whom the police are looking.

This morning Chief Burrell telephoned the Andover police and requested them to see if the man had a cross tatooed on the back of his hand Word came back that he did not, but as they have a way of painting such marks so that they are not visible, except on close examination. Chief Burrell has decided to send an officer to Andover to look the man over.

The officer will take one of the Syrians who knew Hadad to see if he could identify him. While Chief Burrell does not have much faith that the dead burglar is the much wanted Hadad he wants to make sure of it.

trust in God and wait he replied:—God Almighty is very good in general, but revolvers are best in particular cases.

I do not wish to treat this subject lightly, but we must put our trust in God and revolvers. It is a glorious theme to feel that whether conquerors or conquered, we are on the side of Freedom. We shall either be heroes or martyrs. Our cause is the cause of humanity. How should we appear if not for the spirit of humanity, which makes us all brothers and children of the same Father.

This is not a secession, it is a revolution; the vilest ever recorded in history. All revolutions before have been for Liberty. This is the first for Slavery, and has Slavery on its banner. The great fact that Christianity proclaims equality to all men is in our favor. It is not a war of opinion, but principles. Let us conduct it in the spirit of an honorable people. Let us leave our opponents to do whatever may be dishonorable, remembering that we are all children of the same Father.

MORE CHEERING.

Cheers were here given for Henry Walker, Col. Packard and Dr. Saville.

TWENTY THOUSAND MEN NEEDED.

Charles Marsh, Esq., remarked that he felt depressed. The news of today was depressing, and he feared Washington would fall into the hands of the traitors. We ought to have had 20-000 men there before this. But if temporarily defeated, we should rise again and drive the traitors into the Gulf of Mexico.

HIGH SCHOOL MASTER.

Mr. Putnam, teacher of the High school, was next called out. He said he was a stranger among us, and was by nature a bashful man—but the incidents of the day had removed the bashfulness, and had caused his blood to flow faster than ever before. He had met today, men, armed for war, in the streets of Boston—and the very first he saw, thus armed, was an old playmate, with whom he had passed many happy hours. As he left him, he said, Joe, do your duty! His only answer was by placing his hand on his revolver.

He had seen a fair girl, leaning upon the arm of him she loved, knowing that tonight he was to leave for the seat of the war. Perhaps they were not to meet again—and yet her face expressed no sadness.

Did not the incident of the day cause his heart to beat with unwonted fervor, he would be unworthy of his ancestors, who had fought for their country. He remarked that he first saw the light of day in the house where "Old Put" was born. "Old Put," who said at Bunker Hill, "Boys, don't fire till you see the whites of their eyes."

He now owns a sword, which belonged to a brother of General Putnam, who was at one time commander of the troops in the Colony. Upon it now, the rust of more than eighty years has gathered. If his country called, he was ready to wipe off that rust, and as he owned no scabbard, he would ask none, while a traitor lives.

He said that from boyhood he had listened with delight to the words of our own Adams, to those of Patrick Henry, of Otis, and of Webster in his best days, and they were indeed worthy. But let us remember that now, there were words spoken in our halls, and at the steps of our State House, which would be read and admired by the scholars of other years. Posterity will utter them, and be incited to stand by their country, in its hour of peril.

He had listened to our National airs, as performed by the best bands in the country, but never did they sound so sweetly as tonight. He had never known before, how much he loved our honored flag, but now thought he would ask no better winding sheet. His circumstances were at present, such, that he did not feel called upon to enter the ranks, but when that call did come, trust him, that he would be ready.

LARGE SUM SUBSCRIBED.

The president here read the call for money, and the names of those who had already responded, inviting others to come up and do likewise. Over two thousand dollars were in a short time collected, and a determination manifested to give whatever sum may be needed to sustain our brave troops, and render their families comfortable in their absence.

While the subscription was in progress, many remarks were made by the president, (who seemed to have the 'true grit" of his ancestors) and by others, who showed their earnestness and devotion to the government.

The president remarked that every man ought to be drilled and know how to use arms. It could easily de done. He remembered on a former time (and it seemed to him a long time ago) he commanded a company of Quincy boys and they were remarkable for the facility with which they received military instruction.

The meeting closed with cheers for our adopted citizens, our soldiers, our flag, Abraham Lincoln and our whole country.

SUPPER AT WOLLASTON

Patriotic Evening at the Congregational Church

A patriotic supper and entertainment was the form taken by the monthly sociable held by the ladies of the Wollaston Congregational church on Thursday evening. Flags and bunting were freely used in the decoration of the vestry, and natty little caps with the national colors in evidence were worn by the waitresses.

A program of a patriotic nature was enjoyed which included vocal selections by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Y. Follett, with Miss Winifred Moore of Roslindale at the piano.

A group of young ladies who sang a number of patriotic airs found favor. They included Misses Eleanor Jones, Muriel Warner, Ethel Chapman, Ramah Baker, Pauline Randall, Miriam Anderson, Marion Orcutt, Velma Haskins, Catherine Follett, Anna Withum and Mary Broughton.

Rev. Edward A. Chase delivered an interesting talk, illustrated with stereopticon views, on his trip to Nova Scotia.

Composing the committee were. Mary T. Taylor, Mrs. Albert Sayward Mrs. Leon F. Besse, Mrs. James Falconer, Mrs. James Baker, Mrs. Rufus B. Tobey, Mrs. George Perry, Mrs. Eugene Bonney, Mrs. H. B. Rodd, Mrs. George E. Healey, Mrs. William Patterson.

POOR TRAIN ACCOMMODATION.

Editor Daily Ledger:

The disregard of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., for the rights of the travelling public was illustrated and demonstrated anew yesterday. Most of the afternoon trains from Quincy to Boston had insufficient cars to accommodate those who took passage thereon. The company had every reason to expect increased travel, the day being a holiday, but did not make the necessary provision, and many people who boarded the trains at Quincy and stations beyond had to stand.

I was a passenger on the 1.14 train. A large number got on board at the Quincy station. The conductor shouted, "Lots of seats in the forward cars," but such was not the fact. All or nearly all the seats had been taken before the train reached Quincy. After the train left Quincy a brakeman shouted, "Seats in the rear cars," whereas in truth and in fact every seat was taken and many people were standing in the aisles.

In the car in which I rode I counted ten ladies standing in the aisle and they were obliged to ride in this manner all the way to Boston. Conditions were virtually the same in the other cars, men and women who had paid for transportation and were thereby entitled to seating accommodations, being obliged to stand and maintain their equilibriums and tempers as best they might.

By the way, the rule prohibiting smoking in the station is honored more in the breach than in the observance. Shortly before the departure of the 1.14 train there were two cigarettes and one pipe being smoked vigorously by some of the unemployed gentry who make the station their usual place of abode.

CURE FOR EVIL.

Statutes are only theoretical cures for evil, and the real cure lies in a determined, sincere, constant effort to correct evil conditions by removing their causes, by steady repression and discouragement and by trying to create a higher concept of life and conduct.—Brand Whitlock.

The second stated conclave of Quincy commandery, Knights Templar, will be held at Masonic apartments Monday. The commandery will open at 2 o'clock, and at 6.30 a banquet will be served. The evening session will open at 7.30.

That bunch of distinguished looking gentlemen seen on Washington street early Thursday evening was the City Council Committee on Streets. They were out as a committee looking at the site for the proposed trolley freight depot and branch-off track.

The annual concert and ball of the Quincy local of the Street Railway Employees will be held tonight, and the committee having the affair in charge have spared no efforts to make it the most successful of any similar affair held by the union. Derringer has charge of the decorations, and has promised to do his best. The music will also be of high order, and with an efficient committee in charge all that is needed is pleasant weather and this is promised.

Make This Cough Syrup

To quickly cure the most stubborn cough and break up a cold in six to eight hours, there can be nothing better than the following simple remedy, for it has been tried in thousands of cases with wonderful success. Its popularity is increasing because of its cheapness and positive curative virtues.

Obtain of druggist a 2 1-2 oz. package of Essence Mentho-Laxene; empty into a pint bottle. Then make a syrup by pouring a half pint of boiling water over a pint of granulated sugar. Stir, cool and fill up the bottle with syrup. Full directions for use are enclosed in the package. This home-made syrup effects a saving too; of from two to three dollars as compared with labeled cough medicines.

DEFIANCE OF OUR RIGHT

Trolley Freight Not Such a Good Thing After All

Editor of the Ledger:

Learning that a hearing upon the location of the proposed trolley freight station was to be held Tuesday evening at City Hall, I went in, about a quarter hour before the time appointed for the hearing. I found all the seats had been taken, almost entirely by employees of the railroad I was told, but I remained to listen to the arguments pro and con.

Before attending this meeting I was rather in favor of trolley freight, altho opposed to the location asked for. Why I was in favor of trolley freight, I do not know, unless I took seriously the railroad people's statement that it would be a good thing for the city, altho' I never knew of any one who was especially enthusiastic as regards the benefits derived from it.

What impressed me most was the fact that the railroad people were apparently making a mighty effort to impress the committee of the Council with the idea that the true citizens of Quincy were represented there and wished to show by their presence and their enthusiastic approval of every speech made by the railroad people's representatives that the people of Quincy were in favor of the proposed location.

The speeches made by employees dependent upon the railroad for their daily bread, or by paid attorneys for different railroads, or by those whose interests are connected with the railroad, had not so much weight with me as the speeches of our disinterested and public spirited citizens who opposed this location.

When the railroad's paid attorney came out with the statement that his corporation authorized him to state that if the location at Washington street was not granted that no other location would be asked for and that trolley freight would be dropped as far as Quincy was concerned, I came to the conclusion that trolley freight, if won at the expense of our independence or in defiance of our rights, would be too dearly purchased, and that it was not such a good thing perhaps after all.

What is the use of our wasting sympathy and trying to find a location for this railroad which comes out openly and says "If you don't grant us this one particular location we will not even look at any other!" Is not this the iron hand within the velvet glove? Would you care to entrust a trolley freight franchise with such a corporation whose policy seems to be rule or ruin?

The people of Boston would not even grant the railroad people a freight franchise while here not only have they a freight franchise, with no important conditions safe-guarding us that I know of, but we are asked to grant a location in the heart of our city although in all other cities I know of the freight station is tucked away upon back streets or placed in locations not objectionable.

Why should not our Council protect its citizens the same way the governing boards of other cities do? In Taunton, I have been told by one who has visited the place, that at times the yard is littered with papers, odds and ends; merchandise and rubbish and presents an unsightly and objectionable appearance.

Do we want this condition to exist right here in our midst? Civic pride seems to be on the wane here, but I fail to see how any man with good red blood flowing in his veins can stand calmly by and see conditions such as these forced rudely down our throats.

We have rights and privileges which ought to be regarded and respected and when a railroad seemingly tries to intimidate us and shows that it is not looking for sites which are favorable to us, but only for itself it does not show the proper regard for our rights and the "old spirit of '76" is aroused, the spirit which made this country what it is, and which rebelled against the encroachment upon our rights and resented the forcing of objectionable conditions upon us.

The paid attorney of the railroad compares Washington and Winter streets, Boston with Washington street and Foster street, Quincy and claims there is no congestion in Boston and that cars are run frequently and without interruption.

If he were to go in some Saturday afternoon and stand near Shuman's corner he would find cars moving at a snails' pace ,with frequent stops on account of the crowded street and people overflowing the sidewalks and having to take to the street.

The tracks a few years ago were taken off Tremont street. Subways are being built and as fast as possible the congestion is being removed.

Would the city of Boston today grant the railroad the privilege of laying tracks upon Washington street if they had not been already established there?

Carry the comparison of these streets still farther would the city of Boston which does not even grant trolley freight, allow a freight depot to be erected at Shuman's corner? Yet this is a similar proposition here.

The statement is made that the railroad pays heavy taxes. Yes, but look at the privileges granted. They take possession of our streets, oblige us to make constant repairs in consequence and we have to pay heavy land damages and the cost of widening when their tracks congest our streets too much. Do our citizens get these concessions, or anything like them, although we pay relatively as large a tax! The railroad people have demonstrated, I think, that they can easily take care of themselves without the aid of the "dear public."

I think if this location is not granted another one will be easily found and that there is very little danger of losing trolley freight although since last night's hearing I am not so sure that under certain conditions that it would prove such a blessing after all.

C. Theo. Hardwick.

QUINCY MAN SPEAKER.

Another enjoyable meeting of the men's club of the South Congregational church, South Braintree, was held in the chapel Wednesday evening, in honor of Patriots' day the room was decorated with the national colors and at each plate was a tiny flag for the lapel. To make the patriotic idea complete the members of Post 87, were invited to attend and seventeen veterans responded.

Supper was served at 7.45 o'clock, and a very excellent bill of fare provided, the piece de resistance being chicken pie followed by the always popular ice cream and cake.

After the tables had been cleared the assemblage were favored with vocal solos rendered by Charles A. Kohler of Braintree.

The speaker of the evening was the Rev. Edward Norton of Quincy the acting pastor of the South church. Mr. Norton's address, which was listened to with the closest attention, was on patriotic themes, and touched on topics from the time of Columbus to the present day. Mr. Norton during the Civil war was connected with the Christian Commission, an organization which distributed medicines and ministered to the soldiers in a religious way.

There were more solos by Mr. Kohler followed by a social hour.

The following gentlemen were the committee of arrangements: H. A. Simonds, Ernest Woodsum, Dudley Howland, F. G. Pennock and Fred Adams.

PHYSICAL DIRECTORS.

The Physical Directors society of the "Two States" Massachusetts and Rhode Island, held their regular monthly meeting with the Quincy association Thursday morning. The program included the following: Address, "Life problems: What to teach regarding sex" W. A. MacPherson. "Prescription of Exercise," E. W. Wilder of Worcester, "Organization of Group Game Contests," Frank R. Baker.

At noon the men adjourned to the "gym" where F. C. Freebourne of Cambridge demonstrated the "Polka" as a gymnastic exercise and L. F. La Rose of Quincy conducted a demonstration of Indoor Cricket.

After the directors had a plunge in the pool the meeting was declared adjourned and all went to lunch at Thompson's restaurant.

MANY WILLING TO FILL OFFICE

No Fear That Berlin Portfolio Will Go Begging

NO DECISION BY PRESIDENT

Expected to Consider Name of Longworth, Who Wishes to Enter Diplomatic Service—Vanderbilt, O'Brien Sherrill and Several Others Have Been Suggested to Fill Place to Be Soon Vacated by Hill

Washington, April 21.—While President Taft has not decided definitely upon a successor to Ambassador Hill at Berlin, one name that he is expected to consider is that of Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio. Longworth is understood to be willing to enter the diplomatic service, having spent about all the time he cares to in congress or political life. Both he and Mrs. Longworth, who was Alice Roosevelt, are intimate friends of the president.

One objection that might be made to his appointment to such an important post as that at Berlin would be his inexperience in diplomatic affairs. If not selected for Berlin, however, Longworth may be chosen to fill some other important post.

The suggestion that the appointment of Cornelius Vanderbilt would be pleasing to the emperor has caused no official comment here. Vanderbilt and the kaiser are personal friends. They have met several times.

Friends of Assistant Secretary of State Wilson say that he would like to be sent to Berlin. Secretary of State Knox, it is understood, would like to retain Wilson in the state department, but does not wish to interfere with Wilson's personal desires if he is inclined to insist upon a transfer.

Ambassador O'Brien has been anxious to leave Tokio for some time, because the climate there does not agree with his wife. It is understood that O'Brien explained the situation to Presdent Taft several months ago, when he was in this country on leave of absence. O'Brien would welcome a transfer to a European post. O'Brien's service at Tokio has been especially satisfactory to the president.

Mr. Sherrill, who has been minister to Argentina since April 1, 1909, will not return there. It is understood that he has powerful political friends who are urging his appointment as ambassador to Germany. Sherrill is in this country on leave of absence. If Wilson goes to Berlin, Sherrill may become assistant secretary of state.

The list of names suggested for the place, in addition to the above, so far is as follows.

PEIRCE RESIGNS HIS POST

Minister to Norway Has Been Long in the Diplomatic Service

Washington, April 21.—Herbert H. D. Peirce of Cambridge, Mass., now minister to Norway, has resigned. It is likely he will be succeeded by L. S. Swenson, now minister to Switzerland.

Mr. Peirce had occupied the position as Norwegian minister since 1906. He has had a long and distinguished career in the diplomatic service. His first appointment was that of secretary to the legation at St. Petersburg in 1894. Later he became secretary at the Russian ambassy. In 1901 he became third assistant secretary of state. No announcement of Peirce's future plans has been made at the state department.

Train Breaks Record Between Boston and New Haven

New Haven, April 21.—A run of 175 miles between Boston and this city in three hours and two minutes was made by the Colonial express of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, running from Boston to Washington.

The average speed for the 175 miles was nearly sixty miles an hour and in places it went up to seventy miles. The feat broke the record between here and Boston for a regular train.

Electrocuted by Live Wire

Swampscott, Mass., April 21.—Rocco Vernaza, an Italian laborer, was instantly killed here when he inadvertiously grasped a live wire, which, it is said, was lying on the sidewalk on Puritan road. Vernaza received 2300 volts. He leaves a wife and five children.

C. F. Weihe was in the party, and Lorimer's election was discussed.

"Mr. Weihe took up the cudgel and defended Lorimer. I said I heard Lorimer had spent a lot of money to elect himself. Weihe said:

BURGLAR LAID OUT AFTER LONG CHASE

May Have Belonged to Gang Who Killed Policemen

Andover, Mass., April 21.—Because of the similarity of both cases, the police of this town and Lawrence are inclined to believe that the unknown burglar who was shot and killed by Charles M. Newton, Jr., of North Andover, is connected with the same gang who in August, 1908, shot and killed Patrolmen Charles Emmons and Frank McDermott in the Methuen woods.

It is believed that when the body is identified the police will be able to round up a gang of housebreakers who have been terrorizing the entire district about Lawrence and Andover for three years.

The burglar was shot after he had entered the home of Newton. He had gone into the cellar and had stolen a cheese box filled with eggs. He was overtaken about a mile from the house by Newton, who carried a repeating shotgun.

ACCUSED OF MURDER

Kelly Held Without Bail on Charge of Killing Mahoney

Boston, April 21.—Former Councilman Coleman Kelly was held without bail by Judge Fallon on the charge of causing the death of Jeremiah Mahoney on C street, South Boston.

According to the police, Kelly went unbidden to the wedding reception of Patrick Manning and Miss Sarah Coughlin at 98 C street. He behaved in such a manner, it is alleged, that he was ejected. Together with several others he waited in the street and when the guests were departing, the police claim, he hurled a brick at Mahoney. Death was almost instantaneous.

Boston, April 21.—The federal income tax amendment, which again passed through the house yesterday afternoon by a vote of 140 to 69, is up against a close vote in the senate, according to a canvass, which shows an apparent strength of twenty votes for the opponents of the tax.

These twenty include the votes of fourteen senators who went on record against the tax last year. On the other hand there are nineteen senators absolutely pledged to the tax amendment.

MEXICAN REPLY TO UNCLE SAM

Summary Said to Show Some Discrepancy in Reports

WASHINGTON AWAITING FACTS

Investigation of Events at Douglass to Be Made by Government That Mexican Charges May Be Answered—Taft Advises All to Be Patient—Madero Warned by His Agent In Washington to Be Cautious

Washington, April 21.—A report of the incidents along the American border at Agua Prieta was requested by the war depanrtment from Colonel Shunk of the department of Colorado, who was in command at Douglas, Ariz., when the battle was fought.

It is believed that the government here will make a thorough investigation of the events at Douglas so as to be prepared to answer various charges as to details supposed to be contained in the Mexican reply to the American government's protestations.

The state department, in commenting on the summary of the Mexican reply which had been received through American Ambassador Wilson at Mexico City, said that "it is inferred from the embassy's telegram that there is some discrepancy between the news which had reached the two capitals as to various particulars connected with the Douglas incident."

Coincident with the war department's action was the announcement by the White House that the president was inclined to await the receipt of a full copy of the Mexican reply before making any comment. The president's advice to all is to be patient and to accept the situation in a tolerant spirit.

"We have promised the president our hearty support," said Representative Sulzer of New York, chairman of the house committee on foreign affairs, after a talk between his subcommittee, Secretary Knox and the president.

Ambassador de Zamacona said that the Mexican government's reply to the United States would be found to be friendly in form and essence.

In the discussion over the situation growing out of the Douglas, Ariz., affair, the possibility of a repetition of such events at El Paso, Tex., oposite Juarez, Mex., reported as threatened by the insurrectos, caused further uneasiness.

Vazquez Gomez, head of the confidential agency of the revolutionists, counseled General Madero, the insurrecto chief, in several messages yesterday to be cautious, owing to the already grave situation which exists between the United States and Mexico and the necessity for a continuance of friendly relations between the two countries.

Besides his attempt to thwart the attack on Juarez, Mex., Gomez is believed to have sent additional information to his chief concerning armistice proposals.

WASTE PROBE STARTED

Nine Committees Will Look Into Government Expenditures

Washington, April 21.—A sweeping investigation of government departments and alleged Republican extravagance was made certain when the house adopted a special rule brought in by the rules committee, authorizing nine investigating committees to begin the inquiry.

The special rule enables the committees to have power to summon and compel the attendance of witnesses, including cabinet officers, bureau chiefs and others. The committees will begin at once an inquiry into each government department, to ascertain if there has been any waste of public funds, as believed by the Democratic house.

THE SERVANT PROBLEM

Solved by Chicago Maids Who Do Housework by the Hour

Chicago, April 21.—Housekeepers in Oak Park, a fashionable suburb, have no servant girls. Instead, they have the "contracting houseworkers," who do not work by the week.

They work by the hour or day, with the number of hours a day distinctly and legally understood, with their own independent homes and home life and with evenings and Sundays at their own disposal. They are as independent as factory workers and better paid.

AMUSEMENTS

DOINGS ON THE STAGE OF

LOCAL AND BOSTON THEATRES

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" which proved to be one of the most popular of last season's dramatic successes in Boston where it ran for nine weeks to crowded houses is announced for a return engagement of two weeks, commencing Monday April 24th, at the Hollis Street Theatre. The entire original company and production returns to Boston direct from a triumphant engagement of seven months at Belasco's Republic Theatre, New York. At the close of the Boston engagement the company and production will sail for London where it will appear at the Criterion Theatre during the Coronation ceremonies. The play was selected for this honor by Sir Charles Wyndham who witnessed the play last winter during its run in New York. This presentation of "Rebecca" in London wil mark a new era in international theatricals as it will be the first time that an entire production has ever been taken across from this country. The story transpires in a little village, amid the sunshine of the open air and in the shade of majestic trees, with beautiful fields stretching away in the vista, Rebecca, the heroine, only 13 years old and a poor relation, arrives in the stage coach to take up her abode with a crabbed old aunt. During the three acts her childish romping with four other children, and her occasional sorrows, due to the failure of her severe old guardian to understand child nature, make up the light and shade of the picture. In the last act Rebecca, four years older, and just home from boarding school, is wooed and won in a charming little scene by "Mr. Aladdin," whom the child had so named in her earlier years because of his penchant for doing kind things and helping her out of her childish scrapes.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

Monday, April 24th will usher in at the Colonial Theatre, Boston, what may be termed the home-coming of "The Arcadians," for that delightful musical comedy, which enjoyed a record engagement here early in the season, returns to us, for two weeks only, before continuing on a tour that has been a long ovation. "The Arcadians" which is unquestionably the most brilliant musical comedy production that even so great a manager as Charles Frohman has offered, comes to us with several records to its credit. In the first place, "The Arcadians" has played continuously ever since it won the applause of public and critics in Philadelphia in November 1909. After a short engagement there "The Arcadians," with its wonderful company of 100, went to New York and remained there for nearly a year before coming to Boston for an engagement that will long be memorable for both artistic and financial success. From Boston "The Arcadians" went to Chicago for six weeks and then played one week visits to the principal cities of the middle West and the East. While "The Arcadians" comes here with all the favorites of the early season and all the songs which so quickly became famous, it will celebrate its second Boston engagement by several new features of song and dance. Owing to the elaborate musical program the evening performances will begin promptly at 8 o'clock and the Wednesday and Saturday matinees at 2 o'clock

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

For their fifth week at the Boston Opera House, beginning April 24th, the Aborn English Grand Opera Company will return to a favorite of long standing, Verdi's richly melodious "Il Trovatore" which seems to increase in popularity by repetition. When this opera was given in the Aborn series of a year ago, it attracted tremendous audiences at all of its eight performances, and in the voting test which has been conducted by mail this year, their patrons in Boston cast a large vote for "Il Trovatore" for repetition this year. The elaborate and comprehensive production of scenery and costumes with which they presented this work last Spring will be used again next week and an all-favorite cast will appear. Edith Helena and Jane Abercrombie will divide the eight performances in the prima donna role of Leonora, Louise Le Baron will appear at all performances in the contralto role of Azucena, in which she made a decided hit last season; Domenico Russo and Leonid Samoloff, the latter a new tenor to be introduced to the Abron clientele for the first time, will sing alternately the role of Manrico; Giuseppe Picco will have the baritone role of the Count di Luna, Herbert Waterous, basso, will be the Ferrando, and Frederick Huddy, baritone, the Ruiz. Another new conductor will be introduced Clarence West, who was formerly in the same position with the Savage English Grand Opera Company, and Charles H. Jones, the stage manager whose handiwork has been seen to good advantage in preceding Aborn productions, will direct the staging of "Il Trovatore" During the week beginning Monday, May 1st, Puccini's beautiful "La Boheme" will be heard for the first time in English in a number of years.

PARK THEATRE.

"The Commuters," James Forbes' successor to "The Chorus Lady" and "The Traveling Salesman," now in its tenth week at the Park Theatre, Boston, is still playing to crowded houses, with every indication that it will finish out the season and complete the longest run ever recorded in the annals of Boston theatrical history. The Boston "Journal" says: 'Brilliant comedy at the Park Theatre. "The Commuters," a scream from rise to fall of curtain. 'The Commuters' is a laugh from beginning to end. It is a scream! Coming after 'the Chorus Lady' and 'The Traveling Salesman' and being better than both, one who saw those may realize just how good 'The Commuters' is." The "Boston Globe;" "Hilarious fun at the Park. Woes of suburban residents are merrily exploited in 'The Commuters,' James Forbes displays an agreeable facility in making topics and happenings of the day serve him in the construction of his farces, the vividly humorous characters and situations being of a nature to awaken the responsive chord of laughter, because so many people in his audiences are familiar with similar experiences. 'The Chorus Lady' and 'The Traveling Salesman' represent this type of entertainment, and in his new play, 'The Communters,' he has again directed his amusing shafts of satire with laughable dexterity showing up urban and suburban tastes and inconveniences in a series of marital and hous hold troubles, which kept the audience last evening at the Park Theatre in a hilarious mood for two and a half hours. 'The Commuters' is a jolly good entertainment and deserves success."

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

The biggest thing ever in vaudeville has been the verdict in regard to Paul Armstrong's "A Romance of the Underworld," which has been doing a tremendous business at B. F. Keith's Theatre this week. This mammoth production with no less than 35 speaking parts or more to be found in the average four act play, has been the talk of Boston, and it was to be expected that it would be held over for another week. Notwithstanding this, however, Mr. Keith has arranged to give outside of this a show which would be considered remarkable under any circumstances. It will be headed by Neil O'Brien, the famous comedian of Lew Dockstader's Minstrels, who appears in a talking sketch called "One of the Bravo Boys" in which he is assisted by William H. Hallett, formerly interlocuter with Dockstader. Another strong feature will be Jack & Violet Kolly, the Australian stock whip experts, who give an exhibition said to be far more expert than anything that has yet been seen in this country. On the same bill will be Lyons & Yosco, the wonderful street singers, who have been making a hit in New York. Marie & Billie Hart in something entirely new in the way of circus entertainment and Nelly Nichols, the Western comedienne who created such a sensation when she last appeared in Boston; the Marlo-Aldo Trio of equilibrists, and other features will complete a remarkably strong bill.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

Another week of "The End of the Bridge" at the Castle Square. That tells the whole story of its overwhelming success. More than one hundred thousand people have come from within a radius of fifty miles of Boston to see this play, and they are still coming without the slightest signs that they will not keep on coming for many weeks. The popularity of "The End of the Bridge" is unexampled. It fills the Castle Square Theatre at every performance, and with matinees each day, that means no less than twelve times a week. Mr. Craig as the doctor, Miss Young as the heroine, Miss McDannel as the boy, and Mr. Hassell as the lawyer all help to bring about the great success of Miss Lincoln's play. It will be continued at the Castle Square till further notice.

CAPE COD IS SWEPT BY SEVERE STORM

Full Extent of Damage Wrought Is Not Yet Known

Provincetown, Mass., April 21.—A fifty-mile gale, heavy with sleet, snow and rain, swept Cape Cod all day. Telegraph and telephone wires fell before it. Throughout the cape trees were blown down, chimneys toppled over, and shipping paralyzed. All communication except by wireless was cut off.

At Wood End schooner Caroline Gray, with a cargo of paving stones, was hurled ashore in a smother from seventy-mile gusts of wind, a mile south of the Wood End life saving station. The crew, unable to launch a boat, clinging to the rigging, swept by every wave, were rescued after hours of peril, by Keeper Bickers of the Wood End station and his staff.

All along the cape, for the first time in many years absolutely cut off from telephone or telegraphic communication, the storm worked havoc.

BREACH OVER MOROCCO

Differences Said to Have Developed Between France and Spain

Madrid, April 21.—Persistent reports of differences developed between Spain and France relative to the handling of the Moroccan situation are emphasized by various newspapers which criticize the Franco-Spanish entente regarding Morocco and foresee a rapproachment and even accord between Spain and Germany.

This is the attitude of the ministerial organ Manana, the conservative Mundo and the Catholic Debate. On the other hand the Republican El Pais expresses the opinion that an understanding with Germany would be fatal as a certain cause of reprisals on the part of France and Great Britain.

MILITARY SOCIAL

Representatives of Different Orders in Uniform

Next winter John A. Boyd camp, U. S. W. V., propose to give a grand military ball in this city, and the success of their "military social" on Thursday evening is an indication that it will be a grand affair. At the social representatives of several military and patriotic organizations were guests, including Sergt. Anthony Carson of the department of Massachusetts, Commander William Mann of the Malden camp, Commander Elisha A. Badger of the Brockton camp, Col. H. L. Kincaide, Hon. Everett C. Bumpus, Sergt. George H. Wilson of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, Mrs. Emma Marnock, president of the W. R. C.; Mrs. Anna M Smith, president of the Ladies' Aid, S. of V.; Mrs. Belle Norton of the U. S. W. V. auxiliary and others. Popular music was rendered by Wilson's orchestra. Ice cream and cake were served at intermission.

LOST BOY.

Shortly before 11 o'clock Thursday night the police department were requested to lend their assistance in locating Patrick Mitchell, the 9-year-old son of Thomas Mitchell, of 3 Nash avenue. The boy had not been home since morning when he left for school. He attended the Parochial school, and as it was stormy he was given five cents when he left home to pay his fare.

It was learned that he did not ride to school but probably spent the money for candy. When he did not return for supper his parents became worried. On inquiry it was learned that he had been seen on North street as late as 5 o'clock. The police told the family that they had better search their own home for the boy, and as nothing more was heard from them it is presumed that they found him all right.

The Ladies' Aid society of St. Paul Methodist church gave their pastor, Rev. Carl E. Rydstrom, a reception in the church vestry Thursday evening. Mr. Rydstrom has been commissioned to serve in this parish for another term and the ladies of the church prepared this reception as a testimonial to his splendid service among the Swedish people in the community.

NO LABOR TROUBLES.

A very largely attended and enthusiastic smoke talk under the auspices of the Central Labor Union was held Thursday evening at Wilson's hall. Frank McCarthy, State organizer of the A. F. of L., was the principal guest of the evening, and made a stirring address. Addresses were also made by Alex. W. Russell of the Granite Cutters' Union and others. The theme of the evening was one of a congratulation to the labor men in Quincy on the fact that there was no labor trouble in the city, and that several branches had signed agreements which carried with them an increase in wages. Refreshments were served during the evening. One speaker attempted to get the Central Labor Union to place itself as against the trolley freight proposition, but the resolution was promptly voted down.

In place of the regular mid-week prayer meeting at the Swedish Baptist church, a musical entertainment was given by the choir and the string band of the church Thursday evening. Mr. Forsberg, treasurer of the Eastern conference, gave an address telling of the work of the organization and plans they had for the future. A collection was taken for the benefit of the conference.

CALLED HEAD OF CAMORRA

But Cevara Declares He Was Never Head of Anything

SAYS HE REGRETS THE FACT

Other Accused Men Deny Complicity In Assassination of the Cuoccolos—Court Refuses Inspection of Orders For Arrest—Trial May Be Closed and New Inquiry Ordered Because Informer Was Accomplice In Crime

Viterbo, Italy, April 21.—Perese Devera, accused of being the head of the Camorra in Porto Capuana, a district of Naples, contributed to the entertainment of the audience in the court of the assizes with a humorous touch that came as a relief after the strenuous exhibitions of those who had preceded him on the stand.

The prisoner admitted that he was flattered that the august court, the learned prosecutor and the honorable carabineers imagined him to be a personage of such distinction. The truth, however, compelled him to confess that he was the most ordinary sort of a creature. He spoke in mock gravity, winding up his speech thus:

"I deny every allegation made against me. I know nothing of the murder of Gennaro Cuoccolo and the beautiful Sorentina. It is said that I was the head of the Camorra of Porto Capuana. Alas, no. I wish that I had been, but honestly, I never was the head of anything."

The state says Devera was one of those who met at the Aida tavern in Bagnola five years ago and condemned their asociate, Cuoccolo, to death.

De Lucia, another of those said to have sat in judgment on the treachery of Cuoccolo, was interrogated yesterday. The prisoner made a general denial of the charges.

Gennaro Valcarcel was next questioned. While denying the present charges, he freely admitted that he was a criminal and had fallen into the clutches of the law no fewer than fourteen times.

The attorneys for the defense renewed their application for an inspection of the orders of arrest in the case of Ciro Vitozzi, the priest, and Giacomo Ascrittore, asserting that these orders had been issued in blank, making it possible for the carabineers to fill them in at their discretion. President Bianchi again refused the application, repeating that if irregularity in the issuance or service of the warrants was to be established it must be by means of a special suit based on substantial evidence.

The trial may be halted and a new inquiry into the murder of Gennaro Cuoccolo and his wife ordered on the ground that the informer, Abattemaggio, was an accomplice in the crime. A report was circlated to the effect that if the evidence already prepared by the state should appear insufficient to convict the accused, Abattemaggio will confess complicity in the assassination.

It is said that he will swear that while he was not one of those who struck the death blow he witnessed the proceedings in the role of a picket who was posted to warn the actual assassins against interruption and to help them in making their escape. If this confession is made the trial will be stopped, as a new inquiry into the facts of the crime will be necessary.

NO STATE RELIGION

Church and State Are Henceforth Divorced In Portugal

Lisbon, April 21.—The decree separating church and state will be promulgated today or Saturday. The state concedes full liberty of conscience, the Catholic creed ceasing to be the state religion. Henceforth all churches will be maintained by their members.

The beneficed clergy will continue to receive their stipends until July 1, after which they will be paid pensions. Property necessary for public worship will be ceded to the clergy free of cost.

All the Portuguese and foreign clergy engaged in religious work will continue as hitherto, but all others must obtain authorization.

THE RECIPROCITY DEBATE

Men From Agricultural Sections Attack Canadian Agreement

Washington, April 21.—State and party affiliations were repeatedly broken in the house of representatives in the concluding hours of the debate on the Canadian reciprocity bill.

Most of the attacks on the bills were by representatives from agricultural sections and they were based on the belief that reciprocity with Canada under the agreement would injure the agricultural interests of the United States.

Boston Has 286,825 Adult Males

STREET RAILWAY BALL A GREAT SUCCESS

Many Towns in the Old Colony District Were Represented at Music Hall

Several Street Railway Officials As Guests

The ninth annual concert and ball of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America local division 253, which compose the employees of the Quincy division of the Old Colony street railway, was held last night at Music hall and was an unqualified success.

While as many couples as usual did not participate in the grand march which opened the ball, the first number on the order brought then onto the floor in full numbers, showing that the attendance was particularly large.

It was an unusually pretty party, and the several committees in charge saw that nothing was omitted that would add to the comfort and pleasure of the participants.

Their training or following their usual vocations, made it a kind of second nature to look after these little details that add so much to any affair of this kind, and the general consensus of opinion was that Friday evening's affair eclipsed all previous efforts.

The decorations were in charge of Derringer, and he did his work well. The entire front of the platform was one great mass of potted plants and ferns, the centre decoration being a large floral car, representing one of the open cars of the street railway. Behind this floral bank was Wilson's orchestra which furnished the music for the hour's concert that preceded the dancing. The concert was one well selected, and in addition to the orchestral numbers there was a vocal solo by Joseph Morrissette of West Quincy.

The concert program was as follows:

March, "Signal" Wiegand

Overture, "Hungarian Lustpiel" Keler-Bela

Concert Waltz, "Wedding of the Winds" Hall

Duet for flute and clarinet, "Two Little Bulfinchs" Clare

Messrs. Harding and Rossi

Selection, Popular Melodies Remick

Trombone Solo, Selected

Mr. S. Sternburg

Finale, "The Trolley," E. Christre

While this was in progress the guests of the evening were arriving There were several of the officials of the railway company present with their ladies, and they occupied the two first rows in the balcony. They included Henry E. Reynolds, assistant general manager; John Conway, assistant general superintendent; Thomas Gammon, superintendent of the Quincy division; James E. Parker of the claim department of the Quincy division; Michael Coughlin, foreman of the Quincy; also the foreman of the car barn at East Weymouth, Braintree, Milton and Hingham. Other guests present included the officers of other divisions of the association and Charles W. Hanscom local organizer of the A. F. of L.

A. L. Blanchard was chairman of the reception committee and was assisted by W. Gould, J. Conlon, T. Forrest, William Kelly, F. Eldrege, H.

LARGEST DERRICK

Mast Stick 125 Feet Tall and 30 Inches at Butt

What is probably the largest derrick in Quincy was put into position on Friday at the Blue Hill quarry in the presence of A. C. Bennett, Alexander Falconer and Herbert F. Pierce, officers of the company. The main stick which was one of the masts of the schooner Palmer wrecked in Boston harbor, was 125 feet long or 14 feet taller than the largest derrick in Quincy. It is over 30 inches in diameter at the butt. The boom although not the largest in Quincy, is 95 feet in length.

The big stick was raised under the direction of Fred Hannant, foreman at the quarry, with the assistance of the other employes. Nailed tothe top was the American flag, the stars and stripes, which wave proudly from the lofty position and was roundly cheered.

The Senior dramatics poster in the various store windows about town are attracting a great deal of attention and favorable comment. Miss Clara Bushnell, daughter of Dr. E. H. Bushnell of Washington street, was artist. Miss Bushnell is artistic editor of the Golden Rod, the second number of which will appear the first of May.

The members of the Finnish Congregational church held a social in the vestry Thursday evening. A short service of prayer and testimony was held in the church early in the evening after which all adjourned to the vestry for a good time. Music, games and refreshments occupied the attention of about 200 church members until a late hour.

S. of V. Auxiliary No. 3 is arranging for a supper and entertainment in G. A. R. hall on Wednesday evening.

SECOND ANNIVERSARY

Sons of Veterans Entertain Division Commander

Abner Packard camp, Sons of Veterans celebrated its second anniversary last night at Grand Army hall in a sort of family party, with members of Post 88, G. A. R., and their Auxiliary and Camp 95 and auxiliary in attendance.

Addresses were made by Commander Ring of Post 88, by Division Commander James T. Wellington and by Rev. William J. Patten, National patriotic instructor and president of Memorial university, Mason City, Iowa.

Commander Harry E. Gould of Camp 95 spoke briefly telling of the work of the camp. He spoke in appreciation of the help they had received from others especially from Frank F. Prescott ,editor of Quincy Ledger.

After Commander Gould had spoken he was presented with a bouquet of flowers and a substantial sum of money by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the camp.

The entertainment was furnished by the following: Miss Grace Holbrook, piano solos; De Neil brothers of Weymouth, violin and piano duets; Misses Ruth and Dorothy Packard and Miss Nettie Pote, vocal duets with piano accompaniment; Mrs. Stella Richards of Weymouth Heights, readings. Refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served in the latter part of the evening.

Division Commander Wellington was the installing officer when Camp 95 was founded and this is his first visit since he became division commander. He was very much pleased with the progress and activity of the Quincy Sons of Veterans.

The National patriotic instructor, Rev. William J. Patten gave a stirring address telling of the aims and ideals of the organization, and urging the camp here to show still greater energy in keeping the spirit of patriotism alive in Quincy, and in extolling the principles for which their fathers and grandfathers fought.

QUINCY INVITED.

A cordial invitation is extended to the citizens of Quincy, Braintree, Hingham, Cohasset, Hull and Weymouth to be present at a public meeting of the Weymouth Board of Trade in Weymouth Town hall, at East Weymouth, on Tuesday evening, April 25, at 7.45 o'clock in favor of what is tendered the "Long Bill," now before the Massachusetts legislature, for the improvement of Boston harbor, from Nahant to Hull. Mr. Long will be present as speaker and illustrate his ideas with stereopticon views. Let us unite to improve Massachusetts commercial interests.

MAYOR'S IRE AROUSED

Objects to Intimidation on Schoolhouse Contract

When Mayor Shea opened his mail this morning he found among other things a resolution from the Montclair Improvement association that aroused his wrath, as it was in the nature of a threat especially one part of the resolve, which stated that unless he declared himself to the association in a satisfactory manner before a certain date the association would give the resolutions to the Daily Ledger.

After reading the resolution, Mayor Shea said that it was the first time during his service as Mayor of the City of Quincy, that any man or body of men had attempted to intimidate him in his actions.

He further said that he would not wait for the Improvement association to make the resolution public, but would forestall their action by giving the letter to the press.

The Mayor further said that he had intended to award the contract for the school building this morning, but on receipt of the resolution he decided to wait until the first of the week, that he might reply to the resolution at the time the contract was awarded.

The resolution which aroused the Mayors wrath was as follows:

At the regular meeting of the Montclair Improvement Association, held on Wednesday evening, April 19, 1911, it was unanimously resolved that:

Whereas, the citizens of Montclair had protested against the awarding of the contract for the Montclair school to the contractor who built the Houghs Neck school, for what they considered good and sufficient reasons, and

Whereas, although His Honor the Mayor had recognized the remonstrants by granting them a public hearing at his office at City Hall on Tuesday evening, April 18, and a sufficient number of interested parties appeared, including officers and members of the Montclair Improvement Association, members of the city government, and the chairman, and several members of the School Committee and that,

Whereas, although, in our opinion, the reason advanced by the above mentioned gentlemen, were sufficient to justify the contract not being awarded to the contractor under discussion, it was not evident to the attendants at the meeting that their protest was to be heeded, and,

Whereas, the citizens of Montclair are the ones most vitally interested in the proper construction of the Montclair School, it is hereby

Resolved, that His Honor the Mayor be requested to declare his intentions in the matter, and it was further resolved that in the event of a satisfactory reply not being received from His Honor the Mayor by noon of Monday, April 24, 1911, that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the Quincy Daily Ledger for publication.

FAREWELL PARTY

Mrs. Frank Luhmann of Blake street Wollaston was given a farewell party by students at the Museum Art school, Boston, last evening at the home of R. H. Allen, 34 Avon Way. Miss Gertrude Allen, the hostess arranged the party as a surprise to Mrs. Luhmann who is assistant manager of the school and is soon to join her husband in Oregon. When the auto called at Mrs. Luhmann's home in Wollaston and carried her and her daughter, Florence,to the home of the hostess, her surprise was genuine.

When they arrived, sixteen young ladies and gentlemen, students at the Art school, were waiting to greet them. The evening was spent in playing games, music and in gastronomical appeasement by means of salads, ices etc.

Mrs. Luhmann is well known in social circles of Quincy and Wollaston and her daughter Florence is popular in High school and is well known as pianist of the High school orchestra. Mrs. Luhmann and her daughter will start for Oregon this coming June after the latter has graduated from High school.

SCHOOLMASTERS BANQUET.

The annual banquet of the Quincy Schoolmaster's club was held in the Quincy house, Boston last evening. Dr. Charles A. Prosser, deputy commissioner of Education of the state of Massachusetts gave an excellent address.

Albert L. Barbour, superintendent of schools was elected president of the club. H. Forrest Wilson, master of the Lincoln and Johs Hancock schools was chosen vice-president and James D. Howlett, master of High school was elected secretary and treasurer.

Charles H. Johnson was elected an honorary member of the club. All the schoolmasters of the city were present.

A street tar spraying machine attracted considerable attention in City Square this morning. The machine is used to spread hot tar over a street that has just received its first coat of macadam and serves as a binder. Then more macadam is put on and rolled, and then the fine top dressing. It is claimed that a street fixed in this way will last several years longer than the method commonly used.

The alarm from Box 552 at 3.45 Friday afternoon was a false alarm and is reported to have been rung in by two small children.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The Italian Camorrists are suffering from brainstorm, but as they haven't got an American lawyer it won't do 'em any good.

When Senator Lodge's monument bill gets over to the House it'll be amended by striking out "Hamilton" and inserting "Jefferson."

After the school kids have planted those 60,000 catalpa trees, Giff Pinchot probably will want to name Washington a Forest reserve.

The evidence that it was a woman who took $100,000 from Mrs. Armour's safe deposit box would have been conclusive if the amount had been $99,000.

Speaker Clark is now in a position to sympathize with a fellow who once made his living walking across Niagara on a tight rope.

"The Congressional Record is a deplorably dull daily newspaper," declares the Hon. Vic. Murdock. Well, why not put some pep in it, Vic?

A New York official says that criminals are driving cabs in that city. It takes a New Yorker longer to learn things about that town than it does a stranger.

Which would you rather be in politics—a sacred embodiment or a happy after thought?

AT BAKER BASIN.

The busy season has started in at Baker Yacht basin and the scene there each day is certainly a busy one. The crews and captains are coming into town in numbers each day and may be seen scraping and painting, mending sail, straightening out the cordage and preparing the cabins for the summer cruise. It would be worth anyone's time and energy to go down there and see the small army of men at work on launches, schooners, steam yachts and sloops.

THE PHILERGIANS.

Last Tuesday the Department of Literature offered an afternoon's program on the Literature of Nature. A most interesting talk on the subject was given by Miss Hosmer, and Miss Olive Carson illustrated her able talk on "Butterflies" with many colored plates making the subject very clear. Mrs. Gallagher was unable to find anyone to speak on birds, and so she gave an entertaining little talk on the place of birds in classic literature reading Shelley's "Ode to a Skylark."

Notice was given of a free lecture by Miss Sarah Arnold, Dean of Simmon's college, Thursday, April 7, at 2.30 in the high school building. It is hoped she will increase the interest felt in the club scholarship fund and the work of Simmons college.

The meeting held at the home of Mrs. Hastings, April 14, on "Reading for Children" was most instructive. Miss Rowley of the Jonas Perkins school treated the subject of reading for older children and Mrs. Edith F. Morrison presented the librarian's view point. It was urged that the club attempt to exclude the cheap literature from the town. Miss Knight treated the reading of little children and offered an exhaustive list of value to all interested in children.

Soloist members of the Men's Club Spring Revue Company include Mrs. James H. Slade, Misses Marion Brown, E. Edna Spry, and Mabel M. Wentworth and Messrs. Ira M. Whittemore, Edward E. Rowe, Henry W. French and Thomas Davidson. Music hall, Wednesday evening, April 26.

ST. RAILWAY BALL

Lord, W. Barnard, A. Cappellini, J. Carey, A. F. Ryan, J. Ford, H. A. Taber, G. W. Walker, P. W. Kearns, A. Barteau, J. E. Finnigan, E. P. Condrick, W. Wilder, J. W. Ryan, and W. E. Seaverns.

At a little after 9 o'clock the signal was given to form for the march which was to open the terpsichorean part of the evening's program. It was a very pretty affair and was well executed. The march was led by John C. Faircloth, president of the association and floor marshal with Miss Elizabeth O'Neil; Vice President and Floor Director Thomas J. Joyce and Mrs. Joyce; chairman of the ball committee and chief of aids Frank W. Sampson and Mrs. Sampson; J. H. Davey and Miss Reinhalter.

Miss O'Neil looked particularly attractive in a blue chiffon over pink satin, carrying a large bouquet of pinks. Mrs. Joyce wore a white silk with pink trimmings and lace. She carried a bouquet of white pinks. Mrs. Sampson wore dark blue messaline with corsage bouquet of white pinks. Miss Reinhalter wore a yellow silk muslin with corsage of yellow roses.

The order of 22 numbers was considerably lengthened, for two and three encores were demanded of all the modern dances on the program. Modern dances predominated, although there was a sprinkling of square dances. Every number was dedicated to some sentiment.

At 11.30 there was a short intermission during which, Whittemore served a pleasing menu in the annex. Here again it was demonstrated that the one thing Music hall lacks is a banquet hall. At the conclusion of the ball special cars were in waiting for all points.

The committee of arrangements to whom much of the success of the ball was due were: F. W. Sampson, H. L. Hamilton, Thomas J. Joyce, R. Kaufman, A. L. Blanchard, J. H. Davey, P. Dennehey.

G. A. R. FUNERAL.

The funeral of John W. Moore was held Friday afternoon from his late home on Quincy avenue. The services were of a simple nature and were attended by many of his relatives and friends as well as by a delegation of Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., and a delegation from a lodge of Knights of Phythias of Boston of which he was a member. The services were conducted by Rev. R. H. Dix of the Weymouth Universalist church, following which the burial service of the Grand Army was read by Senior Vice Commander Francis W. Loud and Chaplain Henry Chubbuck. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery where the three volleys were fired by the color guard of the post. There were many beautiful flowers including several set pieces.

—A crusade against unclean fruit has been started by the Lynn board of health. Last week Chairman Ward ordered the health inspectors to notify all fruit dealers that they must provide a suitable covering for all berries and other fruit exposed on their stands.

"THE WORLD IN BOSTON"

Great Missionary Exposition Is Opened by President Taft

Boston, April 22.—President Taft formally opened the great "World In Boston" exposition in the Mechanics' building today. He turned a key at the White House, flashing a spark over the wire to illuminate the great electric star over the stage in Pageant hall.

With the blazing of this star, four feet in diameter, the exposition began. The president also sent a message of greeting from Washington.

The exercises in Pageant hall were of great interest. Music and choruses from the pageant were given and the opening ceremonies were started. There were addresses by Bishop Lawrence of the Episcopal church, Bishop Maillalieu of the Methodist Episcopal church, and others.

HELD IN $10,000 EACH

Men Who Demanded $14,000 From Field Charged With Blackmail

Boston, April 22.—J. K. Dunbar and Anthony B. Yorken were arraigned before Commissioner Hayes, charged with blackmail. Detectives who arrested the two men charge them with trying to extort $14,000 from Daniel W. Field, the Brockton philanthropist and millionaire shoe manufacturer. The prisoners were each held in $10,000 for a further hearing April 26.

The two men were arrested after a letter which they sent to Field had been traced to them by William J. Burns of a Boston detective agency. He and his Boston manager have been at work on the case since March 28.

TELLS OF HER LIFE IN THE GLOVER HOME

Hattie Le Blanc Is Quizzed Behind Closed Doors

St. John, April 22.—Behind closed doors at the Royal hotel, and with the greatest secrecy, the evidence of Hattie LeBlanc in the Glover will case was taken on direct examination before John Kerr, a commissioner appointed by the supreme court of Massachusetts.

The girl told the story of her life at the Glover home and the events leading up to the shooting of the Waltham laundryman, of whose murder she was acquitted.

The hearing was continued all afternoon and evening and the girl appeared calm and self-possessed, answering each question, through the interpreter, without hesitation.

NEGRO SHOT ON STAGE

Lynchers Take Him From Deputies and Fire From Orchestra Seats

Livermore, Ky., April 22.—Will Potter, a negro, was dragged to the opera house stage here, tied to a post and riddled with bullets by fifty men.

Potter had shot and killed Frank Mitchell, 22 years old, in a quarrel. He was captured by Marshal Stabler and placed in jail. Hearing a mob approaching, the marshal swore in half a dozen deputies, rushed the prisoner to the opera house and hid him beneath the stage. A messenger was sent for the sheriff, but before he arrived the mob had taken the place and captured the negro.

The victim was taken to the stage and tied to one of the uprights, while most of the mob gathered in the orchestra pit and took seats. A signal was given and the body was riddled with bullets by the men in the auditorium.

"When you advertise you want to reach the people, all the people, the oldest inhabitant, the man who moved to town yesterday, the young people just married, the young man or woman who has just earned the first dollar and is itching to spend it. —Various Boston ministers are protesting against the reappointment of Police Commissioner O'Meara. Their ground is that he has failed to "clean up" the city. They think they can name a man who could do that trick. The chances are that they cannot. Boston morally is as clean as any large city in the country and far more so than many of them.—Framingham News.

Endorsed at Home

Such Proof as This Should Convince Any Quincy Citizen.

The public endorsement of a local citizen is the best proof that can be produced. None better, none stronger can be had. When a man comes forward and testifies to his fellow-citizens, addresses his friends and neighbors, you may be sure he is thoroughly convinced or he would not do so. Telling one's experience when it is for the public good is an act of kindness that should be appreciated. The following statement given by a resident of Quincy adds one more to the many cases of Home Endorsement which are being published about Doan's Kidney Pills. Read it.

John R. Duffy, 14 Copeland St., Quincy, Mass., says: "I am so favorably impressed with Doan's Kidney Pills that it gives me pleasure to recommend them to anyone suffering from kidney complaint. I am fully convinced that this remedy will do all that it is claimed to do. If anyone would like to obtain further details regarding my case, I will be glad to answer any questions."

TOOTHACHE.

For there were never yet philosopher that could endure the toothache patiently.—Shakespeare.

CHRISTIANITY.

Christianity certainly enjoins love for brother man. The great apostle whose fiery soul set the ancient Roman empire aglow with a new light held that under the new dispensation distinctions inherent in blood or tongue were consumed and fused into a new and consecrated unity. Certainly Christ never could lend His sanction to such outrages as are perpetrated upon human beings in the name and by the authority of men professing to rejoice in the redemption from bondage to sin brought about in his glorious resurrection. Christianity, true Christianity, is on trial, not the Jew. —Rabbi E. G. Hirsch.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Another Expert Falls Afoul of Boston Baked Beans—Little Nutritive Value in Beans, Beef Tea or Oysters—A Sad Pi of Luncheon Pies—The One Ringed Circus Delights Hubbites and Their Better Halves—Suffragist Flays Bay State Legislators.

An innovation in entertainments for all but elderly Hubbites is the old fashioned one ring circus which is attracting old and young to the big Arena where the flash and ring of skates gliding over the smooth ice has given way to more seasonable recreations. To preserve the happiness of the youthful generation this one ring circus has been arranged to bridge over the interminable gulf of time elapsing between the Wild West Show which preceded it and Buffalo Bill's famous show which comes a few weeks hence. Indians, cowboys and cowgirls became such familiar figures as they made their quiet and unostentatious way to and from the Arena building that the small boys of the city have had ample opportunity to get the details of western costumes and habits down fine. Doubtless with the lengthier stay of the one-ring circus there will soon be evolved in greater Boston such feats of trapeze work, equestrianism, animal training and clown performances as will make fond parents gasp.

A woeful waste of pie greeted the eyes of one of the Hub's handsome patrolmen pacing his beat in a downtown district one night recently. Some vandal had removed half a window from a lunchroom and had smeared counters, floors, chairs and walls with custard, squash, mince and lemon pies. Not a whole pie remained, not even the sacred New England apple, and the patrolman stood gazing about him at devastated stretches of yellow and brown mush. Though not a printer by trade he then got, as it were, an inkling of the meaning of pi.

New Englanders who have confirmed ideas if what's what in nutritive foods are likely to get something of a surprise from the reports of a lecture on "Digestion," given by Dr. Franklin White at the Harvard Medical School on Easter Sunday afternoon. Dr. White believes in oysters insofar as they are very easily digested when eaten raw, but declares that they have practically no food value as they are mostly water. Therefore, he who has been in the habit of claiming that half a dozen blue points were a hearty meal must feel rather hungry in retrospect. Beans and beef juice were treated scandalously by this dietetic expert, being regarded with slight esteem as foods. It is interesting to note Dr. White's comparative statistics regarding beef juice, eggs and milk. It has been found by endless experiments, that 25 cents' worth of beef juice will yield only six parts of value to the body, while 25 cents' worth of eggs will yield 700 parts and 25 cents' worth of milk 1,600 parts of real food value to the human system. Another illustration shows that it takes from 15 to 30 glasses of beef juice to equal the food value of one glass of good milk. Olive oil takes the lead in Dr. White's catalogue of nutrients, while coffee, tea and the American habit of taking cocktails on an empty stomach, were scored heavily by the physician.

This year's legislative campaign for equal suffrage finished, Mrs. Mary Hutcheson Page, of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association has occasion to flay some of the legislators for the cheap levity with which they have discussed a world wide movement for more complete democracy. In the progressive western states, according to all accounts, the law makers, whatever their final action, consider any seriously proposed piece of legislation with a certain reasonable dignity and deliberation. In the Bay State traditions of rustic clownishness have persisted to such an extent that even today, when such issues as that of equal suffrage come to the fore, the occasion is invariably seized by the professional funny men and purveyors of buffoonry. Says Mrs. Page: "It has always been said that wherever men congregate alone the moral tone is low, whether in the logging camp, among soldiers, in the saloon, the men's clubs or at the stag dinner. The halls of legislation are apparently no exception to the rule. The joy with which any inference bordering on vulgarity was hailed by one legislator, the general loud guffaws of laughter that greeted the speech of one poor ranter, whose hysterical, personal and offensive talk was almost incomprehensible to the women in the galleries, proved once more, if proof were necessary, how absolutely essential are the presence and equal participation of women to preserve the standard of self-respect among men."

The Massachusetts suffragist further brings out the utter absence of any real argument in the jaunty remarks of the opponents of political justice to the disfranchised sex and refers to one orator's great contribution to the logic of the question, his discovery of the phrase, "female woman." "As we listened," she says, "to the futile, careless, sometimes ribald discussion of a cause that is of world wide importance, and of the very deepest significance, a cause that has enlisted the warm support of the ablest minds since humanity began to think, a cause that the welfare of women and therefore of the race depends upon; as we compared the utterances of those illustrious men of Massachusetts whose names are emblazoned on the ceiling of the House with the inept, degenerate semblance of a debate on the floor, it was irresistibly borne in upon us that democracy with man-suffrage alone, electing such representatives as these, is an undeniable failure, and that suffrage in the hands of women is an indispensable condition to the progress of our race. Women will have, when they get the suffrage, a difficult and mighty task to perform in raising the standard of the men elected to office, but women are our only hope."

Indications of the steady increase in the ranks of the suffragists appeared in the action of the Wilmington Woman's club in voting to make its Guest Night, April 20, the occasion of an unanimous toast to woman suffrage, to which Mrs. Theresa Crowley of Brookline was invited to respond. Miss Georgia Bacon and Senator Frank Bennett, both good friends of suffrage, were also speakers at this affair. Ethel Angier.

Fighting The Great White Plague

QUINCY, SATURDAY, APRIL 22, 1911.

Every Cough or Cold May Develop Into Consumption

A cough or cold by itself cannot cause consumption, because "The Great White Plague" is a germ disease—and the germs must find lodgment in the lungs before Consumption can begin.

We all breathe millions of these germs every day; and our healthy lungs are able to repel their attacks.

BUT—

Lungs weakened by a deep-seated cold are not able to withstand the attacks of the invading bacilli—and here lies the danger in neglecting apparently trifling ailments of the throat and lungs.

Treat every cough or cold as being full of deadly possibilities.

At the very first sign of "catching cold," avail yourself of the power of "SIROLIN" to cut short the attack.

After the first dose or two of "SIROLIN" you will find that the most disagreeable symptoms have disappeared; and continued doses for a day or two will entirely obliterate all traces of the ailment.

For deep-seated Coughs and Colds, or other throat and lung troubles, take a COURSE OF "SIROLIN"—several bottles, until not only are you rid of the ailment, but have gained all of the tonic, upbuilding, appetite-creating virtues which are peculiar to SIROLIN.

Please bear in mind that SIROLIN has the endorsement of leading specialists of Europe—that it is not a patent medicine—that it contains no drug that can do harm—that it is recognized as one of the most powerful agents in fighting "The Great White Plague" by preventing ordinary Coughs and Colds from becoming serious maladies.

Your druggist now has SIROLIN or will get it for you.

The SIROLIN COMPANY,

RECIPROCITY BILL HAS 176 MAJORITY

No Amendments to Agreement as Passed by House

Washington, April 22.—President Taft's Canadian reciprocity agreement, supported by all but a handful of Democrats and opposed by a majority of the Republicans, passed the house of representatives last evening by a vote of 265 to 89.

With nearly 200 Democrats in control, and their action indorsed by a large body of Republicans, the bill to put the agreement into force was adopted with no amendments, and in almost identically the form in which it passed the house in the last session of the preceding congress.

The bill seeks to vitalize the formal agreement reached between President Taft and members of the Canadian cabinet for a reduction of tariff rates on many articles and free trade in many others across the Canadian border. Added to it by the Democratic leaders is a section which "authorizes and requests" President Taft to make further efforts to obtain still freer trade relations with Canada in the form of additional reciprocity relations.

GOING UNDER THE HAMMER

Unclaimed Property of Americans Who Died Abroad to Be Sold

Washington, April 22.—Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh has just ordered what will probably be the most unusual auction sale ever held in the United States. The general public will be invited to bid on a room full of valuables, the unclaimed property of Americans who died abroad alone, and so far as known, friendless.

The property came from every quarter of the globe, when United States consuls forwarded it to the state department. The government has been unable to find the heirs, and so the unclaimed personal estates, some of them worth thousands of dollars, have for years lain in a huge vault in the office of the "auditor of the state and other departments."

WANTS HOME IN PRISON

Innocent Man Who Served Long Sentence Unable to Get a Living

Pittsburg, April 22.—Andy Toth, who recently gained his liberty after serving twenty years of a life sentence in Riverside penitentiary here for a murder of which he was guiltless, has applied for admittance to the prison which he has known as home for so long.

Toth has found it almost impossible to gain a livelihood, and is unwilling to become a burden on his relatives and friends. His attorney is seeking to get him a position under Warden Francies, where he may be able to eke out an existence.

Pressing Turkey For Prompt Action

Washington, April 22.—The delay of the Turkish government in bringing negotiations for an American railway concession in Asia Minor to a conclusion caused the state department to instruct the embassy at Constantinople to make another effort to have the matter expedited.

Lumber Rate Again Held Up

Washington, April 22.—A further suspension from April 23 to Oct. 23 next of increasing freight rates on lumber, shingles and similar commodities, made by the transcontinental freight bureau, was ordered by the interstate commerce commission.

MEANS LYNCHING IN SOUTH

New York Negro Gets Nineteen Years For Attacking Child

New York, April 22.—Blackburn J. Strother, a negro, was convicted in the court of general sessions of attacking 7-year-old Ida Kraskner in an East Side hallway and sentenced to nineteen years and six months in Sing Sing prison, six months less than the maximum. The jury took just one minute to find him guilty.

"There is not much use letting you stay around here any longer," said Judge Foster, in sentencing the negro. "In the south they lynch such as you."

110,000 ACRES MAY GO TO UNIVERSITY

Supreme Court to Define "Including" In Enabling Act

Washington, April 22.—On the meaning to be given by the supreme court of the United States to the word "including" depends the title to practically all the immense tracts of Saline land in Utah.

The court set aside a part of yesterday to hear arguments on the meaning of the word. The word was used in the enabling act under which Utah was admitted to the union. First, two townships were granted to the state for the establishment of the University of Utah, then followed a provision reading:

"That in addition to the above 110,000 acres of land, to be selected and located as provided in the foregoing section of this act and including all Saline lands in said state, are hereby granted to said state, for the use of said university."

Utah claims the Saline lands on the theory that they were granted to it in addition to the 110,000 acres.

AGAIN SEEKS PARDON

Counsel For Patrick to Make Appearance Before Governor Dix

New York, April 22.—Albert T. Patrick, the lawyer who is serving a life term in Sing Sing for the murder of William M. Rice, has started another effort for a pardon.

His brother-in-law, John T. Milliken of St. Louis, arrived here and engaged counsel, who will appear before Governor Dix to ask that a date be set for hearing arguments.

Supported by a decision of the state embalmers and the Medico-Legal society, Patrick's counsel will contend that new evidence shows that the congestion of Rice's lungs was caused by chemicals in the embalming fluid used.

MASSACRE IS EXPECTED

Thousands Reported Slain In Battle Between Turks and Albanians

Vienna, April 22.—Dispatches state that there has been a severe fight in Montenegro, in which Turkish regulars and volunteers were worsted by Albanians.

It is said that 1000 were killed. The Albanians now surround Tuzi, which was captured recently by the Turks.

It is likely that the rebels will speedily be retaken and a massacre of the Turkish population is to be expected.

Progressives Get a Setback

Washington, April 22.—"Progressive" Republicanism in the senate received a serious setback when, by a vote of 7 to 4, the Republican committee on committees decided not to recognize the progressive Republicans formally as an organization.

Welsh Gold For Prince of Wales

London, April 22.—Wales is enthusiastic over the forthcoming investure of the Prince of Wales at Carnarvon castle. The offer of the Welsh coal miners to supply the gold required for the prince's insignia has been accepted.

Shoes at Cost Plus 5 Per Cent.

Not Only a Low Profit Over Cost, But a Low Profit Over a Low Cost.

Have You Ever Wondered Why Most Good Shoes Come From Massachusetts?

A traveller in Switzerland saw a child of twelve doing a wonderful piece of embroidery and marvelled at the proficiency of such youthful fingers. "It isn't surprising," said his guide. "That girls' parents, grandparents and great grandparents, back as far as she can reckon, were all lace or embroidery makers. They do nothing else in this valley. The best of the world's best needlework comes from here."

The Regal Shoe Company Has Long Been the Leader

In that section of Massachusetts where Regal Shoes are made, shoemaking has been the principal industry for more than two hundred years. The best shoes made in the world come from this section, and it has been the Regal policy from its beginning to make Regal Shoes lead all the rest in quality-for-price.

To lead in both quality and low price is harder than to lead in either alone. It is easy to get quality—if you don't care what it costs—but to give that quality at a low price means the highest degree of science in manufacturing in large volume, and straight-line, economical, direct, selling methods.

Why Regal Manufacturing and Selling Costs are Low.

To begin with, the Regal factory equipment is perfect. The Regal manufacturing system is a marvel of economy. The Regal cost-accounting, for example, shows the cost of over two hundred operations and more than one hundred parts on every shoe turned out, down to a hundredth of a cent.

But most perfect of all is the Regal, direct-line selling system—the Regal's own, although copied to some extent by other manufacturers. Regal Shoes go direct from the factories to you by the straightest, most economical route, cutting out jobbers, middlemen and large retailing profits. There is no lost motion, no lost time, no "overstocks," no unnecessary expense, anywhere.

And Regal Shoes are now sold at cost of manufacture, plus five per cent. commission, and this low cost of selling.

Regal Shoes are the only shoes priced in this way. It is the only scientific, economical, "square deal" way of selling shoes. You gain not only by the low margin of manufacturing profit but by the fact that this low margin is reckoned on a low cost.

Buying shoes as you buy other necessities of life

When you buy sugar, flour, eggs, beef, lumber—or any one of a dozen necessities, you pay a price reckoned on the wholesale market cost. If the wholesale or manufacturing cost goes down, the retail price goes down. If it goes up, the retail price goes up in proportion. When the retailer's profits are fair, this is fair to you. But this is not the way that shoes have been sold Shoes have always sold at fixed, "even money" prices—always multiples of the half dollar.

But Regal Shoes hereafter will be sold in the scientific, economical way—with the profits kept low and the manufacturing cost as the basis.

This Stamp is your guarantee of the lowest possible price

The price of every Regal Shoe is now reckoned at 5 per cent. over actual cost, plus the cost of getting the shoe from the factories to you. This price is CERTIFIED BY PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS AND STAMPED ON THE SHOE AT THE FACTORY. It is stamped just as it figures out—in "odd" prices or in "even" prices—and the old-fashioned arbitrary custom is done away with.

The stamp is your guarantee that the price is THE LOWEST FOR WHICH A SHOE OF THAT CHARACTER CAN BE BOUGHT, that nothing has been added to conform to shoe-trade custom, that MORE of the price goes into quality and LESS for profit and expense than in any other make you can buy.

AS DELEGATES OF UNION

Street Railway Employees Reply to C. T. Hardwick

Editor of Daily Ledger:

We noticed in your issue of April 21 a letter from one of our wealthy citizens, C. Theodore Hardwick, entitled "Defense of our rights." I immediately grabbed the paper, remarking to a friend, "I guess Japan has at last decided to whip poor Uncle Sam" but after reading a little ways down I found it was an objection to the trolley freight.

It would appear to the citizens of Quincy that the author of this letter to the Ledger was a disinterested citizen giving his views on a public question, and that Theodore Hardwick was not in the family of the Charles H. Hardwick estate, when in fact he is very close to said estate, he being a brother of the late H. E. Hardwick, making him a very close blood relative and a very close financial relative. This being the fact, and it also being a fact that the Charles H. Hardwick family have property on Washington street, and the location of the trolley freight depot is on Washington street, the C. H. Hardwick family object to the location and the C. Theodore Hardwick family object to the location. This is a natural objection from private citizens.

Now, asto the letter, and the author of it. Mr. Theodore Hardwick would have the public believe he had no interest is the trolley freight location, one way or another; that he casually learned that there was to be a hearing on the trolley freight location; that as a fair-minded, unbiased, public spirited citizen he stepped in to listen to the arguments for and against, and after very careful deliberation decided against the trolley freight location.

Now, Mr. Hardwick, be manly, draw your veil from the public eye, come out and tell the public the truth, that you have done and are doing all in your power against the location of the trolley freight, and that you were well informed in regard to the hearing on the trolley freight location in the City Hall, Tuesday evening, and that you came prepared with your sinews of war to work against it, and that the arguments pro and con had no effect on you, your mind was made up and has been made up for all time. The reason for that is family interest and not public interest. We do not blame you for that, only don't try to fool the public for whom you assume to have so great an interest.

Now, Mr. Theodore Hardwick, we do blame you for putting the street railway men's union in a wrong and false light before the public of Quincy. We are a well organized union and feel that labor is worthy of its hire and when we give the company a fair day's work and receive a fair day's pay, we owe nothing to the company and the company owes nothing to us, and that you, Mr. Hardwick are trying to tell the public that we are a lot of hirelings, submissive to the will of the company, to do their bidding whether it be right or wrong.

We are citizens of Quincy as well as you are, as well behaved and law abiding. We live as behooves good citizens, paying our small real estate or poll tax as it may happen, by the sweat of our brow. It is through us the street railway men's union was represented at the meeting, and it was honest deliberation put into words, the thoughts of a grand, good, large organization, spoken at the request of this labor organization, through their delegate. We claim the right to good citizenship and you should be ashamed, Mr. Hardwick, to try to put us before the public as slaves.

(By Frank Fisher Prescott.)

Fifty years ago Saturday, Apr. 22, 1861, the Fourth Regiment, M. V. M., which included Co. H, of Quincy was "mustered into service" at Fortress Monroe. As already noted it was on April 15 that President Lincoln and Gov. Andrews issued their calls, and on April 20, the Quincy boys were at Fortress Monroe.

The letter from Fortress Monroe published recently was written April 28, 1861. The first letter from a Quincy volunteer which got into print was written April 18, 1861, by Corp William H. H. Lapham at Long Island, N. Y., where the 4th Regiment, M. V. M. reported enroute to Fortress Monroe. The letter was short, but every word is interesting, and must have been welcome news to the readers of

BUSY NIGHT FOR COUNCIL

Forty or More Reports and Debates on Other Orders

Tonight's meeting of the City Council promises to be one of the busiest that the Council of 1911 has held. Owing to the fact of the early adjournment of the meeting of April 17, there was much business scheduled for that evening that was not reached. Several committees have met since the April 3 meeting and there are upwards of forty committee reports to be made.

Then there are several matters that will probably call for more or less discussion, chief among which is the order relative to the location for the branch off track to the trolley freight station on Washington street. Then there is likely to be some discussion over the granting of permits to transport liquor. As all of the present permits expire on May 1 there is some interest in learning how the Committee on Licenses, composed largely of first year men, will treat the question of liquor permits.

The order of Councilman Smith granting a Saturday half holiday to City laborers during the months of June, July and August is still undecided and may be taken from the table at any time and acted upon.

Rev. A. R. Atwood formerly of Quincy Point preached at the First Presbyterian church at Barre, Vt., on Sunday. He is in Vermont for two weeks in consultation with the State geologist concerning the glacial history of Quincy.

The members of the Granite City club are looking forward to Wednesday evening, when the annual banquet and entertainment will be held, at Colonial hall. The banquet will be served at 6.30, during which Monk's orchestra will furnish music. The entertainment will follow the banquet.

SCHOOLHOUSE CONTRACT

Awarded to Dennis Crowley the Lowest Bidder

The much discussed question, as to whom the contract should be awarded for the erection of the new eight-room brick school building at Montclair, for which the City Council appropriated $45,000, was settled this morning by Mayor Shea, who awarded the contract to Dennis F. Crowley of Quincy, the lowest bidder.

In awarding the contract the Mayor said: "This action is taken for the reason Mr. Crowley was the lowest bidder by about $2,500, and the only bid within the appropriation. I deem this for the best interest of the taxpayers of the City of Quincy. A proper bond will be required for the proper completion of the contract Proper inspection will be maintained on both the Wollaston and Montclair buildings, and with the architect and Commissioner of Public Works performing their duty, I know of no reason why the city will not get building erected according to the plans and specifications."

PRESENTATION TO COUNCILMAN

Taken by Surprise by the High Water Club

When Councilman Charles A. Ericson bought a ticket last week for one of the Saturday night socials of the "High Water club," formerly known as the "Winter club," he had no idea that the social was arranged for his special benefit. The affair was held in Electa hall, and there were upwards of two hundred ladies and gentlemen present.

It was nearly time for the supper which the ladies prepared in Protection hall, when ex-Councilman Otto Gelotte, rapped for order, and after briefly referring to the efficient services of Councilman Ericson as an officer of the "Winter club," presented him, in behalf of the ladies and gentlemen present with a handsome oak buffet sideboard, as a slight token of their appreciation.

Councilman Ericson who was greatly surprised at the turn of affairs responded briefly, thanking the donors for their handsome gift, and assuring them that he would ever be ready and willing to do all in his power to make the gatherings of the club a success.

An adjournment was then made to Protection hall, where supper was served, after which there was dancing until midnight.

The committee in charge of the affair were C. Pearson, Andrew Johnson, John Olson, William Ericson, S. Cedarstrum, Otto Gelotte, J. S. Johnson, Algot Ericson, N. M. Akerson, E. J. Sandberg, Alex. Larson and Andrew Isacson.

HEAD DECAPITATED

James Duggan of Old Colony street, Atlantic, discovered the headless body of a man supposed to be August Pocius of Stoughton in the inward track near the Neponset station at 6 o'clock Sunday morning. It is thought that that the man fell from one of the late trains from Boston on Saturday night.

MITCHELL FOR ASSESSOR

Charles C. Hearn Also Gets an Appointment

The vacancy in the board of assessors caused by the resignation of Alexander Falconer was filled by Mayor Shea this morning, who appointed Wellington W. Mitchell to the position.

The appointment is one that will meet with general approval for few better men for the position could be found.

The granite men of the city have always been desirous that some one familiar with the granite business should be represented on the board of assessors and for that reason Mr. Falconer was appointed. Mr. Mitchell is equally as familiar with the granite business, as he has been engaged in that line of business all his life.

Mr. Mitchell has a host of friends in Quincy, all of whom will heartily congratulate him on his new appointment, and the Mayor on his wise selection.

Mr. Mitchell, who has been the secretary of the Manager of Public Burial Places, tendered his resignation as a member of that board this morning, and the vacancy thus created has been filled by the appointment of Charles C. Hearn, the druggist. The only office Mr. Hearn has previously held under the city was that as a member of the Spokane commission, to which he was appointed two years ago.

PLAUDITS FOR ODD FELLOWS

The encampment Odd Fellows of Quincy almost "owned" the town of Attleboro on Saturday night for the encampment Odd Fellows of Attleboro and vicinity enthused greatly over their visit and work. There were 72 in the visiting delegation which left Boston by train at 5.40 P. M. Directly upon arriving they were entertained at a grand banquet. The degree staff of Manet encampment then presented the golden rule degree according to the new ritual in approved style which won great plaudits from the Grand officers of Massachusetts and others who crowded the hall. Complimentary remarks were made by the Grand officers and others. It was midnight when the delegation reached Boston on the return, and 1.30 when home was reached.

The installation of the officers of Quincy lodge of Elks, which was postponed from the last meeting, will be held Tuesday evening. The meeting this week will be held in Electa hall, Johnson's building, owing to the fact that Alpha hall where the meetings are usually held, being let for other purposes that evening. It is expected that D. D. G. E. Ruler William H. Barter of Winthrop will be present in person to do the installing.

Two to Permanent Force and Two to Reserve Force

The two vacancies on the permanent police force, caused by the order passed by the City Council increasing the number of permanent men, was filled by Mayor Shea this morning. The two men promoted from the reserve force to become permanent men are Henry W. Thorne and David L. Farrell.

The two vacancies in the reserve force have been filled by the appointment of James McNamara and D. M. Shea. All of the above appointments were made under the civil service rules.

The Mayor also designated Henry W. Corbett to take the place of Frank E. Burrell, now Chief of Police, and James H. Whalan, to take the place of Timothy J. Golden incapicated. The appointments take effect at roll call tonight.

SUDDEN DEATH OF CARPENTER

[illegible] Years Ago in the Police and Fire Departments

Amos M. Litchfield, of 27 Marsh street, died suddenly at his home Sunday morning while listening to his wife reading a letter. Mr. Litchfield sat in a chair and death came so quickly and quietly that Mrs. Litchfield did not notice anything wrong until she paused at the end of the letter, expecting her husband to make comment. Then she noticed that he was unconscious. Dr. Hunting and Dr. McLennan were hastily summoned but he was beyond human aid. Heart disease was given as the cause of his death.

Mr. Litchfield was born in Scituate Feb. 16, 1831, but has been a resident of Quincy since 16 years of age. When a young man he learned the trade of a carpenter which business he has always carried on.

During the town form of government Mr. Litchfield was for many years a special police officer and constable and was also for 37 years a member of the fire department, part of the time as call man and again as district engineer.

He leaves a widow a son and two daughters. His son is Amos L. Litchfield, Chief of Police under ex--Mayor R. A. Sears and chief of the Fire Department under ex-Mayor James Thompson. His daughters are Mrs. Frederick Williams and Mrs. Alexander D. Smith.

KINCAIDE'S

Is a Popular Store

And we say it with pride. There is always strong reason for a popularity that not only lasts, but steadily increases. It must be founded on character. The people you see here are not here for amusement or idling. They are here for the serious purpose of supplying their home wants wisely, satisfactory and economically.

If you who read this chance to be among those who would like to get the same kind of goods that are sold in the high priced shops located in the high rent district of Boston, but at considerable less money—why, follow the crowd to KINCAIDE'S. In a matter like this the majority opinion is seldom wrong. The store that has the greatest number of customers is pretty safe to have the greatest number of good reasons for their being there.

If you don't know this mammoth store—this is a very good time to get acquainted with it. The reasons for its strong hold on the confidence of the public were never more apparent than now.

KING USES THE CAMERA.

Ruler of Italy Likes to Make Snapshots of His Subjects.

The king of Italy is an enthusiastic amateur photographer, and when he travels he nearly always carries a camera with him. He delights in making snapshots of his subjects as well as of his friends and members of his family. Many of the pictures he has made show that he has an accurate idea of the time of exposure necessary to get results as well as a technical idea of the best time to "press the button" to get an effective pose.

a picture. It is a case of the snapshotted being snapshotted, for his pose is entirely unconventional, and he was apparently unaware that he was himself before a camera.

Incidentally the picture gives an accurate idea of the size of the king. He is of small stature, being several inches shorter than his wife. For this reason he is seldom photographed under the circumstances that permit accurate comparisons to be made.

RED MEN'S PRESENTATION

Unique Charges Preferred Against Keeper of Wampum

That the members of Hodenosaunee tribe, Improved Order of Red Men, appreciate faithfulness in the services of their chiefs was very evident on Friday evening, April 21, at the regular meeting of the tribe in Greenleaf hall. After the beautiful ritualistic work of the chiefs degree had been conferred on five brothers, the sachem, David Hansen, made a "long talk" in regard to the duties of the various officers. He stated that it was his duty to admonish any officer who transgressed the rules of the order, and while it was always unpleasant to have to do so, he had heard that some of the members had been making remarks about one of the financial chiefs and that, he thought the time had come when the matter should be settled. He then called on Past Sachem William Hobart, who is the keeper of wampum (treasurer) of the tribe to the position at the council fire to answer any charges that the members might prefer against him.

Bro. Hobart, with a most puzzled and worried expression on his face, did so. The Sachem then called on Past Sachem G. A. Wardwell to act as spokesman of the tribe in relation to the charges. Bro. Wardwell then preferred a long list of them; prominent among which was faithfulness to duty, regular attendance at all councils of the tribe, earnest and hard work on the various committees, readiness at all time to give his time to the work of the order, etc., etc. He then said that the members wished to have a brother who had been found guilty of these charges marked in some way, and aproaching Bro. Hobart he invested him in a most beautiful and costly past sachems regalia.

Bro. Hobart's feelings can be very well imagined, and it was some time before he could speak. When he did he assured the tribe that he would always do as he had in the past and would never prove unworthy of the honor they had bestowed on him.

The regalia is in the form of a sash and is heavily fringed and embooded in gold bullion with Bro. Hobart's name and rank stamped in gold on the inside. After Bro. Hobart had received the congratulations of all, the meeting was closed and the brothers enjoyed a buffet lunch.

On Thursday, May 4, the tribe will trail to the hunting grounds of Nahanton tribe of Weymouth, and confer the adoption degree. Mattakesett tribe of Rockland, Masapoag of Campello, and Nunkalest of Whitman will be present.

JAMES LORANDEAU.

James Lorandeau, a well known resident of West Quincy, passed away at his home on Common street Friday evening after an illness that extended through the winter. He was about 75 years of age and leaves a widow and several children.

TROLLEY EXPRESS LOCATION.

To Quincy Citizens:—

It is to be hoped that those who are objecting so strenuously to the proposed location of a trolley express office on Washington street will not have something worse to contend with if the location is not granted. With the trolley express office there, it is possible to enforce certain conditions but if the property is sold otherwise whoever buys will have rights that cannot be interfered with. He can keep the present buildings; can add on to the front out to the sidewalk; can do an express business, conduct a junk shop, build three-decker apartment houses, in fact do most anything he cares to and who will interfere? Your neighbor can have an ash heap or a mountain of tin cans and you cannot help yourself. May not the upper part of Washington street end in looking like the Quincy Point end?

Of the two evils is it not better to choose the least? The property in question as a stable has for years been a detriment and depreciated surrounding property. At the present time it is not conducive to building up a civic or business centre. There is a possibility with the establishing of a trolley express office the conditions will improve, whereas if sold to other parties it may deteriorate to the detriment of the locality.

For twenty-five years I have lived directly back of the property in question. We have suffered from existing conditions. A public stable has been kept there with at times 25 to 40 horses and our Board of Health has allowed it to exist. If the trolley express office does not get the location, present evils or worse may continue.

If the trolley express office means the pulling down of the present buildings, which are dangerous as regards fire as well as health, I hope they will get what they ask for.

I do not believe the building they propose to build will depreciate property, in fact I expect it will be a benefit to mine.

Neither do I believe it is any more dangerous to run a trolley express on Washington street than on Hancock street. A car is no more dangerous crossing a much traveled street or sidewalk on one street than on another.

Now from a business point of view, a trolley express office if it is to be a convenience to the public must be centrally located, same as any other express company. A business man in a hurry for a package does not want to send his office boy out of the business centre for it or pay a car fare to get it.

Our councilmen should look at the matter squarely, not as favoring the railroad or the opponents, but as to what is best for the city as a whole. Do we want a trolley express? Business men say we do. Is the Washington street location the place for the office? The Board of Trade and many business men favor it.

Whichever way our councilmen finally vote it should not react against them if they are honest in their conviction. They should decide on the advantages of a trolley freight office to our city; its proper location to be of greatest benefit; and whether the proposed location is the best for all interests. Also if the trolley express office located as proposed will tend to stop the growth of a civic centre or if in years to come, if the need arises, it cannot be changed to another location and that section still be available for civic improvements when the time is ripe for them.

Being connected with the Daily Ledger and also owning property directly back of the proposed location I have refrained heretofore from expressing my personal preference believing it a matter to be decided by the townspeople as a whole rather than by individuals. Our councilmen should weigh carefully all that has been brought forward, for and against, and decide honestly for the best interests of the city without fear or prejudice.

Annie L. Prescott.

GAS EARNINGS.

The report of the Citizens Gas Company for March show net earnings of $43 for the month. It was the second month since the reduction in rates, and the earnings were $536 less than in March, 1910, but $1532 more than on March 1909.

The net earnings for the past nine months have been $17,613 as compared with $5,227 during the same period a year ago.

The increase in gas output in March was over 26 per cent and for the nine months over 27 per cent, a much larger increase percent than the Boston Consolidated, the East Boston company or the Newton companies.

There was quite a hard snow storm for a short time Saturday afternoon, and several flurries Sunday morning.

The man who planted his garden several weeks ago in hope of having early vegetables is wondering if the frost has not killed all his seed, and if he will have his planting to do over again.

Czar's Eldest Daughter Soon To Be Engaged

THOUGH the czar of Russia was disappointed at being the father of four daughters before a son came to be the heir to the throne, he has four girls of whom any father ought to be proud. They are all handsome, and all are bright and lovable. As their mother was the Princess Alice of Hesse-Darmstadt, a granddaughter of Queen Victoria, the children naturally have many characteristics of the English and in appearance would readily pass for English children.

Grand Duchess Olga, the czar's eldest child, is a sweet girl of sixteen, and St. Petersburg expects soon to hear of her engagement to Grand Duke Dimitri, her father's cousin. This young man is twenty years old, and he has manifested no desire to marry and settle down, though he has shown some interest in his pretty kinswoman.

The czar believes in early marriages, and he has explained to his relatives that he wants to choose the husbands for his daughters. He realizes that if he is to do this he must have them married before they have reached an age that might cause them to have too much mind of their own. It is much easier to choose a husband for a girl of sixteen than to pick one that will suit a young lady six or eight years older.

The mother of Grand Duke Dimitri is dead, and his father was exiled for contracting a second marriage that was displeasing to the czar. Consequently the young nobleman has been reared by his aunt. She has urged her nephew, the czar, not to insist on an early marriage.

"Let the boy have his fling," she said, "and he will make a better husband."

Since the young man, who is attached to the army, has a taste for the ballet and an enormous fortune that enables him to make his "fling" rather spectacular, the czar is disposed to exercise his royal prerogative and cut the fling short. He is afraid that the young man will take part in another morganatic marriage, such as many relatives of the czar have effected.

The czar's other daughters are Tatjana, born in 1897; Marie, born in 1899, and Anastasia, born in 1901. It was this succession of girls that caused the suggestion to be made that the czar divorce his wife and marry again. Finally, Aug. 12, 1904, the czarina became the mother of a boy, who was named Alexis and the delighted Russian people forgot the unkind things they had thought and said about their ruler's consort.

The czarevitch is a healthy, happy youngster, and unless something unforeseen occurs he will some day be ruler of nearly 150,000,000 people.

SUNDAY IN THE CHURCHES

Easter Music Repeated at Som of the Services

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

Rev. Carl G. Horst at the Sunday morning service of the Wollaston Unitarian church preached from the text, "Search the Scriptures"—John 5:39 in observance of the tercentenary of the completion of the King James version of the Old and New Testaments.

The Junior Lend-a-Hand club will meet at the home of Leona Weston, 208 Safford street, Tuesday, April 25, at 3.45 P. M.

The New England Associate Alliance will meet in Providence, R. I., in the Westminister Congregational (Unitarian) church Thursday, April 27. Rev. Richard W. Boynton of Buffalo will speak on "The old and the new order in religion." Trains leave South station, Boston, at 8.40 A. M.

Twenty-six new books were added to the Sunday school library last week.

The pastor visited the fine new High school building in South Framingham last week and found to the left of the main entrance a public reading room well supplied with magazines, papers and books. Would it not be fine to have a public reading room in our new Wollaston school buildings?

The minister attended the sessions of the Boston Unitarian Ministerial Union today. At the morning session Rev. George Luther Cady, D. D. of Dorchester spoke on "The high cost of dying." Luncheon was served at 12.30 and at 1.30 Mr. Frank Chouteau Brown spoke on "The theatre and its influences."

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN.

The pastor preached at the Sunday morning service using as his text Eph. 6:13. "The Christian Armor" was the theme of the sermon.

Sunday school was very well attended with 93 out of a total of 96 scholars present. The Men's League also had a large attendance.

The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting was a good one under the leadership of Miss Riley.

The evening address by the pastor was on the subject, "Marriage and Divorce." Matt. 19:5-6 was the text.

Marriage as an institution was ordained in Eden and sanctioned by Christ in the days of his flesh by his presence at the marriage in Cana of Galilee.

Marriage was likened by St. Paul to a mystical union existing between Christ and the church.

But one ground of divorce is laid down by Christ in the New Testament. Easy divorces are alarmingly common. From 1867 to 1887 there were 328,716 divorces in the United States representing an increase of 157 percent while the population increased by a little over 60 percent between the years 1887 and 1907 there were 1,000,000 divorces in this country and in the year 1907 alone there were 75,000. It has been told by reliable statistics that between 75,000 and 80,000 divorces are granted every year.

The causes for easy divorces are these: (1) A false conception of the sacredness of the marriage vow. (2) The vaudeville performances which give a false representation of the married life. (3) Hasty marriages.

The meeting was very well attended and excellent music was rendered by the choir and by a soloist, Mr. McConnell.

There will be a business meeting of the Christian Endeavor society at the home of Malcolm McKenzie, 71 School street, on Tuesday evening. All members are requested to be present.

The regular mid-week prayer meeting will be held Thursday evening.

The regular monthly meeting of the Men's League will be held Friday evening.

SWEDISH METHODIST.

The pastor took the text of his Sunday morning sermon from Isaiah 55 the last part of the 7th verse "For He will Abundantly pardon."

The Sunday school services were conducted by the superintendent William Gelotte.

The Epworth League meeting was led by David Wollander. He took the scripture passage from the 83d Psalm.

In the evening the pastor spoke from Ruth 1:16 "Thy God is my God and thy people my people."

A splendid duet was sung by Harry Anderson and Miss Edith Olson and a beautiful solo was rendered by Miss Olga Olson.

The Ladies Aid society will meet at the home of the pastor with Mrs. Rydstrom Tuesday evening at 7.30.

The Male choir will meet in the church for its rehearsal Wednesday evening at 7.45.

The regular church prayer meeting will be held in the vestry Thursday evening at 7.30.

The monthly business meeting of the Epworth league will be held Friday evening at the home of Miss Emma Witting, 26 Deldorf street.

CALVARY BAPTIST.

The pastor preached the Sunday morning sermon on the theme "The Sabbath" "The Sabbath was made for Man and not Man for the Sabbath."

In the evening the morning subject was continued.

The attendance at Sunday school was the largest in the history of that organization. There were 147 in all departments and the best previous attendance was 123.

John Johnson of East Milton addressed the Men's class. Ong K. George a member of the class who starts for Schenectady, N. Y., today, was presented with a Bible by members of the class.

The Junior Christian Endeavor society had a good meeting at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting at 6 was led by Deacon Alex Henderson.

The Bible Study class will meet in the church Tuesday evening.

The regular prayer meeting will be held Thursday evening at 7.30 "What the Bible means to me" is the subject.

The Ladies Circle will meet at the parsonage, 206 Franklin street Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

At the Sunday morning service the Easter music was repeated by the choir, soloists Mrs. E. S. Moore and A. L. Hayden, and with Miss Ethel Murphy pianist and Madame Beale Morey organist acting as accompanists.

The pastor preached an eloquent and excellent sermon on the subject: "The consciousness of a personal responsibility." The life of the church depends on the personal responsibility of its members. If they fail to live up to their faith in their relation with men outside the church the church is bound to fail. Creed does not count for much in the actual working out of a practical religious life.

In the evening, the pastor preached another fine sermon on the thome, "The ghost of a chance," or "The apparition of a lost opportunity." Man holds in his hands the keys to health, education, manhood, if he does not use these aright, these Ghosts of lost opportunities will stare him in the face and when he discovers that there is no longer any hope of recovery and he has to content himsel f with "It might have been" life will not be worth much to him. A. L. Hayden sang three beautiful solos.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

The pastor took his theme for the Sunday morning sermon from Mark 6: 31 'Come ye yourselves apart and rest awhile." The restful scene of the Bible story was depicted in word. Mr. Matheson pointed out the different forms of rest after labor and gave convincing arguments for the belief that there could be no real rest without peace in the soul.

The Bible school services were well attended.

The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting was led by George Wilson and it proved to be spirited indeed.

In the evening the pastor spoke from the text John 19:22 "What I have written, I have written."

The Stewards of the 1st Presbyterian church will serve in the World in Boston every Tuesday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock.

The Ladies Aid society will hold its meeting on Wednesday.

There will be a Cabinet meeting of the Christian Endeavor society at the home of the president, Wendell Clark, 84 Pleasant street, on Wednesday evening.

The regular prayer meeting will be held on Thursday evening.

The men of the church will canvass the congregation Wednesday evening in an endeavor to start the Budget system.

FIRST CHURCH.

The last meeting of the Young People's Religious Union of the Unitarian church as held Sunday evening in the chapel at 7 o'clock. After the devotional exercises, the Rev. Edward Hale was introduced, who spoke very delightfully about the work of Charles Carroll Everett, the exponent of the progressive nineteenth century thought of liberality in religion. Mr. Hale proved himself a sincere, humorous and enthusiastic admirer of that most beloved instructor and dean of Harvard University, Dr. Everett.

At the close of the usual service a business meeting followed, when the Quincy Patriot on Saturday, April 20. It is given in full:

QUINCY VOLUNTEERS

Long Island, N. Y.,
April 18, 1861.

Dear Patriot: As I promised to write you, I am going to commence on the first start, so as to be sure you will receive one.

We are aboard the steamer, "State of Maine." The sea is heavy and our ship is rolling good. Most all the boys are seasick, and it is fun to look at them.

I have a cold and can hardly speak out loud, but for all that, I feel ANXIOUS TO GET THERE AND FIGHT for the Stars and Stripes. I am BOUND TO STICK to the last.

I guess them "hot heads" will think there is something besides India rubber balls in the North, don't you?

Just before we left Boston a gentleman gave each of us a pretty Bible, which I INTEND TO CLING TO.

Respectfully yours,
WM. H. H. LAPHAM.

Corp. Lapham kept his word and stuck until death came three years later. He was killed in battle June 3, 1864, on the same day as Charles F. Pray and James Chubbuck. His brother Joseph Lapham was also a Minute Man, and is one ofthe few survivors.

The Quincy Patriot of the same week that Co. H, left for Fortress Munroe published notices for four meetings in Quincy.

AT TOWN HALL.

The citizens of Quincy are requested to meet at the Town Hall, on Saturday evening, April 20, 1861, at 7 o'clock to take such measures for receiving funds for the benefit of all who may enter the army from this town for sustaining the constitution and laws of our beloved country and for those who may be left destitute at home by their sudden departure.

We understand that Captain Franklin Curtis who so nobly enlisted his services not only for the honor of his native town, but for the defence of the laws of his country, is now here and it is expected he will be present and give his fellow townsmen an opportunity to testify their regard for the noble and patriotic act. By request of many citizens.

(Signed)
Danial Baxter, Eben Adams, Noah Cummings, Selectmen of Quincy,
George L. Gill, town clerk.

Commenting on this notice the Quincy Patriot said:

"Let there be a full attendance at the Town Hall, Saturday evening, April 20. There should be but one mind and feeling on the subject at the critical juncture of our National affairs."

The report of this meeting was republished in the Daily Ledger of April 20 and 21.

LADIES TO AID.

Soldiers of the Civil War will always appreciate the heroic work and sacrifice of the ladies at home.

It will be seen by this notice that they were prompt to organize.

"NOTICE—The Ladies of Quincy are requested to meet at the Town Hall on Monday afternoon, April 23, at 3 o'clock, then and there to take into consideration the best method of aiding our country in this hour of peril."

This meeting will be reported later.

HOME GUARD.

The men over 45 who were considered too old for service at the front were anxious to do their part:

"MILITARY NOTICE—As it is expected that most of our young men (that is those between the ages of 18 and 45) will be called to defend the country, and uphold the Government at some distance from here, it is thought advisable to form a company of those above the age of 45. All those in favor of this object are requested to meet at Mechanics hall on Monday evening, April 22, at 7.30 o'clock."

This meeting will be reported in the Daily Ledger tomorrow.

THE JOKER.

There were those who took the war orders lightly and tried to be funny as will be seen by the following:

"NOTICE—A meeting of all those who smpathize with the weak kneed will be held in the southern corner of Purgatory Pasture, to take measures for the support of the "Could-Go" and "Can't-Get-Away" clubs, and to supply each member with a feather from a White Biddy."

(Signed) "J. Backout, Clerk."

The editor of these war reminiscences has received copies of four letters written by Francis L. Souther while at the front, and also a letter from Horace O. Souther reporting his death, which will be published under the proper dates. Mr. Prescott hopes that copies of other letters from Quincy soldiers, especially in 1861, will be forwarded for publication in this column.

This series of Quincy in the Civil War began in the Daily Ledger of Monday, April 10, 1911, and has been continued daily. Back numbers of the paper can be obtained for a limited time.

WASHINGTON STREET SITE.

Citizens of Quincy:

The important matter of granting the privilege to the Old Colony Street Railway company to place spur track on Washington street leading to the proposed site for the new freight depot probably will come up for consideration before the City Council tonight This is a matt er which requires careful consideration before granting on account of its effect upon the future use of Washington street as a principal thoroughfare.

Of course, the granting of this petition devolves upon the city government and it will not be passed informally as in the case frequently, but will receive the thoughtful attention of each individual member of the City Council. First for consideration is whether the Washington street site is the best location as compared, in all of its phases, with other available sites less likely to interfere with pedestrians and vehicles, and our civic centre.

Sites which will interfere less with public travel are the Wild estate near Cottage avenue a location where it would not be necessary for the spur tracks to cross the full width of the street and a principal traveled sidewalk, which alone is important enough to make it preferable and Coddington street near the marshes which seems an ideal location. Think of placing any dangerous obstruction upon a principal thoroughfare where the public good demands that it shall be kept in a safe condition. The idea of a city granting a privilege to a corporation for its own private advantage which would under certain conditions justify the action of the city government, possibly by injunction process, in removing it as a dangerous element to public travel.

It must be remembered that the future use of our main streets by pedestrians, vehicles and automobiles, and most particularly Washington street, will be very largely increased and no one can deny that every unsafe element should be objected to while it is yet possible, especially when it is evident that there are other sites which will serve the corporation and the city with mutual benefit.

Corporations generally obtain favors and privileges from towns and cities where petitions call for advantageous results by offering the town or city in question some reasonable inducement as partial compensation. In this particular case, the city government is asked, I am informed to grant a perpetual privilege which is of no direct benefit to the city, assuming of course that the object of the company can be accomplished equally as well if located elsewhere in the the city.

Any fair-minded person can see that it is unwise to grant this petition if he will only associate the probable effect with regard to the post office, the Y. M. C. A., the church, the court house site, public library, Coddington school, and other public and private estates.

This is an opportune time for our representatives to show their zeal in guarding our welfare and safety and in showing their sound judgment in such an important matter. This location should not be granted just because the railway wants it or because some people may be benefitted thereby. A freight depot should be located where it will do as little injury to our city as possible. In view of the objections of such a large part of the community, only evidence that no other good location is procurable, should be sufficient to justify a further consideration of the proposed site.

Members of the City Council will be able to discuss this matter intelligently before voting and it is hoped that they will see their way clear to ask the petitioner to withdraw and that the corporation will file a new petition for another site which will serve its purpose.

B. C. Jilbert.

CARS DERAILED.

Four freight cars ere derailed at the switch entering the Granite street freight yard near the School street bridge early Sunday morning, one of the cars being turned up side down. Fortunately none of the train men were injured.

TRIALS OF WALKE.

The torpedo boat destroyer Walke is having her final test today, the endurance run off Rockland, Me., Saturday the Walke travelled nearly 300 miles in her oil and water consumption tests. In the four hour run at 25 knots she consumed 109,725 gallons of water per hour, which was well within the government requirement. During the four hours 4367.6 gallons of oil were consumed which is said to be a better showing than the other destroyers of her class have made. The data for the four hour run at 27 1-2 knots speed has not been compiled as yet.

TOOTHACHE.

For there were never yet philosopher that could endure the toothache patiently.—Shakespeare.

CHRISTIANITY.

Christianity certainly enjoins love for brother man. The great apostle whose fiery soul set the ancient Roman empire aglow with a new light held that under the new dispensation distinctions inherent in blood or tongue were consumed and fused into a new and consecrated unity. Certainly Christ never could lend His sanction to such outrages as are perpetrated upon human beings in the name and by the authority of men professing to rejoice in the redemption from bondage to sin brought about in his glorious resurrection. Christianity, true Christianity, is on trial, not the Jew. —Rabbi E. G. Hirsch.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

TAMPERED WITH BALLOTS

Clerk Reversed Result of Election In Maine Capital

Augusta, Me., April 24.—Charles A. Wadsworth, aged 71, ballot clerk in ward 3, confessed in court to defacing four ballots at the last municipal election and turning a Democratic victory into a Republican victory after the vote had been counted.

The confession covers several years, including an election in which Everett M. Mowers was defeated by the same process as a Democratic candidate for alderman. It is expected, say the authorities, that many others have similarly suffered.

Wadsworth was immediately arrested, was arraigned in municipal court, pleaded guilty and was bound over to the grand jury of the September term.

As soon as the confession was made George H. Bangs, a ward clerk, who had been facing the court three days on an indictment charging him with defacing the ballots, was discharged.

"VOTES FOR WOMEN"

Reno to Be Represented In New York Suffrage Parade

Reno, Nev., April 24.—A banner representing Nevada, with verdant sagebrush letters spelling "Votes for Women," will be carried in the Fifth avenue, New York, suffrage parade May 6, led by the emancipated suffragist "residents" of Reno who have returned to their former homes in New York.

Mrs. P. A. Chapin of New York, now a resident of Reno, is the chairman of the banner committee of the Nevada suffragists. A suffrage resolution for a constitutional amendment was proposed in the Nevada legislature through the efforts of Mrs. H. Stanislawski, president; Mrs. F. R. Nicholas of Reno and Miss Felice Cohn, attorney, of Carson, vice president of the body.

MEYER IS AT ODDS WITH NAVAL COURT

Latter Reaffirms Its Aquittal of Captain Knight

Washington, April 24.—The court of seven rear admirals which tried Captain Austin M. Knight on charges of "culpable negligence and inefficiency in the performance of duty" relative to the ordnance test on the monitor Puritan has reaffirmed its original verdict of complete and honorable acquittal, but Secretary of the Navy Meyer has disapproved the findings, holding that the charges had been proved. The officer has been restored to duty, however, and the action relieves him of arrest and formally terminates his trial.

Captain Knight is the senior captain of the navy. By his acquittal and restoration to duty he probably will be promoted to the rank of rear admiral as soon as a vacancy occurs. His trial has delayed his rise to the higher rank, for had he not been court martialed he would have been appointed a rear admiral in January.

MUST SIGN A PLEDGE

Company to Insure Ex-Drunkards Is Organized In Texas

Dallas, Tex., April 24.—The last word in insurance was heard here when the Temperance Insurance company was organized, the only one of its kind in the United States. There is one in England.

The company will insure cheaply those patrons who have been fond of the cheering glass, provided they will sign the pledge never to touch intoxicating liquors again.

The "teetotallers" policy, it is figured, will not only gather in many addicted to the habit and reform them, but will give the company a profitable business.

PLAGUE EPIDEMIC ENDS

Report of Blashford After a Trip Through Western China

New York, April 24.—Word came by cable from Bishop James W. Blashford of the Methodist Episcopal church that the plague is now extinct in North China and has been almost entirely stamped out in Manchuria.

Bishop Blashford is one of the general superintendents of the church in China with residence at Pekin, and he has just returned from a long trip through western China, extending to the borders of Thibet.

The last official advices placed the deaths at 12,083, but the total is undoubtedly much larger.

TRUCE FINALLY ACREED UPON

War Operations In Mexico Are Stayed by Armistice

PLANS ARRANGED BY GOMEZ

Peace Negotiations Between Madero and Mexican Federal Government to Be Begun at Once—United States Relieved From Taking Action In Response to Protests From American Citizens on the Border

Washington, April 24.—A long step toward restoring tranquility in Mexico has been taken. After a lengthy series of unofficial conferences, including the overtures of many go-betweens, General Madero, leader of the insurrecto army, formally authorized Vasquez Gomez, his diplomatic representative in the United States, to arrange the armistice with the federal government which had been urged by mutual friends. The armistice idea has met with the approval of the Mexican government and is a preliminary to peace negotiations to be begun at once, designed to adjust various differences out of which the revolution grew.

The conditions of the armistice include chiefly the immediate suspension of hostilities, as well as the discontinuance of troop movements, the establishment of a definite period during which the truce is to be effective, the zone to be comprehended by it and the permission for both sides to secure food supplies and free telegraphic communication.

While the policy of the United States toward events on the border has not as yet been clearly defined, the general opinion in official circles is that the amicable settlement of the Mexican revolution will, in a great measure, relieve the United States from the necessity of taking any action in response to protests by American citizens as to the danger of border warfare.

President Taft and members of his cabinet are plainly pleased to learn that peace in Mexico is in prospect, and the hope is general that the economic development of Mexico will resume its normal state.

The sudden change in the attitude of Madero, who was reported as obdurate against both armistice and peace proposals, was explained here by the fact that Gomez in his numerous messages pointed out the complication that had arisen between the United States and Mexico over incidents on the border.

Gomez believed American intervention was not on impossibility and hastened to remonstrate with the rebel leaders against any repetition along the American border of such incidents as occurred at Douglas.

It is believed here that while the armistice is to include only a small part of Mexico, the zone between Juarez and the city of Chihuahua, it will have the moral effect of producing at least temporary inactivity on the part of the insurgents in other parts of the republic.

FOR COMMISSION RULE

Bill Passed by New Jersey Legislature In Closing Hours

Trenton, April 24.—The feature of the closing hours of the New Jersey legislature was the passage of the bill providing for a commission form of government if municipalities vote for it. The bill provides that the affirmative vote in any municipality on the question of the adoption of the commission form of government shall be at least 30 percent of the total vote cast at the preceding general election.

The final adjournment was conspicuously free of disorder such as that which prevailed on the last night of the preceding legislature.

UPROAR IN GREEK CHURCH

Worshiper Accuses Young Man of Trying to Pick His Pocket

New York, April 24.—A cry of "Thieves!" created an uproar in the Greek Catholic church in East Twentieth street and 200 members of the congregation rushed to the assistance of a fellow worshiper, who was struggling with a young man whom he accused of trying to pick his pocket.

An alleged accomplice of the accused man was seized and when they were bundled off to the police station together services were resumed. Yesterday was the Greek Easter Sunday and the church was crowded.

Rome, April 24.—Pasquale Scotto, who was to have testified against the Camorra at Viterbo this week, committed suicide in this city. He had been warned that he would be murdered if he went on the stand.

The assize court at Viterbo listened to a plea of innocence from Marie Stendardo, the only woman prisoner among the Camorrists who are on trial with their reputed head, Enrico Alfano.

BIG RAID IN INDIANAPOLIS

Explosives Seized After International Secretary of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers of America Is Captured—Hurried Out of City After Well Planned Coup by Detectives—Murder Charge Against McNamara

Indianapolis, April 24.—After several months of investigation, directed by William J. Burns, a private detective, John J. McNamara, international secretary of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers of America, the headquarters of which are in Indianapolis, was arrested here, charged with complicity in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times Oct. 1, 1910, which cost twenty-one lives, and the plant of the Llewellyn Iron Works in Los Angeles.

Four hours after McNamara was arrested, detectives found two quarts of nitro-glycerine and seventeen sticks of dynamite in a barn three-quarters of a mile west of Indianapolis. The barn, the detectives say, was rented by McNamara from T. H. Jones, the owner.

A later investigation of the offices of the union disclosed in a storeroom in the basement of the building, sixty-four sticks (about sixty pounds) of dynamite, 200 feet of fuse, 500 dynamite caps, one dozen small alarm clocks and a leather case made to carry a ten-pound can of nitro-glycerine. Detective Burns took possession of all the explosives.

Responsibility for other destructive explosions in various parts of the country will be placed as the result of an investigation, now in progress, Burns said. He added that J. W. McNamara, brother of John J. McNamara, and Ortie McManigal, were under arrest in Chicago as having knowledge of the circumstances of the Los Angeles Times explosion.

Burns says J. W. McNamara is the man who actually set off the charges at Los Angeles that blew up The Times office.

After the arrest of McNamara, Burns and other detectives searched the offices of the Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers and detained there other officials of the association during examination of papers and records.

When the detectives entered the offices a meeting of the executive board of the organization was in progress. These men were permitted to leave the offices afterward. The detectives declined to say whether or not they had collected evidence against McNamara in their examination of the association's papers.

The warrant against McNamara charges him with murder in complicity in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building, and further alleges he was implicated in an explosion in the Llewellyn Iron Works, Los Angeles, Dec. 24, 1910. Burns, in a statement after the arrest, said further developments were expected to disclose the perpetrators of explosions directed against employers in this city, in Omaha, in Columbus, Ind., and other places.

McNamara's arrest followed an investigation lasting several months, during which a force of detectives have been in Indianapolis. Burns himself made frequet trips here and was at all times in touch with the force at work here.

Requisition papers from the governor of California having been signed by Governor Marshall before the arrest, McNamara was taken to police headquarters and arraigned immediately before Judge Collins in police court.

Twenty minutes after McNamara had been seized in the association headquarters in the American Central Life building, where a meeting of the executive board was just adjourning, he was taken from the city by four detectives in an automobile.

Although pleading in police court to be given time to procure an attorney, his request was refused by Judge Collins, who maintained that after he requisition papers had been signed he could do nothing but permit James Housle, an officer representing the state of California, who was present at the hearing, to take the prisoner from the city.

Alleged Burglar Killed by a Policeman Was a Weaver

Lawrence, Mass., April 24.—The man who was shot by Police Officer Newton was identified as Kazimer Kockmont, 27, a Lithuanian weaver of this city. The identification was made by Mrs. Kockmont, who went to the tomb, where the body had been placed.

Kockmont, it is alleged, had attempted to burglarize Newton's house at North Andover, and was shot after a hot pursuit and fight. The distance from the Kockmont home to the place where the shooting occurred is between seven and eight miles.

BATTLE IN A CAFE

Waged by Syrians Until Police Respond to Riot Call

Boston, April 24.—Two men were seriously stabbed and four others assaulted with clubs and brass knuckles during a fight in the Syrian cafe, on the second floor at 36 Oxford street, Sunday afternoon. The affair became so serious that a riot call was sounded and the poice reserves called out.

Thomas George, 29, and Joseph Schabany, 28, were the most seriously injured. Locked up in the Lagrange street station is Mohammed A. Sliman, the proprietor of the cafe, and Morin George.

The trouble, said to be a continuation of an existing feud between members of the Sliman and George families, threw the Syrian colony into an uproar.

PARADE OF PUPILS OF SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Eight Thousand In "World in Boston" Demonstration

Boston, April 24.—Marching with banners, transparencies, flags and half a dozen bands playing inspiring airs, 8000 men, women and children, many of them singing, made the "World in Boston" Sunday schools parade yesterday a remarkable demonstration.

After about 6000 of the paraders had entered Mechanics hall the place was filled to overflowing and the doors had to be closed. About 2000 of those in line were thus shut out of the missionary mass meeting being held inside. They stood in line in front of the building.

The crowd outside was addressed from the upper windows over the hall entrance by Dr. F. P. Haggard and Hamilton S. Conant. One of the bands played "Nearer My God to Thee," and all those in the street joined in singing the words. This was followed by other familiar airs, which were also sung with enthusiasm.

WILL NOT TALK ABOUT HIS CASE

Davie, the "Boy Broker," Is Brought to Boston

ALLEGED THEFT OF $118,000

Clergyman, Reformers and Business Men Among Victims Who Invested In Mining Stocks Only to Be Separated From Their Money—Impression of His Deep Religious Tendencies Was Apparently Supreme

Boston, April 24.—After an eventful voyage of more than 6000 miles, during which he threatened to end his life, then appeared happy among the women passengers and still again hinted that his defense would be on the claim that he was a victim of the drug habit, Robert E. Davie, the youthful skyrocketing broker, was landed in this city yesterday, in custody of Inspectors Burr and Pelton of the Boston police, to answer charges in Boston of larcenies amounting to $118,000.

However much he may have talked while aboard the steamer Byron, which docked in Brooklyn Saturday night, he was reticence itself upon his arrival here. It was Dec. 3, 1910, that he disappeared, and, although all sorts of rumors were afloat, it was not until he was recognized and held by authorities in Rio Janeiro that any actual trace of him was found by the Boston authorities, who had sent circulars bearing his picture and description to every city of importance in the world.

A few scattering commuters were about as the accused embezzler marched from the train between the police inspectors. The prisoner, who counted among his friends evangelists, financiers and statesmen, seemed to have had a sudden change of demeanor when he reached the train shed.

Davie was formally booked at police headquarters by Burr. After a short chat he was taken downstairs to the rogues' gallery, measured and his finger prints taken. Following this the march through the streets to the Charles street jail occurred.

According to what Winfield Towne, Davie's attorney, said, Davie will probably be bailed out today by a bonding company. The former said that when he left headquarters he would immediately begin to accomplish that purpose.

Davie, who left behind him debts that were variously estimated between $100,000 and $400,000, was born and brought up in Hyde Park, a suburb of Boston. Shortly after leaving the high school he entered business with the firm of Wiggin & Elwell and in this way obtained his start in the brokerage business.

For a while he was contented to stay in the humble position of clerk. He interested various business firms in different mining stocks that he himself and various influential friends were interested in. Just about this time, when things were looking bright and an open future lay before him, he married and went to live in Brookline.

Meanwhile letters from clergymen, reformers, business men and many others who might be interested in the progress of young Davie poured in. Even after he deserted Boston for parts unknown the stream of literature did not cease.

Among the effects which he left behind in his flight were found letters from many of Boston's men of business.

The boy broker has been condemned in bitter language by those who formerly were his associates in some manner or other. Yet the most bitter condemnation of his actions, incorporated in letters which it is said he alone appreciates, has never been made public.

Letters by the dozen, in which Davie was commended with all the complimentary attributes ordinarily used, were also among his effects. Evangelists, friends from a business or personal standpoint, never hesitated to come forward in indorsement of the most wonderful financial wizard of the age.

Equipped with a Bible and systematically regarded as a religious figure, religious figures flocked to him.

From the earliest days of his career in the financial world, which dates back but only a few months, the impression of his deep religious tendencies apparently was supreme, and, with his sudden departure from Boston, the recollection of his figure, psalm book in hand or on his desk, has always remained.

WHILE DEFENDING HERSELF

Woman Killed by Man Who Then Attempts to Take Own Life

New York, April 24.—Mrs. Theresa Brogi, 23 years old, was shot and instantly killed by Raphael Gallo, 31 years old, while trying to defend herself from Gallo's attack in the kitchen at her home in Long Island City. As the woman fell Gallo fired a shot into his right temple, and it is said he will not live.

Following the double shooting Annie Geronon, 14 years old, who had been sent on an errand by Mrs. Brogi, entered the kitchen and saw the bodies. She ran to the place where Brogi is employed, and told him of the shooting. Brogi wrenched the revolver from Gallo's hand and was about to send another bullet into his head when he was restrained by neighbors.

SENATE IS NOT YET DOWN TO BUSINESS

Reciprocity Bill Will Hang Fire Two or Three Weeks

Washington, April 24.—The next business in the house is expected to be the "farmers' free list" bill. This has been brought in to offset some of the dissatisfaction farmers feel because of Canadian reciprocity putting upon them, as they assert, most of the burdens of the anticipated freer trade relations with Canada.

When the Canadian bill reached the senate today it was plunged into an unorganized body. The committee vacancies have not been filled and a split between the regular and insurgent factions over the refusal of the majority to accept the insurgents as a distinct organization promises further delay in the announcement of committees.

It probably will be two or three weekss before the Canadian reciprocity bill emerges from the finance committee.

QUINCY STATION NUISANCE.

Editor Daily Ledger:

It was interesting to read the closing sentence in Mr. Mackay's letter, dated April 20, commenting on the smoking in the Quincy depot.

Those who use the waiting room regularly, particularly in the earlier morning hours, have been accustomed to the fact that smoking is not only —not prohibited, but allowed.

The ticket agent, (not Mr. Coffin) replied to the writer "It is my business to sell tickets, answer questions, not to stop the smoking," and it does indeed seem as if it were impossible to make him assume the position of special police.

Repeated personal complaints made each winter to the management have produced no reduction in the number of smokers, being told that they felt sure no gentlemen ever smoked there, and they would try to stop the nuisance.

In the meantime the waiting room of the Quincy depot remains just what it is, a dirty, ill-ventilated general waiting room, where smoking is allowed and alike no credit to N. Y., N.H. & H. R.R., which maintains it, or the City of Quincy which permits its continuance in its present condition.

WHERE TO ADVERTISE.

"When you advertise you want to reach the people, all the people, the oldest inhabitant, the man who moved to town yesterday, the young people just married, the young man or woman who has just earned the first dollar and is itching to spend it. You want them all, the rich, the poor, from the cradle to the grave, and the only advertising medium that reaches them all the time is the newspaper."

MAKARIA VICTORY

Needham Y. M. C. A. Proved Easy Victims

Makaria had little trouble in defeating Needham Y. M. C. A. Saturday afternoon at Merrymount park with the score 16 to 5. The weather was disagreeable, and the bleak wind blowing across the field made most of the spectators huddle up against the backstop. McKenzie was in the box for Makaria and performed very creditably getting eight strikouts, without giving a base on balls, and walloping the ball for three hits, one of them a line drive oper second base which reached the further side of Hancock street before the fielders got it. "Mac" had an easy job loping around the circuit for a home run. The whole game was more or less of a slugging fest for there were two two-baggers and two three-baggers beside the home run and a lot of singles. Curtis picked off some long flies in left field. For the visitors Stanwood and Brundett did some good batting and Smith excelled in the field.

The pastor preached at the Sunday morning service from the text Mark 16:19. "The Central fact of Christianity" was the topic.

Announcement was made that plans would be started next week to get a new pipe organ for the church which is expected to be installed in the fall.

The evening service took the form of a Missionary meeting. "The Whole World for Christ" was the general topic of the address. Special emphasis was laid on the great missionary exposition, "The World in Boston" which started in Mechanics building on Saturday. The pastor urged his people to attend the exposition with an open mind and to offer their criticisms, if they had any, without prejudice.

The vested choir consisting of about 40 people went to Boston on a special car to take part in the exercises of "The World in Boston."

THE W. Y. C. CONCERT

Wollaston Orchestra, Quartet and Other Artists

A concert program, conisstting of music and readings, was the attraction at the club house of the Wollaston Yacht club on Saturday evening. The event was a strictly invitation affair, and was largely attended by club members and their friends.

An overture, "Titania," by the Wollaston orchestra, consisting of Max O. Pinkham, Ernest Pletsch, Charles H. Sayward and John E. Gourlie all well-known Wollaston young men, opened the evening and was much enjoyed.

Edward E. Bullock, Hubert W. Perry, Herbert Y. Follett and George E. McGowan composed a quartet which rendered a march entitled "On to victory" in a manner which compelled an encore.

The readings of J. H. Campbell including "The Hat" taken from the French, and "Legend Beautiful" by Longfellow, were well delivered and met with applause.

The stirring solo of "Go to sea, my lads," was sung by George E. McGowan, and "Any old port in a storm" was given as an encore, the quartet assisting in the chorus.

The orchestra followed with "Romance of the Rose" while Edward E. Bullock contributed two love songs "Because your heart" and "For thee my love" in his usual pleasing manner.

A variation of "Annie Laurie" was effectively given by the quartet, and was followed by a song of humorous nature called "I held her on my knee."

"The sarcrilegious gamesters," a reading by Mr. Campbell, which was exciting and griping in parts, was delivered in a dramatic manner and with striking force.

Messrs. Bullock and McGowan sang "The fishermen's duet," with its fine chorus of "Italia, Italia" to the great satisfaction of the audience.

Concluding the evening was a march by the Wollaston orchestra. The entire program was most entertaining and the club is to be congratulated upon the success of the affair.

SOCCER CHAMPIONSHIP.

At a meeting of the Boston association football league at the Riverdale clubrooms, Brighton, on Sunday, the claim of the McGregor team of Quincy for the points in Saturdays game was taken up. The game was called off because the Lynn team was not able to get to the grounds. The claim was not allowed however, and ordered to be played off at Lynn next Saturday.

Fore River now leads the league and the McGregors and Lynn City teams are now fighting it out for second place. The winner of Saturdays game at Lynn will meet the Fore Rivers at Quincy, May 12, when the cup will be presented to the Fore River club.

LEAVING HOME TO SAVE (?) MONEY

It Doesn't Figure Out That Way When Everything's Said.

DIALOGUE WITH A MORAL.

Why Not Buy at Home and Help the Local Dealer Instead of Wasting Cash In Traveling to the City? Time and Comfort Saved.

Afternoon in home across the Hudson from New York city. Mrs. Ross and daughter Jennie, visiting Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Ross' married daughter.

Mrs. Ross—I see you have on a pair of new shoes.

Mrs. Jones—Yes. I bought them yesterday at J.'s (mentions a local store), and they are a perfect fit.

Jennie—Why, they are just like mine. How much did you pay for them?

Mrs. Jones—Three dollars.

Mrs. Ross and Jennie (together)—My! Oh, gracious!

Mrs. Ross—You never can get a bargain in Jersey.

Jennie—That's so. Ma and I went over to New York to a sale and bought my shoes, the same identical thing, for only $2.98.

Mrs. Ross—And we had lunch for both for 50 cents.

Jennie—The crowd at the sale was awful, and I came near fainting from the heat. Everybody must watch for those sales.

Here Mr. Jones, who was listening behind his newspaper, could hold himself no longer. He burst out with a "Ha, ha, ha!"

Mrs. Ross—What's the matter, Mr. Jones?

Mr. Jones—I was—ha, ha—just thinking how saving you women folks are sometimes.

Mrs. Ross—I don't see any joke about it. You should tell May (meaning Mrs. Jones) to look around and not spend all her money at home, as you are always preaching. See the same shoes on May and Jennie, and Jennie's cost only $2.98.

Mr. Jones—Ha, ha! You went to New York with Jennie for a pair of shoes; 26 cents to get there, $2.98 for a $3 shoe. Ha, ha! Saved 2 cents, still out 24 cents, lunch 50, nearly overheated in crowd and 26 cents to get home, all tired and fretful; make the same identical shoe as May has for $3 in Jersey cost you in New York $4 instead of $2.98, big saving. Ha, ha! And May didn't come home tired and fretful the day she paid $3 for her shoes—ha, ha!

Mrs. Ross (getting ready to go home)—Oh, you men do always figure closer than a woman.

Moral.—Buy in the home market. Don't go out of town and pay 5 to 25 per cent more in expense when you think you are saving money.—Gap in Hudson Magazine.

HELP ALONG OUR OWN.

Why Send to Other Communities For Goods Produced Among Ourselves?

The steamer Chalmette, from Baltimore, carrying a solid cargo of canned goods, is discharging its freight at Galveston. The state of Texas is one of the largest markets Baltimore has for this kind of goods, as it is the piece de resistance on the ranches. The increase in shipment is due to the reduction in rates on canned goods from 20 to 31 cents.—Quanah Observer.

Commenting on the above, Farm and Ranch of Dallas, Tex., says:

There are no better canned goods than those of Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana. Yet it is found hard to sell products of our canneries, while trainloads and boatloads of goods are being shipped into the states which should support their own industries. In one case it was found that goods from a local cannery had been shipped away from home, then bought by a local merchant and shipped back to the place where canned.

The people who preach the doctrine of patronizing home industries should follow the advice they freely give to others. When they fail to do so then they preach for revenue only, and the revenue is for themselves only.

The people read their home newspapers, but they don't read telephone poles or cows or barbed wire fences. You never yet saw a man seated by his fireside reading a board fence or the side of a barn to his children. Here's a hint for the local merchant.

Light Attracts Customers.

In the downtown section of a city the theater audiences come and go through two avenues leading to car lines. A haberdasher has a shop in a side street between these two channels of travel at a much more reasonable rent than he would have to pay on the avenues. Study of the conditions convinced him that theater goers took those avenues not because they were especially convenient nor as a matter of habit, but simply because they were light. When he put up an electric sign big enough to light his section of the dark side street he diverted enough travel past his windows every night to increase materially the daily sales.—Saturday Evening Post.

NO METROPOLITAN COUNCIL PROVIDED

In the Compromise Real Boston Bill Reported in Legislature on Monday

Provides Only for the Publication of Statistics

As reported in the Legislature on Monday there can be no objection to the "Real Boston" bill. With Representative Newton of Boston dissenting, the committee on metropolitan affairs reported in the Senate, a compromise bill for the plan of the Boston Chamber of Commerce to create a metropolitan Boston.

The bill is understood to have been agreed to by the Chamber of Commerce as the best they could hope to secure. The metropolitan council feature is eliminated.

It provides that the cities and towns in the metropolitan park, water and sewer districts, and such other cities and towns as may hereafter be joined to either or all of such districts, shall constitute metropolitan Boston.

The bureau of statistics shall compile and publish every fifth year, or oftener, the combined statistics of population, valuation, commerce, manufactures and all other accessible statistics, whether from the national or the state census, of said metropolitan Boston, under the title of "Statistics of Metropolitan Boston."

In all of the publications of the bureau in which the separate statistics of the cities and towns constituting metropolitan Boston appear, the totals of all such statistics shall also appear as statistics of metropolitan Boston; provided, however, that the publication of these statistics shall not interfere in any way with the publication of the statistics of any of the industrial communities constituting said metropolitan Boston.

The chief objection to the Chamber of Commerce bill was that it was an entering wedge for a movement todward annexation. Mayor Hatfield of Newton led the fight against it, and the bill reported is understood to be based on a draft furnished by him at the request of the petitioners.

The act is to take effect upon its passage. Its sole object is to give to the world at large an idea of the real Boston by adding to the statistics of Boston proper, by which Boston is now rated, the statistics of the cities and towns which constitute the real city.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

About 50 girl friends of Miss Mabel E. Lovejoy gathered at her home on Butler road Monday evening to join her in celebrating her birthday. After the guests had all arrived, they were initiated into the mysteries of some brand new games. Prizes were won in these games by Miss Miriam Rhodes, Miss Gertrude Burke and Miss Isabelle Walker. During the eevening reading were given by Miss Bertha McDonough of Atlantic and piano selections were rendered by Miss Frances Murray. Shortly before ten, the guests were ushered into the dining room where a huge birthday cake formed the centre piece for the table which was trimmed with evergreen and red candles. Dainty little place cards painted by Miss Edith Lovejoy, and bearing appropriate sentiments, added greatly to the enjoyment of things. Ice cream and birthday cake were served.

After the refreshments were consumed, all the girls most of whom were Bridgewater Normal graduates, gathered round the piano and sang all sorts of songs with a mighty volume but when they came to the Alma Mater, "Cheer for old Normal" they sang it with a spirit that was positively abnormal.

The hostess was the recipient of many presents and a number of handsome bouquets.

SENIOR PROMENADE

Annual Event at Quincy Mansion School Popular

One of the most attractive features of the "regular school work" at the Quincy Mansion school is the annual Senior promenade. The class of 1911 held theirs Monday evening in Livermore hall, and it was, beyond question, one of the most enjoyable in the history of the school. During the first half hour, a reception was held in which the guests were given an opportunity to meet Mrs. Willard and the matrons: Mrs. H. J. Marceau, Miss Kenney and Miss Robinson.

From 8 until 11 o'clock the Senior girls and their escorts, a large number of them college boys, danced to their heart's content. Poole's orchestra was stationed on the stage and the ante rooms at the sides were made cosy with comfortable looking chairs and walls decorated with banners of all the colleges.

In the intermission, the dancers adjourned to the gymnasium which was tastefully decorated in Japanese style with wisteria growing over big trellises and Japanese lanterns to carry out the effect. Here refreshments consisting of salad, sandwiches, ices, cake and coffee were served by Hendry, a Boston caterer.

The last dance came all too soon to suit the forty couples of young people and all were agreed that the clock's were going at double quick time throughout the evening.

ARRAIGNED FOR LARCENY.

Chief Pierce of Milton went to Springfield on Monday, and when John Kippinham was released from jail he was arrested on two complaints for larceny of a horse, buggy and harness from Casper Schindler in 1909. In court this morning he was held in $3,000 for the grand jury.

Kippinham has done time under several names. In 1897 under the name of George Williams he got from 4 to 5 years for larceny. In 1901, Under the name of James Kippennan he got from 3 to 4 years in states prison. In 1905 under the name he was sentenced from 4 to 8 years.

When released from jail at Cranston, R. I., in 1910 he helped himself to a horse and buggy owned by the sheriff and drove off and there is now a warrant out for him for that offense. He is also wanted in Lynn and other places.

His weakness seems to be for horses.

BOAT COMPANY TO MOVE.

The Electric Boat Co., will discontinue business in Quincy on Saturday of this week. The employees will have one weeks vacation, being ordered to report at Groton, Conn., on Monday, May 8. It is understood that many will stay in Quincy as employees of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co.

Quincy High will open her baseball season Wednesday afternoon at Merrymount park in a game with Cambridge Latin. The game will begin at 3.30 in the Upper field.

DAMAGES AGAINST UNION.

Judge Morton of the Supreme court awarded Marniano De Minico $500 damages and $207 costs against David Craig, president and secretary of the adjustment committee of the Milford branch of the Granite Cutters' Union. De Minico was foreman for Wells Bros. at Hopkinton in 1909, when a strike was ordered to effect the discharge of De Minico, who was disliked for the enforcement of the rules of his employers. After losing his position as foreman he worked as a journeyman. The case has been before the full bench which decided that the strike was illegal and unjustifiable and that De Minico was entitled to damages.

WHIST PARTY.

The A. A. B. E. C. G. M. E. S. A. F. F. Girls, met at the home of Miss Gladis Pinel, Miller street, Monday night. The first hour was enjoyed playing whist, souvenirs being won by Miss Aljuline Keene and Miss Bertha Pierson and consolation by Miss Elise Larence. After the game all adjourned to the dining room, where a most bounteous lunch was served, the table being decorated with the club colors, pink and green. Each received a little pink rose basket in which was hidden a favor which caused great amusement.

All too soon came the hour to bid the hostess goodnight.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The trade reports say the volume of business is below producing capacity. Like the rest of us Uncle Sam hates to dig in the garden when the fish begin to bite.

One of the Camorrists on trial picked out his glass eye and threw it on the floor. This must have been an eye-opener.

The air ship Parseval landed in a swamp over in Germany, Friday, and the passengers must have been glad for a good squashy place to jump into.

Reciprocity seems likely to pass, and business men along the border can deliver goods by train instead of through the woods on dark nights.

THE DYNAMITE ARRESTS.

The arrest of three men for alleged complicity in the Los Angeles Times dynamiting job, with a reported confession by one of them, may lead to a show down in the long game of death by which over 100 bridges and other structures have been wrecked by unknown miscreants.

The fact that the leading defendant, J. J. McNamara, is secretary-treasurer of the International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, places on organized labor the necessity for clearing its skirts from these fearful tragedies.

The country should not assume these defendants to be guilty without hearing the evidence. The facts established in the formal conflict before the judge and jury often look very different from the frame-ups of the police, whose views are sometimes colored by their natural desire to maintain a professional reputation.

At the same time, when a detective of the standing of William J. Burns begins to talk, the public is not inclined to think this is a merely Sherlock Holmes story, got up to sell to the newspapers at space rates.

As a whole, the labor situation has quieted down during the past 10 years. As the labor unions have grown used to the exercise of power, they have accepted more of its responsibilities. Back at about 1902, the news of strikes made the daily paper look like special war extra. Now the majority of labor men have a growing disinclination to strikes.

There is however, a small but terribly desperate minority, that have followed the anarchists of Russia rather than the counsels of law abiding American neighbors.

The labor leaders have a serious problem on hand to subdue these more lawless hearts. The unions can not be blamed for attracting down trodden men who are seeking to better their condition. But some of these men, morbid under the flaunting swagger of wealth, nourish arson and murder under an exterior of silent melancholy.

The very existence of a union is dependent on its success in restraining these men, and in surrendering them to public justice, where reasonable suspicion of crime exists. One such man is a greater enemy of organized labor than a thousand "scabs."

HAND AND HEART WITH SOLDIER BOYS

Ladies of Quincy Promptly Organized and Raised Money in April, 1861

Company of Home Guards Organized by Men Over 40 Years

(Quincy in Civil War No. 12—By Frank Fisher Prescott.)

It is worthy of note and commendation how promptly the ladies and the Home Guard organized in Quincy after the Minute Men responded in April 1861. It was just a week after the call of Lincoln and the orders of Gov. Andrews that both perfected organizations and got to work as will be seen by these reports from the Quincy Patriot:

The Ladies Meeting.

The Ladies of Quincy assembled at the Town Hall on Monday afternoon,, April 22, 1861.

Before the hour appointed the floor and galleries were crowded with people, every lady seeming serious and silent. The hour arrived. The notice (as printed in the Daily Ledger yesterday) was read, and a few remarks were made. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Seth Adams; after which Mrs. William S. Morton of Spear street was chosen to preside, who conducted the meeting in a business-like manner. A board of officers was chosen to transact the business of the ladies.

A subscription paper was next offered to the ladies to enroll their names, in order to procure funds to purchase material, to be made into garments for our soldiers. Much interest was displayed, everyone being anxious to do something.

The sum of $215.00 was readily subscribed, with the promise of MORE IF NECESSARY. It is intended that a large number of garments shall be packed and ready to send off on Saturday.

Our sympathy, say the ladies, goes with the articles we send, and may every one serve a double purpose, that of keeping our men comfortable and healthy while in actual service, and the mental pleasure of knowing that we go HAND AND HEART with them in the endeavors to reestablish order in our beloved country.

Peace, Love and Liberty shall rise
Again from earth, toward the skies;
And man with gratitude shall bow,
When war shall cease, and love shall flow.

Then onward march for Freedom's cause,
Though contest deep, and loud huzzas;
Our prayers to Heaven with your's shall blend.
While you the Stars and Stripes defend.

P. S.—The editor of this column is very anxious to peruse the record book of this organization of ladies. Has any one in Quincy information as to the probable whereabout? If so please communicate with Mr. Prescott.

Home Guard.

At a meeting held Monday evening, April 22, 1861, for the purpose of forming a Company as a Home Guard, Dr. William B. Duggan was chosen moderator, and Charles Marsh secretary.

Messrs J. G. Brackett, Wyman Abercrombie and Capt. Lewis Bass were chosen a committee to report a plan of organization, which was as follows:

"We the undersigned agree to form ourselves into a Company to be known as a "Home Guard," to serve our country in any emergency within the limits of the Commonwealth."

It was voted that no one should be admitted as a member under the age of forty years.

Mr. Wiliam Parker was chosen as drill officer.

Mr. Abercrombie offered the company the use of his hall on Washington street near Canal street, free of expense, which was gladly accepted with thanks for the generous offer.

About fifty members enrolled themselves during the first week, and the secretary says, all citizens of forty years and upwards are respectfully invited to come forward and join us.

P. S.—Mr. Prescott, the writer of these articles is very anxious to obtain the records of Charles Marsh, the secretary, or of the committee.

The editor of these war reminiscences has received copies of four letters written by Francis L. Souther while at the front, and also a letter from Horace O. Souther reporting his death, which will be published under the proper dates. Mr. Prescott hopes that copies of other letters from Quincy soldiers, especially in 1861, will be forwarded for publication in this column.

This series of Quincy in the Civil War began in the Daily Ledger of Monday, April 10, 1911, and has been continued daily. Back numbers of the paper can be obtained for a limited time.

The work of the day was witnessed by many visiting sir knights who included Deputy Grand Commander Lafayette G. Blair of the Grand Commandery of Massachusetts and Rhode Island; Past Commander James F. MILLION MEN BEING ARMED BY GERMANY

Summer Maneuvers Will Be on a Gigantic Scale

Berlin, April 25.—Germany will have under arms, in connection with the field maneuvers this summer, practically 1,000,000 men. In addition to the regular army strength of 622,000 men, over 355,000 reservists will be called to the colors, making a total effective strength for the army of 977,698. Adding to these the men serving with the fleet, an armed force of considerably more than a million will be engaged in the gigantic war game.

The new firing regulations for the field artillery, just published, contain in addition to former directions for fire against captive balloons, a new set of instructions governing the use of artillery against dirigibles and aeroplanes.

It is admitted, however, that artillery fire against aeroplanes offers slight chances of success without enormous use of ammunition.

MALES GAIN IN GERMANY

This In Spite of a Greater Masculine Death Rate

Berlin, April 25.—The German census shows a singular change in the proportion of males. Like all old and thickly settled countries, Germany has an excess of women, but while in 1905 there were 1033 females to every 1000 males, the proportion in 1910 had fallen to 1026 to 1000, the respective percentages of increase during the five years being 7.18 percent, and 6.88 percent.

The masculine predominance is in spite of a greater male death rate, which is 18.1 per thousand against 16.2 per thousand.

Beveridge Said to Be Taft's Choice For German Ambassador

Washington, April 25.—A reliable authority is responsible for the statement that former Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana is to become ambassador to Germany as the successor of David J. Hill.

It is known that the former senator is hurrying back to Washington from his Canadian tour on a message from President Taft. He had gone to the Dominion to make an extended study of the trade relations between the two countries.

THE MERE MAN'S VIEWPOINT

SACRIFICES WE MAKE

By BYRON WILLIAMS

THE wife of Deucalion, standing upon Mount Parnassus, cast down stones, and they became women.

Mothers of today, standing upon the pure pastoral hills of America, are casting their pearls at the feet of the city werewolf, and the sacrifices become women, sometimes in a night—women who look back through sodden tears and moan:

"Oh, why didn't mother tell me something?"

Yesterday I read a letter written by a modern Mary Magdalene—a woman who a few years ago was a rosy cheeked child, as pure as Diana, as virtuous as Vesta. The world to her was a mellifluous stream, calm and placid. She spoke no evil, saw no evil, thought no evil, heard no evil. And then she went to the city.

The letter, written to a charity worker, was no different from many others. One could print a thousand letters like this and send them into the country to be used later by unfortunate girls who today are safe and happy.

She had come to the city at eighteen. It was wonderful at first. And then loneliness came, that dull, heavy longing that grips the heart and depresses the spirit, that leaden yearning to see some familiar face, to touch some hand whose pressure you have known in happier days. Thoughts of the roses back home, for it was June, took possession of her, and a mad desire to know some one who could understand swayed her usual reserve.

THAT WAS THE BEGINNING OF THE END.

Mephisto, gilded and radiant, strolled in from the wings and understood. He talked to her of home, of the little stream that gurgled and sang its song past the rustic bridge, of the glorious colors of the wood in the autumnal tinted fall, of fireplaces bright with cheer on nights when the storm gods ruled the land, of moonlit nights in May and lovers wandering down them into Arcadia. Oh, he talked of all the things she loved the best! And then one night he talked of love.

And when he had won her love he took her through the "family entrance" to a fashionable restaurant and baited her with lemonade and salads. And when her fears were stilled and her confidence in him was as beautiful and pure as a bird reposing in its downy nest he prevailed upon her to taste champagne.

That was the beginning of the end. In her letter yesterday she said, "Help me or I shall kill myself!"

For her the box of Pandora was wide open and even hope threatened to leave.

Why didn't her mother tell her something? What right had she to let false modesty stand in the way? How can she justify the act of casting this innocent child at the feet of Mephistopheles without a warning, without an education, if you please, against the inferno that awaits every girl who goes to the city to make her way?

It is a good thing for the progress of cities that country mothers do not know the real conditions; otherwise the great mills that feed on the flesh of our children would clank and rattle in vain for provender.

Before you let your daughter go to the sacrifice tell her what life is. Remember the girl who from the dregs of despair sent up her cry:

"O God, why didn't mother tell me something?"

Dressing has considerable to do with woman and salad.

To the bachelor who can find an interpreter the greatest book in the world is a cookbook.

Sometimes a woman cannot help wishing that her husband would be more persistent in the use of his razor or less so with his osculation.

One of the saddest commentaries of flat life is that the inhabitants, the cliff dwellers of these niches in the wall, live and die without knowing how much fun they could have got out of 5 cents' worth of flower seeds.

The woman who never starts dinner until it is too late to get it ready on time should remember that procrastination always enters the race with one tug unhooked. A hungry husband who has to sit around and wait for the potatoes to boil is quite apt to become a liability sooner or later.

COUNCIL VOTES

Cranch street was referred to the Committee on Streets.

LICENSES WANTED.

A large number of applications for minor licenses were received and referred.

Applications were also received for permits to transport liquor and collect junk. The time for filing these, however, had expired under the rule. Those of Carl Lilja and N. T. Murphy to transport liquor, and of Joseph Levowich, Hyman Katz and B. Asnes were laid on the table, and later admitted under suspension of the rules and referred to the Committee on Streets.

TROLLEY ORDER.

The Committee on Streets reported ought to pass on the order granting the street railway a location for a branch-off track on Washington street.

Councilman Ericson offered a minority report that the order ought not to pass. He moved the substitution of the minority for the majority report.

The minority report was rejected and the committee report accepted. The question was then on passing to be ordained.

Councilman Smith moved to lay on the table until later. Motion lost.

He then argued that the location was not a proper one. The only reason for granting it was it was central. He did not think the argument in favor warranted the disregard of the protests. There was no immediate sign of a trolley freight business. We should give the petitioners leave to withdraw, and two years later if found necessary it can then be granted.

Councilman Sandberg read a letter from the Street Railway Co. in reply to letter from the committee, stating that the yard would not be used for the storage of construction material, and that the track would be used for freight cars only, and the company would endeavor at all time to keep the yard clean.

Continuing he said while this may not be the best location but it was equal to any seen. There was only one location for the committee to consider. There were now a lot of shacks on the street and this would improve the street.

Councilman Leslie spoke of the public hearing and resented the statement of counsel, if this location was not granted none was wanted. If the railway is to be helped this was not a fair statement. He did not know why this order should be given the right of way over other business.

Councilman Sodergren had given the matter much consideration and he now favored the location. The present class of buildings on Washington street were a disgrace. We should not block the wheels of progress, but grant the location.

Councilman Gardner spoke of the public hearing when he said the sentiment was strongly in favor of the location. He was satisfied it was a proper location. He had letters from people who had signed petitions against it, who were now in favor. The Washington street property would cost twice as much as the Wild estate which was given up because the parties tried to drive too hard a bargain.

Councilman Richards spoke at length against the order. He did not like the way the question had been handled by the committee. He wanted to know if the committee had considered other locations and if they had been to Taunton, and if the President of the Council had been present at the meetings.

Councilman Gardner replied that other locations had been considered. He had been to Taunton, and the President was present as he had a right to be.

Councilman Richards then told of the freight house at Taunton which was surrounded by rum shops. He said the chairman of the committee had been dictated to about holding the hearing. He also ridiculed those who spoke in favor of the petition at the hearing and compared them unfavorably with those who had spoken against it.

Councilman Craig spoke at length in favor. The street was not one of civic beauty. He thought Councilman Richard's description of the Brockton freight house unfair. The Wild location which had been mentioned only had an entrance of 17 feet. He asked how much the remonstrants against the location had done to make Washington street one of civic beauty. As for being dangerous he did not think it would be.

Councilman Ericson spoke against. He said business men did not demand the location should be on Washington street.

Councilman Branch first thought the Washington street location a good one. Personally he had no apprehension of danger. But as many citizens whose opinions he accepted objected, and on account of statement of counsel at the hearing, he had made up his mind it was best not to grant the location.

Councilman Bailey voiced all that had been said in opposition to the location.

Councilman Boyd said there were some shacks in his ward, but nothing that compared to Washington street. He also referred to the element of danger which he said did not exist. He compared this location with others that had been suggested.

The order was then passed. 12 voting yes and 8 no, as follows:

Yes—Bolster, Boyd, Craig, Duffy, Forde, Gardner, Histen, Parlee, Ross, Sandberg, Sodergren, Studley—12.

NO—Bailey, Branch, Campbell, Ericson, Jenkins, Leslie, Richards, Smith—8.

ABSENT—Cherrington, Nowland—2.

NOT VOTING—President Bryant.

HALL PLACE M. E.

Rev. T. C. Martin preached a very able sermon Sunday morning on the text as found in Judges 5-23 "Curse ye Meroz, said the angel of the Lord, curse ye bitterly the inhabitants thereof: because they came not to the help of the Lord, to the help of the Lord against the mighty."

Mr. Martin advanced probable several reasons as to why the people of Meroz did not respond to call to help the Lord, prominent among which were, perhaps they did not believe in God, perhaps they did not believe in themselves, it may have been a foolish pride, they may have been lazy, or it may have been indifference.

At the close of the session of the Sunday school the Sunday School board accepted the resignation of Miss Bessie Nichols as secretary of the school and elected Camile Fuller.

Junior League was held at 3 P. M. J. M. Francis lead the Epworth League Devotional service at 6.15.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

HOME RULE FOR IRELAND

Assured If Irish Parties Give Fair Support to Veto Bill

London, April 25.—The government has again gone on record with its promise to secure home rule for Ireland in consideration of support for the parliament bill by the Irish parties.

During debate in commons yesterday afternoon on the second clause of the bill limiting the power of the peers on measures other than revenue bills, Premier Asquith declared that the powers conferred by the veto bill would be used to secure home rule for Ireland.

When the parliament bill becomes law it will affect the passage of the forthcoming bill for Irish home rule by the restriction it will impose on the veto of the house of lords. Under the new law the lords cannot reject a measure sent up from the commons more than twice. Passed a third time by the same commons, the bill will go direct to the king for his signature, ignoring the lords entirely.

GREAT PAGEANT OPENS

"Darkness and Light" the Big Feature of Exposition at Boston

Boston, April 25.—Attractive music, effective acting, picturesque scenery and costuming of the choruses and principals make the great pageant of "Darkness and Light" the big feature of the "World in Boston" exposition. Yesterday afternoon and evening the first public presentations of it were given in Mechanics building.

About 1000 persons witnessed the afternoon performance and more than twice that number the evening. This was better than the management expected, and they expressed the fullest satisfaction.

To the uninitiated it seems like a spectacular musical drama on an immense scale, or like grand opera. Its sponsors claim, however, that it is not a theatrical performance at all.

WON'T BE A BURDEN ON ANY COMMUNITY

Alien Arrives with $26,500 and a Large Family

New York, April 25.—Frederick Schneider, who arrived from Russia with a wife and fourteen of his fifteen living children, could not answer in English when asked if he had money enough to provide for his army of Schneiders, but he replied in "American" with an eloquence which staggered the immigration officials.

From the depth of various pockets, he produced rolls of bills, one after another, and tossed them upon the desk at Ellis island, while officials and immigrants pressed around to hear the money talk.

The examiner gasped before the climax was reached, for $26,500 in green and yellowbacks were steadily piled on his desk.

By the aid of an interpreter, Schneider explained that his fortune came from the sale of a big farm, and that he was on his way to Glen Ullen, N. D., whither his oldest son had preceded him.

BIBLE BRINGS $50,000

Los Angeles Man Buys Guttenburg Product at Auction

New York, April 25.—The first book ever printed from movable type brought the highest price ever paid for any book. The prize was the Guttenburg Bible, the purchaser was Henry F. Huntington of Los Angeles, and the price paid was $50,000. The book was printed between 1450 and 1455.

The purchase was made at the opening session last night of the sale of the library of the late Robert Hoe, the largest public auction sale of books ever attempted. Experts have estimated the collection to be worth over $1,000,000, and wealthy amateurs and dealers from Europe have come to vie with American collectors in the bidding.

TRAPPED BY FLAMES

Two Perish and Two Are Seriously Burned In Forest Fire

Boxford, Mas., April 25.—Trapped in a forest fire raging so furiously on every side that escape was impossible, Frank Simmons, Jr., 15, of this town, and Albert Morgan of Beverly, were burned to death. After the fire had swept over the spot their bodies were recovered, but burned beyond recognition.

Two others, Frank Simmons, father of the dead boy, and William Simmons, 17, a brother, were also trapped by the fire, but broke through and escaped, although both are so seriously burned that they may not recover.

ARE PROBABLY BEYOND HELP

Twenty-Two Miners Are Entombed by Explosion

RESCUERS ARE HANDICAPPED

Debris Blocking Their Passage Makes It Necessary to Cut Through Wall of Adjoining Mine to Reach Unfortunate Men, All of Whom, With One Exception, Are Americans—Mine Was Running Short-Handed

Elk Garden, W. Va., April 25.—Twenty-two miners are entombed in Ott mine No. 2, of the Davis Coal and Coke company here, the result of an explosion.

Little hope is held out for the rescue of any of them because of the tons of debris which have thus far impeded the progress of rescuers. It cannot be learned yet whether the explosion was caused by dust or gas. Officials of the company say they never have known their mines to be gaseous.

As soon as the accident became known Superintendent Grant organized a rescue corps of the miners off duty, and after notifying the officials of the coal company at Cumberland, the rescuers tried to enter the mine. They had not advanced far into the works before they discovered it would take several days to dig through the heaps of roof coal and slate that had been loosened by the explosion.

It then was decided to effect an entrance nearer the probable point of the explosion by cutting through the wall of an adjoining mine owned by the same company. The rescuers have penetrated to the No. 2 mine at a point about 4000 feet from the outside entry. There still remains about the same distance to go before reaching the buried miners.

The Ott mine No. 2 is almost directly under the town of Elk Garden, which is on a hill. The mouth of the mine is about a half a mile from the town.

In striking contrast with the usual mine explosions are the victims in this case, who, with one exception, are Americans.

A temporary suspension of work required fewer men in the mines, else the casualty might have been greater.

A SCENE OF SPLENDOR

Governor Foss and Wife Give Great Reception at State House

Boston, April 25.—About 1500 invited guests attended the reception given by Governor and Mrs. Foss at the state house last night. In brilliance it has been surpassed by few receptions given by the chief executive. From 8 until 10 o'clock a gay throng surged through the Hall of the Flags, where Governor and Mrs. Foss received.

The reception was extended to the members of the legislature, the officers of the state militia and the officers of the United States army and navy connected with the military and naval posts in Boston.

Sparkling music, vivid gowns and bright uniforms, together with the dazzling lights, made the state house a scene of splendor.

TROLLEY LINE TO OTIS

Women In Berkshire Town Help Dig First Hundred Feet

Lenox, Mass., April 25.—Every able-bodied woman in Otis, which has a population of 494, was out yesterday to help celebrate starting of work on a new street railway line connecting Springfield and the Berkshires. They helped dig the first 100 feet.

They said they wanted to push along the work so they could get to bargain store counters oftener than once a year. They have to go fifteen miles now for their ginghams and calico.

James Clark, 70 years old, the postmaster, who hasn't been outside his town in more than thirty years, was there. Fifteen years ago he declared he wouldn't leave Otis until the trolley carried him. He expects to go this year.

No public meetings of any sort are to be permitted after dark. Any person on the streets after 8 o'clock in the evening will be compelled to state his business to the military patrols.

I was troubled a great deal by headaches and dizzy spells which were so severe at times that I had to grasp something for support to keep from falling. My sight was also affected, spots often appearing before me and my back ached intensely. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store and began their use. I was helped from the first and after I had taken the contents of five boxes, my case being of long standing, I was cured. Other members of my family have used Doan's Kidney Pills with equally good results."

Why we advertise Lenox Soap.

We hope, by advertising, to induce thousands of women, who have never used Lenox Soap, to give it a trial.

If we can do that, the advertising will pay; for a woman who buys one cake of Lenox Soap and gives it a fair trial, is almost certain to keep on buying it.

Indianapolis, April 25.—Further arrests in the dynamiting cases are to be made by William J. Burns, the former government detective, who arrested John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, in this city, and J. B. Bryce and Ortie E. McManigie at Detroit, following the labor leaders' indictment for complicity in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building on Oct. 1, 1910.

The investigation is still going on here, the grand jury having under consideration the books of the union.

A writ of replevin was yesterday issued to the iron workers, who attempted to secure the books from the grand jury, but were prevented by a threat of contempt of court.

Detective Burns declares that he has "only scratched the surface" in his efforts to run down the perpetrators of what he termed a plot against employers who refused to submit to the demands of the union.

At Tiffin, O., Burns found 400 pounds of dynamite hidden in a shed, which is said to belong to James McManigie, father of Ortie McManigie, who was arrested in Detroit with Bryce, alleged to be a brother of John J. McNamara, and said by Burns to be the man who set off the bomb that wrecked the Los Angeles Times building, killing twenty-one men. Burns also went to Bloomville, O., to search for more dynamite, which is said to have been stored there by union labor leaders.

Captain Wood, chief of the Chicago detective bureau, said that a confession had been obtained from McManigie. It is said that he told where the dynamite in Tiffin could be found, and gave a full history of the plot against the Los Angeles Times.

The National Erectors' association, which includes a large proportion of the builders of the country who use structural iron, is back of the prosecution of the labor leaders. It was declared in their behalf that they are confident of bringing numerous other crimes home to McNamara and his followers.

Labor leaders as a body stand by McNamara and the other prisoners. They declare him to be innocent, as well as his brother and McManigie. The general attitude of the labor unions was expressed by President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, who denounced the arrests as "a plot against unionism," and characterized the taking of the prisoners to California without giving them a chance to get counsel as "an outrageous piece of legalized kidnapping."

CANNOT GO THROUGH HUSBAND'S POCKETS

Ruling Against Woman In Rhode Island Divorce Court

Providence, April 25.—Judge Lee ruled in the Rhode Island divorce court that a man has a right to slap his wife if he catches her going through his pockets while he was asleep.

Mrs. Elizabeth E. England begun suit against her husband for separate support, on the ground that he was cruel to her. On the stand Mrs. England said:

"One night I was going through my husband's pockets to find my watch and ring. He was asleep. He woke up and hit me with a shoe."

Judge Lee interrupted her and told counsel for each side that they should try to effect a reconciliation. Then the court said to counsel for Mrs. England:

"Tell your client that she must not go through her husband's pockets again. A man is justified in slapping his wife for doing that."

The case was stopped then.

DAVIE PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Boston Boy Broker Is Held In $50,000 Bonds

ALLEGED $120,000 LARCENY

Said to Claim He Is Being Persecuted and That Flight Was Due to Mental Lapse—Receiver Will Now Attempt to Settle Bankruptcy Matter Pending Against the Skyrocketing Financier

Boston, April 25.—Robert E. Davie, the youthful broker accused of a half million dollar stock swindle, who was arrested in Rio Janeiro and brought back to this city by two police inspectors, was arraigned before Judge Stevens in the first session of the superior criminal court yesterday afternoon.

Davie pleaded not guilty in a firm voice and with emphasis on the first word. The indictments were not read. Bail was fixed at $50,000 and Davie was remanded to jail. In all he was not in the courtroom over five minutes.

The charges against Davie involve the alleged larceny of $120,000. In November the grand jury returned an indictment in two counts, charging larceny of $10,000, in the sheep of various stocks, from Mrs. Hannah L. Greenwood of Somerville. The indictment of the December grand jury included three counts, charging larceny of $110,000 from William H. Jackson of Boston.

From the few words that he let drop officers gathered that Davie is trying to make out that his flight from Boston was due entirely to a lapse of memory and that he claims he is being persecuted. Furthermore, he believes that he can convince people that the funds which he is accused of stealing really were lost in legitimate stock speculations.

It is his claim that he went to Chicago, New Orleans, and finally shipped on a tramp steamer from the latter port to Rio Janeiro, all under the influence of the mental lapse; that he woke up to the true status of affairs only when confronted with his photographs and the charges.

At a proper time Davie will be questioned by Isidor Fox, receiver in the bankruptcy proceedings, relative to the claims of the numerous creditors whose names appear in the schedule filed with the United States district court by Winfield C. Towne, who has been acting as attorney for Davie since his departure some months ago.

Receiver Fox will attempt to settle the bankruptcy matter, now that Davie is again in Boston. The calling of the first meeting of the creditors before Referee Gibbs of the bankruptcy court has been deferred, as there was no money in the estate to pay the cost fees, and also because of Davie's capture in South America.

OPPOSED BY TORIES

Reciprocity Agreement May Fail In Canadian Parliament

Ottawa, April 25.—Great uncertainty prevails as to the action of the Conservative party with reference to allowing the reciprocity agreement to go to a vote.

Conservative members returning from their Easter visit to their constituencies declare their belief that the duty of the opposition is to force the government to appeal to the country and bring on a general election next fall.

Although in a minority, the opposition have it in their power to accomplish this by withholding votes for supplies.

Cookery Points

Salt Fish For Lent.

The season of Lent is now with us, and there are still a certain number of people who fast during this time and invariably make a point of having salt fish on Ash Wednesday. Many people shudder at the idea of salt fish at all; but, properly treated; it is by no means to be despised. Too often, however, the necessity for sufficient soaking is not realized, with the consequence that when served, if it be eaten at all, whoever ventures on it literally feels he or she is performing a penance. First of all, having procured the salt fish, let it soak for several hours, placing it under the tap if possible and letting the water slowly run on to it. Should this, however, not be feasible, soak it in plenty of cold water, changing this fairly often and having the last water tepid. Then next it should be soaked in skimmilk or milk and water for several hours longer, soaking it in all for twenty-four hours. Having gone through this process, it should be simmered in half milk, half water, with a very little salt, and then it may be served with a variety of sauces. Often the fishmonger will claim that the fish has already been steeped. Should this be so the soaking in cold water may be omitted, but on no account should the steeping in milk and water be forgotten. Treated thus, the flesh will be white and firm and most palatable.

To Use Ham.

Sliced ham is more tender if it is baked than if fried. Cut a slice three-quarters of an inch thick, put it into a small enamel pan, turn three-quarters of a cupful of milk over it, cover and bake for an hour and a quarter, basting every fifteen minutes with milk.

For luncheon grind the ends of a boiled ham and mix it with a button onion that has been chopped fine and a little minced parsley. Put the mixture into a pan with a little butter and moisten with hot water or cream. Simmer four or five minutes and then heap on slices of toast.

For curly bacon cut it very thin and half cook it in boiling water, then curl it, fasten in shape with a toothpick and broil it over the fire.

A little grated American cheese mixed with minced ham used in sandwiches is delicious if the sandwich is fried brown and served very hot.

Cold ham is tasty if it is shredded and cooked in currant jelly sauce. Put a cupful of the shredded ham into a saucepan with a level tablespoonful of butter and half a cupful of currant jelly. As soon as the jelly and butter begin to bubble add four tablespoonfuls of sherry and a seasoning of paprika. Simmer the mixture about five or six minutes and serve with toast.

Flowers For Dinner Table.

From now until the close of the spring season there are no more attractive decorations of a simple order for the dinner or luncheon table than those of spring flowers arranged in attractive baskets. Charming baskets which are suitable for this purpose are to be had at many of the department stores and at the Japanese shops. The basket may be in any shape that is quaint or beautiful, and daffodils, cowslips, lilies of the valley and lilac branches look lovely when arranged in them. The bottom of the basket is filled with fresh damp moss and the stems of the flowers are thrust into this. If the flowers are to appear for a long time in public and there is danger of their wilting, the bottom of the basket may be fitted with a shallow pan filled with water and the flowers placed in this. The moss may then be tucked in around the stems of the flowers.

Genuine Southern Corn Bread.

To make the genuine southern corn bread it is essential to have the genuine southern cornmeal. If you can get the genuine meal, therefore (water ground), make your cake in this way: Beat two eggs very light. Add to them one pint sour milk or buttermilk and a pint of the meal. Melt a large tablespoonful of butter and add to the mixture, together with a tablespoonful of soda dissolved in a small portion of the measured out milk. Beat very hard and bake in well buttered pan in a quick oven.

Good Biscuit Recipe.

A never failing rule for biscuit calls for four cupfuls of flour, a tablespoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of salt, two rounded teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a piece of butter the size of an egg and two cupfuls of milk. After sifting the flour, salt, sugar and baking powder together rub the butter through the mixture and stir in the milk. Stir the batter as little as possible, only just enough to mix it. Bake in a quick oven and serve piping hot.

Raisin Puffs.

Cream one rounding tablespoonful of butter with one-quarter of a cupful of sugar, add one beaten egg in one-half a cupful of milk and three-quarters of a cupful of seeded and chopped raisins. Add lastly one cupful of flour sifted with a level teaspoonful of baking powder. Fill small buttered molds three-quarters full of the batter and steam for forty minutes. Serve with a liquid sauce.

THE CANTELOPERS

The musical comedy of the Pi Eta society, "The Cantelopers" to be presented at Quincy Music hall on Thursday evening will be in three acts, and will be a scream from first to last. A part of the argument is given, and promises something rich:

The scene is laid in the army barracks of a small western frontier town. At a dance, Major Pondsby, commander of the post, expresses his love for Juliet Marlow Wells, the widow's daughter; and Longstreet Pondsby, strange as it may seem falls in love with Juliet's mother, Mrs. Henrietta Saxon Wells, a widow. To add to these matrimonial complications, the major's daughter Martha and the widow's son Hunting are contemplating marriage. Artemus Poindexter Hopper, a deaf and wealthy middle-aged man, is continually showered, much to his discomfiture, with amorous glances and love taps of Mollicule Hepsipah Kennedy, an old maid. In the midst of this matrimonial confusion, Jed Nevins, a stage driver, relates the story of his courages escapade with the Indians, who have started on the warpath.

In spite of these serious frontier conditions, the major persuades Juliet to elope with him on Jed's stage the next day. Likewise, Longstreet and the widow determine to elope scretly on the same stage, and finally, Mollicule persists in following Hopper, who has been attracted to the gay city life to spend his surplus cash.

English Lord's Daughter Weds English Rajah

FEW stories more dramatic than the history of Rajah James Brooke have ever been told. The story has been revived by a recent fashionable wedding in London. The marriage was that of the Hon. Sylvia Brett, daughter of Lord and Lady Esher, and Charles Vyner Brooke, the son and heir of Rajah Charles Brooke.

James Brooke was an Englishman who went to Borneo in the first quarter of the last century. He was struck by the beauty of the islands in the Indian archipelago, and the ferocity and savage customs of the natives appealed to his English fighting blood. On his return to England he spoke so eloquently of the lands he had visited and the sights he had seen that the Baroness Burdett-Coutts financed an expedition for him.

He fitted out the yacht Royalist and set sail for Borneo, arriving there to find that the sultan of Borneo was struggling to quell a rebellion among the savage tribes of Sarawak, one of his provinces. Brooke offered to aid the sultan, and his campaign against the rebels was successful. The grateful sultan then offered the territory of Sarawak to Brooke with the title of rajah.

It may not have been entirely gratitude that suggested the offer, as it is possible that the sultan decided that the Englishman was a handy person to have around when trouble broke out. Brooke accepted the offer and assumed the reigns of government over 300 square miles of territory, with a population of a few thousands, most of them savage Dyaks.

His territory was gradually increased until today the English rajah rules

a tract of 50,000 square miles, about the same area as Wales and Scotland. The receipts of the government are $750,000 a year, a part of which is spent for the maintenance of a small army equipped with modern weapons.

Gradually Rajah Brooke turned chaos into order. He developed a wonderful fact for governing savages. He carried civilization into the jungles, stopped head hunting and put down piracy. The United States recognized his government, and England later followed suit. Indeed, the country is now a British protectorate.

Brooke established his own monetary system, the coins having his name and his profile on one side. The coinage was based on the English system, the smallest coin, the one shown in the accompanying picture, being a penny. Business flourished under Brooke's mild but firm control.

Cloves, nutmegs, cinnamon, cocoanuts, rice and sago are the principal exports, though the country is rich in gold, antimony and nickel, and diamonds and other precious stones have been found.

Rajah Brooke died in 1868, and his nephew, Charles Brooke, succeeded him as rajah, and Charles Brooke's handsome profile supplanted his uncle's on the Sarawak money. He is still the rajah, so that these two Englishmen have controlled the destinies of Sarawak for nearly three-fourths of a century. The present rajah was knighted by Queen Victoria in 1888.

Before succeeding his uncle the present rajah, who was born in 1829, had spent many years in Borneo and had taken an active part in enforcing law and order. He had previously been an officer in the British navy, resigning his commission to take service with his uncle. Though his official home is at Sarawak, formerly called Kuching, the capital of his country, he maintains establishments in London and near Genoa, Italy.

The younger Brooke, just married, has the title of Rajah Muda, and he represents his father when the rajah is absent. He was born in 1874, and since he was twenty-three years old he has spent most of his time in Borneo, having led many expeditions into the interior of the island to punish head hunters.

Complimentary Banquet to Veterans of Civil War

REMINISCENCES BY COL. ANDERSON

At Reception of Wollaston Congregational Club Last Evening

Delightful Occasion for Veterans and Members

Fifty years were rolled back and homage was paid to the "Boys of 61" with a reception to the Civil War veterans of Ward Five and invited guests tendered by the Wollaston Congregational Men's club in the church vestries on Tuesday evening.

The meeting brought out the fact that there are 26 survivors of the War of the Rebellion residing in Wollaston at present. Of these 22 were present and added to the special guests made a grand showing.

The events of the evening will live long in the memories of those present, both from the stirring words of the speakers, the inspiring music and the sentiment of associations aroused. The walls were decked with the colors of "old glory" and bunting of red, white and blue. Stacked muskets were placed at convenient places around the room as were timeworn mementoes of the war.

Shortly after 6.30 those present sat down to an appetizing menu consisting of hot roast beef, potato, string beans, rolls, whipped cream custards, hard tack, cheese and coffee.

At each place was a minature flag for the label, while squares of hard tack reminded the "boys" of the days gone by. The souvenirs of the occasion had a striking cover of the National colors and contained the names of the Wollaston veterans and special guests. Flags also formed the table decorations.

Following the supper a brief business meeting was held in which the annual reports of the treasurer, Fred L. Eastman and George B. Curran for the nominating committee were read and accepted. In the absence of President Chester N. Godfrey, E. S. Tenney, vice president presided.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Chester N. Godfrey
Vice President—E. S. Tenney.
Secretary—William A. Mann.
Treasurer—Fred L. Eastman.
Chairman Benevolent Committee—George B. Curran.

A memorial of J. Hawes Roberts, recently deceased and a member of the club from its inception was read by Rufus B. Tobey, and adopted.

An invitation to the next meeting of the Wollaston Methodist club was read while C. J. Hogue made reference to Cooperatice bank shares in paying off the debt on the parsonage.

Chairman Tenney after a word of welcome turned the evening over to the entertainment committee composed of Rufus B. Tobey, Charles L. Seavey and Amos T. Leavitt, the first named acting as master of ceremonies

APPROVED BY MAYOR

Trolley Freight Branch Order Is Signed

The controversy over granting the street railway a location for a branch-off track on Washington street, about which so much has been published and over which the City Council has spent hours in debate, reached its final stage this morning, when Mayor Shea placed his signature of approval to the order granting the location.

The City Council papers reached the Mayor's office at 9 o'clock this morning, and at 10.55 the Mayor dated and affixed his signature to the engrossed order, by which action it became a law.

The order covers all the law allows, but in addition to this are letters from P. F. Sullivan, president of the company, addressed to the Committee on Streets, agreeing to pave the street with vitrified brick, from a point five feet south of the southerly line for a distance of 135 feet in a northerly direction. The company also agreed, at the request of the committee, that cars should be preceded by a man with a red flag in the day time and with a red lantern at night, when entering or leaving the station.

It is also agreed that the yard shall not be used for the storage of construction material and that the branch-off track shall be used for trolley freight cars only.

The old buildings on the lot are to be torn down and a substantial and ornamental concrete building erected.

"Finnigan's fortune" the play given by the Norfolk Social club at Atlantic Music hall was very successfully produced. Several of those taking part showed remarkable talent and all did very well. The leading parts were taken by Donald Welch and Frank Doring as Mr. and Mrs. Finnigan.

SUDDEN DEATH HOUGHS NECK

Retired in Good Health but Died in Sleep

Mrs. W. H. Stuart of 223 Rock Island road was found dead this morning. She went to bed as usual Tuesday night and when her daughters went to call her about 7.30 A. M. could not rouse her. A medical examiner was sent for immediately. It is thought that heart trouble was the cause of her death. Besides her husband, William H. Stuart she leaves two daughters, Mrs. A. M. Hinds and Miss Alice E. Stuart, and two sons G. P. Rupert of Forest Hills and W. H. Rupert who is at present in Canada. All have been notified.

Mrs. Stuart's death is a terrible shock to not only her relatives, but all her friends and neighbors, for she as seen out in her apparently usual good health Tuesday evening. Mrs. Stuart was secretary of the Ladies' Aid society of the Associates. She was one of the most popular and well liked persons at Houghs Neck.

The annual banquet and entertainment of the Granite City club is on the calendar for tonight at Colonial hall. C. C. Whittemore serves the banquet at 6.30, and during the feast George Monk with his orchestra will enliven the occasion with music. After the banquet a corps of artists will occupy the platform for an hour or more with a first class entertainment.

STONE CUTTERS HAVE FLAG RAISING

Sash and Belt Presented by Friends to Orderly Sergeant Charles F. Pray

Fourth Massachusetts Regiment Complimented at Fort Munroe

(Quincy in the Civil War No. 13)

(By Frank Fisher Prescott.)

While the Quincy company was at Fortress Monroe awaiting an attack or orders to move forward, there were many stirring times at home, as will be seen from the files of the Quincy Patriot, and three events are reprinted today.

Patriotic Demonstration.

The raising of a large Union flag took place at the office of the Granite Railway Company on Monday, April 22, 1861.

There were present about 500 people, of whom nearly 300 were stone cutters and quarrymen.

George Penniman, Esq., a member of the firm, having been called for a few remarks, but being as he said "not a talking man" soon vacated the stand in favor of SETH DEWING, Esq., who was received with hearty cheers."

Mr. Dewing's address was short, but patriotic and inspiring, which with National airs from the QUINCY BAND, who kindly volunteered their services, the continued firing of guns, and repeated cheers from the crowd tended to arouse the most enthusiastic feeling—thus proving but another instance of that strong and steadfast PATRIOTISM, which moves the whole North to rise as one man, in defence of our glorious Union.

Orderly Sergeant Pray.

The Quincy Patriot of April 27, 1861, said:

"A paper has been circulated by Erastus M. Glover of this town, and a very pretty sum raised for the purpose of purchasing a sash and belt which are to be presented to Charles F. Pray, who left as a private in the Quincy company of the Fourth Massachusetts, M. V. M., for Fort Monroe, and has since been promoted to orderly sergeant. This testimony although small in a pecuniary point of view, will testify, in no slight measure, the regard and love which his associates in this town bear toward him."

Co. H Noble Fellows.

The Providence Journal of April, 1861, in writing of the Massachusetts troops says:

"We learn that when the Massachusetts troops arrived at Fort Monroe the commander of the fort was moved to tears. He exclaimed to their colonel (Abner B. Packard of Quincy) in Heavens name where did who took a roll call of the veterans after which war songs were sung.

REMINISCENCES

A short intermission was taken while tables were cleared and old familiar bugle calls were given on the graphophone.

Rufus B. Tobey in calling the meeting to order spoke of the deep debt of gratitude we owed the veterans for an experience that would not again come into our lives.

Frederick H. Bishop, the youngest of the veterans present sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," those present joining in the chorus. Mr. Bishop joined the ranks as a drummer boy at the age of 14, and after serving four years was not old enough to be admitted to the regular army.

Next came a solo by William E. Howard, son of S. F. Howard a veteran, accompanied by Leon F. Besse.

Frank F. Prescott of the Daily Ledger was then introduced by Mr. Tobey as a "minute man of 1911." Mr. Prescott stated that since the grand testimonial to the veterans in City Hall considerable patriotism had been awakened in Quincy.

The speaker gave credit to Mr. Tobey for inspiration and help at a time when it was not sure that the Quincy meeting would be a success.

"It is an honor," said Mr. Prescott, "to be introduced as a minute man and if it is true it is but in keeping with the Prescott's of old for Samuel Prescott spread the alarm from Lexington to Concord in 1775 while Colonel William Prescott was the hero of Bunker Hill, 136 years ago.

Company H of the Fourth Massachusetts was a fine company and I am glad to see one member of it here tonight. I wish the veterans many more years of health and comfort.

Fifty years ago Wollaston was a dream. Were you to see a map of 1857 you would be surprised. At that time there was but one house west of the railroad, the one now occupied by Dr. Record. On the east it was about the same, there being not over a dozen houses between the High school and Squantum street.

It is the work of the veterans that made possible a beautiful suburb like Wollaston. I hope that they can be given a banquet every year and that in the invitation will include all the Grand Army veterans in Quincy. It would be nice to hold it earlier in the afternoon in order that the veterans who are not able to venture out in the evening might be present.

It would be an excellent idea to have a banquet after the customary Memorial Day exercises to be followed by addresses. I hope that the club will go on record in regard to the order for the relocation of the Soldiers' monment now before the City Council.

It is an honor to be minute man whether of '65 or 1911 and the need is as great today as 50 years ago when men were wanted to give service.

COL. ANDERSON.

"Silver threads among the gold" was sung by those present, after which Colonel Edward Anderson of Quincy was introduced.

There has never been a great reformation but what it has been lead by some person whom God seems to have brought up from the bottle.

Mentioning Washington as a representative from marble halls fitted to cope with the powers and with a blood that was blue and capable of saying I will have it thus and so because I will it, Colonel Anderson spoke of Lincoln coming from a log hut in Kentucky to settle a conflict between brothers.

While the first attended the accouchement of the nation, the second cemented it. To setle the strife of a bloodthirsty nation with a blotted escutcheon and bring about the unity of the country God raised up Abraham Lincoln.

The training of the boys of that day was touched upon and the control of the government by the Southerners was described which came about simply because they had the leisure to do it while the Northern men were busy with agriculture, commerce and manufactures.

Colonel Anderson told of his heading a body of men who went to Kansas to support John Brown at the time of the Kansas- Nebraska bill and Dred Scott decision.

He told of his first and accidental meeting with John Brown on a quiet Sunday morning in Kansas. Personal reminiscences of John Brown and Lincoln were related at length and the army of '61 was described.

While we are now white on the head, said the speaker and most of us part our hair with a towel, when the fight was on we were not old men.

In illustration of the bravery of the man who don't know, and the man who realizes the danger but faces it, Colonel Anderson had many interesting stories to tell. His description of a battle with the roar of the great guns, shrieking of shells, zipping of bullets, the uncertainty in the blaze and smoke, the cry of the horses and the shouts of wounded comrades brought in a slight measure the realization of the terrors and hardships of war. The awful powder thirst that comes with the nitre filled air.

Colonel Anderson drew a striking contrast between the desolation in the South at the end of the war and its present prosperity.

In closing he paid a tribute to the nations flag which he said represented all that was dearest, truest and best among us. In the presence of the flag well may we doff our hats, get down on our knees and pray to it if we will, for behind it is all we hold dear, our manufactures, our commerce, our inventions, our schools colleges, churches, home everything we love.

Well may ge doff our hats when the Star Spangled Banner is sung said the speaker as he closed with a verse from this well known anthem.

The meeting closed with the singing of America after the following resolution had been voted:

"Resolved: That the Wollaston Congregational club at a special meeting to the Grand Army Veterans held April 25, 1911, do heartily endorse the movement to relocate the soldiers monument now in Mount Wollaston Cemetery and the proposed site at the entrance to said cemetery seems a very desirable one."

Mrs. Wait of Cohoes, New York in relating the progress of the Saturday club which has from the beginning of literary study merged into an active organization made many good points in her report. She said in part: "Being a club woman means more than responding to the roll call. It means active participation in matters of vital interest and importance; for women's clubs are powerful factors in the world, and through them women have unfolded until there is a more thorough understanding of themselves and a higher appreciation of their possibilities as workers. Whatever helped the individual benefits the home, and what benefits the home must aid in the great plan of betterment for all mankind."

Wednesday afternoon, May 3rd, the Mothers' Association will hold its meeting in Bethany church. The speaker is to be Dr. William J. McCausland of Quincy. He will speak upon the care of children. One of his topics will be, "How a mother should care for the eyes, ears and nose of her child." He will also speak upon digestion, exercise, school-life of the child, and infectious diseases. There is no doubt that a large number of women in our city will be glad to learn what Dr. McCausland can teach them. It is a great opportunity to receive expert advice upon these subjects. There is no admission fee and all women are welcome.

Having failed to convince the public that woman suffrage would improve politics the suffragists have appealed to wage-earning women with the promise that the vote would mean bigger wages and better working conditions. Here again is a promis which cannot be carried out.

If women toilers had the vote, their wages, like those of men would be determined as heretofore, by such matters as the degree of their skill, the extent of their experience, the strength of their labor unions, and the law of supply and demand. As for factory conditions, (which, unlike wages, can be really modified by legislation,) one of the most startling and illuminating discoveries to any one who really looks into the facts bearing on woman suffrage, is that the laws protecting women workers are much more advanced in those states where women do not vote, than in those where they do. In the suffrage State of Colorado, there is no law preventing women from being employed seven days or seven nights a week; and its chief law regulating the hours of womens work in factories is practically worthless since it applies only to women who stand at their work, and most of the manufacturing in that State is done by women seated.

This is the best that eighteen years' possession of the vote has done for the factory girls of Colorado. Contrast the adjoining non-suffrage State of Nebraska, where women may not be employed at night, and are ensured one day of rest in each week. One of the best of these laws has been enacted in Oregon, which last Fall defeated the suffrage proposition by the largest majority it ever cast against it. Is it not clear what a false bait suffragists are holding out to the wage-earning women? In States where her similarity to man is emphasized by making her a voter, she is dealt with on equal terms with her male competitor; in States where being neither a Democrat, nor a Republican, she is regarded simply as a woman, she has succeeded in obtaining laws which discriminate in her favor on grounds of sex. Thus the really practical way to improve the condition of the working woman is to continue such efforts as have brought success; while the worst way is to disregard her womanhood.

It is, in fact, just because suffragists ignore what womanhood really means, that their particular method of reform is futile. The problems of the nation will in the end be solved, not by the making of laws, but by the moulding of the personal character of its people. And the most powerful influence on character is the home. In ennobling its life, in applying to it ever increasing knowledge and refinement, in making it a better place for the rearing of the bodies, minds and characters of its children, woman does what man cannot do, and, cooperating with nature, fulfils her peculiar national mission.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

The last meeting before the annual of the Quincy Women's club was held Tuesday afternoon at the club house, Mrs. H. J. Gurney president presiding. Following the usual report of the secretary there were brief reports from committees.

Mrs. Mackay said she was revising the preference list of department work and would send out postals asking members to express the line of club work in which they were most interested. Hoped members would think it over and be prepared to answer promptly.

Mrs. Conway of the Exchange department expressed the appreciation of her committee for the support received and presented the club with an umbrella rack.

The amendment of Mrs. Sanborn, read at the last meeting relating to incorporating the club was discussed after details in favor had been presented by Mrs. Sanborn and was referred to the president and the two secretaries for further consideration and to be more fully presented to the executive board and the club at the annual meeting.

Attention was called to the payment of dues for 1911-1912. They are now due and must be paid before the next meeting if club members desire to retain membership.

The program opened as usual with music and the club had the pleasure of listening to a favorite soloist and former club member Mrs. James H. Slade, who was accompanied by Mrs. Percy Bennett a club member. Mrs. Slade sang delightfully and was so enthusiastically applauded that two responses were given and more would have been enjoyed.

Mrs. John F. Welch chairman of the Visiting Nurse committee introduced the speaker Dr. George L. Cady of Pilgrim church Dorchester who spoke on "The Golden Age." He said we all dream of the golden age. The socialist dreams of the day when all things will be equally divided but personally he was a remonstrator not a socialist, one cannot study social conditions and not protest. To see life capped at foundation to build up a nation, children only half born because mothers had to toil in factories and 10 per cent of those who die in New York City buried in paupers graves, makes one ask, Is that right?

Socialists are sincere and the best read men of the day but they have no program and do not reckon with human nature. It is instinct to work and strive, and if each reaped the same reward for his labors it would kill every spark of life and manhood —all men have not the same earning capacity—every one generally speaking rises or falls to their level. A king in a hovel would make that hovel a palace and a pig in a palace would make it a pigsty. It would be individuality not environment.

But there was much work to be done by the social worker so that property should not be considered first and man second. The one great thing was for all to be united for the people.

LOOKING OVER UNION BOOKS

Court Orders Seizure of More Iron Workers' Documents

DYNAMITE INQUIRY IS BEGUN

Attorneys For Labor Men Protest In Vain Against Removal of Records—Burns and Others Bound Over to Grand Jury on Warrants Charging Kidnapping In Connection With the Arrest of McNamara

Indianapolis, April 26.—The Marion county grand jury has started its examination of the records which were seized after a subpoena served on President Ryan of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers to produce the books before the grand jury has been ignored.

An order issued by Judge Markty in criminal court bars private detectives and "unofficial investigators" from examining the documents of the union, but permits the association officials to see the records in the presence of members of the grand jury or prosecutor.

This action was taken on application of attorneys for the association and with the approval of the county prosecutor. A part of the books and papers were seized by the police last Saturday night in a raid on the offices led by Burns. The raid followed the arrest of John J. McNamara, secretary and treasurer of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' union, indicted in Los Angeles for complicity in an explosion at the Llewellyn Iron Works.

Superintendent of Police Hyland was summoned with these books and papers before the grand jury and afterward a summons was issued for Frank M. Ryan, president of the Iron Workers' association, ordering him to produce certain other records. Ryan failed to appear and by order of the grand jury deputy sheriffs went to the office building with a wagon and hauled the documents to the courthouse. It was announced that the grand jury at present did not care to examine Ryan as a witness.

Attorneys for the Iron Workers' association, who strongly protested against the removal of the records, frankly said that their purpose in asking the court for the order granted by Markey was to prevent examination of the books by Detective Burns and his assistants and by Walter Drew, chief counsel for the National Erectors' association.

Walter Drew of New York, counsel for the National Erectors' association; W. J. Ford, assistant district attorney of Los Angeles, and Frank Fox, a chauffeur, charged with having kidnapped John J. McNamara were arraigned yesterday before Justice of the Peace Manning. They waived examination and were bound over to the grand jury.

William J. Burns, the detective employed by the Erectors' association, who arrived in this city from Toledo, was sought by constables with a warrant for his arrest on the charge of kidnapping McNamara, but they could not find him. The bond to hold Drew, Ford and Fox for the grand jury was set by the justice at $10,000 each for Drew and Ford and $5000 for Fox.

Burns was arrested last night as he was going to the court of Justice of the Peace Manning to surrender. He was released under $10,000 bonds to appear before the grand jury. He was subpoenaed to testify today.

County Prosecutor Baker appointed a special deputy, Henry Seyfried, to prosecute the cases. The general charge against the men is that they conspired to take McNamara out of the state "without due process of law." It is alleged McNamara did not have an opportunity to consult counsel and resist extradition after his arrest last Saturday evening. After Governor Marshall had honored requisition papers for McNamara, Police Judge Collins turned him over to Police Sergeant Hossick of Los Angeles. He was put into an automobile driven by Fox and taken to Chicago, bound for Los Angeles to answer an indictment charging him with complicity in a dynamite explosion at the Llewellyn Iron Works. The affidavits against Drew, Ford and Fox were made by J. J. Keagan, a labor union leader of Indianapolis and member of the Indiana legislature.

They were guarded by eight detectives from Chicago, Los Angeles and a private agency. No one was permitted to enter the compartments.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

MAY MEAN PARTY SPLIT

Regulars and Insurgents In Senate Fail to Get Together

Washington, April 26.—Differences between the regular and insurgent Republican senators over the organization of committees appear far from being healed, and a caucus called for this afternoon to consider the assignments agreed upon by the committee on committees may develop an absolute party break.

Two sessions of the committee were held yesterday, and the regulars positively declined to meet insurgent demands. The regulars have a large majority in the caucus, and it is not improbable that the insurgents may carry their demandss to the floor of the senate, which leaders in both factions admit would bring about a party split.

BERLIN PAPERS AGITATED

Think That France Wants to Occupy Morocco Permanently

Berlin, April 26.—The foreign office has assumed an attitude of reserve regarding developments in Morocco, but the press generally concludes that the situation at Fez does not justify the march thither of French troops, and intimates that France is forcing an occasion to occupy Morocco permanently.

This action, it is pointed out, goes beyond the Algeciras agreement, and several papers suggest that a new conference be held, at which the positions of the three interested powers—Germany, France and Spain—be "reregulated."

The Pan-German league demands the partition of Morocco, Germany to receive the Atlantic coast.

EAGLES CARRY OFF VALUABLE SHEEP

Decend on Animals While In Pasture In Berkshire

Lenox, Mass., April 26.—Two Egyptian sheep valued at $100 each, while out in a pasture at Ashintully Farm, Robb De Peyster Tytus' estate in Tyringham, were carried off by two immense American eagles that swooped down upon them. The eagles arose high in the air and shot southward over Tyringham mountain.

The sheep were imported by Tytus from Egypt when he was over there excavating in the palace of Rameses 2d. They are said to have descended from a flock kept by the ancient kings of Egypt.

This is the first time eagles have ever been known to carry off Berkshire sheep.

LICENSE FOR DRINKERS

How a Pennsylvania Solon Would Increase State Revenues

Harrisburg, April 26.—Representative Knight of Clarion county has come forward with a unique revenue raiser. He is drafting a bill requiring every man and woman who desires to drink vinous, spirituous, malt or brewed liquors in Pennsylvania to take out an annual license at a cost of $5.

Knight figures that there are at least 1,000,000 out of the state's 9,000,000 people who would want such a license and that therefore the revenue would be $5,000,000 a year.

His bill would prohibit the issuance of licenses to habitual drunkards and would make it a misdemeanor to serve intoxicating drinks to anyone who did not have a tippler's license.

BOOM FORMALLY LAUNCHED

Promoters Name Committee to Press Harmon's Candidacy In 1912

Washington, April 26.—The presidential boom for Governor Harmon of Ohio was formally organized when Senator Pomerene announced the personnel of the committee on ways and means and resolutions, which will press Harmon's candidacy for the nomination in 1912.

The former committee is headed by Representative Cox, while Representative Denver is chairman of the resolutions committee. Other members of the Ohio delegation in congress complete the personnel of the two committees.

BALLINGER MEN ALL OUT

Last of Force Under Former Secretary of Interior Has Resigned

Washington, April 26.—With the resignation of Edward C. Finney as chief law officer of the reclamation service, to take effect May 1, practically all the officials in the interior department, whose names figured prominently during the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation, now have severed their connection with the government service.

All the officials have resigned to engage in the practice of law.

Boston Has $50,000 Fire

Boston, April 26.—Firemen were forced to abandon ladders erected against the building, the crew of Engine 4 had to flee from under the falling third floor, and a damage of about $50,000 was done at a three-alarm fire last night in a building on Friend street occupied by Miller & Goldberg, dealers in picture frames.

HOUSEHOLD LETTER.

Domestic Revolution of 1911.

Not every woman realizes that a revolution is surely taking place in all matters that effect the running of the home. One of the most marked features of this movement to make conditions satisfactory for the housekeeper is the interest recently displayed by the State Federations of Women's Clubs.

EXPERIMENT STATIONS.

In several states, notably in New Jersey, and Connecticut, Experiment Stations have been established for trying out labor-saving machines of all sorts, and testing various food preparations. Hundreds of inventions have been patented for lightening the labor of dish washing, cleaning, cooking, etc., but only a few are adequate for the demands made upon them, or are built on a scale that fits them for average homes. Many labor-saving machines are so large and expensive that they are suited only for hotels and clubs where they have long been installed, others are too complicated in their construction, so are easily put out of order and rendered useless.

THE AVERAGE HOUSEKEEPER has neither time nor money to use in finding out which of these inventions will lighten her labors and give her the leisure she covets for reading and social intercourse. She reads about the proper proportion of proteids and other elements that should be supplied by her table if her family is to be properly nourished, but without any special training in domestic science most of such information fails to give her practical help in laying out her table money to the best advantage.

THE CLUB WOMAN.

Just here the Club Experiment Stations step in. Manufacturers with meritorious articles that they wish to sell to women are only too glad to send a sample to the station free of charge knowing that, if it stands the test and is endorsed, Club women all over the state—and their non-clubable friends—will be informed of the fact, and will buy when they are assured of the value of the machine, food or other domestic article. Women can consult the committee in charge about any domestic problem and get practical trustworthy information. On the other hand manufacturers will, it is hoped, learn from the reports of the club stations just what sort of articles are most likely to answer the requirements of the women in their home state and presumably those of others all over the country.

NINETY PER CENT.

Ninety per cent of the women in this country do their own work, and are vitally interested in any machinery to lighten their labor, or save the drain upon the husbands earnings made by the increased cost of all kinds of commodities. The study of expense is a feature of prime importance, that is embodied in all reports made from the new stations. Just as the sewing machine has superseded hand labor in the making of clothes, will other household machinery do away with domestic drudgery.

THE OBSOLETE BROOM.

The vacuum cleaner is the most important labor-saving device for the home that has so far been produced by man's ingenuity and the time is not far distant when the broom and other dust-raising instruments will be as obsolete as the farmers handscythe. In the quaint little city of Rahway, New Jersey, whose history dates back to Revolutionary days a community of master workmen engaged in making famous music baxes, have now turned their skill to making Regina vacuum cleaners. When one can procure a double suction hand operated cleaner, so simple in construction that there is nothing to get out of order for less than the cost of labor for one Spring housecleaning, that uncomfortable function will soon be unnecessary.

IN LARGE COMMUNITIES.

In communities large enough to support them, laundries and bakeries do much to ease the burden of the housekeeper, but in more sparsely settled sections, each family must depend upon its own resources. Intelligent women are making use of every domestic appliance that will help their business of home running. Motors of various sorts are used to run churns, as well as threshing machines, and dish-washing is made easy by a contrivance that not only cleans the dishes and utensils, but does away with dish towels since the dishes dry themselves perfectly.

Eleanor Frances.

Hiram A. Hayden, formerly employed in the Daily Ledger office has recently made a change from Pennville, Ind., to Fort Wayne, Ind. He is now located with the Fort Wayne Printing Co., which makes a specialty of bank printing, taking orders from all parts of the country. It is a pleasure to note that Mr. Hayden is making good, and that he is interested in church work, the Masons and the Odd Fellows.

WOMENS CLUBS

There was much to make club members stop and think over the conditions today as presented by Dr. Cady and he had the closest attention throughout. All regretted that there had to be an end to his lecture and the applause was loud and prolonged.

The Education committee held a sale of maybaskets and homemade candy after the meeting which was well patronized by club members and children, netting a good sum for the summer school work.

QUINCY ALLIANCE.

The beautiful spring day brought out a large attendance of members for the closing meeting of Quincy Alliance on Monday afternoon. There were the usual devotional exercises and business followed by annual reports from the officers and committees. These were very interesting as showing the work of the year along all lines.

Busines closed with the report of the nominating committee and the election of the following officers:

President—Mrs. George G. Saville.

First Vice President—Mrs. William B. Nichols.

Second Vice President—Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis.

Corresponding Secretary — Mrs. Charles H. Johnson.

Treasurer—Mrs. Ralph L. Lovell.

Directors—Mrs. Edward B. Marsh, Miss Mary E. Nightingale, Mrs. Henry W. Tirrell, Mrs. John Christiansen, Miss Mary W. Holden, Miss Sophia W. French, Mrs. John D. Buckingham, Mrs. Russell C. Low, Mrs. John O. Holden and Mrs. John L. Gow.

The speaker of the afternoon was Rev. C. B. Ames, assistant pastor of First church. His subject was "The relation of the Church to Religion." At first thought it would seem that the church and religion were the same and inseparable, therefore one could not speak of their relation to each other, but Mr. Ames showed clearly that there was a difference.

His points were well taken and there was much food for thought. He was closely followed and his paper was one of the best given before the Alliance this season.

Mrs. Edward B. Marsh the retiring president said she had reached 'the end of the bridge." The two years of service as president of the Alliance had been happy ones and she extended her thanks and appreciation to each and every member for the most cordial support.

A vote of thanks was given Mrs. Marsh and the officers in appreciation of their services the past two years.

The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. E. Granville Pratt and Mrs. James Edwards. Hot cocoa was served and crackers, the pourers being Mrs. Pratt and Miss Lucy Spear.

—In the city of Chicago a widow was unable to support her children and they were taken away from her. She appealed to the authorities, and put forth an argument that will challenge consideration and discussion. It will cost the city, she says, $50 a month to take care of her children. If the city would give her a pension of $20 a month it would make it possible for her to keep her children with her, and at the same time save the city $30 a month. How far her claim is correct we do not know, but her argument is a novel and interesting one and its main idea has much to commend it. Why should the state break up a home and separate a family, if for the same amount of money given as a pension to the head of the family, it can keep the family intact, preserve the family relations and traditions, and escape a responsibility which it cannot fulfil so well as it can be fulfilled within the family circle?—Haverhill Gazette.

QUESTIONS PUT TO CARNEGIE

As to Relation With Trust Company Bearing His Name

HE MAKES CONTRADICTIONS

Did Not Promise to See Institution Through When State Banking Officials Were Considering Closing It—Robin's Counsel Says Convicted Banker Will Settle Up If Allowed Freedom on Suspended Sentence

New York, April 26.—Andrew Carnegie testified late yesterday afternoon before the grand jury as to his relations with the now defunct Carnegie Trust company.

In the collapse of the institution it is said that vast sums of money which Carnegie loaned it have been tied up, and it is believed that during the hour and ten minutes which he was before the grand jury he related some details of these loans and was asked to what extent he had promised further aid.

He was questioned in connection with the printed but unconfirmed statements that state banking department officials had hesitated to close the trust company when they first learned of the impairment of its capital, because of an understanding that Carnegie would see the institution safely through as a matter of personal sentiment.

It is understood that Carnegie in his testimony contradicted the rumor that he had made any such promises.

Counsel for Joseph G. Robin, convicted of larcenies which brought about the failure of the string of banks which included the Carnegie Trust company, and who is to appear for sentence next Thursday, told the district attorney that if his client were allowed his freedom on a suspended sentence he believes he would rehabilitate several of the banks which he had helped to wreck, and thereby save the money of depositors.

TRIAL IS DELAYED

Proceedings In Camorra Case May Be Transferred From Viterbo

Viterbo, Italy, April 26.—The trial of the Camorrists has been adjourned until Monday because of the illness of a juror who failed to appear when the session was to have been resumed yesterday. The man is said to be suffering from influenza.

The trial may be transferred to some other city because of dissatisfaction on the part of the jury. Early in the proceedings the members petitioned the court for an increase in the fees allowed them, but no response to their request has been made. Accordingly they are inclined to use obstructive measures. If one after another is taken sick no further progress can be made under the present circumstances.

LONDON BANKER ARRESTED

Said to Have Induced Deposit Just Before $2,495,000 Failure

London, April 26.—Alfred W. Carpenter, proprietor and manager of the Charing Cross bank, a private institution which closed its doors recently, was arrested yesterday, charged with obtaining money through false pretences. He was remanded in bail of $50,000.

Counsel for the public prosecutor's department mentioned in particular a case which he said was like others and had brought about the arrest of Carpenter. The defendant, he said, had induced C. H. Parker to deposit $2500 two days before the bank failed with a deficiency of $8,495,000.

TRIAL DATE NOT NAMED

Case of Littlefield, Supposed Slayer of Mother, Is Continued

Newport, R. I., April 26.—The case of Frank Littlefield, charged with the murder of his mother at Block island on April 12, was continued until next Tuesday, when a trial date will be assigned.

Mrs. Anne E. Littlefield, aged 72, was found dead at the foot of the cellar stairs in her home and, as a result of an investigation by the attorney general and the Providence police, her son, who is 45 years old, was arrested.

CHIEFS IN BOMB SCANDAL

H. G. Otis, Owner of The Times, and Detective W. J. Burns

FIGHT WITH PIRATES ON WRECKED SHIP

Try To Loot Vessel While Passengers Are Transferred

Shanghai, April 26.—According to passengers who were rescued from the Pacific Mail steamship Asia after the vessel was wrecked on Finger rock Sunday, the officers had to use their revolvers to keep a fleet of Chinese pirate craft at bay, while the passengers were being transferred.

Directly the Asia was abandoned the pirates looted her. It is estimated that the total loss of ship and cargo amounts to $1,500,000.

The passengers also relate that when Captain Gaukroyer of the Asia saw the rocks through the fog it was too late to save his vessel. He ordered full speed ahead with the object of diving the steamer firmly on the rocks in order to prevent her from sliding into deep water.

There was no panic, and the prompt action of the officers against the Chinese pirates seemed to restore the confidence of those on board.

WORLD'S HIGHEST BUILDING

New York City Is to Have a Fifty-Five-Story Structure

New York, April 26.—Plans were filed here by the Broadway-Park Place company for the construction at Broadway and Park place of the highest building in the world. From the curb to the apex of the tower it will stand 750 feet. There will be thirty stories in the main building and an additional twenty-five in the tower, fifty-five in all.

The highest building in the world now standing is the Metropolitan tower, 700 feet three inches, and the second highest, the Singer tower, 612 feet. The Eiffel tower, a skeleton steel structure, is not reckoned a building.

ANDERSON THE LATEST

Added to List of Those Mentioned For Ambassador to Germany

Washington, April 26.—Larz Anderson of Washington and Boston is one of twenty-two names before President Taft in connection with the ambassadorship to Germany to be made vacant by the resignation of David J. Hill. He was mentioned prominently for minister to Belgium some time ago, and it is generally expected that he may be sent abroad some time.

The White House put a quietus on the story that former Senator Beveridge would be sent to Berlin and was "hurrying to Washington" from Canada in connection with the appointment.

THE FIRST SUFFRAGETTE

Dr. Haupt Says She Was Eve, Who Took Adam's Backbone

Baltimore, April 26.—The original suffragette, according to Dr. Paul Haupt, professor of Semitic languages in Johns Hopkins university, was Eve, who dominated Adam and caused him to eat of the forbidden fruit.

"Some people think that when the Lord created Eve he took not only a rib from Adam, but also his backbone," says Haupt.

In Office Forty-Six Years

Roselle, N. J., April 26.—George W. Marlor, cashier and acting assistant treasurer of the United States sub-treasury in New York, died at his home here. He was just completing his forty-sixth year of service in the sub-treasury, having been appointed under President Lincoln.

FREE LIST BILL FOR FARMERS

Republicans Regard It As a Political Soothing Syrup

REDUCTION IN THE REVENUE

Claim That It Will Reach $10,000,000 With Prospect of Substantial Increase—Bill Reported Without Any Consideration—Interest of Everybody Will Be Subserved If There Shall Be Prompt Adjournment

Washington, April 26.—Republican members of the ways and means committee presented their minority report on the farmers' free list bill. Contempt for the Democratic measure is to be found in every line of the report.

"The pending bill," says the minority report, "was ordered reported not only without investigation, but without the semblance of consideration by the committee. It was stated in the committee that it would reduce revenue about $1,500,000 and it is now admitted that it will cut down the revenue by more than $10,000,000 and later admissions are likely substantially to increase this amount.

"The bill was christened by its authors 'The Farmers' Free List Bill,' and it represents a transparent attempt at the manufacture of political capital. In view of the title which its friends have given it, it would at least have been proper to investigate the effect it is likely to have upon the agricultural interests.

"The President of the United States," continues the report, " felt it his duty to call congress in special session to consider the Canadian reciprocity bill. That bill has already been acted upon by the house and instead of bringing forward tariff bills, ill considered or not considered at all, for the purpose of administering political soothing syrup to particular classes of population, the undersigned are of the opinion that the interests of the farmer and of everybody else will be subserved if the country is spared from the further political exploitation and further tariff legislation at the present time, and adjournment is taken after the reciprocity bill shall have been finally acted upon."

The debate promises to engage a large part of the membership of the house. More than fifty members have been promised an opportunity to speak. Attacking the bill, Representative Mann, the Republican leader, pointed out that the effect of removing the duty on agricultural implements may be entirely different from the expected result. The International Harvester company, he said, has large factories in Canada, France, Germany and Russia, and can ship into the United States free of duty agricultural implements manufactured cheaply abroad, without affecting the price paid by the American purchaser.

AS SUCCESSOR TO BROWN

Babcock Will Probably Be Named as Education Commissioner

Washington, April 26.—No consideration of the appointment of a successor to Elmer E. Brown, commissioner of the United States board of education, is likely to be given by President Taft for some time, as Brown will not leave Washington before July to succeed Henry M. McCrackin as chancellor of the University of New York.

The name of Kendrick C. Babcock, president of the University of Arizona, no doubt will be presented to the president at the proper time. Babcock has charge of the department of higher education in the bureau.

SERMON COMMENTS COST PASTOR $4000

Jury Renders Verdict Against Him In Slander Suit

New Haven, April 26.—Following a deliberation of about two hours, the jury in the superior court brought in a verdict for $4000 in the slander suit instituted by William Hassett of Wallingford against Rev. John H. Carroll, pastor of the Church of Holy Trinity of that place. The judgment is one of the largest ever given a plaintiff in a slander suit in Connecticut.

Hassett sued the pastor for $10,000 for utterances made in the pulpit of his church. Carroll accused Hassett, who was a member of the board of education, of housing some of the school children in rooms in which "a self-respecting pig would not live." He also said the schoolhouse was a "foul, ill-smelling building and that no one should send his child to it."

"I would not speak to him any more than I would a wolf," was another remark which the pastor was alleged to have made.

Father Carroll further accused Hassett, who is a coal merchant, of selling coal to the school whenever he wanted to, and accused him of not being fair in respect to bids for coal contracts.

FIRES PERHAPS SET

Forest Fires Which Start Simultaneously Burn Over Large Area

Plymouth, Mass., April 26.—Two forest fires were seen by the watchman in the lookout tower to start simultaneously, and for this reason believed to have been of incendiary origin, started near the Chiltonville grammar school yesterday afternoon and burned over 300 acres of valuable timber land worth thousands of dollars.

All the forest fire apparatus was called out and the blaze was diverted towards the commons, where it was finally extinguished. Much cord wood was destroyed.

Suicide In Police tSation

Providence, April 26.—Hanging by his suspenders to the cell door, the body of Jules Lagerquist, 47 years old, was found when an officer went to take the prisoner before the police court. Lagerquist had been locked up on a charge of drunkenness.

Fearful Ravages of Plague

London, April 26.—The official figures of the ravages of the bubonic plague in the central provinces of India show the appalling total of 95,884 deaths from the disease in March. The fatalities during February were 43,508.

FLAG RAISING

you get SUCH NOBLE LOOKING FELLOWS as these. He shook every man by the hand. That does not look much like jealousy between Regulars and Volunteers.

P. S.—Can any one now living tell more about the West Quincy flag raising or other flag raising and patriotic events of April or May, 1861?

Charles F. Pray was 27 when he responded as a Minute Man in Co. H, 4th Mass. Regt. He was a bootcutter by trade. He was mustered out July 22, 1861, but reenlisted for three years in 18th Regt., Co. K. Mustered in Aug. 24, 1861; promoted to 1st sergeant Aug. 1861; to sergeant major Jan. 1, 1862; to 2d lieutenant April 3, 1862. Wounded and taken prisoner at the second battle of Bull Run Aug. 30, 1862; exchanged Nov. 13, 1862. Promoted to captain Oct. 15, 1863. Killed near Petersburg, Va., June 3, 1864.

The editor of these war reminiscences has received copies of four letters written by Francis L. Souther while at the front, and also a letter from Horace O. Souther reporting his death, which will be published under the proper dates. Mr. Prescott hopes that copies of other letters from Quincy soldiers, especially in 1861, will be forwarded for publication in this column.

This series of Quincy in the Civil War began in the Daily Ledger of Monday, April 10, 1911, and has been continued daily. Back numbers of the paper can be obtained for a limited time.

BATTING HEROES ALWAYS POPULAR

Hard Hitters Make Themselves Solid With Baseball Fans.

PITCHERS ARE AN EXCEPTION.

Their Twirling Ability Is of More Value to the Team Than Their Stick Work. Hitting of Wagner, Cobb and Lajoie Make Them Heroes.

Speaking of baseball heroes, it is generally the pitcher who gathers in the largest number of laurels of any individual member of a team. He has more of an opportunity to distinguish himself individually than any other member of the team and is censured or praised in accordance with his work. His place on the team is held only by his pitching ability; his stick work is not considered if he is a great twirler. With other infield positions, however, it is slightly different.

A player must not only have the ability to cover his position well, but must have a batting eye as well. Both qualities come in for an equal share of consideration. For instance, Hans Wagner is a great shortstop, but a greater batter. It is phenomenal stick work that has made him a baseball idol. Larry Lajoie of the Cleveland team is another example. He has an enviable reputation as a second baseman, but his work at the bat has overshadowed it.

On the other hand, we find a man, like Hal Chase of the Yankees, whose work at the initial sack has been responsible for his success on the diamond. Chase is a fair hitter, but had it not been for his phenomenal work in the field he would probably not be so famous.

There are scores of such cases in the infield, where a man's reputation as a ball player is based on either his fielding or batting ability. With the outfield, however, it is different. Outfielders, of course, must be able to field a ball, but their main qualification must be their ability to hit. All outfielders who have achieved great reputations have invariably been great sluggers. A glance over the roster of the big league teams today will bear out this statement.

Ty Cobb of the Detroit Tigers is undoubtedly the best known outfielder in the American league. His average last season was by no means the best, with fourteen errors in 137 games and a percentage of .957, but he stood at the head of both leagues in his stick work, with an average of .385. Speaker of Boston fell slightly below Cobb both in fielding and batting, his later average being .340, which would make him a desirable addition to any team. Oldring of the Athletics is another star. He led the league in fielding with an average of .978, making only six errors in 134 games and a batting average of .308.

It is such men as these that retain their positions on a team, not for their ability to cover ground and catch a fly ball, but for their work at bat. They are the main factors in the offensive work of the team and occupy obscure positions on the defensive, and for this reason the personnel of the outfield is always a strong pennant factor.

For the Children

A Baby Giraffe Which Was Born In America.

How many people have ever seen a baby giraffe? Very few at the best. In all there have been only four baby giraffes born in the western hemisphere; three of these were born at the Cincinnati zoological garden. The first two lived but a short time, but the third one, which was born Sept. 1, 1910, in the Cincinnati garden, is still alive and is one of the prettiest little animals that you might wish to see.

Giraffes can utter no sound—they are mutes—but the two old giraffes looked on the young one with eyes as full of expression and appreciation as if they had human intelligence, and one scarcely seemed to notice that they made no sound whatever.

The picture shows the little giraffe when it was two days old. It was then five feet one inch in height and weighed about ninety pounds. It began to grow right away, so that at the age of about four months it measured six feet six inches. That certainly is a marvelous growth, and a boy or girl who would grow over a foot in four or five months would be considered a most unusual phenomenon. When we stop to think, however, that the old giraffe is almost fourteen feet high and can reach a foot or two farther by straightening out its head and neck, it is easy to see that the baby giraffe has to do some growing to catch up with its father and mother.—St. Nicholas.

Told by a Bird.

To say "A little bird told me" is a common way of getting out of telling the real way information is obtained. Little birds have, however, told important stories sometimes by means of notes fastened about their legs or necks. The birds most often employed for this purpose are pigeons, but a well known tiding was once carried by a seagull.

Over twenty years ago a large ocean steamer, Atlantis, which ran between Liverpool and Calcutta, was lost. No message was ever received from her but one, and this was found some five months after she had started on her last voyage, tied about the neck of a seagull in the Indian sea. The note read: "Atlantis struck on the Harad rock. We are all lost. Father Coathe." No trace of the wreck or its crew ever came to light, nor was it known who "Father Coathe" was.

An Intelligent Pussy.

A young lady bookkeeper in Boston has been in the habit for some time of giving the office cat a piece of meat for her lunch every day, precaution being taken to lay down a piece of paper to prevent the meat greasing the floor. The other day at lunch hour, when the young lady happened to have no meat in her basket, pussy begged for some in her most intelligent fashion. Finding no meat coming, the cat ran to the wastebasket, dragged out a newspaper and laid it on the floor at the young lady's feet. This appeal was so touching that the young lady went out and bought meat for the intelligent animal.

A Storehouse.

In the old birds' nests that are placed near the ground in shrubs and small trees close to hazelnut bushes and bittersweet vines in the country you will often find a handful of hazelnuts or bittersweet berries. They were put there by the white footed mice and the meadow mice that visit these storehouses regularly. A white footed mouse will often cover a bird's nest with fine dried grass and inner bark and make a nest for itself.

Harry and the Searchlight.

Harry, a six-year-old, was greatly excited over his first trip on a steamboat, and his father allowed him to stay on deck with him for awhile in the evening. His attention was at once directed to the light of the searchlight moving to and fro. Excitedly he grasped his father's hand and said: "Daddy, look! There must be a happy comet near here. See how he wags his tail."

Strange Sights.

Tell me, did you ever see
Monkeys climb a banian tree?
Banian trees, perhaps you know,
On the nursery floor can grow.
Troops of monkeys half the day
In the great wide branches play.
Frolic and make friends with you—
If your aunty tells them to!

I've had measles, so, you see,
Aunty comes and plays with me.
Aunty makes a lion roar
Right behind the nursery door,
Makes an elephant poke his head
Through the window near my bed,
Makes the nursery somehow look
Like a lovely picture book.
—Francis Banine in Youth's Companion.

THE SPRING REVUE A GREAT HIT

"Her First Case" and "A Large Order" Two of the Best Numbers

Miss E. Edna Spry Very Popular in Her Solos

A production worthy many of the Boston theatrical houses was given at Quincy Music hall Wednesday evening by the members of the "Revue Company" of the Men's Club of Christ church, known as the "Spring Revue." Henry W. French of this city was the managing director and again showed his ability to arrange and carry out a long, varied and pleasing program. There was a large audience, and it was a great success.

The overture of the Albert W. Kanrich orchestra ensured at the outset good music. It played the Babbie Waltzes, a medley of Robin Hood and other selections.

The opening chorus was of seven parts. The "Cavalier Song" introduced the company and went with a dash. The "Babbie Dances" an original conceit by Mr. French was well given by Ethel A. Ball, Lillian Deacon, Eva B. Linton, May Opie, Elizabeth D. Ross and Helen J. Schools. Commodore Ira M. Whittemore in costume of a Pilgrim was clever in his solo "Top of the Morning", was well supported by Edward M. Graham, George L. T. Tupper, and William S. Hardwick as a chorus. "Winter" was a "moonlight number" with Mrs. James H. Slade as soloist, and Miss Elizabeth Litchfield, Miss Marion E. Brown, Miss Daisy F. Burnell and Miss Nellie M. Drummond as chorus. They all appeared in furs and heavy outdoor garments. In marked contrast was the next part "Summer Time," when the chorus sang in the "Good Old Summer Time" and the fantastic quartet—Arthur B. Hultman, Edward Farmer, Abel Brown and Thomas Davidson raked hay, etc. Miss Mabel M. Wentworth appeared as a Topsy in a creation of red and yellow and sang "Stop, Stop, Stop," and introducing Miss Ruth C. Farmer, Miss Ruth E. Dahl and Miss Nettie H. Denton as mulatressess—half black and half white very pronounced. "Honey Girl" by the company closed the opening chorus.

The comedy sketch—"A Large Order" (for safety pins) was very cleverly presented by Miss Marion Bolster as Helena Benedict, a fond wife, Miss Frances E. Burke as Bridget, a discontented maid who thought it high time for a lovers' quarrel, and

LADIES NIGHT QUINCY POINT

Men's Club Increasing in Popularity Daily

The first annual banquet and ladies' night of the Point church Men's club was one of the most enjoyable gatherings ever held at Quincy Point. Nearly 100 people sat down to a sumptuous banquet served by Mrs. Raymond of Somerville.

The menu included: Roast Beef, mashed potatoes, green peas, gravy, cold slaw, rolls, olives, fruit, ice cream, cake, and coffee.

There was an abundance of everything and everything was good. On the menu cards were appropriate decorations and a number of songs which all joined in singing at intervals throughout the evening. The Quincy Point orchestra, James Melville and W. F. Perry, violins, Ralph Murphy, cornet, Walter Brooks, drums and Irving Hayden, piano furnished music while the banquet was in progress and later played the accompaniments to the songs. During the evening, vocal and instrumental selections were contributed by C. Eaglesham, Mr. and Mrs. W.F. Perry and Miss Mary Johnson.

J. W. Hendry, president of the club made a splendid toastmaster and soon had everyone in an excellent humor except those who expected to be called upon to speak.

T. B. Pollard the first speaker spoke of the relation of the club to the community and urged the members to do their share in having it fill its place and do its share in making Quincy Point a little better for its existing there.

W. E. Lee when called upon said he understood he was to sing, but as for making a speech he was too full for utterance.

P. H. Holman told some very entertaining stories and A. B. Foster spoke briefly on the relation of the club to the city.

Rev. Charles P. Marshall gave a fine address on "Fellowship" and made a plea for a broader scense of brotherhood The Unions, lodges and societies must necessarily be limited in their fellowship and the church is limited although it should not be. The idea of the universal brotherhood of man was brought out through reference to a little book "Adventures in Friendship" which he recommended as very much worth reading. "What we want here at the Point" he said, "is a brotherhood bigger than that in any church, or lodge or Union,—we want a brotherhood as broad as the world itself and it is the place of the Point Church Men's club to work for that end here in our little community at the Point."

C. W. Newcomb urged the members to take part in more debates among themselves for he said it was a good means of getting notoriety. He himself got his name in three papers by making a little speech not long ago.

Charles W. Sherburne made a very humorous little speech telling of the formation of the first Men's club. Adam was siting on a rock pondering on the by laws and constitution when Eve hollered out of the kitchen window "Adam! Adam! come here at once the boys are raising cane" and he had to call it of for the time being.

Dr. E. H. Bushnell spoke briefly telling a few good stories.

The esteem in which the Men's club is held by the ladies is expressed

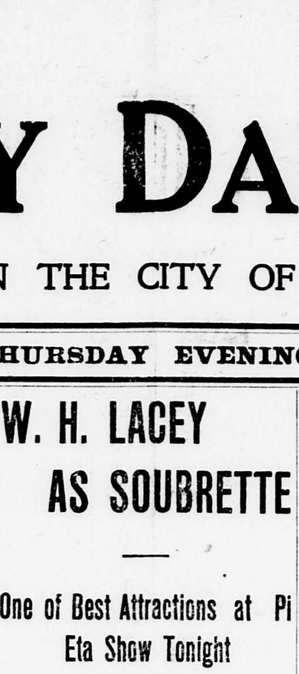
W. H. LACEY AS SOUBRETTE

One of Best Attractions at Pi Eta Show Tonight

The fact that W. H. Lacey, '12, of Wollaston is taking one of the star parts in "The Cantelopers" at Quincy Music hall this evening will cause a large attendance of Quincy people. He is the soubrette of the Liberty Belles show troupe and the Daily Ledger is able to present his most recent photo.



Doesn't he make a good girl! He was graduated from Quincy High school in 1908, and is now prominent in athletics at Harvard.

ALLEGED PICKPOCKET.

Lieut. McKay and Inspector Goodhue arrived from Chicago this morning having in custody Robert Ross, alias Louis Foss, alias Henry Miller, who is wanted for picking pockets in Quincy. At the time of his arrest he was held for the grand jury and was released on bail. He immediately skipped and nothing more was heard of him until he was picked up in Chicago as a suspicious character. He was recognized by a photograph as a man wanted in Quincy, and he was given a sentence of sixty days in jail for being a suspicious character. This was in order that the Quincy police might have time to come after him. The officers arrived in Boston this morning and immediately took their prisoner to Dedham where he was locked up to await the action of the grand jury.

THREE DAYS MORE.

Arrangements are all completed for the institution of Quincy nest of Owls, on Sunday, April 30, at 2 P. M., in Alpha hall. The Brockton nest degree team of 25 members will do the work. JAMAICA GINGER RETURNED

No Violation of Liquor Law or Pure Food Law

Thirty-four dozen Jamaica ginger in bottles were returned today by the Police department to the warehouse of E. V. Fitts & Co., wholesale grocers, Depot street, from which they were seized about three weeks ago by Inspector Goodhue, for some unknown reason. No liquor case culd be found and the goods being prepared by the Baker Extract Co. of Springfield, Mass., a concern second to none in this country regarding purity of reason. No liquor case could be under the pure food law. The affair caused considerable unpleasant notoriety for the Fitts Company from which there appears to be no redress.

REMARKABLE MIRAGE

Houghs Neck People Could Hardly Believe Their Eyes

Residents of Houghs Neck, and along the whole length of Quincy's front, witnessed a remarkable mirge on Wednesday. Cottages at Nantasket beach apparently arose and turned over, resting on their ridgepoles. Land was also seen where no land should be and the islands in the harbor danced into the sky.

Another peculiar thing seen was a kind of whirlwind. The wind seemed to go around in a circle until it had collected all the refuge material in the centre which gradually arose until high in the air. Pieces of paper could be seen high in the air whirling about and remained in sight for a long time.

A long strip of land southwest of Boston Light which was also thrown up by this wonderful mirage was Cape Cod.

AUXILIARY DANCE.

Upwards of seventy-five couples participated in the dancing party held at St. Mary's hall Wednesday by Auxiliary 5, A. O. H. Kutz orchestra furnished the music and dancing was in order from 8 to 2 o'clock. During a brief intermission at midnight refreshments were served in the banquet hall. Miss Catherine Barry was the floor director and Miss Mary Drohan, Miss Mary McCue, Miss Theresa Leary, Miss Jane Traverse andMiss Rita Lyons were the aids, their distinguishing mark being a carnation.

GRANITE CITY CLUB ANNUAL BANQUET

Minstrels Crack Jokes at the Expense of Several of the Members

James T. Penniman, 92, Greatly Enjoyed the Event

The annual banquet and entertainment of the Granite City club Wednesday evening called out a large attendance of members and guests. It was a pronounced success in every way, and likewise very enjoyable, for there was something doing from 6.30 until 10.30 when the entertainment closed.

C. C. Whittemore catered for the supper, and he set out a supper that could not but please the most exacting The menu included grape fruit, lobster and chicken salads escalloped oysters, mashed potatoes, cold turkey, ham and tongue, banana fritters, rolls, coffee, ices of all kinds and cake. The food was well cooked and well served.

At 6.35 the line was formed in the club rooms for the march to Colonial hall, where the banquet was served. President Eben W. Sheppard led the way with Clerk and Collector W. W. Mitchell, Treasurer John Q. Cudworth and Mayor Shea, Vice President S. T. McQuarrie and James T. Penniman (the latter although 92 years of age entered into the spirit of the evening with a zest of a boy.) Then came Nathan Ames of the house committee, followed by Capt. D. Aguirre, Capt. E. Olivera and Commander M. Bianchi of the Argentine Navy, Councilman Geo. A. Bolster, Overseer of the Poor James H. Elcock, and others to the number of about one hundred.

President Sheppard rapped for order and after bowed heads in silent prayer for the late William J. Coleman, the only member to pass away since the last banquet, the order came to be seated.

Then came the feast and there was a clash of knives, forks and spoons and things in the eatable line were made to disappear.

On the platform was George Monk and three of his best musicians, who furnished almost constant music during the banquet. The musical program included all the popular airs, and it was not long before the music in the souls of the party gave voice in song which made the very walls resound.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The Senate will get around to vote on reciprocity by the time it is too hot in Washington to attend the ball games in comfort.

A St. Louis judge decides a woman has a right to hang a cow bell on the door to tell when her husband gets in. It would be a good thing for some men to have it hung around their neck.

If it took 30 women 18 hours to count 1100 ballots cast by the Daughters of the American Revolution, how much before July 4 will we get the result of presidential election when women hold the offices?

Mexican investments looked golden a few years ago. But under present circumstances, we'd rather have our money in the old country savings bank with its antique ledgers and obsolete furniture and single clerk.

After New York's Madison Square Garden is replaced by skyscrapers what will the poor horses do.

RAKING THE BACK YARD.

During the chill winds of winter one looks forward to April, as a time for resuming summer pastimes. But for some of us the prospective fishing trip or ball game is once more postponed by the sorrowful annual task of combing and currying the back yard.

The observant philosopher must find, however, that affection for the back yard is growing. The long rows of city blocks ,once the abode of brown stone gentility, are relegated more and more to the seedy sections of our larger towns.

The man who was once content with a flight of steps for a porch, and a rear view of 10 foot board fence with aerial rigging of clothes lines, now goes out a few miles by trolley, train, or automobile. He owns a spot of God's earth where he can see the sun both rise and set.

Lured on by glowing and not wholly illusory pictures in the magazines, he finds that the shimmer of sunlight on the tree tops, the song of the breeze in the shrubbery, softens life's toil better than a vision of brick walls or the cackle of a block full of people. And sometimes he learns that there is more fun in a hill of beans than in a fence of iron pickets.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

The Massachusetts legislature is tackling the comfort station problem. There is a bill before it to require public sanitaries in every city and town of more than 5,000 population, to be managed by the local board of health. Many cities will welcome the passage of such a bill. If it were the law, this city would have to comply with it, and the present disgraceful conditions would not continue.—Framingham News.

CO. H. WILLING TO LAY DOWN LIVES

W. H. H. Lapham and Morton Packard Write from Fortress Monroe

Tell of Early Days of Company at Front in 1861

(Quincy in the Civil War No. 14)
(By Frank F. Prescott)

William H. H. Lapham and Morton Packard of Co. H, 4th Regt. M. V. M., wrote a joint letter from fort Monroe on April 23, 1861, which is of interest today, as it was fifty years ago. It is given in full:

Editor Quincy Patriot:

Our wishes are that the Quincy boys may hear from us, and know that we are well and enjoying every comfort which our situation admits.

It seems as though we breathed the air of Heaven. The fruit trees are in full bloom, and the flowers look splendid. The Fort is a fine one; well armed and manned, and if the rebels wish to come, let them come and reap their reward—and it will be the reward they deserve.

The Fort is surrounded by a canal, and if it is attacked we will fill the ditch with the dead bodies of the assailants. Light your fires on that.

Within the Fort there is something like forty live oak trees, which furnish, beneath their wide-spread branches, a welcome shelter from the sun. There are over 200 guns set in shape, and they are mounting more as fast as they can.

The boys are in good spirits and ready for any contingency. They feel themselves as safe in Fort Monroe as they would on Boston Common—and are ready to march to any seceeding State, and fight for the Stars and Stripes.

We had news here that Texas and Alabama had gone back into the Union; and we rather think Virginia is trembling, and the rest of the seceeding States. We guess they think Old Abe is bound to conquer (that is so.)

Perhaps it will be interesting to our friends at home to know the varieties we have at our meals. In the morning we have a bowl of coffee and a slice of baker's bread; at noon, a slice of bread and a bowl of coffee, and at night the same as in the morning. On such rations we are getting fat and saucy, and amazing wolfish. But in a few days we are to fare different.

Capt. Curtis arrived last night, and we were in fine spirits to receive him. May he live to see his home again, and shame those cowards who could not face danger.

If the rebels are troublesome, we shall fight them, for there is no such thing as backing down. Our regiment is mustered into the service for three months from the 16th day of April.

Our uniform is to be blue with red trimmings. When thus equipped we shall be Uncle Sam's boys, and if we are spared to see our homes again, the Quincy folks will have the pleasure (if pleasure it can be called) to see boys who are not afraid to stand, and if need be, support our glorious flag.

I told Uncle T—— before I thought of coming, that when the time did come, the young men would have to face the danger. That the old fogies would think it more prudent to stay at home, to nibble their cheese, and look after the fat offices; and it has turned out so.

But we do not complain. We are willing to breast the storm; and if the worst comes to the worst, to lay down our lives in defence of our country's honor—and ask for no other winding sheet than the flag which now so proudly waves over us.

The Daily Ledger will print letters tomorrow written by Colonel A. B. Packard and D. F. French on April 28, 1861.

The editor of these war reminiscences has received copies of four letters written by Francis L. Souther while at the front, and also a letter from Horace O. Souther reporting his death, which will be published under the proper dates. Mr. Prescott hopes that copies of other letters from Quincy soldiers, especially in 1861, will be forwarded for publication in this column.

This series of Quincy in the Civil War began in the Daily Ledger of Monday, April 10, 1911, and has been continued daily. Back numbers of the paper can be obtained for a limited time.

GRANITE CITY CLUB

The dinner over, the orchestra gave place to the entertainers. The first number was Prof. H. V. Baril in ledgerdermain. His tricks were mystifying and only showed how the quickness of the hand could deceive the eye. The Professor said the tricks were easy, only requiring a little practice, and the audience evidently agreed with him. It would have done no good if they had not.

The next number was Fred E. Kendall, the impersonator and monologist, who was also exceptionally good.

Then came Messrs Scott and Bayrd, the two-man minstrel show, and they were certainly a whole team. Commencing with the opening chorus the minstrel show included choruses and solos by the two end men and the usual minstrel jokes. The jokes of the two men, one of whom rattled the bones and the other the tambo, were all on club members, and it was somewhat puzzling to know how the two men had so quickly become familiar with the numbers. None of the shafts were poisoned, however, as in some minstrel shows, and their cracking only resulted in laughter and applause. The minstrel show was nearly an hour long and was easily a hit.

The last number on the program was Prof. Baril. In the second part of his number which was cabinet work when tied securely hand and foot to a chair he moved into a cabinet on the stage and the minute the curtain dropped hands were shown through the opening, bells were rung and tin pans rattled. The next instant the curtain was drawn aside disclosing the professor still tied hard and fast. Then his coat was removed and replaced with equal ease.

As a final act one of the club members was invited to enter the cabinet with him and see how it was done. ExCouncilman Loud wanted to learn, and s ubmitted to having his hands tied behind his back. He entered the cabinet with his face wreathed in smiles. The curtain dropped, and again came the ringing of bells, etc. Up went the curtain and Arthur came forth looking as though he had been through a thrashing machine. His coat and vest were off, his braces hanging down his back, and on his head was a tin pail. He was placed on exhibition for a few minutes before the members would consent to release him. Asked how it was done, he was as much in ignorance as though he had not been in the cabinet. The Professor also walked out of the cabinet free and clear from binding.

This concluded the entertainment after which cards and billiards were enjoyed in the club rooms. Thus the annual came to an end with everybody satisfied and well pleased.

BASEBALL SIGNS.

Their Importance Is Much Greater Than Their Number.

Among the players we do not use the word "signal." With us it is a "sign." There are not as many "signs" used on a ball club as the public would believe. Of course the catcher must "sign" the pitcher for every ball that he throws. That is to prevent confusion or, as we say, to keep from "crossing each other." The catcher has a sign for a curve ball, a fast ball and a slow one.

To ball players all curve balls, such as the drop and the outcurve, are called "a curve." The catcher gives the same sign for any one of them. We do not call a ball that jumps "in" a curve. Ball players do not recognize the incurve. That is called a fast ball. Any ball thrown by a right handed pitcher with sufficient speed will jump inward to a slight degree. The outcurve and drop are unnatural curves, and the ball must be spun in an unnatural manner to get that peculiar "break."

The only other "sign" of importance is the one the batter gives to the runner when he intends to hit the ball. If he wants the runner to start as he swings (the hit and run play) he gives him a certain sign. There are any number of signs used for this play. Sometimes the batter gives it by rubbing his hand over the small end of the bat. Again, he may give it by knocking the dust from his shoes with the big end of the bat.—John J. McGraw in Metropolitan Magazine.

EAST INDIAN RUNNERS.

Kahars Who Can Regularly Make a Hundred Miles a Day.

Ordinary Marathon races seem rather insignificant compared with the regular performances of a certain east Indian caste. These Kahars, also known as Jhinwarb, live in the Punjab, where for conturies they have acted as runners, fishermen and water fowl catchers.

The men are trained runners and are said to be able to go a hundred miles a day without resting. According to Bally's Magazine, there is a well authenticated instance that Tika Ram, the son of Lalu Ram, carried dispatches 300 miles in three days—from Mean-Mir to Meerut.

The point discussed, however, is whether the normal exertions of the Kahar post runners and the similar exertions of jinrikisha men shortened their lives, and it appears that the Kahars, trained from childhood to be distance runners, live to be old men. They are not only able to withstand the strain of running great distances under a heavy load, but thrive under it.

The jinrikisha man, too, notwithstanding his irregular diet, excessive use of liquor and exposure to the elements, lives to a reasonable age. In Tokyo when a census was taken of the jinrikisha men a few years ago there were found to be more than 1,300 who were over fifty-five years of age.

Sailing Is So Interesting.

The lady was reading a nautical novel. She struggled along bravely for a few minutes, but finally had to appeal to her husband.

"Gerald," she said, "the author says that the boat was sailing 'wing and wing.' What does that mean? I've been on a yacht, but I never heard that before."

"That means," answered Gerald, rejoicing in the fact that he, too, had spent several hours on a sailing vessel—"that means that the schooner had her mains'l out to port and her fores'l out to starboard, or vice versa."

"Oh, I see!" cried the lady. It's just like a chicken—a wing on each side. And now I understand why they call those little sails in the middle 'jibs.' It's short for 'giblets,' of course. Isn't sailing interesting?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Ancient Architecture.

Herr Knauth, the architect in charge of the Cathedral of Strassburg, has shown that the principles of construction followed by the great cathedral builders of former times are identical with those used by the builders of the Egyptian pyramids and are based on triangulation. The same simple geometrical figure underlies all these constructions. More than this, Herr Knauth traces the architectural principle in the formation of crystals and lays down this formula: "The laws of proportion in mediaeval architecture are the geometrical laws of crystallization."

Cause of the Delay.

"Why is your friend staying so long in New York?"

"I don't know—haven't heard which of the two reasons is keeping him."

"Which of the two?"

"Yes, whether he is having too good a time to come away or has spent all his money and can't get away."—Buffalo Express.

Self.

A perfect understanding of self is a perfect understanding of all things. For man is the condensed whole. From such a man no power is withheld. All things are obedient to him. —Freedom.

Life, upon the whole, is far more pleasurable than painful: otherwise we would not feel pain so impatiently when it comes.—Leigh Hunt.

SPRING REVUE

William E. Tarbox as Bertrand Benedict, a loving husband who suddenly became suspicious and jealous, without cause.

Thomas Davidson appeared as Miss Langtry and in Scotch ballads and was recalled.

Henry W. French appeared as the sheriff in a topical song "The Sheriff of Nottingham." One verse related to ladies clothes and hats, another to the G. O. P., one to Mayor Shea, and others to candidates for Mayor of Quincy. It took well.

The number by the Men's Club chorus under the direction of Prof. Frank Wrigley, was one of the best numbers of the evening. It opened with a camp scene and the men were in the uniforms of Co. K. They sang "In Picardie," "Schneider's band" (which introduced the real thing, Messrs Hultman, Farmer, Brown and Davidson) and "Comrades in Arms."

Following the promenade intermission, the orchestra rendered "Naughty Marietta." The Revue Quartet sang very acceptably "The Rosary" and "Dry Yo' Eyes" and upon encore gave a Pickaninny selection.

The original sketch "Her First Case" presented through the courtesy of Emery L. Crane the author, was a great improvement over the recent production in Alpha hall, in fact a finish product which was a great credit to the author and to the actors—Miss Mollie G. Brown as Elizabeth Fennell who preferred a career to matrimony, and Merton E. Turner as Jack Lynette, who had to put her to test in her first case as a nurse in case of accident.

Many of the best things were reserved forthe finale. The introductory chorus was "Sambo," and the members entered into it heartily.

One of the great hits was Miss E. Edna Spry who sang the solo "The Fascinating Widow." Commodore Whittemore in full dress first tried to win her favor, but George Tupper got between them. Then came William Hardwick the great ladies' man, but it was Edward Graham who carried off the prize amid applause.

The "Grizzly Bear Dances" were presented by Misses Ball, Deacon, Opie, Schools, Linton and Ross.

Edward J. Rowse was good in his solo "Dear, Delightful Women," the company singing the chorus.

In costume, manner and voice Miss Marion E. Brown sang very acceptably "Japanese Maiden," with chorus by company.

Miss Spry made her greatest success in her solo "My Hero,"" and was encored.

In closing the chorus sung "Yankee Land" and the orchestra rendered the Babbie Waltzes.

All the members of the club entered heartily into the production, and they had the assistance of 38 young ladies the entire company numbering 67. All numbers were presented in costume.

QUINCY HIGH.

Walter H. Lacey Q. H. S. '08 and Harvard '12 is to take the part of Maizie, a soubrette in the Pi Eta play. "The Cantelopers" to be given in Music hall this evening.

• • •

The German club meets this afternoon for its regular monthly session. Miss Birge is advisor of the club.

• • •

A collection for baseball expenses will be taken up on May 12. The date is put some distance ahead so that the pupils will have time to get together a little money. Mr. Howlett has announced that if anyone finds it impossible to raise a dime before then, he will give him one to contribute on application at the office.

• • •

Any alumni wishing to obtain "Golden Rods" may apply to Paul Blackmur, business manager, at the High school. A few of the graduates have already availed themselves of the opportunity and it is desirable to increase this list. Postage will be included in the price.

• • •

The Senior Dramatics performance is only a little over a week off and the finishing touches are being applied by the coach on the cast. The class of 1910 believe that they gave the best play ever presented in High school and think it hardly possible that 1911 can do anything quite as good. Thus it is up to the members of the cast to show these people from Missouri what's what.

• • •

The opening of the baseball season like that of the football season was a very happy one for Quincy and again Cambridge Latin was the victim. Her football team was defeated 5 to 0 in the opening game last fall and now "the athletes" wallop her baseball team 4 to 2. It was a serious omission on the part of the basketball manager not to arrange that first game with Cambridge for it looks now as if a successful season was dependent upon a victory over Cambridge Latin in the opening game. The Alumni are not to feel insulted at being ignored in this manner.

• • •

Quincy should have little difficulty in defeating Hingham high school tomorrow. This game will be played at Merrymount park, upper field beginning at 3.30.

• • •

The girls baseball team is being whipped into shape and we may expect to hear of a contest between it and the Roanoke baseball team in the near future.

• • •

Allison Marsh Q. H. S. '09 and Amherst '13 has been elected captain of the college "Gym" team. It will be his third season upon the team.

GRADED SCHOOLS.

The Cranch 6th grade team defeated the Adams 6th in a game played the first of the week.

• • •

Miss Lucy Hennigar, teacher in the 7th grade at the Gridley Bryant school has returned to her position after a long absence.

• • •

There will be a reunion of the alumni of the Coddington school who have graduated since Mr. Bentley has been principal, this evening in the assembly hall of the school.

• • •

The ice-cream sale held in the Willard school Tuesday afternoon netted $28.75. The money will go toward purchasing suits for the baseball team. The members of the team were measured for their suits this afternoon.

• • •

The last meeting of the year for the Parents and Teachers association of the Massachusetts Fields school will be held Thursday evening, May 4. There will be election of officers followed by a social hour.

• • •

In the absence of Miss Parker of the John Hancock school, Miss Walters is teaching in the 6th grade.

• • •

The underpining of the new Wollaston school building is almost all laid and work is progressing rapidly.

• • •

There will be an ice cream sale at the Lincoln school next Thursday, May 4.

• • •

Miss Alice M. Nash of Abington, a graduate of the Normal Art school is the new assistant at the Gridley Bryant school.

In a practice game played Wednesday afternoon at Weymouth the Athens school of North Weymouth defeated the Washington school of Quincy 3 to 2. The Weymouth boys were much larger than their opponents because there are nine grades in the Weymouth schools.

• • •

Mr. Titcomb ,supervisor of Music in the Fall River schools visited the Coddington school on Wednesday.

• • •

The epidemic of measles in the Washington school district is abating. There have been quite a number of cases during the last few weeks but no new ones have been reported this week.

• • •

There will be an ice-cream sale at the John Hancock school Thursday May 4 at 3.30.

• • •

This is the last week for Mr. Bentley as master of the Coddington and Atherton Hough schools. He will start in work on his summer camp in New Hampshire next week. His successor, James S. Perkins has been superintendent of schools in Canton.

• • •

The grammar school league is in full swing and interest is increasing every day. Every school day afternoon two or three games are played on the lower field at Merrymount park and more enthusiasm is in evidence than at the big league matches.

• • •

On the opening day there were 425 spectators, on Monday about 750 boys and girls were there to root and on Tuesday and Wednesday there were over 500.

• • •

The boys who have made the teams in all the schools are showing better tendencies toward team work than heretofore.

• • •

Another salient feature of this season is the fact that the teams that were the under-dogs a year ago are making the others take their dust. Last year the Adams school did not win a game, today she heads the league.

CURLS FOR COIFFURES.

Some of the New Designs From Across the Ocean.

Light and lovely are the curly coiffures shown in the illustration, recently designed by European artists in hair dressing.

To fully appreciate their remarkable charm and fascination they must be seen and handled, since their extraordinary lightness of weight is one of their chief attractions. As a matter of fact they are literally as light as the proverbial feather, and even the most sensitive sufferer from neuralgic headaches would never realize that she was wearing anything in the way of additional or applied hair.

The entire transformation which is shown in the center of the group of curls will be found most useful, since a lady's own hair can be drawn up through the center and then parted and brushed in with the other hair, which is dressed so becomingly on the other side of the face. A very light fringe, scarcely perceptible, softens the general effect delightfully and is allowed to mingle with the wearer's own hair, where it is turned off from the forehead in the center of the front. To complete the headdress at the back any of these cards can be applied with an equal certainty of success.

Will Entertain King George.

Louise, the duchess of Devonshire, is a woman much envied these days by other English ladies of the nobility. She is to take a leading part in the social functions attending the coronation of King George V. next June.

DUCHESS OF DEVONSHIRE.

Prior to the coronation the king will be her guest at Kimbolton castle, where she will hold a large house party, with many notable persons present. For a whole month in the latter part of April and the first half of May the children of King George and Queen Mary are to be entertained by the duchess at her castle. A series of elaborate fetes will be given by the duchess in connection with the coronation ceremonies.

Lobbyists For Suffrage.

Mrs. W. R. Stubbs, wife of the governor of Kansas, and Mrs. W. A. Johnson, wife of the supreme justice of the state supreme court, have registered their names as lobbyists for the women's suffrage constitution amendment. The law of Kansas requires all lobbyists to register, and many of the leading women already have inscribed their names.

When the Roses Waken.

When the roses waken
And the wood doves coo
And the sunny shadows
Trail the valley through
In my heart a longing
Wakes and calls for you.

When the green is glowing
In the violet bed
And the robins chatter
In the leaves o'erhead
Then my heart goes pleading
For a dream long dead.

Strange when time is running
Such a happy race,
Sun and summer crowding
All about the place,
How the soul goes sobbing
For an absent face!

THE CONFEDERATE SOLDIER.

An Incident That Marked His Spirit and Independence.

In his "Glimpses of the Confederate Army" in the American Review of Reviews Randolph H. McKim writes:

"It seems to me as I look back that one of the things which stood out strongly in the Confederate army was the independence and the initiative of the individual soldier. It would have been a better army in the field if it had been welded together by a stricter discipline, but this defect was largely atoned for by the strong individuality of the units in the column. It was not easy to demoralize a body composed of men who thought and acted in a spirit of independence in battle.

"As an illustration of the spirit of the private soldier I recall an incident to this effect. Major General Gordon had organized a strong column to make a night attack on Grant's lines at Petersburg. When he was ready to move and the order to advance was given a Big Texan stepped out of the ranks and said:

"'General Gordon, this column can't move before 1 a. m. The men have a truce with the Yanks, and it ain't up till 1 o'clock.'

"The column did not move till that hour. The private in the ranks had taken command, and the major general recognized his authority."

PONGEES HARD TO MATCH.

Because Each Piece Is Made From One Lot of Raw Silk.

Pongee silk is the undyed silk of silkworms fed on the leaves of scrub oak chiefly, though other trees are used in some portions of the pongee district. The silk is produced almost exclusively in Shantung province and portions of north China immediately adjacent.

The real pongee cloth, made of this uncolored specially produced silk, is distinct from the pongees of commerce made in all colors from other silk. Each piece of cloth is made from a particular lot of silk, and therefore each piece varies from all other pieces in exact quality, weight and fineness and in a slight degree in color and other qualities.

There are certain general grades of cloth, certain varieties of weave, certain popular weights, etc., but women shopping in Chinese pongees find it very difficult to match pieces, and on the face of things it is practically impossible to furnish any great number of pieces of a certain weight, grade and quality such as a modern clothing manufacturing establishment would require to standardize a certain line of garments from that particular cloth.—New York Sun.

Located His Station.

There was an absentminded bishop in western Ontario, who was constantly finding himself in awkward situations, on account of his extreme abstraction. On a certain occasion he was traveling from London in a northerly direction and found when the conductor approached him that he had forgotten where he was to go. The conductor suggested that he telegraph from the next station and find out his destination. It was before the days of long distance telephones, and the bishop telegraphed to his wife from the first station, "Where was I going?" to be answered at the following station. The answer came, "Exeter: be sure to get off there." The bishop then beamed at the anxious conductor and remarked placidly: "These little difficulties always turn out satisfactorily."—Argonaut.

German Pedigree Book.

There is in Germany what is known as the "German Pedigree Book," or "Deutsches Geschlechterbuch." The purpose of the pedigree book, according to a Berlin correspondent, is to record the ancestry not of nobles, but of bourgeois persons who can prove that they are of genuine middle class or working class ancestry and have no noble blood in their veins. The editor explains in his preface that, while many German nobles "out of court and material considerations have not kept their blood pure, there are many good business class families which have managed to do so." By thus encouraging the proper pride of such families the pedigree book is doing much to eradicate the traditional envy of the nobles.

It Depends on the Dog.

Two Broadway business men met before a bar. They were good friends.

"I'm worried a little," said one. "My chauffeur ran over a dog today and killed it."

"Oh, I wouldn't worry about a little thing like that," said the other. "The dog probably got in the way. These dogs are a pest."

"But it was your dog."

"What!" came from the second. "My dog? I'm sorry, but that will cost you $100. That chauffeur of yours is too careless. I insist on the hundred, understand."—New York Telegraph.

Cross Purposes.

"Can you tell me something about the game laws around here?" asked the stranger in Crimson Gulch.

"Well," replied Three Fingered Sam, "I could, but my advice to you would be if you don't know the rules of a game don't try to play it."—Washington Star.

Character.

Should one tell you that a mountain had changed its place you are at liberty to doubt it, but if any one tells you that a man has changed his character do not believe it.—Mohammed.

LADIES NIGHT

in the following poem written by Mrs. H. G. Holman.

Just what do we think of the Men's Club?
You've asked me a pretty hard thing,
For you are our husbands, our sons and our brothers,
Whose praises we hardly dare sing.

If we did you'd all grow so conceited
At knowing to what you'd aspire
While we your wives, mothers and sweethearts,
Might have to cut wood for the fire.

Be that as it may, I will tell you
That we truly rejoice in your club
We feel you'r a power for helping
The Point Church to grow as it should.

In union lies strength, you well know it,
80 strong men united and true,
Can surely remove lofty mountains
If they but agree so to do.

Go on in the way you have started
Be helpful, be cheery, be bold,
Look out for the young and the tempted
Be kind to the feeble and old.

Let brotherly love be among you
Look upward for strength and for aid
For thus will you live long and prosper,
In this way good Men's Clubs are made.

The ladies rendered very material assistance to the men in preparing for the banquet. The tables were handsomely decorated by members of the Ladies Aid society with potted plants and cut flowers.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

RACE PROBLEM HITS CANADA

Negro Immigration Is Meeting With Strong Opposition

TRADE BOARDS TAKE ACTION

Dominion Government May Be Forced to Adopt Restrictive Regulations Which Will Debar Settlers Who Are Leaving Our Southern States In Large Numbers—Delicate Considerations Are Involved In the Matter

Ottawa, April 27.—For the first time since the United States began to supply emigrants for Canada a class of American citizens has become undesirable in the eyes of the Dominion. The large number of American negroes crossing the forty-ninth parallel and claiming homesteads in Alberta and Saskatchewan are a source of concern to the white settlers in that country.

The Edmonton board of trade has passed resolutions of protest against the continuance of this immigration. So has the Winnipeg board of trade, on the score that negroes are not adapted to the Canadian climate and conditions of life. As far north as Athabasca Landing, on the Mackenzie river, at the entrance of the Peace river country, the board of trade has recorded its opposition to negro colonization. This example is to be followed by other western organizations.

The Dominion government is feeling the pressure of public opinion more plainly every day, and as the negro immigration is said to be stimulated largely through legal disabilities placed upon negroes in Oklahoma it may become so large as to prompt the Canadian government to adopt restrictive regulations which will debar these settlers.

Delicate considerations are involved, in view of the fact that although the federal government does not protect the negro from disfranchisement at the hands of the southerners, it does hold him entitled to the same rights as a white man under foreign treaties and conventions.

At present Canada does not officially discriminate against any race of immigrants, except the Chinese, who are subject to a heavy head tax. Japanese laborers are kept out under a tacit agreement with Japan, and other Asiatics by a requirement that they have $200 each.

The Canadian immigration act, however, gives ample authoritiy for exclusive regulation. Section 38 provides that the governor-in-council may, by proclamation or order, whenever he deems it necessary or expedient, "prohibit for a stated period, or permanently, the landing in Canada, or the landing at any specified port in Canada, of immigrants belonging to any race deemed unsuited to the climate or requirements of Canada, or of immigrants of any specified class, occupation or character."

It is understood that large numbers of negroes in Oklahoma are preparing to come to Canada, having been attracted by the knowledge that homesteads are given free to all who hoestly comply with the land regulations. The great campaign of advertising conducted in the United States by the interior department, of which Frank Oliver is the head; the obvious prosperity of Americans who have settled in the Canadian west, and the cheap railway rates obtainable by traveling via St. Paul are all influences stimulating what promises to be a general exodus of negroes from Oklahoma.

A VICTIM OF HOOKWORM

Rich East Indian Merchant Cannot Tour the United States

Boston, April 27.—Because he is a victim of hookworm, John Cohen, a rich East Indian merchant who resides in Kingston, Jam., and who came to Boston, April 10, on the steamer Admiral Dewey, intending to make a tour of the United States, will not be allowed to remain.

The immigration commissioners, seeing his anaemic condition, diagnosed his case as hookworm and sent him to Carney hospital, where he has been since. There the diagnosis was confirmed by a blood examination.

Cohen was deported yesterday afternoon on the Admiral Dewey. He was very cast down at not being able to make his intended tour of America. Cohen is extremely wealthy.

THREE POLICEMEN BATTERED IN RIOT

Twenty-Five Arrests Made After Battle With Strikers

Norwich, Conn., April 27.—In a riot at the Falls company's cotton mill here, where a strike of some 200 operatives is in progress, three policemen and a number of the strikers were severely injured. Reinforcements were sent from police headquarters, the crowd subdued, and about twenty-five arrests made.

The strike resulted from differences over wages and matters of work in the weave shop. About twenty operatives returned to work, and yesterday afternoon, when the mill gates were opened, the strikers who were congregated in the vicinity made a rush toward the gates to prevent others from entering.

Three policemen stationed there to protect the property were battered and struck by flying stones, Officer Driscoll being knocked down. As he fell he drew his revolver and fired over the heads of the crowd.

An alarm was sent in and reinforcements were hurried from the police station. The strikers are chiefly Polanders.

BATTLE SCENE WITHDRAWN

Britons Thought It Might Hurt Feelings of American Visitors

London, April 27.—The scene representing the battle of Chateauguay, "here Canada was held for the empire," depicting the engagement in 1812, in which an overwhelming American force was routed by strategy by a handful of Canadians, has been withdrawn from the pageant "Festival of the Empire," being rehearsed as a part of the coronation show.

It was thought the scene might wound the susceptibilities of American visitors.

DR. B. C. HYDE

Will Have Another Trial on Swope Murder Charge

ON HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

Hyde, Convicted of Swope Murder, Is Out of Jail

Kansas City, April 27.—Dr. B. C. Hyde, under life sentence of imprisonment for the murder of Thomas H. Swope, was released from the county jail on a writ of habeas corpus granted by the seven judges of the circuit court here.

In the opinion of the court en banc the majority of the evidence on which Hyde was convicted on was circumstantial and there was a reasonable doubt of the prisoner's guilt. The opinion also takes into consideration the fact that Judge Latshaw had once admitted Hyde to bond. This bond was revoked during the trial of the murder case.

After the reading of the decision the bail of Hyde was set at $50,000. On next Monday Hyde will appear in the criminal court here and the date for his next trial for the murder of Swope will be set.

Warship Covers 17,000 Miles Within Eighty-Three Days

Boston, April 27.—The battleship Delaware, sister ship of the North Dakota, the largest and most powerful of battleships yet completed, is in the harbor after a record-breaking cruise of about 17,000 miles within eighty-three days.

The ship left Hampton Roads Jan. 31, bearing the body of the Chilian minister, Don Anibal Cruz, who died at Washington in January, took it to Valparaiso, Chili, participated in the funeral services and began its homeward-bound trip March 31.

On the homeward cruise it made the stretch from Valparaiso to Rio, some 5000 miles, without stop, and the 4000 odd miles from Rio to Boston harbor was likewise without a stop.

Progressive Senators Think They Are Treated Unfairly

THE BREACH GROWING WIDER

Regulars Flatly Refuse Demands of La Follette and Others When Committee Places Are Fixed by Republicans—Good Places Given New England Senators, Prestige of This Section Being Maintained

Washington, April 27.—The split in the Republican ranks which threatens Republican supremacy in the senate assumed grave proportions when the regular Republicans flatly refused to meet three demands of the progressives.

These demands were that Senator La Follette be given a place on the committee on interstate commerce, Bristow on foreign relations and Cummins on finance. Coupled with these demands was the one that Mr. Bourne be appointed to the appropriations committee, which was granted.

The meeting was brief and reported to have been somewhat acrimonious. Senator Gallinger, chairman of the committee, laid before it a completed list of appointments to the various committees. When it was discovered by La Follette that only one of the four final progressive claims had been allowed, he immediately announced his complete disapproval of the tentative list. "I reserve the right to object further," he said, "because we consider we have been treated unfairly and unjustly."

New England will have no reason to complain that her interests have been slighted in the makeup of the senate committees. Her position has been decidedly strengthened in the assignment of her senators.

Senator Lodge goes to the head of the immigration, although retaining his membership on Philippines. Immigration is not a minor committee, now that the whole subject has been exhaustively canvassed for the purpose of enacting comprehensive legislation. Lodge goes also for the first time to naval affairs. He retains, also, his places on foreign relations and finance.

Senator Crane declined the chairmanship of postoffices, which went to Bourne. He retains his chairmanship of rules, which devises the system of government of the senate, and his seat in interstate commerce and postoffices.

Senator Gallinger drops commerce and naval affairs and takes on finance and rules, retaining, also, his chairmanship of District of Columbia. Burnham succeeds Dolliver as chairman of agriculture and goes also to commerce.

Senator Dillingham of Vermont receives the chairmanship of privileges and elections, which may consider the Lorimer case, a seat in immigration and judiciary, and is given a place on audit and control of the contingent expenses of the senate.

Page of Vermont remains on agriculture and education, but is added to naval affairs, one of the great committees. This shift was made to enable Brandegee to go on interstate commerce.

Senator Wetmore of Rhode Island retains the chairmanshop of library, remains on naval affairs and takes on appropriations. Lippitt of Rhode Island, a brand new man, is placed on interstate commerce.

Senator Brandegee of Connecticut is placed at the head of interoceanic canals, which is regarded as one of the great committees of the future, owing to its concern with the Panama canal. He also makes the related committee of interstate commerce. McLean of Connecticut is made chairman of forest reservations, succeeding Brandegee, who put through the Appalachian bill, and goes also on territories, which will deal with Arizona, New Mexico and Alaska.

To recapitulate, New England has on finance Lodge and Gallinger, on commerce Frye and Burnham, on appropriations Gallinger and Wetmore, on interstate commerce Crane, Brandegee and Lippitt, and on foreign relations Frye and Lodge. Frye, of course, retains his chairmanship of commerce, which is the only committee to whose work he gives much personal attention, while his new colleague, Johnson, the Democrat, in definance of all the rules of seniority, has been given a place on finance by the Democratic slatemakers.

Washington, April 27.—Secretary Meyer of the navy has had another honor thrust upon him. Acting Secretary Winthrop has ordered that the marine camp at Deer Point, Guantanamo bay, Cuba, be called Camp Meyer.

LANGTRY IS ELECTED

Defeats Donahue In Contest For Secretary of State

Boston, April 27.—Representative Albert P. Langtry, Republican, of Springfield was elected secretary of state yesterday afternoon, defeating Frank J. Donahue, the Democratic candidate, by a vote of 151 to 123, after a bitter struggle in the convention of house and senate which held the session in the house chamber.

Representative Meaney of Blackstone, who led the Democratic fight, says that there is doubt as to whether the constitution of the state, which provides for the election of a secretary by ballot, has not been violated by the vote of yesterday, whereby the voter was given the right to announce his choice. But Clerk Coolidge of the senate and Clerk Kimball of the house declare that the vote was constitutional.

ARRESTS ARE ORDERED

Drastic Action by Illinois Senate In "Slush Fund" Inquiry

Springfield, Ills., April 27.—By a vote of 40 to 7, the Illinois senate last night ordered the arrest of Edward Tilden, George M. Benedict and William G. Cummings of Chicago and their appearance before the senate to show why they should not be punished for contempt. The alleged contempt consists in the refusal of the three men, who are bankers, to submit as evidence before the senate committee that is investigating bribery, the bank records of their customers.

It has been alleged that these bank books might prove some of the accounts given of money having been subscribed toward the election of William Lorimer as United States senator.

LABOR BILL SIGNED BY GOVENOR FOSS

Says, However, That Anti-Injunction Measure Is Imperfect

Boston, April 27.—Governor Foss signed Senator Hoar's anti-injunction bill yesterday afternoon. Speaking of the bill the governor said:

"This bill aims to remedy a just grievance and in part fulfils the pledges of the Democratic platform. It is imperfect in that it gives a remedy only in cases of the commission of acts that are prima facie criminal.

"This is due, in my opinion, to the fact that only in this form could any measure of relief be enacted this year, and for it the opponents of remedial legislation are primarily responsible.

"I believe that with this law on the statute book it will be possible hereafter to secure legislation perfecting the remedies this bill imperfectly supplies."

The bill provides for jury trials in cases of contempt growing out of the issuance of injunctions.

PROTEST FROM MEXICO

Resents Landing of British Marines In Lower California

London, April 27.—The Mexican government has communicated to the British foreign office a formal protest against the action of Captain Vivian of the British sloop Shearwater in landing marines at San Quentin, Lower California, which action is described as an interference in the internal affairs of Mexico.

Captain Vivian landed thirty men and a Maxim gun at San Quentin to protect that town from what was represented to be a threatened attack by Mexican insurgents. Their revolutionary movement did not materialize and the marines with their gun were withdrawn. This was the first actual landing of forces on Mexican soil in connection with the present rebellion.

POISON IN BEER

Man and Wife Who Partook of the Beverage Are Dead

Philadelphia, April 27.—Mystery surrounds the death at their home here of John J. Dyne and his wife, Mary, who expired after drinking beer in which cyanide of potassium had been placed.

The police have three theories. One is that Dyne placed the poison in the beer to commit suicide and that his wife, finding the beverage in the house, took it innocently; another that the couple entered in a suicide pact, and the third that Dyne intended that both he and the woman should die together, and that he murdered her. Dyne was 43 and his wife 46.

FAIL TO CRACK SAFE

Bank Robbers Appropriate a Railway Motor and Escape

St. Paul, April 27.—Four robbers made an unsuccessful attempt to crack the safe in the national bank in Anoka. While they were approaching the bank they encountered a man, and they handcuffed him and tied him to a telegraph pole.

After exploding a charge of nitroglycerine and failing to get beyond the inner door of the safe they stole a railway motor and started for Minneapolis. Ten miles out the motor was hit by a freight train, the robbers disappearing.

MAY MAGAZINES.

Popular Mechanics Magazine. Science and mechanics have advanced from the time when they were the hobbies of a few learned philosophers, secluded in home laboratories and workshops, or in the inner retreats of exclusive seats of learning. They have become, in the broadest sense, the principal aids to human progress, and as such they belong to everybody. The labors of the scientist, the inventor and the educator are for the people. Personal gain, in the form of money, advancement or fame, is a secondary matter, although it may, in some instances, form the motive for the work. And after all, it is the productive work of the people that makes it possible for learned men and specialists to discover and invent things that are making this world of ours a better place in which to live. So states the May number of Popular Mechanics magazine in a strong article on "Science and Plan English" in which leading educators and scientists of the country discuss the subject. However, one has but to turn the page of the magazine—any number will do—to feel that these assertions are well grounded in its practice. The May number contains 301 articles and 293 illustrations, every article written so you can understand it.

Lippincott's Magazine. Among all the changes, and rumors of changes, in the publishing world, Lippincott's magazine "pursues the even tenor of its way" just as it has for forty-odd years, and just as it probably will for forty-odd years more. The only change noticeable in it is that it seems to be getting better. The May issue opens with a complete novelette, of course—"The Tuharczin Case," by Edith Macvane, who wrote "The Duchess of Dreams" and "The Adventures of Joujou." Its scenes are laid in Paris and in Aix-les-Bains, a small but decidedly "fast" little town in Savoy. Thither comes a rich young American, idly touring in his motor-car. A woman's face attracts him, he lingers, finds that he has fallen in love, and sets out to win the object of his affections. There is a mystery cleverly sustained, as well as many dramatic scenes. We can recommend "The Tuharczin Case" as an unusually good love story, fresh and vigorous. There are some noteworthy short-stories.

Technical World for May has the most remarkable leading article of the month—the first authentic description of the amazing feats of the speaking dog, "Don," of Hamburg, Germany. He is the only animal so far proved to speak. At the age of six month, very much earlier than a human baby, he for the first time showed his extraordinary gift by pronouncing the first articulate word. He was standing near the table, looking with begging eyes at his master and when the latter happened to ask him: 'Would you like to have something?' he clearly replied: 'Haben' ('have'). After this startling performance, he obviously became the object of unusual interest.

"It is told of him that on once meeting an old woman from the neighboring village on her way to the market, he quietly stepped towards her, distinctly pronouncing the words: 'Don hunger, kuchen haben.' The poor woman was so frightened that she took to a speedy flight, leaving her basket behind her, in the firm belief that the dog was possessed of the evil one.

"The most wonderful thing about him is his talking with strangers quite as freely as with his own master. The Technical World has an extended and exceedingly interesting description of the tests to which Don has been subjected by scientists, with pictures of his dogship.

Woman's Home Companion. The May number contains ninety-six pages of interesting reading. From the charming cover, "Apple Blossoms," painted by T. K. Hanna, to the Fun Page, there is not a dull feature in the magazine. The first aim and purpose of the editors is to make this magazine of service to its readers, and it seems to us that this end has been admirably accomplished in the May issue. The fiction includes the first part of the serial story by Zona Gale entitled "When Dreams Begin," delightfully illustrated by Alice Barber Stephens. The principal theme of the story is the struggle for adaptation between two young people, a situation which has its parallel in the experience of most newly-married husbands and wives. Marie Corelli has contributed a delightful love story.

National. Any mention of the National Magazine brings up before the American public the picture of a periodical whose hustling editor, if he does not exactly "live in a trunk," seems to pass his days in continued association with a dress suit case. He is just as much at home in Maine as in Oregon as in the Carolinas, and has friends everywhere from the Aroostook to the Rio Grande. This month an international impulse compelled him—and off goes Joe Chapple for a whirlwind excursion to Europe, to make a first-hand study of the legislative bodies of the Old World. An overture to this account, giving the observations of the wayfaring magazine editor on his way, is published in the May National.

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Quincy People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Quincy.

P. J. Garrity, 367 Granite St., Quincy, Mass., says: "Some time ago I suffered so severely from kidney disease that I could hardly get about. I was restless at night and could not find any position that was comfortable. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and contained a heavy sediment. I was rapidly growing worse and was at a loss to know what to do, as the many remedies I tried failed to help me. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. After I had taken the contents of four boxes, I was in good health. I highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

McNamara Brothers and McManigal Landed In Jail

EXTRA GUARDS OVER THEM

Crowds Gather to Get Glimpse of Men Accused of Being Concerned In Blowing Up of Times Building, but No Feeling Is Displayed For or Against Them—Men Indicted as Purchasers of Dynamite Not Caught

Los Angeles, Cal., April 27.—John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' association; his brother, James B. McNamara, and Ortie F. McManigal, accused of activity in, or knowledge of the blowing up of The Times newspaper plant last October, when twenty-one men were killed, are in the Los Angeles jail. All three are charged with murder.

Their arrival in irons from Indianapolis and Chicago signalizes the beginning of a desperate legal struggle. Thus far, however, no definite arrangements have been made for their defense.

The alleged conspirators arrived at the jail from Pasadena in automobiles after running through two crowds which, in their eagerness to get a glimpse of the prisoners, bore down more than a score of detectives and deputy sheriffs.

At no time was there evident the least sign of anger on the part of the crowds, or of a disposition to justify the apparent fear of the officers that an attempt might be made to rescue the prisoners.

During the trip from Dodge City, Kan., where John J. McNamara boarded the train that bore his brother and McManigal, the three men were kept in separate compartments. They were kept separated on the way from suburban stations to the jail and then locked in separate cells.

Extra guards have been posted in the county jail by Sheriff Hammel, both in the corridors of the prison and surrounding the building. Hammel has arranged for an alarm bell to be placed in a room in the jail occupied by four officers constantly on duty. Two other deputy sheriffs will watch directly over James McNamara and McManigal, who will be locked up near each other, and a third will keep guard day and night over John J. McNamara, in another part of the prison.

Mrs. H. D. Ingersoll and one or two other witnesses from San Francisco are here to testify whether they believe James McNamara is the "James B. Bryce" whom they knew in San Francisco and as one of the purchasers of the dynamite used in Los Angeles.

"Bryce" is under grand jury indictment charged with the murder of twenty-one men who lost their lives in the destruction of The Times plant. Much depends upon whether McNamara is identified as "Bryce."

David Caplan and "Cocky" Schmidt, indicted with "Bryce" as purchasers of the dynamite, are still at large.

Joe Harriman of Los Angeles, formerly a candidate for vice president on the Socialist ticket, and O. M. Hilton of counsel for the Western Federation of Miners in Denver, have been retained by the local union men to represent the alleged dynamiters.

Darrow Won't Act as Counsel

Chicago, April 27.—Clarence S. Darrow returned from Indianapolis and announced that he would not defend J. J. McNamara, who, with James W. McNamara, his brother, and Ortie E. McManigal, is charged with complicity in the blowing up of the Los Angeles Times building in 1910.

COLLINS RESIGNS OFFICE

Has Been State Prison Director For Thirteen Years

Albany, April 27.—Cornelius V. Collins of Troy, state superintendent of prisons for thirteen years, has resigned, to take effect immediately. His term would have expired in 1913. The position pays $6000 per annum.

Soon after Governor Dix assumed office in January he requested Collins to resign, but the superintendent refused.

As a result of an investigation at Sing Sing and Clinton prisons alleged irregularities in the purchase of supplies were developed, but no charges had been preferred against Collins. In his letter to the governor the superintendent gave no reason for his resignation.

QUINCY HIGH VICTORY

Defeat Cambridge Latin by Rally in Seventh

Quincy High opened her season successfully Wednesday afternoon by defeating Cambridge Latin 4 to 2.

Upon to the last of the seventh inning it looked like the Latin school's game but timely hitting by Anderson, Holmes, Blackmur and Rice brought in three runs and secured the victory.

Manning at short played a good game accepting 9 out of 11 chances. His two errors were party due to a badly sprained thumb.

H. Chapman played his usual strong game at catcher and not a man stole second on him. His throwing was very accurate and it assisted Rice out of a bad hole in the last inning.

Anderson played a good game, getting two good flies and opening the batting rally with a good hit.

Rice pitched a good fair game and got out of some pretty tight holes with the assistance of a little fast work on the part of the infield.

Blackmur did well at second and got a good hit when it was most needed. Holmes also came to the front with a timely hit.

For the visitors Does excelled in batting getting a clean two bagger to left field. Bean pitched a moderately good game for a young fellow. The team work of Quincy at bat and in the field was commendable and with a little more practice, the nine should be one of the best in interscholastic circles.

NO CHANCE FOR EARL MACK TO PLAY WITH FATHER'S CHAMPIONS.

There is just one young baseball player who is doomed never to play with the Athletics as a regular while Connie Mack is manager of the team. The young man is Earl Mack, son of Cornelius, the first and only. True, Earl played in one championship game in the American league last fall, but that was just a special occasion. "Some people think that Earl is going to become a catcher for the Athletics some day," said Connie, "but they are mistaken. Earl hasn't a chance of playing with my team. It doesn't do to mix up family affairs with business. Naturally I want to see my boy at the top of the profession, but if he ever gets there or good enough for a major league he will have to play under some other manager." Earl is now catching for Scranton.

HUNTER MAY FILL BILL.

Pirates' New First Baseman Playing a Brilliant Game.

Much interest is being taken in the work of Fred Hunter, Pittsburg's new first baseman. According to Manager Fred Clarke, his new guardian of bag No. 1 is the goods and will improve as the season advances. For seven years first base has been the one big weak spot on the Pirates, and every year there has been a fresh experiment, and every year before the echoes of "Aha—at last!" have died away the agents of the club are digging through the bushes for new material. But this season it appears different.

One year it was Clancy; another year it was Swacina, then Abstein, who was followed by Flynn. This season the Pirates' hope is Fred Hunter, and the word "hope" is used advisedly, for the average tenancy of the initial sack berth in recent years has been less than a single season. From the players' point of view the pillow has been a graveyard of baseball ambitions. Clancy, Swacina and Abstein have gone back. Of the four who have cavorted around the cushion in as many years Jack Flynn alone remains in the elite circle, fighting for prestige and place.

Hunter has been holding the bag in fine style since the season opened. He is a splendid thrower, handles the pegs well and covers a great deal of ground. His batting could be improved upon, but he gives promise. Hunter started out on his baseball career as a pitcher for the Chillicothe (O.) team. He twirled a good ball. He then took up playing the initial sack and made good from the start. Last year he was with the Kansas City team, and he was generally regarded as the best first baseman in the American association.

SHEPPARD GOING ABROAD.

Peerless Mel Says He Will Race In Scotland.

Melvin Sheppard, the best middle distance runner of this country, is going abroad this summer. He will sail early in July and compete in three big Scottish meets. They are the Celtics, the Rangers and the Ayrshire's games. Inability to round into his best condition is the only thing that will keep Sheppard home.

McFarland Is Sensible Pugilist.

Packy McFarland is investing his pugilistic earnings in Chicago real estate. "It was a long road to success," is the way McFarland puts it, "and when the time comes for me to retire I am going to have something back of me to carry me along for the remainder of my days."

MASQUERADE PARTY.

Alpha hall, Tuesday evening, was the scene of gay revelry and mirth when fifty couples gathered in fancy costumes for the masquerade ball. The dance committee, Misses Molly Brown, Catherine Saville, Elsie Moulton and Beatrice Morrison and Walter Rogers, Joseph Barraja-Frauenfelder and Robert Sibly, for weeks had been planning and arranging for the event and certainly much credit is due them for the way the entire ball was carried on. From the moment the first dance started until "Home, Sweet Home" played its final strain at quarter of one, there was a constant jolly time evidenced.

After the opening dances, Walter Rogers, the floor director, led a grand march in front of the judges who were: Mrs. George G. Saville, Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis, Miss Edith Randall and Miss Georgiana Lane and Emery L. Crane and Harry Slade. The march was a most gorgeous sight with the gay Spanish dancers, policemen, babies, nurses, corpses, monks acting their parts. After the march the prizes were awarded, the winners being Miss Eva Sheldon in a very clever costume of paper, representing a violet, and Mr. Charles B. Ames as an Italian peasant whose costume was carried to the most minute detail. The prizes were an ivory fan and a silver pencil.

Soon after, in the midst of a Paul Jones, a signal was given for the masqueraders to unmask. At half after ten the guests were invited to Union hall where a supper was served by the committee in charge.

Annual Show of Pi Eta Society One of the Best They Ever Presented

Hard Problem Put up to Jed to Solve Relationship

The Pi Eta Society of Harvard University made its annual visit to Quincy on Thursday evening, and delighted a large audience with "The Cantelopers," a musical comedy in three acts. The fact that Quincy was given the next to the last production of the six, gave the boys more confidence, and they enthused over it. The book was by N. F. Coburn, '11, and O. C. Dow, '11; the music by D. N. Tweedy, '12; and the lyrics by R. H. Weller, '11.

Four of the classes at Harvard were represented in the cast of characters, W. H. Lacey '12 of Wollaston appearing as Maizie, a soubrette of the Liberty Belle show troupe. He was strikingly gowned in a black and white checked dress, with an extra large hat trimmed with roses, and in general a good make up.

The scene was laid in a small western frontier town of Nebraska, and the officers and soldiers devoted more of their time to flirtations with the ladies than to the Indians, but while eloping they were taken prisoners by the Indians. Later a rescue followed and they returned to the barracks married, but awfully mixed as to relationship, the major having married the widow's daughter, while his son married the widow; the majors daughter married the widows son and there were other unions.

The chorus was good both in voice and in military manoeuvre. The pony ballet of eight, who wore short black dresses and white aprons, was a feature of the evening. They also appeared later in harem skirts while Longstreet Pondsby sang.

There were solo star numbers by W. H. Heywood, '12 as Jed the stage driver; by H. R. Morse, '12, as Mary the maid; by E. R. Kimball, '11, as the widow's son; by J. S. Pfeil, uC, as Major Pondsby, by N. F. Coburn, '11, as Leon Opper; a duett by N. B. Dee '11 as Martha Pondsby, and E. R. Kimball, and an Indian love song duett.

Many amusing features were introduced, one of the best being the auto ride of Jed and a young lady, which was very realistic although they were seated on two boxes and had only a pilot wheel. The stage coach feature was also novel and realistic, and they seemed to make progress although the wheels turned the wrong way. The Indian scene was one of the prettiest of the show. The marriage trust of Hopper, Opper and Mollicule was a feature, and of course the harem skirt number was one of the hits. Many other good things might be recorded. It was a very difficult problem that was put up to Jed to solve, the relationship of those who had entered matrimony.

H. B. Sheahan and others in the audience were often singled out by the actors for hits, and all and all it was a great show. Come again, Pi Etas.

SOCIAL OF WALTHER CLASS

Addressed by H. S. Sylvester of Youth's Companion

The monthly social of the Walther Men's class was held in the chapel of the Wollaston Baptist church on Thursday evening. As a speaker the class was fortunate in securing Herbert S. Slyvester advertising manager of the Youth's Companion, who spoke most interestingly on the "Story of the B. M. C."

Mr. Sylvester is the president of one of the largest Bible classes in the state in his home town of Middleboro. The class has a membership of over 150, and is noted far and wide for the success of its methods. Its slogan is "no pledges, no questions no dues."

Among those present and speaking Rev. E. D. Webber of Wolfville, N. S., a former pastor, who with his wife is making a visit in Wollaston. He was greeted with rising applause.

"Barbara Frietchie" and other vocal selections were rendered in a pleasing manner by Henry F. Van Buskirk.

Several members spoke in protest of the sale of cigarettes that is being allowed in the basement of the Mechanics building during the "World-in-Boston."

Rereshments were served, after which the club members gathered around Professor J. H. Marceau at the piano, and old familiar songs were sung with a rousing cheer. A flashlight group photograph of those present was taken by Kendall F. Harriman, a club member.

MANY FIRE ALARMS.

With the warm weather comes the usual accompaniment of grass fires the fire department is kept on the jump answering still and bell alarms.

The alarm from Box 28 at 12.39 Thursday was for fire in pile of manure at Mt. Wollaston cemetery. A telephone call had been sent to the Central station for the hose wagon, but before they had an opportunity to respond some boys pulled the box, bringing the Central station and Wollaston apparatus to the scene.

The alarm from Box 432 at 1.55 Thursday was for a brush fire off Willard street near Furnace avenue.

The alarm from Box 143 at 4.14 Thursday afternoon, followed immediately by the recall, was for a grass fire off Station street.

At 5.32 an alarm was sounded from Box 59 and although it was an hour before the recall sounded, the fire was one of grass and brush on Third hill. This fire covered a wide territory and was somewhat difficult to extinguish. A hydrant stream was used on one side while the opposite side was fought with a chemical stream. The hen house that was partly destroyed two or three days ago by a brush fire was finished by the Thursday night fire.

Many of the grass fires are caused by boys who see in them an excuse for pulling in an alarm of fire and calling out the department.

MAY SALE OF MURRAY CLUB

"A Paper Match" and "Her Deaf Ear" Presented

The Murray club which is composed of young people connected with the Universalist church held a very successful May sale and entertainment Thursday evening at the church.

There were three tables attractively arranged about the vestry. One of these was devoted to May baskets, of which there was a large and attractive display, and they consequently met with a ready sale. This table was presided over by Miss Annie Wright and Mrs. T. A. Addison.

The ice cream table, which was much sought also did a thriving business. This table was in charge of Miss Maude Cudworth.

The only other table was that devoted to the sale of home-made confections, which also sold rapidly. This table was in charge of Miss Marion Wright.

The entertainment consisted of two short sketches, which were given in an admirable manner by members of the club. The first as entitled "A paper match." In this Miss Harriet Lombard impersonated "Aunt Sophrony"; Miss Irene Howes, the aunt's niece, "Rose"; Freeman Hyland as "Sam Hunt," in love with Rose; and "Hezikiah Jehoshaphat Brown" was impersonated by Everett Andrews, all of whom took their parts in a fine manner.

Between the two sketches there were vocal and instrumental selections by Miss Hyland and Miss Annie Wright.

The second sketch was entitled, "Her deaf ear." Miss Katherine Reed was "Miss Nason," the old maid who turned a deaf ear to her "Helen Vast," her niece, who was Miss Mildred Smith was an attractive young miss with several strings to her bow. Miss Elizabeth Reed was the maid and Bartlett Spooner was a wealthy young man who answered to the name of "Reginald Blair," while Frank Smith as "John Gay," not as wealthy, was equally as popular. As stated above the sketches were well rendered each of the characters taking their parts like veterans.

MANET CLUB DANCE.

The Manet baseball club held a very successful dance in Alpha hall Thursday evening with an attendance of upwards of a hundred couples. Many of the other baseball organizations were represented on the floor, Adams A. A. the South Quincy baseball club, the Bigelows, Fore River Apprentices, Colonials and so on. Wilson's orchestra furnished the music.

Murray Kerr was floor director and the following all members of the base ball team were aids: Thomas Clinton, Frank Gillis, Frank Smith, William Houston, John Creswell, Leo Howie, John Nagle, Walter Pinel and Harry Aitken.

During the evening the starlight waltzes were exceedingly popular.

The dance was arranged for the benefit of the baseball team and the many friends of the popular young men of South Quincy who make up the nine gave them royal support by their attendance.

ODD FELLOWS ANNIVERSARY

Rev. W. B. Ayres Addresses John Hancock Lodge

The 92d anniversary of the establishment of Odd Fellowship in America was celebrated with a ladies' night by John Hancock lodge in Odd Fellows hall, Wollaston, on Thursday evening. A program of music and readings and an address by Rev. William B. Ayres, pastor of the Park and Downs Congregational church were enjoyed. District Deputy Grand Master Harry Collett and suite were among those present. An audience of about 350 packed the hall, and entirely outnumbered its seating capacity.

The evening opened with selections by an orchestra that played intermittently throughout the evening, and was composed of Elmer Noyes, Charles Woodworth, George Critchley, Orville Estes and Fred Schomberg.

Noble Grand Thomas, in behalf of the lodge, welcomed those present, and turned the meeting over to the chairman of the entertainment committee, Representative Louis F. R. Langelier.

First on the program came Rev. Mr. Ayers, who delivered a most impressive and interesting discourse on the significance of Odd Fellowship.

An interesting series of music and readings foliowed, the first number of which consisted of a violin solo by Samuel Blackmur, accompanied by Carl Pawlowski. The execution of the young man was striking, and he was loudly applauded.

Representative Theodore Sorenson of East Boston was heartily received. He contributed two vocal solos entitled "My dreams" and "Star of love is burning."

Accompanied by his daughter Miss May Critchley, George Critchley pleased all with his fine cornet solos.

Miss Florence Trefry of the New England Conservatory of Music with her sweet voice found instant favor. Among her selections were "Mission of the Rose," "Kerry Dance," "Still is the night," and "If I but knew." She was accompanied by Carl Gormin.

Miss Gertrude Cleaves gave several readings which were encored.

Taking for his text the Bible story of the Good Samaritan and comparing life to the road between Jerusalem and Jericho, Rev. Mr. Ayers said in part:

"The great first question of the race is how to contend successfully against nature—how to conquer her and harness her forces to our good and to the conduct of our own labors.

"Viewed simply from the standpoint of nature's exactions, it is at best a pretty hard life we are called upon to live. Man's struggle against the brute force of the natural world is not so great today because it has been subdued by his ancestors, but there are other struggles to undergo just as difficult and demanding a higher form of courage.

"If left to his own resources every man would surely perish for want, famine, disease and death is the thief that awaits us on the hard and rugged course of our existence.

"Every man falls among thieves, and the same work that was done by the Good Samaritan is being done today by many good, brave and great men in the inspiration of such orders as this.

"The struggle for each man is a new and individual one. No one great fight can settle it for all time. The men who are banded together in this association of Odd Fellows are engaged in the practical work of helping these.

"The past leaves to us few of the old traditional enemies of the race. Those we now have to conquer are of a modern sort and largely the result of our modern life.

"The average man is in a constant nightmare of worry for fear something will arise to rob him of his job. His experience is full of uncertainty, so great that little room is left for cheerfulness, and anxiety easily becomes discontent and discontent hardens into anarchy.

GRANT ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED BY W. R. C.

National Patriotic Instructor W. J. Patton Makes the Address of Evening

Tribute to General Grant by Commander Ring

Thursday, April 27, was another flag day observed by Paul J. Revere Woman's Relief Corps, being the 89th anniversary of the birth of Gen. Grant, the hero of the Civil War of 1861-65. Over 100 patriotic gentlemen and ladies assembled at Colonial hall which was prettily decorated with American flags.

Mrs. A. J. Gould, the patriotic instructor of the corps presided, and is enthusiastic over these flag days. At the outset the aids retired and escorted into the hall the guests of the evening; including Commander Gould of the Sons of Veterans; the representative of the Auxiliary of the Sons of Veterans; Harry J. Matthews, the historian of the U. S. W. V.; Thomas Jones of Post 68 of Dorchester; Samuel Brown of Wollaston,, and Mrs. Emma Marnock, president of the W. R. C.

Then Rev. W. J. Patton, the National patriotic instructor of the Sons of Veterans, the special guest, was escorted to the platform by the color bearers.

Mrs. Eliza A. Penniman, the chaplain of the corps led in the Lord's Prayer, and Mrs. Gould delivered the address of welcome. After singing the Battle Hymn of the Republic, Miss Sadie Files gave a patriotic reading.

Commander Ring of Paul Revere Post 88 and Frank Fisher Prescott "the Minute Man of 1911" arrived about 9 P. M. and were also escorted to the platform by the color bearers.

Miss Collins rendered a solo, and Mrs. Marnock was then introduced. She told of the muster of Gen Grant as a member of Gen. George G. Meade Post, No. 1, of Philadelphia, on May 16, 1877, and the reception which followed which came upon his return from his triumphal tour around the world. Gov. Henry M. Hoyt of Post 97 made an eloquent address of welcome, and Gen Grant's reply was read by Mrs. Marnock. He told of finding veterans of the Civil War in every country of the world. He said in part: "The one thing I want to impres is that we have a country to be proud of, to fight for, and die for if necessary. While many of the countries of Europe give practical protection and freedom to the citizen, yet there is no European country that compares in its resources with our own. There is no country where the energetic man can by his own labor, and his own industry, acquire competency as he can in America."

Miss Cassie Thayer gave a patriotic

The funeral of Amos M. Litchfield was held Wednesday afternoon from his late home on Marsh street. GRANT ANNIVERSARY

reading, and the little daughter of the patriotic instructor Alethea Gould, gave the salute to the flag. A pleasing dialogue with local hits was given by Bert and Lillian Reed, followed by the offering and Praise God from whom all blessings flow.

Commander Ring of Post 88 said he came from the meeting of the post without any chance for preparation, but he was a poor soldier who could not talk of Gen. Grant. He was one of the greatest generals of the world and commanded a larger army than Napoleon. He showed generalship in the selection of his lieutenants. Mr. Ring spoke of his education, business life, bravery in war, his bull dog tenacity, his terms as President, etc., all very interestingly.

Past Commander George L. Phillips and Comrade Samuel Brown gave readings, and Mr. Prescott recalled the visit of Gen Grant to Quincy. Mrs. Alberta Hewson sang the Star Spangled Banner.

The principal speaker of the evening was Rev. W. J. Patton. He had praise for the W. R. C. who had originated the observance of flag days. He told of what the flag means, and what it meant fifty years ago. Grant was one of the faithful ones, but no more so than the common soldiers. He did his duty where placed; so did they. With Lincoln we want to do homage to the rank and file. He told of Grant and his tenacious purpose. Before the Civil War he was a dreamer of war, of promotion, of travel, etc., Mr. Patton reviewed some of the engagements and campaigns.

The speaker thought the meeting should have a practical side, and be advocated memorial halls in all the cities and towns of the country, which were necessary to develop patriotism and loyalty to country.

It was announced that the next flag day would be Thursday, May 18 Peace and Arbitration day—and the meeting closed with flag salutes and the singing of America.

Miss Annie Dorley was in charge of the musical program of the evening.

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

A farewell meeting was held in the Finnish Congregational church Thursday evening in honor of Dr. W. A. Groenlund, who is going to Fitchburg, the centre of a large Finnish colony.

Dr. Groenlund received his early education in Finland and later went to England where he mastered the English language. There he came in touch with the Foreign Missionary work and was sent to China as a missionary. While there he learned the language and studied medicine to some extent so that he could do both medical and evangelical work. He spent eight years there but at the end of that time his voice went back on him and he came to this country. After spending a year in Leland Stanford University he went to Chicago and graduated from the medical school of Northwestern University. After that he spent a year and a half in Mercy hospital, Chicago. Coming to Quincy about 9 months ago he has done a great deal of good among the Finnish people and has made a wide circle of friends. Dr. Groenlund has also been active in church work and has occupied the pulpit of the Congregational church in the absence of Mr. Lillback. He goes to Fitchburg not because he has been unsuccessful but owing to the fact that that city is the centre of a large colony of Finnish people with an aggregate population of eight or ten thousand.

At the meeting Thursday evening, the pastor as spokesman for the people told the doctor how much he was appreciated and Dr. Groenlund spoke in response basing his thought on the fifth chapter of Romans. The choir and the string band rendered appropriate selections and the meeting closed with the singing of "God be with you till we meet again."

FATALITY ON RAILROAD.

An unknown man, probably a tramp was killed by a freight train near Crane's elevator at South Quincy at 10.30 Thursday night, the freight train was backing onto one of the sidings, and evidently took the man unawares, his head being nearly severed from his body.

The train crew notified the police and after the body had been viewed by Medical Examiner Jones the body was removed to Hall's undertaking rooms. The man was apparently about 47 years of age, weight 140 pounds, and 5 feet 7 inches tall. He wore a faded blue overcoat and blue flannel shirt. In his hand was a loaf of bread tied up in a newspaper. There was not a thing about his clothing that could furnish a clew to his identity. The only things found were some needles, a little sugar, a spoon and a piece of soap, the articles usually carried by a tramp.

ASKS SHOE INQUIRY

Gardner Resents Charges That Boston Firm Has Monopoly

Washington, April 28.—A sensation was caused in the house when Representative Gardner of Massachusetts introduced resolutions of inquiry in response to a charge by Representative Difenderfer of Pennsylvania, that money and influence were being used to give an eastern manufacturing concern a monopoly in the contracts for shoes for the army and navy.

Mr. Difenderfer said he could prove his assertion, and as a result Gardner called upon the secretary of war and secretary of the navy for all possible information concerning the shoe contracts.

"Is it not a fact," asked Difenderfer, "that Hermann & Co. of Boston absolutely control, after freezing out every other competitor in the United States, the manufacture of shoes for the army and navy of the United States?"

Mr. Gardner replied that he had never heard of such a firm.

SERVES NOTICE OF ACTION

France Will Safeguard Sovereignty of Sultan of Morocco

Paris, April 28.—France has notified the signatories to the Algeciras conference agreement that prompt and energetic intervention in Morocco by France has become necessary to protect foreigners at Fez, re-establish order throughout the country and safeguard the sovereignty of the sultan.

The action taken by France, however necessary it may be, is likely to cause complications in Europe. The chaotic state of affairs in Morocco today must be laid at the door of Germany, which in 1905 prevented France from pacifying the country, forcing upon the French government the foolish proposition of attempting reform by a diplomatic conference.

During the past fortnight, when conditions have constantly been growing worse, there has been a characteristically hostile note in the German press with regard to French action on behalf of the Europeans at Fez.

LAW REQUIRES ONLY PURITY OF DRUGS

Wiley Says That Headache Powders Are Dangerous

Washington, April 28.—Headache powders are to be made the subject of special investigation by Dr. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry. For a long time he has been alarmed by reports of deaths in different parts of the country caused by the use of headache powders, and a case which has just occurred in Washington has determined him to begin a campaign of elimination if not extermination.

Under the law as it now reads, the health authorities have absolutely no way in which to regulate the sale of headache powders except to see that the ingredients are pure and conform to the provisions of the pure food and drug laws.

"If I had my way," said Wiley, "these headache powders would never be given. They are poison to a person with a weak heart, and are likely to result in death at any time."

EXTENSION OF ARMISTICE

De La Barra Thinks Peace Will Be Arranged Within Short Time

Mexico City, April 28.—At the foreign office the announcement was made that the armistice would be extended five days, and Minister de la Barra expressed the opinion that no further extension would be necessary, since, in his belief, an agreement could be reached within that time.

"The government is prepared to act within the field of reason and to do all in its power to arrive at a satisfactory agreement which will work for the progress and good of the country," said de la Barra. "The government is prepared to go further and is prepared to make sacrifices in reaching an agreement. There is, in my opinion, ground for the belief that we shall reach an early settlement."

SHIPLOAD OF RUM BURNS

Cargo Valued at $500,000 and Ship Are a Total Loss

Pointe-A-Pitre, Guadeloupe, April 28.—While the French steamer Maroni was loading rum and sugar at the docks here fire broke out in the cargo and caused an explosion among the barrels of rum, which killed one fireman.

The vessel was towed out in the harbor and abandoned. The cargo already on board consisted of 4000 barrels of rum, and is also a total loss.

This rum is worth over $2.50 to $3.50 per gallon at port of shipment, which would make the loss somewhere near $500,000.

Our Prices Are Lower
Every day in the week, every week in the year we are demonstrating the fact that our prices are from 10 to 30 per cent lower than the prices quoted by the Boston stores. Why? Because we are in the suburban low rent district. Stores that pay 20 times as much rent as we do must add to their selling price. Let us prove it to you. NO COWARDS IN FOURTH REGIMENT

So Wrote Col. Abner B. Packard Just Fifty Years Ago Today

D. F. French Tells of Capture of Navy Yard

(Quincy in the Civil War, No. 15.)
(By Frank Fisher Prescott.)

Two more letters from the front written just fifty years ago today constitute today's instalment of the review of the Civil War, one from Abner B. Packard, the colonel of the regiment, and the other from D. Fred French, a private.

Col. Packard, under date of April 28, 1861, wrote as follows:

Headquarters
4th Regiment, M. V. M.
Fort Monroe, April 28, 1861.

Editor Quincy Patriot:

Yours of the 22d inst. came duly to hand. I was surprised to hear that Capt. Curtis was charged with deserting. Wishing to send to Boston, and knowing that he had business which needed his personal attention, I detailed him.

Capt. Curtis arrived at the Fort last Monday afternoon, and took command of his company, much to the relief of Lieut. Spear. Tell those that stay at home, that we have no cowards in the Fourth Regiment.

We are having an easy time now, but expect a repetition of Fort Sumpter before long.

Tell my wife that you have heard from me, as it is very doubtful when she will receive anything from me, as the mails in this section are stopped and we have to depend on vessels.

Yours with respect,
Abner B. Packard,
Com. M. V. M. at this port.

D. F. French wrote from Fort Munroe under date of April 28, 1861, as follows:

Editor Quincy Patriot:

As I have often seen in your paper that a few lines from absent ones would have been acceptable, I thought I would try my hand at pleasing those of our friends who remained at home.

We are safely landed in Fort Monroe, about 20 miles from the mouth of the Chesapeake bay, at the mouth of the Potomac river. We landed Saturday morning April 20, at about 11 o'clock. The Fourth regiment landed some four hours before us. We had a pleasant trip and with one exception made no halt.

On Saturday morning, just before day, we saw a steamer coming out of the bay firing rockets.

The engine was stopped, and she soon went out of sight. She finally proved to be a secession steamer, prowling about for us, as she had not been seen since Thursday evening. The boys all seem to be pretty bright after their voyage and sea sickness.

On Saturday evening the Third Regiment, Col. Wardrop commanding; was called upon by Com. Paulding to go to the Navy yard at Norfolk. They arrived there and found that the regulars had spiked 1,800 guns, and sunk the frigate with all her appurtences, costing $800,000.00. They destroyed the powder, and threw the shot overboard, and burned the buildings and contents.

To our surprise on Monday, the Baltimore papers came out with a long article saying that the secessionists had taken possession of the Navy yard, but I think the Massachusetts boys had as big a hand in it is anybody.

We have heard within a few days of the reports in circulation in Quincy. Why can't the scandal mongers of the good old town, that can boast of two Presidents, let those alone that are among the courageous ones of the town? I mean particularly Captain Franklin Curtis.

If those who are circulating these stories will please step to Fort Monroe, and give our gallant captain one shot at them with his revolver, they will never again report any more stories.

Hoping that you will refute the reports, and knowing that you have more able correspondents, I will close by subscribing myself your obedient servant.

D. F. French.

Add last two paragraphs of Thursday

The editor of these war reminiscences has received copies of four letters written by Francis L. Souther while at the front, and also a letter from Horace O. Souther reporting his death, which will be published under the proper dates. Mr. Prescott hopes that copies of other letters from Quincy soldiers, especially in 1861, will be forwarded for publication in this column.

This series of Quincy in the Civil War began in the Daily Ledger of Monday, April 10, 1911, and has been continued daily. Back numbers of the paper can be obtained for a limited time.

It is a great triumph to persuade President Diaz to let the Insurrectos print their speeches in the Record.

ODD FELLOWS

"The great army of Odd Fellows in the world sets its face against this encroachment of gloom. It sets itself against the dreadful attacks of wretchedness, want and despair, and against every common enemy of the average man who comprises her ranks.

"The strife of classes finds here its peaceful adjustment. There are problems in our times which have become very difficult, problems that especially perplex all thoughtful and conscientious men.

"Questions between capital and labor, between labor and capital may here be settled. Here in the lodge room, in the sympathy and equality of brotherhood, both classes meet in fellowship and find here their quiet adjustment.

"The most insidious and modern enemies of man and the most difficult to destroy are those of selfishness, sin and temptation.

"No chain is stronger than its weakest link. A government is no better than the people governed. By all the laws it is impossible for your lodge to rise higher than your individual members. Here is where the final victory must rest.

"The day of force is past. The leader is no longer the strongest man, but the best man and a man's influence is occasioned and conditioned, not by his strength nor by his cunning, but by their consciousness of his friendship for them, his sympathy and his love.

"The ultimate salvation of this world depends upon the purity and integrity of the single purpose of the individual crystallized in such force as this.

"The man who went down to Jericho and fell among thieves was saved through appreciation, sympathy and helpfulness. Here is the power of the lodge. Men are always to be saved by these three elements of power over the heart of humanity.

"As you embrace to yourself and adopt as yours these three elements of usefulness and service, your cause becomes no longer the cause of men or the cause of a single lodge. It becomes God's cause, and it must be smiled upon by Him and have his assurance of success."

At the conclusion of the evening, refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. Composing the entertainment committee were: Louis F. R. Langelier, John Leland, Albert Bearse, W. S. Browne, John Gordon, and Walter Hill.

St. Pierre, Miq., April 28.—Disaster among the French fishing fleet operating on the Quero and Grand banks continues.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

BE TRUE.

In times of crises the demand is not for men of genius nor men of worldwide fame, but for those who are true. It is not necessary that we should succeed as the world counts success, but if life be worth the living it is absolutely essential that in all things we should be true. Be true to your ideals. Set them high. You will hardly rise above them. Let them lift you in spite of life's undercurrents. Keep your eyes up, your vision clear, your faith steady. Be true to your convictions. Only test them well. See if they will hold when the strain is heavy, the sky starless, your friends few. If they hold follow them. —Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman.

BRIEFS

Workmen are building a staging about the dome of the First church preparatory to gilding the dome.

Hancock street has been given its first coat of oil.

The stable on the estate recently purchased for a Court House is being razed.

It is reported that Phillips, the baker, is going to open a shop in the block with Berry's drug store and S. K. Ames's store on Copeland street.

The will of the late George W. Morton was admitted to probate Wednesday at Dedham by Judge Flint. The estate amounts to $65,000 real estate, and $100,000 personal property.

Much interest is being taken in the French six-plane flying machine that is being built at Squantum. It will probably be seen at the aviation meet this summer.

Dr. J. H. Ashe of Copeland street has gone to Buffalo, N. Y., to attend the wedding of Thomas McDonald, formerly of this city. He will return on Saturday.

At the industrial exhibit which will take place sometime in May in the High school building, a real airship and several models of aeroplanes made by pupils taking the manual arts course will be on exhibition.

SURPRISE PARTY.

A large number of friends surprised Miss Madge Hatfield, at her home, 106 North Central avenue, Wollaston, Wednesday evening, with a tin shower. A very interesting program was prepared for the evening. Instrumental selections on the piano were rendered by Mrs. Charles Roach, Miss Ruth Cahill and Mr. Fred Oxner. Miss Cahill gave several very fine vocal selections. Appropriate games and songs helped to pass the evening merrily after which, refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Brewster, Miss Gertrude Barlow, Miss Clara Porter, Miss Grace Schermerhorn, Miss Eleanor Dunn, Miss Christie Douglas, Miss Ruth Cahill, Miss Belle Walters, Miss Edith Tripp, Miss Mildred Sayward, Miss Elizabeth Sayward, Miss Irene Ray, Miss Madeline Nesbitt, Miss Etta Holmes, Miss Lottie Trenholm, Miss R. No Intention to Cause Loss of Life In Explosion Which Wrecked Times Building—Confessor Says He Was Under Salary of $200 For Each "Job" and Received Substantial Pay When He Was Not Working

Los Angeles, Cal., April 28.—Ortie E. McManigal, one of the prisoners brought here, charged with taking part in the Los Angeles dynamiting tragedy, reiterated to a newspaper correspondent the confession he is alleged to have made to William J. Burns, of the Burns National Detective agency, following McManigal's arrest in Detroit.

McManigal, with John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' association, and his brother, James B. McNamara, are in Los Angeles jail. It was while the men were on their way to Los Angeles that McManigal repeated his confession.

McManigal first stated that he was not in Los Angeles before or during the Los Angeles newspaper explosion. He declared that James B. McNamara, who McManigal said was known as J. B. Bryce, was the man that touched off the Los Angeles bomb. He stated that James B. McNamara was working under orders of his brother, John J. McNamara.

McManigal declared two other men assisted in the work, but he refused to give their names or say to what extent they assisted.

The prisoner added that James B. McNamara discussed at length the "job" following the explosion. He further said: "It was not the intention to cause the loss of life in this explosion. The clock was set for an hour when James B. McNamara and his accomplices thought no one would be in the building."

Continuing his statement, McManigal said:

"I am glad the whole business is over at last. Had I known (turning to Detective McLaren of the Burns agency, who was sitting opposite McManigal in his stateroom) you were after me I would have walked up to you and give myself up. I was sick of the whole job, and there was nothing in it."

McManigal admitted he was under a salary of $200 for each "job." He stated that while he was idle he received $5 a day.

"Say," McManigal said, turning to a newspaper correspondent, "I could have shown you something. I had a book containing dates, location and every job I pulled off. I haven't got the book now. One of the gang told me one day that I had better 'chuck' it and I got rid of it."

DRINKING IN MAINE

Judge Declares That It Cannot Be Stopped by Law Alone

Augusta, Me., April 28.—That the prohibitory law alone is not strong enough to bring about temperance in Maine and stop the selling of liquor, and that that law must be backed by a total abstinence sentiment, is the opinion of Oliver G. Hall, who has just completed twenty-one years' service as judge of the superior court for Kennebec county.

This is his view in the light of 2000 liquor cases which have come before him. He believes that a jail sentence is a more effective deterrent in some cases than a fine. It depends upon the character and circumstances of the party and the evidence.

"Prohibition in the constitution," said the judge, "without prohibition in the hearts and will of the people, is a delusion and a snare and as futile as the statute alone without its constitutional protector."

KAISER MUST SETTLE

Actress Employed In the Monarch's Theatre Wins Suit Against Him

Berlin, April 28.—Two actresses got into a row at the kaiser's theatre in Weisbaden some time ago and one of them, named Hetzloehl, was discharged because of the trouble and has since been out of employment.

She brought suit against the kaiser and a court has given judgment in her favor, condemning the emperor to repay her the amount she lost while out of employment. The kaiser is nettled at the verdict.

HELD POSITION FIFTEEN YEARS

Frye Resigns as President Pro Tem of the Senate

HAS NO SPECIAL WEAKNESS

Suffers Somewhat From Injured Foot and Will Cut Off Needless Exertion Because of Advanced Age—Position Which He Has Held For Fifteen Years Will Probably Go to Gallinger

Washington, April 28.—Senator William P. Frye of Maine has sent to Vice President Sherman his resignation as president pro tempore of the senate, which position he has held since Feb. 7, 1896, or longer than any other man.

He is the only acting vice president to whom it fell to declare the elections of two presidents, namely, McKinley in 1901, and Roosevelt in 1905, Vice President Garrett having died in McKinley's first term and Vice President Roosevelt having succeeded to the presidency on the death of McKinley.

In the early days of the senate the president pro tempore was chosen from day to day, but later the position was made permanent. The ability of Frye in dispatching the business of the senate was marked and although no one else could exceed Mr. Sherman in the skill and celerity with which he rushes matters along, the methods of Frye were sometimes in sharp contrast with those of former vice presidents.

Senator Frye's resignation is caused by no special illness or weakness, and it is said in his office that he hopes to attend the sessions of the senate and of his committee whenever his presence appeares to be needed. But he is a little more than 80 years of age, and he will henceforth avoid all needless exertion.

More than a year ago he suffered a slight abrasion of one foot. This was exceedingly slow in healing and confined him to his room for a long time. It healed finally but recently broke out again.

Senator Frye attended the opening session of the Sixty-Second congress and escorted his new colleague, Charles F. Johnson, to the desk to be sworn in, but it was noticeable that he waited for the senator-elect to reach his own desk before linking arms and that Johnson partly supported Frye.

It is stated, however, that Frye suffers from no organic ailment and that he is assured by his physician that if he would remain in bed a week and give his foot a rest, the wound would heal. So far the senator has refused to follow this advice.

Probably Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire will be elected president pro tempore of the senate.

CUTTING HOUSE EXPENSES

Democrats' First Resolution Hits $120,000 Worth of Patronage

Washington, April 28.—In accordance with the economy program of the Democratic caucus, Representative Floyd of Arkansas introduced two resolutions removing nearly $120,000 worth of patronage at the Capitol. The special police force is hit especially hard. A joint resolution dealing with the police force calls for a total reduction of $36,700 in the police department alone. The resolution dealing with the police must be approved by the senate.

On the major portion of the patronage which it is intended to eliminate the house has complete control, and it only remains for the action of the house, which is already regarded as a foregone conclusion. The net saving on clerical work to be abolished will be $88,280, and the total saving, including the police force, will be $119,180.

FLAMES STILL RAGING

Over Five Thousand Acres Burned Over In Western Masaschusetts

North Adams, Mass., April 28.—Blazing forests, which already have devastated 5500 acres of timberland in the towns of Clarksburg and Williamstown and in the outskirts of North Adams, kept more than 400 fire fighters busy. While the flames show little sign of dying out, despite a three days' fight against them, actual danger to settlements is still remote.

The situation is at its worst in Clarksburg, where the outlying houses are a mile and a half from the front of the advancing fires.

DIES ON WIFE'S GRAVE

Aged Man Suffocated by Brush Fire In a Cemetery

Great Barrington, Mass,. April 28.—A. B. Bergmann, 75 years old, was fatally burned at New Marlboro by a brush fire which he started after raking his wife's grave.

Bergmann, according to an annual custom, cleaned up the family plot and then started the fire. Flames swept up quickly and suffocated the old man on the grave of his wife. The fire spread over acres before being checked.

PACKAGE OF $8,000 HAS DISAPPEARED

Was Mailed From New London Conn., to a Boston Bank

Boston, April 28.—Local postoffice inspectors are baffled by one of the greatest mysteries they have been confronted with for years, in the disappearance of a package of money containing $8000 in $5 and $10 denominations which was mailed from New London, Conn., a week ago to Boston and which never reached its destination.

The money was mailed from the New London National City bank and addressed to the First National bank of Boston.

After the money was receipted for by three clerks at the New London central postoffice it was never heard from. Now the postoffice inspectors are busy trying to solve the mystery.

WAS SENTENCED TO DEATH

Murderer Whose Sentence Was Commuted Is Pardoned by Foss

Boston, April 28.—An order for the release from state prison of Stearns K. Abbott, the Groton murderer, was signed by Governor Foss yesterday afternoon immediately after the executive council had acted favorably on the matter. Lieutenant Governor Frothingham voted against allowing Abbott to go free, as did Councillor Glidden.

Abbott was sentenced to be executed for the murder of Maria True at Groton on April 25, 1881. His sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Governor Long. His conviction was largely on circumstantial evidence and on account of his previous bad record.

WAS FRIEND OF DOGS

Score of Canines Around Woman as She Breaths Her Last

Newport, R. I., April 28.—Surrounded by a score of dogs of many breeds which she had found homeless and had befriended, Mrs. Ella Burt, aged 58 years, a dressmaker, died at her home here last night after an illness of two weeks.

Seeming by instinct to realize the loss of their benefactress, the dogs began to whine almost at the moment of the death, and finally broke into a howl which only ended with the humane closing of their lives by the use of chloroform.

Big Crowd at World in Boston"

Boston, April 28.—Massachusetts day, summer weather and the presence of Governor Foss were the principal features of yesterday which brought to Mechanics' building one of the largest crowds which has as yet attended the exposition of the "World in Boston." The estimated attendance during the day and evening was placed at 15,000.

AMUSEMENTS

DOINGS ON THE STAGE OF

LOCAL AND BOSTON THEATRES

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

It will be a triumphant week at the Castle Square beginning next Monday, for "The End of the Bridge" will reach and pass its one hundredth performance. It will come Tuesday evening, and the occasion will be a gala one, wholly worthy of Miss Lincoln's play and its great success. No play in recent years has had such a popularity as this, and it is especially notable as drawing to the theatre many thousand people whose visits are few and far between. All the characters are very real, and they are well acted by Mr. Craig, Miss Young, Miss McDannel, Mr. Hassell, Mr. Walker, Miss Colcord and Mr. Hickey. The run of "The End of the Bridge" at the Castle Square will continue indefinitely.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

By all odds the most popular single entertainer in this country today is Nat Wills, the comedian, who has just returned from a Trip to Europe and the stories of his experiences there are far and away the most amusing he has ever offered. Wills will be one of the big features at B. F. Keith's Theatre next week on what is unquestionably one of the biggest vaudeville bills put on in years, judging by the number of headline attractions. One great feature will be Charles Lovenberg's splendid Operatic Festival, with a large company of soloists and beautiful scenery. Howard and North, than whom there has never been any greater favorites on the vaudeville stage, will be seen in their homely and amusing country classic, "Back to Welington." Fanny Rice, another popular favorite, will make her first appearance here in years after a long tour of the Pacific Coast, and a new feature will be Homer Miles & Co., in a most realistic comedy of New York life called "On A Side Street." Other features will be Lane & O'Donnell, knockabout comedians; Mareena, Nevarro and Mareena in comedy acrobatics; and Leeds & LaMarr in a dancing act.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

The second of the three distinct novelties announced for the Aborn English Grand Opera Company's spring season at the Boston Opera House will come next week, when Puccini's beautiful "La Boheme" will be presented in English for the usual eight performances. While this opera has been given in it's original Italian quite a number of times and is a very popular selection, its presentation in English is a decided novelty, for only once, several years ago, was it heard in the vernacular, while at the popular scale of prices which the Aborn management maintain, it has never been given before anywhere in America. Giacomo Puccini has written many beautiful operas, all of which are given more or less often by the world's greatest operatic organizations, including "La Tosca," "La Boheme," Madam Butterfly," "Manon," and "The Girl of the Golden West," two of these stand out most prominently in the point of popularity; "La Boheme" and "Madam Butterfly," which are about equal in favor. "La Boheme" depicts a charmingly romantic story of the Latin Quarties in Paris, full of human interest, humor and pathos, and this too is largely responsible for its great popularity. Bizet's "Carmen" will be given for the week beginning Monday, May 8th, and Offenbach's "Les Contes d'Hoffmann" for the first time in English, the week of May 15th.

BRIEFS

Mrs. R. D. Chase of Goffe street underwent a surgical operation at the hospital this week.

J. P. A. Uksula, a prominent member of the Finnish church has gone to Gardiner, Mass., to enter the employ of the Finnish Pump Co., as architect and engineer.

Mrs. Hilda Manni of 41 West street who was sent to the Taunton asylum nearly three years ago was brought back to Quincy this week by Pastor Lillback and her family of a husband and six children are rejoicing over her recovery

Sven Christiansen, of 16 Nilsen street, has moved to Fitchburg where he will be manager of the Finnish paper published by Finnish Congregational churches of the United States and of the secular paper published by a state organization.

M. T. Minihan one of the heroes during the explosion on the U. S. S. Delaware, brother of John P. Minihan Parkway, West Quincy, and Mrs. Robert Williams Jr. Quincy avenue is in town spending a few days, after a trip of 19000 miles. This is one of the longest trips any battleship has ever taken with only one stop.

Mrs. Abner B. Packard, who has been in poor health for some time, had a bad turn Monday and is now seriously ill at her home on Hancock street. Although unable to attend the meeting held to honor the Minute Men of the 4th regiment of which her husband was colonel, Mrs. Packard was very much pleased at the success which attended the meeting, and it cheered her for awhile.

SUMMER TEMPERATURE.

The temperature has been going up slowly but surely during the past few days, starting in with 64 degrees at noon Tuesday, it reached 71 on Wednesday, 78 on Thursday and 79 today. What will the morrow bring forth? Today makes one feel like laying aside winter undergarments, but it would hardly be prudent, for there will probably be more cold weather.

WEST QUINCY IMPROVEMENTS

Regular Meeting of the Association Last Evening

A regular meeting of the West Quincy Improvement association was held Thursday evening and was well attended. After the reading of the records, Councilman Smith, for the committee appointed to see what could be done toward having the park at the junction of Copeland, Common and West streets put in condition to use, stated that he had held conferences with the Park Commissioners and that there was now an order going through the City Council appropriating money for that purpose.

The question of the building a new street to run from Common street across Cross street to the boulevard was taken up and discussed at length. There was some opposition to the plan largely on account of the great expense. Others however favored.

Unfortunately residents in that section of the ward were not present at the meeting that their sentiment might be learned. It was voted that all persons interested for or against the proposed new street be invited to appear before the association at a meeting to be held May 11, and give their views.

There was also some discussion on the lack of interest of some of the residents of the ward in the association and the general sentiment was that all sections of the ward should be represented at every meeting of the association that united action might be taken.

WHERE TO ADVERTISE.

"When you advertise you want to reach the people, all the people, the oldest inhabitant, the man who moved to town yesterday, the young people just married, the young man or woman who has just earned the first dollar and is itching to spend it. You want them all, the rich, the poor, from the cradle to the grave, and the only advertising medium that reaches them all the time is the newspaper."

GRAND ARMY DIVIDED

Tie Vote on Propostion to Move Soldiers Monument

There seems to be a difference of opinion among members of Paul Revere Post as to the advisability of relocating the Soldiers' Monument. At the meeting on Tursday evening an attempt was made to obtain opinion of the post on the order now in the City Council to move the monument to Sea street in front of the entrance to the cemetery. A motion in favor was made, and it was debated at length. The vote shows the sentiment to be very equally divided. While half the members present favored, the other half desire a new monument, one that would be a good advertisement for Quincy granite Others argued that the monument being erected three years after the close of the war should be retained. Only 18 voted on the question and the result was a tie.

Possibly the members of the Grand Army today do not represent the Quincy volunteers of 1861-65, but with the Grand Army divided the City Council will promptly kill the order for relocation.

PLAY OF RAMBLERS.

The success of the Rambler baseball club on the diamond is a matter of history not ancient but modern, in Quincy, but when the histrioric abilities of its members come to the test, the members themselves admit that they are found wanting. But the energetic manager is not to be outdone and with the wisdom of a Solomon he has secured the services of a number of Quincy's most attractive young ladies. Miss Hazel Jennings of Elm street is coaching the casts of the plays and that fact in itself will assure success.

"Up to Freddie" is one of the greatest mirth provokers of the day. With the assistance of Miss Jennings and the manager of the team, many local hits have been introduced and the audience is sure to howl in appreciation, that is all except the young men of the nine who will be squirming uneasily in their seats. Everett Rhodes, Lyman Morrison and Curtis Arnold will take the leading male parts and Ruth Packard and Helen Mitchell will take the leading feminine roles and Edith Mullen, Doris Cummings, Dora Bean and Frances Curtin will be the four shifty minded maidens.

Between the acts Ryder Gay and Lee Goyett will give a sketch which is pronounced very laughable by those who know.

A Japanese pantomime written and staged by Miss Jennings will be of great interest. The costumes have just arrived from Japan and Miss Jennings has been very fortunate getting the use of them. A gentleman who has been travelling in Japan for over a year has just returned with these costumes.

Misses Hazel Jennings, Alice Simmons and Edith Fox will take the leading parts and Misses Helen Croucher, Lena Clark, Hazel Harris Beryl Turner, Ella Melville, Dorothy Packard and Esther Briggs will be the Geisha girls.

This pantomime has been given in Jordon hall, Boston with great success recently.

A dance will be held in connection with the plays and Philip Rice will direct the operations of seven young ladies who will do the ushering.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Amos M. Litchfield of 27 Marsh street wishes to express her appreciation and thanks to her many friends for the sympathy extended to her during her recent bereavement and for the beautiful floral offerings.

CODDINGTON ALUMNI REUNION

Give a Farewell Reception to Master Bentley

A reunion of the alumni classes of 1906—1910 of the Coddington school was held in the assembly hall of the school Thursday evening. The gathering took the form also of a farewell reception to Walter H. Bentley, master of the school who is to finish his tenure of office this week. A reception was held early in the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Bentley, Miss Julia Underwood, for fifty years a teacher at the school, and Miss Whitcher, teacher of the 8th grade, in the receiving line. While the reception was going on music was furnished by Ralph Weymouth, violinist and Miss Ethel Humphrey, pianist, both graduates of the school.

A business meeting followed the reception with H. D'Arcy Curwen '06 presiding. The following officers were elected for the coming year.

President—Harold Gould.

Vice President—Rachael Hardwick.

Secretary—Dorothy Edwards.

Treasurer—Dorothy Darling.

Entertainment Committee—Daisy Brooks, chairman.

Mr. Bentley was called upon for a farewell speech after all the business was transacted. He said that he was not going to say goodbye for he would be in Quincy almost as much as heretofore. He did want to tell how much he had enjoyed his work with them and how many happy associations he would be able to keep in connection with the school.

"The Bachelor's Reverie" was given by a number of the graduates of the school. Henry Huston was the bachelor and the following flitted before his gaze while he was in his brown study.

School girl	Blanche Hayden
College girl	Dorothy Sweetland
Actress	Edith Lovejoy
Student	Alice Arnold
Winter girl	Gertrude Labadie
Society girl	Doris Straw
Summer girl	Daisy Brooks
Equestrienne	Dorothy Darling
Widow	Pearl Hayden
Bride	Rachael Hardwick

Mr. Bentley demonstrated the efficiency of the new reflectorscope by throwing pictures of his summer camp and of various other subjects on the screen.

The evening closed with dancing to music furnished by Ralph Weymouth and Miss Ethel Humphrey, and refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake.

The reunion was the most enjoyable ever held by the alumni of the school and great credit is due the committee on arrangements.

The following served on the committee: Dorothy Edwards, Dorothy Sweetland, Dorothy Darling, H. D'Arcy Curwen, Sherman Hayden, Harold Gould.

SATURDAY BASE BALL.

The Hyde Park town team will be at the Water street grounds Saturday at 3 o'clock, to play the Makarias and a first class game can be expected. Neither team has been defeated this year, and they will go after the game from the minute the umpire calls play ball. The Makaria team appears to have started on one of the best seasons in its career and are confident that they will keep up their winning streak Saturday. Bates and Troupe will be the battery and the fans of Quincy are well aware of what they can do. The rest of the team are batting in great form and the gathering of fans will witness a great game.

The following will play: Curtis, Eggleton, R. Ganzel, McKenzie, R. Bates, Troupe, Nicoll, Manning, McDonald, S. Bates and Jenkins.

OLD MAIDS' CONVENTION.

There was another large crowd present Thursday evening at the hall in St. John's school at the second night of the "Old Maids' Convention." On the first night the convention was held many who desired to attend could not get into the hall, so that it was repeated Thursday evening. There was some little change in the personnel of those who took part, but everything ran smoothly and was fully appreciated by the large audience.

BETTER DAYS FOR BOSTON COMMERCE

Plans For Big Steamers and Water Front Development

Boston, April 28.—The new steamship Franconia of the Cunard line, which docked in East Boston yesterday on her maiden trip to this port, was hailed as a promise of better days for the port of Boston by the leading merchants and professional men of the city last evening at a magnificent dinner given aboard ship by Charles Stewart, local agent for the Cunard line.

The announcement that her sister ship, the Laconia, would follow next year and that the two new steamships would place Boston far ahead of many ports in passenger service, was interpreted by the speakers as an indication of the great faith which this English company had in the future development of Boston as a transatlantic port.

The company will spend about seven millions of dollars on the two steamships, it is said. An equal sum for the development of the waterfront by the city and the state was urged by the speakers.

THEIR FIRST ANNUAL

Employees of Rice & Hutchins Come to Quincy

The first annual dance of the office employees of Messrs. Rice & Hutchins of South Braintree was held Friday evening at Quincy Music hall, and was a most successful affair. There were upwards of eighty couples in attendance, and dancing was in order from 8 to 12 o'clock.

Several of the officials of the company were present including Supt. John M. Connell, Assistant Supt. C. W. Paterson, head bookkeepers C. S. Stickney and R. J. Howard, and Mr. Stepleton of the Boston office.

The march, which sometimes is the opening number of dancing parties, was omitted on this occasion, the dance program opening with a waltz German. Modern dances prevailed, although there were two quadrilles, one dedicated to "Our Chairman," and the other to "Frank, eyes off the checkers."

The general committee in charge were: Miss Abigail L. Sullivan ,Miss Helen C. Marcelle and John B. Crowe.

The floor committee were: Frank J. Mooney, director; George C. Hill, assistant director; Miss Lois M. Norris, directress; Miss Marcella L. Kelley; assistant directress.

The aids were: A. Buckley, E. Miller, M. Reveny, H. Shannon, L. Donovan, F. Daley, M. Moran, O. Hill, F. Mashire, Z. Creswell, A. Galvin, C. Hennessey, A. Fogarty, M. Reynolds, M. Phelan, L. Finn, K. Schraut, A. Cotter, A. Heney, M. McClellan, A. Shannon, G. Leighton, M. Bryant, L. Sullivan, W. Reardon, W. White and H. Mullins.

ST. JOHN'S BAZAAR.

The long-looked forward to bazaar of St. John's Catholic church will be opened next Monday evening at 7 o'clock in the hall of the parochial school on Phipps street and will remain open every night next week. The bazaar is an assured success from the start, for large and efficient committees in Wards One, Two and Three have been hard at work for several weeks preparing for the affair which it is hoped will net a sum sufficient to liquidate the debt incurred by the building and furnishing of the school building.

That the bazaar will have many novelties in the way of attractions goes without saying, for the school hall will be completely transformed with its beautiful palm garden, booths of mystery and bewilderment of novel, original and attractive features.

There will be an entertainment and music every evening, that for the opening night being one that should serve as a big drawing card.

In addition to a band concert and parade there will be vocal and orchestral music, and brief addresses.

Rev. John J. Coan, pastor of St. John's church, to whose energy the school was possible will preside, and there will be brief addresses by Rev. A. F. Roche of Watertown a former pastor of St. Mary's parish and curate of St. John's church. Hon. James H. Vahey, a well known Boston attorney who was the standard bearer of the Democratic party at a recent gubernatorial election, and last but not least, City Solicitor John W. McAnarney whose oratorical ability is too well known to Quincy people to need any further comment.

NEVER PART MASQUERADE

Enjoyable Dancing Party at Colonial Hall

The "Never Part" club, which is composed of young ladies residing in the northerly part of the city, held a very pretty masquerade party Friday evening at Colonial hall, the event being one of a course on the social calendar of the club. Twenty-five is the membership of the club, and every one was present with their escort, while some of the parents occupied commanding seats on the platform.

All were en masque, and it seemed as if red might be the club color, for there were several striking costumes in red. Then there were the Indian maidens, the clowns, Dominoes and practically all of the well known characters that one usually sees impersonated at a masque party.

Not many dances were held in masque for the warm evening made the masks uncomfortable. Frappe was served during the evening and there were no wall flowers.

WAS KING OF TRAMPS.

The man killed by the cars at Quincy Adams Thursday night was identified at Hall's undertaking rooms Friday afternon by Sergt. Hanson as John Morrissey, known to the police of Quincy and surrounding towns as the king of tramps. Morrissey has claimed to have relatives in Roxbury. He has frequently been before the courts and sent to the State farm.

Much sympathy will be expressed for the Rev. Frederick H. Steenstra, rector of St. Chrysostom's church when it is learned that his father, Rev. Peter H. Steenstra, D. D., died at his home at Robbinstown, Maine, Wednesday night. Rev. Mr. Steenstra was summoned to his father's bedside, but did not reach there before he passed away. The funeral was held this morning at 10.30 o'clock.

COLONIAL LITERATURE

Henry B. Sheahan Trea'ed His Subject Interestingly

A very interesting and instructive lecture on "Colonial literature" was given by Henry B. Sheahan Friday evening in the chapel of First church, under the asupices of the Quincy Historical society.

The speaker was introduced by Brooks Adams, Esq., president of the society.

The subject of the lecture on the face of it, would not suggest anything humorous, but as a matter of fact there was an undercurrent of humor running through the whole lecture. The works of Thomas Morton of Merrymount, author of the satire, "The New English Canaan" were taken up first.

"The Day of Doom" by Rev. Michael Wigglesworth, although a very serious thing, was found to contain considerable humor especially in the part dealing with infant damnation, in which God promises the deceased infant "the easiest room in hell."

Rev. Cotton Mather's ecclesiastical history of New England also contained much that stirred the risibilities of the audience, especially where a little girl's religious zeal was described and her incongruous longing for an early death.

Ann Bradstreet's scholarly discourse in rhyme on the "Four Elements" was good in places, but the idea of the elements discussing the question of their supremacy among themselves was more or less ludicrous.

The religious history written by Jonathan Edwards was not dwelt upon because as Mr. Sheahan said, the horrible word pictures of the day of judgment "would make one's flesh creep."

A large number of revolutionary ballads have been preserved, and Mr. Sheahan quoted three of them: "Bristol Town," the "Battle of Trenton," and one written by Joseph Warren, one of the heroes of Bunker Hill.

In speaking of the prose works of the period, he confined himself chiefly to Benjamin Franklin, the greatest prose writer of his day. Mr. Sheahan read a passage from the autobiography in which Franklin described his attempt to reach the point of moral perfection. He made a chart of all the virtues which it was possible for him to acquire, with thirteen major headings.

His attention was given to one special virtue each week, leaving the other twelve to chance. By applying himself industriously to the task of schooling himself against that one he would be better prepared to prevent himself from sinning in the others as they came along. Temperance was the virtue for the first week, then silence, resolution, frugality, industry, sincerity, justice an so on .In order to aid the scheme he made out a complete schedule for each day, allowing three hours for meals, eight for work, five for sleep, and the other eight were divided amongst recreation, self examination, setting things in order, et cetera. Mr. Franklin said that after trying it for some time he was surprised to find he had so many faults but he found the number of sins committed each day diminished to some extent.

Mr. Sheahan's lecture was very refreshing throughout, and the audience would have been glad to have listened for twice the length of time it occupied.

SLIGHT FIRE.

The alarm from Box 127 at 10.20 this morning was for a fire in a small building on Glencoe place, owned and ocupied by Botonelli Bartholomeo. Just how the fire started no one seems to know, but it burnt up a mattress that should have been consigned to the flames years ago. The loss was slight.

MISS O'REILLEY TALKS TO GUILD

Tells of Her Social service in Boston and Vicinity

The members of the Ladies' Guild of St. Mary's church listened to an interesting talk on charity work Friday evening at St. Mary's hall, when Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilley, the well known member of the Massachusetts Prison Commission and a charity worker, addressed them. The meeting was a public one and was attended by many ladies and gentlemen who comfortably filled the hall.

The ushers were Miss Grace Elcock, Miss Helen Burke, Miss Gertrude Burke and Miss Mercedes O'Brien.

Miss O'Reilley arrived a little after 8 o'clock, and was received in the lower hall by the reception committee composed of Mrs. R. J. Teasdale, Miss Margaret Burns, Miss Annie Burns, Rev. Henry T. Grady, Mayor Shea, James F. Burke, James H. Elcock and Rev. William J. Duffy.

The speaker was then escorted to the platform in the main hall, which was banked with potted plants. The exercises opened with a chorus by the guild "Joys of spring."

Rev. Fr. Grady in opening the meeting, said the work of the guild was to perpetuate the honor and glory of God, and he hoped the meeting would result in an increased membership. He referred briefly to the illustrious father of Miss O'Reilley, and said it was a great honor to have her present. He then introduced Mayor Shea as the presiding officer.

In opening, the Mayor said some men are born great, some achieve it, and some have it thrust upon them, and the honor of presiding had been thrust upon him. He esteemed it an honor, however, to preside when we have such a distinguished guest as Miss O'Reilley. The ladies' guild is doing a good work in relieving charity, and there was room for more members. The money received by the guild was well expended for charitable purposes. They are doing a grand work. A work that is God's work, and it was a particular pleasure for him to present such a worthy daughter of an illustrated sire.

Miss O'Reilley, after the applause that greeted her introduction had subsided, said some of the work in Boston comes to us, and some is thrust upon us by non-secretarian associations. Continuing, she said, we as Catholic women have a special duty to perform. If we are offish or indifferent we will not accomplish much.

Charity work or social service as we call it consists of reaching the facts about families, and we know how useless too much red tape is in this great work. Social service, as the speaker saw it, is a trained person and it is essentially a woman's work.

Organize small committees in your guild, so small that they are sympathetic, and from such committees banish the croker. We want to educate ourselves to help others. We owe it to the poor and church as Catholic women, to see what organizations are doing. To see if they cooperate, and if not, why not. Learn to recognize existing evils. No study is too prolonged, no training too severe, to devise ways and means to educate the public.

Learn how to devise ways for the spreading of information. Give publicity to every new problem. In this connection Miss O'Reilley said there was no better way than the public press.

Never can we as Catholic women take away any man who can remain in the home, and break up the family. As charity workers we see the wreck and ruin in homes. Work in the homes and show the women how to plan. Families must be drilled as though their case was a special work. We ask you to do something for the housewife of the poor whose anxieties never end. Do something, not to add new problems, but to provide recreation. Any information we can give in the care of infant children will be a great help.

Miss O'Reilley then told of the working girl and the temptations which beset them, laying particular stress on cheap dances and shows which saturate their minds with demoralizing emotions.

Another point Miss O'Reilley urged was the study of the housing conditions of the worker, especially the sanitary condition. Teach the girls how they should act in emergency cases, and this information will percolate in the homes.

During her talk Miss O'Reilley told many interesting experiences that had come to her in her work. Of the mistakes that many charity workers make, and emphasized some of the don'ts. Some of Miss O'Reilley's experience had a laughable side and she was given the closest attention. After her talk she was given a vote of thanks, and the meeting closed with a chorus by the guild "Morn-Rise."

FAREWELL GREETING.

The Boston press in reporting the meeting of the Congregational club on Monday evening mentions a very high and unusual honor conferred upon Rev. Dr. Edwin N. Hardy of Bethany church. He was the guest of the club for the evening though for many years a member and officer. The president, Dr. E. M. Noyes of Newton, speaking of the popularity and high regard of Dr. Hardy in the club and the fact that he was soon to begin his work at LaGrange, Ill., in a large and important field of service in the west, said he was confident that the club would wish to express itself in a formal farewell greeting. Dr. Hardy was asked to speak and received a splendid ovation both before and after his farewell. This public farewell is the more significant inasmuch as it has been given but a few times in the history of the club.

EIGHT HOUR BILL.

In the legislature yesterday the house refused on roll call to adopt a referendum amendment to the eight hour bill. Representative Langelier voting yes and Representative Thomas no. The bill was then passed to be engrossed.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Miss Mary Faxon Entertains Her Friends

About 100 young people assembled in Alpha hall Friday evening for a dance given in honor of the birthday of Miss Mary Faxon, daughter of Henry M. Faxon of Adams street.

As the guests arrived they were received by the hostess and her mother Mrs. Henry M. Faxon. Poole's orchestra furnished excellent music for dancing. A waltz German with pretty little favors for souvenirs was one of the most enjoyable dances of the evening.

The stage was decorated with palms and potted plants and the ante rooms, where frappe was served, were tastefully decorated. The evening was delightfully spent and the hostess appeared to be having the best time of all. The party was one of the prettiest that ever graced the hall.

J. Q. Adams

NOT IN THE RIGHT BUT IN THE HEART

The Indissoluble Link of Union Between the People of the Several States

So Said Ex-President J. Q. Adams As Early as 1839

(Quincy in the Civil War No. 16.)
(By Frank Fisher Prescott.)

April 30 is another notable anniversary in Historic Quincy,—tomorrow being the 122d anniversary of the Inauguration of John Adams of Quincy as the first Vice President of these United States, and the 72d anniversary of the address of ex-President John Quincy Adams at the New York celebration in honor of that event.

Following is an extract from that address before the New York Historical Society, it being the 50th anniversary of the Inauguration of Washington and Adams. Although 22 years before the outbreak of the Civil War, Mr. Adams seems to have had a premonition of that strife, but he did not live to see it, as the date of his death was Feb. 23, 1848. He said:

"Nations acknowledge no judge between them on earth; and their government from necessity, must in their intercourse with others decide when the failure of one party to a contract to perform its obligation, absolves the other from reciprocal fulfilment of its own.

"But this last of earthly powers is not necessary to the freedom of independence of States, conneted by the immediate action of the PEOPLE of whom they conflict. To people alone is there reserved, as well the dissolving, as the constituted power—and that power can be exercised by them, only under the tie of conscience, binding them to the retributive justice of Heaven.

"With these qualifications, we may admit the same right vested in the PEOPLE of every State in the Union, with reference to the general government, which was exercised by the people of the United Colonies, with reference to the supreme head of the British empire, of which they formed a part; and under these limitations, have the people of each State in the Union a right to SECEDE from the confederated Union itself.

"Thus the RIGHT. But the indissoluble link of union between the people of the several States of this confederated nation is, after all, not in the RIGHT but in the HEART. If the day should ever come (may Heaven avert it) when the affections of the people of these States shall be alienated from each other; when the fraternal spirit shall give way to cold indifference, or collusion of interest shall fester into hatred, the bonds of political association will no longer hold together parties, no longer attracted by the magnetism of conciliated interests and kindly sympathies; and far better will it be for the people of the disunited States TO PART IN FRIENDSHIP FROM EACH OTHER THAN TO HOLD TOGETHER BY CONSTRAINT.

"Then will the time for reverting to precedents which secured at the formation and adoption of the Constitution to form again a perfect Union, by dissolving that which could no longer bind, and to have the separated parts to be reunited by the law of political gravitation to the centre."

Capt. Curtis Popular.

Fifty years ago today the following letter was written at Fort Monroe by three Quincy boys:

Fort Monroe, April 29, 1861.
Editor Quincy Patriot:

It is rumored that half the Fourth Regiment from Massachusetts was killed, and that Capt. Curtis has resigned and gone to California.

We, soldiers of Company H, wish to contradict it, as it is not true. All the soldiers in the Fourth Regiment are alive and in good health, with the exception of one, who was poisoned on his way to the Fort from a bottle of rum bought in New York.

As for Captain Curtis, there could not be a braver man, a more true an officer or soldier. He is will ing to sacrifice HIS MONEY for the necessaries of his soldiers—HIS BLOOD for the preservation of the Union. Anything in his power to do for his soldiers, he is willing to do, AND WE ARE READY TO STAND BY HIM, and at his command, to fight for the Union now and forever.

There is a star in the North
Which shall never go down,
Until the beauty of its valor decay,
We must worship its light,
Though it is our own,
Until the Stars and Stripes decay.

James J. Dowell,
Emerson Shaw,
Charles Jameson.

The editor of these war reminiscences has received copies of four letters written by Francis L. Souther while at the front, and also a letter from Horace O. Souther reporting his death, which will be published under the proper dates. Mr. Prescott hopes that copies of other letters from Quincy soldiers, especially in 1861, will be forwarded for publication in this column.

This series of Quincy in the Civil War began in the Daily Ledger of Monday, April 10, 1911, and has been continued daily. Back numbers of the paper can be obtained for a limited time.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Madero may agree to peace if he is made vice president of Mexico. The way to convince a man of the truth of your philosophy of government is to let him into the orchard when the plum tree is shaken.

The Daily Ledger is pleased to note that considerable interest is being awakened in the republication of the "War News" of fifty years from a Quincy standpoint. As these historical articles continue day by day they will be found to be varied and entertaining, and at times of National importance. The instalment today may so be considered, but it will be particularly true of the one next Tuesday. The writer fines plenty of good material, and each day becomes more and more proud of Quincy and its soldiers, statesmen, and patriotic citizens.

Inasmuch as opinion is divided as to a proper memorial to the Quincy veterans of the Civil War, the Daily Ledger would suggest a public hearing by the City Council.

There are veterans and members of patriotic organizations of the city who urge a "Memorial Hall for Quincy, which shall be both a museum for relics of the different wars, a home for the veterans of 1861-65, and a meeting place for Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., Col Abner B. Packard Camp, S. of V., Camp Boyd, U. S. W. V., the Women's Relief Corps and the other auxiliaries.

Other veterans are anxious that a new Monument shall be erected, that shall not only be a fitting memorial to the Boys in Blue of 1861-65, but a good advertisement for Quincy granite.

All are agreed that the present location of the Soldiers Monument on a small lot in Mount Wollaston cemetery is not a proper one. It is hidden from view, and seldom seen, except on Memorial Day. Thousands of people desire to gather around it on that day, but cannot do so without desecrating the graves in the vicinity, much to the discomfiture of relatives and expense to restore the lots so that they will be neat and attractive.

A public hearing, which would admit of the discussion of the whole question, might secure unity of action and accomplish much. Probably a new monument would not be demanded if a Memorial Hall is provided, in which case the veterans would be united on a new location for the present Soldiers' Monument, which is historic from the fact that it was dedicated as early as 1868.

A fire starting in the swamp lying between Holbrook and Randolph gained such headway Thursday that the Holbrook fire department had difficulty in controlling it. The strong south-west wind drove it rapidly across into Braintree up to Washington street, where a body of men turned out as a volunteer department and kept it from getting much of a start on the east side of the street. For a while considerable alarm was felt by residents whose houses lay directly in its path.

COSTUME PARTY.

Colonial hall Friday evening was the scene of a very pretty costume party given by the young ladies of the "Never parts" of Wollaston and Atlantic. The prevailing color was red, the electric lights were also subdued with pretty red tulips The dance orders were the artistic work of the young ladies done in gold, blue and black. After the fourth dance there were many surprises when the signal was given to unmask.

There was no special floor committee each member of the club being a self constituted floor director and aid. The dance opened with a march led by Miss Ruth Bean and Fred Lundberg, and it is safe to say that during that march the thought running through Ruth's mind was, "I wonder who this fellow is," while in the mind of Fred was "I wonder who this charming miss is." But it was not until the signal came to unmask that the identity of any one of the maskers was known for a certainty.

The matrons were Mrs. George A. Bean, Mrs. Edward F. Parlee, Mrs. Emma de F. Ross, Mrs. Edwin Smith and Mrs. Woodford Ketchum.

The young ladies of the club are: Ruth W. Bean, Dorothy G. Bean, Alberta Ellison, L. Leah Hennigar, Lydia G. Hennigar, Grace C. Parker, Ruth W. Parker, Amy L. Rhodes, Miriam Rhodes, Louisa A. Ross, Eleanor S. Roberts and Elsie Woll.

DANCING CLASS RECEPTION.

Miss Corlew's annual reception to the pupils of her Wollaston dancing class occurred Monday evening in Alpha hall. Miss Corlew, attired in a handsome black lace robe received assisted by Master Robert Wetmore and little Miss Margaret Burke. The matrons who also received, were Miss Clara Thayer gowned in white marquisette over lavender; Mrs. B. Wetmore, corn colored satin; Mrs. Richardson black satin and lace; Mrs. Glover, white lace over blue; Mrs. Streeter, blue chiffon and Mrs. Simmons reseda satin.

The hall was artistically decorated and contrasted charmingly with the multi-colored dresses worn by the dancers, who reflected great credit upon their teacher.

Among the many pleasing features of the evening were the colored arch and square Germans and the flower march, each child holding a wand with a different colored flower and streamers waving over their heads.

Refreshments were served at 9.30, after which one of the most successful parties ever given by the pupils was at an end.

Women are always anxious to know how to give their children the best possible care. Dr. William J. McCausland of Quincy is to give a talk to the Mothers' Association on Wednesday, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon in Bethany chapel. His subject will be "The care of the child's eyes, ears and nose," besides this he will speak of infectious diseases. All women are welcome and there is no admission fee.

ACCUSATION AGAINST WIDOW

Sworn Story of Hattie Le Blanc Admitted In Will Contest

EVENTS LEADING TO MURDER

Girl Who Was Tried For Crime and Acquitted Says Mrs. Glover Vainly Tried to Hire Her Brother to Kill Her Husband—Declared at Another Time That She Would "Finish Him"—Deposition Read In Court

Cambridge, Mass., April 29.—Mrs. Lillian M. Glover tried to hire her brother, Tobie Le Blanc, to kill her husband, Clarence M. Glover, who was later murdered in Waltham, a year ago last November, according to the sworn story of Hattie Le Blanc, made public in the Glover will contest in the supreme court here.

This is the first time Hattie Le Blanc's story of the events that led up to the Waltham tragedy has ever been told. It is the first time that this startling accusation has been made against the widow of the murdered man.

Referring to Mrs. Glover's alleged threats against her husband's life while she lived at their home, Hattie Le Blanc swore:

"I heard Mrs. Glover say that Clarence would not chase women long, as she would kill him. She asked Tobie to kill him and said she would give him money if he would do it.

"'No,' replied Tobie, 'if you want it done, do it yourself.'"

Another time, Hattie Le Blanc swore, Mrs. Glover said: "I don't want him around and I will finish him."

Hattie Le Blanc, accused of Glover's murder and acquitted, also declared in her affidavit:

That she heard Mrs. Glover call Glover names that cannot be printed.

That Mrs. Glover wrote a note to her husband in which she said: "Go to hell. If you want your dinner, go there for it."

That she heard Mrs. Glover ask her husband to make a will; that she told him to put Seymour in it and he replied: "What will I put Seymour in it for?" She said he was the only one she cared anything about.

That the talk with Tobie Le Blanc took place about three weeks before Glover was killed.

That when Glover objected to putting Seymour Glover in his will, Mrs. Glover said: "You'll see that I'll make you put him in." He said he wouldn't do it.

That she (Hattie Le Blanc) loved Glover.

That she never told Harold Gardner that she would "fix" Glover. And that she never made such a statement to Gardner in the presence of Mrs. Glover.

That Mrs. Glover did not teach her to read and write.

That she would come to Cambridge and testify in the will contest if her lawyer, Melvin M. Johnson, said so.

At the conclusion of the reading of Hattie Le Blanc's affidavit the will contest adjourned until Monday.

Before the will contest resumed yesterday Judge Hammond held a conference with the attorneys on both sides with reference to the admission of the deposition by Hattie Le Blanc. The attorneys for the will objected to the admission of the deposition and some of it was eliminated.

Following the conference in the judge's lobby the jurors filed into their seats. Judge Hammond followed. He said:

"Gentlemen, the deposition of Hattie Le Blanc, a witness in this case, is about to be read to you. It was taken in St. John a few days ago. Counsel for both sides were present. I wish the stenographer to take the questions and answers as they are read."

Mr. Barry then commenced reading the deposition. He read both questions and answers.

"ONLY HALF A MAN"

Minister's Opinion of the Bachelor Who Occupies a Pulpit

Georgetown, Del., April 29.—"No man has any right to preach in the pulpit unless he is married," declared Rev. N. C. Lassiter of Wilmington, in an adress before the Delaware State Sunday School association, in annual convention here.

Mr. Lassiter declared that the wife of a preacher takes half the labor off his back and that an unmarried preacher is only half a man.

M'GRATH IS FIRED

Ex-Champion Hammer Thrower No Longer Member of Police Force

New York, April 29.—Matthew J. McGrath of Brooklyn, the former champion hammer thrower, was discharged fom the police force yesterday afternoon for "conduct unbecoming an officer."

McGrath was acquitted recently of shooting a man whom he found in his home and his discharge was a surprise to his many friends in police and athletic circles.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Many Ideas and Deeds in Process at the Hub—Pensions Proposed for Widows—Thrift Talks before High School Pupils—Socialists Have a Red Flag Day on May 1—A Conservatory Competition — Worcester Scientist Tells Bostonians about a Few Flies and Then Some.

The perennial warning against the house fly is now being issued, anent which some remarks by Dr. Clifton F. Hodge, professor of biology in Clark University, proved interesting to members of the New England Women's Club assembled in Boston. A new method of exterminating the typhoid breeder was presented by the Worcester scientist. He does not advocate covering the garbage pail and making the stable-pits flyproof, "so the flies cannot get in to lay their eggs." Make these places flytraps, he says. A few dishes of safe poison set near the garbage can or the stable or the chicken house, and carefully covered with a wire netting to protect the birds will do wonders. Dr. Hodge experimented with a garbage can which he arranged as a flytrap and caught 2500 flies in one hour. An interesting statement was to the effect that from one pair of flies who set up housekeeping in April 1911 there would descend, supposing there were no violent deaths among thm, by August, 191 quintillion offspring. In other words, allowing 64 flies to the cubic inch, there would be enough to cover the earth 47 feet deep.

The popularity of the Hub's municipal concerts was proved to any possible doubter on the occasion of the organ recital given at the Christian Science Church Monday evening. The ordinary quiet streets at the hour between seven and eight were crowded with a hurrying mass of people all anxious to gain admittance to this beautiful edifice which the city had chosen for its concert. The little parkway and the contributory streets poured a continuous stream of black specks through the portals of the church, until 6,000 were taken care of, after which a crowd estimated to number over 10,000 music lovers was turned away. It was a remarkable exposition of the appreciation and pleasure which the citizens of Boston feel in the municipality's effort to give them of the best in music.

To win more than eleven hundred dollars by fifteen minutes' playing is doing things on the piano. Many Boston music folk gathered in Jordan Hall April 2 on the occasion of the second annual competition for the grand pianoforte prize given by the Mason & Hamlin company to the best pianist in the senior class of the New England Conservatory of Music. This is the largest prize offered to a student of any educational institution in the city, and the competition is naturally exceedingly spirited. The winner this year, chosen from among nine competitors, was a New Jersey girl, Miss Grace B. Nicholson of East Orange. A coincidence of the affair was the unexpected arrival of Miss Nicholson's father in the city on business connected with his work as corresponding secretary of the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal church. Mr. Nicholson dropped in at the Conservatory to see his daughter, arriving just in time to hear her performance in the competition, and had the pleasure of being present at the awarding of the prize by the judges.

The Socialists are preparing for their annual May Day celebration, which is always a red letter occasion, but which this year quite surprises itself in gala times. The entire national executive committee of the socialist party is to be in Boston, and there will be a monster meeting at Tremont Temple, with a parade and demonstration on the Common. Many non- Socialists are interested in hearing what the first Congressional member elected from the Socialist ranks, the Hon. Victor L. Berger of Milwaukee, will have to say. His remarks will doubtless be of an interesting nature, whether one agrees with them or not.

"Pension the struggling widow," is the plea of a prominent member of the Mothers' and Fathers' Club of this city, Mrs. Frederick L. Mahn. Mrs. Mahn considers that this is an essential step toward better morals and better ethics. Mothers with several young children are too frequently left destitute by the father's death, and obliged to undergo frightful privations and trials in order to bring up the children until capable of earning for themselves. Sometimes they fail sadly in the attempt. "Widows with children of school age or under," maintains Mrs. Mahn, "should' if a thorough investigation proves them worthy, be pensioned by the government. When the children are of age they should be made to pay a certain amount toward the mother's maintenance." Members of this club feel that the mother who risks her life to give the States its citizens and to rear them to be worthy citizens is just as much entitled to aid in time of need as is the veteran who risked his life to fight for his country.

Thrift talks are doing a lot of good in the old Bay State at this time when it is evident that personal economy offers the only escape from prolonged financial depression. The Women's Educational and Industrial Union of Boston now has regular classes in thrift, as represented by savings bank life insurance and the credit union system. The Field Secretary of the Massachusetts Savings Insurance League, Rev. Harry W. Kimball , reports that in the past few months he has addressed more than 23,000 pupils of 40 high schools. How much very real accomplishment there has been in the savings bank life insurance movement was shown last week to the Worcester County Republican Club by Rep. Norman H. White of Brookline, candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. Mr. White, who as secretary of the Savings Insurance League, secured the passage of the act in 1907, says of the actual effect; "Many savings bank men who opposed the passage of the savings bank insurance act insisted that it would result in frightening off depositors. Its advocates contended that the establishment of an insurance department would tend to increase deposits, and such has been the fact. The People's Savings Bank of Brockton and the Whitman Savings bank, the two banks which so far have established such departments, have both largely increased their deposits." The effect of this thrift propoganda is shown in a very substantial growth of the kind of non commercial life insurance which it is designed primarily to assist. The insurance department of the banks at Whitman and Brockton now have more than 4,000 policy holders and nearly $2,000,000 of insurance in force. Ethel Angier.

CRYING FOR HELP

Lots of It in Quincy But Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys cry for help.

Not an organ in the whole body so delicately constructed.

Not one so important to health.

The kidneys are the filters of the blood.

When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous.

There can be no health where there is poisoned blood.

Backache is one of the first indications of kidney trouble.

It is the kidneys' cry for help. Heed it.

Doan's Kidney Pills are what is wanted.

Are just what overworked kidneys need.

They strengthen and invigorate the kidneys; help them to do their work; never fail to cure any case of kidney disease.

Read the proof from a Quincy citizen.

Mrs. E. Burke, 143 Quincy street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills an excellent remedy for kidney trouble. I used them and the results were of the most satisfactory nature. Doan's Kidney Pills were procured at the Cox Drug Store and have my highest recommendation."

MILTON

The young people of East Milton held a very enjoyable dance and entertainment in Ellsworth hall Thursday evening.

The young people of the various churches in Milton are taking an active part in "The World in Boston" as stewards and assistants. A large number of the townspeople have been to the big exposition.

The fire department was called out twice on Thursday. A telephone call in the morning from the vicinity of box 48 brought the department to a fire on the LeFavour estate on Maple street. A number of cedar posts and several sections of plank walk were burned with a total loss of about $25. In the afternoon at 3.15 an alarm at box 15 was for a fire in the woods off Warren avenue.

The Thursday Evening club was entertained this week by Mr. Nevins a ventriloquist. The latter part of the evening was spent in playing whist.

Some handsome May baskets shaped in the form of different flowers are on exhibition in the window of Hammers drug store.

The alarm at box 21 Sunday evening brought the fire department to the Slater estate on Brush hill road near Athens road. A cottage on the estate was badly gutted and the damage was estimated at $300.

At the parish meeting of the East Congregational church, held Monday evening it was voted to make repairs on the church to include painting, to the extent of $300. Rev. Arthur E. Gregg was called for another year. The following officers were elected: Moderator, O. A. Andrews; Clerk, James H. McGuire; Auditor, Francis W. Smart; Sexton, Alex. Norrie; Prudential committee, Benjamin R. Fuller, Jacob Pratt, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Hamlin.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Senate Formally Accepts List of Committee Appointments

LINE DRAWN BY LA FOLLETTE

Backed by Dozen Progressives From Far and Middle West In Protest Against Refusal of Regulars to Appoint Two of Their Number to Committees on Finance and Interstate Commerce—Gallinger Makes Reply

Washington, April 29.—The senate formally organized for business by adopting the list of appointments to committees drawn up by the majority of both parties.

Thirteen out of the fifty Republicans of the United States senate are definitely lined up as "progressives," with the determined purpose to follow the leadership of La Follette of Wisconsin and Cummins of Iowa in matters of legislation affecting the tariff, transportation, trusts and combinations, over-capitalization, etc.

This lineup is made clear by the La Follette protest, read in the senate, against the refusal of the majority to appoint two progressives to the committee on finance and two on the committee on interstate commerce.

The insurgent group consists wholly of men from the middle and far west—Brown of Nebraska, Borah of Idaho, Bourne of Oregon, Bristow of Kansas, Crawford of South Dakota, Clapp of Minnesota, Cummins of Iowa, Dixon of Montana, Gronna of North Dakota, Kenyon of Iowa, La Follette of Wisconsin, Poindexter of Washington and Works of California. Of these Gronna, Works, Poindexter and Kenyon are new men, the last named formerly the official "trust-buster" of the department of justice.

The protest voiced by La Follette was delivered by him from manuscript. It had been approved by all the baker's dozen in a special meeting held for that purpose and, as La Follette stated in his opening, he had been "instructed" by the meeting to place the protest on record, that the country might understand the situation.

The galleries were filled and every seat in the senate, evidently in expectations of a hot contest on the floor, but the progressives had decided to avoid all work and needless speaking, and after he had finished and Mr. Gallinger had occupied almost a minute in voicing the only reply the regulars cared to make, the majority report was accepted by viva voce vote.

The essence of the charge of the progressives was with respect to the interstate commerce committee, that the majority membership "would place the control of legislation in the hands of those opposed to a thorough-going investigation of railway rates and service."

Of the refusal to name two progressives for the finance committee, in accordance with the numerical strength of that faction, La Follette stated that it was "a violation of the very principle of representative government, and indefensible from every standpoint of justice and equity." To do less than to allow two representatives on the committee, said La Follette, "is deliberately to place in the hands of the ultra high-tariff Republicans the absolute control of revenue legislation during this congress."

Opinions will differ as to whether the regulars acted wisely in ignoring the insurgent charges. Gallinger said only that he was glad to learn there was no disposition to postpone adoption of the majority resolution. The majority were quite content, he said, to have the statement just made go to the country accompanied by the list of committees as made up by the Republican majority.

"If mathematics are to be consulted," he said, "you were entitled to one hundred places on the committees and we have given you one hundred and fourteen. We stand by that as Republicans."

PARDON IS REFUSED

Rich Men Convicted of Grazing Land Fraud Must Serve Time

Washington, April 29.—President Taft has refused to pardon Bartlett Richards, Wiliam G. Comstock, Charles C. Jameson and Aquilla Triplett, four wealthy Nebraska cattlemen who have been convicted of conspiracy to defraud the government of grazing lands along the Wyoming border.

The men are owners of the Nebraska Land and Seeding company. The evidence at the trial showed they had induced homesteaders fraudulently to claim thousands of acres of land, which were later turned over to the company for grazing. Richards and Comstock were sentenced to a year and Jameson and Triplett six months.

Scotland Not Growing Fast

Grand Jury Finds Serious Conditions In the Police Force

New York, April 29.—The grand jury which is investigating Magistrate Corrigan's charges that a demoralized police force has permitted crime and vice to thrive in this city, handed up a presentment declaring that the situation in and the condition of the police force is a matter of grave public concern, and that immediate reformation is required.

"I want to say to you," said Judge Rosalsky, after reading the presentment, "that from my experience on the bench during the past few months I am satisfied that the police department is demoralized, and that the men have no confidence in their superiors. What we want is a comissioner of police trained by experience."

TWICE VETOED BY FORMER GOVERNOR

Eight-Hour Bill Passed by Massachusetts House

Boston, April 29.—The Massachusetts house of representatives passed to be engrossed the eight-hour bill for public employes. Forty-four Republicans voted for it and one Democrat against it. It is the bill which Governor Draper twice vetoed. It passed the house yesterday afternoon on a rollcall, 149 to 61.

The bill as passed by the house provides that the working of any employe of the state more than eight hours a day shall be construed as prima facie evidence that the law is being violated. It was this "prima facie" clause which caused Draper to veto the measure. The bill now goes to the senate.

Why Two Councilmen Made Charges of Graft In Lowell

Cambridge, Mass., April 29.—The charges by Councilmen Tracey and Donahue of the common council of the city of Lowell that there had been valuable considerations offered to members of that body for their votes in the election of various city officials, were found to be unwarranted by the Middlesex county grand jury.

The two men came before that body and admitted they made the statements for the purpose of scaring their political opponents. The grand jury in its report declared that men who made such statements should be severely condemned. The jury reported to Judge Lawton.

GREAT RALLY IN FOURTH

Gave Quincy High a Victory over Hingham High

Quincy High defeated Hingham High at Merymount park, Friday afternoon by a score of 9 to 3. The game was rather listless all the way through, many of the so-called rooters were paying more attention to a life sized rough-house that was going on than to the game.

During the first three innings, it looked like Hingham's game, but the pitcher weakened, and in the next inning Quincy scored seven runs. With the exception of the fourth inning the Hingham team played better baseball than the home team, and if the pitchers had been of equal strength the visitors would have carried off the honors. Rice pitched a good game stricking out 9 men and allowing but four hits

With the exception of the fatal fourth when he allowed three hits, Bergan was not touched up very freely. His seven bases on balls counted very much against him.

Manning played a good game at shortstop accepting 7 out of 8 chances. Blackmur continued playing errorless ball. Mil Chapman accepted 3 out of 6 chances, but his errors were not costly.

"Bootus" Chapman played his usual strong game behind the bat and did not allow a stolen base. The outfielders were not given much to do but gathered in all that came their way, Holmes and Pfaffmann each getting a fly. Rice played a good fielding game accepting five out of six chances. His base hit in the fourth inning was timely sending in two runs.

For the visitors, Wallace, the left fielder was the star man. He made four difficult catches which brought spontaneous applause from all the spectators. The first baseman, Berry played a good game getting two hits and accepting 10 chances without an error.

Quincy showed that she had the right idea at times but the playing was not as heady and as speedy as one might expect and before the Arlington game on Tuesday, the team will have to put in some strenuous practice if it wishes to win.
